3. By redemption, unction, office, and Mediatorſhip, unto which he was deſigned by his Father; and therefore the Apoſtle ſaith, that God hath made Act. 2. 36. him Lord and Chriſt; he is Lord by his office, and by the accompliſhment of his office, in dying, riſing and reviving, he became Lord both of quick and Rom. 14. 9. dead, For to this end Chriſt both dyed, and roſe, and revived, that he might be Lord both of dead and living. And thus he is a Lord in two reſpects. 1. A Lord in Authority, to command whom and what he will; he only is Lord over our perſons, over our faith, over our conſciences; to him only we muſt ſay, Lord what wilt thou have me to do? Lord ſave us, or we periſh. 3. A Lord he is in power, he hath power to forgive, and power to cleanſe; he hath power to juſtifie, and power to ſanctifie; he hath power to quicken, and power to ſave to the utmoſt, all that come unto God by him; he hath power to hold faſt his ſheep, and power to caſt out the the accuſer of the brethren; he hath power to put down all his enemies, and power to ſubdue all things unto himſelf; in every of theſe reſpects Chriſt is a Lord, True; ſay blaſphemers, he is Lord by office, but he is not Lord by eſſence, as God is Lord. No? peruſe ſome texts in the Old Teſtament, where the title of Lord is eſſentially ſpoken of, and we ſhall find the very ſame texts and titles applyed to Chriſt in the New Teſtament. As for inſtance, in Iſa. 6. 5, Wo is me (ſaith Eſay) for mine eyes have ſeen the King, the Lord of hoſts; now this John refers to Chriſt; theſe things ſaith Eſaias, when he ſaw his Glory, and ſpake of him. In Pſal. 68. 17, 18. The Lord is among Iſa. 6. 5. them, as in Sinai, in the holy place, thou haſt aſcended on high, thou haſt led captivity captive, thou haſt received gifts for men; now this the Apoſtle applies to Chriſt, when he aſcended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. In Pſal. 110. 1 The Lord ſaid unto my Joh. 12. 41. Lord, ſit thou at my right hand, untill I make thine enemies thy footſtool. Now this Jeſus Chriſt applies to him- Pſal. 68. 17. ſelf, ſaying, That David in ſpirit called him Lord, ſaying, the Lord ſaid unto my Lord. In Iſa. 40. 3. the voice of him that crieth in the wilderneſs, prepare ye the way of the Lord; now this the Evangeliſt applies to Eph. 4. 8. Chriſt, This is he that was ſpoken of by the Prophet Eſay, Pſal. 110. 1. ſaying, The voice of one crying in the Wilderneſs, prepare ye the way of the Lord. No wonder if Thomas calls Chriſt Lord; why, both the Old and New-Teſtament agree in this, that Chriſt is Lord; Lord by creation, and Mat. 2. 44. 45. Lord by redemption; Lord by office, aud Lord by Iſa. 4. 5. eſſence.

2. He acknowlegeth Chriſt to be God, as well Mat. 3. 3. as Lord, my Lord, and my God. But how is he God? I anſwer, not only by participation, ſimilitude, or in ſome reſpects, as Angels, and men are called gods; but ſimply, abſolutely, eſſentially, and without any reſtriction, Sometimes we read in Scripture, that Men or Angels, good and bood, are called Gods; And the Lord ſaid to Moſes, See, I have made thee a Exod. 7. 1. God to Pharoah.——And thou ſhalt be inſtead of God to Aaron, Thus Nebuchadnezzer is called the mighty one, or the God of the Heathens; and Satan is called the Exod. 4. 16. god of this world. Thus Magiſtrates are called gods? Thou ſhall not revile the gods. I have ſaid ye are gods; Ezek. 31. 11. Angels are called gods, before the gods will I ſing prai- 2 Cor. 4. 4. ſes unto thee; but in all theſe there is ſome reſtriction, or improper ſpeech; Moſes is called Pharoahs's God, Ex. 22. 28. and Aarons's God not abſolutely, but with reſtriction Pſal. 12. 6. to Pharoah and Aaron; Nebuchadnezzer is called the Pſal. 138. 1. god of the heathen; and Satan the god of this world; not abſolutely, but with reſtriction to the heathen, and this world; Magiſtrates are called gods, and good Angels are called gods, not abſolutely, but in reſpect of ſome offices or excellency, which they pertake of from God. Heb. 1. 5. Only Jeſus Chriſt is called God without any reſtriction, and not only in reſpect of ſome office, or ſimilitude, but abſolutely, eſſentially, Ver. 8. properly; as being from all eternity God of God; Rom. 8. 32. as being God of the ſubſtance of the Father before all worlds. What, is Chriſt only God, as an Angel is God? I challenge here all blaſphemers in the Joh. 2. 16. world. 1 John 5. 20. Unto which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee? Or unto which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, Thy Throne, O God, is for ever and ever? or to which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, Thou art my Son, my own Son, my only begotten Son? unto which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, this is the true God; the great God; Tit. 2. 13. who is over all, God bleſſed for ever, Amen? Rom. 9. 5. unto which of the Angels are thoſe divine Attributes given, as of eternity, immutability, omnipotency, omniſcience, omnipreſence? and yet are all theſe given to Chriſt? for eternity, I was ſet up from everlaſting, from the beginning, or ever the earth was; Prov. 8, 23. for immutability, thou art the ſame, and thy years ſhall not fail. For omnipotency, Heb. 1. 15, all things are delivered unto me of my Father; For omniſcience, Mat. 11. 27. he needed not that any ſhould teſtifie of man, for he knew what was in man, For omnipreſence, John 2. 25. lo I am with you always unto the end of the world, Men, Brethren, and Fathers: Mat. 28, 20. I am forced to make this defence of the divinity of Chriſt, becauſe of the blaſphemy of thoſe Arians, Photinians, Eunomians, now again raked out of hell. O who would think that ſuch a generation of men ſhould be amongſt us in this Iſland, where the Goſpel hath ſhined ſo brightly for ſo many years? we maintain Chriſt is God, and Chriſt is Lord; we ſay with Thomas, my Lord, and my God. Ah ſay blaſphemers, Chriſt is God, and Chriſt is Lord, as Magiſtrates and Angels are called Gods aud Lords: I hope I have ſaid enough to difference betwixt Chriſt and them; howſoever I conclude with the Apoſtle, Though there be that are called Gods, whether in heaven or in earth (as there be Gods many, and Lords many) yet to us there is but one God, the Father of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom are all things, and we by him.

3. He acknowledgeth Chriſt to be his Lord, and his God; And Thomas anſwered, and ſaid unto him, my Lord, and my God. Now his faith broke out; from the things ſeen and felt, he is raiſed up to believe things neither ſeen nor felt; he ſees the prints and skars in the manhood of Chriſt, and now he believes that Chriſt is God, yea that Chriſt is his God; My Lord, and my God. Obſerve here, that faith gives the ſoul a propriety in God and Chriſt. As God loves ſome with a ſpecial and peculiar love, ſo faith anſwers God and Chriſt's peculiar love, by a particular application, my Lord, and my God, and my Chriſt. Faith is an appropriating, an applying, an uniting grace; in the actings of faith on God, or on Chriſt as God, we may obſerve theſe ſteps.——

1. It ſees God in his Glory and Majeſty, in his Greatneſs and Goodneſs, and all other his attributes; it ſees God as the infinite fountain of all good, and it conſiders what an infinite dreadful thing it were to be ſeparated from this God; it ſees God, and the ſight makes a deep impreſſion on that very ſoul; the love of that God is more to the ſoul than all the world; and the leaſt diſpleaſure of that God is more trouble to that ſoul, than all the miſeries that all creatures under heaven are able to bring upon it.

2. It diſcovers the reality of this Glory and Majeſty, of this greatneſs and goodneſs of God. Before any faith is planted in a ſoul, the very uſe of reaſon may come to underſtand much of God and Chriſt; but in compariſon it looks upon God and Chriſt as notions, conceits, and imaginary things; only faith convinces the ſoul throughly of the certainty and truth of ſuch things? where the true faith is, the things that we believe are more certain to us than things we ſee, or feel, or handle; faith is ſo ſure in its apprehenſions of God and Chriſt, that it will venture ſoul and body, the loſs of all upon that account; it will bear any hardſhip, yea it will venture the infinite loſs of eternity upon them.

3. It enables the ſoul to caſt it ſelf upon God in Chriſt for all the good and happineſs it ever expects, Alas, ſaith the ſoul, I have formerly reſted on worldly things, I looked upon them as the only, real, ſure excellencies that I had to enjoy; but now I find they are vain things, deceitful things, no better than Cant.6.2, reeds of Egypt, vanity of vanities; and nothing is real, ſure, excellent on this ſide God and Chriſt, and therefore I will rely upon him, and none but him; it is only God is an all-ſufficient good, it is only Chriſt that is the rock that will never fail, on him will I role my ſelf, unto him will I make an abſolute reſignation of all, I will betruſt him with all I have, and all I am. I will commit all unto him for ever and ever and ever.

4. As faith relies all upon God in Chriſt, ſo it appropriates all God, and all Chriſt unto it ſelf, I am my Beloved's, and my beloved is mine; there is a mutual propriety betwixt Chriſt and the Church, Pſal. 73. 35. and betwixt Chriſt and the ſoul; Chriſt hath a propriety in me, and I have a peculiar propriety in Chriſt. Chriſt is mine, ſo as I have none in the world ſo mine, whom have I in heaven but thee? and there is none upon earth that I deſire beſides thee. Chriſt is mine, and mine in a peculiar manner, there is a propriety with peculiarity, my Lord, and my God. O the excellency of Faith! this ſtep goes beyond all the reſt; it is a bleſſed thing to have a true ſight of God, there is much Power in it; but to ſee God in his glory, majeſty, greatneſs, goodneſs, as my God; to ſee all the attributes of God as thoſe things that my ſoul hath an intereſt in; to ſee Chriſt coming from the Father for me to be my redeemer; to ſee Chriſt in whom all fulneſs dwells, (in whom the
John.20. 29. treaſures of all God's riches are not only Chriſt dying as man, but riſing as God for me, and my ſalvation; to ſee Chriſt, and then to lay hold on Chriſt, and to ſay, my Lord, and my God. O this is the work of precious faith; and to this now is Thomas arived in this confeſſion of his, my Lord, and my God,

2. Hereupon follows Chriſt's commendation and correction; Jeſus ſaith unto him, Thomas, becauſe thou haſt ſeen me, thou haſt believed; bleſſed are they that have not ſeen, and yet have believed; In the firſt place Chriſt commends Thomas's faith, becauſe thou haſt ſeen me, thou haſt believed, q. d. thou ſeeſt me a man; but conſidering how I am riſen from the dead, thou believeſt in me as God; I commend thy faith but 'tis a weak faith in reſpect of its riſe; now therefore to correct it, I pronounce thoſe bleſſed to all generations, that when I am gone, as in regard of my bodily preſence, yet they will believe in me; bleſſed are they that have not ſeen, and yet have believed, I am afraid of tediousneſs, and therefore I ſhall not enlarge any more on this apparition.

There is but one apparition more recorded by John 21. 1.
John. After theſe things Jeſus ſhewed himſelf again to the Diſciples at the ſea of Tiberias, and on this wiſe ſhewed he himſelf. In theſe apparitions the Evangeliſt uſeth one and the ſame method; As in the former ſo here again is ſet down the time when, the place where, the perſons to whom, the manner how he appeared; not one of theſe circumſtances muſt be wanting to ſhew the evidence, and certainty of Ver. 21.
his reſurrection.

1. The time, after theſe things; after the three former apparitions he come to a fourth, and concludes with this, as therein making ſome mention of himſelf, with which he concludes the whole book; This is the Diſciple which teſtifieth theſe things, and wrote theſe things, and we know his teſtimony is true.

2. The place, at the ſea of Tiberias; or at the lake Genezareth; where he had called them to the Apoſtleſhip, there now he appears to theſe Apoſtles; they were at firſt fiſhers, and now they are at their Calling upon the ſea, Chriſt ſtanding on the ſhore.

3. The Perſons to whom he appears, they were Diſciples, their names are in the next verſe. All Chriſt's apparitions were to the Diſcipels Acts 10. 41.
of Chriſt; we read not that ever he ſhewed himſelf after his reſurrection to any but to his followers; he ſhewed himſelf openly, not to alll the people, but unto witneſſes, choſen before of God, even to us who did eat and drink with him after he roſe from the dead. Acts. 10 41. Srangers to Chriſt muſt be no witneſſes of Chriſt's Reſurrection; and this was his meaning, Yet a little while, and the world ſeeth me no more, but ye ſee me, Joh. 14. 19,

4. For the manner of his apparition, on this wiſe Chryſ. Hom. 86. in Job.
ſhewed he himſelf.

1. He ſhewed himſelf, ſo it is in this verſe twice repeated, after theſe things Jeſus ſhewed himſelf, and in this wiſe he ſhewed himſelf. Chriſt now was not ſeen, or known to the bodily eye! for his body was immortal) unleſs by diſpenſation he condeſcended thereto. I deny not, but that glorified bodies are ever actually ſeen Mat.1.43. Mat. 22. 30. 1 Cor. 15. 44.
of bodies that are glorified; but of mortal men who are yet in this vail of tears, thoſe glorious creatures cannot be ſeen actually, except there be ſome peculiar and divine diſpenſation. As the air is too ſubtil to be ſeen, or as the Sun is too glorious for a weak eye to behold, ſo are glorified bodies too ſubtle, too ſplendid for a mortal eye to pierce: Our Saviour tells us, that the bodies of the Saints do ſhine forth as the Sun in the Kingdom of their Father,; and Luke 24. 31.
that they are as the Angels. And the Apoſtle tells us, that their bodies are ſpiritual bodies; there is a ſpiritual body; now without diſpenſation we cannot ſee ſpiritual things. And hence it is, that when men

Luke 24. Chriſt ſhewed himſelf to the two Diſciples at Emmaus, it is ſaid that their eyes were opened ,and they knew him, and he vaniſhed out of their ſight. Mark, firſt, their eyes were opened; why, no queſtion but their eyes were open before; they did not walk with him and talk with him, and ſit with him, and eat with him, but their eyes were then opened; ay, but now their eyes were opened in another manner, as it is ſaid of Eliſha's ſervant that at the prayers of Eliſha, The Lord opened the eyes of the young man, and he ſaw, and behold the mountain was full of horſes, and 2 King. 6. chariots of fire, round about Eliſha; in like manner their eyes were ſo opened, that they knew Jeſus. And then 2. He vaniſhed out of their ſight; in a ſtrange unuſual manner they loſt his ſight, and they could not tell what was become of him; in a moment he he was inviſible to them whoſe eyes he had opened: It plainly ſhews that glorified bodies, as corpulent, and commenſurable, may be ſeen of mortals, but as they are ſubtle and ſpiritual, they cannot be ſeen actually without diſpenſation. Chriſt appeared (ſaith Damaſcene) not by neceſſity, but by his own free will; not by the law of nature, but by way of diſpenſation. It was his mere condeſcenſion and permiſſion, that he would ſhew himſelf at any time unto his Diſciples.

2. He ſhewed himſelf on this wiſe, There were together Joh. 21.2, 3, 4, &c Simon Peter, and Thomas, called Dydimus, &c In the whole narration we may obſerve, 1, The Occaſion, and 2. The Apparition: In the occaſion we have a Council among the Apoſtles what to do, and 'tis concluded they would go a fiſhing; they did ſo, tho to no purpoſe, for they fiſhed all night, but caught nothing. In the Apparition, 1. Chriſt is ver. 3. unknown, He ſtood on the ſhore, but the Diſciples knew ver 4. not that it was Jeſus; in this condition we have Jeſus ſpeaking, and then working a Miracle; he bids them caſt the net on the right ſide of the ſhip, and then ver 6. draw; but they were not able to draw for the multitude ver. 7. of the fiſhes. 2. Hereupon Chriſt is known, Therefore that Diſciple whom Jeſus loved, ſaith unto Peter, it is the Lord; the alarm given, now all the Diſciples beſtir themſelves. 1. Peter, he caſts himſelf into the ſea. 2. The other Diſciples they come in a little ſhip to the land; and there they dine, and commune with Jeſus; which is the end of the hiſtory, and ſo ends this Book of our Evangeliſt John.

Thus far we have propounded the object; our next work is how to direct you to look unto Jeſus in this reſpect.

Chap. 2. Sect. 1. Of knowing Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our Salvation in his Reſurrection.

THAT in all reſpects we may look on Jeſus 1. Let us know Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his Reſurrection, and during the time of his abode upon the earth after his Reſurrection. This is worth the knowing; on it depends our Juſtification, Sanctification, Salvation; For if Chriſt be not riſen, we are yet in our ſins, and our faith is in vain, and our hope is in vain; little hope have we either of Heaven, or of Reſurrection, if Chriſt be not riſen; of all men we are the moſt miſerable that believe in Chriſt, if he whom we believe in be not riſen again. O my ſoul, ſtudy this point; many take it up in groſs, they can run over this Article of their Creed, the third day he roſe again from the dead; but for a particular underſtanding of it, in reſpect of the time, or the end, or the manner, or the certainty, how many are to ſeek? I ſhall appeal to thy ſelf, are not many diſcoveries already made which before thou never tookeſt notice of? and if thou wouldſt but ſtudy this point, how much more might yet appear? eſpecially, how much more might yet appear, as to thine own good it is not enough to know Chriſt's reſurrection, unleſs thou know it for thy ſelf, Be ſure thou haſt this in mind, That Chriſt roſe again, but what's that to me? ſaving knowledg is ever joyned with a particular application; if Chriſt be my Head, then he could not riſe, but I roſe with him, and in him; and thus, O my ſoul, look on Chriſt; and thus ſearch into every particular of Chriſt's Reſurrection; come ſtudy when he roſe; ſtudy the Arguments that make out Chriſt's reſurrection ſure and certain; ſtudy all the Job 5 7. Apparitions of Jeſus Chriſt; O what delightful ſtudies are theſe; hadſt thou been with them to whom Chriſt appeared, would not thy heart have leaped with joy? come, ſtudy it cloſe, for the benefit of theſe Apparitions extend to thee; the fruit of Chriſt's reſurrection is thine, even thine, as theirs; Know this for thy ſelf.

Sect. 2. Of conſidering Jeſus in that reſpect.

2. LET us conſider Jeſus carrying on this work of our ſalvation for us in his reſurrection. It is not enough to know a ſaving neceſſary truth, but it is required farther that we digeſt truths, and that we draw forth their ſtrength for the nouriſhment and refreſhing of our poor ſouls. As a man may in half an hour chew and take into is ſtomach that meat, which he muſt have ſeven or eight hours at leaſt to digeſt; ſo a man may take into his underſtanding more truths in an hour, than he is able well to digeſt in many; what good thoſe men are like to get by Sermons or Providences, who are unaccuſtomed to this work of meditation, I cannot imagine; it is obſerved by ſome, that this is the reaſon why ſo much preaching is loſt amongſt us; why Profeſſors that run from Sermon to Sermon, and are never weary of hearing or reading, have notwithſtanding ſuch languiſh ſtarved ſouls, becauſe they will not meditate. And therefore God commanded Joſhua, not only to read the Law, but to conſider of it, and dwell upon it; This Book of the Law Joſh. 1. 8. ſhall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou ſhalt meditate therein day and night; why this is the duty that I am now preſſing to; if thou knoweſt theſe things, conſider, ruminate, meditate, ponder on them again, and again. And becauſe this work requires enlargedneſs of heart and ſpirit, therefore take it into parts, and conſider of each of them apart by it ſelf. As——

1. Conſider of the time when Chriſt roſe again, As Chriſt had his three days, and no more, ſo muſt thou have the ſame three days like unto his; the firſt day was called the day of preparation; the ſecond was the Sabbath-day; and the third day was the reſurrection day; ſo thy firſt day is a day of preparation, a day of Paſſion, wherein thou muſt Iſa. 52. 7. ſtrive and ſtruggle againſt ſin and Satan, wherein thou muſt ſuffer all their bitter darts till thou dyeſt, and give up the Ghoſt. And thy ſecond day is a day of reſt, wherein thy body muſt lye in the grave and thy fleſh reſt in hope; wherein thou ſhalt enter into peace, and reſt in thy bed, until the trumpet ſound, and bid thee ariſe, and come to judgment: And thy third day is a day of Reſurrection, and thence mayſt thou draw down ſome uſe for thy ſoul's nouriſhment.

2. Conſider of the reaſons why Chriſt aroſe; was it not to confound the Jews? they could not endure to hear of Chriſt's Reſurrection, and therefore when Peter and the other Apoſtles preached that point. They were cut to the heart, and took counſel to ſlay them, Acts. 9. 33. It is the caſe of them to ſay, We will not have that.

man to reign over us; they that by their ſins crucified Chriſt every day, cannot without horror think of his exaltation, it cuts them to the heart, that Chriſt is riſen to be their Judge. Again, was it not to confirm the faith of Chriſt's followers? till he was riſen, their faith was but a weak faith; weak in knowledg, weak in aſſent, weak in confidence, weak in aſſurance; much do had Chriſt with them, many a time had he chid them, Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? but after he had ſhewed himſelf alive by many infallible proofs, they could then cry out, My Lord, and My God. Again, was it not to evidence, that he had fully ſatisfied all our debts? Heb.7.22. the Apoſtle tells us, that Chriſt was our Surety; at his death he was arreſted, and caſt into Priſon, whence he could not come till all was paid; and therefore to hear that Chriſt is riſen, and that he hath broken the bolts and fetters of the grave, it is a clear evidence that God is ſatisfied, and that Chriſt is diſcharged by God himſelf. Oh what breaſts of conſolation are here? Again, was it not to conquer ſin, death and devil? now he took from death his ſting, and from hell his ſtandard; now he ſeized upon the hand-writing that was againſt us, and nailed to his croſs; now he ſpoiled Principalities and Powers, and carried the keys of death and hell, at his own girdle; now he came out of the grave Judg.5.21. as a mighty Conqueror, ſaying as Deborah did in her ſong, O my ſoul, thou haſt trodden down ſtrength, thou haſt marched valiantly. Again, was it not to become the firſt-fruits of them that ſleep; Chriſt was the firſt that roſe again from the grave to dye no more; and by virtue of his Reſurrection (as being the firſt- 1 Cor.15.22, 23. fruits) all the Elect muſt riſe again; As in Adam all dye, even ſo in Chriſt ſhall all be made alive; but every man in his own order, Chriſt the firſt-fruits, and afterwards they that are Chriſt's at his coming. Some may wonder, can the reſurrection of one, a thouſand ſix hundred years ago, be the cauſe of our riſing? yea, as well as the death of one, five thouſand ſix hundred years ago, is the cauſe of our dying; Adam and Chriſt were two heads, two roots, two firſt-fruits, either of them in reference to his company whom they ſtand for. And now O my Job 19,25. ſoul, thou mayeſt ſay with Job, I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that I ſhall ſee him at the laſt day, not with other, but with theſe ſame eyes. If Chriſt live, then muſt I live alſo: if he be riſen, then though after my skin worms ſhall deſtroy this body, yet Ver.26. in my fleſh I ſhall ſee God. Again, was it not that he declared to be the Son of God? was it not that he might be exalted, and glorified? this is the main reaſon of all the reſt; ſee thou to this! O give him the glory, and praiſe of his reſurrection; ſo muſe and meditate, and conſider on this tranſaction, as to aſcribe to his Name all honour, and glory; what, is he riſen from the dead? Hath God high- Pſal.2.11. ly exalted him, and given him a name above every name? O then let every tongue confeſs, That Jeſus Chriſt is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

3. Conſider of the manner of Chriſt's Reſurrection; he roſe as a common perſon; in which reſpect his reſurrection concerns us no leſs than himſelf. We muſt not think that when Chriſt was raiſed, it was no more than when Lazarus was raiſed; his reſurrection was the reſurrection of us all; it was in the name of us all, and had in it a ſeed-like vertue to work the reſurrection of us all. O the priviledge of this communion with Chriſt's reſurrection! if I believe this truly, I cannot but believe the reſurrection of my body, and the life everlaſting; why, Jeſus Chriſt hath led the dance, and though of my ſelf I have no right to Heaven or Glory, yet in Chriſt my head I have as good right to it as any heir apparent to his Lands. ——— 2. He roſe by his own power; and ſo did none but Jeſus Chriſt from the beginning of the world? but it was never heard that any dead man raiſed himſelf; indeed one Inſtance we have that a dead man's Corps ſhould raiſe up another dead man, They caſt the man into the Sepulchre of Eliſha, 2 King 13.21. and when the man was let down and touched the bones of Eliſha, he revived and ſtood up on his feet; dead Eliſha, raiſed up a dead man from the grave, but dead Eliſha could not raiſe up himſelf, from the grave, only Chriſt roſe himſelf, and at the ſame time he raiſed many others; and here was the argument of his God-head, I have power to lay down my life, and I have John 10.18. power to take it up again; how ſhould we but truſt him with our life, who is the reſurrection and the life; He that believeth in him, though he were dead, yet ſhall he live, O my ſoul, he was able to raiſe himſelf, much more is he able to raiſe thee up; only believe, and live for ever. ——— 3. He roſe with an earthquake; O the power of Chriſt in every paſſage! what ayled thee, O earth, to Skip like a Ram? was not the new Tomb hewn out of a Rock? and was not a great ſtone rolled to the door of the Sepul- Job 18.4. Pſal.99.1. chre? the ground wherein he lay was firm and ſolid, and ſhall the rock be removed out of his place? O yes; the Lord reigneth, and therefore the earth is moved; O what a rocky heart is this of mine? how much harder is it than that rock; that moves not, melts not at the preſence of God, the preſence of the God of Jacob? the Sun (they ſay) danced that morning at Chriſt's reſurrectoin; the earth (I am ſure) then trembled; and yet my heart is no way affected with this news: I feel it neither dance for joy, nor tremble for fear; O my ſoul, be ſerious in this meditation, conſider, what a poſture wouldſt thou have been in, if thou hadſt been with thoſe Soldiers that watched Chriſt; ſo reallize this Earthquake, as if thou now felt it trembling under thee.

4. An Angel miniſtred to him at his reſurrection; Mat.28.2. An Angel came, and rolled back the ſtone from the door, and ſate upon it. Angels were the firſt Miniſters of the Goſpel, the firſt Preachers of Chriſt's reſurrection; they preached more of Chriſt than all the Prophets did; they firſt told the woman that Chriſt was riſen; and they did the firſt ſervice to Chriſt at Luke 24.6. his reſurrection, in rolling the ſtone from the door's mouth; O my ſoul, that thou wert but like theſe bleſſed Angels! how is it that they are ſo forward in God's Service, and thou art ſo backward? One day thou expecteſt to be equal with the Angels, and art thou now ſo far behind them? What! to be equal in Reward, and behind them in Service? Here's a Meditation able to check thy Sloath, and to ſpur thee on to thy Duty. ——— 5, Many of the Bodies of the Saints aroſe out of their Graves at His Reſurrection; as the Angels miniſtred, ſo the Saints waited on Him. In this Meditation, trouble not thy ſelf whether David, Moſes, Job, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, were ſome of thoſe Saints, as ſome conjecture upon ſome Grounds: It is a better Conſideration to look upon them as the Fruit of Chriſt's Reſurrection, and as an Earneſt of thy Own: The Virtue of Chriſt's Reſurrection apprears immediately, and it will more appear at the general Reſurrection Day. As ſure as theſe Saints aroſe with Him, and went into the Holy City, and appeared unto many; ſo ſure ſhall thy Body riſe again at the Laſt Day; and (if thou art but a Saint) it ſhall go with Him into the Heavenly Jeruſalem, and appear before God, and His Son Jeſus Chriſt in Glory. ——— 6. Chriſt roſe again with a true and perfect Body, with an Incorruptible and Powerful Body, with a ſpiritual and an Agile Body, with a Glorious Body, brighter than the Sun in his utmoſt Glory. On theſe things may the Soul expatiate: O it is a worthy, bleſſed, ſoul-raviſhing Subject to think upon; and the rather, if we conſider that Conformity which we believe; We look for a Saviour (ſaith the Apoſtle) the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who ſhall change our vile Bodies, that they may be faſhioned unto His Glorious Body. O my Soul that this Clay of thine ſhould be a Partaker of ſuch Glory! That this Body of Duſt and Earth ſhould ſhine in Heaven like thoſe Glorious Spangles of the Firmament; that this Body that ſhall rot in Duſt, and fall more vile than a Carrion, ſhould riſe, and ſhine like the Glorious Body of our Saviour on Mount Tabor: Surely thou oweſt much to Chriſt's Reſurrection. O conſider of it, till thou feeleſt the Influence, and comeſt to the Aſſurance of this Bleſſed Change,

1. Conſider of the ſeveral Apparitions of Jeſus Chriſt, eſpecially of thoſe written by the Evangeliſt John As,--

2. Muſe on his Apparition to Mary Magdalen: Oh the Grief before He appeared! And Oh the Joys when He appeared! ——————— 1. Before, ſhe apprehended nothing, but that ſome or other had took away her Lord: theſe were all the words ſhe uttered before he appeared; they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid Him; ſo ſhe told Peter and John: And when Two Angels appeared in White, asking her; Woman why weepeſt thou? ſhe gave the ſame anſwer to them; They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid Him. A Soul in deſertion knows not what to do, but to weep, and cry; Oh my Lord is gone; I have loſt my Lord, my God, my Jeſus, my King! In this Meditation, conſider, O my Soul, as if thou hadſt been in Maries Caſe: Was it not a ſad Caſe, when the Angels of heaven knew not how to comfort her? Suppoſe any Son of conſolation had ſtood by, and had ſuch a one perſwaded, O Mary ſuppreſs thy Sadneſs, refreſh thy Heart with this very Viſion; thou didſt ſeek but One, and thou haſt found Two; a dead body was thy Errand, and thou hadſt light on Two alive: Thy Weeping was for a Man, and thy Tears have obtained Angels: Obſerve them narrowly; the Angels invite thee to a Parley, it may be they had ſome happy News to tell thee of thy Lord: Remember what they are, and where they ſit, and whence they come, and to whom they ſpeak; they are Angels of Peace; neither ſent without Cauſe, nor ſeen but of Favour; they ſit on the Tomb, to ſhew they are no ſtrangers to thy Loſs: They come from Heaven, from whence all happy News deſcended; they ſpeak to thy ſelf, as if they had ſome ſpecial Embaſſage to deliver unto thee. No, no; theſe Cordials are in vain; neither Man nor Angel can do her good, or comfort her drooping Soul: Either Chriſt Himſelf muſt come in Preſence, or ſhe crys; Miſerable comforters are ye all! Alas! ſmall is the Light that a Star can yeild, when the Sun is down: A ſorry Exchange it is, to go and gather Crumbs, after the Loſs of the Bread of Life. Oh, What can theſe Angels do? They cannot perſuade me that my Maſter is loſt; for my own Eyes will diſprove them: They can leſs tell me where He may be found; for they themſelves would wait upon Him, if they knew but where: I am apt to think, they know not where He is; and therefore they are come to the Place where he laſt was, making the Tomb their Heaven, and the Remembrance of His Preſence the Fewel of their Joys: Alas! what do Angels here? I neither came to ſee them, nor deſire to hear them: I came not to ſee Angels, but the Creator of Angels, to whom I owe more than both to Men and Angels.

2. After he appeared, ſhe was filled with joy; for ſo it was, that when nothing elſe would ſatisfie, or comfort this poor Creature, Jeſus Himſelf appears. At firſt He is unknown, ſhe takes him for the Gardener of the place, but within a while he utters a voice that opens both her ears, and eyes; And Jeſus ſaith unto her, Mary, It was the ſweeteſt ſound that ever ſhe heard; many a time had ſhe been called by that name, but never heard ſhe a voice ſo effectual, powerful, inward, feeling, as at this time; hereby, the cloud is ſcattered, and the Sun of Righteouſneſs appears; this one word Mary, lightens her eyes, dryes up her tears, chears her heart, revives her ſpirits, that were as good as dead. One word of Chriſt wrought ſo ſtrange an alteration in her, as if ſhe had been wholly made new, when ſhe was only named. And hence it is that being raviſhed with his voice, and impatient of delayes, ſhe takes his talk out of his mouth, and to his firſt and only word Mary, ſhe anſwers, [Rabboni] which is to ſay, Maſter, q. d. Maſter, is it thou? with many a ſalt tear have I ſought thee, and art thou unexpectedly ſo near at hand! thy abſence was hell, and thy preſence is no leſs than heaven to me: Oh how is my heart raviſhed at thy ſound? if the babe leaped in the womb of Elizabeth when ſhe but heard the ſalutation of Mary, how ſhould my heart but leap at thy ſalutation? I feel I am exceedingly tranſported beyond my ſelf. Inſtead of my heavy heart and troubled ſpirit, I feel now a ſweet and delightful Tranquility of mind; thou art my ſolace and ſouls delight; whom have I in heaven but thee? and whom deſire I upon earth in compariſon of thee? and yet I am not ſatisfied; not only in fruition of thee, but union with thee, is that which my ſoul longs after; not only thy preſence, but thy embraces, or my embraces of thee can give thee content; come then, and give me leave, my Lord, my God, to run to the haunt of my cheif delights, to fall at thy ſacred feet, and ſo bath them with my tears of joy; O my Jeſus, I muſt needs deal with thee, as the Spouſe dealt with thee: Now I have found thee whom my ſoul loves dearly, I will hold thee, and I will not let thee go. Cant. 3.4.

I know not in all the Book of God a ſoul more depreſſed with ſorrow, and lifted up with joy; O meditate on this! if Chriſt be abſent, all is night; but if Chriſt appear, he turns all again into a lightſome day; there is no ſorrow like that which apprehends Chriſt's loſs, and therefore in hell it is looked upon as the greateſt pain; of the two (ſay Divines) it is a greater torment to loſe God, and to loſe Jeſus Chriſt, than to endure all thoſe flaming whips, unquenchable fires, intollerable cold, abominable ſtench; and on the other ſide, there is no joy in heaven like to that which apprehends Chriſt's preſence: In thy preſence there is fulneſs of joy, and at thy right hand Pſal. 16. 11. there are pleaſures evermore. I had rather be in hell with Chriſt (ſaid one) than in heaven without Chriſt. This is the very top of heaven's joy, the quinteſſence of glory, the higheſt happineſs of Saints; O my ſoul, ſeek with Mary, yea ſeek and weep, and weep and ſeek, and never reſt ſatisfied till Chriſt appear, if thou art but in the uſe of means, he will appear ſooner or later; or what if thou never ſaweſt a good day on earth, one ſight of Chriſt in heaven will make amends. Surely if thou knoweſt the joy of Chriſt's preſence, thou wouldſt run through death and hell to come to Chriſt. It was Paul's ſaying, I deſire to Phil. 1.23. be diſſolved, and to be with Chriſt, which is far better; he cared not for death, ſo he might go to Chriſt, for that was better than very life it ſelf.

2. Muſe on his Appparition to the Ten Diſciples. When the doors were ſhut for fear of the Jews, then came Jeſus, and ſtood in the midſt, ſaying to them, Peace be John 20. 19. unto you. Before his Apparitions, ſorrow and fear had poſſeſſed all their ſpirits: ſometime they walked abroad, and were ſad; and ſometimes they kept within, and ſhut the doors upon them, as being exceedingly afraid: In this condition Jeſus Chriſt (that knows beſt the times and ſeaſons of grace and comfort) comes and ſtands in the midſt of their Aſſembly; he comes in, they know not how; and no ſooner he is in, but he ſalutes them in this manner, Peace be unto you.

This was the prime of all his wiſhes; no ſooner is he riſen, but he wiſheth peace to all his Apoſtles; no ſooner meets he with them, but the very opening of his lips was with theſe words: they are the firſt words, at the firſt meeting, on the very firſt day—— A ſure ſign that peace was in the heart of Jeſus Chriſt; howſoever it is with us, peace, or war; there is a Commonweal where Chriſt is King; and there is peace, and nothing but peace; come, ſift, try, and examine; art thou, O my ſoul, a member of this body? a ſubject of this Commonweal? hath the influence of Chriſt's peace (wrought and declared at his reſurrection) any force on thee? haſt thou peace with God? and peace within? and peace without? doſt thou feel that ointment poured upon Aaron's head and runing down the skirts of his garments? doſt thou feel the dew of Hermon, and the dew that deſcends upon Mount Sion, dropping (as it were) upon thy heart? doth the ſpirit aſſure thee, that Chriſt the Prince of peace hath made peace and reconciliation betwixt God and thee, betwixt the King and thee, a rebel to his Crown and dignity; O how beautiful upon Iſa. 52.7. the mountains would the feet of him be, that ſhould publiſh Pſal.122. 3. peace, that ſhould bring theſe good tydings, that thou art a Citizen of that Jeruſalem where God is King, and Chriſt the Prince of peace? where all the buildings are compact together, as a City that is at unity within it ſelf?

3. Muſe on his apparition to all the Apoſtles, when they were all convened, and Thomas with them. This Apparition was occaſioned by Thomas's incredu- John 20. 15. lity; except (ſaid he) I ſee in his hands the print of the nailes, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thruſt my hand into his ſide, I will not believe. Now therefore ſaith Jeſus to Thomas, Come reach heither thy Ver.27. finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thruſt it into my ſide, and be not faithleſs, but believing. Methinks I ſee Thomas's finger on Chriſt's boared hand, and Thomas's hand in Chriſt's pierced ſide, Here's a ſtrong Argument to convince my ſoul that Chriſt is riſen from the dead; why ſee, ſee; this is the ſame Chriſt that was crucified; the ſame Chriſt that had his hands boared with nails, and that had his heart pierced with a ſpear; though the wounds are healed as to ſenſe of pain, yet the skars, and holes, and clefts remain as big as ever: the hole in his hand is yet ſo large, that Thomas may put his finger not only on it, but into it; and the cleft in his ſide is yet ſo large, that Thomas may thruſt his whole hand into his ſide, and with his fingers touch that heart that iſſued out ſtreams of blood for my ſalvation. In this meditation be not too curious, whether the print of the nails were but continued till Chriſt had confirmed his Diſciples faith; or whether he retains them ſtill for ſome farther uſe? it is a better conſideration to look upon them ſo as to confirm thy own faith; is there not too much of Thomas's incredulity in thy breaſts? doſt not thou ſometimes feel ſome doubtings of Chriſt's riſing? or at leaſt doſt thou not queſtion whether Chriſt's reſurrection belongs unto thee? is not Satan buſie with temptation? is not thy conſcience troubled for thy ſins; and eſpecially for thy ſin of unbelief? if ſo, (and I know not but it may be ſo with thee, and the beſt of ſaints) Come then, and reach hither thy finger, and behold Chriſt's hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thruſt it into his ſide; my meaning is, come with the hand of faith, and lay hold on Chriſt, yea, hide thy ſelf in the holes of the rock; Be like the Dove that maketh her neſt in the ſide af the hole's mouth? the Dove that would be ſafe from the devouring Jer.48. 28. Birds, or from the Fowlers ſnare, ſhe flyes to the hole in a rock; and thus Chriſt invites his Spouſe, O my dove, that Cant.2.14 art in the clefts of the rock, in the ſecret places of the ſtairs; Ber.Ser. 61. let me ſee thy countenance, let me hear thy voice. In the clefts in Cant. of the rock I am ſafe (ſaid Bernard) there I ſtand firmly, there I am ſecure from Satan's prey. It is ſtoried of a Martyr, that writing to his Wiſe where ſhe might find him, Surius in vita Sanct. Elezearii. ſhe was fled from home; O my Dear (ſaid he) if thou deſireſt to ſeek me, ſeek me in the ſide of Chriſt, in the cleft of the rock in the hollow of his wounds; for there have made my neſt, there will I dwell, there ſhalt thou find me, and no where elſe but there. O my ſoul, that thou wouldſt make this uſe of the wounds of Chriſt! are they not as the Cities of refuge, whither thou mayeſt fly and live? Nothing is more efficacious to cure the wounds of conſcience, than a freqent and ſerious meditation of the wounds of Chriſt. Bern. ibid. Come, be not faithleſs, but believing; theſe Monuments of Chriſt's reſurrection are for the confirmation of thy faith; if well viewed and handled, they will quiet thy conſcience, quench the fiery darts of Satan, increaſe thy faith, till thou comeſt to aſſurance, and ſayeſt with Thomas, Turbabor, ſed non perturbabor quia vulnerum Chriſti recordabor Aug. My Lord and my God. I may be troubled, but I ſhall not be overwhelmed; becauſe I will remember the print of the nails, and of the ſpear, in the hands and ſide of Jeſus Chriſt.

4. Muſe on this Apparition to the ſeven Diſciples at the Sea of Tiberias. Firſt, Chriſt appears, and works a Miracle: his diſcovers himſelf to be the Lord of Sea as well as Land; at his word multitudes of Fiſhes come to the Net, and are caught by his Apoſtles; nor is this Miracle without a Myſtery; The Kingdom of Heaven, is like a drawn net, caſt into the ſea, Mat.13. 47. which when it is full, men draw to land; what is this divine trade of ours but a ſpiritual fiſhing? the world is a ſea, ſouls like fiſhes ſwim at liberty in this deep and in nets of wholeſome doctrine are they that draw up ſome to the ſhore of grace, and glory. 2. Upon this Miracle, The Diſciple whom Jeſus loved, ſaid unto Peter, it is the Lord. John is more quick-eyed than all the reſt, he conſiders the Miracle, and him that wrought it; and preſently he concludes, It is the Lord; O my ſoul meditate on the myſtery of this diſcovery; if ever ſoul be converted and brought home to Chriſt it is the Lord; but oh whither is Chriſt gone, that we have loſt ſo long his converting preſence? Oh for one Apparition of Jeſus Chriſt! till then we may preach our hearts out and never the nearer? do what we can ſouls will to hell, except the Lord break their career; Miniſters can do no more but tell, thus and thus men may be ſaved; and thus and thus men will be damned; He that believeth on the Son hath eternal life, and he that believeth not the Son ſhall not ſee life; but when they John 33. have ſaid all they can, it is only God muſt give the bleſſing: Oh what is preaching without Chriſt's preſence? One hearing what mighty feats Scanderbeg's Sword had done, he ſent for it, and when he ſaw it, Is this the Sword (ſaid he) that hath done ſuch great exploits? what's this Sword more than any other Sword? O (ſays Scanderbeg) I ſent thee my Sword, but not my Arm that did handle it: ſo Miniſters may uſe the Sword of the Spirit, the word of God, but if the Spirit's arm be not with it, they may brandiſh it every Sabbath to little purpoſe; when all is done, if ever any good be done, it is the Lord. No ſooner John obſerves the Miracle, that a multitude of fiſhes were caught and taken, but he tells Peter of a bleſſed diſcovery, it is the Lord—— Upon this diſcovery, Peter throws himſelf into the Sea; O the fervent love he carries towards Chriſt! if he but hear of his Lord, he will run through fire and water to come unto him; ſo true is that of the Spouſe, Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it; if a man would give all the ſubſtance of his houſe for love, it would utterly be contemned. Cant 8.7. If I love Chriſt, I cannot but long for communion and fellowſhip with Chriſt; Whereſoever thou art, O bleſſed Saviour, give me no more happineſs than to be with thee, if on the earth, I would travel day and night to come unto thee; if on the Sea with Peter I would ſwim unto thee; if riding in triumph, would ſing Hoſanna to thee; but if in glory, how happy, Ubicunq. fueris O domino. Jeſus.&c. Aug.

ſhould I be to look upon thee? Chriſt's Apparitions are raviſhing ſights; if he but ſtand on the ſhore, Peter throws himſelf over-board to come to Chriſt; why now he ſtands on the pinacles of heaven, wafting and beckoning with his hand, and calling on me in Cant. 2. 10. his Word, riſe up my love, my fair one, and come away; O my ſoul make haſt; in every duty look out for another Apparition of Jeſus Chriſt: when thou comeſt to hear, ſay, Have over Lord by this Sermon: and when thou comeſt to pray, ſay, Have over Lord by this Prayer to a Saviour; neither fire nor water; floods nor ſtorms; death, nor life; principalities nor Powers; height nor depth; nor any other creature ſhould hinder thy paſſage to Chriſt, or ſeparate thy ſoul from 2 Tim. 2. 7, 8. Chriſt. Conſider what I ſay, (ſaith Paul) and the Lord give thee underſtanding in all things; remember that Jeſus of the ſeed of David was raiſed from the dead according to my Goſpel: that Chriſt was raiſed, is a Goſpel-truth, ay, but do thou remember it; do thou conſider it, and the Lord give thee underſtanding in all things.

Sect. 3. Of deſiring Jeſus in that reſpect,

3 LEt us deſire after Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his reſurrection. What deſire is, we have opened before; ſome call it the wing of the ſoul, whereby it moveth, and is carryed to the thing it expecteth, to feed it ſelf upon it, and to be ſatisfied with it.

But what is there in Chriſt's reſurrection, that ſhould move our ſouls to deſire after it?

I anſwer, 1. Something in it ſelf. 2. Something as in reference unto us.

1. There is ſomething in it ſelf; had we but a view of the glory, dignity, excellency of Chriſt, as raiſed from the dead, it would put us on this hea- Heb. 1. 8. venly motion; we ſhould fly as the Eagle that haſteth to eat. The object of deſire is good, but the more excellent and glorious any good is. the more earneſt and eager ſhould our deſires be; now Chriſt as raiſed from the dead is an excellent object; the reſurrection of Chriſt is the gloryfying of Chriſt; yea, his glorifying took its beginning at his bleſſed reſur- Phil. 2. 9. rection; now it was that God highly exalted him, and gave him a name above every name, &c. and in this reſpect how deſirable is he?

Rom. 4. 25. 3. There is ſomething in reference unto us; As, 1. He roſe again for our juſtification; I muſt needs grant, that Chriſt's death, and not his reſurrection is the meritorious cauſe of our juſtification; but on the other ſide Chriſt's reſurrection, and not his death is for the applying of our juſtification, as the ſtamp adds no vertue, nor matter of real value to a piece of gold; but only it makes that value which before it had, actually appliable and curtant unto us: ſo the reſurrection of Chriſt was no part of the price or ſatisfaction which Chriſt made to God, yet is it that which applies all his merits, and makes them of force unto his Members. Some I know would go farther, Lucius a learned Writer ſaith, that Juſtification is therefore attributed to Chriſt's reſurrection, becauſe it was the complete and ultimate act of Chriſt's active obedience: and from hence inferreth, that remiſſion of ſin is attributed to his paſſive obedience; and juſtification, or imputation of righteouſneſs, to his active obedience. Goodwin, no way inferiour to him, ſaith, that juſtification is put upon Rom 8. 34. Chriſt's reſurrection with a rather, who is he that condemneth it? is Chriſt that died; yea, rather that is riſen again; not but that the mattter of our juſtification, is only the obedience and death of Chriſt; but the form of our Juſtification or the act of pronouncing us righteous, by that his obedience and death, depends upon Chriſt's reſurrection; for then it was that Chriſt himſelf was juſtified, and then he was juſtified as a common perſon, repreſenting us therein, ſo that we were then juſtified with him, and in him; and we are ſaid to be riſen with him and to ſit with him in heavenly places. Burges, one admirably judicious, ſaith, that juſtification is given to Chriſt's reſurrection, as a privelege flowing from its efficient cauſe; Indeed Chriſt's death is the meritorious cauſe of our juſtification, but Chriſt's reſurrection is in ſome ſenſe (ſaith he) the efficient cauſe; becauſe by his riſing again, the Spirit of God doth make us capable of juſtification, aud then beſtoweth it on us. I know there is ſome difference amongſt theſe Worthies, but they all agree in this, that the reſurrection of Chriſt was for our juſtification, and that by the reſurrection of Chriſt all the merits of his death were made appliable unto us. As there was a price and ranſome to be paid by Chriſt for the redemption of man, ſo it was neceſſary that the fruit, effect, and benefit of Chriſt's redemption ſhould be applied, and conferred; now this work of application and actual collation of the fruit of Chriſt's death, began to be in fieri upon the reſurrection day; but it was not then finiſhed, and perfected; for to the conſummation thereof, the Aſcention of Chriſt, the Miſſion of the holy Ghoſt, Apoſtolical preaching of the Goſpel to the Jews and Gentiles, the Donation of Heavenly grace, and Chriſt's interceſſion at the right hand of God, were very neceſſary. O the benefit of Chriſt's reſurrection as to our juſtification! If Chriſt be not riſen again, ye 1 Cor. 15. 17. are yet in your ſins, and your faith is in vain. Remiſſion of ſin (which is a part of our juſtification) though purchaſed by Chriſt's death, yet could not be applyed to us, or poſſibly be made ours without Chriſt's reſurrection; and in this reſpect, oh how deſirable it is!

2. He roſe again for our ſanctification. So the Apoſtle, He hath quickned us together with Chriſt, and hath raiſed us up together with Chriſt. Our firſt reſur- Eph. 2. 5, 6. rection; if you would know how you that were blind in heart, uncircumciſed in ſpirit, utterly unacquainted with the life of God, are now light in the Lord, affecting heavenly things, walking in righteouſneſs; it comes from this bleſſed reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt; we are quickned with Chriſt; it is Chriſt's reſurrection that raiſed our ſouls, being ſtark dead, with ſuch a reſurrection as that they ſhall never dye no more. Whence the Apoſtle, Reckon your ſelves to be dead unto Rom. 6. 11. ſin, but alive unto God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. We for are dead to ſin, and alive unto God by the death and reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt; we may reckon thus our ſelves, that if we be in Chriſt, there comes a vertue from Chriſt, an effectual working of Chriſt by his Spirit into our hearts, and it is ſuch a work as will conform us to Chriſt dead, and to Chriſt riſen; why reckon thus, ſaith the Apoſtle; go not by gueſs, and ſay, I hope it will be better with me than it hath been; no, no, but reckon, conclude, make account, I muſt live to God, I muſt live the life of grace, for Chriſt Rom. 6. 4. is riſen. To the ſame purpoſe he ſpeaks before, Like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in newneſs of life. Chriſt roſe again to a new life, and herein his reſurrection differed from the reſurrection of thoſe others, raiſed by him, as of Lazarus, Jairus the Daughter, Widow of Naim's Son; for they were but raiſed to the ſame life; which formerly they lived; but Jeſus Chriſt was raiſed up unto a new life; and according to this examplar we ſhould now walk in newneſs of life? this is the end of Chriſt's reſurrection, that we ſhould be new creatures, of new lives, new principles, new converſations: he roſe agin for our ſanctification.

3. He roſe again for our Reſurrection to eternal life; Chriſt is the pattern, and pledg, and cauſe of the Reſurrection of our bodies; for ſince by man

1 Cor. 15. 21, 22. came death, by man came alſo the reſurrection of the dead; for as in Adam all dye, even ſo in Chriſt ſhall all be made alive. There is a vertue flowing from Chriſt to his Saints, by which they ſhall be raiſed up at the latter day; as there is a vertue flowing from the head to the members, or from the root to the branches; ſo thoſe that are Chriſt's ſhall be raiſed up by Chriſt. Not but that all the wicked in the world ſhall be raiſed again by the power of Chriſt, as he is a Judg, for all that are in their graves ſhall hear his voice, and 1 Joh. 5. 28, 29. they ſhall come forth; yet with this difference, they that have done good, unto the reſurrection of life, and they that have done evil unto the reſurrection of damnation. In this reſpect the Saints ſhall have a peculiar reſurrection; and therefore they are called the children of Luke 20. 36. the reſurrection, becauſe they ſhall obtain a better reſurrection, as the Apoſtle calls is. Heb. 11. 35. And is not Chriſt's reſurrection deſirable in this very reſpect; if we ſhould think, theſe bodies of ours being duſt, muſt never return from their duſts, it might diſcourage; but here is our hope, Chriſt is riſen, and therefore we muſt riſe; it is the Apoſtle's own argument a- 1 Cor. 15. 12, 13, 16, 20. gainſt thoſe that held there was no reſurrection of the dead; why, ſaith the Apoſtle, if there be no reſurrection of the dead, then is not Chriſt riſen. —— If the dead riſe not, then is not Chriſt raiſed. —— But Now is Chriſt riſen from the dead, and become the firſt-fruits of them that ſleep: he argues plainly that Chriſt's reſurrection is the principal efficient cauſe of the reſurrection of the Juſt. I am the reſurrection and the life, ſaith Chriſt, (i.e.) I am the Author, and worker of the Joh. 11. 25. reſurrection to life. As the Father raiſeth up the dead Joh. 5.21. and quickneth them, even ſo the Son quickneth whom he will; and hence it is that Chriſt is called a quickning Spirit; Chriſt is the head and ſtock of all the Elect; Chriſt is the Author, procurer, conveyer of life to all his off-ſpring, by the communication of his Spirit; 1 Cor. 15 45. Chriſt is a quickening Spirit quickening dead ſouls, and quickning dead bodies, the Author of both the firſt and ſecond Reſurrection. And is not this deſirable?—

He roſe again for the aſſurance of our Juſtification, ſanctification, and ſalvation. This is the reaſon why the Apoſtle uſeth theſe words to prove the re- Act.13.34 ſurrection of Chriſt, I will give you the ſure mercies of David; none of God's mercies had been ſure to us if Chriſt had not riſen again from the dead. But now all is made ſure; his work of redemption being fully finiſhed, the mercy which thereupon depended, was now made certain, (and as the Apoſtle ſpeaks) ſure unto all the ſeed.

Methinks a thought of this object in reſpect of it ſelf, and in reſpect of us, ſhould put our ſouls into a longing frame; is it not a deſirable thing to ſee the King in his beauty? were not the Daughters of Zion Rom.4.16 glad to go forth, and behold King Solomon with the Crown Cant. 3. 11. wherewith his Mother Crowned him in the day of his eſpouſals? If Chriſt incarnate, and in humane frailty was the deſire of Nations, how much more is Chriſt exalted, and in his glory? if it was Auguſtin's great wiſh to have ſeen Chriſt in the fleſh, how ſhould we but wiſh to ſee Criſt as riſen again from the dead? Cant. 5. 16. he is altogether lovely; or, he is altogether deſirable; deſirable in the womb, deſirable in the Cratch, deſirable on the Croſs, even when deſpiſed, and numbred with thieves; deſirable in his reſurrection; yea all deſirable, yea, above all deſirable, as riſen, exalted, glorified; in this conſideration we connot fathom the thouſand, thouſand part of the worth, and incomparable excellency of Jeſus Chriſt. Or if Chriſt's Reſurrection in it ſelf will not ſtir up our lazy deſires, is it not deſirable as in reference unto us? what, that he ſhould riſe again for our Juſtification? that by vertue of his Reſurrection, thy ſoul ſhould appear righteous before the Judgment-ſeat of God! O what a raviſhing word is that, what a triumphing challenge who ſhall lay any to the charge of Gods Elect? it is God that juſtifieth; who is he that condemneth? it is Chriſt that dyed, yea rather that is riſen again. Rom. 8. 33, 34. O the ſtings that many have, ſaying, what ſhall I do when I dye, and go down to the duſt? may not the Lord have ſomething againſt me at the day of reckoning? why no poor ſoul, if thou art in Chriſt, it is he that dyed, yea rather that is riſen again for thy Juſtification; by his reſurrection he hath cleared all reckonings, ſo that now who ſhall condemn; not ſin, Chriſt hath took it away; not the law, Chriſt hath fulfilled it for us; not Satan, for if the Judge acquit us, what can the Jaylor do? O my ſoul, that thy portion may be with theirs who have right and title to this bleſſed Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt. But thou ſayeſt again, what is it to me, if I be Juſtified in Chriſt, and yet my heart remain unholy, and unſubdued to Chriſt? it is true thou findeſt a woful ſinful nature within thee, croſs and contrary to holineſs, and leading thee daily into captivity; yet remember it is Chriſt that dyed, yea rather, that is riſen again; and by vertue of his Reſurrection he hath given thee a new nature, another nature which makes thee wreſtle againſt ſin, and ſhall in time prevail over all ſin. But thou ſayeſt again, what if I be Juſtified, and ſanctified, if after death I ſhall not be raiſed to life? why fear not, O my ſoul, for if Chriſt be riſen, thou ſhalt riſe, and riſe to eternal life; I am the reſurrection and the life. Joh. 14. 19. not only the reſurrection, but life is in him originally, as water is in the fountain, and from him it is derived to us; becauſe I live, ye ſhall live alſo. But thou ſayeſt again, O that I were aſſured of this! many doubts and jalouſies are upon me from day to day. Sometimes indeed I have a comfortable hope of my Juſtification, ſanctification, ſalvation; and ſometimes again I am forced to cry, Lord, why caſteſt thou off my ſoul? why hideſt thou thy face from me? Pſ. 88.14. O conſider of the ends of Chriſt's Reſurrection; was it not to give thee the ſure mercies of David? was it not to apply the merits of Chriſt's active, and paſſive obedience, and to bring them home to thy ſoul? was it 1 Cor. 15. 17. not to confirm, and to ratifie thy faith, elſe were it in vain? O the Perſon of Chriſt! and O the privileges of Chriſt as being raiſed from the dead! O my ſoul, that thou wert on the wing in thy deſires after Chriſt! O that thy motions were as ſwift as the Eagles that haſted to eat! O that feelingly thou kneweſt him, and the power of his reſurrection! that thou wert reſolved to give no ſleep to thine eyes, nor ſlumber to thine eye-lids, until thou couldſt ſay, Chriſt's Reſurrection is mine! why, Lord, that I ſhould long after vanities, trifles, toys, pleaſures, profits, earthly contentments, that I ſhould long like ſome women with Child for a deal of baggage coals, or aſhes, very loathſome food; and yet that I ſhould feel no pantings, breathings, hungrings, thirſtings after Chriſts Reſurrection to feed upon it, and to be ſatisfied with it! come here's a bleſſed object; here's delights; O ſtir up thy appetite, ſuck, and be ſatisfied, drink ye, drink abundantly, O my beloved!

Sect. 4. Of hoping in Jeſus in that reſpect.

LET us hope in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his Reſurrection. Only remember, I mean not a fluctuating, wavering, unſetled, uneſtabliſht hope; no, no, let us hope firmly, ſurely, fixedly; let us come up to that plerophory, or full aſſurance of hope; that we may conclude comfortably, and confidently, Chriſt's Reſurrection is ours; and yet that our concluſion may not be raſh, but upon right grounds, we may examine the firmneſs, ſolidneſs, ſubſtantialneſs of our hope in Chriſt's Reſurrection by theſe following ſigns.

1. If Chriſt's Reſurrection be mine, then is Chriſt's death mine; the fruits or effects of Chriſt's Death and Reſurrection cannot be ſevered; if we have been Rom. 6.5. planted together in the likeneſs of his death, we ſhall be in the likeneſs of his reſurrection. Mortification, and vivification, are twins of one and the ſame ſpirit; depart from evil and do good,--Ceaſe to do evil, learn to do Pſ.34. 14. Iſa. 1. 16, 17. well, Many may think they have their part in the firſt Reſurrection, but can they prove their death unto ſin? as there cannot be a Reſurrection before a man dye, ſo there cannot be a Reſurrection to a new life, but there muſt be a ſeparation of the ſoul from the body of ſin; what, ſhall a man cleave to ſin, be wedded to ſin; yea ſhall a man like it, love it, live in it, and yet ſay or imagine that Chriſt's Reſurrection is his? O be not deceived, God is not mocked; come, ſearch, try, examine, haſt thou any ſhare in Chriſt's paſſion? knoweſt thou the fellowſhip of his ſufferings? art thou made conformable to his death, that as he dyed for ſin; ſo thou dyeſt to ſin? if herein thou art at a ſtand, peruſe thoſe Characters laid down in his ſufferings and death, the truth and growth of our mortification, or of our death unto ſin is diſcovered before.

2. If Chriſt's Reſurrection be mine, then is Chriſt's Spirit mine, yea then am I quickned by the Spirit of Chriſt. Rom. 8.9. 11. If any man have not the Spirit of Chriſt, he is none of his:——but if the Spirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the dead dwell in you, then he that raiſed up Chriſt from the dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal bodies (and I may add your immortal ſouls) by his ſpirit that dwelleth in you Chriſt's Spirit (if Chriſt's Reſurrection be ours) will have the ſame operation and effect in our ſouls, that it had in his body; as it raiſed up the one, ſo it will raiſe up the other; as it quickned the one, ſo it will quicken the other; But the queſtion here will run on, how ſhall we know whether we have received this quickning Spirit? many pretend to the Spirit, never more than at this day, but how may we be aſſured that the Spirit is ours? anſwer.

1. The Spirit is a Spirit of illumination; here is the beginning of his work, he begins in light; as in the firſt creation, the firſt-born of God's works was light. God ſaid, let there be light, and there was light; ſo in this new creation, the firſt work is light, God Gen. 1. 3. who commanded the light to ſhine out of darkneſs hath ſhined into our hearts to give the light of the knowledg of 2 Cor.4.6 the glory of God in the face of Jeſus Chriſt. Hence the ſtate of nature is called darkneſs, and the ſtate of grace is called light; Ye were ſometimes darkneſs, but Eph. 5. 8. now ye have light in the Lord. And he hath called you 1 Pet.2.9. out of darkneſs into his marvellous light. There is a light in the mind and a light in the heart, of thoſe who have the Spirit of Chriſt; there is a ſpeculative and an affective knowledg, not only to know the truth, but to love it, believe it, embrace it. O my ſoul, wouldſt thou know whether Chriſt's Spirit be thine? conſider, and ſee then whether any of this new light of Jeſus Chriſt hath ſhined into thy heart; take heed, deceive not thy ſelf, thou mayſt have a great deal of wit, and knowledg, and underhand, and yet go to hell; this light is a light ſhining into thy heart; this light is a Chriſt-diſcovering light; this light is a ſin-diſcovery light; this light will cauſe thee to find out thy hypocriſie, deadneſs, dulneſs in ſpiritual duties; if thou haſt not this light, thou art near to eternal burnings, darkneſs is one of the properties of hell, and without this light, inward darkneſs will to utter darkneſs, where is nothing but weeping and wailing, and gnaſhing of teeth.

2. This quickning ſpirit, is a ſpirit of faith; as it reveals Chriſt, ſo it inclines mens hearts to cloſe with Chriſt upon thoſe Goſpel-terms, as he is offered. I know there are degrees and meaſures of faith, but the leaſt meaſure of faith is a deſiring, panting, breathing after the Lord Jeſus; and no ſooner hath the ſoul received that new light from the ſpirit of Chriſt, but it is preſently, at the ſame inſtant, exceedingly affected with Jeſus Chriſt; O it deſires Chriſt above all deſires, I know not a more undeceiving ſign than this; read over the whole Bible, and wherever there was any ſoul-ſaving diſcoveries, there ever followed inward deſires, ſoul-longings after Jeſus Chriſt; when Paul preached of the reſurrection of Chriſt, ſome there were that mocked, jeered, and ſlighted that doctrine, but others (whoſe hearts the the Lord ſtirred) they were exceedingly taken with it, ſaying, We will hear thee again of this matter; yea, and this very Sermon ſo wrought on ſome, that they believed, among whom was Dyoniſius the Areopagite, and Acts. 17. 32, 34. a woman named Damaris, and others with them; and when he preached another Sermon on the ſame ſubject at Antioch, the Jews were much offended, but the Gentiles were ſo exceedingly taken with it, that they beſought Paul, that theſe words (the very ſame Reſurrection Sermon) might be preached to them the next Sabbath day. Their very hearts did ſo long after Chriſt, whom Paul had preached, that when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious Acts 13. 42. 43. 44. Proſelytes, followed Paul and Barnabas; and the next Sabbath day came almoſt the whole City together to hear the ſame Sermon. O my ſoul, doſt thou hear theſe Sermons of Chriſts reſurrection; doſt thou hear ſweet Goſpel-preaching? doſt thou hear the free tenders and offers of Chriſt; with all his glory and excellency, to poor ſinners, to vile, loſt, undone ſouls, and art thou no whit taken with them? canſt thou ſleep away ſuch Sermons as theſe? haſt thou no heart-riſings; no ſtirrings, workings, longings, deſires in thy ſoul? O take heed? this is a dangerous caſe: but on the contrary, if thou ſayeſt in thy heart, Oh that I could hear this Sermon again! Oh the ſweet virtues of Chriſt's Reſurrection! I had not thought ſuch honey could have dropped out of this rock; O the bleſſed beginnings and ſpringings of grace which I felt in my ſoul on ſuch a meditation! O the deſire, the delight! O the longings! O the comforts of Chriſts reſurrection! O the drawings of the Spirit, inclining my heart to receive Jeſus Chriſt, to cloſe with him, and to reſt on him, and to give up my ſelf to him! why this Spirit of faith doth argue thy title and intereſt to the quickning ſpirit of Chriſt.

3. Thy quickening Spirit is a Spirit of Sanctification; ſuch was the Spirit, whereby Chriſt was raiſed. He was declared mightily to be the Son of God, according to the Spirit of ſanctification by the reſurrection Rom. 1.4. from the dead. That ſame Spirit which raiſed up Jeſus Chriſt, was that ſame divine Spirit which ſanctified his humane nature wherein it dwelt; and ſuch is that quickening Spirit to all in whom it dwelleth; it is a Spirit of holineſs, and it works holineſs, changing the heart, and turning the bent of it from ſin to holineſs. If any man be in Chriſt, he is a new creature; 2 Cor. 5. 17. old things are paſſed away, behold all things are become new; q. d. When once the believer is by an act of faith paſſed over unto Chriſt, there goes immediately from the Spirit of Chriſt into his ſoul, an effectual power, which alters and changes the frame of the whole man; now he is not the ſame that he was; he is changed in his company, in his diſcourſe, in his practiſe; he is changed in his nature, judgment, will, affections; he is ſanctified throughout in ſoul, body, and Spirit; O my ſoul, try thy ſelf by this ſign, doſt thou find ſuch an inward change wrought in the ſoul? doſt thou find the law of God, a law of holineſs written on thy heart? doſt thou find a law within thee contrary to the law of ſin, commanding with authority that which is holy and good? that ſo thou canſt ſay with the Apoſtle, I delight in the law of God after the inward man? and Rom. 7. 23, 25. with my mind, I my ſelf ſerve the law of God? if ſo, ſurely this is no other, but the law of the ſpirit of life in Jeſus Chriſt; or the law of this quickening Spirit, communicated from Chriſt, unto the ſoul.

3. If Chriſt's reſurrection be mine, then am I planted together in the likeneſs of Chriſt's reſurrection; then do I reſemble, and am made conformable to Chriſt in his reſurrection; now if we would know wherein that reſemblance is, the Apoſtle tells us, that like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead by the glory of the Rom.6.5. Father, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in newneſs of life. Our mortification is a reſemblance of Chriſt's death, and our vivification is a reſemblance of Chriſt's reſurrection. In this ground of our hope concerning our intereſt in the reſurrection of Chriſt, I ſhall propound theſe queſtions.——

Rom.6.4. 1. Whether in deed and in truth our ſouls are vivifi'd?

2. Whether we increaſe and grow in our vivification?

For the firſt, the truth and certainty of our vivification will appear by theſe rules.——

1. True vivification is general, both in reſpect of us and in reſpect of Grace.

1 Theſ.5. 23. 1. In reſpect of us, it is diffuſed throughout the whole man; the very God of peace ſanctifie you wholly (ſaith the Apoſtle) and I pray God that your whole ſpirit, ſoul, and body, may be preſerved blameleſs unto the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. And 2. In reſpect of Grace, it is in every Grace; I know it is a queſtion, whether all Graces are ſo connected and chained together, that poſſibly they cannot be ſevered? but I ſuppoſe it is truly anſwered, tho in reſpect of habit they cannot be ſevered, though in reſpect of the act or exerciſe they may be ſevered; ſome Graces are more radical than others, as faith and love, and therefore they firſt appear; but as a man lives firſt the life of a plant, then of ſenſe, then of reaſon, though all were radically there at firſt; ſo it is in graces; experience tells us that ſome Chriſtians are eminent in ſome graces; and ſome in other graces; ſome have more love, and ſome more knowledg, and ſome more patience, and ſome more ſelf-denial; but all that are true Chriſtians have each of theſe graces in ſome meaſure or other; or at leaſt they have them in habit, though not in the act; if vivification be true, there is a whole work of grace both in heart and life: as the light in the air runs through the whole hemiſphere, ſo the whole work of grace runs through, and is diffuſed through the whole man, ſoul, body, and ſpirit. O my ſoul, this may put thee to thy ſtudy, becauſe of the ſeveral conſtitutions or tempers of graces; thou mayſt find this or that grace, this or that Image of Chriſt clearly ſtampt on thy heart; but thou canſt not find ſuch and ſuch graces; in this caſe fear not, for if in truth and ſincerity thou haſt but one grace, thou haſt the whole chain of graces. But to ſpeak to ſome graces in particular.

2. True vivification is a new life acting upon a Gal.2.20. new principle of Faith. The life which I now live in the fleſh, I live by the Faith of the Son of God. They are the words of a man purſued by the law unto Chriſt; Paul ſeeing he was dead by the law, he ſpeaks for a better husband, the law finds him dead, and leaves him dead, Nevertheleſs I live (ſaith Paul) what means he? a natural life? why ſo? he lived before now; no, no, it is a better life than a natural life; ſuch a life is no contentment to a ſoul purſued by the law; very heathens and infidels have ſuch a life, and in that reſpect are as happy as the beſt of Saints; Paul's life is a ſpiritual life, and the Spring of his life is the Son of God; Jeſus Chriſt is eſſentially, radically, fundamentally life it ſelf, and by his incarnation, paſſion, reſurrection, he is life for his Saints; they live by him, and in him, and for him, and through him; he is the heart and liver of their Spiritual life. But as from the heart and liver there muſt be arteries, and veins for maintenance of life, and conveyance of blood throughout all the body; ſo from Chriſt there muſt be ſome conveyance to bring this to life unto us, and this is by faith; I live by the faith of the Son of God. O my ſoul, doſt thou live this life of faith on the Son of God? canſt thou make uſe of Chriſt in every ſtate, and in every condition? As for inſtance, in thy particular calling, doſt thou look to Chriſt for wiſdom, ſucceſs, bleſſing, ability? doſt thou ſay, if I have ill ſucceſs, I will yet go to Chriſt; it is he that ſet me here, and it is he will enable me; in caſe of proviſion, doſt thou run to Chriſt, and doſt thou hang upon him for all things needful? doſt thou ſay; If I want means, God will create means; he commands all means, and he can ſuddenly do whatſoever he will. In caſe of protection, doſt thou look unto Jeſus to be thy ſhield and protector? doſt thou mind the word of God to A- Gen.15.1
braham, Fear not Abraham, for I am God all-ſufficient, thy buckler and thy exceeding great reward? In caſe of thy Children, goeſt thou to Chriſt, ſaying, Are not my Children, thy Children, and wilt thou not provide for thy own? it is true, thou muſt do what thou canſt, but for the reſt deſpair not; caſt thy burthen upon him, who hath commanded thee in nothing to be care- Phil.4.6. ful, but in all things to make thy ſuits known with prayer and ſupplication; when my Father and Mother forſake me, Pſa.27.10.
God will take me up, ſaith David. He is a Father to the Fatherleſs, he provided for them in the womb, he provided breaſts for them ere they ſaw the Sun, and therefore how ſhould he but have care, and compaſſion over thy Children? in caſe of proſperity, doſt thou ſee Chriſt's love in that ſtate? doſt thou ſet him in the firſt place, receiving all, and joyning in all as coming from him? is this it that makes thy proſperity ſweet, becauſe thou knoweſt and believeſt that thy ſins are pardoned? otherwiſe what is thy ſilver, and gold, ſo long as thy pardon is not ſealed in the blood of Jeſus Chriſt? if a priſoner condemned to dye ſhould abound in all outward plenty, what comfort could he have, ſo long as his pardon were not ſealed? it is the life of faith that ſweetens proſperity; who are better Chriſtians than they, who know they enjoy theſe things with God's favour and bleſſing? faith ſees God's love in all, and ſo is abundantly thankful; faith makes a man to eat, and drink, and ſleep, and to do all in Chriſt; as it coſt Chriſt dear to purchaſe our liberty to the creatures, ſo faith ever ſets Chriſt in the firſt place; it receives all as coming from him, it returns all as to the glory of him: in caſe of diſgrace, doſt thou commit thy credit to Jeſus Chriſt? doſt thou look up to Jeſus, and deſireſt no more good name, repute, or honour than Chriſt will afford thee? or in caſe of death, doſt thou like Stephen reſign up thy ſoul to Chriſt? doſt thou ſee death conquered in the reſurrection of Chriſt? doſt thou look beyond death? doſt thou over-eye all things betwixt thee and glory? O the ſweet of this life of faith on the Son of God! if thou knoweſt what this means, then mayſt thou aſſure thy ſelf of thy vivification.

3. True vivification is a new life acting upon a new principle of hope of glory. Bleſſed be the God 1 Pet.1.
and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which according to 3. 4.
his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again to a lively hope, by the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, that fadeth not away reſerved in heaven for you. By Chriſt's reſurrection we have a lively hope for our reſurrection unto glory; is not Chriſt our head? and if he be riſen to glory, ſhall not his members follow after him? certainly there is but one life, one Spirit, one glory of Chriſt and his members; The glory which thou gaveſt Joh.13.

me, I have given unto them, ſaid Chriſt. The ſoul that is vivified, hath a lively hope of glory on ſeveral grounds. As, 1. Becauſe of the promiſes of Glory ſet down in the word; now on theſe promiſes hope faſtens her Anchor; if Chriſt hath promiſed, how ſhould I but maintain lively hope? 2. Becauſe of the firſt-fruits of the Spirit; there are ſometimes foretaſts of the Glory, drops of Heaven poured into a Soul; whence it comfortably concludes, if I have the earneſt and firſt-fruits, ſurely in his time Jeſus Chriſt will give the Harveſt. 2. Becauſe of Chriſt's Reſurrection unto Glory; now he roſe as a common Perſon, and he went up into Heaven as a common Perſon; whence hope is lively, ſaying, why ſhould I doubt, or diſpair, ſeeing, I am Eph. 2. 5, 6. quickened together with Chriſt, and raiſed up together with Chriſt, and am made to ſit together with Chriſt, in Heavenly places? Try O my ſoul, by this ſign: Art thou lively in the hope of Glory? Doth thy heart leap and rejoyce within at that thought of thy inheritance in Heaven? In a lively Fountain the Waters thereof will leap and ſparkle; ſo if thy hope be lively, thou wilt have living joys, living ſpeeches, living delights; amidſt all thy Afflictions thou wilt ſay, Theſe will not endure for ever; I my ſelf ſhall away ere long, Glory will come at laſt. O the ſweet of this Life of hope! If thou feeleſt theſe ſtirrings, it is an argument of thy Vivification.

4. True Vivification acts all its Duties upon a new Principle of Love to Chriſt; Men not Enlivened by Jeſus Chriſt may do much, and go far in outward ſervice, yea they may come to ſuffering, and yet without Love to Chriſt all is loſt, all comes to nothing. Though I ſpeak with tongues of men and 1 Cor. 13. 1. Ver. 2, 3. Angels, ——— though I have the gift of Propheſie, and underſtand all miſteries, and all knowledg, —— though I beſtow all my goods to feed the poor; and though I give my body to be burnt, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing. All the reſt may be from the fleſh, and for the fleſh, and fleſhly ends; but true Goſpel-Love is from Chriſt, and tends to the Glory of Chriſt: 1 Joh. 4. 7. For Love is of God, and every one that loveth, is born of God, and knoweth God. But how we may know that all our actings are out of Love to Jeſus Chriſt? I anſwer.———

1. If we act by the Rule of Chriſt. If ye love me, keep my commandments.——— He that hath my 1 Joh. 14. 15, 21, 23, 34. Commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me. ——— If any man love me, he will keep my Commandments. He that loves Chriſt, he will look upon every act, every ſervice, every performanc, whether it be according to the Rule of Chriſt, and then on he goes with it.

2. If we act to the honour of Chriſt. We may pray and hear, and preach, and act ſelf more then the honour of Jeſus Chriſt; whiles Chriſt ſhewed Miracles, and fed his followers to the full, they cri-up Jeſus, and none like Jeſus; but when Chriſt was plain with them, Ye ſeek me, not becauſe ye ſaw the miracles, but becauſe ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled; 1 Joh. 6. 26. when he preſſed ſincerity upon them, and preparation ver. 66. for ſufferings, from that time many of his Diſciples went back, and walked no more with him. Its no news for men to fall off when their ends fail; only they that love Chriſt look not at theſe outward things in reſpect of the honour of Jeſus Chriſt; and hence it is that in all their actings they will carry on the deſign of the Father in advancing the honour of the Son, whatever it coſt them. O my Soul, apply this to thy ſelf; if thou liveſt the life of Love, if in all thy actings, duties, ſervices, thou art carried on with a principle of Love to Jeſus Chriſt, it is a ſure ſign of thy Vivification.

For the ſecond queſtion, whether we increaſe and grow in our Vivification? we may diſcover it thus.———

1. We grow, when we are led on to the exerciſe of new Graces; this the Apoſtle calls adding of one Grace unto another: add to your faith vertue, and to vertue knowledg, and to knowledg temperance and to temperance 1 Pet. 1. 5, 6, 7. patience, and to patience Godlineſs, and to Godlineſs brotherly kindneſs, and to brotherly kindneſs charity: At firſt a Chriſtian doth not exerciſe all Graces; tho habitually all Graces may be planted in him, yet the exerciſe of them is not all at once, but by degrees. Thus the Church tells Chriſt, At our gates are all manner of fruits, Cant. 7. 13. new and old, which I have laid up for thee, O my beloved; ſhe had all manner of fruits which ſhe had reſerved for Chriſt; new and old: ſhe had young converts, and more ſetled profeſſors; or ſhe had new and old Graces, as others; ſhe added Grace to Grace, ſhe was led on from the exerciſe of one Grace, unto another new Grace: as wicked men are led on from one ſin unto another; and ſo grow worſe and worſe, ſo Godly men are led from one Grace to another; and ſo they increaſe, knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience Rom. 5. 3, 4. hope.

2. We grow, when we find new degrees of the ſame Grace added; as when love grows more fervent, when knowledg abounds, and hath a larger apprehenſion of ſpiritual things; when faith goes on from mans caſting him ſelf on Chriſt, to find ſweetneſs in Chriſt; and ſo to plerophory, or full aſſurance of Faith: when Godly ſorrow proceeds from mourning for ſin, as contrary to God's holineſs; to mourn for it, is as contrary to him who loves us; which uſually follows after aſſurance; when obedience enlargeth its bounds, and we abound more and more in the work of the Lord. I know thy works (ſaid Chriſt to the Church of Thyatyra) I know thy works, Rev. 2. 6. and the laſt to be more than the firſt.

3. We grow when the fruits and duties we perform grow more ripe, more ſpiritual, and more to the honour of Chriſt: it may be we pray not more, nor longer than ſometime we uſed; it may be our prayers have not more wit, or memory, than ſometimes they had, yet they are more ſavoury, more ſpiritual, and more to Chriſt's honour than ſometimes they were: Now we muſt know that one ſhort Prayer put up in Faith, with a broken heart, and aiming at the honour of Chriſt, argues more of growth in grace, than prayers of a day long, and never ſo eloquent, without the like qualifications. In every duty we ſhould look at their ends, and aims, for if we debaſe our ſelves in the ſenſe of our own vileneſs, and emptineſs, and inability; and if we aim at God's honour, and power, and praiſe, and glory, it is a good ſign of growth; we call this ſpiritual part of duty, when it is from God, and through God, and to God.

4. We grow when we are more rooted in Chriſt: ſo the Apoſtle deſcribes it, a growing up unto him in all things. Eph. 4. 15. This is a Scripture phraſe; growth of grace is uſually expreſſed by the growing into Chriſt, but grow in grace, and in the knowledg of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. 2 Pet 3, 18. As if to grow in grace without him, were nothing, as indeed it is not. Philoſophers, moral men, and others, may grow in vertues, but not in Chriſt. Come then, ſearch, and try whether we are more rooted in Chriſt: when a young plant is new ſet, the roots are a ſmal depth in the earth, one may pull them up with his hands; but as the tree ſhooteth up in height, ſo it ſtrikes the root deeper and deeper downward, that no force can move it; ſo it was with us, we have not for degree ſo firm and near a conjunction with Chriſt at our firſt union; but the more we live with him, like good trees ſpreading in the ſight of all men, and bringing forth the fruits of righteouſneſs, the more we come to root downwards by a more firm faith, and firm confidence. Our union is anſwerable to that which uniteth us; now at the firſt, faith is but weak, like a ſmoaking wick, or poor bruiſed reed; but whiles Faith is drawing the Spirit away from Chriſt, the more it exerciſeth, the more it is ſtrengthened; even as in babes, their powers every day at firſt are feeble; but the more they feed and exerciſe, by ſo much the more they put forth their ſtrength in all their operations: time was, that Peter's faith was ſo weak, that at the voice of a Damoſel, Peter was ſhaken; but by walking a while in Chriſt he was ſo rooted, that neither threatnings, whippings, impriſonment, conventings before great powers, nor any other thing could ſhake him: you may object, If we are not at firſt rooted in Chriſt, a weak faith may be quite overthrown; we may then fall away; true, if we be not rooted in any manner; but this we are at our firſt ſetting into Chriſt by faith; only this I ſpeak of is of an higher degree of rooting, which doth not only ſhut out falling away, but very ſhaking and tottering, in a good meaſure: ſurely this is not the ſtate of every believer; no, no, it is only the condition of ſuch, who have long walked in Chriſt, and are grown in grace, holineſs, vivification.

O my ſoul, try now the growth of vivification by theſe few ſigns; art thou led on to the exerciſes of new graces, adding grace to grace; doſt thou find new degrees of the ſelf ſame grace? is thy love more hot, thy faith more firm? all thy boughs more laden and filled with the fruits of Righteouſneſs? are all thy duties more ſpiritual? are thy ends more raiſed to aim at God, to ſanctify him, and to debaſe thy ſelf? art thou more rooted in Chriſt? in all thy duties, graces and gracious actings, haſt thou learnt habitually to ſay, I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me? doſt thou intereſt Chriſt more and more in all thou doſt? doſt thou know and affect Chriſt more and more? Oh when would an ambitious Courtier be weary of being Graced by his Prince? when would a Worlding be weary of having the World come in upon him? why ſhouldſt thou, O my Soul, be weary of inſinuating thy ſelf by Faith and Affection into Chriſt; come, ſearch, try; it may be little winds have formerly ſhaken thee; but ſo it is, that inſenſibly, and thou knoweſt not how, thy root is ſtruck lower and lower into Chriſt; and now thou art not ſo ſoon ſhaken with every wind; ſurely thy hope is well grounded; thou haſt a part in Chriſt's Reſurrection; it is thine, even thine.

Sect. 5. Of believing in Jeſus in that reſpect.

5. Let us believe in Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his Reſurrection, This is one main Article of our Faith, the third day he roſe again from the dead, and this now I propound as the object of our Faith; O let us believe it, let us believe our part and intereſt in it. And to that purpoſe let us look on Jeſus as a common perſon; whatever conſideration he paſſed under, it was in our ſtead, and in that reſpect we are to reckon our ſelves as ſharers with him. Scrupulous ſouls may object, Is it poſſible that Chriſt ſhould riſe, and that I ſhould riſe with him, and in him? is it poſſible that Chriſt ſhould dye as a common Perſon for my ſins? and that Chriſt ſhould riſe, and by his reſurrection ſhould be juſtified as a common Perſon in my room? O the 1 Tim. 3. 16. Myſtery of this redemption! without Controverſy great is the Myſtery of Godlineſs, which is God manifeſt in the fleſh, ſhould be juſtified in the Spirit: it is a Myſtery beyond my fathoming, that Chriſt, who is God in the fleſh, ſhould be juſtified in the Spirit for my juſtification; that Chriſt ſhould dye in my ſtead as a condemned man, and when he had finiſhed his work, that he ſhould riſe again in my ſtead as righteous Perſon. Theſe paſſages are paſt fathoming, and beyond believing, O what ſhall I do? I find it hard, very hard to believe this point.

Scrupulous ſouls! throw not away your confidence; ought not Chriſt to have ſuffered theſe things, Luke 24. 26. and to enter into his Glory? was not ſatisfaction and Juſtification, payment of debt, and diſcharge of bonds required of him, and of neceſſity for us? O believe, and that I may perſuade to purpoſe, I ſhall lay down, 1. Some directions; and, 2. Some encouragements of faith.

1. For directions of faith in reference to Chriſt's reſurrection, obſerve theſe particulars.

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt.

2. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, as God in the fleſh

3. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, as God in the fleſh made under the Law.

4. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, not only as made under the directive part of the Law by his life, but under the penal part by his death; of all theſe before.

5. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh, made under the directive and penal part of the Law, and as quickned by the Spirit. He was put to death 1 Pet. 3. 18. in the fleſh (ſaith Peter) and quickened by the Spirit. And acordingly muſt be the method, and order of our Faith: after we have looked on Chriſt as dead in the fleſh, we muſt go on to ſee him as quickened by the Spirit; if Chriſt was not raiſed, or quickened (ſaith the Apoſtle) your faith were in vain; q. d. to 1 Cor. 15. 17. believe in Chriſt as only in reſpect of his birth, life, death, and to go no farther, were but a vain Faith; and therefore ſhore up your Faith to this pitch, that Chriſt who dyed, is riſen from the dead: to this purpoſe all the Sermons of the Apoſtles repreſented Chriſt, not only as crucified, but as raiſed: In that firſt Sermon after the miſſion of the holy Ghoſt, ye Acts 2.23 24. have crucified Chriſt (ſaid Peter to the Jews) and then it follows, whom God hath raiſed up, having looſed the Acts 3.15. pains, or chains of death, becauſe it was not poſſible that he ſhould be holden of it. In that next Sermon Peter tells them again, Ye have killed the Prince of Life; and then it follows, whom God hath raiſed from the dead, where of we are witneſſes. In the next Sermon after this, be it known unto you all (ſaid Peter) and to all the People of Iſrael, that by the name of Jeſus Chriſt Act 3. 15. of Nazareth whom ye crucified, and whom God raiſed from the dead —— is this man whole. And in the next Sermon after this, the God of our Fathers raiſed up Jeſus, whom ye ſlew and hanged on a tree. And as Acts 4.10. thus he Preached to the Jews, ſo in his firſt Sermon to the Gentiles he tells them, we are witneſſes of all things which Jeſus did, both in the land of the Jews, and in Jeruſalem, whom they ſlew, and hanged on a tree; him God raiſed up the third day, and ſhewed him openly. Acts 5.30. And as thus Peter preached, ſo in that firſt Sermon of Paul at Antioch, he tells them of the Jews crucifying Jeſus, and then it follows, but God raiſed Acts 10. 39,40. him from the dead. And as concerning that he raiſed Acts 13. 30. him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he ſaid on this wiſe, I will give you the ſure mercies of David, and thou ſhalt not ſuffer thine holy one to ſee corruption. And after this, Paul, as his manner was, Ver. 34. 35. went into the Synagogue at Theſſalonica and three Sabbath days reaſoned with them out of the Scriptures, opening and alledging that Chriſt muſt needs ſuffer and riſe from the dead. This was the way of the Apoſtles preaching; they told them an hiſtory (I ſpeak it with reverence) of one Jeſus Chriſt, that Acts 17. 2, 3. was the word of God, and that was become man, and how he was crucified at Jeruſalem, and how he was raiſed from the dead; and all this in a plain, ſimple, ſpiritual way and manner; and while they were telling thoſe bleſſed truths, the ſpirit fell upon the people, and they believed, and had faith wrought in them. Faith is not wrought ſo much in the way of ratiocination, as by the Spirit of of God, coming upon the ſouls of people by the relation or repreſentation of Jeſus Chriſt to the ſoul. And this our Lord himſelf hints, as Moſes Joh.3. 14. lifted up the Serpent in the wilderneſs, even ſo muſt the Son of man be lifted up, that whoſoever believeth in him ſhould not periſh, but have everlaſting life. When the people were ſtung, God ſo ordered, that the very beholding of the brazen ſerpent ſhould bring help (tho we know not how) to thoſe that were wounded and ſtung by thoſe fiery ſerpents; ſo God hath ordained in his bleſſed wiſdom that the diſcovery of Jeſus Chriſt, as crucified and raiſed, as humbled and exalted, ſhould be a means of faith: come then, ſet we before us, Chriſt raiſed; not only Chriſt crucified, but Chriſt raiſed, is the object of faith; and in that reſpect we muſt look up to Jeſus.

6. Faith is going to Chriſt as raiſed from the dead, or as quickned by the ſpirit, it is principally, and mainly to look to the end, purpoſe, intent, and deſign of Chriſt in his reſurrection; very Devils may believe the Hiſtory of Chriſt's reſurrection, they be- Jam. 2.19. lieve and tremble; but the Saints and people of God are to look at the meaning of Chriſt, why he roſe from the dead; now the ends are either ſupreme, Joh. 17.1. or ſubordinate. 1. The ſupreme end was God's Rom.6.4. Glory, and that was the meaning of Chriſt's Prayer, Father, the hour is come, gloriſie thy Son, that thy Son alſo may gloriſie thee; with which agrees the Apoſtle, he roſe again from the dead to the glory of the Father. 2. The ſubordinate ends were many; As, 1. That he might tread on the Serpents head. 2. That he might deſtroy the works of the Devil. 3. That he might be the firſt fruits of them that ſleep. 4. That he might aſſure our faith that he is the word, and that he is able to keep that which we have commited to him againſt that day. 5. That he might be juſtified in the Spirir; as he was begotten in the womb by the Spirit; led up and down in the Spirit, offered up by the eternal Spirit, ſo he was raiſed from the dead by the Spirit, and juſtified in his Spirit at his reſurrection. Chriſt was under the greateſt attainder that ever man was, he ſtood publickly charged with the guilt of a world of ſins, and if he had not been juſtified by the Spirit, he had ſtill lyen under the blame of all, and had been liable to the execution of all; and therefore he was raiſed up from the power of death, that he might be declared as a righteous perſon. 6. That he might juſtify us in his juſtification; when he was juſtified, all the elect were vertually and really juſtified in him; that act of God which paſt on him, was drawn up in the Name of all his Saints: as whatever benefit or privilege God meant for us, he firſt of all beſtowed it on Chriſt; thus God meaning to ſanctifie us, he ſanctified Chriſt firſt; and God meaning to juſtify us, he juſtifies Chriſt firſt; ſo whatever benefit or privilege he beſtowed on Chriſt, he beſtowed it not on him for himſelf, but as he was a common Perſon, and one repreſenting us. Thus Chriſt was ſanctified Joh. 17. 19. inſtead of us, for their ſakes I ſanctiſy my ſelf, that they alſo might be ſanctified through thy truth: and thus Chriſt was juſtified inſtead of us, for as by the offence of one, judgment came upon all for condemnation, even ſo by the righteouſneſs of one, the free gift came on all men unto juſtification.

7. That he might regenerate us, and beget us a- Rom. 15. 18. new by his reſurrection; bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, which according to his abundant mercy hath begotten us again— by the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead. And this he doth, two ways. 1. As our pattern, platform, idea, or exemplar; like as Chriſt was raiſed from the dead,— even ſo we alſo 1 Pet.1.3. ſhould walk in newneſs of life: and likewiſe reckon ye your ſelves to be alive unto God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. 2. As the efficient thereof, for when we were dead in ſin; he hath quickned us together with Chriſt; and ye are ri- Rom. 6. 13. ſen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who ver. 11. hath raiſed him from the dead. O the power Chriſt's reſurrection in this reſpect! if we ſaw a man raiſed from the dead how ſhould we admire at ſuch a wondrous power; but the raiſing of one dead ſoul is a greater work than to raiſe a Church-yard of dead bodies.

8. That he might ſanctify us, which immediately follows after the other,— but yeild your ſelves unto Eph. 2. 5. God as thoſe that are alive from the dead, and your mem- Col.2. 12. bers as inſtruments of righteouſneſs unto God. In our regeneration we are riſen with Chriſt, it is the Apoſtles argument, if ye then be riſen with Chriſt, ſeek thoſe things Rom. 6. which are above,— ſet your affections on things above, and 13. not on things on the earth. Col.3.1,2. We uſually reckon two parts of Sanctification, viz. Mortification, and Vivification; now as the Death of Chriſt hath the ſpecial influence upon our Mortification, ſo the Reſurrection of Chriſt hath the ſpecial influence on our Vivification, he hath quickned us together with Chriſt, Eph. 2. 5, 6. and hath raiſed us up together with Chriſt.

O my ſoul, Look to this main deſign of Chriſt in his riſing again; and if thou haſt any Faith, O ſet thy Faith on work to draw this down into thy ſoul. But here is a queſtion, how ſhould I manage my Faith? or how ſhould I act my Faith to draw down the vertue of Chriſt's reſurrection for my Vivification? I anſwer.

1. Go to the well head; look into the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt. This one act contains in it theſe particulars; As. 1. That I muſt go out of my ſelf to ſomething elſe; this is that check that lyes upon that work of Grace, to keep out pride, that Faith ſees the whole good of the ſoul in a principle extraneous, even the ſprings of Jeſus. Alas! if this Vivification were in me, or in my power, what ſwellings and excreſcencies of pride ſhould I quickly nouriſh? God therefore hath placed it in another, that I may be kept low, and that I may go out of my ſelf to ſeek it where it is. 2. That I muſt attribute wholly, freely, joyfully, all that I am, to Jeſus Chriſt, and to the effectual working of his Grace. I live, Gal.2. 20. 1 Cor.15. 10. yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me. And by the grace of God I am what I am; and I laboured more abundantly than they all, yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me. The life of grace ſprings only from the life and reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore as I muſt deny my ſelf, ſo I muſt attribute all to him from whom it comes. 3. I muſt lye at his feet with an humble expectation of, and dependency upon him, and him alone for the ſupplies of grace; this was the Apoſtles practice: O that I may be found in him! O that I may know him, and the power of his reſurrection? O that by any means I might obtain unto the reſurrection of the dead! he lay at Chriſt's feet with an humble expectation to feel the Power of Chriſt's reſurrection, in raiſing him firſt from the death of ſin to the life of grace, and after from the death of nature to the life of glory.

Lay to theſe ſprings thy mouth of Faith; it is not enough to have all the treaſuries of grace, all the actings of Chriſt for thee, laid before thee, but thou muſt act thy faith upon that object; O then go to Chriſt's reſurrection and believe, make a particular application of thoſe glorious effects of Chriſt's reſurrection upon thy ſoul. Lord ſay, thou dyeſt that I might die to ſin, and thou waſt raiſed from the death, that I might be raiſed to newneſs of life. Come Lord, and quicken my dying ſparks, give me to lay hold on Chriſt's reſurrection, give me to adhere to it, and to reſt upon it, and to cloſe with it; I ſee without faith I am ne're a whit the better for Chriſt's reſurrection; and thy Pſal. 81. 10. commands are upon me; open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it: why Lord, I believe, help thou mine unbelief. Mar.9.24. This faith is neceſſary to our Vivification as well as Chriſt. Chriſt is the fountain of life, but faith is the means of life; the power and original of life is intirely reſerved to Jeſus Chriſt, but Faith is the radical band on our part, whereby we are tyed unto Chriſt, and live in Chriſt; and thus ſaith Chriſt himſelf, Joh. 11. 25. I am the reſurrection and the life. Is that all? no, he that believeth in me, tho' he were dead, yet ſhall live. And Joh.6.35. Iſa.66.11. I am the bread of life. Is that all? no, he that cometh to me ſhall never hunger, and he that believeth in me ſhall never thirſt.

3. Suck and be ſatisfied, milk out and be delighted. Chriſt's reſurrection is a breaſt of conſolation; there is in it abundance of life and glory, and therefore we ſhould not believe a little, but much; the word ſuck is as much as to exact on Chriſt; draw hard from Chriſt; the more we exerciſe Faith, the more we have of Jeſus Chriſt and of Vivification; there is a depth in Chriſt's reſurrection that can never be fathomed; when the ſoul hath as much as its narrow hand can graſp, whole Chriſt is too big to be encloſed in mortal arms; only the longer our arm of Faith is, the more we ſhall graſp of him; and therefore ſuck, and pull, and draw hard. And to this purpoſe—

1. Pray for an increaſe of faith, complain to Chriſt of the ſhortneſs of thy arm, tell him thou canſt not believe as thou wouldſt, thou canſt not get in ſo much of Chriſt into thy ſoul as thou deſireſt, thy Vivification is very poor and ſmall; Oh when Chriſt hears a ſoul complain of dwarfiſhneſs in faith and grace, then is he ready to let out of his fulneſs even grace for grace.

2. Act thy faith vigorouſly on Chriſt's reſurrection for a farther degree of quickning, activity, and lively ability of grace. Chriſt is an everflowing fountain, and he would have believers to partake abundantly of what is in him; he cannot abide that any ſhould content themſelves with a preſent ſtock of grace; Chriſt is not as a ſtream that fails, or as a channel that runs dry; Chriſt is not as water in a ditch, which hath no living ſpring to feed it; no, no; Chriſt is the fountain of life, he is the cheif ordinance of life that ever God ſet up. I know there are other means of Chriſt's appointment, but if thou wilt live at the ſpring, and drink in there, yea drink abundantly according to the overflowing of this fountain, O the life, the growth of life that would come in; Oh the virtue of Chriſt's reſurrection that (Chriſt's Spirit meeting and aſſiſting) would flow into thy ſoul for thy Vivification.

Thus for directions; now for the encouragements of our Faith to believe in Chriſt's reſurrection.

1. Conſider the excellency of this object. A ſight of Chriſt in his beauty and glory would raviſh ſouls, and draw them to run after him: the wiſe Merchant would not buy the pearl, till he knew it to be of excellent price, great things are eagerly ſought for; Chriſt raiſed, Chriſt glorified, is an excellent object: O who would not ſell all to buy this pearl? who would not believe?

2. Conſider of the power, vertue, and influence of this object into all that golden chain of privileges; 1 Cor.15. 17,18. if Chriſt be not raiſed, you are yet in your ſins; then they alſo which are fallen aſleep in Chriſt are periſhed. From the Reſurrection of Chriſt flows all thoſe privileges, even from juſtification to ſalvation. The firſt is clear, and therefore all the reſt.

3. Conſider that Chriſt's reſurrection and the effects of it are nothing unto us, if we do not believe: it is Faith that brings down the particular ſweetneſs and comforts of Chriſt's reſurrection unto our ſouls it is Faith that puts us in the actual poſſeſſion of Chriſt's reſurrection; whatſoever Chriſt is to us before faith, yet really we have no benefit by it until we believe it; it is Faith that takes hold of all that Chriſt hath done for us; and gives us the actual enjoyment of it; oh let not the work ſtick in us! what, is Chriſt riſen from the dead? and ſhall we not eye this Chriſt, and take him home to our ſelves by faith? the Apoſtle tells us that he that believed not, hath made God a lyar, becauſe he believeth not the record that God hath given of his Son: 1 John 5. 10. Unbelief be-lyes God in all that he hath done for us. O take heed of this; without faith, what are we better for Chriſt's reſurrection.

4. Conſider of the tenders, offers, apparitions that Chriſt raiſed makes of himſelf to our ſouls? when firſt he aroſe (to confirm the faith of his Diſciples) he offers himſelf and appears to Mary Magdalen, to the Joh.29.31 other woman, Peter, Thomas, and all the reſt; and all thoſe apparitions were on this account that they might believe, theſe things are written that ye might believe In like manner Chriſt at this day offers himſelf in the Goſpel of grace; and by his Spirit he appears to ſouls. Methinks we ſhould not hear a Sermon of Chriſt's reſurrection, but we ſhould imagine as if we ſaw him, whoſe head and hairs are white like wooll, as white Rev.1.14, 15. as ſnow, whoſe eyes are as a flame of fire; whoſe feet are like unto fine braſs, as if they burned in a furnace; whoſe voice is as the ſound of many waters. Or if we are dazled with his glory, methinks at leaſt we ſhould hear his voice, as if he ſaid, fear not, I am the firſt and laſt, I am he that liveth, and was dead; and behold I am alive for evermore. Amen. q. d. Come, caſt your ſouls on me; Ver. 17. 18. it is I that have conquered ſin, death, and hell for you: it is I that have broke the ſerpents head, that have took away the ſting of death, that have cancelled the bond of the hand-writing againſt you, that have in my hands a general acquitance and pardon of your ſins: come, take it, take me, and take all with me: ſee your names written in the acquitance, that I tender; take out the copy of it in your own hearts; only believe in him who is riſen again for your juſtification.--O my ſoul what ſayſt thou to this ſtill ſweet voice of Chriſt? ſhall he who is the Saviour of men, and glory of Angels deſire thee to believe, and wilt thou not ſay Amen to it? Oh how ſhould I blame thee for thy unbelief? what aſperſions doth it caſt on Chriſt? he hath done all things well, he hath ſatisfied wrath, fulfilled the Law; and God hath acquitted him, pronounced him juſt: Faith is contented, he can deſire no more; but thou ſayeſt by unbelief that Chriſt hath done nothing at all, unbelief profeſſeth that Chriſt is not dead, or at leaſt not riſen from the dead; unbelief profeſſeth that juſtice is not ſatisfied, that no juſtification is procured, that the wrath of God is now as open to deſtroy us as ever it was. Oh that Chriſt ſhould be crucified again in our hearts by our unbelief; come, take Chriſt upon his tenders and offers, embrace him with both Arms.

Sect. 6. Of Loving Jeſus in that reſpect.

6. LEt us love Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his reſurrection; ſurely if we hope in Chriſt, and believe in Chriſt, we cannot but love Chriſt; if Chriſt's reſurrection be our juſtification, and ſo the ground both of our hope and faith, how ſhould we but love him, who hath done ſuch great things for us? ſhe that hath much forgiven her, loved much; and if by vertue of Chriſt's reſurrection we are juſtified from all our ſins, how ſhould we but love him much? but that I may let down ſome cords of love, whereby to draw our loves to Chriſt in this reſpect, let us conſider thus.--

Love is a motion of the appetite, by which the mind unites it ſelf to that which ſeems good to it.

You may object that Chriſt is abſent, how then ſhould our ſouls be united to him? but if we conſider that objects, tho abſent, may be united to the powers by their ſpecies and images, as well as by their true beings, we may then be ſaid truely to Love Chriſt as raiſed, tho he be abſent from us; come then, ſtir up thy appetite, bring into thy imagination the Idea of Chriſt as in his reſurrection; preſent him to thy affection of Love, in that very form wherein he appeared to his Diſciples; as gazing upon the duſty beauty of fleſh, kindleth the fire of carnal love; ſo this gazing on Chriſt, and on the paſſages of Chriſt in his reſurrection, will kindle this ſpritual love in thy ſoul: Draw near then, and behold him; Is he not white and ruddy, the chiefeſt among ten Can.5.10, 11,12,13. thouſand? is not his head as the moſt fine gold? are not his locks buſhy, And black as a raven? are not his eyes as the eyes of doves by the rivers of water, waſhed with milk, and filthy ſet? are not his cheeks as a bed of ſpices, as ſweet flowers? thus I might go on from top to toe? but that thou mayeſt not only ſee his glory and beauty wherein he aroſe, but that thou mayeſt hear his voice; doth he not call on thee, as ſometimes he did on Mary, on Thomas, on Peter, or on the twelve? As the Angel ſaid to the woman, remember how he ſpake, when he was yet in Galilee: ſo ſay I to Luke 24. thee, remember how he ſpake while he was on earth; ſurely his lips like lillies dropped ſweet ſmelling myrrhe As thus.——

1. In his apparition to Mary, Jeſus ſaith unto her, woman, why weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt thou, were John. 20. 15. not theſe kind words from Jeſus Chriſt? how often hath thy heart ſobbed and ſighed out complaints, O where is he whom my ſoul loveth? I charge you O daughters of Jeruſalem, if ye find my beloved, that ye tell him I am ſick of love? And then was not Chriſt ſeen in the mount? was not thy extremity his opportunity to do the good? did not he beſpeak thy comforts with theſe words, Sweet ſoul, why weepeſt thou? whom ſeekeſt Cant.5.8 thou? what wouldſt thou have that I can give thee? And what doſt thou want that I can give thee? If any thing in heaven or earth will make thee happy, it is all thy own; wouldſt thou have pardon? Thou ſhalt have it, I freely forgive thee all the debt; wouldſt thou have my ſelf? Why, behold I am thine, thy friend, thy Lord, thy husband, thy head, thy God. Were not theſe thy Lord's reviving words? were not theſe melting, healing, raviſhing, quickening, paſſages of Chriſt his love?

John 20. 19 2. In his Apparition to the ten, Jeſus ſtood in the midſt, and ſaith unto them, peace be unto you. Lo here more words of Love: in the midſt of their trouble Chriſt ſtands in the midſt, ſpeaking peace to their ſoul; and hath not Chriſt done the like to thee? haſt thou not many and many a time been lapt into troubles, that thou knoweſt not which way to turn thee? haſt thou not felt the contradictions of men, railings of Rabſhecka's? and haſt thou not ſometimes ſhut the doors upon thee for fear of ſuch Jews? and then even then, hath not Chriſt come to thy ſpirit with an Olive-branch of peace? ſaying to thy reſtleſs ſoul, peace, and be Still? hath he not wrought wonders in the Sea of thy reſtleſs thoughts? hath he not made a calm; and more than ſo, hath he not filled thee with joy and peace in believing? hath he not ſent thee away from thy Prayers and complaints, with a piece of Heaven in thy Soul? ſo that thou was forced to conclude.

In his Apparition to the Eleven, Jeſus ſaith to John 20. 27. Thomas reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand and thruſt it into my ſide, and be not faithleſs, but believing. O ſweet condeſcending words! how far? how low would Jeſus ſtoop to take up ſouls? and O my ſoul, are not theſe the very dealing of Chriſt towards thee? he that called Thomas to come near, hark how he calls to thee, Come near poor, trembling, wavering, wandering ſoul; come view the Lord thy Saviour, and be not faithleſs, but believing; peace be unto thee, fear not, it is I. He that called on them who paſſed by, to behold his ſorrow in the day of his humiliation, doth now call on thee to behold his glory in the day of his exaltation; look well upon him, doſt thou not know him? why, his hands were pierced, his head was pierced, his ſide was pierced, his heart was pierced, with the ſtings of thy ſins, and theſe marks, he retains even after his reſurrection, that by theſe marks thou mighteſt always know him; is not the paſſage to his heart yet ſtanding open? if thou knoweſt him not by the face, the voice, the hands; if thou knoweſt him not by the tears, and bloody ſweat yet look nearer, thou mayſt know him by the heart; that broken healed heart is his, that dead revived heart is his, that ſoul-pitying melting heart is his; doubtleſs it can be none but his, love are its certain ſignatures. And is not here yet fewel enough for love to feed upon? doth not this heart of Chriſt even ſnatch thy heart, and almoſt draw it forth of thy breaſt? canſt thou read the hiſtory of love any further at once? doth not thy throbbing heart here ſtop to eaſe it ſelf? if not, go on; for the field of love is large.

4. In this Apparition to the ſeven, Jeſus ſaith to Simon Peter, Son of Jonas, loveſt thou me more than John 21.7 15,16,1. theſe-- And he ſaid to him the ſecond time, Simon, Son of Jonas loveſt thou me?--he ſaid to him the third time, Simon Son of Jonas loveſt thou me? Oh the loves of Chriſt in drawing out man's love unto himſelf! how often O my ſoul, hath Chriſt come to thy door, and knocked there for entrance? how often hath he ſued for Love, and begged Love, and asked thee again and, again. Ah ſoul, doſt thou love me, more than theſe? come tell me, doſt thou love me, love me, love me; come, wilt thou take me for thy Lord? wilt thou delight in me as thy Treaſure, thy happyneſs, thy all? O fye! ſhall Chriſt raiſed, a glorious Chriſt thus wooe, and ſue, and call, and wilt thou not anſwer as Peter did, Yea Lord, thou knoweſt that I love thee—Yea Lord thou knoweſt all things, thou knoweſt that I love thee. Nay, art thou not grieved that Chriſt ſhould ask the third time for thy love? art thou not aſhamed out of thy ſtupidity, and forc'd to ſay, O my bleſſed Lord I have been to proud, too peeviſh, but thy free grace, and undeſerved love, hath beaten me out of all my pride, ſo that now I fall down at thy foot-ſtool, and lay my ſelf flat before thee; at firſt I wondered to hear preachers to talk ſo much of Chriſt, and I was to ask thy friends, what was their beloved more than another beloved? but now I wonder that I could be ſo long without thee; truely Lord, I am thine, only thine, ever thine, all that I am is at thy command, and all I have is at thy diſpoſing, be pleaſed to command both it, and me?

I might thus go on to conſider other paſſages in other Apparitions; but are not theſe enough to draw thy love? Oh what love was this! Oh what humility was this? that Chriſt after his reſurrection ſhould converſe with men during the ſpace of forty days; worthy he was after ſo many ſorrows, ſufferings, reproaches, after ſo cruel, ignominious, and bitter a death, immediately to have rid his triumph to glory; And for the confirmation of his Diſciples faith, he might have commanded the Angels to have Preached his reſurrection; oh, no, he himſelf would ſtay in perſon, he himſelf would make it out by many infallible, proofs that he was riſen again; he himſelf would by his own example learn us a leſſon of love, of meekneſs, and patience, in waiting after ſuffering for the reward.

Methinks a few of theſe paſſages ſhould ſet all our Col.3.1,2 hearts on a flame of Love; we love earth, and earthly things; we dig into the veins of the earth for thick clay; but if Chriſt be riſen ſet your affections on things above; and no things on the earth. Oh if the love of Chirſt were in us, as the love of the world is in baſe worldlings, it would make us wholly to diſpiſe this world it would make us to forget it, as worldly love makes a man to forget his God; Nay it would be ſo ſtrong and ardent, ad rooted in our Souls, that we ſhould not be able voluntarily and freely to think on any thing elſe but Jeſus Chriſt; we ſhould not then fear contempt, or care for diſgrace, or the reproaches of men; we ſhould not then fear Death, or the Grave, 1 Cor.1 55,57. or Hell, or Devils, but we ſhould ſing in triumph, O Death, where is thy ſting? O grave, where is thy victory?- now thanks be to God which gived us victory through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

Sect. 7. Of joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. LEt us joy in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us in his reſurrection. This is the great Goſpel-duty, we ſhould rejoyce Phil.4.4. in the Lord, and again rejoyce; yea, rejoyce evermore. A 1 Theſ. 5. 16. Chriſtian eſtate ſhould be a joyful and comforable eſtate, and have ſuch cauſe of joy as the children of Zach. 3. 14. Zion, Sing O daughter of Zion, ſhout, O Jeruſalem, be glad and rejoyce with all thy heart, O daughter of Jeruſalem. And why ſo? a thouſand reaſons might be rendred; but here is one, a prime one, Chriſt is riſen from the dead, aud become the firſt-fruits of them 1 Cor.15 20. that ſleep. A commemoration of Chriſt's Reſurrection hath ever been a means of rejoycing in God.

Some may object. What is Chriſt's Reſurrection to me? indeed if thou haſt no part in Chriſt, the Reſurrection of Chriſt is nothing at all to thee; but if Chriſt be thine, then art thou riſen with him, and in him; then all he did was in thy name, and for thy ſake.

Others may object, Suppoſing Chriſt's Reſurection mine, what am I better? how? do not all the priviledges of Chriſt flow from the power and virtue of his Reſurrection, as well as Death? tell me what is thy ſtate? what poſſible can be the condition of thy Soul, wherein thou mayeſt not draw ſweet from Chriſt's Reſurrection? As ———

1. Is thy conſcience in trouble for ſin? the Apoſtle tells thee, the anſwer of a good conſcience towards God 1 Pet.3. 21. is by the Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead.

2. Art thou afraid of condemnation? the Apoſtle tells thee he was delivered for our offences, and he was Rom.4. 25. raiſed again for our juſtification.

3. Doſt thou queſtion thy regeneration? the Apoſtle tells thee he hath begotten us again by the reſur- 1 Pet.13. rection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead.

4. Art thou diſtreſſed, perſecuted, troubled on every ſide? the Apoſtle tells thee wherein now conſiſts thy confidence, comfort, courage; to wit, in the life of Chriſt in the Reſurrection of Chriſt. We always bear about in the body the dying of the Lord Jeſus, 2 Cor.4. 10.11. that the life of Jeſus might alſo be made manifeſt in our body; for we which live are always delivered unto death for Jeſus ſake, that the life alſo of Jeſus might be made manifeſt in our mortal fleſh. And thus Beza interprets thoſe following words, knowing that he which raiſed up the Lord Jeſus, ſhall raiſe us up alſo by Jeſus; (i. e.) unto a civil Reſurrection from our troubles; Paul was impriſoned, and in part Martyred, but by the Virtue of Chriſt's Reſurrection he foreſaw his enlargement. And this Interpretation Beza grounds on the the word following, amd foregoing, wherein Paul compares his Perſecutions to a Death, and his Preſervation from them to a Life; as he had done before alſo, chap. 1. v. 9. 10.

5. Art thou afraid of falling off, or of falling away why, remember, that the immutable force and perpetuity of the new covenant is ſecured by the Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt. I will make an everlaſting covenant with you, even the ſure mercies of David: this Iſa. 55.3. the Apoſtle applies to the Reſurrection of Chriſt; as the bottoming of that ſure covenant, and as concerning that he raiſed him up from the dead, he ſaid on Acts 13. 34. this wiſe, I will give you the ſure mercies of David.

6. Art thou afraid of Death, Hell and the power of the Grave? why, now remember that Chriſt is Riſen from the Dead, and by his Reſurrection Death is ſwallowed up in Victory; ſo that now thou mayeſt ſing, O death where is thy ſting? O grave 1 Cor.15. 55.57. where is thy victory? now thanks be to God which hath Iſa,26.19. given us victory through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. It is the voice of Chriſt, thy dead men ſhall live together, with my dead body ſhall they riſe; awake and ſing ye that dwell in the duſt, for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth ſhall caſt out the dead: David was ſo lifted up with this Reſurrection, that he crys it out, there- Pſal.16.9, 10. fore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoyceth, my fleſh alſo ſhall reſt in hope; for thou wilt not leave my ſoul in hell, neither wilt thou ſuffer thy holy one to ſee corruption. But eſpecially Job was ſo exceedingly tranſported with Job 19.23, 24,25,26, 27. this, that he braeks out into theſe extaſies, O that my words were now written, O that they were printed in a book! that they were graven with an iron pen and lead, in the rock for ever! for I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he ſhall ſtand at the latter day upon the earth; and tho after my skin worms ſhall deſtroy this body, yet in my fleſh ſhall I ſee God whom I ſhall ſee for my ſelf, and mine eyes ſhall behold, and not another, tho my reins be conſumed within me. No man ever ſince Chriſt did ſpeak more clearly of Chriſt's Reſurrection and his Own, than Job did here before Chriſt. Obſerve in it, O my ſoul, Job's wiſh, and the matter wiſhed: his wiſh was That certain words which had been cordial to him, might remain to memory; and this wiſh hath three wiſhes in one. 1. That they might be written. 2. That they might be regiſtred in a book; enrolled upon records as publick inſtruments, judicial proceeding, or whatſoever is moſt authentical. 3. That they might be engraven in ſtone, and in the hardeſt ſtone, the rock; records might laſt long, yet time might injure them, and theſe words he ſholud have laſt for ever; O that they were graven in the rock for ever! Moſes and Job are ſaid to have lived at one time; now Moſes writ the Law in ſtone, and conſidering that theſe words were Goſpel, there was no reaſon the Law ſhould be in tables of ſtone, and the Goſpel in ſheets of paper; no no; it were fit that this ſhould be as firm and durable as that; Oh that my words were written, Oh that they were printed in a book, &c.

2. The matter wiſhed, or the words he would have written, are theſe, I know that my Redeemer liveth, and that I ſhall live again. Here's firſt his Redeemer and his Riſing. 2. His own riſing and his ſeeing God. O this was the matter of his joy, his Redeemer muſt Riſe again; and he muſt riſe too, and ſee his Redeemer; it was a point that exceedingly raviſhed and revived Job, and therefore he iterates the ſame thing over and over, I ſhall ſee God Job 8.56. and I ſhall ſee him for my ſelf, and I ſhall ſee him with my eyes, and not with others. As Chriſt ſaid of Abraham, Your father Abraham rejoyced to ſee my day, and he ſaw it and was glad. So it appears of his Servant Job, he ſaw Chriſt's day; both his firſt day, and his latter day, and he rejoyced and was glad.

Away away, all ſcrupulous doubtful, dompiſh thoughts? conſider what joys were of old, at the Greg hom. in paſca. foreſight of Chriſt's Reſurrection; but eſpecially Job 20.40. what joy was all the World over when he roſe again from the Dead; then came the Angels from Luk.24.21 Apoſtoli dei dominico exhilirati, non ſolum ipſum feſtiviſſimam eſſe voluerunt, verum etiam per omnes hebdomadas frequentandum eſſe duxerunt Juno cent. 1 Epiſt. ad. Decent. 11.4.

Heaven, and appeared in white; then the Sun danced for joy, (ſo it is ſtoried) or ſhone ſooner, brighter than ever it did before; then I am ſure the Diſciples were exceeding glad, when they ſaw the Lord: yea ſo glad that they believed not for joy: it is worth our obſerving, to ſee how all the Primitive Saints were effected with this news; and becauſe of it with the very day on which Chriſt aroſe, ſome call it, The firſt day of joy and gladneſs; and becauſe of the joy occaſioned on this day, the Apoſtle (ſay they) devoted the firſt day of the week to the honour and ſervice of Jeſus Chriſt. Auguſtine applies the words of the Pſalmiſt unto this day, This is the day which the Lord hath made, let us be glad, and rejoyce in it, Pſal. 1, 18. 24. Ignatius, who lived in the Apoſtles age, and was John's Diſciple, calls it the Queen, the Princeſs, the Lady Paramount among the other weekly days. Chryſoſtom calls it a Royal day, and Gregory Nazianzen Orat. 42. ſaith, it is higher than the higheſt, and with admiration, wonderful above other days. Certainly the Lord's day was in high eſteem with the ancient Church, and the principal motive was becauſe of Chriſt's Reſurrection from the Dead. O that on theſe days we could rejoyce in the Lord, and again rejoyce! it is obſerved, that, Many Chriſtians look upon broken-heartedneſs, and much grieving and weeping for ſin, as if it were the great thing that God delighteth in, and requireth of them; and therefore they bend all their endeavours that way, they are ſtill ſtriving with their hearts to break them, more, and they think no Sermon, no Prayer, no Meditation, ſpeeds ſo well with them as that which can help them to grieve or weep; but O Chriſtians underſtand, and conſider, (ſaith my Author) that all your ſorrow are but preparatives for your joys, and that it is an higher and ſweeter work that God calls you to, and would have you ſpend your time and ſtrength in. Delight thy ſelf in the Lord, and he ſhall give thee the deſires of thine heart——Never take your hearts to be right, till they be delighting themſelves in their God: when you kneel down in Prayer, labour ſo to conceive of God, and beſpeak him, that he may be your delight? do ſo in hearing, and reading, and meditating, and in your feaſting on the fleſh and blood of Jeſus Chriſt at his Supper. Eſpecially improve the happy opportunity of the Lord's day, wherein you may wholly devote your ſelves unto this work. O ſpend more of this day in ſpiritual rejoycing, eſpecially in commemoration of Chriſt's Reſurrection (yea and of the whole work of Redemption) or elſe you will not anſwer the inſtitution of the Lord.

Pſal. 37.4.

Sect. 8. Of Calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. Let us call on Jeſus; that is to ſay——

1. Let us pray that Chriſt's Reſurrection may be ours, and that we may be more and more aſſured of it. Let us ſay with the Apoſtle, O that I may know him, and the power of his Reſurrection; O that I may find the working of that power in my Soul, which was ſhewed in the Reſurrection of Chriſt from the dead; O that the Spirit of Holineſs, which quickned Chriſt from the dead, would by the ſame glorious power beget holineſs, and faith, and love, and all other graces in my poor Soul. O that Chriſt would by his Reſurrection apply his active and paſſive obedience to me; O that he would be to me the Lord of the Living, and the Prince of Life, that he would overcome in me the death of ſin, and that he would regenerate, quicken, renew, and faſhion me by the power of Godlineſs to become like himſelf, O that all the vertue, power, privileges, and influences of Chriſt's Reſurrection might be conferred on me, and that I might feel them working in me every day more and more.

Phil. 3.10.

2. Let us praiſe God for Chriſt's reſurrection, and for all the privileges flowing from Chriſt's Reſurrection into our Souls. Bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who hath begotten us again by the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead. Chriſt is riſen, by his Reſurrection he hath juſtified, ſanctified, quickened ſaved our Souls; and therefore Bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; ſurely God requires a thouſand thouſand Hallelujahs and that we ſhould bleſs him upon a thouſand-ſtringed inſtrument: here is fewel enough, the Lord kindle a great fire in every one of our hearts, to burn out all our luſts, and to enflame all our hearts with a love to Jeſus Chriſt. Can we ever too much praiſe him for all his actings in our behalf? are not all God's creatures called upon to rejoyce with us, and to bleſs God for his redeeming of us? Sing O ye heavens, for the Lord hath done it, ſhout ye lower part of the earth, break forth into ſinging ye mountains, O forreſt, and every tree therein, for the Lord hath redeemed Jacob, and glorified himſelf in Iſrael. This is the duty we ſhall do in Heaven, and I believe we are never more in Heaven (whiles on earth) than when we are in this exerciſe of praiſing God, and bleſſing God for Jeſus Chriſt. Come, let us praiſe God for Chriſt, and eſpecially on this day, called therefore the Lord's day, becauſe of the Reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt: it is the deſign of God, to Glorify Chriſt redeeming us, as much, or more than he glorified himſelf creating us; and therefore he purpoſely unhinged the Sabbath from the laſt day to the firſt day of the week, that it might be ſpent as a weakly day of praiſe and thankſgiving for the more glorious work of our redemption: that love might not only be equally admired with power, but even go before it. It is the advice of a Godly Divine, that we ſhould improve the happy opportunity of the Lord's day wholly to devote our ſelves to his work. And he adviſeth Miniſters and others, that They ſpend more of thoſe days in praiſe and thankſgiving, and be briefer in their confeſſions lamentations;—that they would make it the main buſineſs of their ſolemn aſſemblies on thoſe days to ſound forth the high praiſes of their Redeemer, and to begin here the praiſes of God and the Lamb, which they muſt perfect in heaven for ever,——That they would ſpend a greater part of thoſe days in Pſalms, and ſolemn Praiſes to their Redeemer,——And that ſome Hymns and Pſalms might be invented as fit for the ſtate of the Goſpel-Church, and worſhip, to laud the Redeemer come in the fleſh, as expreſly as the work of grace is now expreſſed. O that theſe directions were put in practice? O that our Churches, and Families, would make our ſtreets to reſound with the Eccho's of our praiſes! O that this were the burthen of each duty on theſe days. Now bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, by the reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt from the dead.

Baxter's method of Peace and comfort.

Sect. 9. Of Conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

6. Let us conform to Jeſus in that reſpect of his Reſurrection.——

In this particular I ſhall examine theſe Queries. 1. Where we muſt conform? 2. How this conformity is wrought? 3. What are the means of this conformity as on our parts?

For the firſt, wherein we muſt conform? I anſwer in a word, in our Vivification. There is a reſemblance of our Vivification to Chriſt's Reſurrection; and if we would know wherein the Analogy, or reſemblance of our Vivification to Chriſt's Reſurrection doth more eſpecially conſiſt; the Apoſtle's anſwer is very expreſs, Like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in newneſs of life. Chriſt's Reſurrection was was to newneſs of life; it was a new life, a life different from that which he lived before, and ſo is our Vivification a new life; it is a life of a new principle; of new actings, of a new ſtate, of a new relation, of a new income, and of a new kind, or manner.

1. It is a life of new principle; before Vivification our principle was the fleſh, or world, or devil; Eph. 2. 2. In time paſt ye walked according to the courſe of this world, according to the Prince of the power of the air, the ſpirit that now worketh in the children of diſobedience; but now we have a new principle, a Spirit of holineſs, or ſanctification, the Spirit of God; even the ſame ſpirit which dwelt in the humane nature of Chriſt, and raiſed him; Rom. 8. 11. If the Spirit of him that raiſed up Jeſus from the dead dwell in you; it is an in-dwelling Spirit; even as the ſoul dwells in the body, ſo doth the holy Ghoſt dwell in the ſoul of a regenerate perſon, animating, and actuating, and enlivening it. This is the new principle that God puts in us after Vivification:

2. It is a life of new actings. According to our principle, ſo be our actings; They that are after the Rom. 8.5. fleſh do mind the things of the fleſh; but they that are of the Spirit, the things of the Spirit. If ſome men hear of a good bargain, they mind it, they find their ſouls going on with much activity, there is ſomething in them proportionable to that which is propounded; but if they hear of Divine Love, and of the riches of Grace, they find their Souls flat, unmoveable, and dead, they mind no ſuch things; now on the other ſide, they that are Vivified, according to their principle, they put forth their power more or leſs; if Pſal. 37.4. they hear of the glorious things of the Goſpel, they find inward workings (unleſs it be under a temptation) they find their Souls drawn out to cloſe with the goodneſs of the thing propounded: They mind the things of the Spirit, (i. e,) they muſe, and meditate, and think on theſe things; they affect them, and love them, and like them, they care for them, and ſeek after them with might and main; they live in Gal. 5.26. Rom. 8.1; 14. Rom. 7.6. the Spirit, they walk in the Spirit, they are led by the Spirit, they ſerve in newneſs of the Spirit. How might we try our Vivification even by theſe actings of our principle within? what? do we mind the things of the Spirit? do we find things Heavenly and ſavoury, and beſt pleaſing to us? is the Sabbath our delight? do we rejoyce in it when it is come? do Iſa. 58.13. we conſecrate it as glorious to the Lord? do we come to the exerciſes of Religion, whether publick or private, with much delight, and with chearfulneſs, as to a Feaſt? what is this but the Life of God? but if theſe things be harſh and unpleaſant, if the Sabbath be a burthen, if holy exerciſe be irkſome and Pſal. 41. tedious, if in attending on the Word we are heavy and drowſy, and we find no reliſh, no ſweet, no ſavour in the Ointments of Chriſt, no goings out of the Soul with an activity to the things propounded, O then deceive not our ſelves we have no good evidence of our Vivification.

3. It is a life of a new ſtate: before Vivification we are in an unjuſtified eſtate; ſins are unpardoned we are unreconciled; 1 Cor. 6. 11. And ſuch were ſome of you (ſaid the Apoſtle to his Corinthians) but now ye are waſhed, now ye are ſanctified, now ye are juſtified in the Name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and by the Spirit of our God. This juſtification denotes a ſtate, and is univerſal and unalterable, I know Arminians deny ſuch a ſtate; for as by their Doctrine no man can be abſolutely Elected till he die, ſo neither abſolutely juſtified; for (ſay they) he may fall into ſuch ſins, as that th' formerly juſtified, yet now he may be condemned; yea, to day he may be juſtified, and to morrow thrown out of that eſtate. But again this we hold, that thoſe that are once juſtified, are never again caſt out of God's favour. As Chriſt once died, but roſe again never to die more, death hath no more power over him; ſo a juſtified man once allyed to God through Jeſus Chriſt, doth from that time forward as neceſſarily live, as Chriſt himſelf by whom he doth live; there is an immortal and indiſſoluble union betwixt Chriſt the Head, and every Believer; our juſtification depends not on our own ſtrength, but it is built on Chriſt himſelf, who is the ſame yeſterday, and to day, and for ever; and hence it is that a juſtified man can no more ceaſe to live in this ſtate of juſtification, than Chriſt can ceaſe to live in Heaven.

4. It is a life of new relations: this immediately follows our ſtate: if once we are juſtified, then we are related to God, and Chriſt, and to the Covenant of Grace. 1. To God Before we were Vivified, God and we ſtood at a diſtance, God was our enemy, and we were his enemies; At that time (ſaith the Apoſtle) ye were without God in the world; but Eph. 2 13. now in Chriſt Jeſus ye who ſometimes were afar off, are made near by the blood of Chriſt. God that was a ſtranger, ſtands now in near relation, he is a Friend, a Father, a God All-ſufficient to us. 2. We are Related to Chriſt; before Vivification we were a Chriſtleſs people, At that time ye were without Chriſt; Eph. 2.2.1. but now we are united to Chriſt, and (which is more) now we make uſe of Chriſt with the Father: O the comfort of this relation! A troubled ſpirit looks on his ſins, and they thruſt him away from God, What communion hath light with darkneſs? but then comes the Lord Jeſus, and takes him by the hand, and leads him to the Father, and ſays, Come ſoul, come along with me, and I will carry thee to the Father, willt thou make uſe of me? Eph. 1.18. It is the Apoſtle's ſaying, that Through him we have an acceſs by one ſpirit unto the Father; we have leading by the hand; 1 Pet. 5. 18. Chriſt hath once ſuffered for ſins, the juſt for the unjuſt, that he might bring us to God. By nature we are ſevered from God, and if he manifeſted himſelf he, is dreadful to us, Iſa. 59.2. Your iniquities have ſeparated between you and your God, and your ſins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear; but in Chriſt we approach boldly before him, becauſe Chriſt hath took away our ſins which are the mountains of reparation; in Chriſt we have boldneſs and acceſs with confidence by the faith of him. Eph. 2.12. Here is the difference betwixt a man related to Chriſt, and a meer ſtranger; the ſtranger knows not how to go to God; God ſtands as a Judge, he is a Malefactor, the Law an Accuſer, Sin his Indictment; and what is the iſſue? Every mouth is ſtopped, and all the world is guilty before God. Rom. 3. 19. He that is related to Chriſt, Chriſt takes him by the hand, and ſo he goes, with boldneſs and confidence, and pleads his righteouſneſs before the Father; Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect, it is God that juſtifieth, who is he that condemneth? it is Chriſt that dyed, yea rather that is riſen again? Rom. 8. 34. In the matter and cauſe of juſtification, wherein no man can ſtand, or dare to appear, to ſhew his face, a Chriſtian coming with Chriſt his Advocate, he dares to appear, and to plead his caſe, and to ſtand upon interrogatories with God himſelf, yea, and to ask God himſelf (humbly and with reverence) what he hath to lay to his charge? what more he will, or can in juſtice require for ſatisfaction, than his Surety hath done for him? —— 3. We are related to the Covenant of Grace; before Vivification we had no ſuch relation, At that time ye were without Chriſt, being aliens from the Common-wealth of Iſrael, and ſtrangers from the covenant of promiſe; Eph. 2.12. but now the Covenant is ours, God is our God, and we are his people. O the bleſſedneſs of this priviledge! Happy is the people that be in ſuch a caſe, yea happy is the people whoſe God is the Lord. Pſal. 144. 15. The Covenant is reckoned all happineſs, neſs; contains in its bowels all benefits, in Heaven, or under Heaven; as a man may ſay of any thing he hath in poſſeſſion, This is mine; ſo may they who are in covenant with God, ſay, He is mine, I have God himſelf in my poſſeſſion. How might we try our vivification even by this communion we have with God, and Chriſt, and the Covenant of Grace? Chriſtians, look into your hearts, have you not felt in your approaches to God ſome raiſings or workings of the Spirit of the Lord concluding the pardon of your ſins? hath not Chriſt taken you by the hand, and led you to the Father? It may be your own guilt made you afraid, but the diſcovery of Jeſus your righteouſneſs made you bold to go to God; you felt boldneſs coming in on this ground, becauſe all your approaches or drawings near to God were bottomed on Jeſus. Hath not God married you to himſelf? hath he not conveyed himſelf (through his holy Spirit) into your hearts by way of covenant? Hath he not ſometimes whiſpered to your ſouls, Thou art mine? and have not your ſouls ecchoed back again unto the Lord, Thou art mine? Much of the truth of all this would appear, if Chriſtians would but daily obſerve the movings of their own hearts; for as he that hath the Spirit of Satan, ſhall ever find him putting on and provoking to evil, ſo he that hath the Spirit of God ſhall moſt-what (or at leaſt frequently) find and feel it active and ſtirring in the heart, to the reforming of the whole man; the holy Spirit is not idle, but he rules, and governs, and maintains his Monarchy, in us, and over us, in ſpite of the power of Satan, and privy conſpiracy of a mans own fleſh.

5. It is a life of a new income; I mean of a ſaving in-come, as of Grace, Power Light &c. Before vivification there was no ſuch in-come; A man before his converſion might hear, pray, and do all duties; but alas! he feels no ſweet, no power, no vertue, no communion with Chriſt. If I might appeal unto ſuch, I beſeech you tell me, you have been often at prayer, what have you gotten there? what in-come hath appeared? If you anſwer truly, you cannot but ſay, I went to prayer, and I was ſatisfied that I had prayed; I never obſerved whether I had got any power, or ſtrength, any thing of mortification, or vivification; I never found any lively work of God on my ſoul, either in prayer or after prayer; or you have been often at this Ordinance of hearing the Word, what have you gotten there? what in-come hath appeared? Why truly nothing at all; it may be a little more knowledge, but nothing that I can ſay was a ſaving work of God; ſome one that ſate with me in the ſame ſeat found much ſtirrings of God. Oh what meltings, chearings, warmings of the ſpirit had ſuch a one? and ſuch a one? the Word was to them as hony, and as the hony comb, but to me it was as dry bread; I found no ſweet, I got no good at all. Or you have been toſſing the Bible, and you have obſerved this or that promiſe; but O what income hath appeared? Surely nothing at all; I wonder at Saints that tell of ſo much ſweetneſs, and comfort, and raviſhing of heart, that with joy they ſhould draw water out of theſe Wells of ſalvation, Whereas I find therein no joy, no refreſhing at all: Ah poor ſoul, thou art in a ſad caſe, thou art not yet vivified, thou haſt not the life of God in thee. After vivification thou wilt in the uſe of Ordinances (at leaſt ſometimes, if not frequently) feel the ſaving incomes of God. In prayer thou wilt feel the ſpirit breathing in, and carrying thy ſoul above it ſelf, declaring there is another power than thy own, which makes thee not only exceed others, but thy ſelf alſo. In hearing of the Word thou wilt ſee the Windows of heaven ſet wide open, and all manner of ſpiritual comforts ſhowred down upon thee; thou wilt hear the treaſury of everlaſting glory and immortality unlocked and opened, ſo that thou maiſt tumble thy ſelf amidſt the mountains of heavenly pearls, and golden pleaſures, joyes no heart can comprehend but that which is weaned from all worldly pleaſures, As it is writen, how beautiful are the feet of them that preach the Goſpel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things? Rom. 10. 15. In meditation of the promiſes, or of Divine love, thou wilt find meltings, quicknings, encouragings, filling thy heart with gladneſs, and glorying, and thy mouth with praiſes and ſongs of rejoycing. O what fountains of life are the promiſes to a living man, to a ſoul that is vivified? what food? what ſtrength? what life is a thought of Chriſt, of Heaven, and of God's love to a ſpiritual man? whereas all theſe glorious things of the Goſpel are to the natural man but as a withered flower, a ſealed book, a dry and empty ciſtern; he hath no uſe of them.

6. It is a life of another kind, or manner. Before vivification our life was put to death, becauſe we our ſelves even were but dead in ſin whilſt alive. She that liveth in pleaſure is dead while ſhe liveth; and you were dead in your ſins, and the uncircumciſion of your fleſh 1. Tim. 5. 6. Col 2. 13. But after vivification we live: how live? a ſpiritual life, I live by the faith of the Son of God; Gal. 2.20. an heavenly life, for our converſation is in heaven, from whence alſo we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; Phil. 3. 20. an immortal life, Chriſt being raiſed from the dead, dyeth no more, death hath no more dominion over him;—— likewiſe reckon your ſelves to be dead indeed unto ſin, but alive unto God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. Rom. 6. 9, 11. You know the meaning of Chriſt; Whoſoever liveth, and believeth in me, ſhall never dye, John 11. 25. he ſhall never dye a ſpiritual death, never come under the dominion of ſin, never totally fall away from grace; that incorruptible ſeed by which he is regenerate ſhall abide in him for ever. If Chriſt be in you, the body is dead becauſe of ſin, but the ſpirit is life becauſe of righteouſneſs; Rom. 8. 10. the body indeed is ſubject to corporal death through the remainders of ſin, but the Spirit of life, even that little ſpark of grace, through the moſt perfect righteouſneſs of Chriſt imputed, is life here, and ſhall be life hereafter, even for ever. And herein is our vivification anſwerable to Chriſt's reſurrection; like as Chriſt was raiſed up from the dead by the glory of the Father, raiſed up to a new life, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in the newneſs of life. Rom. 6.4.

For the ſecond queſtion, how is this conformity or vivification wrought; I ſhall anſwer only to the ſtate, and ſo our vivification is uſually wrought in us in this manner. As firſt, in the underſtanding. Secondly, in the will.

Firſt, the underſtanding lets in the verity and truth of what the Goſpel hath recorded. In him was life, and the life was the light of men. John 1. 4. —— I am the bread of life, he that cometh to me ſhall never hunger, and he that believeth on me ſhall never thirſt. John6.35. —— I am the reſurrection and the life, he that believeth in me though he were dead, yet ſhall he live. John 11. 25 I am the way, the truth, and the life. John14.6. —— And this is the record, that God hath given to us, eternal life, and this life is in his Son; he that hath the Son, hath life, and he that hath not the Son, hath not life. 1 John 5. 11, 12.

2. This light let in; the underſtanding thence inferreth as to a man's own ſelf, that by the aſſiſtance of the Spirit of holineſs, who raiſed up Jeſus from the dead, it's poſſible for him to attain this life; others have attained it, and why not he? You hath he quickened who were dead, in treſpaſſes and ſins; Eph.2.1, 2. 3,4,5,6,7, here's a preſident for a ſin-ſick ſoul; In time paſt ye walked according to the courſe of this world, according to the Prince of the power of the air, the Spirit now worketh in the children of diſobedience; this was the ſtate of the Epheſians. But were they all? no, no, ye, and we, alſo, among whom alſo we had all our converſation in times paſt.——— But God who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in ſins, hath quickned us together with Chriſt, —— that in ages to come he might ſhew the exceeding riches of his grace in his kindneſs towards us through Chriſt Jeſus. Chriſt's dealings with ſome, are as flags and paterns of mercy hung forth to tell, and to bring o- Mat.8.2. 9.21. Ezek.37, 4. 5. thers in: whence the underſtanding infers, it's poſſible for a dead ſoul, yea for my dead ſoul to live; others have lived, and why may not I? I diſcover in thoſe Scriptures, even in theſe preſidents, a door of hope to my ſelf; why Lord, if thou wilt, thou canſt make me clean; yea, if I may but touch thy garment, I ſhall be whole; if thou wouldſt but ſay, O ye dry bones hear the word of the Lord, then breath would enter into me, and I ſhould live; ſurely if Chriſt be riſen again from the dead, there's no impoſſibility but I may riſe; if others have been raiſed by the vertue of Chriſt's reſurrection, why may not I? However this may ſeem to be little or nothing, yet conſidering the ſoul in a mourning, dark, diſconſolate frame, under deep apprehenſions of ſin, guilt, and wrath; full of confuſions, diſtractions, deſpondencies, ſtaggering and ſinking Mat.11. 28. terrors; it will find it ſomething, yea it will look on it as a glorious work to diſcover, but the morning Star, through ſo much darkneſs, any thing of life, in ſuch a valley and ſhadow of death.

3. The underſtanding hath yet ſome brighter believing beams; it confidently cloſeth with this truth, that it is the will of the Lord that he ſhould come, and live, and believe, and lay hold on Chriſt; it apprehends the particular deſigns of mercy to him, and doth really principle the ſoul with this, that God doth particularly call, invite, and bid him come to Chriſt the Fountain of life. for Life Now the underſtanding takes in general, Goſpel calls in particular to himſelf. It is my poor languiſhing ſoul which the Lord ſpeaks to, when he ſayes, Come to me all ye that are weary, and I will give you reſt.———

Epheſ.5. 14. Awake thou that ſleepeſt, and ariſe from the dead, and Chriſt ſhall give thee light. Surely this is a great work when ſet home by the Lord, that the ſoul acts in its addreſſes to Chriſt in the ſtrength of a particular call from God.

2. And now the anſwer to this call, is wrought up in the renewed will; as thus.————

1. The will ſummons all its confidences, and calls them off from every other bottom, to beſtow them wholly upon Chriſt; and this conſiſts in our voluntary renouncing of all other helps, excepting Jeſus Chriſt alone; now the ſoul ſayes to Idols, Hoſ.14.3. Get ye hence, Aſhur ſhall not ſave us, we will not ride upon horſes, neither will we ſay any more to the works of our hands Ye are our Gods. Aſhur ſhall not ſave us. Not only cannot, but ſhall not ſave us; now as the ſoul is diſſatisfied in Judgment, as to the reſting on any thing but Chriſt alone, ſo the heart and will is diſaffected to all other helps but Chriſt alone; now it renounceth its own righteouſneſs, and worthineſs; not only becauſe of their inability to ſave, but mainly becauſe their glory is ſwallowed up in that unmatchable excellency, which appears in the way of life and ſalvation by Jeſus Chriſt. It calls home dependance from every other object.

2. Hereupon there is a willing and chearful receiving of Chriſt, and reſignation of our ſelves to his actual diſpoſe, to quicken us, and ſave us in his own way. A great part of the anſwer of Faith to the call of Chriſt, lyes in this; for as Faith ſees life and ſalvation in the hands of Chriſt, ſo it conſiders it to be given forth in the methods of Chriſt; and ſo believing lies not only in aſſent, but conſent of heart, that Chriſt ſhall ſave us in his own way; this is called A receiving of Chriſt; As many as received him, to them he gave power to become the Sons of God. John.1. 1. Many a ſoul would be ſaved by Chriſt, that ſticks and boggles at his methods; they will not paſs to happineſs by holineſs; nor ſet him up as a King and Lord whom they could conſent to ſet up as a Saviour: Oh but now Chriſt that ſtood at the door, and knocked, is received in; conſent hath made up the Rev.3.10 match, and the door is opened that never ſhall be ſhut again.

3. Upon this follows the ſouls reſting and relying; the ſouls confidence and dependance upon Jeſus Chriſt for life and for ſalvation; this cloſeth up the whole buſineſs, believing unto righteouſneſs; thoſe various expreſſions uſed in Scripture of committing our way and ſelves to God; of caſting our care upon God, of rolling our ſelves on him, of truſting in him, of hoping in his mercy, &c. wrapt up faith in this affiance, dependance, not without ſome mixture of confidence, and reſolved reſting upon Jeſus Chriſt: a clear beholding of God in Chriſt, and Chriſt in the promiſes, doth preſent ſuch variety and fulneſs of Arguments to bear up hope and affiance, that the heart is reſolved, and ſo reſolved that we commit our ſelves, and give our ſouls in charge to Chriſt, I know whom I have believed, and I am perſwaded he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him againſt that 1 Pet.4. 19. day. 2 Tim.1. 12

4. The upſhot of all is this, that the ſame cloſe which the ſoul makes in believing with Jeſus Chriſt as to juſtification, and righteouſneſs, is not fruitleſs to this effect of conveying life and vertue from Jeſus Chriſt as to grace and holineſs; for that union which then and thereby comes to be enjoyned with Chriſt, is ſuch an union as is fruitful in begetting a quickening power and principle in the heart; and this is that which we ordinarily intend by ſaying, ſaving faith to be operative; that faith which brings forth nothing James 2. 16. of holineſs, what is it but a dead faith; As the body without the Spirit is dead, ſo faith without works is dead alſo. Juſtification and ſanctification are twins of a birth; and hence it is, that vivification (which is one part of ſanctification) is wrought in the ſoul after the ſelf-ſame manner: As firſt, the underſtanding is illightned. 2. The will is changed. 3. All the Affections are renewed: 4. The internals being quickened, there enſueth the renewing of the body with the outward actions, life and converſation, And now is fulfilled that ſaying of Chriſt in a ſpiritual ſenſe, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear ſhall live. Now is the ſoul vivified, now it begins to live the life of God, now it feels the power of Chriſt's reſurrection, and is made conformable to it: And immediately upon this, joy is made in heaven by the Angels, God himſelf applauding it, For Luke 15, 24. this my Son was dead, and is alive; he was loſt, and is found.

Thus is the ſtate of vivification wrought. I know it is not in all men after one manner, for every circumſtance; the methods of God are exceeding various; and we cannot limit the holy one of Iſrael: I have ſometimes concerning this, deſired the communication of other thoughts, whom I looked upon as ſuch, who had more than ordinary communication with Chriſt's Spirit; and from one of ſuch I received this anſwer, I muſt profeſs to you, I have in all my ſpeculations in divinity found diſſatisfaction in the writings of men in nothing more, than the work of clear and diſtinct conceptions concerning regeneration; which yet is of ſuch a Cardinal importance, as, that the great doors of heaven move upon the hinges of it; the Lord en- lighten us more, for we ſee but in part, and propheſie but in part.

For the third queſtion, what are the means of this conformity, or vivification which we muſt uſe on our parts? I ſhall anſwer herein both to the ſtate, and growth of our vivification. As——

1. Wait and attend upon God in the miniſtry of the word, this is a means whereby Chriſt ordinarliy effecteth this vivification. By this means it was thoſe dead bones were quickened in Ezekiel's propheſy, viz. by the Prophet's propheſying upon them. Ezek. 37.4 And he ſaid unto me, Son of man,——propheſie upon theſe bones, and ſay unto them, O ye dry bones hear the Word of the Lord; And by this means it is that dead ſouls are quickened; the Miniſtry of the word is the Trumpet of Jeſus Chriſt; when that ſounds, who knows but he may quicken the dead? hearken therefore to this word of God.

2. Act faith upon the Lord Jeſus as to juſtification. As is the clearneſs and fixedneſs of our ſouls in bottoming our ſelves on Chriſt for righteouſneſs, ſo will be our quickneſs, and ſucceſsful progreſs in the work of holineſs; becauſe Maries ſins which were Luke 7.47. many, were forgiven her, therefore ſhe loved much; but to whom little is forgiven, the ſame loveth little. Many a ſoul loſeth much of vivification, for want of clearneſs in its juſtification, or for want of ſetledneſs, and ſtronger meaſure of acting faith. Oh what life would be raiſed as to holineſs? what working, binding, filling the laws of love, retribution, thankfulneſs would there be, when we ſee our ſelves clearly reconciled with God, and wrapt up in the foldings of everlaſting love?

3. Trace every Ordinance, and every duty for the appearings of the Son of God. Be much in prayer, hearing, reading, fellowſhip with Saints, living in the fulneſs of Sacraments; be much in ſecret converſings with God, in meditation, expoſtulation, enquiries, ſearchings; and (which is a precious work) be much in dilgent watching of, and hearkening and liſtening to the movings, workings, hints, intimations of the Spirit of God; be much in obſerving the methods and interpreting the meanings and language of God in all his ſecret diſpenſations with the ſoul. Certainly there will be abundance of the life of God conveyed to him that walks in theſe paths. Bleſſed are they that dwell in the houſe, might Luke 15. 17. David well ſay; and one Reaſon is pertinent to this caſe, becauſe, In your father's houſe is bread enough, and to ſpare: while the Prodigal that goes out from it ſhall feed upon husks, and with Ephraim ſwallow up the Eaſt-wind. Oh for a Spirit of Prayer, Meditation, &c. Oh for a Spirit even ſwallowed up in communion with God! Thou meeteſt him that worketh Iſa. 64. 5. righteouſneſs, and thoſe that remember thee in thy wayes.

4. Look much at Chriſt raiſed, Chriſt Glorified; Chriſt's Reſurrection was the beginning of his glory, and therein is comprehended both the glory that draws deſires towards Chriſt, and the grace and power that eſtabliſheth faith in his dependancy; They looked unto him, and were lightened——unto thee lift I up Pſal. 34.5. Pſal. 123. 1, 2. mine eyes, O thou that dwelleſt in the heavens; behold as the eyes of the ſervants look unto the hand of their Maſters, Heb. 11. 27. and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of their Miſtris ſo our eyes wait upon the Lord our God. It is ſaid of Moſes, that he endured affliction, as ſeeing him who is inviſible. Oh could we keep our hearts in a more conſtant veiw, and believing meditation of the glory of Chriſt, our faces would certainly bring ſome beams of Divinity with them from the Mount; 2 Cor. 3. 18. We all with open face beholding as in a glaſs the glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame Image from glory to glory. The very beholding of Chriſt hath a mighty conforming and aſſimilating vertue to leave the impreſſions of glory upon our Spirits.

5. See our own Perſonal vivification linked unſeparably unto, and bottomed unremoveably upon the reſurrection of Chriſt; when we can by faith get a ſight of this, it is not to ſpeak kow couragiouſly and ſucceſsfully the ſoul will grapple in the controverſies of the Lord againſt the Devil, and our own Deceitful hearts; with what ſtrength could Joſhua, Gideon, &c. go on, when backed with a promiſe, and their Spirits ſetled in the perſuaſion of it? and what uſe will the promiſes be in this kind? and (more than all) the life and reſurrection of Jeſus Chriſt, when we can clearly and ſteadfaſtly reſt upon this, that there is an inſeparable connection betwixt the reſurrection of Chriſt and our perſonal holineſs, and perſeverance to the end? Oh that I could act my faith more frequently on Chriſt's reſurrection, ſo that at laſt I could ſee it by the light of God to be a deſtinated principle of my vivification in particular! what a bleſſed means would this be?

6. Walk as we have Chriſt Jeſus for an example. This example of Chriſt, though it be not ours, as it is the Socinians totum Chriſti, yet certainly it yields much to our vivification; who can deny but that acting with the pattern ever in ones eye is very advantageous? Come then and if we would live the life of God, let us live as Chriſt lived after his reſurrection. But how is that; I anſwer.——

1. See that we return to the grave no more; take heed of ever returning to our former ſtate. You may ſay, what needs this Caveat? hath not Chriſt ſaid, He that liveth and believeth in me ſhall never dye? or never fall away? I anſwer, it is true, they ſhall never totally and finally fall away, yet they may fall foully and fearfully? they may loſe that ſtrength and vigour, that ſenſe and feeling which ſometimes they had; they may draw ſo nigh to the grave, as that both by themſelves and others they may be accounted amongſt them that go down to the pit, free among the dead, as Heman, Pſal. 88.5. ſaith of himſelf. The Apoſtle ſaith ſomething that might even ſtartle Chriſtians; he tells of ſome who have been once enlightened (by the word) and have taſted Heb. 6. 4, 5. 6. of the heavenly gift (flaſhes of inward joy and peace) and were made partakers of the holy Ghoſt) the common gifts and graces of the Spirit) and have taſted the good Word of God (have found ſome reliſh in the ſweet and ſaving Promiſes of the Goſpel) and the powers of the world to come (have had ſome raviſhing apprehenſions of the joyes and glory in Heaven) and yet fall away (by a total Apoſtacy.) Chriſtians! how far goes this? I know it is ſaid only of ſuch who have a name to live, and no more; but ſurely a warning to us all that we come not nigh the verge, the brink of the grave again, let us not give way to any one ſin ſo as to live in it.

2. Let us evidence our reſurrection; Chriſt being raiſed, he ſhewed himſelf alive by many infallible proofs; ſo let us evidence our vivification by many infallible proofs; (i. e.) Let us yield up our ſelves Rom. 6. 13. unto God; as thoſe that are alive from the dead; let us walk as men of another world. If ye be riſen with Col. 3. 2. Eph. 5. 8. Iſa. 60. 1. Chriſt ſeek the things which are above, where Chriſt ſitteth on the right hand of God; let us ſerve God in holineſs and righteouſneſs all the days of our life; ſurely this is the end for which we are delivered out of the hand of our enemies, ſin, death, and hell. Ye were ſometimes darkneſs (during your abode in the grave of ſin) but now (being riſen) ye are light in the Lord, walk therefore as children of light, [Walk] (i. e.) beſtir your ſelves in the works of God; Ariſe, ſhine, for thy light is come, and the glory of Lord is riſen upon thee. When God doth let the Sun of Righteouſneſs ariſe, it is fit we ſhould be about the buſineſs of our Souls. We ſee that the night is dedicated to reſt, and therefore God that doth order all things ſweetly, he draws a curtain of darkneſs about us, as which is friendly to reſt; like a Nurſe, that when ſhe will have her little one ſleep, ſhe caſts a cloath over the face, and hides the light every way; but when this natural Sun ariſeth, then men go out to their work: ſo muſt we, tho in the darkneſs of the night we ſnorted in ſin, yet now we muſt beſtir our ſelves, ſeeing the Sun of the ſpiritual world is riſen over us.

And yet when all is done, let us not think that our Vivification in this life will be wholly perfect: as it is with our mortification, in the beſt, it is but an imperfect work; ſo it is with our Vivification; it is only gradual, and never perfect till grace be ſwallowed up of Glory. Only let us ever be in the uſe of the means, and let us endeavour a further renovation of the new man, adding one grace to another, To faith vertue, to vertue knowledg, to knowledg temperance, to temperance patience, to patience godlineſs, &c. till we perfect holineſs in the fear of God, till we ſhine with thoſe Saints in glory at perfect day. 2 Pet. 1. 5, 6. Rom. 7. 1.

Thus far we have Looked on Jeſus in his reſurrection, and during the time of his abode on earth. Our next work is to Look on Jeſus carrying on the great work of our Salvation in his aſcenſion into Heaven; and in his ſeſſion at God's right hand; and in his miſſion of the holy Spirit.

CHAP. I.

Heb. 12. 2. Looking unto Jeſus-- who is ſet down at the right hand of the Throne of God.

SECT. I.

Of Chriſt's Aſcenſion, and of the manner how.

THUS far we have traced Jeſus in his actings for us, until the day in which he was taken up. That which immediately follows, Acts. 1. 2. is his Aſcenſion, Seſſion at God's right hand, and Miſſion of his holy Spirit; in proſecution of which, as in the former, I ſhall firſt lay down the object; and ſecondly, direct you how to look upon it.

The object threefold. 1. He aſcended into Heaven. 2. He ſate down at God's right hand. 3. He ſent down the Holy Ghoſt.

1. For the Aſcenſion of Chriſt, this was a glorious deſign, and contains in it a great part of the Salvation of our Souls. In proſecution of this, I ſhall ſhew. 1 That he aſcended: 2. How he aſcended. 3. Whither he aſcended. 4. Why he aſcended.

1. That he aſcended. 1. The types prefigure it, Then ſaid the Lord to me, this gate ſhall be ſhut, it ſhall not be opened;——it is for the Prince, the Ezek. 44. 2, 3. Prince he ſhall ſit in it to eat bread before the Lord, he ſhall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and ſhall go out by the way of the ſame. As the Gate of the Holy of Holies was ſhut againſt every man but the Higheſt Prieſt; ſo was that Gate of Heaven ſhut againſt all, ſo that none could enter in by their own Virtue and Efficacy, but only our Prince and great high Prieſt, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; indeed he hath opened it for us, and entred into it in our place and ſtead. Whither the fore-runner is for us entred, even Jeſus, made an high Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchiſedech. 2. The Prophets foreſaw it, I ſaw Heb.6.20 in the night viſions, and behold one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the ancient Dan.7.13, 14. of days, and they brought him near before him, and there Mark 16. 19. was given him dominion, and glory, and kingdom. 3. The Evangeliſts relate it, He was received up into Heaven——He was carried up into Heaven. 4. The eleven witneſs it, For while they beheld, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their ſight Luke 24. 31. 5. The holy Angels ſpeak it, For while they looked, ſteadfaſtly toward heaven, as he went up, behold two men Acts 1. 9. ſtood by them in white apparel, which alſo ſaid, ye men of Acts 1. 10, 11. Galilee, why ſtand ye gazing up into heaven? this ſame Jeſus which is taken up from you into heaven, ſhall come in like manner as ye have ſeen him go into heaven. 6. The bleſſed Apoſtles in their ſeveral Epiſtles, ratify and confirm it, When he aſcended up on high, he led captivity captive, Eph. 4.8, 10. and gave gifts unto men,——he that deſcended 1 Pet. 3. 22. is the ſame alſo that aſcended up far above all heavens,——who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God; Angels, and Authorities, and Powers, being made ſubject unto him.

2. How he aſcended. The manner of his aſcenſion is diſcovered in theſe particulars.—1. He aſcended bleſſing his Apoſtles, while he bleſſed them Luke 24. 51. he was parted from them, and carried up into heaven It is ſome comfort to Chriſt's Miniſters, that tho' the world hate them. Chriſt doth bleſs them; yea he parted with them in a way of bleſſing; as Jacob leaving the world, bleſſed his Sons; ſo Chriſt leaving the world, bleſſed his Apoſtles, and all the faithful Miniſters of Chriſt, unto the end of the world. Some add, that in theſe Apoſtles not only Miniſters, but all the elect to the end of the world are bleſſed: The Apoſtles were then conſidered as common perſons receiving this bleſſing for all us, and ſo words uttered at the ſame time are uſually interpreted, Mat. 28. 20. Lo, I am with you alway even to the end of the world. This was the laſt thing that Chriſt did on the earth, to ſhew that by his death he had redeemed us from the curſe of the Law, and that now going to heaven, he is able to bleſs us with all ſpiritual bleſſings in Eph. 1. 3 heavenly places.

2. He aſcended viſibly in the view of the Apoſtles; while they beheld, he was taken up; Acts 1.19. he was not ſuddenly ſnatched from them, as Elijah was, nor ſecretly and privily taken away as Enoch was; but in the preſence of them all, both his Apoſtles and Diſciples, he aſcended up into Heaven; but why not in the view of all the Jews, that ſo they might know that he was riſen again and gone to Heaven? ſurely this was the meaning; God would rather that the main points of faith ſhould be learned by hearing, than by ſeeing; however Chriſt's own Diſciples were taught the ſame by ſight, that they might beter teach others which ſhould not ſee; yet the ordinary means to come by faith is hearing; how ſhall they believe in him of whom they have not heard?——ſo then, faith cometh by hearing; and Rom. 10. 14.17, 18. hearing by the word of God. And as for the Jews (ſaith the Apoſtle) have they not heard? yes verily, their ſound went into all the earth, and their words unto the end of the world.

3. He aſcended principally by the mighty power of his Godhead; thus never any aſcended up into Heaven but Jeſus Chriſt; for tho' Enoch and Elijah were aſſumed into Heaven, yet not by their power, nor by themſelves, it was God's power by which they aſcended, and it was by the help and Miniſtry of Angels: There appeared a chariot of fire, 2 Kings 2. 11. and horſes of fire; and Elijah went up by a Whirlwind into Heaven.

4. He aſcended in a cloud, While they beheld, he Acts 1. 9. he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their ſight. Hereby he ſhews that he is Lord of all the creatures; he had already trampled upon the earth, walked upon the Sea, vanquiſhed Hell or the Grave, and now the Clouds receive him, and the Heavens are opened to make way for this King of Glory to enter in. When Chriſt ſhall come again it is ſaid Mat. 24. 30 that he ſhall come in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.——Hereafter ſhall ye ſee the Son of man Mat.26.4. ſitting at the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of Heaven. Which verefies that ſaying of the Angel, This ſame Jeſus, which is taken up from you Acts 1.11. into Heaven, ſhall ſo come in like manner as ye have ſeen him go into Heaven. He went up in Clouds, and he ſhall come again in clouds.

5. He aſcended in the ſound of a Trumpet; not on earth, ſounding Hoſanna, but in Heaven, crying Hallelujah. So the Pſalmiſt, God is gone up with a Pſal. 47.5. ſhout, the Lord with the ſound of a trumpet Certainly great joy was in Heaven at Chriſt's aſcending thither: the very Angels ſtruck up their Harps, and welcomed him thither with Hymns and praiſes.

6. He aſcended in triumph, as a Roman Victor aſcended to the Capitol, or as David aſcended after his conqueſt up to Zion. Now we read of two triumphal acts in Chriſt's aſcenſion, whereof the firſt was his leading of his captives, and the ſecond was the diſperſing of his gifts: the Apoſtle and the Pſalmiſt joyn both together, When he aſcended up on high, Pſal. 68. 18. he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. 1. He Epheſ.4.8 led them captive who had captivated us. Death was led captive without a ſting; Hell was led captive as one that had loſt her victory; the law was led captive, being rent and faſtened to his Croſs (as it were) Enſign-wiſe; the Serpents head being bruiſed, was led before him in triumph, as was Goliah's head by David returned from the victory; and this was the firſt act of his triumph. 2. He gave gifts unto men: this was as the running of Conduits with wine, or as the caſting abroad of new Coyn, or as the ſhutting up of Chriſt's Triumph in his aſcenſion up to Heaven: what theſe gifts were we ſhall ſpeak in the Miſſion of the holy Ghoſt; only thus much for the preſent.

Sect. 2. Of the place whither He Aſcended.

3. Whither he aſcended, the Goſpel tells us into Heaven; only Paul ſaith that he aſcended far above all heavens. But the meaning is, he went above all theſe viſible Heavens into thoſe heavenly Eph. 4.10. Manſions, where the Angels and the Spirits of the Juſt have their aboad. Or if the higheſt Heavens be included, I ſee no Abſurdity in it; the higheſt Heaven, we uſually call The Kingdom of Heaven; which is either Heaven material, or Heaven ſpiritual; and firſt for the material heaven, in ſome ſenſe he may be ſaid to aſcend above that, both in reſpect of his Body, becauſe the Body of Chriſt is more glorious than any material Heaven. And in reſpect of his Soul, becauſe the Soul of Chriſt is more bleſſed than all the things elſe whatſoever. And 2. For the ſpiritual Heaven (i. e.) all Angelical or Heavenly perfections, he is ſaid to aſcend above them all, both in reſpect of his humiliation, becauſe he hath vilified himſelf below all things, and therefore he is worthily exalted above all things; and in reſpect of his perfection, becauſe the humane nature of Chriſt is more excellent than any Creature, it being joyned to the Godhead by an hipoſtatical union. Some there are that underſtand this place of Chriſt's aſcending far above all Heavens, not ſo much by a local motion, as by a Spiritual mutation and exaltation of his perſon; as earth heightened unto a flame, changeth not its place only, but form and figure; ſo the perſon of our Saviour was raiſed to a greatneſs and glory vaſtly differing from, and ſurmounting any image of things viſible or inviſible in this Creation; ſo it is fitly expreſſed, He was made higher than the Heavens; he was Heb.7. 26. heightened to a ſplendor, enlarged to a capacity and compaſs above the brighteſt, and beyond the wideſt Heavens: he tranſcended all in the ſpirituality of his Aſcenſion: but I ſhall not much inſiſt on that.

Sect. 3. Of the Reaſons why He Aſcended.

4. Why he Aſcended, the Reaſons are, 1. On Chriſt's part, that through his Paſſion he might paſs to glory. Ought not Chriſt 24. Luke 26. to have ſuffered theſe things, and ſo to enter into his glory? I ſhall not inſiſt on that Controverſie, whether Chriſt merited for himſelf, this is without controverſie, that by his paſſion (I will not ſay he properly merited, but) He obtained glory, becauſe he humbled himſelf ſo low, God exalted him above the Grave in his Reſurrection, above the Earth in his Aſcenſion, and above the Heavens in placing him at his right hand. And he aſcended, that all thoſe Prophecies which were foretold of Chriſt might be accompliſhed. Thou haſt aſcended on high. Pſal 68. 18. And his feet ſhall ſtand in that day upon the Mount of olives, which is before Jeruſalem on the Eaſt. The types of this were Enoch's tranſlation, Elijah's Aſcenſion, Sampſon's tranſportation of the gates of Gezza into an high mountain, the high Prieſts going into the Holy of Holies, Seeing that we have a great high Heb. 4. 14. Prieſt, that is paſſed into the heavens, Jeſus the Son of God. Why all theſe propheſies, types, figures, muſt needs be accompliſhed, and therefore on his part it was neceſſary that Chriſt muſt aſcend, and go into Heaven.

2, The Reaſons on our part are,——

1. That in our ſtead he might triumph over ſin, death, and hell. In his Reſurrection he conquered, but in his Aſcenſion he triumphed; now it was that he led ſin, death, and devil in triumph at his Chariot wheels. And the meaning of the Pſal- Eph.4.8. miſt, and of the Apoſtle, When he aſcended up on high, he led captivity captive: He vanquiſhed and triumphed over all our enemies; he overcame the world, he bound the devil, he ſpoiled hell, he weakened ſin, he deſtroyed death, and now he makes a publick triumphal ſhew of them in his own Perſon; he led the captives bound to his chariot-wheels, as the manner of the Roman triumphs was, when the Conqueror went up to the Capitol. It is to the ſame purpoſe that the Apoſtle ſpeaks elſe- Col.2.15. where, Having ſpoiled Principalities and Powers, he made a ſhew of them openly, triumphing over them in himſelf; it is a manifeſt alluſion to the manner of triumphs after victories amongſt the Romans; firſt, they ſpoiled the enemy upon the place, e're they ſtirred off the field; and this was done by Chriſt on the Croſs; and then they made a publick triumphal ſhew, they rid through the ſtreets in the greateſt ſtate, and had all their ſpoils carried before them, and the Kings and Nobles whom they had taken, they tyed to their Chariots, and led them as captives; and this did Chriſt at his Aſcenſion; Then he openly Triumphed, ἐν αὐτῷ in himſelf, (i. e.) in his own power and ſtrength; other Conquerors do not thus; they conquer not in themſelves, and by themſelves, but Jeſus Chriſt conquered in himſelf and therefore he triumphed in himſelf. And yet though he triumphed in himſelf, and by himſelf, it was not for himſelf only, but for us; which made the Apoſtle to triumph in his triumph, O death where 1 Cor.15. 55,56,57 is thy ſting, O grave where is thy victory? the ſting of death is ſin, but the ſtrength of ſin, is the Law; and thanks be to God, which giveth us victory through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. If I may ſpeak out what I think was this victory of Chriſt; I believe it was that honour given to him after his Reſurrection by the converſion of enemies, by the amazements, ſo the world, by the admiration of Angels, and eſpecially by his ſitting down at the right hand of Majeſty on high; for therein is contained both his exaltation, and his triumph over all his enemies to the utmoſt.

2. That he might lead us the way, and open to us the doors of glory. It is a queſtion whether ever thoſe doors of Heaven were opened to any before Chriſt's Aſcenſion? Chriſt tells us, In my Fathers John 14. 2,3. houſe are many manſions, if it were not ſo, I would have told you, but I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto my ſelf, that where I am, ye may be alſo. Some infer hence, as if there ſhould be many outer courts, and many different places or ſtates in glory; and yet there is one place whither the Saints ſhould arrive at laſt, which was not then ready for them, and was not to be entered into, until the entrance of our Lord had made the preparation. Again, the Heb.11. 10. Apoſtle tells us that the Father received not the Promiſes, God having provided ſome better thing for us, that they without us ſhould not be made perfect. Whence ſome infer that their conditions after death was a ſtate of Imperfection; and that they were placed in an outer court on this ſide Heaven, called Paradiſe, or Abraham's boſome; and thither alſo Chriſt went when he dyed, and was attended with the bleſſed Thief. For my part, I ſhall not joyn with ſuch who think all ſouls of Saints ſhall go to Paradiſe, where they muſt remain till the day of judgment, and then, and not till then, muſt enter into that heaven, called the third Heaven, or the Kingdom of Heaven. Indeed ſome of the ancients make Heaven, and the immediate receptacles of ſouls to be diſtinct places, both bleſſed, but hugely differing in Dr.Tayl. great Exemplar. degrees: And a modern writer is very confident That no ſoul could enter into glory before our Lord entered by whom we hope to have acceſs; and to that purpoſe he cites thoſe Texts, John 14. 2, 3. Heb. 11. 40. But I ſee no ground, why the ſouls of Saints ſhould be excluded Heaven, either before or after Chriſt. As for that text of John 14. 2. Chriſt ſaith, In my fathers houſe are many manſions, not many outer courts, nor many different ſtates; and as for the Fathers mentioned, Heb. 11. 40. Surely they without us ſhall not be made perfect, and we without them ſhall not be made perfect in ſome ſenſe until the day of judgment. But our Perfection is not in reſpect of a more glorious place, but in reſpect of that perfection whereof all the faithful ſhall be made partakers as well in body as in ſoul, at the reſurrection of the juſt. Thus far I grant, that no ſoul ever entered into Heaven, but by the vertue and power of Chriſt's Aſcenſion, and that no ſoul and body joyntly ever aſcended (except Chriſt's types) before Chriſt himſelf opened thoſe doors, and lead the way; and in this reſpect he is called, The forerunner of his People. Heb.6.20.

Multas dicit non varias aut diſpares, ſed quæ pluribus ſufficiant, ac ſi diceret non ſibi uni, ſed omnibus etiam diſcipulis locum illic eſſe. Calvin. in loc.

3. That he might aſſure us, that now he had run through all thoſe Offices which he was to perform here on Earth for our redemption. He that hath entred into his reſt, hath alſo ceaſed from his own Heb. 4. 10. Works, as God did from his. He was firſt to execute his Office, and then to enter into his reſt; Though Heb.5. 8,9. he were a Son, and ſo the inheritance were his own, yet he was to learn Obedience, by the things which he ſuffered, before he was made perfect, and ſo to become the Author of eternal Salvation unto all them that obey him. This was the Argument which Chriſt uſed when he prayed to be glorified again with his Father I have John 17. 4.5. glorified thee on the earth, I have finiſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do: And now, O Father, glorifie thou me with thy own ſelf, with the glory which I had with thee before the World was. This was the order of the diſpenſation of Chriſt's Offices; his firſt work was a work of miniſtry, and Service in the Office of obedience and ſuffering for his Church; and his next work was the work of power and majeſty in the protection and exaltation of his Church; and there was a neceſſity in this order. 1. In reſpect of God's Decree, who had ſo fore appointed it, Acts 2. 23, 24.

4. In reſpect of God's Juſtice, which muſt firſt be ſatisfied by obedience before any entrance into glory, Luk. 24. 26. 3. In reſpect of Chriſt's infinite Perſon, which being equal with God, could not poſſibly be exalted without ſome preceding, deceɴt, humiliation: That he aſcended (ſaith the A- Eph.4.9. poſtle) what is it but that he alſo deſcended firſt into the lower parts of the earth? 4. In reſpect of our evidence and aſſurance; this is the ſign that Chriſt hath finiſhed the work of our redemption upon the earth; firſt, he was to act as our Surety, and then he was to aſcend as our Head, our Advocate, as the firſt-fruits, the Captain, the Prince of life, the Author of ſalvation, the forerunner of his People.

4. That he might throughly convince the world of Believers, of their perfect righteouſneſs, The Spirit Joh.16.8, 9,10. when he comes (ſaith Chriſt) ſhall convince the world of ſin, and righteouſneſs, and of judgment —— of ſin, becauſe they believe not on me ; —— of righteouſneſs, becauſe I go to my Father, and ye ſee me no more. If Chriſt had not fulfilled all righteouſneſs, there had been no going to heaven for him, nor remaining there ; certainly God would have ſent him down again to have done the reſt, and the diſciples ſhould have ſeen him with ſhame ſent back again ; but his aſcenſion to Heaven proclaims openly. 1. That he hath completely finiſhed the work he had to do for us here, that no more was to be done in this world for us, that the ſatisfactory work to juſtice was in it ſelf finiſhed. 2. That God was well pleaſed with Jeſus Chriſt, and with what he had done and ſuffer'd for us ; yea, God was ſo infinitely taken with him, and his oblation after his Sufferings, as that he thinks it not fit to let him ſtay above forty daies longer in this World ; he cannot be without him in Heaven, but he takes him up into Glory, and gives him a Name above every Name. 3. That we have our ſhare in Heaven with him ; he went not up as a ſingle perſon, but vertually, or myſtically, he carried up all the elect with him into Glory : or otherwiſe how ſhould the Spirit convince the world by his Aſcenſion of their righteouſneſs ? Or otherwiſe how ſhould the Son of God convince his Father by his Aſcenſion of his righteouſneſs ? I look upon Jeſus Chriſt going into Heaven, as a confident Debtor after payment going into a Court, and ſaying, Who hath any thing to lay to his Charge ? all is paid, let the Law take his courſe. When Chriſt entred into heaven, he ſeemed thus to challenge Juſtice, Make room here for me and mine, who ſhould hinder ? hath the Law any thing to ſay to theſe poor ſouls for Rev.8.1. whom I dyed If any in Heaven can make objection, here I am to anſwer in their behalf. Methinks I imagine a ſilence in heaven (as John ſpeaks) at this ſpeech ; only Mercy ſmiles, and Juſtice gives in the Acquittance, and God ſets Chriſt down at his right hand. 4. That he hath a new deſign to be acted in heaven for us : he is taken up into glory, that he may act glorious ly the ſecond part of our righteouſneſs, I mean that he might apply it, and ſend down his Spirit to convince us of it. He acted one part in the fleſh, in the habit of a Beggar, cloathed with Rags ; but now he is gone to act the Perſon of a Prince in robes of glory, and all this to manage our ſalvation in the richeſt way that may be. Three great things Chriſt acts for us now in glory. First, he is in place of an Advo- Heb.7.25. cate for us, He liveth to intercede for us. He is alwaies begging of favours and love for us, he lies there to ſtop whatever plea may be brought in againſt us by the Devil, or Law ; yea, he is there to get our freſh pardons for new ſins. Secondly, he is the great provider and caterer for us ; he is laying in a great ſtock and ſtore of glory for us againſt we come there ; In Joh.14.2. my Fathers houſe are many manſions. —— I go to prepare a place for you. Jeſus Chriſt went before to take up God's heart for us, and now he is drawing out the riches of love from God his Father, and laying them in bank for us, which made the Apoſtle ſay, My God Phil.4.19. ſhall ſupply all your need according to his riches in glory by Chriſt Jeſus. Thirdly, He ſends down his Spirit to convince us, that Chriſt's righteouſneſs is ours. Indeed the means of procuring this, was the life and death of Chriſt, but the means of applying this righteouſneſs, are thoſe following acts of Chriſt's Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, Seſſion, Interceſſion, &c. By his death he obtained righteouſneſs for us, but by his Aſcenſion he applies righteouſneſs to us ? now it is that in ſpecial manner he convinceth us of righteouſneſs, Becauſe he is gone to his Father, and we ſhall ſee him no more.

5. That he might receive his Kingdom over us in the place appointed for it ; look as Kings are crowned in cheif Cities of their Kingdoms, and keep their reſidence in their palaces near unto them, ſo it was decent that our Saviour ſhould be Crowned in Heaven, and there ſit down at God's right hand, which immediately follows after his Aſcenſion, to which we now come.

Sect. 4. Of God's right hand, and of Chriſt's Seſſion there.

2. For the Seſſion of Chriſt at God's right hand, which is a conſequent following after his aſcenſion into Heaven, I ſhall examine. 1. What is God's right hand, 2. What is it to ſit there ? 3. According to what nature doth Chriſt ſit there ? 4. Why is it that he ſits at the right hand of God his Father in Glory ?

1. What is this right hand of God ? I anſwer, 1. Negatively, It is not any Corporal right hand of God ; if we ſpeak properly, God hath neither right hand nor left hand ; for God is not a body, but a ſpirit or ſpiritual ſubſtance. 2. Poſitively, The right hand of God is the Majeſty, Dignity, Dominion, Power, and Glory of God. The right hand Pſal. 118. 15. of the Lord is exalted, the right hand of the Lord doth valiantly. —— Thy right hand, O Lord, is become glorious Exod. 15. 6. in Power ; thy right hand, O Lord, hath daſhed in pieces the enemy. Thou haſt a mighty arm, Strong is thy Pſal.89. 13. hand, and high is thy right hand. —— Mine hand hath Iſa.48. 13. laid the foundations of the Earth, and my right hand hath ſpanned the Heavens. I know ſome of our Divines make this right hand of God ſomething inferiour to God's own power, but others ſpeak of it as every way equal, and I know no abſurdity to follow on it.

2. What is it to ſit at the right hand of God ? I anſwer, it is not any corporal Seſſion at God's right hand, as ſome picture him with a crown of gold on his head ſitting on a Throne, as if he had no other geſture in Heaven but ſitting ſtill ; which Stephen contradicts, ſaying, I ſee the heavens opened, and the Son of man ſtanding on the right hand of God. Act.7.59 The words ſitting or ſtanding are both metaphorical, and borrowed from the cuſtom of Kings, who place thoſe they honour, and to whom they commit the Power of government, at their right hand ; more particularly, this ſitting at God's right hand implys two things. 1. His glorious exaltation. 2. The actual adminiſtration of his Kingdom.

1. Chriſt is exalted, Wherefore God alſo hath highly Phil.2.9, exalted him, and given him a name above every name, that at the name of Jeſus every knee ſhall bow. This Seſſion is the ſupreme dignity and glory given by the Father unto Chriſt after his Aſcenſion ; this Seſſion is the peerleſs exaltation of the Mediator in his Kingdom of glory. But how was Chriſt exalted ? I anſwer, 1. In the regard of his divine nature ; not really, or in it ſelf. Impoſſible it was that the divine nature ſhould receive any intrinſical Improvement, or glory, becauſe all fulneſs of glory eſſentially belonged unto it ; but declaratory, or by way of maniſeſtation ; ſo it was, that his Divinity, during the time of his humiliation, lay hidden and overſhadowed, as the light of a candle is hidden in a dark and cloſe Lanthorn ; but now in his Seſſion, that Divinity and Glory which he had alwaies with his Father, was ſhewed forth and declared, He was declared to be the Son of God with Power, Rom. 1.4 both at his reſurrection and at his Seſſion. 2. In regard of his humane nature ; and yet that muſt be underſtood ſoberly, for I cannot think that Chriſt's humane nature was at all exalted in regard of the grace of Perſonal union, or in regard of the habitual perfections of his humane ſoul, becauſe he poſſeſſed all theſe from the beginning ; but in regard of thoſe interceptions of the beams of the God-head, and Divine glory; and in reſpect of the reſtraints of that ſence and ſweetneſs, and feeling operations of the beatifical Viſion, during his humiliation; in theſe reſpects Chriſt was exalted in his humane nature, and had all the glory from the Deity communicated to it which poſſibly in any way it was capable of. There was a time when the Office which Chriſt undertook for us, made him a man of ſorrows, but when he had finiſhed that diſpenſation, then he was filled with unmatchable glory, which before his Seſſion he enjoyed not; there was a time when the natural conſequence and flowings of Chriſt's glory from that perſonal union was ſtayed and hindred, by ſpecial diſpenſation, for the working of our ſalvation; but when that miraculous ſtay was once removed, and the work of our Redemption fully finiſhed, then he was exalted beyond the capacity or comprehenſion of all the Angels of Heaven, To which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, Heb. 1. 13 ſit at my right hand? in this reſpect it is ſaid that God highly exalted him; exalted he was in his Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, but never ſo high as at his Seſſion; in his Reſurrection he was exalted with Jonah from the lower parts to the upper parts of the earth; in his Aſcenſion he was exalted with Elijah above the Clouds, above the Stars, above the Heavens; but in his Seſſion he was exalted to the higheſt place in heaven, Eph. 4. 10. even to the right hand of God, Far above all Heavens, that he might fill all things.

2. Chriſt reigns, or actually adminiſters his glorious Kingdom; and this is the principal part of Chriſt's ſitting at God's right hand. So the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. 110. 1, 2. The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, ſit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy foot-ſtool; the Lord ſhall ſend the rod of thy ſtrength out of Zion, rule thou in the midſt of thy enemies, The Apoſtle is yet more large, Eph. 1. 20, 21, 22, 23. God ſet him at his own right hand, in the heavenly places, far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but alſo in that which is to come; and hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the Church, which is his body, the fulneſs of him that filleth all in all. Some deſcribe this Seſſion at Gods right hand to be all one with his reigning in equal power and glory with the Father; but the Son hath alwaies ſo reigned, and the Holy Ghoſt hath alwaies ſo reigned, who yet is not ſaid in Scripture to ſit at the right hand of the Father, I believe therefore there is ſomething in this Seſſion or Reign of Chriſt, which doth difference it from that reigning Power and Glory of the Father, and of the Son as only God, and of the Holy Ghoſt; and if we would know what that is; I would call it an actual adminiſtration of his Kingdom, or an immediate executing of his Power and Glory over every creature as Mediator. There is a natural and a diſpenſatory Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt; for the firſt, the Father reigns immediately by the Son, but by the Holy Ghoſt the Father doth not reign immediately, but through the Son; the ſame order is to be kept in their power, which is in the Perſons; the Father reigns not by himſelf, but of himſelf, becauſe he is of none; the Son reigneth by himſelf, not of himſelf, becauſe he is begotten of the Father; the Holy Ghoſt reigneth by himſelf, but from the Father and the Son, from whom he doth proceed. And as in the natural, ſo in the diſpenſatory Kingdom, the Father reigns immediately by the Son as Mediator; and hence it is that the Son, as Mediator, is only ſaid to ſit at God's right hand, becauſe the right of actual adminiſtration, or immediate execution of the Soveraign power is appropriate and peculiar to the Son, as Mediator betwixt God and man. And this made Chriſt to ſay, The Father judgeth no man but hath committed all judgment unto the Son, as Mediator, Joh. 5. 22 You may object Chriſt was Mediator immediately after his Incarnation, but he did not actually adminiſter his Kingdom then. I anſwer, it is true; Chriſt for a time did by a voluntary diſpenſation empty himſelf, and laid aſide the right of actual adminiſtration of his Kingdom; but immediately after his Aſcenſion, the Father, by voluntary diſpenſation, reſigned it to the Son again; Come now, ſaith the Father, and take thou power over every creature, till the time that all things ſhall be ſubdued under thee. This Right the one relinquiſhed in the time of that humiliation of himſelf, and this right the other conferred at the time of the exaltation of his Son.

Sect. 5. Of the two Natures wherein Chriſt ſits at God's right hand.

3. According to what Nature is Chriſt ſaid to ſit at the right hand of God? I anſwer, according to both Natures; firſt he ſits at God's right hand as God; hereby his Divinity was declared; and his Kingdom is ſuch, that none that is a pure creature can poſſibly execute; The Lord ſaid to my Lord, ſaith David, ſit thou on my right hand, Pſal 110. 1. The Lord ſaid to my Lord] (i. e.) God ſaid to Chriſt: Now Chriſt was not David's Lord meerly as man, but as God. 2. He ſits at God's right hand as man too; hereby his Humanity was exalted, and a Power is given to Chriſt as man, He hath given him power to execute judgment in as much as he is the Son of man. Joh. 5. 27. In the adminiſtration of his Kingdom the manhood of Chriſt doth concur, as an Inſtrument worknig with his God-head. Hence this Seſſion at God's right hand is truely and properly attributed to Chriſt, as θεάνθρωπος; and not only the one nature of Chriſt, whether Divine or Humane, or it is attributed to Chriſt as Mediator; in which reſpect he is called an high Prieſt, Heb. 8. 1. We have ſuch an high Prieſt, who is ſet on the right hand of the Throne of the Majeſty in the heavens. —— And in which reſpect he is called a Prince, Acts. 5. 31. Him hath God exalted with his right hand, to be a Prince, and a Saviour. Now Chriſt is not a Prieſt and a Prince meerly according to one Nature, whether Divine or Humane. I deny not, but Chriſt had a natural Kingdom with his Father as God, before the foundation of the World; but this Kingdom as God-man Chriſt had not before his Aſcenſion into Heaven. So then Chriſt ſitteth at the right hand of God by a mediatory action, which he executeth according to both natures, the word working what pertained to the word, and the fleſh what appertaineth to the fleſh; Chriſt is Mediator as God and man, and glory hath redounded unto him as God and man, and living in this glory, he ruleth and governeth his Church as God and man, he aſcended indeed into Heaven in his humanity only, but he ſitteth at the right hand of God as Mediator in reſpect of both natures. The Lutherans attribute this Seſſion at God's right hand only to the humane nature of Chriſt; they ſay this Seſſion is nothing elſe but the elevating of his humane nature to the full and free uſe of ſome of the divine properties, as of omnipotency, omniſcience, omnipreſence; the ground of this errour is, that they ſuppoſe, upon the union of the two natures in Chriſt, a real communication of the divine properties to follow; ſo that the humane nature is made truely omnipotent, omniſcient, omnipreſent, not by any confuſion of properties, nor yet by any bare communion and concourſe of it to the ſame effect, each nature working that which belongeth to it with communion of the other, (for this we grant) but by a real donation, by which the divine properties ſo become the properties of the humane nature, that the humane nature may work with them, no leſs than the Divine nature it ſelf, for the perfecting of it ſelf. Againſt this opinion we have theſe Reaſons; 1. The Union cannot cauſe the humane nature to partake more in the properties of the Divine, than it cauſeth the Divine to partake in the properties of the humane. 2. If a true and real communication did follow of the Divine Attributes, it muſt needs be of all the Attributes, as of Eternity, and Infiniteneſs, ſeeing theſe are the Divine Eſſence, which can no way be divided. 3. Infinite perfections cannot perfect finite natures, no more than reaſonable perfections can make perfect unreaſonable creatures. 4. To what end ſhould created gifts ſerve: which Chriſt hath received above meaſure, if now more noble properties ſhould enter and be conferred on Jeſus Chriſt? other reaſons are given in, but I willingly decline all controverſal points, Sect. 6. Of the Reaſons why Chriſt doth ſit on God's right hand.

4. WHy doth Chriſt ſit at the right hand of God his Father in glory? I anſwer, 1. On Chriſt's part, that He might receive power and dominion over all the creatures: Matt.28. 18. All power is given unto me in Heaven and in Earth; he ſpeaks of it as done, becauſe it was immediately to be performed; Chriſt at his Seſſion received a power imperial over every Creature; that he hath power over the Angels is plain, both by the reverence they do him, and by their obedience towards him, At the name of Jeſus every knee muſt bow; good Angels, and evil Angels muſt yield ſigns of ſubjection to Jeſus Chriſt; if the Saints ſhall Judge the Angels, how much more ſhall Chriſt? Oh what Power hath Chriſt himſelf this way? And as for the excellencies on earth, they all received their power from Chriſt, and are at his diſpoſe; it is Jeſus Chriſt that is Heb.27. 8. crowned with Glory and Honour, and all things are put under his feet. And hence it is, that when the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Chriſt's Seſſion at the right hand of God, Eph.1.21. he tells us, he is far above all Principalities and Powers on earth and Mights and Dominions in Heaven: yea, 1 Pet.3. 22. that Angels, and Authorities, and Powers are made ſubject unto him.

2. On our part many reaſons may be given. As———

1. That he might be the Head of his Church, I mean, not head in a large ſenſe, for one who is in any kind before another: for ſo Chriſt is the head of Angels, and God is the head of Chriſt; and to this we have ſpoken before. But in a ſtrict ſenſe, for one that is in a near and communicative ſort conjoyned with another, as the Head is conjoyned with the Body and Members; and ſo is Chriſt the head of his Church. Look as the King hath a more intimate and amiable Superiority over the Queen than over any other of his Subjects; ſo is it here in Chriſt our King, he is more amiably tempered, and more nearly affected to his Spouſe and Queen, the Church of God, than to any other whomſoever, And to this purpoſe he ſits at God's right hand, that having now fulneſs of Grace and Glory in himſelf, he might be ready to communicate the ſame to his Church, who are as the members of his body, that he might give them Grace here, and Glory hereafter; when he ſhall deliver up his Kingdom to his Father, and be all in all.

2. That he might be the object of divine Adoration, then eſpecially it was ſaid and accompliſhed, Heb.1.6. Joh.5.23. Let all the Angels of God Worſhip Him: and let all men Honour the Son as they Honour the Father. After Chriſt's Seſſion, Stephen looked up into Heaven, and ſaw the Glory of God, and Jeſus ſtanding on the right hand of God, and then he Worſhipped; and called upon God: ſaying, Lord Jeſus receive my Spirit. Act 7.59. It is true that the ground of this divine Adoration is the Union of the two natures of Chriſt, and therefore the Magi worſhipped him at his Birth, and as ſoon as ever he came into the World, the Angels of God worſhipped him; Heb.1.6. but becauſe by his Seſſion at God's right hand, the Divine Nature was manifeſted, and the Humane Nature was exalted to that diginity and glory which it never had before, therefore now eſpecially, and from this time was the honour and dignity of Worſhip communicated to him as God and man. And hence Divines uſually make this one Ingredient of Chriſt's ſitting at the right hand of God, viz. That Chriſt, God and Man, is the object of Divine Adoration. *Chry. Hom.*5. in Heb. O it is a great thing, and admirable, and full of wonder, that the man Chriſt ſhould ſit above at God's right hand, and be adored of Angels and Archangels. Before this was the grace of Union conferred on Jeſus, and ſo he was adored before he ſuffered; but after he had humbled himſelf, and was made obedient unto death, even to the death of the Croſs, then (yea and therefore) God highly exalted him, and Phil.2.8, 9,10,11. gave him a Name which is above every Name, that at the Name of Jeſus every knee ſhall bow, of things in Heaven, and things in Earth, and things under the Earth, and that every tongue ſhall confeſs, that Jeſus is Lord to the glory of God the Father. He was Lord before in that he is the Son of God, but now he is Lord again by vertue of his humiliation and ſeſſion at God's right hand. Trouble not your ſelves with their objection, who ſay, That if Adoration be due to Chriſt as God and man, that then the humane nature is to be adored: The Perſon adored is Man, but the humanity it ſelf is not the proper object of that Worſhip. There is a difference betwixt the concrete and the abſtract; though the man Chriſt be God, yet his manhood is not God, and by conſequence not to be worſhipped with that worſhip which is properly and eſſentially Divine. Certainly, if Adoration agree to the humanity of Chriſt, then may his humanity help and ſave us; but the humanity of Chriſt cannot help and ſave us, becauſe omnis actio eſt ſuppoſiti, whereas the humane nature of Chriſt is not ſuppoſitum, a ſubſiſtance or perſonal being at all.

3. That he might intercede for his Saints. Heb.8. 1, 2. Now of the things which we have ſpoken, this is the Summ, we have ſuch an high Prieſt, who is ſet on the right hand of the Throne of the Majeſty in the Heavens, and a Miniſter of the Sanctuary, and of the true Tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not men. He is ſet on the right hand of God, as an high Prieſt or Miniſter to intercede for us Heb.9.24. For as Chriſt is not entred into the holy Place made with hands which are the Figures of the true, but into Heaven it ſelf, now to appear in the preſence of God for us. This appearing is an expreſſion borrowed from the cuſtom of humane Courts; for as in them, when the Plaintiff or Defendant is called, their Attorney appeareth in their names, ſo when we are ſummoned by the juſtice of God, to anſwer the complaints which it preferreth againſt us, John 2.1. we have an Advocate with the Father, Jeſus Chriſt the righteous, and he ſtandeth up and appeareth for us: Exod.28. 9,10,11, 12. Or it may be this appearing hath a reſpect to the manner of High Prieſts in the time of the Law; for as they uſe to go into the moſt holy place with the names of the Children of Iſrael written in precious ſtones, for a remembrance of them, that they might remember them to God in their Prayers; ſo Jeſus Chriſt being gone up to Heaven, he there preſents to his Father the Names of all his choſen, and he remembers them to his Father in his Interceſſions. Certainly, Chriſt is not gone to Heaven, and advanced to the right hand of God, only to live in eternal joy himſelf, but alſo to procure happineſs for his Saints: It is to excellent purpoſe, and to the great good of his Church, that he ſits at the right hand of his Father, for thereby he governs and protects his People, and he continually executes the Office of his Prieſthood, preſenting himſelf, and the Sacrifice of himſelf, and the infinite merit of that Sacrifice before the eyes of his Father in their behalf.

4. That true Believers may aſſuredly hope by vertue of Chriſt's Seſſion to ſit themſelves in the Kingdom of Glory. It is true, that Chriſt, and only Chriſt, hath his ſeat at the right hand of God; Heb. 1. 5. To which of the Saints, or of the Angels did he ever ſay, ſit thou at my right hand; It is a Prerogative above all Creatures; and yet there is ſomething near it Rev. 3. 21. given to the Saints, for him that overcometh, I will grant to ſit with me in my Throne, even as I alſo am ſet down with my Father in his Throne. There is a proportion, though with an inequality; we muſt ſit on Chriſt's Throne, as he ſits on his Father's Throne; Chriſt only ſits at the right hand of God, but the Pſal. 45. 9. Saints are to ſit at the right hand of Chriſt, and ſo the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks, Upon thy right hand did ſtand the Queen in Gold of Ophir. It is enough to greaten the Spirits of Saints; how ſhould they tread 1 Cor. 6. 2. on earth, and contemn the world, when they conſider that one day they ſhall Judge the world? Do you not know, that the Saints ſhall judge the World? Nay, when they conſider that one day they ſhall 2 Tim. 2. 12. reign with Chriſt? If ye ſuffer with him, ye ſhall reign with him. Chriſt living in Heaven, is a very Figure of us; Chriſt's Perſon is the great model and firſt draught of all that ſhall be done to his Body the Saints; therefore he is ſaid to be the Captain of our Salvation, that leads us on, he is ſaid to be our fore-runner into Glory: he breaks the clouds firſt, he appears firſt before God, he ſits down firſt, and is glorified firſt, and then we follow; Chriſt wears the Crown in Heaven as our King, and he is united and married to God as our Proxy.

And yet there is another ground of hope; not only ſhall we ſit with Chriſt in Glory, but even now do we ſit with him in glory: Chriſt is not only gone to Heaven to prepare a place for us, but he ſits in Heaven in our room and God looks on him as the great picture of all that Body whereof he is Head, and he delights himſelf in ſeeing them all glorified as in his Son. To this purpoſe the Saints are Eph. 2. 6. ſaid to ſit down with Chriſt at very preſent, he hath made us to ſit together with him in Heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus. Chriſt in our nature is now exalted; this is that admirable thing which carried up Chryſoſtom into an extaſie, that the ſame nature of which God ſaid, Duſt thou art, and to duſt thou ſhalt return, ſhould now ſit in Heaven at God's right hand: but not only the humane nature, but Chriſt in Perſon ſits there, as a common perſon in our ſtead; he is in his Throne, and we ſit with him in ſupercœleſtial places. O what ſtructures and pillars of hope are raiſed up here?

5. That he might defend the Church againſt her enemies; and at laſt deſtroy all the enemies of the Church. Such is the power of Chriſt's Seſſion, that by it he holds up his Saints in the midſt of their enemies, ſo that the gates of hell ſhall not prevail againſt them; true indeed, that many times they are uſed as Lambs amongſt Wolves, but ſo Chriſt orders, that the blood of Martyrs ſhould be the ſeed of the Church; hereby his Church, like a tree, ſettles the faſter, and like a Torch, ſhines the brighter for the ſhaking. And as for the enemies of his Church, there is a day of reckoning for them, he that ſitteth in the Heaven ſhall laugh, the Lord ſhall have them in deriſion. The day is a coming that he will ſpeak unto them in his wrath, and vex him in his Pſal. 2. 4, 5. ſore diſpleaſure. In the mean while Chriſt is galling and tormenting them by the Scepter of his Word, and at laſt he will put them all under his feet. The Pſal. 112. 1. Lord ſaid to my Lord, ſit thou at my right hand, until I make my enemies thy foot-ſtool. ——— For he muſt reign 1 Cor. 15. 25. till he hath put all his enemies under his feet: That the enemies of Chriſt muſt be made his foot-ſtool, notes the extreme ſhame and confuſion which they ſhall everlaſtingly ſuffer: In victories amongſt men the party conquered goes many times off upon ſome honourable terms, or at worſt, if they are led captive, they go like men; but to be made a ſtool for the conqueror to inſult over, this is extremity of ſhame; and as ſhame, ſo it notes burthen which the wicked muſt bear; the foot-ſtool bears the weight of the body, ſo muſt the enemies of Chriſt bear the weight of his heavy and everlaſting wrath; ſuch a weight ſhall they bear, that they would gladly exchange it for the weight of rocks and mountains; rather would they live under the weight of the heavieſt creature in the World, than under the fury of him that ſitteth upon the Throne. And withal, it notes an equal and juſt recompence to the Wicked; the Lord uſeth often to fit puniſhments to the quality and meaſure of their ſins committed; he that on earth denied a crumb of bread, was in hell denyed a drop of water; and thus will Chriſt deal with his enemies at the laſt day; here they trample upon Chriſt in his Word, in his waies, in his members; they make the Saints bow down for them Iſa. 51. 23. to go over; yea, they have laid their bodies as the ground, and as the ſtreet to them that went over, they tread under Heb. 10. 29. foot the Son of God, the blood of the Covenant; they Iſa. 63. 18. tread down the ſanctuary; and put Chriſt to ſhame, and Heb. 6. 6. therefore their own meaſure ſhall be returned into their own boſom, they ſhall be conſtrained to confeſs with Adoni-bezek, As I have done, ſo God hath requited me: yea, this ſhall they ſuffer from the Judg. 1. 7. meaneſt of Chriſt's members, whom they here inſult over; the Saints ſhall be as witneſſes, and as it were co-aſſeſſors with Chriſt, to Judge the wicked, both men and Angels, and tread them under their feet; they ſhall take them captives whoſe captives they Iſa. 14. 2. were, and ſhall rule over their oppreſſors; they that deſpiſed them, ſhall bow themſelves at the ſoles of their feet.

6. That he might ſend down the Holy Ghoſt; to this purpoſe Chriſt told his Diſciples whilſt he was yet on earth, that he muſt aſcend into Heaven, and Reign there: It is expedient for you, that I go John 16. 7. away, for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will ſend him to you. Chriſt is now in heaven, and ſits at God's right hand, that he may ſend us his ſpirit, by whoſe forcible working we ſeek after Heaven, and heavenly things, where now Chriſt ſits. But on this I ſhall inſiſt larger, it being our next ſubject.

Sect. 7. Of the time when the Holy Ghoſt was ſent.

3. FOr the miſſion of his Spirit: No ſooner was Chriſt ſet down at God's right hand, but he ſends down the Holy Ghoſt. It was an uſe amongſt the Ancients in days of great joy and ſolemnity to give gifts, and to ſend preſents unto men; thus after the wall of Jeruſalem was built, it is ſaid, that the people did eat, and drink Nehem. 8. 14. and ſend portions and at the feaſt of Purim, they Eph. 9. 22. made them daies of feaſting and joy, and of ſending portions one to another and Gifts to the poor. Thus Chriſt in the day of his Majeſty and Inauguration, in that great and ſolemn Triumph, when he aſcended up on high, he led captivity captive, and did withal give gifts unto men. Eph. 4. 8.

Concerning this miſſion of the Spirit, or theſe gifts of Chriſt to his Church, I ſhall diſcover the accompliſhment, as it appears in theſe Texts; And when the day of Pentecoſt was fully come, they were all Act. 2. 1, 2, 3, 4. with one accord in one place; and ſuddenly there came a ſound from heaven as of a ruſhing mighty wind, and it filled all the houſe where they were ſitting; and there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it ſate upon eaoh of them; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and began to ſpeak with other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance. Out of theſe words I ſhall obſerve theſe prrticulars: the time when; the perſons to whom; the manner how; the meaſure what; and the reaſons why the Holy Ghoſt was ſent.

1. For the time when the Holy Ghoſt was ſent it is ſaid, when the day of Pentecoſt was fully come; this was a feaſt of the Jews, called πεντηκοστὴ a πεντέχοντα from fifty days; becauſe it was ever kept on the Fiftieth day after the ſecond of the paſſover. We find in Scripture ſundry memorable things reckoned by the number of fifty. As fifty days from Iſrael's coming out of Egypt unto the giving of the Law. And the fiftieth year was that great feaſt of the Jubilee which was the time of forgiving of debts, and of reſtoring men to their firſt eſtates; And fifty daies were in truth the appointed time of the Jews Harveſt; their Harveſt being bounded as it were with two remarkable days, the one being the beginning, and the other the end thereof; the beginning was δευτέρα τοῦ παχα, the ſecond of the paſſover; the end was πεντηκοστὴ, the fiftieth after, called the Pentecoſt; upon the Levit. 23. 10. δευτέρα they offered a ſheaf of the firſt fruits of their Harveſt: upon the Pentecoſt they offered two wave Loaves, the ſheaf being offered, all the after fruits Levit. 23. 17. throughout the Land were Sanctified; and the two loaves being offered, it was a ſign of the Harveſt finiſhed and ended; and now we find, that as there were fifty days betwixt δευτέρα and the Pentecoſt, ſo there were fifty daies betwixt Chriſt's Reſurrection and the coming down of the Holy Ghoſt. What was the meaning of this, but to hold harmony, and to keep correſpondency with thoſe memorable things? As on the day of Pentecoſt (fifty days after the feaſt of the Paſſover) the Iſraelites came to mount Sinai, there received they the Law, a memorable day with them, and therefore called the feaſt of the Law; ſo the very ſame day is accompliſhed that Prophecy, Iſa. 2. 3. Out of Zion ſhall go forth the Law, and the Word of the Lord from Jeruſalem; now was the promulgation of Jam. 2. 8 the Goſpel called by James, The Royal Law, as given by Chriſt our King, and written in the Hearts of his Servants by this Holy Ghoſt; it ſeems to ſhadow out the great difference betwixt the Law and the Goſpel; the Law is given with terrour, in lightning and thunder; it diſcovers ſin, declares God's wrath, frights the Conſcience; but the Goſpel is given without terrour, there was no lightning and thunder now: no, no; the Holy Ghoſt ſlides down from Heaven with grace and gifts; and with great joy ſits on the heads, and in the hearts of his Saints. 2. On the Jubilee or fiftieth year, was a great feaſt; whence ſome obſerve, that the Latins made their word Jubilo, to take up a Merry Song; though the word be derived from the Hebrew Jobel, which ſignifies a Rams-horn; for then they blew with Rams horns, as when they gathered the People to the Congregation, they blew their Silver Trumpets. There were many uſes of this Feaſt; 1. For the general releaſe of Servants. 2. For the reſtoring of Lands unto their firſt owners, who had ſold them. 3. For the keeping of right Chronology and reckoning of times; for as the Greeks did reckon by their Olimpiads, and the Latine, by their Luſtra, ſo did the Hebrews by their Jubilees; this falls fit with the proclaiming of the Goſpel, which is an act or tender of God's moſt gracious general free pardon of all ſins, and of all the ſinners in the world; now was the ſound of the Goſpel made known unto all, out of every Nation under Heaven; Acts 2. 5 now was that ſpiritual Jubilee which Chriſtians enjoy under Chriſt; now was the remiſſion publiſhed, which exceed the remiſſion of the Jubilee, as far as the Jubilee exceed the remiſſion of the Seventh year (i. e.) not only ſeven times, but ſeventy times ſeven times. Mat. 18. 22. 3. On the day of Pentecoſt, they offered the two wave-loaves called the bread of the firſt fruits unto the Lord. Lev. 23. 17, 20. In like ſort this very day (the Lord of the harveſt ſo diſpoſing it) the Apoſtles by the aſſiſtance and effectual working of the Spirit, offered the firſt-fruits of their Harveſt unto the Lord; for the ſame day there were added unto them about three Act. 2. 41. thouſand ſouls. We ſee the circumſtance of time hath its due weight, and is very conſiderable; when the day of Pentecoſt was fully come, then came the Holy Ghoſt.

Sect. 8 Of the Perſons to whom the Holy Ghoſt was ſent.

2. FOr the perſons to whom the Holy Ghoſt was ſent; it is ſaid, to all that were with one accord in one place; Act. 2. 1. who they were it is not here expreſt; yet from the former Chapter we may conjecture, they were the twelve Apoſtles, together with Joſeph called Barſabas, and the Women, and Mary the Mother of Jeſus, and his brethren; Acts 1. 13, 14. theſe all continued with one accord in one place, for ſo was Chriſt's Command, that they ſhould not depart from Jeruſalem, but wait for the promiſe of the Father, which, ſaith he, ye have heard of me. Act. 1. 4. This promiſe we read of in the Evangeliſts, when the Comforter is come, whom I will ſend unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he will teſtifie of me—— John 15. 26. And behold, I ſend the promiſe of the Father upon you, but tarry ye in the City of Jeruſalem until you be endued with power from on high. Luke 24. 49. It was the great promiſe of the Old Teſtament, that Chriſt ſhould partake of our humane Nature; and it was the great Promiſe of the New Teſtament, that we ſhould partake of his divine Nature; he was clothed with our fleſh according to the former, and we are inveſted with his Spirit according to the latter promiſe. For this promiſe the Apoſtles and others had long waited, and for the accompliſhment they were now fitted and diſpoſed. 1. They had waited for it from the Aſcention day, till the feaſt of Pentecoſt; he told them at the very inſtant of his Aſcention, that he would ſend the Holy Ghoſt, and therefore bid them ſtay together till that hour; upon which command they waited, and continued waiting until the day of Pentecoſt was fully come. He that believeth ſhall not make haſt, ſaith Iſaiah; Iſa. 28. 16 ſurely waiting is a Chriſtian Duty, for the Viſion is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it ſhall Hab. 2. 3 ſpeak and ſhall not lye, though it tarry, wait for it, becauſe it will ſurely come it will not tarry. Well may we wait, and wait for him, if we conſider how God and Chriſt have waited for us and our converſion; and eſpecially, if we conſider that the Comforter will come; and when he comes, that he will abide with us for ever. John 16. But, 2. As they waited for the Spirit, ſo they were rightly diſpoſed to receive the Spirit, for they were all with one accord in one place. Mark here the qualifications of theſe perſons; they were all with one accord, &c. To thoſe that accord in the ſpirit given; where is nothing but diſcord, jars, diviſions, factions, there is no Spirit of God; for the Spirit is the author of concord, peace, unity, and amity; he is the very eſſential unity, love, and love-knot of the two perſons, the Father and the Son; even of God with God: and he was ſent to be the union, love, and love-knot of the two natures united in Chriſt, even of God with man; and can we imagine that eſſential unity will enter but where there is unity? Can the Spirit of Unity come or remain but where there is unity of ſpirit? Verily there is not, there cannot be a more proper and peculiar, a more true and certain diſpoſition to make us meet for the ſpirit, than that quality in us that is likeſt to his nature and eſſence; and that is unity, love, concord: do we marvel that the ſpirit doth ſcarcely pant in us? Alas, we are not all of one accord; the very firſt point is wanting to make us meet for the coming of the Holy Ghoſt upon us. We ſee the perſons to whom the Holy Ghoſt was ſent: they were they that were together with one accord in one place.

Sect. 9. Of the manner how the Holy Ghoſt was ſent.

3. FOR the manner how he was ſent, or how he came to theſe Apoſtles; we may obſerve theſe particulars. ——

1. He came ſuddenly; which either ſhews the Majeſty of the Miracle that is gloriouſly done, which is ſuddenly done; or the Truth of the Miracle, there could be no impoſture or fraud in it, when the motion of it was ſo ſudden; or the purpoſe of the Miracle, which was to awake and affect them to whom it came; uſually ſudden things ſtartle us, and make us look up. We may learn to receive thoſe holy motions of the ſpirit, which ſometimes come ſuddenly, and we know not how; I am perſuaded the man breaths not amongſt us Chriſtians, that ſometimes feels not the ſtirrings, movings, breathings of the ſpirit of God; Oh that men would take heed of deſpiſing preſent motion! Oh that men would take the Wind while it blows, and the Water while the Angel moves it; as not knowing when it will, or whether ever it will blow again.

2. He came from Heaven? the place ſeems here to commend the gift; as from Earth earthly things ariſe, ſo from Heaven heavenly, ſpiritual, eternal things. And this is one ſign to diſtinguiſh the ſpirits; 1 John 4. 1. Beloved, believe not every ſpirit, but try the ſpirits whether they are of God. If our motions come from Heaven, if we fetch our grounds thence, from Heaven, from Religion, from the Sanctuary, it is the ſpirit of God; or if it carry us Heaven-ward, if it make us heavenly minded, if it wean us from the World, and if it elevate and and ſet our affections on heavenly things, if it form and frame our Converſations towards Heaven, we may then conclude the motions are not from below, but from above. O that Chriſtians would be much in obſervation of, and in liſtning to the movings, workings, hints and imitations of that Spirit that comes from Heaven. Certainly that Spirit is of God that comes down from Heaven, and that lifts up our ſouls towards Heaven.

3. He comes down from Heaven like a Wind; the Compariſon is moſt apt? of all bodily things the wind is leaſt bodily; it is inviſible; and comes neareſt to the nature of a ſpirit: It is quick and active as the Spirit is. But more eſpecially the Holy Ghoſt is compared to a wind in reſpect of its irreſiſtable workings; as nothing can reſiſt the wind, it goes and blows which way ſoever it will; ſo nothing can reſiſt the Spirit of God, whereſoever it hath a purpoſe to work efficaciouſly; I will not ſay, but the heart of a man may reſiſt and reject the work of the Spirit in ſome meaſure, and in ſome degrees; Stephen told the Jews they had alwaies reſiſted the Holy Ghoſt; and the Apoſtle tells of ſtrong holds and of every high thing exalteth it ſelf againſt God: ſo Act.75. 1. 2 Cor.10. 10. 5. there is a natural contrariety, a conſtant enmity, and active reſiſting of God's Spirit by our ſpirits; we muſt therefore deſtinguiſh between a prevalent and a gradual reſiſting; the ſpirit in Converſation ſo works, that he takes away the prevalent, but not the gradual reſiſting; a man before he be converted is froward, and full of cavils and prejudices, he is unwilling to be ſaved, he cannot abide the Truth, he doth what he can to ſtifle all good motions; yet if he belong to the election of Grace, God will at laſt overmaſter his heart, and make him, of unwilling willing; he will omnipotently bow and change the will, and work on his ſoul by his mighty power efficaciouſly, inſuperably, and irreſiſtably. Again, the holy Ghoſt is compared to wind, in reſpect of its free actings; the wind bloweth where it liſteth (ſaith Chriſt) and ſo the Spirit bloweth where it liſteth; John3.8. who can give any reaſon why the ſpirit breaths ſo ſweetly on Jacob and not on Eſau? on Peter, and not on Judas? Is it not the free grace and good pleaſure of God? ſprings it not from the meer freedom and pure arbitrarineſs of his own only workings? To you it is given to know the myſteries of the Kingdom of Heaven (ſaith Chriſt) but to them it is not given. And Mat. 13. 11. I thank thee, O Father, Lord of Heaven and Earth, Mat.11, 25, 20. becauſe thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, and haſt revealed them unto babes; even ſo Father, for ſo it ſeemeth good in thy ſight. Theſe and the like Texts, are as ſo many hammers to beat in pieces all thoſe Doctrines of free will, and of the power of man to ſupernatural things; grace makes no gain of man's work; free-will may indeed move and run; but if it be to good, it muſt be moved, and driven, and breathed upon God's free grace. The ſpirit blows where it liſteth.

4. He came like ruſhing mighty wind; as the wind is ſometimes of that ſtrength, that it rends and rives in ſunder Mountains and Rocks, it pulls up trees, it blows down buildings; ſo are the operations of the holy Spirit takes down all before it, it brings into captivity many an exalting thought; it made a Conqueſt of the World, beginning at Jeruſalem, and ſpreading it ſelf over all the earth; it is mighty in operation, able to ſhake the ſtouteſt and the proudeſt man, and to break in pieces the very ſtonieſt heart; indeed our words without this ſpirit are but weak wind, we may ſpend our ſelves and never weaken Souls; but if the ſpirit blow, he will amaze the Conſciences of the ſtouteſt Peers, and drive away our ſins, as the wind drove away the Graſhoppers and Locuſts that overſpread the Land of Ægypt. Some Analogy there is betwixt this vehement wind and the Spirit's workings; the ſpirit firſt comes as a ſpirit of bondage, and then as a ſpirit of adoption; the ſpirit of bondage is as a vehement wind that terrifies, to ſhew that we are not fit to receive the grace of God, unleſs the door be firſt opened by fear and humiliation; others ſay that the vehement ruſhing of this wind ſheweth how irreſiſtably the Apoſtles ſhould proceed in preaching the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt; they had a Commiſſion to go into all the World, and to teach all Nations, and they had a promiſe, that though many might oppoſe, yet the gates of Hell ſhould not prevail againſt the Church; the Spirit ſhould go along with them, and he in them, and they in him, ſhould prevail mightily like a ruſhing mighty wind.

5. He filled all the houſe where they were ſitting; there were none there that were not filled with the Holy Ghoſt; this Room contained a Congregation of none but Saints. All the men and women (an hundred and twenty, as ſome think) in this room were viſited from on high; for the Holy Ghoſt came upon them, and dwelt in them; well might David ſay, Bleſſed are they that dwell in thy houſe, I had rather be a door-keeper in the houſe of my God, than to dwell in the Tents of wickedneſs. They that abode in his houſe were under a promiſe, that the Spirit ſhould come, and now was the promiſe accompliſhed, for it filled all the houſe where they were ſitting. I ſay, where they were ſitting, to ſignifie, that all the other houſes of Jeruſalem felt none of this mighty ruſhing wind: there was no aſſembly of Saints in any part of the City, but only in this houſe; or if any other aſſembly might be, this ſpirit blew upon none of them where theſe men were not; that, and only that houſe is filled, where they were ſitting. And this point of blowing upon one certain place is a property very ſuitable to the Spirit of; the wind
John 2. 8. bloweth where it liſteth, and thou heareſt the ſound thereof, but canſt not tell whence it cometh nor whither it goeth; ſo is every one that is born of the Spirit. The Spirit blows where it will, and upon whom it will, and they ſhall plainly feel it, and others about them not one jot: have we not ſometimes the Experiencies of this in our very Congregations? One ſound is heard, one breath doth blow, and it may be one or two, and no more, hears the ſound or feels the breath inwardly, ſavingly; it may be one here, and another there ſhall feel the ſpirit, ſhall be affected and touched with it ſenſibly; but twenty on this ſide them, and forty on that ſide them all becalmed, and go their way no more moved, than when they came into God's preſence. Oh that this Spirit of the Lord would come daily and conſtantly into our congregations! Oh that it would blow through them, and through! O that it would fill every ſoul in the aſſembly with the breath of Heaven! Come holy ſpirit:
Can.4.16. awake, O North-wind, and come thou South wind, and blow upon our Gardens, that the ſpices thereof may flow out

6, He came down in the form of tongues As one ſaith well, This wind brought tongues, even a whole ſhowre of tongues. The Apoſtles were not only inſpired for their own benefit, but they had gifts beſtowed on them, to impart the benefit to more than themſelves. But why did the Holy Ghoſt appear like Tongues? I anſwer, 1. The Tongue is a ſymbol of the holy Ghoſt's proceeding from the Word of the Father; as the Tongue hath the neareſt affinity with the Word, and is moved by the Word of the heart, to expreſs the ſame by the ſound of the voice; ſo the holy Ghoſt hath the neareſt affinity that may be with the Word of God, and is the expreſſer of his voice, and the ſpeaker of his will. 2. The Tongue is the ſole inſtrument of Knowledge, which conveys the ſame from man to man; tho' the ſoul be the Fountain from whence all Wiſdom ſprings, yet the Tongue is the chanel and the conduit pipe whereby this Wiſdom and Knowledge is communicated and transferred from man to man: In like manner the Holy Ghoſt is the ſole author and teacher of all Truth; though Chriſt be the Wiſdom of God, yet the Holy Ghoſt is the teacher of this Wiſdom to men: And hence it is, that the Holy Ghoſt appeared in the form of Tongues.

And yet not meerly in the form of Tongues, but thus qualified. 1. They were Cloven Tongues; to ſignifie that the Apoſtles ſhould ſpeak in divers Languages; if there muſt be a calling of the Gentiles, they muſt needs have the Tongues of the Gentiles wherewith to call them: If they were debtors not only to the Jews, but to the Grecians; nor only Rom.1.14 to the Grecians, but to the Barbarians alſo, then muſt they have the tongues not only of the Jews, but of the Grecians and Barbarians to pay this Debt, and to diſcharge this duty of, go and teach all Nations. Surely Mat 28.
this gift was beſtowed for the propagating of the 19.
Goſpel far and wide: The tongues were cloven, that the Apoſtles might ſpeak all Languages, and that all Nations of the World, whitherſoever they came, might hear them, and underſtand them ſpeaking in their own Tongues. 2. They were fiery tongues; to ſignifie that there ſhould be an efficacy, or fervour in their ſpeaking; the World was ſo overwhelmed with ignorance and errour, that the Apoſtles lips had need to be touched with a coal from the Altar: Tongues of fleſh would not ſerve the turn, nor words of air, but there muſt be fire put into the Tongue, and Spirit of life into the words they ſpeak; with ſuch a tongue Chriſt ſpeaks himſelf, when they ſaid of him, Did Luke 24.
not our hearts burn within us, while he ſpake unto us by 32.
the way? and with ſuch a tongue Peter ſpake at this time, ſomething like fire fell from him on their hearts, when they were pricked in their hearts, Acts 2.7.3
and ſaid, men and brethren what ſhall we do? Oh that we of the Miniſtry had theſe fiery Tongues! O that the Spirit would put his live coal into our ſpeeches! Oh that our Sermons were warming Sermons! may we not fear that the Spirit is gone whiles the people are dead, and we are no more lively in our Miniſtry? It is ſaid of Luther, that when he heard one preach very faintly, cold, cold, ſaies he, this is cold preaching, here's no heat at all to be gotten; Oh, when the Spirit comes, it comes with a tongue of fire; inſtead of words, ſparks of fire will fall from us on the hearts of hearers.

3. Theſe cloven Tongues ſate upon each of them; to ſignifie their Conſtancy and Continuance; they did not light, and touch, and away, after the manner of Butter-flies; but they ſate, they abode ſtill, they continued ſteddy, without any ſtirring or ſtarting. This was the privy ſign by which John the Baptiſt knew Jeſus to be Chriſt; upon whom thou ſhalt ſee the Joh. 1.33.
Spirit deſcending and remaining on him, the ſame is he which Baptizeth with the Holy Ghoſt. It was not only the Spirit's deſcending, but the Spirit's remaining on him, Pſal. 51.
that was the ſign. The Spirit of God is a conſtant 10.
Spirit; it abides on the Soul to whom it is given; and therefore the Pſalmiſt deſcribes theſe great tranſactions of Chriſt to this very end, that the Spirit might dwell with us; Thou haſt aſcended on high, thou Pſal. 68.

yea, for the rebellious alſo, that the Lord God might dwell among them. Now only that he might ſtay and lodge for a night, as a way-faring man, that comes to his Inn, and then is gone in the morning; no, no; but that he might take up his reſidence, and dwell in them. I know it is a queſtion, whether the Holy Ghoſt may be loſt? but certainly of the elect he is never totally or wholly loſt; only I dare not ſay; but as touching many gifts, he might be loſt even of the Elect themſelves: David, after his ſins, was forced to cry, Caſt me not away from thy preſence, O Lord, and Pſal. 51.

of thy ſalvation, and uphold me with thy free Spirit; we find here, that in reſpect of ſome gifts even of regeneration, the Spirit is ſometimes loſt, but that the godly ſhould retain no remnants of the Spirit in their worſt declinings, I cannot imagine: John teacheth 1 John 3. 9. expreſly Whoſoever is born of God doth not commit ſin, (a ſin unto death) for his ſeed remaineth in him, neither can he ſin, becauſe he is born of God. David in his fall loſt the joy of his heart, the puriry of his conſcience, and many other gifts which he deſired to have reſtored to him; but the Holy Ghoſt he had not utterly loſt; for if ſo, how could he have prayed, Caſt me not away from thy preſence, and take not thy holy Spirit from me? I have done with the manner of the Spirit's miſſion.

Sect. 10, Of the meaſure of the Holy Ghoſt now given.

4. FOR the meaſure, what or how much of the Spirit was now given? This queſtion is neceſſary, becauſe we bring in the Spirit's miſſion after Chriſt's aſcenſion, as if the Holy Ghoſt had not been given before this time. That this was the time of the coming of the Holy Ghoſt, is very plain; but that the Holy Ghoſt was not given before this time, we cannot ſay; certainly the Prophets ſpeak by him, and the Apoſtles had him, not only when they were firſt called, but more fully when he breathed on them, John 20. 22. and ſaid unto then, receive ye the Holy Ghoſt. So that if ye ſtudy the reconciliation of theſe things, I know not any way better, than to put it on the meaſure, or degrees of the Spirit's miſſion—I know ſome go about to reconcile it thus, that the Holy Ghoſt was given before ſecretly with grace, but now he was given in a viſible ſhape with power. Others thus, that the Holy Ghoſt was before given in reſpect of Grace and Miniſterial Gifts, but now he was given in reſpect of vertue, or ghoſtly ability to worſt Wonders, and to ſpeak with divers Languages. But we find that the Prophets and Apoſtles, before this, had not only Grace and Miniſterial Gifts, but a miraculous Vertue, even the ſpirit of powerful and extraordinary operation: only here was the difference, that before this, the Spirit was but ſprinkled (as it were) upon them, but now it was poured upon them; before this they were gently breathed on, and refreſhed with a ſmall gale, but now they were all blown upon with a mighty wind; without Controverſie, a difference there is in the Spirit's miſſion; and that ſome lay down cheifly in theſe three things——

As,——

1. In the manner of the Spirit's miſſion: to the old Church the ſpirit came uſually in dreams, or viſions, or in a low ſtill voice, or in ſome latent waies; but now he came in power, in evidence and demonſtration; and therefore it is called, the ſpirit of revelation and knowledge. At the apparition of God to Eph. 1. 17. 1 Kin. 19. 11, 1 Elijah, it is ſaid, that the Lord paſſed by; and agreat and ſtrong wind rent the mountain, and brake in pieces the rocks before the Lord, but the Lord was not in the wind; and after the wind an earthquake, but the Lord was not in the earthquake; and after the earthquake a fire, but the Lord was not in the fire; and after the fire a ſtill ſmall voice, and then Elijah wrapped his face in his mantle, as knowing the Lord's preſence was therein, the Spirit came not of old, ſave in a viſion, or dream, or in a ſtill ſmall voice; but now the Spirit came in a ruſhing mighty wind, in fiery tongues, in earthquakes, Acts 4. 31 inſomuch, that the place was ſhaken where they were aſſembled, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt: the Spirit now made choice to come in ſuch apparitions, as ſhould have in them a ſelf diſcovering Property, which would not be hidden; and here is one difference.

2. Another difference is in reſpect of the Subject, unto whom he was ſent; before now he came only upon the incloſed garden of the Jews, but after the aſcenſion of Chriſt, the Spirit was poured upon all fleſh; now every believer is of the Iſrael of God, every Chriſtian is a Temple of the Holy Ghoſt; now we receive the ſpirit too, or elſe it is wrong Rom. 8. 9. with us; for if any man hath not the Spirit of Chriſt he is none of his; At Peter's ſermon to Cornelius, it is Acts 10. 44, 45. ſaid, that the Holy Ghoſt fell on all them which hear the Word; and they of the Circumciſion which believed were aſtonied, becauſe that on the Gentiles alſo was poured out the gift of the holy Ghoſt. It was ſome wonder at firſt, even to the Apoſtles themſelves, but in this ſermon Peter acknowleges, Acts 10. 3. 3. Of a truth, I perceive that God is no reſpecter of Perſons, but in every Nation, he that feareth him, and worketh righteouſneſs, is accepted with him. Mark, In every Nation, upon all fleſh, I will pour out my ſpirit: Here's another difference.

3. One difference more is in the meaſure of his miſſion. At firſt he was ſent only in drops and dew, but now he was poured out in ſhowers and abundance; Tit. 3. 6. The Holy Ghoſt (ſaith Paul) was ſhed on us abundantly through Jeſus our Saviovr. As there are degrees in the wind, aura, ventus, procella, a breath, a blaſt, a ſtiff gale; we cannot deny degrees in the ſpirit, the Apoſtles at Chriſt's reſurrection received the ſpirit, but now they were filled with the ſpirit; then it was but a breath, but now it was a mighty wind. And indeed never was the like meaſure of the ſpirit given to men as at this time; the Fathers before this, and we and our Fathers ſince this, have but (as it were) a hint of the Spirit to their Epha; ſuch a Pentecoſt as this, never was but this, never the like before or ſince; it was Chriſt's coronation-day, the day of placing him in his throne, when he gave theſe gifts unto men, and therefore that day was all magnificence ſhewed above all other days. Thus for the meaſure of the ſpirit now given to the Church of Chriſt.

Sect. 11. Of the reaſons why tht Holy Ghoſt was ſent.

5. FOr the Reaſons why the Holy Ghoſt was ſent, they are ſeveral: As——

1. That all the prophecies concerning this miſſion might be accompliſhed. Iſaiah ſpeaks of a time when the ſpirit ſhould be poured upon us from on high, and the Wilderneſs ſhould be a fruitful field. Iſa. 32. 15. And Zachary prophecies, that Zach. 12. 10. In that day I will pour upon the houſe of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, the ſpirit of grace and ſupplication. And Joel prophecies yet more Joel 2. 28, 29. expreſly, It ſhall come to paſs, that I will pour out my ſpirit upon all fleſh, and your ſons and your Daughter ſhall propheſie: your old men ſhall dream dreams, your young-men ſhall ſee viſions; and alſo upon the ſervants, and upon the hand-maids in thoſe days I will pour out my ſpirit, and they ſhall Propheſie. This very propheſie was cited by Peter in his firſt Sermon after the ſpirits miſſion, Act. 2 17, 18. In which we read of two pourings of the ſpirit, one upon their Sons, and the other upon his ſervants; the former concerned only the Jews, they ſhould have Prophecies, Viſions and Dreams, the old way of the Jews; but the latter concerns us, we are not of their ſons, but of his ſervants, to whom viſions and dreams are left quite out; and therefore if any now pretend to thoſe viſions and dreams, we ſay with Jeremy, The prophet that hath a dream, let him tell a dream, but he that hath my Word, let him ſpeak my Word faithfully, what is the Jer. 23. 28. Chaff to the Wheat? But of all the propheſies concerning the miſſion of the holy Ghoſt, our Saviour gives the cleareſt and the moſt particular; two great Propheſies we find in the Bible, the one is of the Old Teſtament, and the other of the New; that of the Old Teſtament was for the coming of Chriſt, and this of the New Teſtament was for the coming of the Holy Ghoſt: and hence we ſay, that the coming of Chriſt was the fulfilling of the Law, and the coming of the Holy Ghoſt is the fulfilling of the Goſpel. In this reſpect let us ſearch and ſee thoſe Propheſies of Chriſt, the great Prophet in the New Teſtament. John 14. 16,17. I will pray the Father, and he ſhall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with John 15. 26. you for ever, even the Spirit of truth.—— But when the Comforter is come, whom I will ſend unto you from the Luke 24. 49. Father, he ſhall teſtifie of me.———And behold, I Joh. 16.7 ſend the promiſe of my Father upon you, but tarry ye in the City of Jeruſalem, until ye be endued with Power from on high. it is expedient for you that I go away; for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you: but if I depart, I will ſend him unto you. Why it was of neceſſity that all theſe Propheſies and Promiſes muſt be accompliſhed, and therefore was the Holy Ghoſt ſent amongſt us

2. That the holy Apoſtles might be furniſhed with gifts and graces ſuitable to their eſtates, conditions, ſtations, places. To this purpoſe, no ſooner was the Spirit ſent; but they were filled with the Holy Acts 2.3. Ghoſt, and began to ſpeak with other tongues as the ſpirit gave them utterance. They were filled with the Holy Ghoſt; not that they were before empty, but now they were more full of the ſpirit than ever they were before; and they ſpeak with other tongues; other than ever they had Learned; probably they underſtood no tongue but the Syriack till this time, but now on a ſudden they could ſpeak Greek, Latin, Arabick, Perſian, Parthian, and what not? the Wiſdom and Mercy of God is very obſervable herein, that the ſame means of diverſe Tongues, which was the deſtroying of Babel, ſhould be the very ſame means here conferred on the Apoſtles, to work the building of Sion; that the curſe ſhould be removed, and a bleſſing come in place; that confuſion of Tongues ſhould be united to God's Glory; that this ſhould be the iſſue of Tongues, that neither Speech nor Language ſhould be upon all the Earth, but his praiſe and glory, and the Goſpel ſhould be heard amongſt them. And here is ſomething more obſervable, in that they ſpeak with other Tongues; As the ſpirit gave them utterance; the word utterance is in the Original ἀποφθέγγεσθαι you have heard of Apothegms, (i. e.) wiſe and weighty ſententious ſpeeches; now ſuch as theſe the ſpirit gave them v. 11. to utter; magnalia Dei, (as in the eleventh verſe) the wonderful Works of God; they ſpeak of thoſe ſingular benefits God offered to the World by the death of his Son; they ſpeak of the Work of our Redemption, of the merits of Chriſt, of the Glory and Riches of his Grace, of the praiſes due to his Name for all his mercies; others add that they ſpake of thoſe admirable Works of the Trinity, as of our Creation, Redemption, ond Sanctification; and of whatſoever generally concerned the ſalvation of mankind: their ſpeeches were not crudities of their own Brain, trivial, baſe, or vulgar ſtuff; but Magnalia, great and high Points, Apothegms or Oracles, as the ſpirit gave them utterance. But theſe reaſons are remote to us.

3. That he might fill the hearts of all the Saints, 1 Cor. 6. 19. and make them Temples and receptacles for the Holy Ghoſt, Know you not that your body is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt, which is in you, which ye have of God: and ye are not your own? It is ſaid here, that after the mighty ruſhing Wind and cloven Acts 2.4. fiery Tongues, they were all filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and began to ſpeak with other Tongues. Firſt, they were filled with the Holy Ghoſt, and then they ſpake with other Tongues; the Holy Ghoſt begins inward, and works outward; it firſt alters the mind before it change the ſpeech; it firſt works on the ſpirit, before on the phraſe or utterance; this was the firſt work of the Spirit, it filled them. And thus for the daily miniſtration, ſuch muſt be appointed as were full of the Holy Ghoſt. Acts 6.3. And Stephen is ſaid to Act. 7.55. be full of the Holy Ghoſt; and Barnabas is called a Acts 11. 24. good man, and full of the Holy Ghoſt. The Holy Ghoſt is uſually ſaid to fill the Saints; only whether it be the Perſon of the Holy Ghoſt, or the impreſſions of the Holy Ghoſt, is a very great queſtion; for my part, I am apt to incline to their mind, who ſay, not only the impreſſions of the ſpirit, the qualities of holineſs, the gifts and graces of the Holy Ghoſt, or as ſome think, habitual grace in a ſpecial manner; but that the Holy Ghoſt himſelf doth fill, and dwell, and reign in the hearts of all regenerate men. And this ſeems clear to me: 1. By Scriptures. 2. Arguments.

1. The Scripture are ſuch as theſe, He that be- John 7. 38,39. lieveth on me, as the Scripture ſaith, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of living water; but this ſpake he of the Spirit, which they that believe on him ſhould receive, for the Holy Ghoſt was not yet given, becauſe that Jeſus was not yet glorified; for thoſe words, out of his belly ſhall flow rivers of living water; by living water, is meant grace; by rivers of living water, is meant the manifold graces of the Spirit; by the flowing of theſe rivers, is meant the abounding and communicating of thoſe graces from one to another; and by the belly out of which thoſe rivers ſhould flow, is meant the heart indued or filled with the Holy Ghoſt, Now the ſpring and rivers, the fountain and ſtreams are diverſe things, and to be diſtinguiſhed: the one is the cauſe, and the other the effect; the one is the tree, and the other the fruit; it is the Holy Ghoſt, filling the hearts of Believers, that is the ſpring and fountain whence all thoſe rivers of living waters flow: And therefore ſaith the Evangeliſt expreſly, This ſpake he of the ſpirit, which they that believe ſhould receive; of what Spirit; even of the Holy Ghoſt, which in full meaſure was not yet given, becauſe that Chriſt was not yet glorified; it is the ſame ſpirit which believers receive, whence all theſe rivers of living waters flow; but thoſe rivers flow not from habitual grace, nor from any of the graces of the Holy Ghoſt, but from the Holy Ghoſt himſelf.

Again, When the Spirit of truth is come, he will John 16. 13. guide you into all truth,——and he will ſhew you things to come. Now the habits of grace cannot guide or teach, or ſhew a man things to come; the habits of grace cannot ſpeak, and hear; as it is there written, He ſhall not ſpeak of himſelf, but whatſoever he ſhall hear, that ſhall he ſpeak. This can be no other than the ſpirit in his own Perſon, this is the Comforter, that hears, and ſpeaks, and guides into all truth, and ſhews us things to come.

Again, The love of God is ſhed abroad in our hearts Rom. 5.5. by the Holy Ghoſt, which is given unto us. Beſides, the grace of the Spirit, which is the love of God, the Holy Ghoſt, or the Spirit it ſelf, is ſaid to be given unto us.

And, Ye are not in the fleſh, but in the Spirit. If Rom. 8.9. ſo be that the ſpirit of God dwell in you. Here's a plain diſtinction betwixt the new man, our being in the Spirit, and the Spirit dwelling in us; Now if any man have not the ſpirit of Chriſt, (i. e.) the ſame holy ſpirit which dwelleth in our head and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, he is none of his—— v. 11. But if the ſpirit of him that raiſed Jeſus from the dead dwell in you, he that raiſed up Chriſt from the dead, ſhall alſo quicken your mortal bodies by his ſpirit that dwelleth in you. This ſpirit cannot be meant of habitual grace, for habitual grace did not raiſe up Jeſus from the dead; no, no, it was the ſame ſpirit that dwelt in Chriſt, and that dwells in us Again, Know ye not that ye are the Temple of God, 1 Cor. 3.16.

1 Cor.6. 19. and that the ſpirit of God dwelleth in you?——And know-ye not that your body is the Temple of the Holy Ghoſt, which is in you? Now gifts and graces are not properly ſaid to dwell in Temples; this belongs rather to Perſons than Qualities; and therefore it is 2 Cor.6. 16. meant of the Holy Ghoſt himſelf; Ye are the Temples of the living God: ſurely graces are not the living God: But ye are the Temples of the living God; as God hath ſaid, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they ſhall by my people.

2. The arguments to confirm this, are ſuch as theſe:

1. Actions are aſcribed to the Holy Ghoſt, as John 16. 8, 13. Rom.8. 15.16. given unto us, or dwelling in us, When the ſpirit is come, he will reprove the World of ſin.——And when the ſpirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth:——And ye have received the ſpirit of Adoption, whereby ye cry, Abba, Father:——And this ſpirit beareth witneſs with our ſpirits, that we are the Children of God. Theſe actions are uſually given to the Holy Ghoſt, I mean to that Holy Ghoſt which we receive, and dwelleth in us, it reproves, it guides, it helps, it ſatisfies, it witneſſeth; now, actiones ſunt ſuppoſitorum, actions are of perſons, and not of qualities; habitual grace cnanot reprove or guide, or teach, or help our infirmities: theſe are the actions of the ſpirit himſelf in his own Perſon.

2. The ſpirit it ſelf is the bond of our myſtical union with Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore it is the Spirit it ſelf that dwelleth in us. Look as it is in our body, there is head and members, yet all are but one natural body, becauſe they are animated and quickened by one and the ſelf-ſame ſoul; ſo it is in the myſtical body, Chriſt is our head, and we are his members, and yet both of us are but one myſtical body, by reaſon of the ſelf-ſame ſpirit dwelling in both. And hence it is ſaid, that Chriſt dwelleth in us by his ſpirit; 2 Cor.13. 45 Know ye not that Chriſt Jeſus is in you except ye be Reprobates?——he that eateth my fleſh. and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I Joh.6.26. Gal.2.20. in him.——And, I live, (ſaith Paul) yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me. How in me? not corporally; Act.3 21. for in that ſenſe, The Heavens muſt receive him until the time of the reſtitution of all things; but ſpiritually Gal.4.6. according to the teſtimony of the Apoſtle, Becauſe ye are ſons, God hath ſent forth the ſpirit of his Son into your hearts. This is myſtery that ſhould be known among the Gentiles, the glorious miſterys, yea, the rich and glorious myſtery; the Apoſtle gives it all theſe Epithetes, the riches of the glory of Col.1 2. this myſtery, which is, Chriſt in you the hope of glory.

3. As Satan keeps his reſidence in wicked men, working them unto all manner of ſin, and holding them captive to do his will; ſo the ſpirit of God coming and thruſting him out of poſſeſſion, dwelleth in us, leading us into all truth, repleniſhing us, with all graces, and inclining us to all holy Obedience. There is little queſtion but whilſt men remain in the ſtate of Infidelity, the ſtrong man Satan keeps poſſeſſion, and dwelleth in them, though not after a groſs and ſenſible manner, as in Demoniacks; yet inviſibly and ſpiritually, ruling and reigning in them, and making them his ſlaves to do his will; and therefore by the ſame reaſon, when a ſtronger than he cometh, even the good ſpirit of God, he caſts him out, and takes poſſeſſion, and dwells, and reigns, and rules in our ſouls and bodies.

If the ſpirit it ſelf dwell not in us, then how would there be three that bear witneſs? the Apoſtle 1 John 5. 8. tells us, There are three that bear witneſs in earth (or in our hearts) the Spirit the water, and blood; now by water is meant ſanctification, it is our ſanctification that bears witneſs with us, that we are the Children of God; and this ſanctification conſiſts either in the habit of grace, or in the actings of grace; if therefore the ſpirit of Chriſt in a believer were nothing elſe but grace, then it were all one with the teſtimony of water; but there are three that bear witneſs, there's the teſtimony of the ſpirit, of blood, and of water; not only juſtification, and ſanctification which are but two witneſſes, but the ſpirit is ſuperadded, and that alſo bears witneſs, in our Conſciences, that we are the Children of God, and that Jeſus Chriſt is the Son of God. Chriſtians! think me not tedious in theſe proofs; theſe are not ſpeculative notional points, that end not to edification, but are exceeding profitable. Only concerning the manner of the in dwelling of this ſpirit in us, it is moſt difficult to conceive. Certainly it dwells not in us as in Chriſt, viz. bodily, In Chriſt, ut lux in ſole, in nobis ut lumen in aere Col. 2. 9. unmeaſurably, Joh. 3. 34. originally, 2 Cor. 3. 17. the ſpirit is in Chriſt, as light in the ſun; but the ſpirit is in us as light in the air; neither dare I affirm, that the ſpirit is in us more eſſentially than in any other men or creatures, for Ezek.36. 27. the eſſence thereof is indiviſible and omnipreſent: --37.14. But this I ſay, that the ſpirit is in the faithful above all others. 2. In reſpect of Covenant, the Saints have the ſpirit by God's free Grace and Covenant; I will put my ſpirit within you, ſaith God in the Covenant, which is not only to be underſtood of the gifts and graces of the ſpirit, but alſo of the ſpirit it ſelf. 2. In reſpect of intimate familiarity, and near acquaintance, the ſpirit is in the faithful like an inmate or co-inhabitant, comforting, directing, ruling, ſtrengthening, and cheriſhing them; in which reſpect they are ſaid to be his Houſes, and Temples, in which he dwelleth; whereas contrariwiſe worldings and infidels to all theſe purpoſes are meer ſtrangers unto him; The world cannot receive John 14. 17. him (ſaith Chriſt) becauſe it ſeeth him not, neither knoweth him, but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and ſhall be in you. 3. In reſpect of vertue and efficacy; the ſpirit works efficaciouſly in his ſaints; he chooſeth them for his own People, he poſſeſſeth them as of his own right, he rules in their hearts, as in the chief ſeat of his Kingdom, he purgeth and purifieth them from their ſins; he repleniſheth and filleth them with his ſaving graces, he guides and directs them in the way of holineſs, and never leaves them till he brings them to his Kingdom. 4. In reſpect of union; it was an old errour of the Heathens, that the ſoul remaineth in the body after death; which opinion of theirs, though falſe, becauſe it contradicts the Word, yet the thing it ſelf is poſſible, and doth not contradict Reaſon; for the ſoul may have its local Being in the body, and yet not give life to the body; for, it is not the ſoul's being in the body, but its being united to the body, which makes the body live; ſo it is not the Spirit being locally with the ſoul, but being myſtically united to the ſoul that gives it ſpiritual life. Now, in all theſe reſpects, the ſpirit is in the faithful above all others.

I know the Objections. As, 1. If the Spirit be united to a Believer's ſoul, and ſo made one with him, then may a believer ſay, I am the ſpirit; or, I am equal with God, in reſpect of the ſpirit in me, though not as Peter, Thomas, &c.

But I anſwer, this follows not; for though the ſpirit be really united to a Believers ſpirit, ſo that he may ſay with the Apoſtle, He that is joyned to the Lord is one ſpirit, or hath one ſpirit; yet firſt, 2 Cor.6. 17. this Union is a voluntary act, and not a natural act; and in that reſpect the ſpirit may unite him-

himſelf to the ſoul ſo far as he pleaſeth, and no further; And certainly thus far he is not pleaſed to unite himſelf to a Believer, as that a Believer ſhould ſay properly, I am the ſpirit, or, I am equal with God in reſpect of the ſpirit: for then a Believer might be worſhipped with Divine Worſhip. 2. This Union is by way of application, and not by way of mixture; if an heap of Wheat and a Stone ſhould be joyned together, there is an union, they make both one heap; but the Wheat cannot ſay, I am a Stone; nor can the Stone ſay, I am Wheat; becauſe this union is only by way of application: but if Wine and Water ſhould be joyned together, then every part may ſay, I am Water, and I am Wine; becauſe this union is not only by application, but by way of mixture. Certainly there is a great union betwixt the ſpirit and a believers ſoul, yet cannot the believer ſay properly, I am the ſpirit, or I am equal with God, becauſe their union is only by way of application, and not by way of mixture.

2. Object. No more was the union of Chriſt as God; with our nature as man, any union by way of mixture; yet could he ſay, I am God; and I am man. But I anſwer, Chriſt's union was not only ſpiritual or myſtical, but hypoſtatical or perſonal; and in that reſpect, though there was no mixture, yet there was ſuch an union as cannot be parallel'd in all the World. Our ſouls union with the ſpirit of Chriſt goes very far, and indeed ſo far as we cannot expreſs it, though we had the tongues, and heads, and hearts of men and Angels; yet comes it ſhort of that union betwixt the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity, and the ſoul and body of Chriſt; his Union was perſonal, but ſo is not ours: A Believer is a Perſon before he is united to the ſpirit of Chriſt; but now Chriſt's ſoul and body were not a Perſon, before united to the Perſon of the Godhead. Go we therefore as far as we can, and I ſhall eaſily yeild that our union with the ſpirit is a true, real, eſſential, ſubſtantial, ſpiritual, inviſible, myſtical, intimate, union, yet it is not a perſonal, or hypoſtatical union; the ſpirit doth not aſſume the ſoul or body of a Believer, as the ſecond Perſon aſſumed the ſoul and body of Chriſt. Away, away with theſe Cavils and blaſphemies, wherewith too many unſtable ſouls are now infected! I have done with this reaſon.

4. That the Holy Ghoſt might, according to his Office, endow men with gifts: no ſooner he beſtows his perſon, but immediately he fills us with his train.

Now the gifts of the ſpirit are of theſe two ſorts, ſome are common to good and bad, others are proper to the Elect only. Thoſe gifts which are common, are again two-fold; for ſome of them are given but to certain men, and at certain times; as the gift of Miracles, of Tongues, of Propheſies, and theſe were neceſſary for the Apoſtles and the Primitive Church, when the Goſpel was firſt to be diſperſed; others are given to all the members of the Church, and at all times, as the gifts of Interpretation, Sciences, Arts, Prudence, Learning, Knowledge, Eloquence, and ſuch like; the former gifts we have not, but theſe latter are now given to every member of the Church, according to the meaſure of Chriſts gift, as the Calling and Vocation of every member needeth. As for thoſe gifts and ſaving graces which are proper to the godly, I ſhall ſpeake of them anon. Now here is another reaſon of the ſpirit's miſſion, that he might give gifts unto men; if you ask, what are thoſe gifts? the Apoſtle tells you in one place, He gave ſome Apoſtles, and ſome Prophets, and ſome Evangeliſts, Eph. 4. 8. and ſome Paſtors and Teachers. Three of theſe gifts are now gone, and their date is out; but in the ſame Ver. 11. place we find Paſtors and Teachers, and them we have ſtill. Oh how may this teach us to think of ſuch (even of Paſtors and Teachers) as of the ſpecial gifts and favours of Jeſus Chriſt; if one ſpecial friend ſhould but ſend us from a far Country one of his cheif Servants, would we not welcome him? Chriſt now is in Heaven, And he ſends us Miniſters, as the ſtewards of his houſe; ſure if we have any love to Chriſt, the very feet of them would be precious, and beautiful, who bring us glad tidings of peace. Rom. 10. 15. Again, the Apoſtle tells us in another place, that there are diverſities of gifts, but the ſame ſpirit; and diverſities of 1 Cor. 12. 4, 5. 6. calling, but the ſame Lord, or Chriſt; and diverſities of works, but the ſame God and Father worketh all in all. Chriſt's errand being done, and he gone up on high, the Spirit came down; and in Chriſt's ſtead eſtabliſhed order in the Church; which order or eſtabliſhment is here ſet down, by gifts, callings and works. Here is firſt, a Gift; Secondly, a Calling; Thirdly, a Work, Gifts are aſcribed to the Spirit, Callings to Chriſt, and Works to God, even to the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; where the ſpirit ends, Chriſt begins; and where Chriſt ends, God begins; if no gift, we muſt ſtay there, and never meddle with the calling; and if no calling, we muſt ſtay there, and never meddle with the Work; firſt, the Spirit comes and beſtows the Gift, and then Chriſt comes and beſtows the Calling, and then God the Father comes, and ſets us to the Work; the gift is for the calling, and the gift and calling are both for the Work. And if this be the order eſtabliſhed by the Spirit in his Church, Oh what ſhall we ſay of them that either have no gifts, yet ſtep into the calling, as if there were no need of the Holy Ghoſt; or that have no calling, and yet will fall upon the Work, utterly againſt the mind and rule of Jeſus Chriſt? Oh what the poor Church of Chriſt ſuffers at this time in theſe reſpects! certainly theſe men have no commiſſion from the Holy ſpirit; he was never ſent to them that break this order; firſt Gifts, and then Calling, and then the Work.

But why doth the Spirit endow men with Gifts? ſurely ſaith the Apoſtle, to this end, to profit withal. 1 Cor. 12. 7. Gifts are given for the good of others, gifts are for edifying: we ſhould not contemn them, gifts are a Bleſſing of God, and therefore we are to endeavour after them. Let thy profiting appear to all, 1 Tim. 4. 15. and covet earneſtly the beſt gifts: And yet (ſaies Paul) I ſhew unto you a more excellent way: 1 Cor. 12. 31. and that was true grace, of which he diſcourſeth in the next Chapter; and this brings in another reaſon of the ſpirit's miſſion.

5. That the Holy Ghoſt might according to his Office endow men with graces. In doing this, he firſt gives the inward principle and habit of grace, and then the fruit, or actings of grace. 1. He gives a Power, an Habit, a ſpiritual Ability, a ſeed, a ſpring, a principle of Grace; whatſoever we call it, I cannot conceive it to be a new faculty, added to thoſe which are in men by nature: A man, when he is regenerate, hath no more faculties in his ſoul, than he had before he was regenerate; only in the work of regeneration, thoſe abilities which the man had, are improved to work ſpiritually, as before naturally: as our Bodies in the reſurrection from the dead ſhall have no more, nor other parts than they have at preſent; only thoſe which are now natural, 1 Cor. 15. 44. ſhall then by the Power of God be made ſpiritual, Now this Principle is infuſed, or poured in 2 Theſ. 2. 13. by the ſpirit of God; and hence he is called, The Spirit of Sanctification. 2. He gives the fruit or actings of Grace. Gal. 5. 22, 23. But the fruit of the ſpirit is love, joy, peace, long ſuffering; gentleneſs, goodneſs, faith, meekneſs, temperance; Some call theſe the diverſifications of the actings of that ſpiritual principle within us; certainly the ſpirit doth not only at firſt infuſe the Principles of Grace, but he doth alſo enable us to act, and improve thoſe bleſſed principles: he doth not only give us power to Holy actions, but he works alſo the Holy actions themſelves. God works Phil.2.13. in us not only to will but to do. God hath a two-fold grace, initial and converting; exciting and quickening: in reſpect of this laſt, David prays, Quicken me after thy loving kindneſs, O Lord, and ſo ſhall I keep Pſal. 119. 88. thy teſtimonies. This is the actuating grace that we need every hour, and every moment, and muſt pray for more earneſtly than we would pray for our daily Bread. Two privileges more eſpecially flow from this; As, —— 1. Hereby the ſoul will be kept from negligence, and dulneſs; from groſs and foul ſins; Heb.4.16. the Apoſtle calls it, grace to help in time of need. Oh this is admirable, when grace comes in the very nick of need; it may be ſometime or other thou wert even falling into ſuch and ſuch a ſin, it may be thou wert ſometimes or other drawing in ſuch and ſuch a wickedneſs, and this exciting, quickening grace came in, and kept up thy head above the Waters. 2. Hereby the ſoul will be kept in a frame for every duty: If the ſpirit come but with exciting quickening grace, then it is ready to ſay, My heart is prepared, O Lord, my heart is prepared, I can now do and ſuffer thy Will; ſometimes the principle of grace lies ſtill within us, and begins to ruſt; but then comes the Holy Ghoſt, and breathes upon our ſouls, and ſo it excites and quickens, and commands, faith, patience, zeal, and other graces, to be in exerciſe; and this is as it were the file to take off the ruſt; it's the whetting of the edge, it's the ſtirring up of the coals into a mighty flame. Chriſtians, have you not clear, experimental demonſtrations of this truth? ſometimes you are on the wing of duty, and ſometimes you are dull and dead; ſometimes the leaſt temptation, the leaſt ſnare, is ready to make you fall; and ſometimes again, though ſtrong winds and tempeſts blow upon you, yet you are able to ſtand, like Mount Zion, that cannot be removed: Oh what's the reaſon of the difference? ſurely according to the incomes of the Spirit of God; this difference comes not from our ſelves, but from the Spirit: as this exciting, quickening grace is ready, or afar off, ſo is our condition: you know what changes David uſually found in his own heart, ſometimes he was able to truſt in God, and at other times he was ſo caſt down, as if he had no ſtrength within him; and whence all this, but from the ebbings and flowings of exciting, quickning grace? well may we cry, come holy Spirit. Oh what a comfortable condition would it be, if our Spirits never lay ſtill, but we were always hungring, thirſting, or moving after God and goodneſs.

6. That the holy Ghoſt might according to his Office comfort his Saints amidſt all their afflictions: this was that which Chriſt had ſo often told his A- John 14. Ver. 18. poſtles, I will not leave you comfortleſs, I will come unto you —— And I will pray the Father Ver.26. and he ſhall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever —— But the Comforter John 15. 26. which is the Holy Ghoſt, whom the Father will ſend in my Name he ſhall teach you all things. —— But when the Comforter is come, whom I will ſend unto you from the Father even the ſpirit of truth which proceedeth from the Father, he ſhall teſtifie of me. —— John 16 17. If I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you, but if I depart I will ſend him unto you.

But how is it that the ſpirit comforts Saints? I anſwer in theſe particulars.

† 1. The ſpirit diſcovers ſin, and bends the heart to mourn for ſin; and ſuch a ſorrow as this, is the ſeed and matter of true comfort: as Joſeph's heart was full of joy when his eyes poured out tears on Benjamin's neck, ſo there is a certain ſeed and matter of joy in ſpiritual mourning; I know they are contrary, but yet they may be ſubordinate to each other, as a dark and muddy colour may be a fit ground to lay gold upon. Certainly there is a ſweet complacency in an humble and ſpiritual heart, to be vile in its own eyes. But eſpecially the fruit of it is joy, and great joy. A woman when ſhe is in travail hath ſorrow, because her hour is come; but as ſoon as ſhe is delivered of her Child, ſhe John 16. 21. 22. remembreth no more the anguiſh for joy that a man is born into the World; and ye now therefore have ſorrow, but I will ſee you again, and your heart ſhall rejoyce, and your joy no man taketh from you.

2. The Spirit doth not only diſcover, but heal the corruptions of the ſoul, and there is no comfort, to the comfort of a ſaved and cured man; the lame man that was reſtored by Peter, expreſſed the abundant exaltation of his heart, by leaping and praiſing God, Acts 3, 8. and for this cauſe the Spirit is called the Oyl of gladneſs, becauſe by that healing vertue that is in him, he makes glad the hearts of men.

3. The Spirit doth not only heal, but renew and revive again; when an eye is ſmitten with a ſword, there is a double miſchief, a wound made, and a faculty periſhed; and here though a Chyrurgeon can heal the wound, yet he can never reſtore the faculty, becauſe total privations admit no regreſs, or recovery. But the ſpirit doth not only heal, and repair, but renew and re-edifie the ſpirits of man; as he healeth that which was torn, and bindeth up that which was broken, ſo he reviveth and raiſeth up that which was dead before, Hoſ. 6. 1, 2. And this the Apoſtle calls the renovation of the ſpirit. Tit. 3. 5. Now this renovation muſt needs be matter of great joy, for ſo the Lord comforts his afflicted people; O thou afflicted, toſſed with tempeſt, and not comforted; Iſa.54. 11, 12. behold I will lay thy ſtones with fair colours, and lay thy foundation with Saphyres, and I will make thy windows of Agates; and thy gates of Carbuncles, and all thy borders of pleaſant ſtones. The meaning is, that all muſt be new, and new built up, as for a goodly, coſtly, and ſtately ſtructure,

4. The Spirit doth not only renew, and ſet the frame of the heart aright, and then leave it to it ſelf, but being thus reſtored he abideth with it to preſerve and ſupport it, and to make it victorious againſt all tempeſts and batteries and this farther multiplyeth the joy and comfort of the heart, victory is ever the ground of joy; They joy before thee, —— as men rejoyce when they divide the ſpoyl. Iſa. 9. 3. And the ſpirit of God is a victorious ſpirit. A bruiſed reed ſhall he not break, and ſmoaking flax Mat. 12. 20. ſhall he not quench, till he ſend forth judgment unto victory.

5. The ſpirit doth not only preſerve the heart which he hath renewed, but he makes it fruitful and abundant in the work of the Lord. And fruitfulneſs is a ground of comfort, Sing, O barren, thou that didſt not bear, break forth into ſinging, and cry aloud Iſa.54.1. thou that didſt not travail with Child; for more are the Children of the deſolate than the Children of the married Wife, ſaith the Lord.

6. The ſpirit doth not only make the heart fruitful, but gives it the hanſel and earneſt of its inheritance, and thereby it begets a living hope, and earneſt expectation, a confident attendance upon the promiſes, and an unſpeakable peace and comfort thereupon. O when I feel a drop of heavens Joy ſhed abroad into my ſoul by the Holy Ghoſt, and that I look opon this as a taſte of glory, and a fore-runner of happineſs, how ſhould I but rejoyce with joy unſpeakable? in all theſe reſpects the Spirit is our Comforter; and this is another reaſon why the Holy Ghoſt is, Eph. 4. 30. ſent, I will not leave you comfortleſs, ſaith Chriſt, no, no? for I will come unto you by my Spirit.

7. That the Holy Ghoſt might according to his Office, ſeal us unto the day of redemption. By ſealing, is meant ſome work of the Spirit, by which he aſſures a Believer, that he is Gods: it is all one with the ſpirits witneſſing; only under that notion, I ſhall ſpeak of it another time.

But all the queſtion is, what is that work of the Spirit by which he aſſures; I anſwer, this work is many-fold. As———

1. There is a reflex work of Faith, and this is the work of the Spirit too, aſſuring our Souls of our good eſtate to God-ward, and Chriſt-ward, 1 John 5. 10. He that believeth hath the witneſs in himſelf; he carries in his heart the Counterpane of all the promiſes, this is the firſt ſeal, (or if you will) the firſt degree of the Spirits ſealing; the firſt diſcovery of our election is manifeſted to us in our believing, Acts. 13. 48. as many (ſaith the Text) as were ordained to eternal life believed.

2. There is a work of ſanctifying grace upon the heart, and this is a Seal of the Spirit alſo, for whom the Spirit ſanctifieth, he ſaveth. 2 Tim. 2. 19. The Lord knoweth who are his, ſaith the Apoſtle, nay, but how ſhould we know it? why, by this ſeal; as it follows, Let every one that Nameth the Name of the Lord depart from iniquity; none are children of God by adoption, but thoſe that are Children alſo by regeneration; none are heirs of Heaven, but they are new born to it; 2 Pet. 1. 3, 4. Bleſſed be God the Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt who hath begotten us anew——to an inheritance immortal. This Seal of ſanctification leaves upon the Soul the likeneſs of Jeſus Chriſt, even grace for grace.

3. There is a work of aſſiſting, exciting, quickening grace, or of God's gracious concourſe with John 3. 8. that habitual grace which he hath wrought in his people: now this is various according to the good pleaſure of his will; the Spirit is more mightily preſent to ſome than to others, yea more to the ſame man at ſome times, and in ſome conditions; ſometimes the ſame Chriſtian is as a burning and ſhining light, ſometimes as a ſmoaking flax; The ſpirit blows how it liſteth; ſometimes he fills the Soul with fuller gales, ſometimes again ſhe is becalmed; a man hath more of the Spirit at one time than another: Now when the Spirit comes in thus by exciting, quickning, ſtirring, and inabling us to act; ſo that we can ſay, as ſometime Jer. 20. 9. the Prophet ſaid, It was in my heart as a burning fire ſhut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and could not ſtay; why then the Spirit ſeals, and gives aſſurance to our Souls that we are his.

4. There is a work of ſhining upon, or inlightning thoſe graces which the Spirit plants in us, and helps us to exerciſe; this ſeals to the purpoſe; 1 Cor. 2. 12. and of this it is that the Apoſtle ſpeaks. We have received not the ſpirit of the World, but the Spirit which is of God, that we may know the things that are freely given us of God. The things given to us may be freely received by us, and yet the receit of them not known to us; therefore the Spirit for our farther conſolation doth (as it were) put his hand and Seal to our Receits; he ſhines upon our graces, or he enlightens our graces, whereby we may know we believe, and know that we live. Indeed this is rare with God's own People, ſometimes (notwithſtanding this ſeal) we may be in ſuch a ſtate as Paul and his company were in Acts 27. 20. the ſhip, When they ſaw neither Sun nor Star for many days together; ſo it may be, that for a time we may ſee neither Sun nor Star, neither light in God's countenance, nor light in our Souls; no grace iſſuing from God, no grace carrying the ſoul to God; yet in this dark condition, if we do as Paul and his company did (i. e.) if we caſt anchor even in the dark night of temptation, and pray ſtill for day, God will appear, and all ſhall clear up; we ſhall at laſt ſee light without, and ſee light within, ſurely the day-ſtar will ariſe in our hearts.

5. There is a work of joy and comfort; and this is a ſuper-added ſeal of the Spirit; the works of the Spirit you may ſee are of a double kind; either in us by imprinting ſanctifying grace, or upon us by ſhining on our ſouls, and by ſweet feeling of joy; habitual grace, of Sanctifying grace is more conſtant, and always like it ſelf; but this work of comfort and joy is of the nature of ſuch priviledges as God vouchſafeth at one time and not at another; and hence it is that a Chriſtian may have grace, and a Chriſtian may know himſelf to be in the ſtate of grace, and yet in regard of comfort God may be gone. Thus it was with Job, he knew his redeemer lived, and he reſolved to truſt in him though he killed him; he knew he was no hypocrite, he knew his graces were true; notwithſtanding all the objections and imputations of his friends, they could not diſpute him out of his ſincerity, My righteouſneſs I hold faſt, and will not Job 27. 6. let it go; yet for the preſent he ſaw no light from heaven, but he was in a ſore and afflicted condition; till it pleaſed the Lord to reveal himſelf in ſpecial favour unto him. Now this work of joy uſually comes not till after faith; and many experiences of God's love, and much waiting upon God. Theſe are the ſeveral works of the Spirit ſealing.

But why is it that we can neither actually believe, nor can know that we believe, nor can enjoy peace and joy in believing, without a freſh and new act of the Spirit?

I anſwer, becauſe the whole carriage of a ſoul to heaven is above Nature, where the Spirit makes a ſtand, we ſtand, and can go no farther; without the help of the Spirit we can neither make promiſes, nor conclude for our ſelves; it is the Spirit that ſanctifies, and witneſſes, and ſeals our ſouls unto the day of redemption. Many other Reaſons may be rendred, but I ſhall ſpeak of them in the end of the ſpirits miſſion.

Thus far we have propounded the object, viz. the Aſcention of Chriſt, the Seſſion of Chriſt at God's right hand, and Chriſt's Miſſion of the holy Ghoſt; our next work is to direct you how to look unto Jeſus in theſe reſpects.

CHAP. II. Sect. 1.

Of knowing Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our Salvation in his Aſcention, Seſſion, and Miſſion of the Spirit.

1. LET us know Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his Aſcenſion into Heaven, in his Seſſion at God's right hand, and in his Miſſion of the Holy Ghoſt; theſe are points of great uſe, if theſe tranſactions had not been, where had we been? theſe are points of higheſt ſpeculation, if theſe tranſactions had not been, where had Chriſt been? after his humiliation, herein lay the exaltation of his glorious Perſon, he was exalted above the Earth, above the Clouds, above the Stars, above the Heavens, above the Heavens of Heavens; O the glorious Majeſty of our King Jeſus, as ſitting down at God's right hand! our ſalvation is the greateſt myſtery that ever was, it being made up of the various workings of the glory of God; for us men, and for our Salvation Chriſt was incarnate, and come down from Heaven, and for us men, and for our ſalvation Chriſt was exalted and went up into Heaven. Here is an object of admiration indeed, the very Angels at the ſight of it ſtood admiring and adoring; it took up their heart, aſtoniſhed their underſtanding; ſurely it was the bleſſed'ſt ſight that ever the Angels did, or could behold; come then, and, O my Soul, do thou take a view of that which they admire, the deſign is, not ſo principally concerning Angels, as thy ſelf; they are in it only as afar off, and in general; but it concerns thee in ſpecial and particular; and therefore ſtudy cloſe this Argument, and know it for thy ſelf. Study firſt the Aſcenſion of Chriſt, how, and whether, and why he aſcended. 2. Study the Seſſion of Chriſt at God's right hand; O the mines, the riches of that ſpiritual heavenly knowledg!

3. Study the Miſſion of the Holy Ghoſt; not a circumſtance in it, but deſerves thy Study; worlds of wealth (ten thouſand times better than Gold, or Silver, or Precious Stones, may be found in the diggings of theſe Mines; have not many Students beat out their brains on leſſer Subjects? what indeavours have there been to dive into the ſecrets of Nature; what volumes have been written of Phyſicks, Metaphyſicks, Mathematicks? and is not this Subject Chriſt? is not every of theſe Subjects, Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Chriſt's Miſſion of the holy Spirit of more worth, and value, and benefit than all thoſe? come ſtudy that piece of the Bible, wherein theſe are written, there is not a line or expreſſion of Chriſt in the Scripture, but 'tis matter enough for a whole Age to comment on; thou needeſt not to leave old Principles for new Diſcoveries, for in theſe very particulars thou mighteſt find ſucceſſive ſweetneſs unto all eternity.

Sect. 2. Of conſidering Jeſus in that reſpect.

2. LET us conſider Jeſus, carrying on this Work of our ſalvation for us in theſe particulars. We muſt not only ſtudy to know theſe things, but we muſt meditate on them till they come down from our heads to our hearts. Meditation is the poize that ſets all the wheels within a going; it were to ſmall purpoſe to bid us deſire, hope, believe, love, joy, &c if firſt we did not meditate: in meditation it is that the underſtanding works, that the will is inclined to follow, that devotion is refreſhed, that Faith is encreaſed, Hope eſtabliſhed, Love kindled, and therefore begin here O my Soul; it is a due conſideration that gives both life, and light, and motion to thy actings in all proceedings.

And to take them in order.———

1. Conſider of Chriſt's Aſcenſion into Heaven. Methinks ſouls ſhould put themſelves into the conditon of the Diſciples, Acts,1.19. When they looked ſtedfaſtly towards heaven as Chriſt went up; What, ſhall he aſcend, and ſhall not we in our contemplations follow after him? gaze, O my Soul, on this wonderful object, thou needeſt not fear any check from God or Angel, ſo that thy contemplation be ſpiritual, and divine. No ſooner had Chriſt finiſhed his work of redemption here on earth. but on the Mount called Olivet he aſſembles with his Diſciples, where having given them commands, he begins to mount; and being a little lifted up into the Air preſently a Cloud receives him into her lap. Herein is a clear demonſtration of his God-head; Clouds are uſually in Scriptures put for the Houſe or Temple, or Receptacle of God himſelf. How often is it ſaid, that The glory of the Lord appeared in the Cloud? Exod. 16. 10. And that he came to Moſes in a thick Cloud? 19. 9. and that he called unto Moſes out of the midſt of the cloud? 24. 16. and that the Lord deſcended in the cloud? 34. 5. Is not the Clouds God's own Chariot? Behold the Lord rideth on a ſwift Cloud? Iſa. 19. 1. ——— and O Lord my God thou art very great, ſaith David; great indeed, Pſal. 104. 3. and he proves it thus. Who maketh the clouds his Chariot. Jeſus Chriſt in his aſcenſion to heaven enters by the way into a cloud; this was his chariot, led by thouſands and ten thouſands of his Angels. The Chariots of God are Twenty thouſand, even thouſands of Angels, the Lord is among them in Sinai in the holy place, thou haſt aſcended on high, thou haſt led captivity captive, thou haſt received gifts for men. Pſal. 68. 17, 18. Some are of opinion, that not only thouſands of Angels led this chariot, but that many of the Saints which ſlept, and roſe with Chriſt at his Reſurrection, now aſcended with him, and compaſſed about this glorious cloud; whence they give this for the meaning of the text, that when he went up through the air, and aſcended up on high, he led captivity captive, that is, he led a certain number of captives, namely, the Saints that were long held in captivity of death, whoſe bodies aroſe at Chriſt's reſurrection, and now they accompanied Chriſt at his triumphant march into heaven. English Annotations on Eph. 4. 8. However he was attended, be not too curious (O my ſoul in this) the bright cloud that covered his body diſcovered his Divinity; and therefore here is thy duty, to look ſtedfaſtly towards heaven, and to worſhip him in his aſcenſion up into heaven; O admire and adore!———

But ſtay not thy contemplation in the cloud, he aſcends yet higher, through the Air, and through the Clouds, and through the Sphere, or element of Fire, and through thoſe Orbs of the Moon, Mercury, Mars, of the Sun, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn; and through that azure Heaven of fixed Stars, and through that firſt moveable, and through thoſe condenſe and ſolid waters, of the Chriſtaline Heaven; nor ſtood he ſtill till he came to thoſe doors and gates of the Empyreal Heaven, called The heaven of heavens; in all this triumphant glorious march, ſome tell us of an heavenly harmony made by thoſe Choriſters of Heaven, the bleſſed Angels; Cypr. in Serm. Aſcenſ. Some going before, and ſome going after, they chant his praiſes, and ſing Hallelujahs: and that is the meaning of the Pſalmiſt, God is gone up with a ſhout, the Lord with the ſound of a trumpet. Pſal. 4. 5. In this meditation paſs not over thy Duty, which immediately follows, Ver. 6. Sing praiſes unto God, ſing praiſes; ſing praiſes unto our King, ſing praiſes,——— Sing unto God, ſing praiſes to his Name, extoll him that rideth upon the heavens, by the Name Jah, and rejoyce before him. Pſal. 68.4. Thou haſt cauſe, O my Soul, to praiſe him, and to rejoyce before him, eſpecially if thou conſidereſt that Chriſt aſcended not for himſelf, but alſo for thee; it is God in our Nature that is gone up to Heaven, whatever God acted on the Perſon of Chriſt, that he did as in thy behalf, and he means to act the very ſame on thee; Chriſt as a publick Perſon aſcended up to Heaven; thy Intereſt is in this very aſcenſion of Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore doſt thou conſider thy Head as ſoaring up? O let every Member praiſe his Name, let thy Tongue (called thy glory) glory in this, and trumpet out his praiſes, that in reſpect of thy duty it may be verified, Chriſt is gone up with a ſhout, the Lord with the ſound of a Trumpet.

And yet ſtay not by the way, but conſider further; Chriſt being now arrived at Heavens doors, thoſe heavenly ſpirits that accompanied him began Pſal. 24.7. to ſay, Lift up your heads, O ye gates, even lift up your ſelves, ye everlaſting doors, and the King of glory ſhall come in! to whom ſome of the Angels that were within, not ignorant of his perſon, but admiring his Majeſty and Glory, ſaid again, Who is the King Ver. 8. of Glory? and then they anſwered, The Lord ſtrong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle; and thereupon thoſe Twelve gates of the Holy City, of new Jeruſalem, Rev. 21. 12. opened of their own accord, and Jeſus Chriſt with all his miniſtring Spirits entred in. O my ſoul, how ſhould this heighten thy joy, and enlarge thy comforts in that Chriſt is now received up into glory? every ſight of Chriſt is Glorious, and in every ſight thou ſhouldſt wait on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt for ſome glorious manifeſtations of himſelf. Come, live up to the rate of this great miſtery; view Chriſt as entring into glory, and thou wilt find the the ſame ſparkles of glory on thy heart: O this 2 Cor. 3. 18. ſight is a transforming ſight, We all with open face beholding, as in a glaſs, the glory of the Lord, are changed into the ſame Image from glory to glory, even as by the ſpirit of the Lord.

2. Conſider of Chriſt's Seſſion at God's right hand; no ſooner was Chriſt entered into Heaven, but he is brought before his heavenly Father; and Dan 7. 13, 14. herein was the viſion accompliſhed, I ſaw in the night viſions, and behold one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the ancient of days and they brought him near before him, and there was given him dominion, and glory, and a Kingdom. This is that we call his Seſſion at God's right hand; a dominion was given him above all creatures, yea a dominion above the Hierarchy of all the Angels: O the glory of Chriſt at his firſt entrance into glory! immediately all the Angels fell down and worſhiped him, immediately his Father welcomed him with the higheſt grace that ever yet was ſhewn. Come (ſaid he) ſit Pſal. 110. 1. thou at my right hand until I make thine enemies thy footſtool. One ſweetly obſerves, that uſually in the ſeveral parts of the performances of Chriſt's office, either God is brought in as ſpeaking to Chriſt, or Chriſt is brought in as ſpeaking to his Father; thus when he choſe him firſt to be Mediator, God ſpeaks to Chriſt, Thou art a Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech; and when Chriſt came to take upon Heb.10.7. Him our nature, he ſpake to his Father, Lo I come to do thy will, a body haſt thou prepared for me. Again, when Chriſt hung on the Croſs, he ſpeaks to his Pſal. 22.1. Father, My God my God, why haſt thou forſaken me? but when Chriſt roſe again from the dead, God Acts. 13. 33. ſpake to him, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee; and when Chriſt aſcended into heaven, God ſpake to him, Son, ſit thou down at my right Heb. 1.13. hand. This was the higeſt point of Chriſt, elevated; now was the propheſie accompliſhed, He ſhall be Iſa. 52.13. exalted, and extolled, and be very high. The Chaldee Paraphraſt reads it thus, He ſhall be extolled above Abraham, He ſhall be extolled more than Moſes, he ſhall be very high above the higheſt Cherubin, and Saraphin; O my ſoul meditate on this Seſſion of Chriſt at God's right hand, and thence draw ſome vertue and ſweetneſs into thy ſelf: what? was Chriſt exalted? had he a name given him above every name? walk then as becomes thoſe that have ſo glorious a Head: O defile not that nature which in thy Chriſt was ſo highly honoured! it was the Apoſtles arguing, Shall I take the Members 1 Cor. 6. 15. of Chriſt and make them the Members of an Harlot? ſo argue thou, ſhall I take the Nature of Chriſt, that Nature which he in his Perſon hath ſo highly glorified, and make it in my Perſon the Nature of a Devil? O my ſoul walk worthy of ſuch a Lord, unto all well-pleaſing; ſith now he is in his Throne at God's hand, O kiſs the Son! Honour the Son with divine worſhip, reverence, and ſubmiſſion; ſubmit chearfully and willingly to the Scepter of his Word, bow to his Name, as it is written, At the Name, the Perſon, the Power, the Phil.2.10. Scepter of Jeſus Chriſt, every knee ſhall bow.

3. Conſider of the miſſion of the Holy Ghoſt: no ſooner is Chriſt inaugurated in his Throne, but he ſcatters his coin, and gives gifts; When he Eph. 4. 8. aſcended on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men. He gave gifts, or the gift of gifts, the gift of the Holy Ghoſt; If thou kneweſt the John4.10. gift of God, ſaid Chriſt to the Samaritan woman; that gift was the water of Life, and that John7.39. water of life was the Spirit, as John, who knew beſt his mind, gave the interpretation, This ſpake he of the ſpirit. O my ſoul conſider of this princely gift of Chriſt! ſuch a gift was never before, but when God gave his Son; God ſo loved the World, that he gave his Son; and Chriſt ſo loved the world, that he gave his Spirit; but O my ſoul conſider eſpecially to whom this Spirit was given; the application of the gift is the very ſoul of thy meditation; Unto us a Son is given, Iſa. 9. 6. ſaid the Prophet; and Unto us the holy Ghoſt is Rom. 5.5. given, ſaith the Apoſtle: And yet above all, conſider the reaſons of this gift in reference to thy ſelf; was it not to make thee a Temple and Receptacle of the Holy Ghoſt; ſtand a while on this! Admire, O my ſoul, at the condeſcending, glorious, and unſpeakable love of Chriſt in this! It was infinite love to come down into our Nature when he was incarnate; but this is more, to come down into thy heart by his Holy Spirit; he came near to us then, but as if that were not near enough, he comes nearer now; for now he unites himſelf unto thy Perſon, now he comes and dwells in thy ſoul by his Holy Spirit: O my Soul, thou haſt many incomes of the world, though many are above thee, yet many are below thee; but Oh what little contentment haſt thou in theſe outward things? Come! Here's that which will infinitely content thy vaſt deſires; Chriſt is in thee, really in thee, by his Spirit; will not this content the utmoſt capacity of an heart? ſurely he is too covetous whom God himſelf cannot ſuffice; if thou haſt Chriſt, thou haſt all things; and if thou haſt the Spirit of Chriſt, thou haſt Chriſt himſelf, not notionally, not by the habit of grace only, but really, eſſentially, ſubſtantially by his Spirit; it is the very Spirit of Chriſt, the Spirit it ſelf, the Holy Ghoſt it ſelf in his own Perſon that is united to thee, and dwells in thee; nor only comes he in perſon, but he brings along with him all his Train; hath he not endowed thee with ſome gifts? hath he not divided a Portion and Meaſure to thee in thy place and calling? take notice, obſerve it, and be thankful, if thou haſt a gift of prayer, of Propheſie, of Wiſdom, of knowledge, it comes and flows from this Holy Spirit; Unto every one of us is given grace Eph. 4. 7. according to the meaſure of the gift of Chriſt. Or according to the meaſure of the Spirit; who is the gift of Chriſt. And all theſe worketh that one and the ſelf-ſame ſpirit dividing to every man ſeverally as he will. 1 Cor. 12. 11. But beſides a gift, hath he not endowed thee with his grace? hath he not planted in thy ſoul the habit, the power, the ſeed, the ſpring, the Principle of grace? haſt thou not felt ſometimes the excitings, quickenings, ſtirrings of the ſpirit of God, commanding thy faith, love, zeal, and other graces to be in exerciſe? hath he not many a time at ſome dead lift, at ſome mighty ſtraight, at ſome prevailing temptation, when thou waſt even ready to yeild to Satan, come in as betwixt the bridge and water, and given thee grace Heb.4.16. to help in time of need? O the ſweet in-comes of the Spirit of God! as he is an Holy Spirit, ſo he makes holy hearts; and if there be any holineſs in thy heart, what is it but an emanation, influence, effect of the Spirit of God? if ever thou hadſt any flowings of exciting, quickening grace, ſay, This is above nature, above fleſh and blood, it comes from the holy and bleſſed Spirit of God. Some other effects thou mayeſt conſider of, as of the comforts of the ſpirit; what? haſt thou not ſome times felt the joys unſpeakable and full of glory? haſt thou not ſometimes known a mornings joy after a night ſorrow; and healing of thy broken heart? a reviving of thy dead Spirit? a drop of heavens joy given thee as the hanſel or earneſt of thy inheritance? why all theſe are but the John 14. 16. workings of the promiſed comforter: And I will pray the Father, and he ſhall give you another Comforter that he may abide with you for ever. Another effect is the ſeal of the ſpirit; and what? haſt thou not ſometimes the ſeal of the Spirit ſtamped on thee? I will not ſay this abſolutely neceſſary, but haſt thou not ſometimes been aſſured of thy ſalvation, by a reflect act of faith, or by a work of grace habitual or actual? or by an irradiation of the ſpirit on thy graces? ſometimes the ſpirit is pleaſed to ſhine with its bright, and glorious, and heavenly beams into our ſouls, and then we are aſſured: hence the Apoſtle prays for Epheſians, That they might have the ſpirit of revelation? Eph.1.17, 18, 19. And to what end? That they might know what is the hope of his calling; (i. e.) that they might know upon what certain grounds and foundation their hopes are built; and hence the Pſalmiſt prays for himſelf, Pſal 13. 16. Cauſe thy face to ſhine upon thy Servant: and again God be merciful unto us and bleſs us and cauſe his face Pſal.67. 1. to ſhine upon us. Selah. If the ſpirit ſhine upon our graces, then it ſeals: O conſider of this ſhining-ſealing work, and leave not till the Spirit dart in a ſpiritual light, and give thee a revelation, knowledge, and perſuaſion of thy effectual calling. Many other reaſons are of the ſpirits miſſion, but amongſt them all, conſider O my ſoul, and ponder on theſe few; think over Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of the Spirit; but in every thought be ſerious, fruitful, and particular; ſay, Chriſt is gone up into heaven for me, and he is ſate down at God's right-hand for me, and hath ſent down his ſpirit into my heart O what workings would there be within, if thou wert but lively and active in the meditations of theſe ſeveral paſſages!

Sect. 3. Of deſiring after Jeſus in that Reſpect.

3. LEt us deſire after Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in theſe particulars: who ſeeing Chriſt to aſcend into Heaven, would not be glad to aſcend up with him? who ſeeing Chriſt to ſit down with him? who ſeeing Chriſt to ſcatter his gifts and ſpirit amongſt his Saints, would not cry, Come Holy Spirit; O Chriſt give me thy ſpirit, thou that giveſt gifts unto me, come and beſtow theſe gifts on me! even upon me? The believing ſoul cannot hear of Chriſt in any true diſcovery of his grace and glory, but it muſt needs ſend out many breathings after him, Oh that Chriſt were mine! Oh that I had any intereſt in this tranſaction! it is true, theſe tranſactions are paſt, but the vertue of them continues ſtill, and accordingly the vertue, power, and influence of theſe tranſactions muſt be the object of our deſires; now what is the vertue of Chriſt's Aſcenſion, but that we might aſcend? and what the vertue of Chriſt's Seſſion, but that we might ſit down with him in his Throne? and what the vertue of the miſſion of his Spirit but that we might partake of the Holy Ghoſt? Oh let theſe be the objects of our deſires; come let us pant and breath after theſe things. As——

1. Let us ſee Chriſt aſcending, and ſo deſire to aſcend with him, when Chriſt aſcended it was not meerly for himſelf, but alſo in our ſtead; he aſcended as a common perſon; as the high Prieſt aſcending into the Holy of Holies, he carried all the names of the Twelve Tribes on his breaſt; ſo Jeſus Chriſt aſcending into heaven, he carried the names of all Believers in the world on his on his breaſt, thereby ſhewing that they were likewiſe to come after him; in this caſe how ſhould we long after him, and cry after him, as Eliſha after Elijah when he ſaw him aſcending, My Father, my Father, the chariots of Iſrael, and the horſemen thereof? How ſhould we cry after him, O my Lord and my 2 Kings 2 12. God, ſee that my name be written in thy Breaſt, O that Iſa. 14. 14, 15. vertually I may aſcend with thee, and that really and bodily I may at laſt aſcend after thee! There are many can ſay in their heart, I will aſcend above the heights of the clouds, I will be like the moſt High: but the Pſal. 14 3. 4. prophet tells us, Such ſhall be brought down to hell, and to the ſides of the Pit. O the deſires, and purſuits of men after ambition; what topping and advancing is there, of one over another? in the mean time the Pſalmiſt's Queſtion is quite forgotten, Who ſhall aſcend into the hill of the Lord? he that hath clean hands, Iſa.14. 12. and a pure heart, who hath not lifted up his ſoul unto vanity. Down. O my ſoul, with thy top and top gallant; ſtrike ſail to God and Chriſt; know that God reſiſts the proud; How art thou fallen from Heaven, O Lucifer, ſon of the morning? even he that would exalt his Throne above the Stars of God, is brought down to hell: Come, come! a deſire after Chriſt and his Aſcenſion is the way to Heaven; if thou wilt aſcend after Chriſt, ſet thy deſires upon Chriſt; if thou wilt arrive at true glory, breath after Chriſt aſcending up into his glory; let others aſcend up into their heaven upon earth, but O my ſoul deſire thy intreſt in Chriſt's Aſcenſion into the Heaven of Heavens. O when will it once be that by the vertue of Chriſt's Aſcenſion I ſhall aſcend! is Chriſt gone up, and am I yet behind? is my Head, my Husband, my Lord in Heaven, and am I a poor member of his body groveling here on earth? what, is Chriſt gone up with a ſhout, the Lord with the ſound of a trumpet? are all the Angels ſounding his praiſe, and bidding him welcome into glory? and am I ſinning here on earth, and by my ſins crucifying again and again the Lord of glory? O that I might aſcend with Chriſt! O that I were now on the wing towards heaven! Oh what is it that hinders my aſcenſion but this clog of clay? ſo long as this body remains a natural body I cannot aſcend; Oh therefore that the change was come! Oh that this natural body was ſpiritual! that this corruptible had put on incorruption, and this mortal had put on immortality! then could I move upwards as well as downwards; ſuch is the ſupernatural property of a glorified body, that it aſcends or deſcends with equal eaſe; or if this be not poſſible for my preſent condition, if this body of mine muſt firſt deſcend before it aſcend, if it muſt down into the grave, befor it go up into glory: why yet Oh that my better part were on the wing! Oh that my ſoul was mounting upwards! Oh wretched man that I am, who ſhall deliver my ſoul from this body of death? Or if the union be ſo ſtrong for a while, that neither ſoul nor body can really or ſubſtantially aſcend, yet O that I were ſtill aſcending in a Phil.1.23.

ſpiritual way! O that my affections were ſtill on things above, and not on things beneath! yea, I could wiſh a nearer union even by a diſſolution; why, Chriſt is aſcended, and I would fain be where Chriſt is, though it coſt me dear; I deſire to be diſſolved, I deſire to depart, and to be with Chriſt, which is far better.

2. Let us ſee Chriſt ſitting down at the right hand of God, and ſo deſire to ſit with him: when Chriſt ſate down, it was not in his own pure perſonal right ſimply, as it is his inheritance, but with Eph. 25. 6, relation to his Saints and Members; He hath quickened us together, with Chriſt, and hath raiſed up together, and made us ſit together in Heavenly places in Chriſt Jeſus. I confeſs Chriſt's ſitting at God's right hand (as taken for the ſublimity of his power) is not communicable unto us, for that is Chriſt's own prerogative; to which of the Angels ſaid he at any Heb. 1. 13. time, Sit on my right hand? Yet his ſitting in heaven as it is indefinitely expreſſed, is in ſome ſort communicable unto us, for he ſate down as a common perſon, thereby ſhewing that we were to ſit down with him in our proportion, Him that over-Rev. 3.21. comes, I will grant to ſit with me in my Throne, even as I alſo overcame, and am ſet down with my Father in his Throne. Chriſt ſits in his Father,s Throne, and we ſit in Chriſt's Throne; Chriſt ſits at the right hand of God, and we ſit at the right hand of Chriſt: Oh how deſirable is this? The Mother of Zebedees Children underſtood this myſtery very darkly, yet worſhipping Jeſus, ſhe deſired a certain thing Mat. 20. 21,22,23. of him: what thing? why, grant (ſaid ſhe) that theſe my two Sons may ſit the one at thy right hand, and the other on thy left hand in thy Kingdom: Chriſt blamed them, becauſe they knew not what they asked, and yet he tells them, that to ſit on his right hand, and on his left is given to them for whom it is prepared of his Father. O my ſoul deſire after this, for this is worthy of thy deſire: this is a great thing, an high exaltation, another manner of honour than any that this world affords; Courtiers deſire no more but to ſit at the Prince's right hand; but O the vertue of Chriſt's Seſſion, that thereby thou ſhouldſt ſit at the right hand of God! this is the very height and excellency of heavens glory; only take heed of apprehending it after a carnal and natural way; this very exaltation conſiſts in the Image of God, and communion with God; it is the ſpiritual part, and power, and glory of heaven: if any thing be deſirable above another, ſurely this above all; what? that Chriſt ſhould be exalted above all Principalities Eph. 1.20. 21. and Powers, and mights, and dominions, and every thing that is named in this world, and in the other? what? that Chriſt ſhould ſit down in his Father's Throne, in the higheſt part of Heaven' far above Eph. 4.10. all heavens? and that I a poor worm, duſt and aſhes ſhould ſit with him in Heaven, ſhould be one with him in glory, ſhould be as near him in honour and happineſs, as ſuch a poor creature is poſſibly capable of? Oh how ſhould I but hunger and thirſt after this? if I might have a wiſh, I would not wiſh low things: why, this is the very top, and hight and quinteſſence of Heaven, Chriſt in his Father's Throne and I in Chriſt's Throne; in deſiring this I deſire all, and therefore whatever thou giveſt or denyeſt, Lord give me this, and I have enough for ever.

3. Let us ſee Chriſt's miſſion of his holy ſpirit, and ſo deſire a ſhare in that gift: we cannot expect to ſit with Chriſt, but we muſt firſt have the ſpirit of Chriſt; and therefore as we would have that, let us deſire after this. The greateſt gift we can expect in this world is the ſpirit of Chriſt. Conſider O my ſoul, all things here below are either temporal or ſpiritual things; and of things ſpiritual this is the ſum, the in dwelling of the ſpirit. O Lord give me thy ſelf, and that contains all gifts; O give me the ſpirit, and thou canſt not but with him give me all things; there Pſal. 4. 6. be many that ſay (ſaith the Pſalmiſt) Who will ſhew us any good? earthly things are deſired of many but is any thing on earth to be compared with this gift from heaven? if it were only the beauty of holineſs, it were certainly a moſt deſirable thing; if we rightly underſtand it, holineſs (though but one effect of the ſpirit) is a moſt rare thing; holineſs fills the ſoul with joy, peace quietneſs, aſſurance; holineſs entertains the ſoul with feaſts of fat things and of refined wines; holineſs carries the ſoul into the banquetting houſe of apples and flaggons; holineſs gives the ſoul a dear communion with God and Chriſt; holineſs brings the ſoul into a ſight of Chriſt, and acceſs to him, a boldneſs in his preſence; holineſs admits the ſoul into the moſt intimate conferences with Jeſus Chriſt in his bed-chamber, in his galleries of love, and that which is an argument of more beauty than all the creatures in the world have beſides holineſs attracts the eye, and heart, and longings, and raviſhments, and tender compaſſions, and everlaſting delights of the Lord Jeſus; and if holineſs be thus lovely, Oh what is the holy ſpirit it ſelf? what is the Riſe, the Spring, the Fountain of holineſs? what? O my ſoul, that not only grace, but the ſpirit of Chriſt ſhould dwell in thy ſpirit? that thou ſhouldſt be God's building, and that 1 Cor. 3. 9. not as the reſt of the world is, for his creatures to inhabit; but as a Temple for himſelf to dwell in, 2 Cor. 6. 16. as a Gallery for himſelf to walk in? Oh what long- Cant. 7.5. ings! Oh what pantings and gaſpings! Oh what faintings and ſwoonings ſhould there be in thy ſpirit after this Spirit! Come holy Spirit, O come and dwell in my ſoul! I know thou wilt make the place of thy feet glorious; if I have but thy preſence, I ſhall be all glorious within: O come, come holy Spirit!

Sect. 4. Of hoping on Jeſus in that reſpect.

4. LEt us hope in Jeſus, carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in theſe particulars; thus was the Apoſtles Prayer, Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and Peace in believeing; that ye may abound in hope through the power of Rom. 15. 13. the holy Ghoſt; could we abound in hope that Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of his Spirit did belong to us, we ſhould never be aſhamed; Hope maketh not aſhamed. Rom. 5. 5. O then let us look to our hope, and be ſure that it be of the right ſtamp! which in reference to every of theſe paſſages we may examine thus. As——

1. If Chriſt's Aſcenſion be mine, then am I aſcended with Chriſt: I mean not in reſpect of any bodily Aſcenſion, for that muſt not be until the laſt day; nor in reſpect of any eſſential, ſubſtantial, ſoul aſcenſion, for that muſt not be before the ſeparation of ſoul and body at our-deaths day: but in reſpect of our ſpiritual aſcenſion, for ſo we may aſcend into heaven by faith and love; though for the preſent we are on earth; if ye be riſen with Col. 3. 1. 2. Chriſt ſeek thoſe things which are above, where Chriſt ſitteth at the right hand of God; ſet your affections on things above, and not on things on the earth. If Chriſt our Head be aſcended then we that are his Members muſt needs follow after him in our affections: Chriſt tells us, Where our treaſure is, there Mat. 6. 21 will our hearts be alſo. If Chriſt our Treaſure be aſcended into heaven, our loves, our affections, our hearts will follow after him, and if our hearts, be in heaven, no queſtion but we our ſelves both ſouls and bodies ſhall at laſt aſcend; when Chriſt aſcended, we aſcended virtually with him, now we aſcend ſpiritually, and at laſt we ſhall aſcend bodily; for he that aſcended ſhall deſcend, and then 1 Theſ. 4. 17. we ſhall meet him in the ayr, and ſo ſhall we be ever with the Lord. In the mean time to maintain our hope, let us aſcend dayly by faith and love; and this is our character, that Chriſt's Aſcenſion is truly ours.

2. If Chriſt's Seſſion be mine, then am I ſet down with Chriſt in heavenly places; I mean not bodily, but by faith, which faith makes it as ſure to my ſoul as if I had a foot already in heaven; Heb. 11. 1. Faith is the ſubſtance of things hoped for, and the evidence of things not ſeen. By faith I now ſit in heaveny places, in that I verily believe I ſhall do it one day; my hope is now certain, in that I am as ſure of that I look for, as I am of that I have already received; it is the common objection, We ſee it not. As the Apoſtle ſaid of Chriſt, We ſee not yet all things put under him; but he preſently anſwers, We ſee Jeſus who was made a Heb.2.8.9 little lower than the Angels, crowned with glory and honour, and ſo we may be ſure the thing is as good as done; for if he be above, all muſt come under; in like manner we ſee not our ſelves in preſent poſſeſſion, but we ſee Chriſt crowned, and our ſelves ſitting with him virtually; and therefore at laſt we ſhall ſee our ſelves actually crowned, and ſitting together with Chriſt in heavenly places. In the mean time faith takes poſſeſſion of the Kingdom of Heaven; faith makes the ſoul even now to converſe with God, and Chriſt and Saints and Angels; 1 Tim.6. 19. Faith layes hold upon eternal life, it puts the ſoul as it were into heaven and ſets it down at the right hand of Chriſt; and this is our character, that Chriſt's Seſſion is truly ours.

I. If Chriſts ſpirit be mine, and ſent to me, then have I both the perſon, and train of the ſpirit of Chriſt; it is the having the ſpirit, and the working of the ſpirit in me, that is my evidence of the Spirits miſſion; I look upon this as the greateſt Queſtion, and the weighteſt, and moſt important caſe of conſcience that can be propounded or known of us; viz. Whether the ſpirit of Chriſt doth reſide in us? or whether we have a well-grounded hope to ſay of our ſelves that we have the indwelling of the ſpirit of God? 1 Cor. 3. 16. Know ye not that ye are the Temple of God (ſaith the Apoſtle) and that the ſpirit of God dwelleth in you? And again, 1 Cor. 6. 19. Know ye not that your bodies are the Temples of the holy Ghoſt? In this Queſtion he ſeems to put it out of Queſtion, that true Chriſtians ſhonld know, and in right temper do know that the ſpirit of God dwells in them; if we know not this, we cannot know that we have any part in Chriſt; becauſe the holy ſpirit is the principal bond of our union betwixt Chriſt and us; if we know not this, we cannot know that we are juſtified, for we have nothing to do with Chriſt's Righteouſneſs, by which we are juſtified, until by our ſpiritual union Rom.8.16. Chriſt is made ours; if we know not this, we cannot know we are the adopted Chlidren of God, for it is the ſpirit of adoption, whereby we cry in our hearts Abba Father: if we know not this, we cannot know that we are ſanctified, for it is the ſpirit which is the beginner and perfecter of our ſanctification: if we know not this, we cannot know that our prayers are heard, for it is the ſpirit that Rom. 8.26 helps our infirmities, and that makes interceſſion for us with groaning which cannot be uttered; if we know not this, we cannot know whether we are in errour or truth; or whether our Religion which we profeſs be true or falſe, for it is the ſpirit who enlightens us, and teacheth us and leadeth us into all truth; if we know not this, we cannot know our own comforts, for he is the only true Comforter, from whom all ſound comfort ſprings. Come then and put we our ſelves to the trial; Let us ſearch whether we have the ſpirit of Chriſt, which we may reſolve (if we will not deal deceitfully with our own hearts) by theſe following ſigns.

1. The ſpirit of Chriſt is the ſpirit of illumination; if he dwell in us he will enlighten our eyes, reveal to us thoſe ſaving truths of God as they are in Jeſus; But the Comforter which is the Holy Ghoſt, whom the Father will ſend in my name, he ſhall teach you all things. Joh. 14.6. ——But ye have an unction from the holy One, and ye know all things. 1 Joh.2. 20. ——But the anointing which ye have receeved of him abideth in you, and ye need not that any man teach you, but as the ſame anointing teacheth you of all things; ver. 27. and hence it is that this holy ſpirit is called the Spirit of wiſdom, and revelation in the knowledge of God. Eph.1.17.

2. The ſpirit of Chriſt is the ſpirit of adoption; it brings our ſouls into that bleſſed eſtate that we are the Children of God: Ye have not received the ſpirit of bondage again to fear; but we have received the ſpirit of adoption, whereby we cry Abba Father. Rom.8.15. And becauſe ye are ſons, God hath ſent forth the ſpirit of his ſon into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father Gal.4.6.

2. The ſpirit of Chriſt is a ſpirit of prayer, Zech. 12. 10. I will pour upon the houſe of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jeruſalem the ſpirit of grace, and of ſupplication.—— Rom.8. 26. Likewiſe the ſpirit alſo helpeth our infirmities, for we know not what we ſhould pray for as we ought, but the ſpirit it ſelf maketh interceſſion for us with groanings which cannot be uttered. It is not ſaid that the ſpirit teacheth us words, and fluent phraſes, but it teacheth us to pray in the heart and the ſpirit with ſighs and groans.

4. The ſpirit of Chriſt is a ſpirit of ſanctification; the Apoſtle having told the Corinthians that they had been notorious ſinners, ſaith further, that 1 Cor.6. 11. they were waſhed and ſanctified by the ſpirit of God. Hence Rom.1.4. the holy ſpirit is called The ſpirit of holineſs; becauſe he make us holy who were in our ſelves corrupt and ſinful. If we have this ſpirit, it inclines our hearts to the things above, it mortifies our luſts, it brings us nearer unto God: the ſpirit therefore that is impure and encourageth men in ſin, and cries up carnal Liberty, is certainly none of the ſpirit of Chriſt; and by this one ſign many carnal pretenders of our times may be juſtly convicted.

5. The Spirit of Chriſt is a ſpirit of love. 1 John 4. 16. God is love, and he that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God and God in him; as the ſpirit is love, ſo it begets love in the hearts of his people; Gal. 5. 22. The fruit of the ſpirit is love, joy, peace long-ſuffering, gentleneſs, goodneſs, faith, meekneſs, temperance. All theſe graces are the fruits of the ſpirit, but the firſt grace in the link is love: by his ſpirit we are taught to love God, not only for his benefits, but in reſpect of his nature; for his goodneſs, mercy, juſtice, holineſs, and all other his ſaving attributes; by his ſpirit we are tought to love any thing that hath but the ſtamp and image of God upon it: 1 Theſ. 4. 2. but as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write unto you, for ye your ſelves are taught of God to love one another; The moſt of the Heretical ſpirits of theſe times do hereby ſhew that they have not the Spirit, their very religion lyeth in rayling at Miniſters, and reproaching thoſe that are not in their way; this is far from the ſpirit of love that is in God's Children; certainly where there is malice, hatred, ſtrife, bitter-envyings, raylings, revilings, for ſuch kind of perſons to lay claim to the ſpirit of unity, it is a piece of impudent vanity, and a falſe ſuggeſtion from their own corrupt erring ſpirit, or from the ſpirit of error himſelf who is an hater, reviler, and the accuſer of the Brethren.

The Spirit of Chriſt is a leading Spirit; As many as Rom. 8. 14. are led by the Spirit of God they are the Sons of God. But what is this leading of the Spirit? I Anſwer———

1. It is a drawing of the ſoul Chriſt-ward; Draw Cant. 1.4 me (ſaith the Spouſe) and we will run after thee. There muſt be a drawing of the ſoul in every duty to Jeſus Chriſt; I ſay to Jeſus Chriſt; for a man may be furniſhed with eminent gifts, and with ſuitable aſſiſtance in the laying out of thoſe gifts from the Spirit, and yet he may be without the leadings of the ſpirit; gifts exerciſed cannot ſuppreſs corruptions in a man's own heart, and hence they that Mat. 7. 23. uſed their gifts are called workers of iniquity; gifts do not carry out the heart towards Chriſt, but Jer. 30.21. graces do; I will cauſe him to draw near, and he ſhall approach unto me, for who is this that engaged his heart to approach unto me, ſaith the Lord.

2. It is a giving liberty to the ſoul to walk in the ways of Chriſt. Where the ſpirit of the Lord is, 2Cor. 3. 17. there is liberty; I mean not a liberty to ſin, but to duty, nor yet every liberty to duty; for a man may exerciſe himſelf in the external part of all duties, and yet be without the leadings of the ſpirit; but I mean ſuch a liberty, as when a ſoul accounts it an high favour from the Lord if he will but uſe him in any ſervices for himſelf, when it finds more delectation in theſe, than in any other wayes; I have Pſal 119. 34. 173, 174. choſen the way of truth, (ſaith David) and therein is my delight. And I delight in the law of God, after the inner man (ſaith Paul) Rom. 7. 22. for the law of the ſpirit of life in Jeſus Chriſt hath made me free from the law of ſin Rom. 8.2. and death.

2. It is a corroberating or a ſtrengthening of the ſoul againſt all thoſe impediments, that would hinder it in the ways of Chriſt; Iſrael is ſaid to be led by the ſpirit of the Lord; and how did he lead them, but by Iſa. 63. 11, 12. 13, 14. dividing the waters before them, and by keeping them that they ſhould not ſtumble? many times God's holy ones are beſet with temptations, they find their hearts full of deadneſs, hardneſs, unbelief, and all manner of diſtempers; now if at ſuch a time the mountains have been made plains, if at ſuch a time corruptions have been born down, and their hearts have been let out towards Chriſt, certainly theſe are the leadings of the ſpirit: Rom. 8. 13, 14. If ye through the ſpirit do mortifie the deeds of the body, ye ſhall live; for as many as are led by the ſpirit of God, are the Sons of God: the particular [for] argues mortification to appertain unto the leadings of the ſpirit. There is in the Saints a Gal. 5. 17, 18. conſtant oppoſition between the works of the fleſh, and the works of the ſpirit; now when the works of the fleſh are kept underneath and prevailed againſt, then a ſoul enjoyeth the leadings of the ſpirit; I know ſuch oppoſitions are not in any but Saints; carnal men would wonder that any ſhould complain for want of ſtrength unto duties, why, they can eaſily come up to them, and be in the exerciſe of them; but alas! this ariſes either from Satans not moleſting them in the performance of duty, becauſe they look not beyond the external part of it; or from their own inſenſibleneſs of the working of corruption, when yet it doth act: only a gracious heart findeth, that if it be not ſtrengthned by a Power beyond its own, it cannot act any grace, or perform any duty as acceptable to God; and hence the Apoſtle prayes, That they might be ſtrengthned with might Eph. 3.16. by his Spirit in the inner man.

4. It is an enabling of the ſoul to act in Goſpel-duties for Goſpel-ends; when the Spirit leads, the ſoul never aims at a ſelf-advancement; it never looks at its own name and glory, as they did, in Mat. 6. 1, 5. but it eyes in all its actings the mortification of corruption, and the attainment of communion with God and Chriſt, and the increaſe of all Grace, Faith, Love, Patience, Meekneſs, ſelf-denial, &c. or if it ſeek for outward mercies, it ſeeks them in a ſubordination to theſe, and in a way of ſubſerviency to the intereſt and deſigns of Chriſt: in all things, whether outward or inward it ſeeks the glory of God, as the ultimate end. And in theſe particulars conſiſts the leadings of the ſpirit of Chriſt.

7. The ſpirit of Chriſt is a witneſſing ſpirit. The ſpirit it ſelf, beareth witneſs with our ſpirit that we are Rom. 8. 16. children of God: and every one that believeth hath the witneſs within himſelf. 1 John 5. 10. But of this two queſtions. 1. What is this witneſſing work of the ſpirit? 2. How doth the ſpirit thus witneſs? for the firſt, I anſwer.

1. In general; witneſſing is a giving in ſome evidence upon our knowledge how the matter in queſtion ſtandeth, that thereby others may be aſcertained of the truth of the things: At the mouth of Deut. 19. 15. two or three witneſſes ſhall the matter be eſtabliſhed; theſe words Chriſt cited, and ſaid, Joh. 8. 17. It is written in your Law, that the teſtimony of two men is true; not but that it was certain in it ſelf before, but that now by the teſtimony of two it is rendered certain unto thoſe that queſtion the ſame; this is witneſſing.

2. In ſpecial; The witneſſing of the ſpirit is an Office of the ſpirit, whereby it works the ſoul into a knowledge, perſwaſion, or concluſion of its acceptation into favour with God in Chriſt. Now the ſpirit witneſſeth either objectively, or efficiently.

1. Objectively; When it only affords ſuch ſpecial operations as have an aptitude to aſcertain the ſoul, but do not aſcertain; thus many a time the Spirit comes and brings in ſuch, and ſuch aſcertions or affirmations of our adoption, as if they were but duly obſerved, might manifeſt the ſame; but we over-look theſe evidences, we will not hear what the ſpirit ſpeaks to us; We ſpeak that we know (ſaith Chriſt) and teſtifie that we have ſeen; but ye re- Joh. 3. 11. ceive not our witneſs; ſo may the ſpirit complain, I have teſtified to you that which I know, I have ſaid that ye were children of God, but ye have not received my witneſs; doubtleſs it is a ſinful neglect not to yield attention unto the voice of the ſpirit and yet the ſpirit in this way may be reſiſted.

2. Efficiently; and if the ſpirit witneſs thus, it cannot be reſiſted; in this way the ſpirit cauſeth the ſoul to conclude of its adoption by its ſpeakings to it: this is not only the aſſertions or affirmations of our adoption, but the aſſurances of our ſouls that Rom. 8. 38. we are adopted, I am perſwaded, ſaith the Apoſtle, and I know that my Redeemer liveth ſaith Job. Job. 19. 25. And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the ſpirit 1 John 3. 24. which he hath given us. But——

2. How doth the Spirit thus witneſs; I anſwer. 1. immediately. 2. Mediately.

1. Concerning the immediate teſtimony of the Spirit there is ſome controverſie: Antinomians would have no other teſtimony but this; all other evidences (ſay they) are deceiving evidences; or if not deceiving, yet to make uſe of them it were but to light a candle to the Sun; for what are the graces of the Spirit in compariſon of the Spirits own teſtimony; and it may be the running into this extreme hath cauſed others abſolutely to deny any ſuch teſtimony; or at laſt to ſay for theſe enthuſiaſms, or inſpirations, let them boaſt of them that have them we know no ſuch thing. Methinks a middle betwixt both theſe (as it is proved by others) is moſt conſonant to truth; for neither can I reject the graces of ſanctification from being grounds of our aſſurance; neither dare I deny but there is ſomething of the work of the ſpirits teſtimony which is an immediate work. Let us hear what others ſay of it——

Certainly

Ford of the Spirit

Certainly there is a work, wherein the ſpirit acts as in illumination; and infuſion of good motions into us, wherein by a ſecret influence upon the heart, he quiets and calms the troubled Soul concerning its condition by his own immediate power, without any grounds from Scripture without, or graces within.

Caryl on Job chap 10.

There is a threefold work, of the ſpirit; 1. To convey and plant grace in the Soul. 2. To act and help us to exerciſe the graces which are planted there. 3. To ſhine upon and enlighten thoſe graces: This laſt work the Spirit fulfils two ways; 1. By arguments and inferences, which is a mediate work. 2. By preſence and influence, which is an immediate work; this the Apoſtle calls, witneſs-bearing; There are three that bear witneſs in Earth, the Spirit, and Water, and Blood; the Spirit brings in the witneſs of Water and Blood, which is his mediate work; but beſides and above theſe, he gives a diſtinct witneſs of his own, which is his immediate work, is in a way of peculiarity and tranſcendency called the witneſs of the Spirit.—— As it is with the motions of the ſpirit, many a time the Spirit excites a man to ſuch or ſuch duties, by laying his hand immediately upon the heart, and thereby inclining it to obey thoſe motions; ſo in this caſe when a poor Soul ſits in darkneſs, and ſees no light, ſometimes upon a ſudden it is (as it were) taken up into the third Heaven; and this is in ſuch a way, that though the ſpirit of a man really believe it, and is immediately calmed by it, yet it cannot tell how it came to paſs.

Bolton's direct. for a comfortable walking with God

There is a Teſtimony of the Spirit, which ſometimes the Spirit may ſuggeſt and teſtifie to the ſanctified Conſcience, with a ſecret, ſtill, heart-raviſhing voice, thus, or in the like manner, Thou art the child of God; thou art in the number of thoſe that ſhall be ſaved, thou ſhalt inherit everlaſting life: and that as certainly and comfortably, as if that Angel from Heaven ſhould ſay to thee, as he did to Daniel, greatly beloved.—— Mighty and remarkable was the work of the Spirit this way upon the heart of that noble Martyr, Robert Glover, upon the firſt ſight and repreſentation of the ſtake, when he cried, he is come, he is come. Such an immediate ſpringing of the ſpirit was in the heart of Maſter Peacocke, who after many days of extremeſt horrour, profeſſed, The joy which he felt was incredible. Such an immediate work was upon the Heart of Miſtreſs Brettergh, who after the return of her beloved, ſuddenly cryed out, How wonderful! how wonderful! how wonderful are thy mercies, O Lord! O the joys, the joys, the joys that now I feel in my ſoul! we feel and acknowledge by daily experience, that Satan doth immediately inject, and ſhall not the bleſſed ſpirit after his holy and heavenly manner immediately alſo ſuggeſt ſometimes?

Rutherford on Joh. 12. P. 100.

As there is in the eye, lumen innatum, a certain in-bred light, to make the eye ſee lights and colours without; and as there is in the ear, aer internus, a certain in-bred ſound and air, to make it diſcern the ſounds that are without; ſo is there in a gracious heart, a new nature, an habitual inſtinct of Heaven to diſcern the conſolations of God's Spirit, immediately teſtifying that we are the Sons of God; there are ſome ſecret and unexpreſſible lineaments of the Fathers countenance in this child, that the renewed ſoul at firſt bluſh knows and owns it. But for fear of miſtakes, in this caſe obſerve we theſe Rules.

1. That altho the Spirit may immediately teſtifie without any expreſs or formal application of a word, yet he never teſtifies but according to the Word. If a man that never felt ſin a burthen, that throws away all duties of Religion, that never Prays, Reads, Hears, or Meditates, ſhall ſay, that he is filled with joy, Peace, and the aſſurance of God's Word, it is certain the holy Spirit is not the Author of this, becauſe the promiſe of peace belongs to none of his ſtamp; ſee Matth. 11. 28, Iſa 57. 15. Mal. 5. 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.

2. That ordinarily the ſpirit brings in his teſtimony either in duty, or after duty. I have ſeen his wayes, and I will heal him; I will lead him alſo, and reſtore comforts to him and to his mourners; I create the fruit of the lips, peace, peace to him that is far off, and to him that is near, ſaith the Lord, and I will heal him. I know there may be a caſe of grievous temptations, and at ſuch time the ſpirit of God may come in by a ſudden irradiation, and chear the ſoul wonderfully, though it knows not how; yet uſually the ſpirit brings in his teſtimony either in duty, or not long after duty.

Iſa. 57. 18, 19.

3. That ſuch teſtimonies of the Spirit beget only an actual aſſurance during the preſent exigency, or in order to ſome preſent deſign that God is working thereby; theſe are extraordinary dainties, that God will not have us feed conſtantly upon; a gleam of light in a dark winters night, when a man cannot coaſt the Country, and diſcern his way by thoſe marks which direct him at other times; or as a lightning from a thunder-cloud, that comes juſt in the moment when a man is ſtepping into a pit that would ſwallow him up; now a Traveller will not depend always upon ſuch guides, but rather he will chooſe to travel by day, and learn out ſuch way-marks as may be ſtanding aſſurances to him, that he is in the way. And therefore——

2. The ſpirit witneſſeth mediately; and that either without, or with argumentation: But both from the Word.

1. Without argumentation, and that is when the ſpirit applies ſome ſuitable word to the ſoul, and without more ado enables the ſoul to cloſe with that ſuitable word. As for the inſtance, thou art burthened for ſin, and thou haſt prayed earneſtly for pardon of ſin, and even then a ſecret whiſper of the Spirit caſts that word into thy heart, I will heal thy back-ſlidings, and love thee freely, or ſuch a voice as that, come unto me all ye that labour, and are heavy laden, and I will give you reſt. Now this is a direct teſtimony; only I dare not leave it without a caution.——Some can relate extraordinary paſſages of providence attending the coming in of ſuch and ſuch a word: as that they did not know there was any ſuch Scripture, nor did they know where it was: and yet in opening the Book, it was the very firſt place their eye was caſt upon; or they wanted a Book, and in the uſe of ſome other means unexpectedly a word was ſpoken, or remembred, ſo pat to the caſe, as if it had been a very meſſage from Heaven, certainly the Spirits hinting in of words thus, is very obſervable; yet a bare giving in of a word is no warrant that it comes from the Spirit, unleſs the Soul come up to ſome end which the word it ſelf pointeth at; there muſt not only be a word, but a cloſing with the word, and improving of the word, for the ends it aimeth at, as quickning, comforting, ſupporting, acting of ſome graces, or ſuch like; and by this we may know that the teſtimony is true, and proceeds from the Spirit of God.

Hoſ. 14.4 Mat. 11. 28.

2. With argumentation, and that is when the Spirit brings in the teſtimony of blood and water, I may call it a teſtimony of Faith, and other graces of the Spirit written in our hearts, and brought out by the Spirit in a way of Argument; as thus.—— He that believeth, hath everlaſting life; but I believe, Ergo. The firſt propoſition is the Goſpel, and in this way it is the firſt work of the ſpirit to open our eyes, for the underſtanding thereof. The ſceond propoſition, is thy caſe, or my caſe; and here the Spirit enlightens the ſoul to ſee it ſelf under that condition, but I believe. Indeed many times this is not ſo eaſily done, and therefore the Spirit doth elicite and draw forth the ſoul to an aſſent by a further evidence of argument, True (ſays the ſoul) he that believes hath everlaſting life, but I am none of thoſe believers, and therefore what doth this promiſe concern ſuch an unbelieving wretch as I am? In this caſe now the Spirit's work is longer, or ſhorter, even as he pleaſeth; if it will be no better, the Spirit is fain to produce ſome other proofs of Scripture, as evidence faith in the ſubject in whom it is; ſuch as purifying the heart, love to God, his ways, his people, &c. and poſſibly it goes farther yet, and proves thoſe graces to be in the ſoul by farther marks.——— I know ſome object, if the ſpirit ſay, thou art a believer, becauſe thou haſt love, the ſoul may doubt ſtill whether it have love or no; and if the Spirit ſay, thou haſt love becauſe thou delighteſt in God's Commandments; the queſtion may be ſtill, whether that delight be ſincere, or counterfeit; pure, or mixed; and therefore ſay they, There can be no judgment of a man's juſtification by his ſanctification; or of his ſanctification by the operation of particular graces.

I anſwer, it is true, that whiles I endeavour to diſcover theſe graces meerly by Reaſon, they may be ſtill ſubject to queſtion, and ſo they can make no firm aſſurance; but in the Soul that is graciouſly aſſured this way, the Spirit of God reſts the heart upon an ultimum quod ſic: He convinceth the Soul by that which is moſt viſible in him, and ſo ſtops the mouth of cavilling reaſon from perplexing the queſtion any more. Indeed it is a fine skill to know whether a true aſſurance be meerly rational, or from the witneſs of the Spirit of God? whether it be wrought out of a man's own brain, or wrought into his heart by the Holy Ghoſt? now in ſome caſes we may diſcern it, as thus; the aſſurance that the Spirit gives, doth ſometimes ſurprize a man unexpectedly, at unawares, as it may be in a Sermon, that he came accidently unto; or in a Scripture, that I caſt a tranſient glancing eye upon: but thus doth not reaſon. Again, The aſſurance that the Spirit gives, maintains a Soul in a way of reliance and dependance, when it ſees no Reaſon why he ſhould do ſo; or it may be when he ſees a reaſon why it ſhould not be ſo; as it is Rom. 4. 18. ſaid of Abraham in another caſe, that he believed in hope againſt hope; Faith told him there was hope that he ſhould be the Father of many Nations, when reaſon told him there was none. Again, The aſſurance that the Spirit gives, is attended with an high eſteem of Prayer; Duties, Ordinances, and in the iſſue (which is the moſt principal ſure mark) it purifies the Soul that hath it, He that hath this hope purifieth himſelf, even as he is 1 Joh. 3. 3. pure, he is ever waſhing himſelf from ſin, and watching againſt ſin, and taking all poſſible care to keep himſelf pure and unſpotted in this preſent evil world, it keeps the Soul humble, and lowly, it being impoſſible that ſuch a teſtimony of the Spirit, and ſo intimate a converſe with God, and the light of his countenance ſhould not reflect low thoughts upon a man's ſelf concerning himſelf; ſuch a man cannot but ſay, Lord, what am I that thou haſt brought me hitherto? what for ſuch a peeviſh, unbelieving, impatient ſoul as mine is, to be carried in thy arms and cheered with thy ſmiles, and to enjoy the comforts of thy Spirit? Oh what a wonderful, merciful, gracious God? have I?

Yet in all this I exclude not the Spirit in drawing a rational evidence from Scriptures; certainly the ſpirit helps in a general way, by making uſe of our reaſon, only it elevates and improves our reaſon to a farther aſſurance by a ſupernatural aſſiſtance; as in Prayer, and in preaching of the Word, there may be a common aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God; but there is another kind of praying and preaching by the Spirit, which the Scripture often ſpeaks of, and calls the ſpirit of ſupplication, and the demonſtration of the ſpirit; and that is not performed by a common or general, but by a ſpecial and particular aſſiſtance of the Spirit of God; ſo there is a two-fold influence of the Spirit in putting forth acts of aſſurance in the heart, even of a Godly and Sound Chriſtian; the very ſame Man may act aſſurance ſometimes rationally, and ſometimes ſpiritually; in the former the Spirit acts too, but in a common way, only in the latter, 'tis the ſupernatural, ſpecial aſſiſtance, which peculiarly is ſaid to be the witneſs of the ſpirit. I ſpeak not againſt rational evidences, only it concerns us to apply our ſelves to the Spirit to ſuperadd his teſtimony. O let us not ſo content out ſelves with rational evidences, but that we labour to elevate the evidence of reaſon into a teſtimony of the Holy Spirit of God. To wind up all I have ſaid——

O my Soul, try now the hope of the Spirit's in-dwelling by theſe ſeveral ſigns; art thou enlightned ſavingly in the knowledge of God, and of Chriſt? art thou a Child of God, one of his adopted Sons for whom he hath reſerved the Inheritance? haſt thou a Spirit of Grace and Supplication? a Spirit of Sanctification? a ſpirit of Love? art thou led by the ſpirit? doſt thou feel the drawings of thy ſoul in every duty to Jeſus Chriſt? doſt thou feel a liberty, or a delight in thy ſoul to walk in the way of his Commandments? doſt thou feel any ſtrength to come in againſt thy corruptions; doſt thou feel the ſpirits help to act in Goſpel-duties for Goſpel ends? haſt thou ever had the immediate teſtimony of the ſpirit? or if not ſo; haſt thou ever had the immediate teſtimony of the ſpirit without any argumentation? haſt thou unexpectedly dipt and lighted on ſome places of Scripture that hath ſatisfied thy ſoul as with marrow and fatneſs? or if not ſo neither, haſt thou the immediate teſtimony of the Spirit with argumentation? canſt thou argue thus, He that believeth ſhall be ſaved, but I believe, therefore I ſhall be ſaved. Or if any doubt be made of the aſſumption; canſt thou prove it by ſuch other graces as accompany Faith, and are the fruits of Faith? canſt thou ſay by the help of the ſpirit, and ſhinings of the ſpirit, that theſe, and theſe graces are in me, and have been acted by me; yea, I do love God and Chriſt, I do repent of my ſins, &c. ſurely then thy hope is well grounded; thou haſt the in-dwelling of the Spirit; it is thine, even thine.

Sect. 5. Of believing in Jeſus in this reſpect.

5. LET us believe on Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in theſe particulars, many ſcruples are in many hearts, What? is it poſſible that I ſhould have any ſhare in Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Chriſt's Seſſion, Chriſt's Miſſion of his Spirit? was it ever in God's heart that I ſhould partake with Chriſt in all theſe glories? if it muſt be ſo that he will let out his love to ſo unworthy a wretch, was it not ſufficient for him to have come down from Heaven, and to have acted my redemption here below? Is it not an high Favour that a King ſhould leave his Court, to give a poor Priſoner in the Jayl a viſit? but will he take him with him to his own home, and bring him into his own preſence-chamber, and ſet him at his right hand in his throne? And ſo that Chriſt ſhould not only leave his Fathers throne, and give me a viſit, lying in the dark dungeon of unbelief; but that he ſhould take of the bolts, and ſet open the priſon doors, and take me up with him into Heaven, and there ſet me down at his right hand, and in the mean time give me the earneſt and pledge of my inheritance, by filling my ſoul with his own ſpirit; O what an admirable incredible thing is this? it was the laſt viſion of John which was ſo full of wonders. And I John ſaw the holy City, the new Jeruſalem coming down from God out of Heaven.———And I heard a great voice out of heaven, ſaying; Behold the Tabernacle of God Rev. 21 2, 3. is with men, and he will dwell with them. Surely it was a miraculous mercy that Heaven ſhould come down upon earth, and that God ſhould come down to men: But Oh, what is this that Earth ſhould go up to Heaven, that Men ſhould aſcend up to God? yea, that my ſoul with Chriſt, and by Chriſt, ſhould aſcend to God, and ſit down with God in heavenly places? yea, that my Soul ſhould have for its inmate the very ſame ſpirit that Chriſt himſelf hath? O, I cannot, I will not, I dare not believe.

Scrupulous Souls, be not faithleſs but believing; there is none of theſe particulars for which we have not a warrant out of the Word of God; and therefore believe: But that I may perſuade to purpoſe, I ſhall lay down, 1, Some directions, and 2. Some encouragements of faith.

1. For directions of Faith, obſerve theſe particulars. As———

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt.

2. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the Fleſh.

3. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the Fleſh made under the Law.

4. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, not only as made under the directive part of the Law by his life, but under the penal part of the Law, by his death.

5. Faith muſt go to Chriſt not only as put to death in the Fleſh, but as quickned by the ſpirit; of all theſe before.

6. Faith muſt not only go to Chriſt as quickned by the Spirit, but as going up into glory, as ſitting down at God's right hand, and as ſending the Holy Ghoſt; Faith ſhould eye Chriſt as far as he goes; if he be aſcended, ſo ſhould Faith; if he go into glory, and ſit down there, and act there for his People, ſo ſhould faith; and ſo ſhould we in a way of believing follow after him, and take a view of all his tranſactions where he is; we have heard before how Faith ſhould go to Chriſt as dying, and as riſing again; but yet faith is low, while it doth not go within the vail, and ſee him in glory; it is not enough to have only a faith of Juſtification, but of Glorification. O come let us ſee Chriſt in Heaven, and we can have no leſs than a glorious faith! how many are there that never yet came to act faith in Chriſt as a glorified Chriſt? we are yet ſtill in the lower form; many of us take in no more of Chriſt than what was done on the Croſs, or what ſome natural, and common reſemblances of him can hold forth; we ſeldom follow Chriſt into Heaven, to ſee what he is doing there for us. O my ſoul! and O my faith! mount up, and be on the wing: Chriſt is gone up to heaven, Chriſt is ſet down at God's right hand; Chriſt hath ſent down his holy Spirit: to this purpoſe it was expedient that he ſhould go away, and now he is gone away to do ſomething that remains to be done for thee in his Kingdom; he hath ſtill ſome glorious piece to frame for thy ſalvation, and therefore he left this world and went to his Father that he might act it in glory; and now he is inveſted with all the riches of Heaven, he hath all the Keys of Heaven and Hell, he hath all power to command, he hath received all the promiſe to himſelf, and all that he hath to do, it is to let out of himſelf again unto his Saints; he hath not only got his Father's heart for them, but he hath got all his Riches to beſtow upon them; when he came to Heaven, the Father bid him ſit down at his right hand, and take what he would, and beſtow what he would upon his Saints; and thereupon he gave gifts unto men, yea, he gave the gift of gifts, even the Holy Ghoſt himſelf. What? art not thou a partaker of this gift? O then Look up unto Jeſus in reference to all theſe actings, ſet him before thee: Chriſt in all theſe particulars is a right object for thy faith to act upon.

7. Faith in going to Chriſt, his Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of the holy ſpirit, it is principally to look to the purpoſe, intent, and deſign of Chriſt, in each of theſe particulars: Chriſt did nothing but he had an end, a meaning in it for our good; and here is the life of Faith, to eye the meaning of Chriſt in all his doings. Now the ends of Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of his ſpirit were ſeveral; I ſhall inſtance onlyn in theſe few. As———

1. Chriſt aſcended that we might aſcend: look whatever God acted on Chriſt's Perſon, that he did as in our behalf, and he means to act the ſame on us: Was Chriſt crucified? ſo are we; is Chriſt riſen again, ſo are we riſen together with him: is Chriſt gone up into glory? ſo are we; Heaven is now opened and poſſeſſed by Jeſus Chriſt for us, and at laſt we ſhall aſcend even as he aſcended; Chriſt cannot be content with that glory he hath himſelf, until we be with him; Father I will, that John 17. 25. thoſe alſo whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am, that they may behold or enjoy my glory which thou haſt given me. Chriſt as our head is in glory, and ſo we are there already with him; and Chriſt as our advocate is in glory, and there he is pleading and praying for us, that we may actually be received and brought up to him: Father, I will that theſe whom thou haſt given me may be with me. Chriſt's crown of glory is as it were a burthen on his own head, until it be ſet on the heads of all his Saints; O the bleſſed end of Chriſt's Aſcenſion! how ſhould faith pry into this? Believers! you ſee your object, you know his perſon, never be quiet until ye come into his condition: as we muſt go through all ordinances and creatures till we come to Chriſt, ſo through all conditions of Chriſt until we come to glory.

2. Chriſt ſat down that we might ſit with him in heavenly places, what is the end of Chriſt's Seſſion, but that we might inveſt all his Saints with the ſame privilege? In this height of glory, Chriſt is the pattern, and plat-form, and Idea of what we ſhall be; ſurely this is the very top of Heaven; Chriſt is exalted above the Heavens, that we might in our meaſure and proportion be exalted with Chriſt, it was Chriſt's Prayer, that his Father, and he, and we, might all be one As thou Father art in John 17. 21. me, and I in thee, that they alſo may be one in us. Oh how ſhould faith ſtand, and gaze on Jeſus Chriſt in this reſpect? what? is he on God's right hand? and is he there preparing a room, a ſeat, a manſion for my ſoul? What ſhall I ſit at the right hand of Chriſt? ſhall I ſit as an aſſeſſor on his Judgment-ſeat to Judge the world with Jeſus Chriſt? when the Mat 19. 28. Son of man ſhall ſit on the Throne of his Glory, ye alſo ſhall ſit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. Oh what is this? had not Chriſt ſaid it, how could I have believed it? admire, O my Soul, at this aim of Chriſt, the meaning of his exalting himſelf, it was to exalt thee; and the meaning of his exalting thee on this manner, it is to manifeſt to all the World, what the Son of God is able to do, in raiſing ſo poor a creature, to ſo rich a glory. O the end of Chriſt's ſitting at God's right hand! hereby the Saints are Chriſt's aſſeſſors; Lords of the higher Houſe, the Kings Peers to judge the World with him. Chriſt divides (as it were) the throne with them. I appoint unto you a Kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me, that you may eat and drink at my table in my Kingdom, and ſit on thrones judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. Luke 22. 29, 30.

3. Chriſt ſent down the Holy Ghoſt, that he might dwell in our Souls, endow us with gifts, and graces; that he might comfort us, ſeal us unto the day of redemption; fit us for glory; amongſt the many ends for which Chriſt ſent down his holy ſpirit, I ſhall inſiſt only on theſe two ———

1. That he might help us to cry Abba Father: and make us to come boldly to the Throne of grace, as Children to a Father. It is the Spirit that takes us by the hand and leads us to the Father, when others ſtand at a diſtance, and cannot come near: As a Prince's Son is admitted at all times though others are kept out by Officers and Guards; ſo though there be never ſo much darkneſs, and fire, and terror about God, yet the adopted Child, who hath received the Spirit of Adoption, can ſay; make way there, and let me come to my Father; guards are appointed to keep out ſtrangers, but not Sons. And no wonder, for the ſpirit makes interceſſion for us with groanings which cannot be uttered; Rom. 8. 26. the Spirit teacheth us what to pray, and how to pray as we ought; the Spirit puts a courage and boldneſs into the hearts of his Saints, even to admiration; this appears in that ſometimes they have beſet God with his promiſes, that he could no way get off. Quicken me according to thy word.——— And ſtrengthen me according to thy word.——— And be merciful nuto me accordindg to thy word.——— And uphold me according to thy word.——— And give me underſtanding according to thy word: Pſal. 119. 25. 28. 29. 116. 169. And ſometimes they have betſet God with their challenges of his Juſtice, Faithfulneſs and Righteouſneſs: ſo David, Deliver me in thy righteouſneſs.——— And judge me according to thy righteouſneſs.——— And quicken me according to thy righteouſneſs.——— And in thy faithfulneſs anſwer me, and in thy righteouſneſs. Pſal. 31. 1. 35. 24. 119. 40. 143. 1. Why this is the Spirit's work, he helps our infirmities, he emboldens our Spirits in their approaches to God: ſurely it is one end of the ſpirits miſſion; Becauſe ye are ſons, God hath ſent forth the ſpirit of his Son in our hearts, crying, Abba Father. Gal. 4. 6. I will not deny but that baſtards, ſtrangers without the Covenant, having no right to God as their Father, may yet petition God, as a ſubdued people do their Conqueror, or as Ravens cry to God for food, or as ſome howl upon their beds for Corn and Wine; Hoſ. 7. 14. but they cannot pray, in right Prayer; there is not only required gracious ingredients in the action, but alſo a new ſtate of adoption and filiation: many ſpeak words to God, who do not pray; many tell over their ſins, who confeſs not their ſins to God; many ſpeak good of God, who do not praiſe God; thouſands claim Fatherſhip in God, where there is no Sonſhip, nor ground in the thing it ſelf. A new nature is only that beſt bottom of Prayer, that takes it off from the being a taking of God's Name in vain. Now this is the fruit of the ſpirit, and one of thoſe ends of the ſpirit's miſſion.

2. That he might guide us into all Truth; I mean into all neceſſary, Fundamental ſaving Truths: in this reſpect we have need of the Spirit in theſe days. He it is that dictates to us which is the true Religion; he it is that tranſcribes upon our hearts, that which was before only written in our books; he it is that not only reveals truth from without, but imprints it alſo on the Soul, as a man doth a ſeal by impreſſing it on the wax; to this purpoſe ſaith the Apoſtle, He that believeth on the Son of God, hath the witneſs in himſelf; 1 John 5. 20. how in himſelf? I anſwer, 1. In that the Spirit gives him a habit of Faith. 2. In that the ſpirit cauſeth him to bring it forth into act. 3. In that the ſpirit ſtamps on the Soul all thoſe other impreſſions of deſire, hope, love, joy, or whatever elſe we call the new nature; ſo that now there is a new nature within him, he hath new thoughts, new deſigns, new deſires, new hopes, new loves, new delights, he drives a new trade (as it were) in this world for another world: He is become in Chriſt a new Creature, Old things are paſſed away, and all things are become new. 2 Cor. 5. 17. And from hence we may ſoundly argue the truth of our Religion. Mark this, as the written word is the teſtimony without us, ſo are theſe impreſſions of the Spirit the teſtimony within us, by which we may know every neceſſary truth as it is in Jeſus; this is the meaning of the Apoſtle, He that believeth hath the witneſs in himſelf: unbelievers have indeed a teſtimony without them, but believers have a double teſtimony, one without, and one within; and this witneſs within us will go with us which way ſoever we go; it will accompany us through all ſtraits and difficulties. The external teſtimony may be taken from us; men may take from us our Bibles, our Teachers, our Friends; or they may impriſon us where we cannot enjoy them; but they cannot take from us the Spirit of Chriſt: this witneſs within, is a permanent, ſetled, habituate, ſtanding witneſs; O what an excellent help is here, that a poor Chriſtian beyond all the furniture of the moſt Learned Men, that want this teſtimony of the ſpirit of Chriſt! ſurely this advantage will exceedingly furniſh us againſt all temptations to any errour, that is plainly contrary to the eſſentials of Religion. One of our late Divines puts a caſe———

Mr. Baxter's Spirits witneſs to the truth of Chriſtianity.

If the Devil or any ſeducer would draw us to doubt, whether there be indeed a Chriſt? or whether he did riſe again, aſcend, ſate down at God's right hand, and thence ſent down the Holy Ghoſt? what an excellent advantage is it againſt this temptation, when we can repair to our own hearts, and there find a Chriſt, or a Spirit of Chriſt within us? O (ſaith the ſanctified Soul) have I felt Chriſt relieving me in my loſt condition, delivering me from my captivity, reconciling me to God, and bringing me with boldneſs into his glorious preſence? and now after all this, I ſhall doubt whether there be a Chriſt in Heaven, or a Spirit of Chriſt in my heart on Earth? have I felt him new creating me, opening my dark Eyes, and bringing me from darkneſs into his marvellous light, and from the Power of Satan unto God, binding the ſtrong man, and caſting him out, and yet ſhall I queſtion whether there be a Chriſt, or a Spirit of Chriſt? hath he made me love the things which I hated, and hate that which I loved? hath he given me ſuch a taſte of the powers of the world to come, and poſſeſſed me with the hopes of glory with himſelf, and given me a meaſure, and portion in God, and ſet my heart where my treaſure is, and cauſed me in ſome meaſure to have my converſation in Heaven above, and yet I ſhall doubt whether there be a Chriſt above, or a Spirit within? Oh what an impudent lying Spirit is this, that would tempt me againſt ſo much experience? And thus may a believer argue from the teſtimony that it within.

I know ſome ſeeming Saints have fallen off into as great blaſphemies as theſe I have named; witneſs the Quakers and Ranters, &c. but I may ſay of ſuch, as John did, They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would not 1 John 2. 19.

doubt have continued with us. It is no wonder if Satan prevail againſt thoſe that gave Chriſt no deeper room but in their phantaſie, and that did never heartily cloſe with him in love. But for thoſe that have the Spirit of Chriſt within them, it is not ſo with them; if they cannot anſwer the cavil of Satan, or of any of his inſtruments; yet they can hold faſt the grounds of Faith; Chriſt hath a deep room and intereſt in their ſpirits; he is held faſter by the hand, than by the head alone; Love will hold Chriſt, when Reaſon alone would let him go; his ear is nailed (as it were) unto his door; and becauſe he loveth him, he will not leave Rom. 8. 35, 36, 37. him: Who ſhall ſeparate him from the love of Chriſt, ſhall tribulation, or diſtreſs, or perſecution, or famine, or nakedneſs, or peril, or ſword, (as it is written, for thy ſake are we killed all the day long) nay, in all theſe things we are more than Conquerors through Him that hath loved us. A modern Writer brings in a ſincere Mr. Baxter ibid. heart, paraphrazing (as it were) on this Text, in this manner; Who ſhall ſeparate us from the Love of Chriſt? O thou malicious Devil, that doſt hunt me with thy fiery darts! O you dull hereticks, infidels, blaſphemers, that fill up my ears with your fooliſh ſophiſms, and trouble me with your diſputes againſt my Lord and Redeemer; go to him that knows him only by the hearing of the ear, if you mean to prevail; but I have known him by the ſweet experiences of my ſoul; go to him that makes a Religion of his Opinions, and whoſe belief was never any deeper than his fancy, and whoſe piety never reached higher than to abſtinacy, and tasks of formal duty; theſe you may poſſibly draw away from Chriſt. But do you think to do ſo by me? why, tell me how? with what weapons or arguments can you think to prevail? what, ſhall tribulation be the means? no, no; I have that promiſe in the hand of my Faith? and that glory in the eye of my hope, that will bring me through all tribulations under Heaven: or ſhall diſtreſs do it? why I will rather ſtick ſo much cloſer to him that will relieve me in diſtreſs and bring me to his reſt. Or will you affright me by perſecution? I am aſſured that this is the neareſt way to Heaven, and I am bleſſed of Chriſt, when I am perſecuted for righteouſneſs ſake. Or ſhall nakedneſs be the weapon? I had rather paſs naked out of this World to Heaven, than to be clothed in purple, and to be ſtript of it at death, and to be caſt into hell; Adam's innocent nakedneſs, and Lazarus's rags were better than that Epicure's gay apparel. Or ſhall famine be the means? why, man liveth not by bread alone; I had rather my Body were famiſhed than my Soul; I have meat to eat that ye know not of, even the bread of Life, which whoſo eats ſhall live for ever. Or will you affright me from Chriſt by the ſword of violence? I know that the Lord whom I believe, in and ſerve, is able to deliver me out of your hands; but if he will not, be it known to you I will not forſake him; your ſword will be only the key to open the priſon doors, and let out my ſoul, that hath long deſired to be with Jeſus Chriſt. If you tell me of peril, I know no danger ſo great as of loſing Chriſt, and ſalvation; and of bearing his wrath, that can kill both body and ſoul: do I not read in certain Hiſtories of that noble Army of Martyrs, who loved the Lord Jeſus to the death, and gloried in tribulation, and would not by the flames of fires, or jaws of Lyons, be ſeparated from Jeſus Chriſt? did not they paſs through the red Sea, as on dry ground, to the promiſed land? yea, though they were killed all the day long, and accounted as Sheep to the ſlaughter; did they not ſtick and cleave faſt to the Lord, and to the Captain of their ſalvation? nay, were they not in all this conquerours, and more than conquerours, triumphing in flames, to the confuſion of Satan, and all their enemies; as Chriſt triumphed on the Croſs, deſtroying by death the Prince of death? Heb 2. 14. Oh what a bleſſed advantage is it againſt all temptations, to have the impreſs of the Goſpel of Chriſt on our heart, and the witneſs in our ſelves.

But I hear ſome object; If the witneſs in our ſelves be ſo full and convincing, then what need have we any more to make uſe of Scripture, or Miniſters; why ſhould we leave an higher Teacher to go to a lower?

But I anſwer, 1. There is more than one thing wanting to enwiſe us to ſalvation; as firſt, an outward Word; and ſecondly, an outward Teacher; and thirdly, an inward Light: And accordingly God ſupplies this threefold want: the firſt, by giving us the Scripture; the ſecond, by giving us a Miniſtry, and other occaſional Teachers; the third, by giving us the illumination of the Spirit, to help us to ſee by the former means, and to make the Word and Miniſtry to us effectual. Now it were a mad thing for a man to ſay, I have eyes to read in a book, and therefore I have no need of the light of Candle, or of Sun; or I have eyes, and Sun, and therefore I have no need of the light in the Air, which cometh from the Sun; or I have the light both of the Eye, and Sun, and Air, and therefore I can read by it without a Book; or I have a Book, and therefore I can read it without a Teacher: certainly if a man would read, he muſt have all theſe, or more than one of theſe; ſo God hath appointed us three neceſſary means for our illumination and direction; the Word, the Miniſtery, and the Spirit; What God hath joyned, let no man ſeparate; if any will fooliſhly go, and ſet one of theſe againſt another, when God hath ſet them all together and made them all neceſſary, aſſigning to each a ſeveral part in the work of our illumination, they may abuſe God and themſelves, and go without the light, while they diſpiſe the neceſſary cauſes of it. God's evidences muſt not be ſeparated, much leſs muſt one be pleaded to the neglect of all the reſt; as the work within us is not the firſt teſtimony, but a ſecondary confirming teſtimony, ſo doth it not make the firſt unneceſſary or void: beſides that, by the external teſtimony we muſt convince other men, which by the witneſs within us we cannot do. But this only by the way.

2. For the encouragement of our Faith to believe in Chriſt as in reference to his Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of his Spirit.

1. Conſider of the excellency of this Object; what is it but Chriſt? Chriſt in his Aſcendant, Culminant, Regnant Power? Chriſt in his Marching, Conquering, Triumphing Poſtures? in his Free, and Large, and Magnificent Gifts? When he aſcended on high, he led Captivity Captive, and gave Gifts unto Men. O the Glory, O the Excellency of Chriſt in theſe Reſpects! Verily they are enough to tire out Men and Angels with the only Act of wondering and ſurveying of their vaſtneſs. Here is Goſpel-Work for all Eternity, to dig into this Gold-Mine, to roll and turn this Soul delighting precious Stone, to behold, enquire, and ſearch into theſe depths and height of Chriſt exalted: and I believe this is the ſatiety, the top, and prime of Heavens Glory, to ſee and wonder at the vertues of him that ſits on the Throne at the right hand of God; to be filled, but never Satiate with the Glory of Chriſt. What Chriſt, aſcended! Chriſt ſet down in Glory? and Chriſt ſending down his Holy Spirit! here's a Compendium of all Glories: here is one for an heart to be taken with, made up of nothing but of ſeveral Myſteries of Glory.

2. Conſider the Power, Vertue, and Influence of this Object into our Souls Salvation; O what a ſtately Tower have we here erected to ſee Heaven on? Faith may ſtand (as it were) on this Mount, and ſee it ſelf in glory; Oh the flowings, the rich emanations of Grace and Glory that come from hence! come, let us draw, the Well is deep; all the drops and dewings that fall on Men or Angels are but as chips in compariſon of that huge and boundleſs body of the fulneſs of Grace that is in Chriſt; one Lilly is nothing to a boundleſs and broad Field of Lillies; Chriſt is in theſe reſpects the Mountain of Roſes; oh how high, how capacious, how full, how beautiful, how green? could we but ſmell him who feeds among the Lillies, till the day break, and the ſhadows, fly away; could we but dive into the Golden Vines of theſe unſearchable riches of Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhould ſay, It is good to be here. Oh it's good to gather up the fragments that fall from Chriſt; his Crown ſhines with Diamonds and Pearls; Oh why do we toil our ſelves in gathering ſticks, when to morrow we ſhall be out of this world, and go to Chriſt? come, where is our mouth of Faith? let us lay to it here, let us ſuck and be ſatisfied with theſe Breaſts of Conſolation; let us milk out, and be delighted with the abundance of his Glory.

3. Conſider of the ſuitableneſs of theſe Objects to our ſeveral conditions; you may remember the firſt cry, Was it not love enough for Chriſt to come down, and to viſit us here; but that he muſt go up and take us with him? no, no, his love was ſo great and vaſt, that for our ſakes he moves up and down; this raviſhed the Spouſe, Behold he comes leaping upon the Mountains, and ſkipping upon the Hills, Cant. 2. 8. Gregory that meaſured his leaps, thus gives them; he firſt leaps from his Father's Manſion to his Mothers Womb; from her Womb to the Cratch; from his Cratch to his Croſs; and from his Croſs to his Grave; from his Grave up again to Heaven; great leaps indeed that ſhewed both his readineſs to love, and willingneſs to ſave: infinite love can never be out-tired with greateſt actions. But another cries, how ſhould I believe that Chriſt is exalted, and that by vertue thereof I ſhall be exalted when I ſee my ſelf in a forlorn condition, forſaken of God, and abject amongſt Men: Alas! Man at his beſt is altogether Vanity, yea, Men of low degree are Vanity, and Men of high degree are a Lye, to be laid in the Ballance I am altogether lighter than Vanity; how then ſhould I believe any ſuch condition; is a worm a fit or a capable Subject to wear a Crown? Yes, the Lord is great, and he can do great things; He raiſeth up the poor out of Duſt, and lifteth up the Beggar from the Dunghil, to ſet them among Princes, and to make them inherit the Throne of Glory for the Pillars of the Earth are the Lords and he hath ſet the World upon them, he will keep the Feet of his Saints.——Why there is my ſadneſs cries another; He will keep the Feet of his Saints; If I were but a Saint, I could believe this power; but alas! I am unholy, an unſanctified piece of Clay; I am a ſinner, a ſinner of the Gentiles, chief of ſinners, I deſerve to be thrown down to Hell, rather than to be inveſted with Glory, and to ſit in Heaven; True, but yet the Holy Ghoſt is given to make thee holy; of thy ſelf thou art vile, and moſt vile; but hath not the Holy Ghoſt entred in, and took poſſeſſion of thy Spirit? hath he not waſhed thee with water? yea, throughly waſhed away thy blood hath he not anointed thee with oyl, and covered thee with ſilk, and decked thee with gold and ſilver, and made thee comely through his comelineſs which he put upon thee? Why this is the Office of the holy Ghoſt, and if thou haſt but the in-dwelling of the Spirit, this is thy ſtate: I know there is a part of thee unregenerate, and it will be ſo whiles thou art on earth, but withal there is in thee a new nature, another nature; there is ſomething elſe within thee which makes thee wreſtle againſt ſin, and ſhall in time prevail over all ſin and this is the Spirit of Chriſt, ſanctifying of thee; Being ſanctified (ſaith the Apoſtle) by the holy Ghoſt, — Other complaints might be thus brought in, but if we underſtand the meaning, the deſign of Chriſt in his Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of his Spirit, how might a true faith anſwer all? oh believe! believe thy part in Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Chriſts Seſſion, Chriſt's Miſſion of his holy ſpirit, and thou mayeſt go ſinging to thy grave! a lively faith in ſuch particulars would ſet a ſoul in heaven, even whileſt yet on earth.

Cant. 2. 8.
Pſal. 62. 9.
1 Sam. 2. 8, 9.
Rom. 15. 16.

Sect. 6. Of loving Jeſus in that reſpect.

6. Let us love Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in theſe particulars; much hath been ſaid already of Chriſt's Conception, Birth, Life, Death, Reſurrection; ſuch Arguments of love as are enough to ſwallow up ſouls in love to Chriſt again: O the treaſures of love and wiſdom that have been opened in former paſſages! but as if all thoſe were not enough for God, ſee here new Gold Mines, new-found out Jewels, never known to be in the world before, opened and unfolded in Jeſus Chriſt. Here are the in-comes of the beams of light moſt inacceſſible; here are the veins of the unſearchable Glories of Jeſus Chriſt; as if we ſaw every moment a new heaven, a new treaſure of love; the Boſom of Chriſt is yet more opened; the new breathings and ſpirations of love are yet more manifeſted. See! Chriſt for us, and for our ſalvation is gone up to Heaven, is ſet down at God's right hand, and hath ſent down the Holy Ghoſt into our hearts; in the pouring out of theſe Springs of Heavens love, how ſhould our ſouls but open the mouth wide, and take in the ſtreams of Chriſt's Nectar, Honey, and Milk; I mean his ſweet, and precious, and dear love-breathings? We have heard of Chriſt's invitation, Come to me all ye that are weary and heavy laden: but ſuppoſe Chriſt had never outed his love in ſuch a love expreſſing, Come to me; yet Chriſt himſelf in theſe glorious particulars is ſuch a drawing object; (the very beauty of Chriſt, the very ſmell of the Garments of Chriſt, very capacious and wide Heaven of Chriſt's exaltation are intrinſecally, and of themſelves ſuch drawing, raviſhing, winning objects) that upon the apprehenſion of them we cannot chuſe but love Chriſt; as Gold that is dumb and cannot ſpeak, yet the beauty and gain of it cryeth aloud, Come hither poor creature, and be thou made rich; ſo if Chriſt ſhould never open his lips, if he ſhould never gently move, Open to me, my ſiſter, my love, my dove, my undefiled, for my hand is full of dew, and my locks with the drops of the night; yet the Glory, the Power, the Soveraignty of Chriſt; the exaltation of his Perſon, and the magnificence of his Gifts, ſhould even change our ſouls into a Globe or Maſs of Divine Love and Glory, As it were by the Spirit of the Lord.

Matt. 11. 28.
Cant. 5. 2.
2 Cor. 3. 18.

Two things I ſhall inſtance in, which may be as the Load-ſtones of our love to Chriſt; the firſt is his glory, and the ſecond his bounty.

1. For his Glory, no ſooner was he aſcended, and ſet down at God's right hand, but John the Divine had a ſight of him, and Oh what a glorious ſight! He was cloathed with a garment down to the feet, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle; his head and his hairs were white like wooll, as white as ſnow, and his eyes were as a flame of fire, and his feet like unto fine braſs, as if they burned in a fornance, and his voice as the ſound if many waters; and he had in his right hand ſeven ſtars, and out of his mouth went a ſharp two edged ſword, and his countenance was as the Sun that

Rev. 1. 13, 14, 15, 16.

ſhineth in his ſtrength; when John ſaw him thus, he, ſwoons at his feet. but Chriſt for all his Glory holds his head in his ſwoon, ſaying, fear not, I am the firſt, and the laſt; I am he that liveth, and was dead, and ver. 17, 18. behold I am alive for evermore, Amen, and hath the Keys of hell and of death. A glorious Chriſt is good for ſwooning, dying ſinners, would ſinners but draw draw near and come and ſee this King in the chariot of love, and come and ſee his beauty, the uncreated white and red in his ſweet countenance, he would certainly draw their ſouls unto him, Nay, ſay that all the damned in hell were brought up with their fiery chains to the utmoſt door of Heaven; could we ſtrike up a window, and let them look in, and behold the Throne, and the Lamb, and the Troops of glorified ſpirits cloathed in white, with Crowns of gold on their heads, and Palms in their hands, ſinging the eternal praiſes of their glorious King; Oh how would they be ſweetned in their pain and convinced of their fooliſh choice, and raviſhed with the fulneſs of thoſe joyes and pleaſures that are in Chriſt's face for evermore? ſurely much more may this glory of Chriſt warm thy heart, O my ſoul! what an happineſs were it to ſee the King on his Throne; to ſee the Lamb, the fair Tree of Life, the branches which cannot for the narrowneſs of the place have room to grow in, For the Heaven of Heavens cannot contain him? What an happineſs were it to ſee love it ſelf, and to be warmed with the heat of immediate love that comes out of the precious heart and bowels of this Princely and Royal Standar-bearer? as yet thou canſt not, muſt not ſee theſe ſights, there's no ſeeing the King thus in his beauty till thou comeſt to glory; for then, and then only muſt thou ſee him face to face, and yet the Idea and Image of this glory is ſeen and may be ſeen of every true believing ſoul; enough may be ſeen by an eye of faith, to kindle in thine heart a flame of love to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: Oh who can think of the glory that is in this dainty delighful One, and not be ſwallowed up in love Who can think of Chriſt's ſitting at God's right hand, and ſparkling in his Glory round about, and caſting out beams of glory through Eaſt, and Weſt, and North, and South, through Heaven, and Earth, and Hell, and not love him with a whole heart, ſoul and might? I remember one dying, and hearing ſome diſcourſe of Jeſus Chriſt: Oh (ſaid ſhe) ſpeak more of this, let me hear more of this; be not weary of telling his praiſe, I long to ſee him, how ſhould I but long to hear of him? Surely I cannot ſay two much of Jeſus Chriſt; in this bleſſed ſubject no man can poſſibly hyperbolize; had I the tongues of Men and Angels, I could never fully ſet forth Chriſt; it involves an eternal contradiction that the creature can ſee to the bottom of the Creator. Suppoſe all the ſands on the Sea-ſhore, all the Flowers, Herbs, Leaves, twigs of Trees in Woods and Foreſts, all the Stars of Heaven, were all rational creatures, and had they that wiſdom, and tongues of Angels to ſpeak of the lovelineſs, beauty, glory and excellency of Chriſt, as gone to Heaven, and ſitting at the right hand of his Father, they would in all their expreſſions ſtay millions of miles on this ſide Jeſus Chriſt. O the lovelyneſs, beauty, and glory of his Countenance! can I ſpeak or you hear of ſuch a Chriſt? and are we not all in a burning love, in a ſeraphical love, or at leaſt in a conjual love? O my heart! how is it thou art not love-ſick? how is it thou doſt not charge the daughters of Jeruſalem as the Spouſe did, Cant. 5. 8. I charge ye O daughters of Jeruſalem, if ye find my beloved, that ye, tell him I am ſick of love?

2. For his bounty, no ſooner was he aſcended, and ſat down at God's right hand, but he gives gifts unto men; and he ſends down the holy Ghoſt. This was the Gift of Gifts; I ſhall only weigh two Circumſtances in this Gift, either whereof both dignifies, and caſts a ſparkle of bounty from the Giver, into the heart of the Receiver to move him to love As.-

One Circumſtance is the greatneſs of the Giver; certainly the preheminence or dignity of any Principle ennobleth and enhanceth the effect; a gift coming from a great Perſon carries ever a ſcent with it of a certain greatneſs, and reliſheth either of excellency, or ſuperiority, or nobility, or all. It is ſtoried of Charles the fifth, that in his wars being ever preſt with want of mony, and ſo unable to remunerate the ſervices of divers Dutch Captains, and Nobles, whom he had entertained; he uſed after any great exploit performed by them, to call togethere his Nobles and Camp into ſuch a field, and there in preſence of them all to take a Gold chain from about his neck, and to put it about the neck of ſuch a Captain or ſuch a Collonel, and ſo to embrace him and to give him thanks for his gallant ſervice, why this they eſteemed a greater Favour (being Circumſtanced by ſuch a Perſon, in ſuch a way) than if in every deed he had given them a ſufficient pay, or remuneration. O they valued that Chain more than many buſhels of the like Gold; the very Perſon of the Emperour hanged at the Chain ſuch a precious Jewel, as in a war-like conceit, a million of Gold could not countervail. O my ſoul, if an Emperour thus gained the effections of men, how ſhouldſt thou but love Chriſt the great Emperour of Heaven and Earth: it was he Numb. 11. 17. that gave thee his Spirit, it was he that took off the ſpirit which is upon him, (ſo is the expreſſion of God to Moſes) and put it upon thee; and doth not the perſon of Chriſt, the Dignity of Chriſt, inhance the value of the Gift? as all gifts are ſigns of love, ſo the love of a great Perſonage, and the gifts iſſuing from ſuch a love, ought more to be accounted than any gifts of any meaner perſon whatſoever.

2. Another Circumſtance is, the greatneſs of the Gift; this argueth gteatneſs of good will; and conſequently deſerveth a correſpondence of a ſemblable affection. Now what greater gift had Chriſt in ſtore, than to give his own ſpirit? the ſpirit proceedeth from him, and is the ſame eſſence with himſelf; the ſpirit is the third Perſon of the true and only Godhead, proceeding from the Father and the Son, and coeternal, coequal, and conſubſtantial with the Father and the Son; this appears by thoſe divine Attributes and Properties which are attributed and communicated to the holy ſpirit: As, 1. Eternity. God never was without his ſpirit; In the beginning God Gen. 1. 1, 2. created Heaven and earth, ——— and the ſpirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. 2 Omnipotency, becauſe he, together with the Father and the Son createth and preſerveth all things, By his ſpirit he hath Job. 26. 13. garniſheeh the Heavens; the Spirit of God hath made me; ---33. 4. and all theſe things worketh that one and the ſelf-ſame Spirit, dividing to every man ſeverally as he will. 1 Cor. 12. 11. 3. Omniſciency, or the knowledge of all things, For the 1 Cor. 2. 10. ſpirit ſearcheth all things, yea the deep things of God. 4. Immutability, or unchangeableneſs, Men and Brethren, this Scripture muſt needs have been fulfilled Acts 1. 16. which the holy Ghoſt ſpake. 5. Infinite mercy, or love; God is love, ——— and the love of God is ſhed abroad in Rom. 5. 5. our hearts by the Holy Ghoſt which is given unto us. 6. Holy indignation even againſt hidden ſins, They Iſa. 63. 10. rebelled and vexed his holy Spirit; Acts. 5. 3. why hath Satan filled thy heart to lye to the Holy Ghoſt? ——— 4, 9. thou haſt not lyed unto men but unto God; Eph. 4. 30. (a plain Text for the Divinity of the Holy Ghoſt) ——— How is it that ye have agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? Grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are ſealed unto the day of redemption, Mat. 12. 28. I might add Miracles, and ---28, 19. the inſtitution of Sacraments, and Propheſies, and

Gifts

1 Tim. 4. 1. Gifts, and Graces as the effects of his Divinity; I caſt out Devils (ſaith Chriſt) by the Spirit of God, and 2 Cor. 3. 38. baptize in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the holy Ghoſt. And the ſpirit ſpeaketh expreſly, that in the latter times ſome ſhall depart from the faith. And we are changed into the ſame image from glory to glory, even as by the ſpirit of the Lord. See now how the holy ſpirit is God, coeternal, coequal, and conſubſtantial with God the Father, and God the Son, is not this a great gift? yea as great a gift as poſſibly can be given, what can he do more, than to give himſelf, and to give his ſpirit? O the bonds of love that are upon man towards Chriſt in this reſpect.

Come my ſoul and take a view of the Glory and Bounty of Jeſus Chriſt! if thy heart be not all braſs and iron, and ſtone, if there be any fleſhineſs, ſoftneſs, or pliableneſs in it, why, then how ſhouldſt thou chuſe but love? if either beauty or bounty, if either Majeſty or magnificence can draw thy affection, Chriſt will have it; for in him is all; O let him be thy all! ſurely if thou haſt any thing beſides himſelf, he is the Donor of all, he is the beauty of all, the ſumm of all, the perfection of all, yea, he is the Author, Preſerver, and Finiſher of all.

Sect. 7. Of Joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

LEt us joy in Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in theſe particulars; there is not a particular under conſideration, but 'tis the object of a Chriſtians joy. As,——

1. How ſhould it heighten my joys, and enlarge my comforts, when I do but conſider that Chriſt is aſcended into glory? by this it is clear and evident, that Chriſt is accepted of the Father for me, or otherwiſe he ſhould never have been received into Heaven; if any frown had been in the face of God, ſurely Chriſt coming ſo near God, he ſhould have had it; if any exception had been againſt his ſatiſfaction, any flaw in our pardons, ſurely Chriſt ſhould have heard of it; yea, without queſtion he muſt have been turned out of Heaven, until he had made a full payment of our debts. I need not doubt of my acceptance at the Throne of Grace, when Jeſus Chriſt is accepted for me, and that I ſtand in ſuch a relation of Jeſus Chriſt. Oh what joy is in this!

2. How ſhould it heighten my joys, and enlarge my comforts, when I do but conſider that Chriſt is ſet down at God's right hand. Why now he hath the keys of Heaven delivered into his hands; All power Mat. 28. 18. is given unto him in Heaven and in earth, and now he can do what he will; God the Father hath given away (as it were) all his Prerogative unto Jeſus Chriſt; All judgment is committed to the Son, for the John 5. 22. Father judgeth no man. Now he is in a capacity of acting out all his love, and the Father's deſire to me in the moſt glorious way; he is highly advanced, and thereby he hath the advantage to advance me, and to glorifie me; God hath given into his hands all the treaſures and riches of Heaven; in bidding him ſit down at his right hand, he told him that he would have no more to do with the world; but that Chriſt ſhould have all, and that Chriſt ſhould beſtow all he had amongſt his Saints; and that this ſhould be the reward of his death; and when once his Saints were come about him, and ſate with him in his glory, why then Chriſt ſhould reſign up again his place, 1 Cor. 15. 24. And deliver up the Kingdom to God, even the Father. Oh what joy may enter into this poor dark dungeon, diſconſolate ſoul of mine, whiles I but think over theſe glorious paſſages of my Chriſt in glory?

3. How ſhould it heighten my joyes, and fill me with joy unſpeakable, and full of glory, when I do conſider that Chriſt, hath ſent down his holy Spirit into my heart? when ſorrow had filled the Apoſtles hearts, becauſe he had told them, I muſt go away; he comforts them with this, If I go not away, the Comforter John 16. 7. will not come unto you, but if I depart, I will ſend him unto you. The ſpirit is the Comforter, and where he comes, he fills ſouls with comforts; O what comfort is this, to know that the ſpirit of Chriſt is my Inmate? that my ſoul is the Temple, the Receptacle, the Houſe and dwelling of the ſpirit of God? that Chriſt is in me of a truth, and that not only by the infuſion of his garce, but by the in dwelling of his ſpirit; ſurely it is ſome comfort to a ſickly man that he hath a Phyſitian always in the houſe with him; and to a woman that is near her travail, that the Midwife is in the houſe with her; but what comfort is it to a poor ſoul that the ſpirit of Chriſt is always in him? I will ſend you another Comforter (ſaid Chriſt) that he may abide with you for ever. Joh. 14. 16. Chriſt in his bodily preſence went away, but Chriſt in his ſpirit contiues ſtill; Lo I am with you alwayes, even unto the end of the world; Mat. 28. 20. he is with us and which is more, he is in us for our comfort: Chriſt in you the Col. 1. 27. hope of Glory. Not Chriſt in Sermons which we hear, nor Chriſt in Chapters which we read, nor Chriſt in Sacraments which we receive; nor Chriſt in our heads by high notions, nor Chriſt in our mouths by frequent glorious expreſſions; but Chriſt in our hearts by his ſpirit, is unto us the hope of Glory. The grounds of our comforts in this reſpect, is,——

1. Chriſt's preſence; it is ſaid of Paul, that after a ſad ſhipwrack, the ſight of ſome Chriſtian brethren ſo cheared him, that upon the ſight of them he thanked God and took courage; Acts. 28. 15. it is ſaid of Cæſar, that he cheared the drooping Mariners in a ſtorm, by minding them of his preſence, You carry Cæſar; how much more ſhould the in-being of Chriſt ſolace Saints; Lo I am with you. O my ſoul, was it not a cordial to the Diſciples in a ſtorm, that Chriſt was with them, whom the winds and waves obeyed? chear up now, for if the ſpirit be in thee, Chriſt is with thee.

2. Chriſt's Complacency; if his ſpirit dwell in us, how ſhould he but be well pleaſed with us; a man cannot properly be ſaid to dwell in a priſon, in which he taketh no delight; the Spirits indwelling a delight of Chriſt in ſuch a ſoul, Here will I dwell, Pſal. 132. 14. for I have deſired it, or delighted in it, ſaith the God of Zion, though many times drooping Chriſtians, viewing their own begarlineſs and vileneſs, judge themſelves worthy to be deteſted and deſerted, and would relinquiſh themſelves if they poſſibly could, yet Chriſt looketh to the poor and contrite ſoul as a meet habitation for himſelf to dwell in, I dwell in the high and Iſa. 57. 15. holy place, with him alſo that is of a contrite and humble Spirit.

3. Chriſt's Communications; union is the ground of our communion with Chriſt; and the nearer our union, the greater is our communion; if Chriſt were only in a believer by the habit of grace, the union would not be ſo great, but if Chriſt be in us by his ſpirit, the union is nearer, and therefore the communion will be greater. O my ſoul remember this in all thy ſtraits; there can be in no creature want, or danger whatſoever wherein the improvement of this in-dwelling of the Spirit may not refreſh thee; art thou ſick? the Phyſitian both of ſoul and body is within thee; art thou ſad; the Comforter himſelf that ſupplies the ſtead and room of Chriſt, inhabits in thee; art thou in exile, in baniſhment, impriſonment, at greateſt diſtance from thy deareſt Friends? ſee Paul's refreſhment when they were ready to pull him in pieces, and threw him into the Caſtle, even the night following the Lord ſtood by him, Acts 23. 11.

and ſaid, be of good chear, Paul. Chriſt will ſtand by thee, nay, Chriſt by his Spirit dwelleth in thee, and will ſpeak to thee comfortable words in thy greateſt preſſures.

4. Chriſt's witneſſings, if his ſpirit dwell in us, we may then be aſſured of future glory, Chriſt in you the hope of Glory. 'Tis a ſweet note of a divine upon it, The exiſtency of Chriſt's Spirit in Believers, giveth exſtence to their hopes of Glory. The Spirit in us is Gods, earneſt of Glory; the Spirit in us doth prepare us for participation in that Glory. I look upon this indwelling of the Spirit as that which no Hypocrite in the World can lay any claim unto; as for gifts, or graces an Hypocrite may attain them, or ſomething like them; it is ſaid of Simon Magus, that he believeed; it is ſaid of Judas that he repented; and of Eſau, that he ſought his birthright with tears; it is ſaid of ſome that they partook of the Heavenly Gift, and of the Power of the World to come, and yet fell away; and it is ſaid of ſuch others, that they trampled upon the Blood of Chriſt wherewith they were ſanctified. Thus we find in Scripture phraſe, that in an Hypocrite or wicked Man, there may be a kind of Faith and Repentance; a taſte of Heaven, and of Sanctification; but where do we find in all the Bible, that Chriſt, or the ſpirit of Chriſt, is ſaid to dwell in an Hypocrite, or wicked Man? this only is the great priviledge of a true believer Chriſt in him the hope of Glory-- O the Comfort of this in-dwelling of Chriſt! If Zacheus hearing that Chriſt would abide in his Houſe, received him joyfully, how much greater cauſe of joy have they who have already lodged him in their hearts? Theſe things have I ſpoken to you, ſaid Chriſt, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

And now, O my ſoul, ſpread thy ſelf on this great good, Chriſt's Aſcenſion, Chriſt's Seſſion, and Chriſt's Miſſion of his Holy Spirit. What is joy but an effuſion of the appetite, whereby the Soul ſpreads it ſelf on what is good, to profeſs it more perfectly? the Object is ſweet; and large, and therefore the ſoul had need to ſpread it ſelf, that it might be more united to the Object, and touch the good in more of its parts, yea, if it were poſſible in every part. There is not any particular here before thee, but 'tis fewel for joy. O what joy was in Heaven, when Chriſt aſcended, and when Chriſt ſate down at God's right hand, and when Chriſt ſent down the Holy Spirit? how ſtood the Angels wondring and admiring at theſe ſeveral paſſages? how did they ſtoop, and look with the bowing of the Head and bending of the Neck, as the Word implies? and is not thy intereſt in theſe tranſactions more than Angels? O rejoyce, and again rejoyce! ſuppoſe thy ſelf in Heaven, and that thou hadſt a viſion of Chriſt aſcended; ſay, is he not a pleaſant Object? In his face there is a fulneſs of joy. Suppoſe thy ſelf to have been in Heaven when he firſt entred into it, and when he firſt ſat down at God's right hand, and ſent down the Comforter to his Saints, was not Heaven full of joy? methinks the very thought of Chriſt's bright Face, and Chriſt's white Throne, and Chriſt's Harpers, and Heavenly Troops ſurrounding the Throne, and Chriſt's welcome to his Father, both for himſelf and all his Saints; and Chriſt's carrying thy name upon his Breaſt before his Father, ſhould fill thy ſoul as full of joy, as poſſibly it can hold. O the firſt fruits of Emanuel's land that lyes beyond time and death! O the joys that were in Heaven at Chriſt's firſt entrance into Heaven! O my ſoul, why doſt thou not check thy ſelf, and lay aſide thy ſad complaints, and forget this Earth, and Earthly troubles? why doſt thou not look up to Jeſus Chtiſt, and rejoyce in him who hath done all this for thy Salvation? either the Spirit of God is not thy Comforter, or thou canſt not but receive comfort in theſe paſſages.

Sect. 8. Of calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. Let us call on Jeſus; I mean——

1. Let us pray that we may have our part in theſe tranſactions; or let us pray for more and more aſſurance thereof unto our ſouls; for though we do believe, yet we may not be without our doubts; and in caſe of doubts what better means than prayer? I believe, Lord help my unbelief; Lord ſtrengthen my Faith till I come to that plerophory, or full aſſurance of Faith, that I may know my intereſt in the Aſcenſion of Chriſt, and Seſſion of Chriſt, and in the Miſſion of Chriſt's holy Spirit, and if once we are but aſſured, then--

2. Praiſe God for theſe great tranſactions of his Son: are they not mercies like mountains lying one upon another, and reaching up to the very Heavens? did not love break out at firſt in a direct line? and as it went along, hath it not wound up it ſelf, in ſuch a variety of unthought of diſcoveries, as that it amaſeth Men and Angels? what? that Jeſus Chriſt ſhould not only act for us here on earth, but alſo aſcend for us into Heaven, and ſit down there at God's right hand above the Heavens? what? that all this ſhould be for us and our ſalvation, and to that purpoſe that he ſhould ſend down his ſpirit into our hearts, to fit us, and prepare us for his glory? Now bleſs the Lord, O my ſoul, and all that is within me bleſs his holy Name, bleſs the Lord, O my ſoul, and forget not all his benefits.——I will extol thee my God, O King, and I will bleſs thy Name for ever and ever, every day will I bleſs thee, and I will praiſe thy Name for ever and ever.——One generation ſhall praiſe thy works to another, and ſhall declare thy mighty acts, I will ſpeak of the glorious honour of thy Majeſty, and of thy wondrous works.—— I will utter the memory of thy great goodneſs, and will ſing of thy righteouſneſs.—— Thy Saints ſhall bleſs thee; they ſhall ſpeak of the glory of thy Kingdom, and talk of thy power, and make known unto the ſons of men thy mighty acts, and the glorious Majeſty of the Kingdom.——Thy glory is above the earth and heaven, thou alſo exalteſt the horn of thy people, the praiſe of all thy Saints, and people near unto thy ſelf. O that my ſoul were but in David's temper, thus to breath out the praiſes of Jeſus, and to bleſs his Name.

Sect. 9. Of conforming unto Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. Let us conform to Jeſus in the aforeſaid reſpects A ſerious beholding of Jeſus in his Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of his Spirit, is enough to change us into the ſame Image from glory to glory. It was the ſweet ſaying of an experienced Saint, View a glorified Chriſt, ſee him as in that relation and condition and you will ſoon have the ſparkles of the ſame glory on your hearts. Chriſt is now exalted, he is now in glory at the right hand of God, O let all our actions be glorious, let all our walkings joys, breathings be as in glory, If ye be riſen with Chriſt, ſeek thoſe things which are above, where Chriſt ſitteth at the rght hand of God; ſet your affections on things above, and not on things on, the earth. I ſhall not in this tranſaction lay out many particular conformities to Chriſt's actings, but gather all into one, contained in this Text, which is heavenly converſation; ſeek things above, ſet your affections above; Chriſt is gone up, and Chriſt is ſat down at God's right hand; and herein if you will conform, let your hearts be in Heaven, let your affections be in Heaven, let your converſations be in Heaven: it is the Apoſtles own practiſe wherein ſtood his conformity to Jeſus Chriſt, for our converſation is in heaven. I do not know any one thing wherein we can be more like to Chriſt exalted, whilſt we are upon earth, than to have our hearts, our affections, our converſations with Chriſt where he is: now then if we be vertually riſen with Chriſt, and aſcended with Chriſt, and ſet down with Chriſt in heavenly places, let us ſpiritually aſcend, and ſit down with him in theſe reſpects; certainly there is a proportion in our heavenly converſation; oh let our converſations be in Heaven?

Col. 3. 1. 2.

In proſecution of this, I ſhall examine theſe Queries.———

1. What do we mean by our converſation in heaven?

2. Why muſt our converſation be in heavan?

3. By what means muſt we come up to this converſation in heaven?

1. By our converſation in heaven I mean our aim at heaven; as heaven is our home, ſo our eye is there; whatever we do, our end, our ſcope is to fit us for heaven, and to lay in for Heaven, We look not (ſaith the Apoſtles) at the things which are ſeen, but at 2 Cor. 4. 18. the things which are not ſeen, for the things which are ſeen are temporal, but the things which are not ſeen are eternal. [We look not] that is, we aim not at things which are ſeen; inviſible things are the only ſcope and aim of a gracious ſoul.

2. By our converſation in heaven, I mean our communion with Chriſt in heaven. Truly our fellowſhip is with the Father, and with his Son Jeſus Chriſt. 1 John 1. 3. As it is amongſt friends that converſe together, they act mutually for the comfort one of another, there is a mutual embracing and opening of their hearts to one another at every turn, ſo in our converſings with Chriſt there is a communion, or a mutual acting of the ſoul upon Chriſt, and of Chriſt upon the ſoul; we let out our hearts to Chriſt, and he lets out his heart to us; eſpecially when we are with Chriſt in his Ordinances; it's not enough to call upon God, and to uſe ſome broken hearted expreſſions, but oh, what communion have I with Jeſus Chriſt? I cannot be ſatisfied except I taſte and ſee how good the Lord is; I cannot be quiet, except I hear ſomthing from Heaven this morning, Why, this is an heavenly converſation.

3. By our converſation in Heaven, I mean our living according to the Laws of Heaven; in all our ways we muſt ſtill enquire, What rule is there from Heaven to guide me in theſe ways? ſuch and ſuch a thing I have a mind to, but will the Law of Heaven juſtifie me in this? have I any word from Jeſus Chriſt to guide me in this? ſometimes indeed my luſt, my own ends, and the common courſe of the world was my rule; but now I dare not act but according to the Will and Scepter of Jeſus Chriſt, now I am guided by the laws of Heaven. Why, this is an heavenly converſation.

4 By our converſation in heaven, I mean our thoughts, and meditations of Heaven and Heavenly-things; When I awake (ſaith David) I am alwayes with thee; Pſal. 139. 14. the hearts of believers are frequently upon their heavenly treaſures; as it is ſtoried of Queen Mary, that a little before her death, ſhe told them, if they ript her open they would find Callis in her heart; ſo it may be ſaid of them whoſe converſation is in Heaven; if you rip them up you ſhall find Heaven in their hearts; not a day paſſes over their heads without ſome converſe with Heaven, without ſome thoughts or meditations of heaven, and heavenly things.

5. By our converſation in Heaven, I mean our affections on heaven, or on Chriſt in heaven; Set your affections on things above, (i. e.) ſet your deſires, Col. 3. 2. loves, hopes, joys, breathings on heavenly things; our affections are precious things, and are only to be ſet on precious object; oh what a ſhame is it to ſet our affection on the things of this life! have we a Kingdom, a God, a Chriſt, a Crown in Heaven to ſet our affections upon? and ſhall we ſet them upon droſs, and dung, and ſuch baſe things? are not all our pleaſures and vanities baſe in compariſon of Chriſt? O be not we ſo baſe to ſet our affections on earthly things, but rather on God and Chriſt; and this is our heavenly converſation.

6. By our converſation in Heaven, I mean our tradings, our negotiations for Heaven, even whilſt we are upon Earth: the word in the Original points at this, ἡμῶν γὰρ τὸ πολίτευμα ἐν οὐρανοῖς, our trading is in Heaven; though our bodies be not there, yet our tradings are there; we carry and behave our ſelves in this life as free Denizons of the City of Heaven; our City whereof we are Citizens, and whereunto we have right, is in Heaven above; in this reſpect we trade not for trifles, as other men do, but we trade for great things, for high things; we merchandize for goodly pearls, even for God, and for Chriſt, who ſitteth at the right hand of God. We ſee now what is meant by our converſation in Heaven.

2. Why is the converſation of the Saints in Heaven?

1. Becauſe they know full well, that the original of their Souls, came from God and Heaven; the body indeed was of the duſt of the ground, but the Soul was the breath of God; ſo it is ſaid of the firſt man, God breathed into his noſtrils the breath of Life, Gen. 2. 7. and man became a living ſoul. The ſoul had a more heavenly and diving Original than any of the other creatures that are here, in the neather World; and when God works grace in the Soul, and ſo it begins to know it ſelf, and to return to it ſelf, it then looks on all things here below as vile, and as contemptible things; it then looks upward, and begins to converſe with things ſuitable to its Original. As it is with a child that hath a noble birth; if tranſported into another Country, and there uſed like a Slave, there ſet to rake channels, or (as the Prodigal) to feed Swine; while he is there, and knows not his Original, he minds nothing but to get victuals, and to do his work he is ſet about; but if once he come to know from whence he was, that he is indeed born heir to ſuch a Prince, in ſuch a Country; O then his thoughts, and mind, and longings will be altered; O that I were in my own Country! O that I were with my Father in his Court! Even ſo it is with the Souls of the Sons of Men, they are the birth (as I may ſo ſpeak) of the great King of Heaven and Earth; and though by the fall of Man they came to be as Slaves to Satan, yet when God is pleaſed to convert the Soul, then he diſcovers thus; Oh man, thou art born from on high, thy Soul is (as it were) a ſparkle of God himſelf, thou art come from God, and thou art capable of communion with God, even with God the Father, and God the Son, and God the Holy Ghoſt. O conſider of thy Country whence thou cameſt at firſt, certainly thou never hadſt ſuch a divine and excellent being given thee to delight only in the fleſh, to be ſerviceable only to thy body; O look up unto Jeſus! why, this it is that turned the heart, and ſets the converſation on heavenly things.

2. Becauſe their beſt and choice things are already in Heaven. As their Father is in Heaven, and their Saviour is in Heaven, thither he aſcended, and there now he ſits at the right hand of God; their Husband is in Heaven, their Elder brother is in Heaven, their King is in Heaven; their Treaſure is in Heaven; their inheritance is in Heaven, their hope is in Heaven, their Manſion is in Heaven, their chief Friends are in Heaven, their Subſtance is in Heaven, their reward is in Heaven, their Wages are in Heaven: and all theſe things being in Heaven, no marvel their converſations be in Heaven.

3. Becauſe they are going towards Heaven even whiles yet they are on Earth. If the Nobleman (as we formerly ſuppoſed) do once know his condition, and begins his travel homeward towards his Father's Court, will he not every morning that he riſes, converſe with them that come from his Father to conduct him home? doth it not do him good to hear any man ſpeak of his Father's Country? is it not in his thoughts, in his talk, in his eye, in his aim, at every ſtep? O my Soul, if thou art indeed travelling towards Heaven, how ſhouldſt thou but have it in thy motions, affections, converſations? how ſhould'ſt thou but daily commune with thy own 1 Theſ. 4. 17. heart? Heaven is the place that I ſhall come to, e'er long I ſhall be there; I know that in this world I am but for a while, but in Heaven I ſhall be for ever and ever; we we ſhall be caught up into the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air, and ſo ſhall we be ever with the Lord. Our very travel towards Heaven implies an heavenly Pſal. 84.7. converſation, They go from ſtrength, till every one of them in Zion appears before God.

4. Becauſe much of Heaven is already in the Luke 17. 21. Saints: The Kingdom of Heaven is within you, ſaith Heb. 10. 34. Chriſt; And knowing in your ſelves that ye have a better end and an enduring ſubſtance. Surely if the Saints have much of Heaven within them, it muſt needs be that their converſation is in Heaven; but they know this in themſelves; they know it by what God hath revealed in their own hearts; eternal life is already begun in the Souls of God's people; Heaven is in them, and therefore no marvel if their converſation be in Heaven. My meaning is not as if the Saints had no other Heaven but that within them; I know there is an heaven above; but ſome pieces, or earneſts, or ſeeds, or beginnings of that Heaven above is within them. Is there not a renewed nature, an Image of God, a ſpark of Life, a drop of Glory in God's People? Surely yes; And if ſo, all theſe will work heavenward; principles of Grace will have ſome actings of grace till we come to glory.

3. By what means ſhould we attain, or come up to have our converſation in Heaven?

1. Let us watch opportunities for heavenly exerciſes. Iſa 55. 1. 3. GOD now by his miniſters calls, Come ye to the waters, come ye, buy and eat; come, buy wine, and 2 Cor. 6. 2. milk without money; come to me, and your ſouls ſhall live. Why now is the accepted time, behold now is the day of ſalvation: Whilſt Miniſters call, and we live under the droppings of the Word; theſe are opportunities for Heaven; O then he that never pray'd, let him now pray; and he that never heard, let him now hear; the Lord is now come near to us; Chriſt Jeſus is calling, and mercy is entreating, and love is beſeeching, and wiſdom is even hoarſe with crying after us; O lay hold on theſe opportunities for heavenly exerciſes, and then we ſhall come up to heavenly converſations.

2. Take heed of reſting in the formality of duties? many Souls that have enlightnings of conſcience, dare not but take opportunities for heavenly duties; but then comes in the temptations of the Devil, and corruptions of their own hearts, and they ſay, now duty is done, or our talk is over, and what needs more? Alas, alas! It is not what have we done? but where have we been? what, have our Souls been in Heaven, with God and with Chriſt? have we had any communion with the Father, and with the Son in our duties? O take heed of formality! it will exceedingly hinder our converſation in Heaven; O keep our eye ſtill upon our heart! ask in duty, what affections have been acted? how much are we got nearer Heaven thereby? and by this means we ſhall come to an heavenly converſation.

3. Let us look up unto Jeſus as hanging on the Croſs, and as ſitting on the Throne: This is the Apoſtles rule. Looking unto Jeſus the Author and Finiſher of our faith, who for the joy that was ſet before Heb. 12.2. him endured the Croſs, deſpiſing the ſhame, and is ſet down at the right hand of the Throne of GOD. Theſe two are the objects of a Chriſtian's look, who ſtudies an heavenly converſation, viz. Chriſt's Croſs, and Chriſt's Seſſion; by the Croſs he is Author, and by the Throne he is the Finiſher of our Faith; in the firſt is ſet down his love to us, in the ſecond is ſet down our hope of him; with high wiſdom hath the Holy Ghoſt exhorted us with theſe two motives to run and not to faint: Firſt, here is love, love in the Croſs, Who loved us, and gave himſelf for us, a Eph. 5.21. ſacrifice on the Croſs: ſecondly, Here is hope, hope in the Throne, To him that overcometh, will I give to Rev. 3.21. ſit with me in my Throne. After Chriſt's death he roſe again, aſcended, and is now ſet down at the right hand of the Throne of God; and the ſame is our bleſſed hope, Chriſt's Throne is not only his place, but ours alſo; the love of his Croſs is to us a pledge of the hope of his Throne, or of whatſoever elſe he is worth. Come then, and ſettle your thoughts and looks on this Bleſſed Object; a Sight of Chriſt's Croſs, but eſpecially of Chriſt's Throne, is a bleſſed means to wean us from the World, and to elevate and raiſe up our affections to things above, yea to form and frame our converſation towards Heaven.

4. Let us wait for the appearing of Jeſus Chriſt, Our converſation is in Heaven (ſaith the Apoſtle) from whence alſo we look for the ſaviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Phil 3.20. Where a man's converſation is, there his expectations may be; and where his expectations are, there a man's converſation is, and will be; if we expect e'er long, that the Lord Jeſus will appear in glory, and that we ſhall ſee him not with other, but with theſe ſame eyes, the very waiting for theſe things will help our converſation to be heaven-ward. Certainly the day is a coming, when Jeſus Chriſt ſhall come with his Angels in his glory, and then ſhall the bodies of the Saints ſhine glorioully before the Face of God, and Jeſus Chriſt: O the wonder of this day! the glory of Chriſt ſhall then darken the glory of the Sun and Moon, and Stars; but my body ſhall not be darkned, but rather it ſhall ſhine like the glorious body of Chriſt Jeſus; if a candle ſhould be raiſed to have ſo much luſtre and beauty, as if you ſhould put it into the midſt of the Sun, yet it would ſhine, you would think it a ſtrange kind of light; ſurely it ſhall be ſo with the bodies of Saints, for tho' they are put into the midſt of the glory of God, and of his Son Jeſus Chriſt, yet their bodies ſhall ſhine in beauty and luſtre there, now did we believe this, and wait for it every day, How would it change us? how would it work us to an heavenly converſation? I have a diſeaſed and lumpiſh body; and my body hinders me in every duty of God's worſhip, but within a while Chriſt will come in his glory, and then he will make my body like unto his glorious body, ſo that I ſhall be able to look upon the face of God, and to be exerciſed in holy duties to all eternity without wearineſs, without intermiſſion: I have many things here that trouble my mind and ſpirit, and that hinder me in my converſe with Heaven, and heavenly things; but within a while, Chriſt will appear with his mighty Angels, to be admitted of his Saints, and then ſhall I ſit as an aſſeſſor on the Throne, with Jeſus Chriſt to judge the world, and then ſhall I live for ever with him, to be where he is, and enjoy all he has, yea all that he hath purchaſed for me by his blood; oh let me wait for this! let me look for it every day! God hath but a little work for me here on Earth, and when that is done, this ſhall be my condition. Chriſtians! if but every day he would work theſe things on our ſouls, it would be a mighty help to make our converſations heavenly converſations.

5. Let us obſerve the drawings, and movings, and mindings of the Spirit, and follow his dictates; to this purpoſe Chriſt aſcended, and ſate down at God's right hand, and ſent down the holy Spirit, that the Holy Ghoſt being come down, he might do his office in bringing on our Souls towards Salvation; and if ever our Souls get above this earth, and get acquaintance with this living in Heaven, it is the Spirit of God that muſt be at the chariot of Elijah, yea the very living principle, by which we muſt move and aſcend; O then take heed of quenching its motions, or reſiſting its workings, take we heed of grieving our guide, or of knocking off the chariot-wheels of this holy Spirit. We little think how much the life of grace is, and the happineſs of our ſouls doth depend upon our ready and cordial obedience to the Spirit of God, when he forbids us our own known tranſgreſſions, and we will go on, when he tells us which is the way, and which is not, and we will not regard; no wonder if we are ſtrangers to an heavenly converſation; it we will not follow the Spirit, which it would draw us to Chriſt, how ſhould it lead us to Heaven, or bring our hearts unto the preſence of God? O learn we this leſſon, and let not only the motions of our bodies, but alſo the very thoughts of our hearts be at the Spirit's beck! do we not ſometimes feel a ſtrong impulſion to retire from the world, and to draw near to God? O let us not deſpiſe, or diſobey, but take we the offer, and hoiſe up our ſail, while we may have this bleſſed gale; if we cheriſh theſe motions, and hearken to the Spirit, O what a ſupernatural help ſhould we find to this heavenly mindedneſs, or heavenly converſation?

Thus far we have looked on Jeſus, as our Jeſus in his Aſcenſion, Seſſion, and Miſſion of his holy Spirit; our next work is to look on Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his Interceſſion, which he makes, and will make to his Father on our behalf, till his ſecond coming to judgment.

LOOKING UNTO JESUS,

In His Interceſſion.

The Ninth Book. PART VI.

CHAP. I.

Heb. 3. 1. Rom. 8. 34. Conſider the Apoſtle, and High-Prieſt of our profeſſion, Chriſt Jeſus———who alſo maketh interceſſion for us.

SECT. I.

What the Interceſſion of Chirſt is.

WE have ſpoken of Chriſt's entrance into Heaven, and of his immediate actings after his entrance there, that tranſaction which yet remains, and will remain until his coming again, it is his interceſſion for the Saints. In theſe actings of Chriſt in Heaven (if we will follow him) we muſt go from glory to glory, no ſooner come we out of one room of glory, but preſently we ſtep into another as glorious as that before: one would think enough had been ſaid already of the glory of Chriſt, and of our glory in Chriſt; who would not willingly ſit down under the ſhadow of this happineſs, and go no farther? but yet this is not all; ſo thick and faſt doth the glory of Chriſt break in upon us, that no ſooner out of one, but preſently we are led into the boſom of another. O what a bleſſed thing is it to be viewing Chriſt, and to be looking up to Jeſus Chriſt! Saints might do nothing elſe (if they pleaſed) but raviſh their hearts with the diverſity of heavenly light and comfort, which breaks forth from the boſom of Jeſus Chriſt. Here is now another myſtery as great and amazing, as the former, which ſprings out before our eyes in this tranſaction of Chriſt's Interceſſion.

And in proſecution of this, as in the former, I ſhall firſt lay down the object, and ſecondly direct you how to look upon it. The object in Jeſus carrying on the great work of our ſalvation in his Interceſſion: in ordering of which, I ſhall examine theſe particulars;——

1. What is this interceſſion of Chriſt?
2. According to what nature doth Chriſt interced
3. To whom is Chriſt's interceſſion directed?
4. For whom is the interceſſion made?
5. What agreement betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions, and the interceſſions of the High-Prieſts of old?
6. What is the difference betwixt Chriſt's interceſſion, and the interceſſions of thoſe High-Prieſts?
7. What are the properties of this interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt?
8. Wherein more eſpecially doth the interceſſions of Chriſt conſiſt?
9. How powerful and prevailing are Chriſt's interceſſions with God his Father.
10. What are the reaſons of this great tranſaction of Chriſt's interceſſion for his People?

1. What is the interceſſion of Chriſt? ſome define it thus: Chriſt's interceſſion is that part of his Prieſtly office, whereby Chriſt is advocate, and intreater of God the Father for the faithful. I ſhall give it thus: Chriſt's interceſſion is his gracious will, fervently and immovably deſiring, that for the perpetual vertue of his ſacrifice, all his members might both for their perſons and duties be accepted of the Father. 1. I call the interceſſion of Chriſt his own gracious will, for we muſt not Imagine that Chriſt in his interceſſion, proſtrates himſelf upon his knees before his Father's Throne, uttering ſome ſubmiſſive form of words or prayers; that is not beſeeming the Majeſty of him that ſits at God's right hand; when he was but yet on Earth, the ſubſtance of his requeſts for his Saints run thus, Father I will, that they alſo whom thou haſt given me be with me where I am; and now much more now he is in Heaven, is this the form of his interceſſion, Father I will this, and I will that. 2. The ground of foundation of Chriſt's interceſſion, is the ſacrificer or death of Chriſt; and hence we make two parts of Chriſt's Prieſt-hood, or oblation; the one expiatory, when Chriſt ſuffered upon the Croſs; the other preſentatory, when he doth appear in Heaven before God for us; the one was finiſhed on earth when Chriſt ſuffered without the gate; the other is performed in Heaven now Chriſt is within the City, the one was a ſacrifice indeed, the other is not ſo much a ſacrifice as the commemoration of a ſacrifice; the firſt was an Act of humiliation, and this latter is an act of glory; the firſt was performed one for all, this latter is done continually; the firſt was for the obtaining of redemption, and this latter is for the application of redemption; ſo that the ground of this is, that Chriſt fervently and immovably deſires his Father Joh. 17. 24.

Father for the ſake and vertue of his ſacrifice.

3. The Subject of matter interceded for, is, that all the Saints and their ſervice, might find acceptance with God; firſt Chriſt's interceſſion is for our perſons, and then Chriſt's interceſſion is for our works; for as our perſons are but in part regenerate, and in part unregenerate; or in part fleſh, and in part ſpirit; ſo be our duties, part good, and part evil; in part ſpiritual, and in part ſinful; now by Chriſt's interceſſion is Chriſt's ſatisfaction applied to our perſons, and by conſequence the defect of our duties, is covered and removed; and both we and our works are approved and accepted of God the Father. And thus much for the nature of Chriſt's interceſſion, what it is.

Sect. 2. According to what nature Chriſt doth intercede.

2. ACcording to what nature doth Chriſt intercede? I anſwer, according to both natures: 1. According to his humanity, partly by appearing before his Father in Heaven, and partly by deſiring the ſalvation of the Elect: Chriſt is entred into Heaven, it ſelf, now to appear in the preſence Heb. 24. of God for us. And I ſay not unto you that I will pray, Joh. 16. 26, 27. or deſire the Father for you, for the Father himſelf loveth you. 2. According to his Deity, partly by applying the merit of his death, and partly by willing the ſalvation of his Saints; and as the effect thereof, by making requeſts in the hearts of the Saints with ſighs unſpeakable. Elect, through ſanctification of the 1 Pet. 1. 2. Spirit and ſprinkling of the blood of Jeſus Chriſt: this ſprinkling is the applying of the blood of Jeſus, and that is an act of interceſſion: Again Father I will that Joh. 17. 24. they whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am; the deſires as man, but he wills as God; and as the effect of this he gives the Spirit, The Spirit it ſelf makes interceſſion for us, with groanings which cannot be uttered. Rom. 8. 29. But what are the interceſſions of the Spirit to the interceſſions of Chriſt? I anſwer, much every way; the Spirit's interceſſions are as the effect, and Chriſt's interceſſions are as the cauſe; the Spirits interceſſion are as the Eccho, and Chriſt's interceſſion are as the firſt voice; the ſpirit intercedes for men in and by themſelves, but Chriſt intercedes in his own perſon; there is a dependance of the Spirit's interceſſions in us upon Chriſt's interceſſions in himſelf. Firſt, Chriſt by his interceſſion applies his ſatisfaction made, and lays the ſlave to the very ſore; and then he ſends down his holy ſpirit into our hearts to help our infirmities; and to teach us what to pray, and how to pray as we ought. Now this he doth as God, for who ſhall give a commiſſion to the ſpirit of God, but God himſelf? it is as if Chriſt ſhould ſay, ſee holy Spirit, how I take upon me the cauſe of my Saints, I am perpetually repreſenting my ſacrifice to God my Father, I am ever pleading for them, and anſwering all the accuſations that ſin or Satan can lay againſt them, and now go thy way to ſuch and ſuch, and take up thy dwellling in their hearts and aſſiſt them by thy energy, to plead their own caſe; I am their Advocate or Interceſſor by office, and therefore be thou their Advocate or Interceſſor by operation, inſtruction, inſpiration, and aſſiſtance.

Sect. 3. To whom is Chriſt's interceſſion directed.

3. TO whom is Chriſt's interceſſion directed? I anſwer, immediately to God the Father; 1 Joh. 2. 1. If any man ſin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jeſus Chriſt the righteous. In the work of interceſſion; are three perſons, a party offended, a party offending, and the Interceſſor diſtinct from them both the party offended is God the Father, the party offending is ſinful man, and the Interceſſor diſtinct from them both, is Jeſus Chriſt. the middle perſon (as it were) betwixt God the Father, and us men; the Father is God, and not man; and we that believe in Chriſt are men, and not God; and Chriſt himſelf is both man and God, and therefore, he intercedes and mediates betwixt God and man; If any object, that not only the Father is offended, but alſo the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt, and therefore there muſt be a Mediator to them alſo; the ſolution is eaſie; Chriſt's interceſſion is immediately directed to the Father; but becauſe the Father, Son and Holy Ghoſt, have all one indiviſible eſſence, and by conſequence one will; it therefore follows, that the Father being appeaſed by Chriſt's interceſſion, the Son, and the Holy Ghoſt are alſo appeaſed with him and in him. I deny not but Chriſt's interceſſion is made to the whole Trinity, but yet immediately, and directly to the firſt perſon, and in him to the reſt —— But if ſo, then in ſome ſenſe (ſay our adverſaries) Chriſt makes interceſſion to himſelf, which cannot be; becauſe in every interceſſion there muſt of neceſſity be three parties? this point hath ſore puzled the Church of Rome, that for the ſolving of it, they knew no other way but to avouch Chriſt to be our interceſſor only as man, and not as God, which is moſt untrue; for as both natures did concur in the work of ſatisfaction, ſo likewiſe they do both concur in the work of interceſſion: and 'tis an antient and approved rule, that names of office, which are given to Chriſt, ſuch as Mediator, Interceſſor, &c. agree unto him according to both natures; Apellationes officii competunt Chriſto ſecundum utramque naturam. and can the act of Chriſt's interceſſion be the act of Chriſt's manhood alone? what to hear, and offer up prayers? to receive and preſent the prayers and praiſes, and other ſpiritual ſacrifices of all believers in the World? to negotiate for them all at one and the ſame time, according to the variety and multiplicity of their ſeveral occaſions? ſurely this is and muſt be the work of an infinite, and not of a finite agent; this cannot be effected without the concurrence of the divine nature with the humane; but what needs any farther anſwer to this objection? ſuppoſe Chriſt intercede to himſelf as God; that is not immediately, and directly to the ſame perſon God the Son, though to the ſame God eſſentially; indeed Chriſt θεανθρόπος God man, in reſpect of his natures agreeth with both; being not only God, nor only man; but God man man-God, bleſſed for ever; but in reſpect of his perſon, being the ſecond perſon in the Trinity he is diſtinct from both. 1. From the perſonality of man, for he hath only the perſonality of God and not of man. 2. From the firſt perſon of the God-head, who is God the Father, for there are three that bear record in Heaven, the Father 1 Joh. 5. 7. the Word, and the holy Ghoſt; and theſe three are one, (i. e.) three perſons, and but one God.

Sect. 4. For whom this Interceſſion is made.

4. FOR whom is this interceſſion made? I anſwer, 1. Negatively, not for the World, I pray not for the World, ſaith Chriſt; John 17. 9. whiles Chriſt was on Earth he would not ſo much as ſpend his breath, or open his lips for the World; he knew God would not hear him for them; in like manner Chriſt prays now in Heaven. Not for the World, he never had a thought to redeem them, or to ſave their ſouls, and therefore they have no ſhare in his interceſſions; I know the objection, that Chriſt upon the Croſs prayed for the bloody Jews, Father Luke 23. 34. forgive them, for they know not what they do; but that might be of private duty as man, who in that reſpect ſubmitted himſelf to the Law of God, which requires that we forgive our enemies, and pray for them that perſecute us, and not of his proper office as Mediator; or if it be referred to the proper mediatory interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt (which I rather think) it will not prove that he prayed for them all univerſally, but only indefinitely, (i. e.) only for them that were preſent at his crucyfying, and that in ſimplicity of heart, and not of affected ignorance, crucified Chriſt; and accordingly this prayer was heard, which ſo many of the Jews were converted at Peter's Sermon. Act. 2. 41. what needs more? his own words are expreſs, that Chriſt's interceſſions are not for the World, or reprobates. So much negatively.

2. Poſitively. Chriſt's interceſſion is general, and particular; for all, and every faithful man; John 17. 9. I pray for them, I pray not for the world; but for them which thou haſt given me, for they are thine. And the Lord ſaid Simon, Simon, behold Satan hath deſired to have you, that he may ſift you as wheat; but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not. Luk. 22. 31, 32. As the High Prieſt went into the Sanctuary with the names of the twelve tribes upon his Breaſt, ſo Chriſt entered into the holieſt of all, with the names of all believers upon his heart, and ſtill he carries them upon his Breaſt, and preſents his will and deſire unto his Father for them; nor doth he only intercede in general, but Simon, Simon, mark that; what ever thy name is, John, Peter, Thomas, Mary, Martha, if thou art a believer, Chriſt prays for thee, it is our common practiſe to deſire the prayers one of another, but O who would not have a ſhare in the prayers of Jeſus Chriſt? why certainly if thou believeſt in Chriſt, Chriſt prays for thee; I have prayed, and I will pray for thee, ſaith Chriſt, that thy faith fail not.

Sect. 5. What agreement there is betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions and the interceſſions of the High Prieſts of Old.

5. WHat agreement is there betwixt the interceſſions of Chriſt, and the interceſſions of the High Prieſts of Old? Among the Jews in the times of the old Teſtament, they had an high-Prieſt, who was in all things to ſtand betwixt God and them. Now as the Jews had their High-Prieſt to intercede for them, ſo the Lord Jeſus was to be the High-Prieſt of our Chriſtian profeſſion, and to intercede for us; it will therefore give ſome light to this doctrine of interceſſion, if we will but compare theſe two: and firſt conſider what agreement betwixt Chriſt and the High-Prieſts of Old; betwixt Chriſt's interceſſion, and the High Prieſts interceſſions?

1. Chriſt and the High-Prieſts of Old agreed in name; not only they, but Chriſt himſelf is called an High-Prieſt; Heb. 8. 1. Heb. 3. 1. Heb. 5. 6. We have ſuch an High Prieſt, who is ſet down at the right hand of the Majeſty on high —— Conſider the Apoſtle and high Prieſt of our profeſſion, Jeſus Chriſt ——— Thou art a Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech. The Old Prieſt-hood of Aaron was tranſlated into the Prieſt-hood of Jeſus Chriſt; ſo that he was a Prieſt as well as they.

2. They agreed in office; that conſiſted of two parts, oblation and preſentation; Firſt, They offered a ſacrifice: And ſecondly, They preſented it in the holy of holies, with prayer and interceſſion unto God; the one was done without the other within the holy of holies; and in anſwer thereunto there are two diſtinct parts of Chriſt's Prieſt-hood: 1. The offering of himſelf a ſacrifice upon the Croſs: 2. The carrying of himſelf and of his blood into the holy of holies, or in the heaven of heavens; where he appears and prays in the force of that blood; and this was ſo neceſſary a part of his Prieſt-hood, that without this he had not been a complete Prieſt, for if he were on earth, he ſhould not be a Prieſt; Heb. 8. 4. that is, if he ſhould have made his abode upon the earth, he ſhould not have been a complete or perfect Prieſt, ſeeing this part of it (which we call the preſentation, or interceſſion) lay ſtill upon him to be acted in heaven. And indeed this part of his Prieſt-hood is of the two the more eminent; yea the top and height of his Prieſt-hood; and therefore it is held forth to us in the Types of both thoſe two orders of Prieſt-hood that were before him, and Figures of him, both that of Aaron and Melchiſedech. 1. This was Typified in that Levitical Prieſt-hood of Aaron and his fellows the higheſt ſervice of that Office was the going into the holy of holies, and making an attonement there; yea, this was the height of the high Prieſt's honour, that he did this alone, and it conſtituted the difference betwixt him as he was high Prieſt, and other Prieſts; for they killed and offered the Sacrifices without as well as he, but only the high Prieſt was to approach the holy of holies with blood, and that but once a year. 2. This was Typified by Melchizedech's Prieſt-hood, which the Apoſtle argues to have been much more excellent than that of Aaron's, in as much as Levi, Aaron's Father, payed Tythes to this Melchizedeck in Abraham's loyns; now Melchizedech was his Type, not ſo much in reſpect of his Oblation, or offering Sacrifice as in reſpect of his continual preſentation and interceſſion in heaven; and therefore the ſame clauſe, for ever, ſtill comes in when Melchizedech is named, thou art a Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech. Here then is Heb. 5. 6. --7. 17. the agreement betwixt Chriſt and the high-Prieſts of old; in reſpect of name, both were Prieſts; and in reſpect of Office, both had their oblations, and preſentations, or interceſſions with God in Glory.

3. In the point of Interceſſion they agreed in theſe particulars.——

1. The high-Prieſt of the old, uſually once a year, went into the moſt Holy place within the vail; and ſo is Chriſt our great high-Prieſt paſſed into the Heavens within the Vail, even into the holy of holies. Chriſt by his own blood entered in once into the holy place —— Not into the holy places made with hands, which are the Figures of the true, but into Heaven it ſelf, now to appear in the preſence of God for us. Heb. 9. 12. 24.

2. The high-Prieſts of old had a plate of pure Gold upon their Fore-heads, which was to bear the iniquity of the holy things, that they might be accepted before the Lord; Exod. 28. 38. and ſo doth Chriſt bear the iniquity of our holy things. Spiritual Chriſtians! here is your comfort, you are not able to perform any duty to God, but there is a great deal of ſin in the ſame, you cannot hear, nor pray, nor confer, nor meditate without much ſin; but Chriſt bears all theſe ſins even the iniquity of your holy things, and he preſents your perſons, and prayers without the leaſt ſpot to his Father; he is the Angel of the Covenant that ſtands Rev. 8. 3. at the Altar, having a golden Cenſer with much incenſe; to offer it with the prayers of his Saints, and ſo they are acceptable before the Lord.

3. The Jewiſh high-Prieſts, bore the names of the Children of Iſrael on a breaſt-plate of judgment upon their hearts Exod. 28. 29. for a memorial before the Lord continual; and ſo doth Chriſt our great high-Prieſt bear the names of his people upon his heart before the Lord continually. But how is Chriſt ſaid to bear the names of the Saints upon his heart? I anſwer——

1. Continually, in preſenting of them to his Father as they are in him: how is that? why, he repreſents them without ſpot, as righteons in his own righteouſneſs; Chriſt loved the Church, that he might Epheſ. 5. 27. preſent it to his Father, and in him to himſelf, a glorious glorious Church, not having ſpot, or wrinkle, or any ſuch thing, but that it ſhould be holy, and without blemiſh.

2. In this continual remembring of them; the righteous ſhall be had in continual remembrance; this is the ſouls comfort in a time of deſertion, or in an evil day; if any cry out as ſometimes David did, how long wilt thou forget me Lord? for ever? how long wilt thou hide thy face from me? Let ſuch a one remember that Chriſt's redeemed ones are upon his heart, and he cannot forget them: But Zion ſaid, the Lord hath forſaken me, and my Lord hath forgotten me; Oh no! can a woman forget her ſuckling Child, that ſhe ſhould not have compaſſion on the ſon of her womb? yea, they may forget, yet I will not forget thee, behold I have graven the upon thee palms of my hands, thy walls are continually before me; the Sons of Zion are upon Chriſt's heart, and hands, and they are ever in his ſight.

Iſa.40. 14. 15. 16.

3. In his perpetual loving of them; they are near and dear unto him, he hath ſet them as a Seal upon his heart; ſo was the prayer of the Spouſe, ſet me as a Seal upon thine heart, as a Seal upon thine arm; and then it follows, for love is as ſtrong as death. Chriſt hath an entire love to his Saints; he dyed for them, and now he intercedes for them; he keeps them cloſe to his heart, and there is none ſhall pluck them out of his hands for whom he loves, he loves unto the end. Thus far of the agreement betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions, and the interceſſions of the high Prieſts of old.

Sect. 6. What the difference is betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions, and the interceſſions of the high Prieſts of old.

6. WHat the difference is betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions, and the interceſſions of the high Prieſts of old? There is no queſtion, but howſoever they might agree in ſome reſpects, yet Chriſt officiates in a more tranſcendent and eminent way than ever high Prieſt did before him; now the difference betwixt Chriſt and them, and betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions and their Interceſſions, may appear in theſe particulars.——

1. They were called high Prieſts, but Chriſt is called the great high Prieſt; ſuch a Title was never given to any but Chriſt; whence the Apoſtle argues for the ſtedfaſtneſs of our profeſſion: ſeeing then that we have a great high Prieſt, that is paſſed into the heavens, Jeſus the Son of God, let us hold faſt our profeſſion.

Heb.4.14.

2. The high-Prieſts then were Aaron and his Sons, but Chriſt our great high-Prieſt is the Son of God; for ſo he is ſtyled in the ſame verſe, the great high-Prieſt that is paſſed into the heavens, Jeſus the Son of God.

Heb. 4.14.

3. The high Prieſts then were but for a time, but Chriſt is a Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech. Melchizedech (ſaith the Apoſtle) was without Father, without Mother, without deſcent, having neither beginniug of days nor end of life. That is, as far as it is known; and ſo is Chriſt without a Father on earth, and without a Mother in heaven; without beginning, and without end; he abides a Prieſt perpetually, even to the end of the World; yea, and the vertue of his Prieſthood, is infinitely beyond all time, even for ever and ever.

Heb.5. 6.
Heb. 7.3.

4. The high Prieſts then entred only into that place that was Typically holy, but Chriſt is entred into that place which is properly holy; he is entred into the Heavens or (if you will as into the holy of holies, ſo into the heaven of heavens.

5. The high Prieſts then did not always intercede for the people; only once a year the high Prieſt entred into the holy of holies; and after he had ſprinkled the mercy-ſeat with blood, and cauſed a cloud to riſe upon the mercy-ſeat with his Prayers and Incenſe, then he went out of the holy of holies, and laid aſide his Garments again; but our great high Prieſt is aſcended into the holy of holies, never to put off his princely-prieſtly garments: nor does he only once a year ſprinkle the mercy-ſeat with his ſacrifice, but every day, he lives for ever to intercede; Oh what comfort is this to a poor dejected Soul! if he once undertakes thy cauſe, and get thee into his prayers, he will never leave thee out night nor day; he intercedeth ever, till he ſhall accompliſh and finiſh thy Salvation; the ſmoak of his incenſe aſcends for ever without intermiſſion.

6. The high-Prieſts then interceded not for ſins of greater inſtances; if a man ſinned ignorantly, there was indeed a Sacrifice, and Interceſſion for him; but if a man ſinned preſumptuouſly he was to be cut off from among his people; no Sacrifice, no Interceſſion by the High Prieſt then; but we have ſuch an high-Prieſt as makes Interceſſion for all ſins; every ſin though it boyl up to blaſphemy (ſo it be not againſt the holy Ghoſt) ſhall by the vertue of Chriſt's interceſſion be forgiven. In that day there ſhall be a fountain opened to the houſe of David, and to the Inhabitants of Jeruſalem for ſin and for uncleanneſs, (i. e.) for ſins of all ſorts. Verily I ſay unto you, all ſins ſhall be forgiven unto the Sons of Men, (i. e.) Scarlet ſins, or Crimſon ſins; ſins of the deepeſt dye ſhall by Chriſt's interceſſion be done away; the voice of his blood ſpeaks better things than the Blood of Abel; it intercedes for the abolition of bloody ſins.

Numb. 15. 30.
Zach. 13. 1.
Mark. 3. 28.

7. The high Prieſts then interceded not without all theſe materials, viz. A Temple, an Altar, a Sacrifice of a young Bullock for a ſin-offering, and a Ram for a burnt offering: a Cenſer full of burning coals of fire taken off the Altar, a putting the incenſe upon the fire, that the cloud of the incenſe might cover the mercy-ſeat, a ſprinkling the mercy-ſeat with the blood of the Bullock and of the Goat with their finger, ſeven times; ſuch materials they had, and ſuch actions they did, which were all diſtinct as from themſelves; but Jeſus Chriſt in his interceſſions now needs none of theſe materials; but rather he himſelf and his own merits are inſtead of all. As, 1. He is the Temple, either in regard of the Deity, the gold of the temple being ſanctified by the Temple, or in regard of his humane body, deſtroy this Temple (ſaith Chriſt) and I will build it again in three dayes; it was deſtroyed, and God found it an acceptable Sacrifice, and ſmelt in it a ſweet ſavor as in a Temple. 2. He is the Altar according to his Deity, for as the Altar ſanctifies the gift, ſo doth the God-head ſanctifie the man-hood; The Altar muſt needs be of greater dignity than the oblation, and therefore this Altar betokens the Divinity of Jeſus Chriſt. 3. He is the Sacrifice moſt properly according to the Manhood, for although by communication of properties the blood of the Sacrifice is called the blood of God, yet properly the humane Soul and fleſh of Chriſt was the Holocauſt, or whole burnt-offering roaſted in the fire of his Father's wrath.

Levit. 16.
Acts 20. 28.

4. His merits are the cloud of increaſe, for ſo the Angel; Chriſt is ſaid to have a golden Cenſer, and much Incenſe, that he ſhould offer it with the prayers of all Saints upon the golden Altar which was before the Throne; and the ſmoake of the Incenſe which came with the Prayers of the Saints aſcended up before God out of the Angel's hand: the merits of Chriſt are ſo mingled with the prayers of his Saints, that they perfume their Prayers, and ſo they find acceptance with God his Father. We ſee now the difference betwixt Chriſt's interceſſions, and the Interceſſions of the high Prieſts of old.

Rev. 8. 3. 4.

Sect. 7. What the Properties of this Interceſſion of Chriſt are

7. WHat are the properties of this Interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt? I anſwer.——1. It is heavenly and glorious; and that appears in theſe particulars.

1. Chriſt doth not fall upon his knees before his Father as in the days of his humiliation; for that is not agreeable to that glory he hath received; he only preſents his pleaſure to his Father, that he may thereto put his Seal and Conſent. 2. Chriſt doth not pray out of private charity as the Saints pray one for another in this life, but out of publick 1 Tim. 2. 5. Office of mediation, there is one God, and one Mediator between God and man, the man Chriſt Jeſus. 3. Chriſt prayes not out of humility, which is the propoſing of requeſts for things unmerited, but out of authority, which is the deſiring of a thing, ſo as withall he hath a right of beſtowing it, as well as deſiring it. 4. Chriſt prays not meerly as an advocate, but as a propitiation too; Chriſt's Spirit is an advocate, but only Chriſt is advocate and propitiation; Chriſt's Spirit is our advocate on earth, but only Chriſt in his Perſon applyeth his merits in Heaven, and farthers the cauſe of our ſalvation with his Father in Heaven. In every of theſe reſpects we may ſee Chriſt's interceſſions is heavenly and glorious.

2. Is is ever effectual and prevailing: as he hath a power to intercede for us, ſo he hath a power to confer that upon us for which he intercedes. I will Joh 14. 16. pray the Father and he ſhall give you another Comforter. Joh. 16. 7. If I go not away, the comforter will not come unto you, but if I depart I will ſend him unto you. If Chriſt prayed on earth he was ever heard, but if Chriſt prayed in heaven, we may be ſure the Father ever heareth and anſwereth there; when Chriſt as man prayed for himſelf, he was heard in that which he feareth, but now Chriſt as Mediator praying for us, he is ever hear in the very particular which he deſireth. We ſinful men many a time ask and receive not, becauſe we ask amiſs, that we may conſume James 4. 3. it upon our Luſts; but Jeſus Chriſt never asks amiſs, nor to wrong ends, and therefore God the Father who called him to this Office of being (as it were) the great Maſter of Requeſts in behalf of his Church, he promiſeth to hear him in all his requeſts. Father I thank thee that thou haſt heard me, and I know thou John. 11. 41, 42. heareſt me alwayes, ſaith Chriſt.

3. It is of all other the tranſactions of Chriſt, till the very end of the World, the moſt perfective and conſummate: indeed ſo perfective, that without it all the other parts of Chriſt's Mediatorſhip would have been to little purpoſe. As the Sacrifices under the Law had not been of ſuch force and efficacy, had not the high Prieſt entred into the holy place to appear there, and to preſent the blood there unto the Lord; ſo all that ever Chriſt did or ſuffered upon earth, it had been ineffectual unto us, had he not Heb. 9. 24. entred into heaven, to appear there in the preſence of God for us. Surely this Interceſſion is that which puts life into the death of Chriſt; this interceſſion is that which ſtrikes the laſt ſtroke during this World, in the carrying on of our ſouls Salvation, and makes Goodwin. Chriſt ſet forth, Rom. 8. 34. all ſure. It is a witty obſervation that one makes of theſe ſeveral ſteps of Chriſts actings for us; as firſt there was an all-ſufficiency in his death, who ſhall condemn? it is Chriſt that dyed. 2. A rather in his Reſurrection; yea rather, that is riſen again. 3. A much rather in his life and ſeſſion at God's right hand, for if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of Chriſt, much rather being reconciled we Rom. 5. 10 ſhall be ſaved by his life. 4. The Apoſtle riſeth yet higher to a ſaving to the utmoſt, and puts that upon Heb. 7. 25. his interceſſion; wherefore he is able to ſave us to the utmoſt, ſeeing he ever liveth to make interceſſion for us. If in the former were any thing wanting, this interceſſion of Chriſt ſupplies all; it is the Coronis, which makes all effectual; it ſaves to the uttermoſt, for it ſelf is the uttermoſt and higheſt ſtep; on earth begins the execution of his office, in Heaven he ends it; in his life and death Chriſt was the meritorious cauſe, but by his interceſſion Chriſt is the applying cauſe of our ſouls ſalvation. In this very interceſſion of Chriſt is the conſummation and perfection of the Prieſt-hood of Chriſt. O then how requiſite and neceſſary muſt this needs be?

4. It is gracious, and full of bowels; Chriſt his interceſſion, and indeed Chriſt's Prieſtly office is erected, and ſet up on purpoſe, for the relief of poor diſtreſſed ſinners. There is no mixture of terror in this bleſſed office of Jeſus Chriſt, and this doth diſtinguiſh it from his other offices. Chriſt by his Kingly office rules over the Churches, and over the World; but all obtain not mercy whom he thus rules over; Chriſt by his prophetical office comes to his own, but many of his own received him not; but now wherever the prieſtly office of Jeſus Chriſt is ſet forth upon a Soul, that ſoul ſhall certainly be ſaved for ever. O this prieſtly office of Chriſt is an office of meer love and tender compaſſion: Chriſt (ſaith the Apoſtle) is ſuch an high Prieſt as cannot be but touched with the feeling of our infirmities. Heb. 4. 15. Oh he is a merciful, and a faithful high-Prieſt in things Heb. 2. 17. pertaining to God, to make reconcilation for the ſins of the People. He is merciful and exceeding compaſſionate; in all our afflictions he is afflicted;——and in his love, Iſa. 63. 9. and in his pity he Redeemed us; and in his love and pity he intercedes for us.

Sect. 8. Wherein the interceſſion of Chriſt conſiſts.

8. WHerein more eſpecially doth the Interceſſions of Jeſus Chriſt conſiſt? ſome ſuppoſe that Chriſt's very being in heaven, and putting God in mind of his active and paſſive obedience by his very preſence, is all that interceſſion that the Scripture ſpeaks of But I rather anſwer in theſe particulars, As——

1. Chriſt's interceſſion conſiſts in the preſenting of his Perſon for us: he himſelf went up to heaven, and preſented himſelf; the Apoſtle calls this, an appearing for us: Chriſt is not entered into the holy place made with hands, but into heaven, now to appear in the Heb. 9. 24. preſence of GOD for us. I believe there is an Emphaſis in the Word appearing for us. But how appears he for us? I anſwer. 1. In a publick manner; whatſoever he did in this kind, he did it openly and publickly; he appears for us in the preſence of God the Father; he appears for us in the preſence of his Saints and Angels, Heaven's eyes are all upon him in his appearing for us. 2. He appears for us as a Mediator, he ſtands in the middle betwixt God and us; hence it is, that he is God-man, that he might be a Mediator betwixt God and man. 3. He appears for us as a Sponſor, and a pledge; ſurely it is a comfort for a man to have a friend at Court, at the Prince's Elbow, that may own him, and appear for him; but if this friend be both a Mediator and Surety, a Mediator to requeſt for him, and a Surety, to engage for him, Oh what comfort is this! thus Chriſt appeared in every reſpect, he is a Mediator to requeſt for us; and he is a Surety to engage for us: as Paul, was for Oneſimus a mediator, I beſeech thee for my Son, Oneſimus; Phil. 9. 10. and a Sponſor, if he hath wronged thee; or owe thee ver. 18. 19. ought, put that on my account, I will repay it. So is Jeſus Chriſt for his Saints he is the Mediator of a better Heb. 8. 6. Covenant, Heb. 8. 6. and he is a Surety of a better Heb. 7. 22. Teſtament, Heb. 7. 22. 4 He appears as a Solicitor, to preſent and promote the deſires and requeſts of his Saints, in ſuch a way as that they may find acceptance with his Father. He is not idle now he is in Heaven; but as on earth he ever went about doing good; ſo now in glory he is ever about his work of doing good; he ſpends all his time in Heaven in promoting the good of his people; as from the beginning it was his care, ſo to the Worlds end it will be his care to ſollicite his Father in the behalf of his poor Saints: he tells God, thus and thus it is with his poor Members, they are in want, in trouble, in diſtreſs, in affliction, in reproach; and then he preſents their ſighs, ſobs, prayers, tears, and groans; and that in ſuch a way, as that they may become acceptable to his Father.——— 5. He ap- 1 Joh. 2.1. pears as an Advocate: If any man ſin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jeſus Chriſt the righteous. An Advocate is more than a Sollicitor; an Advocate is one that is of Council with another, and pleadeth his Caſe in open Court; and ſuch an Advocate is Jeſus Chriſt unto his People. 1. He is of Councel with them; that is one of the Titles given him by Iſa. 9. 6. the Prophet Iſaiah, Wonderful Councellour; He counſels them by his Word and Spirit. 2. He pleads for them, and this he doth in the high Court of Heaven, at the Bar of God's own Juſtice; there he pleads their Caſe, and anſwereth all the Accuſations that are brought in by Satan or their own Conſciences. But of this anon.—— 6. He appears as a publick Agent, or Leiger-Ambaſſador. What that is, ſome tell us in theſe particulars: 1. His work is to conti- Eph. 2.14. nue peace; and ſurely this is Chriſt's work, he is our peace (ſaith the Apoſtle) that is, the Author of our peace; he purchaſed our peace, and he maintains our peace with God; to this purpoſe he ſits at God's right hand to intercede for us, and to maintain the Rom. 5. 1. Peace and Union betwixt God and us; therefore being juſtified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. 2. His work is to maintain intercourſe and correſpondency; and ſurely this is Chriſt's work alſo, By him we have an acceſs unto the Father.-- Eph. 2.18. 3. 12. In him we have boldneſs, and acceſs with confidence, by the Faith of him. The word [acceſs] doth not only ſignifie coming to God in Prayer, but all that Reſort and Communion which we have with God, as united by Faith to Jeſus Chriſt; according to that, 1 Pet. 3. 18. Chriſt had once ſuffered for ſins, the juſt for the unjuſt, that he might bring us to God. This benefit have all Believers in and by Chriſt; they come to God by him, they have free Commerce and Intercourſe in Heaven.——— 3. His work is to reconcile and take up emergent differences, and this is Chriſt's Iſa. 53.12. work alſo: He maketh Interceſſion for the Tranſgreſſors; he takes up the differences that our Tranſgreſſions make betwixt God and us.——— 4. His work is to procure the welfare of the People or State where he negotiates; and this is no leſs Chriſt's work, for he ſeeks the welfare of his People, he ſits at God's right hand to intercede for them, and commending their eſtate and condition to his Father, he makes it his requeſt to his Father that his Members may have a Phil. 1. 19. continual ſupply of the Spirit of Jeſus Chriſt, that they may be ſtrengthened in Temptations, confirmed in Tribulations, delivered from every evil work, enabled to every good duty, and finally preſerved unto his heavenly Kingdom.

2. Chriſt's Interceſſions conſiſts in the preſenting of his Wounds, Death, and Blood, as a publick ſatisfaction for the debt of ſin, and as a publick price for the purchaſe of our Glory.

There is a queſtion among the Schools, Whether Chriſt hath not taken his Wounds, or the ſigns, ſcars, and prints of his Wounds, into Heaven with him? And whether Chriſt his repreſenting thoſe Wounds, ſcars, and prints unto his Father, doth not hereby intercede for us? Some I am ſure are for the Affirmative. Aquin in Joh. c. 2. Aquinas diſtinguiſheth of Chriſt's Interceſſion as being three-fold; the firſt before his Paſſion by devout Prayer, and the ſecond at his Paſſion by effuſion of his Blood, and the third after his Aſcenſion by the repreſentation of his Wounds and Scars. Howſoever this hold, (for I dare not be too confident without Scripture-ground) yet this I dare ſay, that Chriſt doth not only preſent himſelf, but the Sacrifice of himſelf, and the infinite Merit of his Sacrifice. When he went to Heaven, he carried with him abſolutely the Power, Merit, the Vertue of his Wounds, and Death, and Blood, into the preſence of God the Father for us; and with his Blood he ſprinkled the Mercy-ſeat (as it were) ſeven times. We read in the Law, that when the high Prieſt went within the Veil, he took the Levit. 16. 14. Blood of the Bullock, and ſprinkled it with his finger upon the Mercy ſeat Eaſtward; and before the Mercy ſeat he ſprinkled the Blood with his finger ſeven times. Not only was the Prieſt to kill the Bullock without the holy of holies, but he was to enter with the blood into the holy of holies, and to ſprinkle the Mercy-ſeat therein with it. Surely theſe were patterns of things to be done in the Heavens: Chriſt that was ſlain and crucified without the gate, carried his own Blood into the holy of holies, or into the Heaven of Heavens; for by his own Blood he entered in once into the holy place, Heb. 9.12. having obtained eternal Redemption for us: And thither come, he ſprinkles it (as it were) upon the Mercy-ſeat (i. e.) he applies it, and obtains Mercy by it; By the Blood of Chriſt, God's Mercy and Juſtice are reconciled in themſelves, and reconciled unto us. Chriſt ſprinkles his Blood on the Mercy-ſeat ſeven times. Seven is a Note of Perfection; where Chriſt's Blood is ſprinkled on a Soul, that Soul is ſure to be waſhed from all filth, and at laſt to be perfected and ſaved to the very utmoſt. Chriſt's Blood was ſhed upon the Earth, but Chriſt's Blood is ſprinkled now he is in Heaven. What, is any Soul ſprinkled with the Blood of Chriſt? ſurely this ſprinkling comes from Heaven. So the Apoſtle: But ye are come to Heb. 12. 22, 24. Mount Zion, and unto the City of the living God, the heavenly Jeruſalem;——— and to Jeſus the Mediator of the new Covenant. And then it follows: To the Blood of ſprinkling, that ſpeaketh better things than that of Abel. It is upon Mount Zion where this ſprinkling is: there is Jeſus at God's right hand; there he ſtands (as it were) upon the Mount, and there he ſprinkles his Blood round about him; Heaven is all beſprinkled as the Mercy ſeat in the holy of holies was; the Levit. 16. 14, 19. Earth is all beſprinkled as the Altar out of the holy of holies was. Heaven and Earth are all beſprinkled with the Blood of Jeſus, ſo that the Saints and People of God are no where, but their Doors, and their Poſts, and their Houſes (I mean, their Bodies and Souls) are all beſprinkled with the Blood of the Lamb ſlain from the beginning of the World. Why, this is that Blood of ſprinkling that ſpeaks better things than that of Abel. Mark that: Chriſt's Blood hath a Tongue; it ſpeaks, it cries, it prays, it intercedes; there's ſome agreement and ſome difference betwixt Chriſt's Blood and Abel's Blood.

1. The agreement is in theſe things: Abel's Blood Gen. 4.10. was abundantly ſhed, for ſo it is ſaid, the voice of Bloods; and Chriſt's Blood was let out, with thorns and ſcourges, nails and ſpears, it was abundantly ſhed. Again, Abel's Blood cried out, yea, it made a loud cry, ſo that it was heard from Earth to Heaven: The voice of thy Brother's Blood crieth unto me from Gen. 4.10. the ground: And Chriſt's Blood crieth out, it makes a loud cry, it fills Heaven and Earth with the noiſe; yea, the Lord's ears are ſo filled with it, that it drowns all other ſouls, and rings continually in his ears.

2. The difference is in theſe things: Abel's Blood cried for Vengeance againſt Cain, but Chriſt's Blood ſpeaks for Mercy on all Believers; Abel's blood was ſhed becauſe he ſacrificed, and he and his ſacrifice accepted: but Chriſt's blood was ſhed that he might be ſacrificed, and that we through his Sacrifice might be accepted: Abel's blood cryed thus, ſee Lord, and revenge; bnt Chriſt's blood cryed thus, Father forgive them for they know not what they do; and at this very inſtant Chriſt's blood crys for remiſſion; and here's our comfort; if God heard the ſervant, he will much rather hear the Son; if he heard the ſervant for ſpilling, he will much more hear the Son for ſaving; yet that I may ſpeak properly, and not in figures, I will not ſay that the very blood which Chriſt ſhed on the Croſs, is now in Heaven, nor that it ſpeaks in Heaven; theſe Cryings are meerly metaphorical; yet this I maintain as real and proper, that the power, merit, and vertue of Chriſt's blood is preſented by our Saviour, to his Father both as a publick ſatisfaction for our ſin, and as a publick price for the purchaſe of our glory.

3. Chriſt's Interceſſion conſiſts in the preſenting of his will, his requeſt, his interpellation for us; grounded upon the vigor and vertue of his glorious merits. John 17. 24. Father I will that they alſo whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am, that they may behold my glory which thou haſt given me. This was a piece of Chriſt's prayer while yet he was on Earth; and ſome ſay it is a ſummary of Chriſt's Interceſſion which now he makes for us in his glory; he prayed on earth as he meant to pray for us when he came to heaven; he hints at this in the beginning of his Prayer, for he ſpeaks as if all his work had been done on earth, and as if then he were even beginning his work in heaven; I have glorified thee on earth, I have finiſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do; John 17. 4. 5. and now O Father glorifie thou me with thy own ſelf, with the glory which I had with thee before the World was.

I know it is a queſtion, whether Chriſt now in heaven do indeed, and truth and in right propriety of ſpeech pray for us? ſome able Divines are for the Negative, others for the Affirmative. For my part (leaving a liberty to thoſe otherwiſe minded according to their light) I am of opinion, that Chriſt doth not only intercede by an interpretative Prayer, as in the preſenting of himſelf, and his merits to his Father; but alſo by an expreſs prayer, or by an expreſs and open repreſentation of his will: and to this opinion methinks theſe Texts agree. I will pray the Father, and he ſhall give you another John. 14. 16. Comforter, and at that day ye ſhall ask in my Name, and John 16. 26, 27. I ſay unto you, that I will pray the Father for you; when he ſaith I ſay not, that I will pray for you, it is the higheſt intimation that he would pray for them; as it is our phraſe, I do not ſay that I will do this or that for you, no not I; when indeed we will moſt ſurely do it, and do it to purpoſe. Auſtin confirms this, orat Aug. Præfat. in Pſalm. 85. pro nobis, orat in nobis, & oratur a nobis, &c. He prays for us, he prays in us, and he is prayed to by us: he prays for us as he is our Prieſt, and he prays in us as he is our Head, And he is prayed to by us as he is our God. Ambroſe tells us, That Chriſt ſo now prays for us, as ſometimes he prayed for Peter, that his faith ſhould not fail. Methinks I imagine as if I heard Chriſt praying in Heaven in this language, Amb. ſuper ad Roman. 8. O my Father, I pray not for the World, I will not open my Lips for any one Son of perdition; but I imploy all my blood, and all my prayers, and all my intereſts with thee for my dear, beloved, precious Saints; it is true, thou haſt given me a perſonal glory which I had with thee before the World was, and yet there is another glory I beg for, and that is the glory of my Saints: O that they may be ſaved! John. 17. why I am glorified in them, they are my joy, and therefore 10, 13. 24. I muſt have them with me where I am; thou haſt ſet my heart upon them, and thou thy ſelf haſt loved them as thou haſt loved me; and thou haſt ordained them to be one in us even as we are one, and therefore I cannot live long aſunder from them; I have thy company, but I muſt have theirs too: I will that they be with me where I am; If I have any glory, they muſt have part of it; this is my prayer, that they may behold my glory which thou haſt given me. Why, thus Chriſt prayed while he was on Earth, and if this ſame prayer be the ſummary of Chriſt's interceſſion or interpellation now he is in Heaven, we may imagine him praying thus; it were too nice to queſtion, whether Chriſt's prayer in Heaven be vocal or mental? certainly Chriſt preſents his gracious will to his Father in Heaven ſome way or other, and I make no queſtion but he fervently and immoveably deſires, that for the perpetual vertue of his ſacrifice, all his members may be accepted of God, and crowned with glory; nor only is there a cry of his blood in Heaven, but Chriſt by his prayer ſeconds that cry of his blood; an argument is handed to us by Maſter Goodwin thus: As it was Goodwin, Chriſt ſet forth. with Abel's, ſo it is with Chriſt; Abel's bloood went up to heaven, and Abel's ſoul went up to Heaven, and by this means the cry of Abel's dead blood, was ſeconded by the cry of Abel's living ſoul; his cauſe cryed and his ſoul cryed, as it is ſaid of the Martyrs, that the ſouls of them that were ſlain for the Teſtimony which they held, cryed with a loud voice, ſaying, how long, Lord, Holy and True, doſt thou not judge and avenge our blood that dwell on the earth? even ſo it is with Chriſt, his blood went up to Heaven, and his ſoul went up to Heaven, yea his body, ſoul, and all Rev. 6. 9. 10. his whole perſon went up to Heaven; and by this means his cauſe cryes, and he himſelf ſeconds the cry of his Cauſe: Jeſus Chriſt in his own perſon ever loveth to make interceſſion for us; he ever loveth as the great Maſter of requeſts to preſent his deſires that thoſe for whom he dyed may be ſaved.

4. Chriſt's interceſſion conſiſts in the preſenting of our perſons in his own perſon to his Father, ſo that now God cannot look upon the Son, but he muſt behold the Saints in his Son; are they not members of his body, in near relation to himſelf? and are not all his Interceſſions in behalf of them, and only of them? But how are all the Elect carried up into Heaven with Jeſus Chriſt, and there ſet down before his Father in Jeſus Chriſt? I anſwer, not actually, but myſtically; when Chriſt intercedes, he takes our perſons, and carries them in unto God the Father in a moſt unperceiveable way to us; for the way or manner I leave it to others, for my part, I dare not be too inquiſitive in a ſecret not revealed by God; only this we ſay, that Chriſt preſents our perſons to his Father in his own perſon; and this was plainly ſhadowed out by that act or office of the high Prieſt, who went into the holy of holies, Exod. 28. 12. with the names of all the Tribes of Iſrael upon his ſhoulders, and upon his breaſts; and this the Apoſtle ſpeaks out yet more plainly, Epheſ. 2. 18. 3, 12. by him we have an acceſs unto the Father, and in him we have boldneſs and acceſs with confidence: I ſhall a little enlarge on both theſe Texts, Recorded for our inſtruction in the Law, and Goſpel, in the Old and in the New Teſtament. First we Exod. 28. 14. find in the Law, that Aaron was to put two ſtones upon the ſhoulders of the Ephod, for ſtones of memorial unto the children of Iſrael, and ſo Aaron was to bear the names before the Lord upon his two ſhoulders Ver. 29. for a memorial. And again; Aaron was to bear the names of the Children of Iſrael in the breaſtplate of judgment upon his heart; when he went into the holy place for a memorial before the Lord continually. Here we find the names of the twelve Tribes of Iſrael ingraven graven in ſtones, which the high Prieſt uſually took with him into the holy place, when he appeared before the Lord; firſt upon his humeral, and then upon his pectoral; in both ſhewing that he entred into that place not only or principally in his own behalf, but in behalf of the Tribes whom he preſented before the Lord, that they might be in continual remembrance with the Lord; a lively type of Chriſt's Interceſſion, who being entred into the Heavens, he there appears in the behalf of his Elect, and he preſents their perſons to his Father, bearing them (as it were) upon his Shoulders, and upon his heart; why thus Chriſt takes our perſons into Heaven, and repreſents them in his own Perſon to his Father. Epheſ. 2. 18. 3. 12. Secondly, we find in the Goſpel a gracious promiſe, that by Chriſt we have acceſs unto the Father, and in Chriſt we have acceſs with confidence. Where the word acceſs, προσαγωγὴ ſignifies properly a manuduction, or leading by the hand to God; an introduction, or bringing into God; alluding to the cuſtom in Princes Courts, where none may come into the preſence Chamber, unleſs they be led, or brought in by ſome Favourite or Courtier there; thus none may have acceſs into the preſence of God, unleſs they are brought in by this Favourite of Heaven, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; whoſe very office it is to bring Men unto God; he takes us by the hand, and leads us to the Father. q. d. Come Souls, come along with me, and I will carry you to the Father. Look how a Child that hath run away from his Father, is taken by the hand of a friend, or of his elder brother, and ſo brought again into the preſence of his Father? even ſo all we, having run away from God, are by the good hand of Chriſt taken up, and led again into the preſence of the Father; he is that Ladder that Jacob ſaw, upon whom we aſcend into the boſom of God, and into heaven; he is that High-Prieſt, that takes our perſons, and bears them on his ſhoulders, and on his heart, ſuſtaining our perſons, and preſenting our conditions unto his Father, and our Father, unto his God, and our God.

5. Chriſt's Interceſſion conſiſts in the preſenting of our duties unto God. Not only doth he take our perſons and leads and carry them into the preſence of God, but together with our perſons he preſents all our ſervices in his own perſon. Now in this Act he doth theſe two things.

1. He obſerves what evil, or what failings is in our duties, and he draws that out, and takes it away, before he preſents them unto God; or as a child that would preſent his Father with a poſie, he goes into the Garden, and gathers flowers and weeds together; but coming to his Mother, ſhe picks out the weeds, and binds up the flowers by themſelves, and ſo it is preſented to the Father: Thus we go to duty, and we gather weeds and flowers together, but Chriſt comes and ſo picks out the Weeds, and ſo preſents nothing but flowers to God the Father; and this is plainly ſet forth by that ceremony, of the high-Prieſt, in taking away the iniquity of their holy things; Exod. 28. 36, 37, 38. And thou ſhalt make a plate of pure Gold, and grave upon it like the ingravings of a Signet, holineſs to the Lord; and thou ſhalt put it on a blew lace, that it may be upon the Mitre, upon the fore front of the Mitre it ſhall be. And it ſhall be on Aaron's fore head, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things, which the Children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts, and it ſhall be always upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the Lord: This was the manner of the Ceremony, and this was the end of the Ceremony, that Aaron might bear, and take away the iniquity of their holy things: What was this but a Type of Jeſus Chriſt? who with his moſt abſolute righteouſneſs covereth all the defects of our good works, which are ſtill ſpotted with ſome defect? Alas! Iſa. 64. 6. all our righteouſneſs are as filthy rags, but Chriſt draws out the evil of duty, and failings in duty, before he will preſent them unto God.

2. He obſerves what good there is in any of our duties or performances, and with that he mingles his own prayers and interceſſions, and preſents all as one work interwoven or mingled together unto God the Father. Rev. 8. 3. And another Angel ſtood at the Altar, having a golden Cenſer, and there was given unto him much incenſe that he ſhould offer it with the prayers of all Saints upon the golden Altar, which was before the Throne; and the ſmoke of the Incenſe which came with the prayers of the Saints aſcended up before God out of the Angel's hand. I know there is a controverſie, who this Angel ſhould be, that with the incenſe mingles the Prayers of all Saints? ſome conjecture him to be a created Angel, in that the incenſe or odours are ſaid to be given to him, and not to be his own, or to have them of himſelf: others ſay he could be no other but the Angel of the Covenant, for no Angel doth intercede or preſent our prayers but Jeſus Chriſt; as for that which is ſpoken concerning the ſeven Angels peeſenting the Saints prayers, Tobit. 12. 15. I am Raphael, one of the ſeven holy Angels, which preſents the prayers of the Saints. We ſay it is no canonical Scripture. nor is it authorized by any canonical Scripture; beſides, I cannot think that thee Prieſts were Types of Angels, but only of Chriſt; Again howſoever the Greek Copies ſo read that Text, yet the antient Hebrew Copy ſet forth by Paulus Fagius, and Jerome, who tranſlated it out of the Caldee (as Maſter Mede on Zachar. 4. 10. avoucheth) reads it thus, I am Raphael, one of the ſeven Angels, which ſtand and miniſter before the glory of the holy One, And certainly in this Text of Revel. 8. 3, 4. There is a figurative deſcription of an heavenly ſervice, correſpondency to that which was performed in the Temple; namely, that the People being without at prayer, the Prieſt offered incenſe within upon the Altar, Luke 1. 9, 10. To ſignifie that Believers Prayers have always need to be helped, and ſanctified by Chriſt's interceſſion; and and what though the incenſe was given him? we know that Chriſt himſelf was given of God; John 3. 16. God ſo loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son; and yet this hinders not, but that Jeſus Chriſt gave himſelf, and that he gave himſelf for an incenſe too; for ſo the Apoſtle, Epheſ. 5. 2. He hath given himſelf for us an offering, and a ſacrifice unto God; for an incenſe, or for a ſweet ſmelling ſavour; in this reſpect the incenſe might be given him, and yet the incenſe was his own; they were only Chriſt's merits, righteouſneſs, ſatisfaction; they are the ſweet odour, by vertue hereof, God accepts of his Saints perſons and prayers; and it is only Chriſt that preſents before God that which he is and hath, he alone being both offering and Prieſt; we can think of no other Prieſt in Goſpel-times, but only Jeſus, The fore-runner, even Jeſus Chriſt made an high-prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech. It is Jeſus, and only Jeſus that preſents our prayers, and ſanctifies our prayers, and mingles our prayers with his merits, and ſo makes them penetrate ſweetly before his God.

6. Chriſt's interceſſion conſiſts in the preſenting of our plea, or anſwer in Heaven to all thoſe accuſations that are brought in againſt our ſelves. And this I take to be the meaning of the challenge, Rom. 8. 33. 34. Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? it is God that juſtifies, Who is he that condemneth it? it is Chriſt that dyed, yea rather that is riſen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who alſo maketh interceſſion for us. Chriſt intercedes, and who ſhall condemn? Chriſt takes off all accuſations; and who ſhall charge; if the Law, or Sin, or Satan, ſhall dare to accuſe, our Jeſus is ready at God's right hand to Zach 3. 1. anſwer all. There is a viſion in Zachariah repreſenting this, and the Angel ſhewed me Joſhua the High-prieſt, ſtanding before the Angel of the Lord, and Satan ſtanding at his right hand to reſiſt him. It was the cuſtom of the accuſer to ſtand at the right hand of the accuſed; Pſal. 109. 6. Set thou a wicked man over him, and let Satan ſtand at his right hand; now here's Satan ſtanding at Joſhuah's right hand to accuſe him; but whereof doth he accuſe him? that appears in the Ver. 3. words following, Joſhua was clothed with filthy garments, an ordinary ſign of ſin; as a white garment is a ſign of Chriſt's righteouſneſs, ſo is a filthy garment in Scripture, a ſign of vileneſs; alas! Joſhua was defiled with the pollution which he had gotten by the contagion of Babylon, and now, at his return, Satan lays it to his charge; but Jeſus Chriſt, our great high-Prieſt, ſteps in, and takes of the accuſation; Ver. 2. And the Lord ſaid unto Satan, the Lord rebuke thee, O Satan, even the Lord that hath choſen Jeruſalem rebuke thee; twice he repeats it, to ſhew the fulneſs of Chriſt's interceſſion, q. d. the Lord my God, my everlaſting Father, rebuke, and confound thee, Satan, in this thy malicious oppoſition againſt my Joſhua; and then he goes on in his apology for Joſhua; Ver. 2. Is not this a brand pluckt out of the fire? q. d. is not this one, whom of my grace I have reſerved amongſt my people, whom I cauſed to paſs through the fire of mine indignation? and ſhall not my decree of grace ſtand firm and inviolable towards ſuch? or thus, Is not this a brand pluckt newly out of the fire of affliction? was he not in the captivity of Babylon? and is it likely he ſhould be there, but he would be defiled with the touch of pitch? take a brand, and pull it out of the fire, and there will be ſome duſt, and aſhes, and filth about it; Why Lord (ſays Chriſt) Ver. 4. this Joſhua is but newly pull'd out of the burning and therefore he muſt needs have aſhes and duſt, and filth about him: But come (ſaith Chriſt to his holy Angels) take away the filthy garment Ver. 4. from him; and come (ſays Chriſt to his ſervant Joſhua) Behold I have cauſed thine iniquity to paſs from thee, and I will cloath thee with change of rayment. And thus Chriſt took off the accuſation that was brought againſt Joſhua, by Satan, for his filthy garments. In like manner doth our bleſſed Interceſſor at this inſtant, if a poor Saint falls into any ſin, and defiles his garments, Satan comes in, and takes the right hand of him, and accuſes, him before the Lord; but Chriſt our great High Prieſt being at the right hand of his Father, he takes up the cauſe, puts in a plea, and and anſwers all, the accuſations of the enemy; True Lord, this poor ſoul hath filthy garments, but is he not a firebrand newly pluckt out of the fire? Was he not in his natural and ſinful condition the other day? is he not yet partly regenerate, and partly unregenerate? Needs therefore muſt there be ſome aſhes, and duſt, and filth upon him, O my Father, my will is, That thou conſider him in that reſpect, thou knoweſt his frame, and thou remembreſt that he is but duſt, though he have filthy garments now upon him, yet I will give him change of rayment; I will cloath him with the robe of my righteouſneſs, and then thou ſhalt ſeee no iniquity in Jacob, no tranſgreſſion in Iſrael. Why? thus the Lord Chriſt ſteps in and anſwers to all the accuſations that are brought in againſt us by the Law, or Sin, or Satan, to God his Father? and in this reſpect he is truly called our advocate, 1 Joh. 2. 1. If any man ſin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jeſus Chriſt the righteous. We have an Advocate that pleads for us, that anſwers for us; that in a way of equity (grounding all upon his own merits) calls for the pardon of our ſins, and for the ſalvation of our ſouls.

Sect. 9. How powerful and prevailing Chriſt's Interceſſions are with God his Father

9. HOW powerful and prevailing are Chriſts Interceſſions with God his Father? I anſwer, very much, and this will appear if we conſider,——

1. That Chriſt is our great High-Prieſt to God; Heb. 8. 1 We have ſuch an High-Prieſt, who is ſet down on the right hand of his Majeſty on high, Now 'twas the way of God to lend his ear in eſpecial manner to the High-Prieſts; and therefore the people uſually run to them, when they would enquire of God; Before time in Iſrael, when a man went to enquire of God, 1 Sam. 9. 9. thus he ſpake, Come, and let us go to the Seer, for he that is now called a Prophet, (or High-Prieſt) was before time called a Seer.——People were wont to repair to the Prieſts, and the Prieſts were wont to go to God; and good reaſon, for the Prieſts were to mediate for the people, and the People had experience that God would hearken to the cry of their Prieſt; Samuel called unto the Lord, and the Lord ſent thunder, and 1 Sam. 12. 18, 19, 23. rain that day. And all the people ſaid to Samuel, Pray for thy ſervants unto the Lord thy God. —— And Samuel ſaid unto the People,——God forbid that I ſhould ſin againſt the Lord in ceaſing to pray for you. Now ſuch an High-Prieſt as this (though with far more eminecy) is Chriſt to God; he intercedes, for his people (God forbid that he ſhould ever ceaſe to pray for his people:) and he hath God's ear in eſpecial manner; if ever God lend his ear to any one, it muſt needs be to this High-Prieſt, becauſe of his office to intercede betwixt God and his people. Chriſt ſtands in the middle, or indeed next to God, as he is in theſe Goſpel-times our great High-Prieſt; and therefore he muſt needs prevail with God in every petition he puts up for us.

2. That Chriſt was called to this office by God. Chriſt glorified not himſelf to be made an High Prieſt; Heb. 5. 4. 5. no, no; but he was called of God as Aaron was; it was God the Father that deſigned him to it, and that furniſhed him for it, and that inveſted him in it; The Lord hath ſworn, and will not repent, thou art a Pſal. 110. 4. Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech. Now to what purpoſe ſhould God call him to this office, but eſpecially to intercede for them, to whom God was willing to communicate ſalvation? it was God's mind as well as Chriſt's mind to ſave his Elect; and this was the way whereunto they agreed? that an high Prieſt ſhould be appointed, and an office of interceſſion ſhould be erected, and by that means the ſalvation purchaſed ſhould be applyed; many times we are apt to conceive legal or law-thoughts of God the Father, as that he is juſt and ſevere; and that Chriſt his Son is more meek and merciful: but this cannot be, for there are not two infinite wills, not two infinite mercies, one in the Father, another in the Son, but one will, and one mercy in both. And to that purpoſe obſerve but the readineſs of God the Father to receive Chriſt honourably into Heaven, that he might do the work of the High-Prieſt there; no ſooner had Chriſt entered through the gates into the City, but preſently, ſit thou down (ſaid God) at my right hand; but to what end? ſurely not only to rule as King (of which we have ſpoken before) but alſo to intercede as our great High-Prieſt; hence we find in Scripture, that Chriſt's ſeſſion and interceſſion, his Kingly and Prieſtly office are joyned together; He is ſet on the Heb. 8. 1. right hand of the Throne of his Majeſty in the Heavens; he! who? why; Chriſt our High Prieſt; we have ſuch an High Prieſt who is ſet down. It is as if Chriſt at his entrance inio heaven had ſaid, My Father

Father, I am come hither as the great High Prieſt; having on his breaſt-plate the names of all the Elect, and I come to intercede for poor ſinners; what, ſhall I have welcome on theſe ſame terms? to whom the Father replied, Welcome my Son, my only Son on theſe very terms; come, ſit thee down, and intercede for whom thou pleaſeſt; I have called thee on purpoſe to this very office, and thou ſhalt prevail. Surely the Father is engaged to purpoſe to hear the Son, in that he is an High Prieſt to God, and called to his office by God.

3. That Chriſt is God's Son; and that is more than God's High Prieſt; he is his natural Son, his beloved Son, his Son that never gave him the leaſt offence; ſure then when he comes and intercedes for a man, he is moſt like to ſpeed; if a gracious child do but cry, my Father, my Father, he may prevail very much, eſpecially with a Father who is tender-hearted; Jeſus Chriſt is the gracious, precious Son of God the Father; and God the Father is a dear and kind-hearted Father, how then ſhould the interceſſions of Chriſt but be moſt powerful with God? hence ſome gather the prevalency of Chriſt's interceſſion, becauſe in many places of Scripture where this part of Chriſt's Prieſt-hood or interceſsion, is laid down, this Son-ſhip is alſo expreſſed or ſet forth; as Heb. 4. 11. we have a great High Prieſt entered into Heavens, Jeſus the Son of God.——And thou art an High Prieſt for ever after the order of Melchizedech. Heb. 5. 5, 6. But immediately before, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. O needs muſt the interceſsion of ſuch a Son be very prevalent: I ſay of ſuch a Son, for was ever any Son like this Son of God? was ever any Son ſo like his Father, or ſo equal with his Father? we know he is a begotten Son, and yet never begun to be a Son; he is the Son of the Father, and yet never begun to have a Father: he is a branch of the King of ages, and yet in all the ages paſt was never younger; ſurely all the relations of Son and Father in the World, are but a ſhadow of this relation betwixt God and Chriſt; it is ſo near, that though they are two (as in all relations there muſt needs be relatum and correlatum) yet Chriſt ſpeaks of them, as John. 10. 30. if they were but one; I and my Father are one; if then the Father ſhould deny him any thing, he ſhould deny himſelf; or ceaſe to be one with his Son, which can never be. Chriſt is God's Son, his natural Son, his beloved Son, Mat. 3. 17. This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleaſed, ſaith God? O then how prevalent muſt Chriſt's interceſſion be with God?

4. That Chriſt is God himſelf, not only God's Son, but God himſelf? how powerful in this reſpect muſt his interceſſions be unto the Father? it is true, that Chriſt is another ſubſiſtence and Perſon from the Father but Chriſt is one and the ſame God with the Father; Chriſt is the very eſſential, ſubſtantial, and noble repreſentation of God himſelf; Chriſt is the very ſelf of God, both God ſending, and God Zach. 13. 8. ſent; Chriſt is the fellow of God, Awake O ſword againſt my ſhepherd, and againſt the man that is my fellow; nay, Chriſt is God, and not another God, but one God; God of God, light of light, very God of very God; begotten, not made, being of one ſubſtance with the Father, by whom all things were made. Can we imagine now that God himſelf ſhould be denied any boon of God himſelf; if God ſometimes ſpoke Iſa. 45. 11. to his ſervantes Ask of me, command ye me concerning all the work of mine hands: will not God much more ſay to God, Ask of me, and I ſhall give thee the Heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermoſt parts of the earth for thy poſſeſſion? Pſal. 2. 8. we have brought it now ſo near, that if God be God, and God be omnipotent, that he can do, and can have whatſoever he pleaſes: then Chriſt being one God with his Father, he muſt needs prevail; it is but Ask and have, let him ask what he will.

5. That Chriſt is God's darling upon this very accour, becauſe he intercedes for his People. Therefore doth my Father love me, becauſe I lay down my life, that I might take it again. Joh. 10. 17. I lay it down by ſuffering, and I take it again by riſing, aſcending up into heaven, and interceding there; and therefore doth my Father love me. O! the love of God to Chriſt, and of God in Chriſt to all his Saints! God ſo loved the World, that he gave his Son; and Chriſt ſo loved the world, that he gave himſelf, and now again becauſe Chriſt gave himſelf, and his gift is as a ſweet ſmelling ſavour unto God, therefore God loves Chriſt; O what a ſound of love is here! God loves Chriſt, and Chriſt loves us, and the Father loves Chriſt again for loving of us: there is not an act of Chriſt in his work of our redemption, but the Father looks on it with love and liking: at his baptiſm, lo a voice came from Heaven, ſaying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleaſed; Mat. 3. 17. at his death, He ſeeth of the travel of his Soul, and he is ſatisfied; Iſa. 53. 11. at his aſcenſion he heareth of the interceſſions of his ſoul, and he is delighted; Chriſt's interceſſions are God's muſick: and therefore as ſometimes Chriſt ſpoke to his Spouſe, ſo God ſpeaks to Chriſt, Let me ſee thy countenance, let me hear thy voice, for ſweet is thy voice, and thy countenance is comely. Cant. 2. 14. Now Chriſt's interceſſions muſt needs prevail, when God loves Chriſt for his interceſſions ſake: if before the world was made, the Son was his Father's darling, (for it is ſaid) When he appointed the foundations of the earth, then I was by him, and as one brought up with him, and I was daily his delight. Prov. 8. 29. 30. In the Original [delights], intimating that the eternal Son was variety of delights to his Father. O then what delights, what variety, what infinite of delights hath God in Chriſt now interceding for us? what a dear darling is Chriſt to God, when not only he ſtands by him, but he repreſents to him all the Elect from the begining to the end of the World; q. d. See Father, look on my breaſt, read here all the names of thoſe thou haſt given me, as Adam, and Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob; of the twelve Tribes, and of the Twelve Apoſtles of all the Martyrs, Profeſſors, and Confeſſors of the Law and Goſpel; I pray for them, I Pray not for the World, but only for them, for they are mine: methinks I hear, God anſwer, What my Son! and what the Son of my womb! and what the Son of my vows! haſt thou begotten me thus many Sons? and are all theſe mine? why then ask what thou wilt, and have what thou pleaſeſt; I am as ſtrongly inclined and diſpoſed to give thee grant, as thou wouldſt have it; it is my joy, my delight, my pleaſure to ſave theſe ſouls, and ſurely the pleaſure of the Lord ſhall proſper in thy hands.

6. That Chriſt is God's Commander (I ſpeak it with reverence) as well as partitioner; it is a phraſe given to the ſervants of God, command ye me; and may we not give it to the Son of God? Chriſtians! God is as ready to do us ſervice, as if we had him at command; Iſa. 45. 11. This is the confidence that we have In him, that if we ask any thing according to his will he heareth us, 1 Joh. 5. 14. and in this ſenſe we may boldly ſay, that God the Father is as ready to hear Jeſus Chriſt, as it he had him at command; not that in deed and reality he commands God, but that in deed and truth he commands all below God, and he commands all in the ſtead of God. And to this purpoſe is that voice of God, I have ſet my King upon my holy hill of Zion; Pſal. 2. 6. and why my King? I dare not ſay he is God's King, as if God were Chriſt's inferior, or Chriſt's ſubject: God forbid! why then my King? I anſwer, he is God's King, becauſe appointed by God; or he is God's King, becuſe he rules in the ſtead of God; The Father judgeth no man, but hath com-

John 5. 22. committed all Judgment unto the Son. God hath given away all his prerogatives unto Jeſus Chriſt, ſo that now the King of Saints can do what he will with God, and with all the World; only it follows, Ask of me, and I will give thee the heatken for thine inheritance: as if the Father ſhould have ſaid, I cannot deny thee, and yet O my Son, I would have thee ask; do what thou wilt in heaven, Earth, and Hell; I have not the heart, indeed I have not the power to deny thee any thing, only acknowledge this power to be originally in my ſelf, that all that honour the Son, may honour the Father; and all that honour the Father, may honour the Son. Theſe are the terms betwixt God the Father, and God the Son; O then how powerful and prevailing are Chriſt's interceſſions with his Father? if he ask who hath power to command, there is little queſtion of prevailing in his ſuit. We have heard in our days of a ſuit managed with a petition in one hand, and a ſword in the other; and what the effect is, all now can tell. As a King who ſues for peace, backt with a potent Army, able to win what he intreats for, muſt needs treat more effectually; ſo Chriſt ſueing to his Father for his Saints, with a power ſufficient to obtain what he ſues for, he muſt needs effect what his deſires may be; it is well obſerved, that Chriſt is firſt ſaid to ſit at God's right hand, and then to intercede; he treats the ſalvation of ſinners as a mighty Prince treats the giving up of ſome Town, which lyes ſeated under a Caſtle of his that commands the Town; or he treats the ſalvation of ſinners, as a Commander treats the ſurrendring of a perſon already in Exod. 32. 10. his hands: it is beyond God's power (I ſpeak it with ſubmiſſion) to deny his Son in any thing he asks: if the Lord ſometimes cryed out to Moſes like a man whoſe hands are held, Let me alone; how much more doth Chriſt's interceſſion bind God's hands, and command all in Heaven, Earth, and Hell? hence we ſay, that God the Father hath diveſted Rev. 1. 18. himſelf of all his power, and given the keys into Chriſt's own hands; I am he that liveth and was dead, and behold I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and death; there is no man goes to Hell, but he is lockt in by Jeſus Chriſt; and there is no man goes to Heaven, but he is lockt in there by Jeſus Chriſt; he hath the keys of all mens eternities hanging at his own girdle; if he but ſay, Father I will that this man, and that woman, ſhall inherit Heaven; the Father cannot bnt reply, my Son I have no power to deny thy ſuit; Thou haſt the Keys of Heaven in thine own hands, be it as thou wilt.

7. I ſhall only add this on the Father's part, that God is Chriſt's Commander to this office, as well as Chriſt is God's Commander in this office, O why ſhould we have hard thoughts of God the Father, more than of God the Son? Is he not as willing of our Salvation as Jeſus Chriſt? Surely 'twas the Oath Ezek. 33. 11. of God, I mean of God the Father: As I live ſaith the Lord, I would not have the death of a ſinner, but that the wicked turn from his ſin and live. Was not this the firſt ſalute of God to Chriſt when he firſt enter- Pſalm 2. 7. 8. ed into Heaven; Sit thou here on this Throne, and ask what thou wilt of thy Father? Nay, did not the Father prevent the Son in laying his commands upon him to ask, before the Son opened his Mouth to ſpeak a word, by way of any requeſts to God, his Father? Thou art my Son, this day (even this day of thy Reſurrection, Aſcenſion, Seſſion) have I begotten thee; ask of me, and I ſhall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermoſt parts of the earth for thy poſſeſſions? q. d. Come Son, thou art my Son, this day I have begotten thee, and though I have begotten thee from all eternity, yet this day, and every day I am begetting thee ſtill: I ſaid to thee at thy Reſurrection this day have I begotten thee, and I ſaid to thee at thy aſcenſion this day have I begotten thee; and now ask, and be not ſhy, or modeſtly backward in petitioning; I command thee to this office, I make thee here the great Maſter of Requeſts in Heaven: others may pray out of charity, but none but thy ſelf in a way of Juſtice, Authority, and Office; and therefore ask boldly and largely, open thy mouth wide and I will fill it. O what a demonſtration of love is this, not only to Chriſt, but to us in Chriſt, that when Man had offended his God, broke Covenant with God, and turned Enemy to God, that then God the Father ſhould ſeek peace with Man, offer conditions of peace to Man, and for that purpoſe ſhould appoint a Mediator, and Interceſſor, and call his Son to that office: And now he is in Heaven, that he ſhould bid him do his office, and ask freely; ſo that if the Elect be not ſaved, it ſhould be laid on the ſcore of Chriſt, for the Father is moſt willing: Surely Goodwin Chriſt exalted. here's more than intimation of the Father's inclination to accept of Chriſt's interceſſions on our behalf: We may read here, the Father's Heart is much towards us, as Chriſt's own Heart; Oh he is full of Bowels, he is gentle, and eaſie to be intreated; Chriſt needs not much ado to get his grant; Chriſt adds not by his interceſſion one drop of love to the Heart of God, only he draws it out, which otherwiſe would have been ſtopt; nor doth he broach it before his Father commands him to it. Oh then how powerful and prevailing muſt Chriſt's Interceſſions be?

Sect. 10. Of the reaſon of Chriſt's interceſſion.

10. WHat are the reaſons of this great tranſaction of Chriſt's Interceſſion for his people? I anſwer ——

1. It is the Father's Will that it ſhould be ſo; he called Jeſus Chriſt, to his office, the command of God is upon Jeſus Chriſt; Ask what thou wilt for thy redeemed ones, I willingly engage my ſelf to grant, only Ezek. 36. 36. 37. it is my pleaſure thou ſhould ask: As ſometimes he ſaid to the houſe of Iſrael, I the Lord have ſpoken, and I will do it; notwithſtanding I will yet for this be enquired of, by the houſe of Iſrael, to do it for them: ſo ſaith God to Chriſt, I the Lord have ſpoken, and I will do it only my Son, I will be enquired of by thee. I look upon this as the main reaſon of Chriſt's interceſſion, Even ſo Father, for ſo it ſeemeth good in thy ſight; it's God's Will that Chriſt ſhould intercede.

2. It is the Father's love to engage his Son for his own people. O the comfort of a ſound Chriſtian in this reſpect! What, art thou in temptation, or deſertion? Surely Chriſt is engaged by God to petition for thee; thou haſt put up many Petitions to Chriſt, and he hath put them all up unto God; he could do no otherwiſe, for he is in place an Advocate, to mention and plead ſuch caſes as are moved to him. Methinks I imagine God thus beſpeaking his Son; See thou do this poor ſoul good, my Son; here is for him according to all his needs, only ask according to what thou knoweſt will mak him happy; Muſt he have my Spirit? My comforting Spirit? Will no leſs, no cheaper thing ſerve his turn? Then here it is. Oh how is Chriſt engaged now to petition for them, whom God loves, and for whom he gave himſelf? Surely if Chriſt ſhould leave to intercede for ſuch, he would diſpleaſe his Father, which we know he would not do, he would undergo Hell firſt.

3. It is Chriſt's own inclination to do this Office: The power that Chriſt hath for the good of Sinners is neceſſarily acted: As the Sun ſhines upon all the World, and it cannot do otherwiſe; ſo Chriſt the Son of righteouſneſs, ſhines, or intercedes for all his Saints, and he can do no leſs: What is the Will of the Father, is the Will of Chriſt, (I mean the Will of Chriſt naturally, not artificially in a way of ſelf-denial, as God's Will it is ſaid to be our will) ſo that what the Father would have Chriſt own, he cannot but own; for the ſame Spirit is in Chriſt which is in the Father, and in the ſelf-ſame meaſure. As God is captivated with Love towards all Captives, ſo am I, ſaith Chriſt. As God would have all be ſaved, and to come to the knowledge of the Truth, ſo would I too, ſaith Chriſt; the very ſame bottomleſs Sea of Love that fluctuates Joh. 10. 30. in my Father's breaſt, it is in my breaſt; for I and the Father are one.

4. It is Chriſt's Honour to intercede; hereby is the Crown ſet on Chriſt's head, much Honour and Glory redounds to Jeſus in this very reſpect. I believe all the work that's done in Heaven, it is Chriſt's interceding, and the Angels and Saints praiſing; Chriſt intercedes for ever, and the four Beaſts and four and twenty Elders ſing for ever, Rev. 4. 8, 9, 10, 11. An Argument of Chriſt's honour by Chriſt's Goodwin's Chriſt ſet forth. interceſſion, is given in thus by Maſter Goodwin: If it were not for Chriſt's Interceſſion, how would the Office of Chriſt's Prieſthood be out of work! And this reaſon is Heb. 7. 24, 25. more than intimated, Heb. 7. 24, 25. This man, becauſe he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable Prieſthood; and the work of his Prieſthood is interpreted, ver. 25. To make Interceſſion for ever. The meaning of this is, That God would not have him continue to be a Prieſt in Title only, or in reſpect only of a Service paſt, and ſo to have only the honour of Prieſthood perpetuated to him, out of the remembrance of what he once had done: but God would have him to enjoy, as the renown of the old, to a perpetual ſpring of Honour by this new work of Interceſſion, and ſo to preſerve the verdure of his Glory ever freſh and green; and the ſum of the Apoſtle's reaſoning is this, That ſeeing himſelf was to be for ever, ſo his work of Prieſthood ſhould be for ever, that ſo his Honour might be preſerved and continued for ever alſo.

5. It is Chriſt's love to his Saints; his heart is ſo enamour'd with his Saints, that therefore he intercedes for them for ever. Love is as ſtrong as Death; it is never weary of doing good for the party beloved: Cant. 5. 2. Now Chriſt's Saints are Chriſt's love; My ſiſter, my love, my dove; the Saints in Chriſt's Books are ſo many Mal. 3. 17. Jewels. And they ſhall be mine, ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, in that day when I make up my Jewels. The Saints are Chriſt's only choice, the very flower of John 15. 19. the Earth. You have I choſen out of the world; and ye are my people, my choſen. All the World is Chriſt's Iſa. 43. 20. refuge, and Kings are but Mortar to him, only the Saints are Chriſt's choſen, they are they whom the Lord in his eternal councels hath ſet apart for himſelf: Pſal. 4. 3. But know (ſaith the Pſalmiſt) that the Lord hath ſet apart him that is godly. The Saints are Chriſt's Image (i. e.) the reſemblance of Chriſt in all that which is his chief excellency, I mean in his righteouſneſs and holineſs; as if I would take the Picture of a Man, I would not draw it to reſemble his back parts, but as near as I could I would draw it to life, the very face and countenance; ſo are the Saints the very Picture, the Image, the Draught of God, in his top Excellency. The Saints are in covenant with Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore in nearer relation than any others; hence it is, that they are called the Portion of God, the Treaſure of God, the peculiar People of God, thoſe that God and Chriſt ſatisfie themſelves in, thoſe that God and Chriſt have ſet their hearts on, the Children of God the Father, the very Spouſe and Bride of God the Son, in ſome reſpect nearer than the Angels themſelves, for the Angels are not ſo married to Chriſt in a myſtical union, as God's People are. Now is it any wonder that thoſe who are ſo very dear to Chriſt, ſhould be in the Prayers of Chriſt? If they were ſo much in his heart, that ſometimes he ſhed his Blood for them, will he not now intercede for? O yes! To this end he carries them on his Breaſt or Heart, as near as near may be, that they may be in a continual remembrance before the Lord for ever; his very love compels him to this office, to intercede for them.

6. It is Chriſt's delight to intercede for his Saints? Before the World was, His delights were with the ſons of men; and when the fulneſs of time came, then ſaid Prov. 8. 31. he, Lo I come, in the volume of the book it is written of me, I delight to do thy Will, O my God; and what was Pſalm. 40. 7, 8. that, but to be with the ſons of men? He knew that was his Father's pleaſure, and in reſpect of himſelf, he had a delight to live with them, and to die for them: And no ſooner he entred into Heaven, but there he delights to officiate ſtill in behalf of the ſons of men; he carries their names on his heart there, and though ſome of their perſons be on earth, and he in his bodily preſence is in Heaven, yet diſtance of place cannot deaden his delights in the remembrance of them; he is ever minding his Father of his people in the neather world; he tells him that they are his, all in all, upon the earth, all his joy, and all his delight, and all his portion; as men uſe to give portions to their children, ſo God having but one Son by eternal generation, he hath given the Elect unto him as his portion; and hence he makes it his great buſineſs in Heaven, to provide manſions for his portion, to take up God's heart for his portion, to beg favour and love for his portion. Here 'tis the joy of Chriſt in Heaven, in going to his Father, and telling him, Why Father? I have a ſmall portion yet on earth, and becauſe they are on earth, they are ſtill ſinning againſt thy Majeſty, but I have ſuffered and ſatisfied for their ſins, and hither am I come, to mind thee of it, and continually to get out freſh pardons for new ſins; come, look on my old ſatisfaction; didſt Thou not promiſe? is it not in the Articles of agreement Iſa. 53. 11, 12. betwixt Thee and me, that I ſhould ſee of the travel of my ſoul, and ſhould be ſatisfied? Didſt thou not ſay, that becauſe I poured out my ſoul, therefore Thou wouldſt divide me a portion woth the great, and the ſpoil with the ſtrong? O my Father, now I make interceſſion for the tranſgreſſors; give me out pardons for an hundred thouſand millions of ſins; Thou haſt laid and ſworn, that Thou haſt no pleaſure in the death of ſinners; and it is my pleaſure, my joy, my infinite delight, to ſave ſinners; theſe are my ſeed, my portion my redeemed ones, and therefore let them be ſaved. Thus Chriſt intercedes, and his delight in his Saints, as knowing it to be his Father's mind, draws him on to his interceſſion; indeed this reaſon hangs upon that primary, and firſt reaſon; it is God's will that Chriſt ſhould intercede; as it is Chriſt's delight to do the will of his Father in Heaven, I delight to do thy Will, O my God.

7. It is Chriſt's compaſſion that cauſeth interceſſion. Heb. 4. 15. Chriſt is ſuch an High Prieſt, (ſaith the Apoſtle) as cannot but be touched with the feeling of our infirmities. He was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without ſin When he was on earth, he felt our infirmities, frailties, miſeries! and as a man that hath felt the Stone, or Gout, or Fever; or eſpecially that hath felt ſoul-troubles, cannot but compaſſionate thoſe that are in the like condition; ſo Chriſt having had the experience of our out-ward, and inward ſufferings, he cannot but compaſſionate us; and hence it is (his very compaſſion's moving) that he intercedes to his Father in our behalf. It is obſerved, that the very office or work of the High-Prieſt, was to ſympathize with the people of God; only in the caſe of the death of his kindred; he was not as others, to ſympathize or mourn; but Jeſus Chriſt goes beyond all the High-Prieſts that ever were before him; he doth fully ſympathize with us, not in ſome, but in all conditions; In all our afflictions he is afflicted. Iſa. 63. 9. I believe Chriſt hath carried a Man's heart up with him to Heaven; and though there be no paſſions in him as he is God; yet the flower, the bloſſom, the excellency of all theſe paſſions, (which we call compaſſions) are infinitely in him as he is God; he ſtriketh, and trieth, and yet he pitieth; when Ephraim bemoaneth himſelf, God replies, Jer.31. 21. Is Ephraim my dear ſon? Is he a pleaſant Child? For ſince I ſpeak againſt him, I do earneſtly remember him ſtill, therefore my Bowels are troubled for him. Surely there's a violence of heavenly paſſion in Chriſt's heart as God-man, which makes him to break out into prayer to God, and into compaſſions towards Men: O that tempted ſouls would conſider this! It may be Chriſt is giving you a cup of tears and blood to drink, but who knows what bowels, what turning of heart what motions of compaſſion are in Jeſus Chriſt all the while? thoſe who feel the fruit of Chriſt's interceſſion know this, and cannot but ſubſcribe to this truth. O ye of little faith, why do ye doubt of Chriſt's Bowels? Is he not our compaſſionate High-Prieſt? Hath not the tendereſt, meekeſt, mildeſt heart of a man that God poſſibly can form, met with the eternal and infinite mercy of God himſelf in Jeſus Chriſt; You have heard that Chriſt in both natures is our High-Prieſt, Mediator, Interceſſor, Heb.4. 15. and if either God or Man know how to compaſſionate, Chriſt muſt do it. O the Bowels of Chriſt! He is touched (ſaith the Apoſtle) with the feeling of infirmities; it is an alluſion to the rolled and moved bowels of God, in Jeremiah 31. 20. Chriſt in Heaven is burning and flaming in a paſſion of compaſſion towards his weak ones; and therefore he pleads, intercedes, and prays to God for them.

Thus far we have propounded the object, which is Chriſt's interceſſion; our next work is to direct you how to look upon Jeſus in this reſpect, Chap. 2. Sect. 1, Of knowing Jeſus as carrying on the great work of Salvation in his Interceſſion.

LET us know Jeſus carrying on this great work of our ſalvation in his Interceſſion. Is it not a rare piece of knowledg to know what Chriſt is now doing in Heaven for us on Earth? If I had a weighty ſuit at Court, on which lay my eſtate and life, if I knew that I had a friend there that could prevail, and that he were juſt now moving in my behalf, were not this worth the knowledge? I dare ſay in the behalf of all believers in the World, Chriſt is now interceding for us at the right hand of God; ever ſince his aſcenſion into Heaven he hath been doing this work; it is a work already of above ſixteen hundred years; and Summer and Winter, Night, and Day, without any tiredneſs of Spirit; Chriſt hath been ſtill praying, ſtill interceding; Chriſt's love hath no vacation, no ceſſation at all: yea, even now whiles you read this, Chriſt is acting as an Advocate for you, Chriſt hath your names ingraven, as a ſeal on his heart, and ſtanding right oppoſite to the eye of his Father, the firſt opening of the eye-lids of God is terminated upon the breaſt of Jeſus Chriſt; Is not this worth the knowledge? O my ſoul, leave off thy vain ſtudies of natural things! If they do not conduce ſome way or other to the right underſtanding of this, they are not worth the while; What is it for an Ariſtotle to be praiſed where he is not, and to be damned where he is? O the excellency of the knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt! Such a knowledge (if true) is no leſs than ſaving. Come, ſtudy his interceſſion in all the former particulars; I have run them over, for the work is ſwoln under my hands, I would now abbreviate; only remember this, that in Chriſt's interceſſion are many ſecrets which we muſt never know on this ſide Heaven; Oh take heed of entring into this Labyrinth without the clew of the Word; above all, deſire the guidance of the Spirit to enlighten thy darkneſs, and whatever thou knoweſt, know it ſtill for thy ſelf!

Sect. 2. Of conſidering Jeſus in that reſpect.

2. LEt us conſider Jeſus carrying on this work of our ſalvation in his interceſſion, many of God's people have found the benefit, and for my part I cannot but approve of it as an excellent, quickning, and enlivening duty to be much in a way of meditation, or conſideration; eſpecially when we meet with ſuch a bleſſed ſubject as this is; My Meditation of him ſhall be ſweet (ſaith David) I will be glad in the Lord; it is enough to make a meditation ſweet and refreſhing, when it is converſant about ſuch a ſuch a ſubject as Chriſt's interceſſion; Pſal.104. 34. Is it not as incenſe, a ſweet odour, and perfume with God himſelf? and ſhall not each thought of it be ſweet to us? come, let us be ſerious in this duty; and that we may do it throughly, let us conſider it in theſe ſeveral particulars. As——

1. Conſider of the nature of Chriſt's interceſſion; what is it but the gracious Will of Chriſt fervently deſiring that for the vertue of his death and ſacrifice, thy perſon and performances might be accepted of God? As Chriſt on earth gave himſelf to the death, even to the death of the Croſs for the abolition of ſin, ſo now in Heaven he prayes the Father, by his Agony and Bloody Sweat, by his Croſs and Paſſion, by his Death and Sacrifice, that thy ſins may be pardoned, thy ſervice accepted, and thy ſoul ſaved. This is the Will of Chriſt, even thy juſtification, ſanctification, and ſalvation; accordingly he preſents his Will, Father I will that all thoſe privileges flowing from my Death, may be conferred on ſuch a perſon by Name; ſuch a Soul is now meditating and conſidering of My Interceſſion, and my Will is, that his very Meditation may find Acceptance with GOD. O what workings would be in thy heart and ſpirit, if thou didſt but conſider that Chriſt even now were ſpeaking his Will, that thy perſon and duty both find acceptance, and be well-pleaſing with God.

2. Conſider of the perſon that intercedes for thee; it is Chriſt in both Natures; it is thy Mediator; the middle one betwixt God and Man: in this reſpect thou mayeſt conſider Him as one indifferent, and equally inclining to either party, like a pair of ſcales that hang even, neither ſide lift up, or depreſſed more than the other; A Mediator is not of one, Gal.3.20. ſaith the Apoſtle, Chriſt indifferently partook of both Natures, God-head, and Manhood, that ſo he might be fit to ſtand in the gap between his Father and us; he is a Prieſt according to both Natures; he is a Dayes man wholly for God, and a Dayes-man wholly for us and on our ſide.

3. Conſider of the perſon to whom Chriſt intercedes; is it not to his Father? Thou art ſure to ſpeed well, O my Soul, for God is the Father of thy Interceſſor. If I had a ſuit to ſome Majeſty, and the Prince would but mediate, I might hope to ſpeed; Chriſt is God's Prince (as I may call him) and in reſpect of us, The firſt begotten of many Brethren; and herein is thy rejoycing, that the party offended is Chriſt's own Father, and in Chriſt, thy Father, fathers cannot be cruel to their own dear children; What man amongſt you, whom if Mat.7.9, 10,11. his ſon ask bread, he will give him a ſtone; or if he ask a fiſh, will he give him a ſerpent? If ye then being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more ſhall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that aſk him? and eſpecially if Chriſt himſelf aſk?

4. Conſider of the perſons for whom Chriſt intercedes, it is for all the Elect, and in particular for thee. O the ſweet of this one meditation! if I knew that my name were written in Heaven, ſhould I not (as Chriſt bids me) rejoyce in this? Oh but what is it to have my name written in the cheif part of Heaven? what is it to have my name written in the breaſtplate of Jeſus Chriſt? come, read O my ſoul, is it not thus written, Iſaac, or Jacob, I have prayed, and I am praying for thee, that thy Faith fail not? Sure I am that I would not part with my hope in the privilege for all the wide world; the very conſideration of this makes me to eſteem of all the world as droſs and dogs-meat. And oh that ever the world, or, fleſh, or devil, ſhould ſteal this meditation out of my heart! Oh that ever I ſhould forget that Chriſt is gone to Heaven, that he is entred into the Holy of Holies, and that he carries my name into the preſence of God the Father! I ſpeak the ſame to thee that readeſt, if thou art a Believer, there is no doubt of it, but Chriſt is ſpeaking a good word to his Father in thy behalf; he can no more forget thee in his interceſſions than a Mother with full breaſt can forget her ſucking child, that ſhe ſhould not have compaſſion on the Son of her womb: Now if ever, Look up to Jeſus, yea look, & never leave looking, till thou ſpieſt thy own name writ on his heart; it is enough to fix thy ſoul, and to make it dwell on Jeſus Chriſt thus carrying thee on his ſhoulders, and bearing thee on his breaſt-plate, for a memorial unto his Father in Heaven,

Luke 10. 20.

5. Conſider of the agreement and difference betwixt Chriſts interceſſions, and the interceſſions of the High-prieſts of old; they did both intercede, but Chriſt's interceſſions are ever in a meer tranſcendent, eminent way: Chriſt is more faithful in his office and place then ever High-Prieſt was; Chriſt is more compaſſionate and pitiful then ever High-Prieſt was; and hence it is that he hath the Title of πολυσπλαγχνος, one of many commiſerations; all is mercy, and love, and ſweetneſs, and more than motherly affection that comes from Chriſt, O my ſoul, why ſhould thou ſay with Iſrael. My way is hidden from the Lord, and my judgment is paſſed over by my God? as if Jeſus Chriſt had left thee out of the count of his people, and out of the roll of thoſe whom he is to look after. No, no; he is a faithful and merciful High-Prieſt; far abve all the High-Prieſts of the Old Teſtament; and if they were ſo careful not to leave out of their Breaſt-plate one Name of all the Twelve Tribes; how much more careful is CHRIST not to leave out thy Name in his Interceſſion? From this Argument of Chriſt's compaſſion, and Chriſt's faithfulneſs, the Apoſtle calls on us to conſider the Apoſtle and High-Prieſt of our profeſſion CHRIST JESUS, who was faithful to him that appointed him, above Aaron, Moſes, or any of the High-Prieſts; why, conſider Him O my ſoul; this Goſpel-High-prieſt is well worthy indeed of thy conſideration.

James 5. 11.

Iſa. 40. 27.

Heb. 3. 1, 2.

6. Conſider of the properties of Chriſt's interceſſion; is it not heavenly and glorious, effectual and prevailing, and of all other the tranſactions of our ſalvation, whileſt this world laſts, the moſt perfective and conſummate; O give me the interceſſions of Chriſt above all the interceſſion of Men or Angels. I know the Saints on earth pray mutually one for another, but they pray not in their own names, or for their own merits, but in the Name and for the merits of Jeſus Chriſt; and as for the Saints and Angels in Heaven, Cyprian and Jerome ſeem to grant, that they pray for the ſtate of the Church Militant; but if ſo, they do it only of charity, as Brethren, not of office as Mediators; they do it only for the Church in general, and not for any particular man or member of the Militant Church; ſuch an interceſſion as this, ſo heavenly ſo effectual, ſo perfective of our ſalvation, ſo authoritative and publick, found upon the ſatisfactory merits of the perſon interceding, is proper only to Chriſt. I would be glad of the prayers of all the Churches of Chriſt; O that there were not a Saint on the earth, but that I were by name in his morning and evening prayer (whoſoever thou art that readeſt, I beſeech thee Pray for me); but above all let me have a property in thoſe prayers and interceſſions that are proper only to Chriſt; I am ſure then I ſhould never miſcarry; Chriſt's prayers are heavenly, glorious, and very effectual.

Cyr. Epiſt. Hier. lib. ad verſ. Vigil.

7. Conſider of the particulars wherein more eſpecially Chriſt's interceſſion conſiſts: Is it not in the preſenting of his perſon, blood, prayers, interpellations? is it not in the preſenting of our perſons, performancies, pleas or anſwers to the accuſations of Satan? men little think how buſie our Mediator, Sponſor, Solicitor, Advocate is now in Heaven for us; men little think that Chriſt is appearing, and his blood is crying, and his prayers are aſcending, and his robe of righteouſneſs is covering us, and the iniquity of our holy things: O my ſoul look up, conſider Jeſus thy Saviour in theſe reſpects! I am perſuaded, if thou didſt but know, if thou couldſt but ſee, what a deal of work Chriſt hath in hand; and how he carries it on for thy ſalvation, it would melt thy heart into very tears of joy. Whilſt Chriſt was on earth, and his Mother had loſt him, he could then ſay, Wiſt ye not that I muſt go about my Father's buſineſs? now Chriſt is in Heaven, he is about the ſame buſineſs ſtill; all his employment in Heaven is to intercede for us, that we may be ſaved: very true, there is much in this interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt; it is a tree of many branches, and every branch fruitful; ſo that if thou wouldſt enlarge thy Meditation in this wide Ocean of delights, there is room enough; but herein I muſt leave thee in the duty, for I can but point at the ſeveral particulars whereon thou mayeſt enlarge: O think on it, that Chriſt, and Chriſt's blood, and Chriſt's prayers ſhould be all at work! that Chriſt ſhould play the Advocate, and plead thy cauſe, and perfume thy duties in this incenſe; and take thy perſon in an unperceivable way to God his Father, and cry there, O my Father be merciful to this ſinner, pardon his ſins, and ſave his ſoul for the ſake of Jeſus: O bleſſed mediation! O bleſſed is the man, that on this bleſſed object knows how to meditate both day and night.

Luke 2. 49.

8. Conſider of the power and prevalency of Chriſt's interceſſions with his Father. Is he not to this purpoſe a Prieſt to God, and called thereto by God? is he not the Son of God, yea, God himſelf? is he not God's Darling? God's Commander, as well as Petitioner? nay is not the hand of God himſelf in this deſign? is not the Father's heart as much towards us as our ſalvation, as Chriſt's own heart? as ſure then as Chriſt is gone into Heaven with thy name engraven on his heart, ſo ſure ſhalt thou follow him, and be with him where he is. Who ſhall lay any thing to the charge of God's Elect? who is he that condemneth? where Chriſt becomes Patron to defend againſt the ſentence of damnation, it is in vain for Sin, or Law, or Satan, to attempt any thing: for as an innocent perſon is ſafe ſo long as he hath his learned Advocate to anſwer all Objections; ſo it is with Believers, who have Chriſt himſelf both Judge and Advocate; a ſure Advocate he ever prevails in whatſoever he undertakes;

he was never yet caſt in any ſuit; he hath for theſe Sixteen Hundred years carried away all the cauſes of hundreds, thouſands, and millions of ſouls; why, he is ſo dear and near to his Father, that he can work him to any thing he will: And, O my ſoul, if thou haſt any relation to Jeſus Chriſt, is not here comfort? I dare in the Name of Chriſt be thy warrant and give it under my hand, that if Chriſt pray for thee, Chriſt will be ſure to ſave thee; he never yet failed, he never will fail in any of his ſuits to God: O! conſider of this!

9. Conſider of the reaſons of Chriſt's interceſſion: many are given, but this may be ſufficient, It is God's own Ordinance; the very wiſdom of God found out this way to ſave our Souls, viz. that an High-Prieſt ſhould be appointed, who ſhould die for Sinners, and afterward preſent his death to his Father by way of interceſſion in their behalf. Some may look upon this as needleſs, what! could not God have pardoned our Sins, and ſaved our Souls without a Prieſt? I ſhall not diſpute God's power, but if any will, let ſuch a one tell me what way could his own wiſdom have found out to heaven, between the wrath of God, and the ſin of man? I believe it would have poſed all the wiſdom of the World (of Men and Angels) to have reconciled God's mercy in the ſalvation of Man, and his juſtice in the condemnation of ſin; to have poured out hell upon the ſin, and yet to have beſtowed Heaven upon the Sinner; now then, if God himſelf did ſtudy to find out this way, and that he hath ſaid, This is my pleaſure, that Chriſt my Son ſhall be a Prieſt, and that he ſhall offer himſelf, and preſent himſelf, and his offering, and his prayer to me for his People: O my ſoul reſt on this as the very ordination of God; admire at the contrivance of God; ſay, O the depth! queſtion no farther, only meditate, and ponder, and conſider it till thou feelſt Chriſt's interceſſion darting its influence aud efficacy on thy ſinſick ſoul.

Sect. 3. Of deſiring after Jeſus in that reſpect.

6. LET us deſire after Jeſus carrying on this work of our Salvation in his Interceſſion. I cannot but wonder what a dulneſs ſeizes on my heart, and on all the hearts of the Sons of Men, that we have no more longings after Chriſt, whoſe heart is ever panting and longing after us: Surely we do not ſet our ſelves to find out experimentally the ſweetneſs that is in Chriſt, if there were not another Object to think upon, but only this one of CHRIST's Interceſſion, is not here enough to put us all into a teeming longing Frame? O my Soul, rouze up, and ſet this bleſſed Object before thy face? take a full view of it, until thy affections begin to warm, and thou beginneſt to cry, Oh for my part in Chriſt's Interceſſion! Oh I would not be left out of Chriſt's heavenly prayers, for ten thouſand Worlds! come and be ſerious! the Object is admirably ſweet and precious; long for it, pant after it! God underſtands the Rhetorick of thy breathing, as well as of thy cry. But what is there in Chriſt's Interceſſion that's ſo deſirable? I anſwer——

1. In Chriſt's Interceſſion lies the preſent Tranſactionof our ſouls ſalvation. Such paſſages as hitherto we have ſpoken of, are done and paſt; the tranſactions of eternity, were at an end when time began; the tranſactions of Chriſt promiſed, had their period when Chriſt was incarnate; the tranſactions of Chriſt's birth, and life, and death, and reſurrection, and aſcenſion, are now above a thouſand and ſix hundred years old: I know the vertue and influence of all theſe tranſactions continue, and will continue for ever and ever, but the ſeveral actings had their periods; and only Chriſt's ſeſſion, and miſſion of his ſpirit, and his bleſſed interceſſion both were, and now are the very preſent imployment of Jeſus Chriſt. If it were poſſible, that we could ſee into Heaven, if with Stephen we could look up ſtedfaſtly, and ſee the Heavens opened; if our eyes by an extraordinary power were carryed through that azure ſky, and through all, till we come to the Holy of Holies, and to Jeſus Chriſt in his glory, what ſhould we ſee but Chriſt interceding, Chriſt buſy with his Father in his poor Saints behalf? now he prays, now he preſents his perſon, merits, interceſſion, interpellation, q. d. Father, here are a company of Rebels juſtly fallen under thy diſpleaſure, they deſerve to be ſet at an eternal diſtance from thee, but I muſt needs have them pardoned, and received into thy boſom; come, make thine own terms, let juſtice require never ſo great ſatisfaction, I have paid a price ſufficient for all, and effectual for them; give them what Laws thou pleaſeſt I will undertake they ſhall obſerve them; and to this purpoſe away, away holy ſpirit, go [illegible] ſuch and ſuch ſouls; enable them to their duties, yea enable them in duty, and ſanctify them throughout in ſouls, bodies and ſpirits. Why, this is the preſent tranſaction of Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore moſt deſirable; methinks I long to know what Chriſt is now a doing in Heaven for my ſoul; and is it not thus, is not all his time ſpent either in reading pardons, for his redeemed ones, or in preſenting petitions from them, and pleading for them. Surely he is ſtill interceding every day, it is his preſent work for our ſouls, O deſirable work!

2. In this preſent tranſaction lies the application of all Chriſt's former actings, whether of his habitual righteouſneſs, or of his active and paſſive obedience. All theſe paſſages of Chriſt's Incarnation, Conception, Circumciſion, Birth, Life, and Death, which more eſpecially we look upon, as the meritorious cauſes of our ſalvation, had been nothing to us, if they had not been applyed by Chriſt: they were the means of impetration, but Chriſt's interceſſion is the means of application: Chriſt purchaſed ſalvation by thoſe precedaneous acts, but he poſſeſſeth us of our ſalvation by this perfective, and conſummate Act of his interceſſion. The Order of this is laid down by the Apoſtle, in that firſt, He learned obedience Heb. 5. 8. 9, 10. by the things which he ſuffered, and then being made perfect, he became the Author (or applying Cauſe) of Eternal Salvation to all them that obey him; being to this purpoſe, Called of God an High-prieſt: after the order of Melchizedeck Now is not this the deſirable act above all other acts? Alas! what am I better for a Mine of Gold in ſuch, or ſuch, or ſuch a field, in which I have no propriety at all? I am throughly convinc'd that Chriſt's merits are moſt precious merits, but oh that they were mine! Oh that Chriſt's interceſſions would bring the ſalve, and lay it to my ſore! Oh that I could hear that voice from Heaven, My ſon, I was incarnate for thee, and conceived for thee, and born for thee, and circumciſed for thee, and I did the Law, and ſuffered the penalty for thee; and now I am interceding that thy very ſoul may have the benefit of all my doings, and of all my ſufferings. Why, if Chriſt's interceſſions be the applying cauſe, if it bring home to my ſoul all the former tranſactions of Chriſt, ſaying, All theſe are thine, even thine, oh how deſirable muſt this interceſſion be?

3. In this application lies that communication and fellowſhip which we have with the Father and the Son: I pray for theſe, that as thou Father art in me, and I in thee, that they alſo may be one in us. Joh. 17. 21. Uuderſtand this ſoberly, we cannot think that there ſhould be that oneneſs in equality betwixt God and us, as betwixt God and Chriſt; no no, but there is oneneſs in ſimilitude and reallity, even in this life; by vertue of Chriſt's interceſſion we we have oneneſs with God and Chriſt, not only in Comforts, but alſo in Graces; I pray you mark this: When I ſpeak of communion with God in this life, I mean eſpecially the Communication of Grace between God and the Soul; on God's part there's a ſpecial influence of Grace and favour to Man; and on Man's part, there is a ſpecial return of Grace and Honour to God. Some trembling Souls are apt to think, that all Communion with God and Chriſt conſiſts only in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, whereas Chriſtians may as really and advantagiouſly have communion with God in ſecret conveyances of Grace, inward ſupports, in a concealed acceptation of ſervice, in the hiden drawings of the ſoul God-ward, as in the more open, and comfortable manifeſtations of God unto the ſoul; Communion with God is a familiar friendſhip (I ſpeak it in an holy humble ſence) now do we not as uſually go to a friend for counſel and advice, as for comfort and cheering? In a Friend's Boſom we intruſt our ſorrows as well as our joys. Suppoſe a Soul even ſpiritually overwhelmed, and ready to break, betaking it ſelf unto God, and venting it ſelf before the Lord; now if afterwards the ſoul hath no more eaſe, than by the bare lancing of the ſore, if God pours in no Balm at all, but only gives ſupport; ſhall we ſay that this ſoul in this caſe hath no Communion with God? O yes! In God's ſecret Viſits of the ſoul, and in the ſoul's reſtleſs groping after God, tho' nothing but darkneſs be apprehended, yet that ſoul lives in the light of God's Countenance; the Sun ſhines, though a Cloud interpoſeth; God ſmiles, though the ſoul doth not perceive it; or certainly thou haſt his ſtrengthening-ſupporting the preſence, if not his ſhining; now this is the fruit of Chriſt's bleſſed interceſſion; and John 17. 23. this is the ſubject-matter of Chriſt's interceſſions, O my Father, that theſe may be one in us; I in them, and thou in me; I in them by the influence and power of my Spirit, and thou in me by the fulneſs and power of God head. And is not this a moſt deſirable thing.

4. In this Communion lies the Viſion and fruition of Jeſus Chriſt in Glory, Grace brings to Glory; If Communion here, we ſhall have Communion hereafter; and this alſo is a part of Chriſt's prayer
John 17. 24. and interceſſion, Father I will that they alſo whom thou haſt given me may be with me where I am, that they may behold my glory which thou haſt given me. Jeſus cannot be in Heaven long without his Saints; indeed it is impoſſible that Chriſt ſhould be in Heaven, and that pieces and bits of Chriſt-myſtical ſhould be in Hell, or yet long on Earth. Chriſt will draw in his Legs and Members on earth up nearer to the Head; certainly Chriſt and you that are Believers, muſt be under one roof e'er long. Is not he gone before to prepare a place, yea, John 14. 2. many manſions for you; we think them happy on earth that have their many ſtately Halls and all Places; their Summer, and their Winter-Houſes. O Chriſtians! How happy will you be when you come to be Lords and Heirs of many ſtately manſions in the Streets of Heaven? But what ſpeak I of Manſions now I am naming Chriſt? Manſions are nothing, many Manſions are but little, yea, many Manſions in Chriſt's Fathers houſe, are but created Chips of happineſs, in compariſon of that Communion which by vertue of Chriſt's interceſſion we ſhall have with Chriſt. It is the ſaying of an eminently learned holy Divine, I ſhould refuſe Heaven (ſaith he) if Chriſt were not there; take Chriſt away from Heaven, and it's but a poor, dark, heartleſs dwelling; Heaven without Chriſt would look as the direful Land of Death. And therefore, after Chriſt had ſpoke of many Manſions, and of a place that he would prepare for his Saints; he adds farther to increaſe their joy, I will come again (ſaith he,) and receive you unto my ſelf, that John 14. 3.
where I am, there ye may be alſo. Manſions are but as places of Bryars and Thorns without Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore I would have Heaven for Chriſt, and not have Chriſt for Heaven; O this Communion with Chriſt is above all deſirable, and this is the ſubject-matter of Chriſt's Prayer; Father, I would have the Saints to be with me where I am, that they may behold my Glory. Why, this is the Communion which the Saints ſhall have with Chriſt, never will their Eyes be off him, never will their Thoughss wander after any other Objects; O the intimacy that will be then betwixt Chriſt and Chriſtians! O what Communication of Glory will there be to each other! Theſe ſhall walk with me (ſaith Chriſt) for they Rev. 3. 4.

O my ſoul, if this be the buſineſs of Chriſt's interceſſion, if all theſe particulars are contained in the bowels of this one tranſaction, how is it that thou art not in a fainting Swoon? How is it that thou art not gaſping, groaning, ſick unto Death with the vehement thirſt after thy part and portion in Chriſt's interceſſion? If there be ſuch a thing as the paſſion of deſire in this heart of mine, O that now it would break out! Oh that it would vent it ſelf with mighty Longings, and infinite Aſpirings after this bleſſed Object! Why, Lord, I deſire, but help thou my faint deſires; blow on my dying ſpark, it is but little; and if I know any thing of my heart, I would have it more; O that my ſpark would flame! Why Lord, I deſire that I might deſire; O breath it into me, and I will deſire after thee.

Sect. 4. Of hoping in Jeſus in this reſpect.

4. LET us hope in Jeſus, carrying on this work of our ſalvation in his interceſſion. It is good that a man ſhould hope. Indeed if it were not for
Lam. 3. 26. hope, the heart would not hold; only, look that our hope be true hope: very hypocrites have a kind of hope, but if God's Word be true, The hope of unjuſt men ſhall periſh —— What is the hope of the Hypo-

riſh, his hope ſhall be cut off, and his truſt ſhall be as a Spider's web. O my ſoul, hope in Jeſus, but reſt not Job 8. 13, 14.
till thou canſt give a reaſon of thy hope, till thou canſt prove that they are the hopes which Grace, and not only Nature hath wrought; that they are grounded upon Scripture-promiſes, and ſound evidences; that they purifie the heart; that the more thou hopeſt, the leſs thou ſinneſt; that they depend on ſure and infallible cauſes, as on the truth, power, and mercy of God; on the merits, mediation, and interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt; what? is this laſt amongſt the reſt (I mean the interceſſion of Chriſt) the ſpring of thy hope? canſt thou follow the ſtream, till it brings thee to this Fountain, or well-head of hope, that now thou canſt ſay, O this interceſſion is mine? come, ſearch, and try, it is worth the pains; and to put thee out of queſtion, and in a more facile way of diſcerning, I ſhall lay down theſe ſigns. As. ——

1. If Chriſt's interceſſion be mine, then is the Spirits interceſſion mine; or if thou wouldſt rather argue from the affect to the cauſe, then thus; if the Spirit's interceſſion be mine, then is Chriſt's interceſſion mine. In this caſe we need not to aſcend up into Heaven to learn the truth, rather let us deſcend into our own hearts, and look whether Chriſt have given us of his ſpirit, which makes us cry unto God with ſighs and groans which cannot be expreſſed; he that will know whether the Sun ſhine in the Firmament, he muſt not climb into the clouds to look, rather he muſt ſearch for the beam thereof upon the earth; which when he ſees, he may conclude, that the Sun ſhines in the Firmament: O come and let us ranſack our own conſciences; let us ſearch whether we feel the Spirit of Chriſt crying in us, Abba Father: certainly theſe two are as the cauſe and the effect; Chriſt's interceſſion in Heaven, and his Spirits interceſſion are as twins of a birth? or rather ſuch is the concatenation of theſe two, that Chriſt's interceſſion in Heaven breeds another interceſſion in the hearts of his Saints. It is the ſame Spirit dwelling in Chriſt, and in all his Members, that moves and ſtirs them up to cry, Abba Father. Here then is my Argument, if Chriſt hath put his ſpirit into thy heart, and if the Spirit hath ſet thine heart on work to make inceſſant interceſſions for thy ſelf, then is Chriſt's Interceſsion thine. There is a kind of a round in the carrying on of this great work of Interceſſion; as, 1. Chriſt intercedes for his people, O that my Spirit might go down! 2. God hearkens to the interceſſion of Chriſt, Away, holy ſpirit, get thee down into the hearts of ſuch and ſuch. 3. The ſpirit waits on the pleaſure of them both, and no ſooner down, but he ſends up his interceſſion back again: Chriſt cries to God, and God ſends the ſpirit, and the ſpirit goes and ecchoes in the hearts of Saints to the cries of Chriſt. Much of this is contained in that one Text, God hath ſent forth the Spirit of his Son

Gal.4.6. into our heart, κρᾶζον crying, (as if he meerly acted our tongues) Abba Father, here is God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghoſt, and all are acting their parts on the elect people of God: the Son intercedes, O that my ſpirit may be given to theſe; the Father willingly grants, Away holy ſpirit, and as my Son asketh, enter, and take poſſeſſion of thoſe ſinful hearts; the holy ſpirit obeys, and no ſooner in the hearts of his Saints, but he cries in them Abba Father; God hears Chriſt, and the ſpirit hears God, and the elects hear the ſpirit; and now becauſe the Spirit ſpeaks in the Elect, God hears the Elect; much like unto this is that of the prophet, And it ſhall come to paſs in that day, I will hear Hoſea 2. 21. ſaith the Lord, I will hear the heavens, and they ſhall hear the earth, and the earth ſhall hear the corn, and wine, and oyl, and they ſhall hear Jezreel. O my ſoul, to the teſt! hath God ſent forth the ſpirit of his Son into thy heart? haſt thou the in-dwelling of the Spirit; and now by the help of the ſpirit canſt thou pray with earneſtneſs, confidence, and an holy importunity? canſt thou cry Abba Father? Canſt thou cry] with earneſtneſs? Father] with confidence? and Abba Father] or Father, Father] with an holy importunity? why, theſe are the very ſigns of the ſpirit's interceſſion. O my ſoul that thou wouldſt deal faithfully with thy own ſelf; canſt thou by the help of the ſpirit go to thy Father in the name of Chriſt? as Chriſt is gone before into the holy of holies to intercede; ſo canſt thou with boldneſs follow after, and enter into the holieſt by the Heb.10. 19. blood of Jeſus? Canſt thou ſay God hath given me his ſpirit, and his ſpirit hath ſhewed me Chriſt as my mediator at the right hand of God; and now under the wing of ſuch a Mediator, I can by the Spirit's aſſiſtance go with boldneſs (μετα ποῤῥησιας with aſſuming a liberty) to ſpeak any thing I will in the ears of God? Surely this is the fruit, the effect of Chriſt's interceſſion, and therefore thou mayeſt comfortably conclude, Chriſt's interceſſion is mine.

2. If at any time in the midſt of duties I am ſavingly affected, then is Chriſt's interceſſion mine Sometimes it pleaſeth God to appear in ordinances, and the ſoul is comforted, quickened, enlarged, affected; why, now I look on this as the efficacy of Chriſt's Blood and as the power of Chriſt's interceſſion; at that very inſtant that I feel any good in any Ordinance of Chriſt, why then, even then is Chriſt prevailing with God his Father for what I feel; then, even then may I boldly ſay, Now is the Lord Jeſus, who is at God's right hand in Heaven, remembring me a poor worm on earth: Oh how I feel the fruit of his interceſſion; Oh what is this ſpirit, power, grace, comfort, ſweetneſs I drink of, but a taſte of the hony-comb with the end of my rod, dropping from the interceſſions of Jeſus Chriſt; And if this preſence of Chriſt's Spirit be ſo ſweet, what is himſelf then? I know we had need to be wary in laying down this ſign, it is clearly proved by an eminent Divine, that ſweet motions of heart in holy things are not infallible Evidences of grace: The third kind of hearers are ſaid to re- Mr. Burges of Aſſurace.

who yet have no true grace; ſo it may be, that the novelty, and ſtrangeneſs of a Doctrine may much affect and delight; or the nature of the Doctrine as it is comfortable, without any reſpect to ſpiritual operation, may exceedingly affect; or the Miniſter's Abilities, becauſe of his Parts, Eloquence, Elocution, Affectionate Utterance may much delight, and ſtir up the Hearers affections; fine head-notions may produce ſome affectionate heart-motion; but what ſymptom of Grace in all this? The ſign therefore I lay down of my propriety in Chriſt's interceſſions is not every ſweet motion, or every excited affection, but that which is holy, ſpiritual, heavenly, ſaving; I may diſcern much of this, If I will but look into the grounds and effects of my excited, or ſtirred up affections; if the ground thereof be fetched from Heaven, and in their effect they tend towards Heaven; if they wean my heart from the World; if they elevate and raiſe up my affections to things above; if they form, and frame my Converſation Heavenwards, then may I be aſſured theſe motions and affections are of the right ſtamp; for all ſuch motions are but ſparks of that heavenly fire, the flame whereof is mindful of its own original; they are the fruits of Chriſt, and they go back to Chriſt; they work towards their Center, they tend towards the place from whence they came; and in this reſpect, O that I could never hear a Sermon, without a ſavory affection of what I hear! O that I could never go to prayer without ſome warmth, and heat, and life. and fervency! Oh that in every duty I were ſavingly affected, that I felt the ſavour of Chriſt's Oyntments, whoſe Name, and whoſe interceſſion is as an Oyntment poured forth! in times of the Old Teſtament, if they offered up a Sacrifice, and a material fire came down from Heaven, and burnt the Sacrifice to aſhes, it was a certain Teſtimony that the Sacrifice was accepted: Now in the time of the Goſpel we muſt not expect material fire to come down upon our duties, but that the Lord at any time cauſed an inward and ſpiritual fire to fall down upon thy heart warming thy ſpirit in duty? And carrying it up Heaven-ward? Surely if ſo, thou mayeſt ſafely conclude, theſe are the very effects of Chriſt's interceſſion; his interceſſion is mine.

3. If in my heart I feel a holy frame, diſpoſition, inclination; to pray, cry, and intercede for others, eſpecially for the miſeries and diſtreſſes of the Church of God, then is Chriſt's interceſſion mine. We ſhould (as near as we may) in every thing conform to Chriſt; and this Conformity is an evidence or ſign to us of our intereſt in Chriſt: O my ſoul go down into the inmoſt Cloſet of the Heart, look what diſpoſition there is in it towards the Members of Chriſt; and thou mayeſt conclude, there is in Chriſt's heart the very ſame diſpoſition towards thee. Ah! Do I think there is love in my boſom towards the Saints, and that there is no love in Chriſt's boſom towards me? What? Can I think that my narrow, ſtraitned, ſinful bowels are larger than thoſe wide, compaſſionate, tender bowels of Jeſus Chriſt? As a drop of water is in compariſon of the Ocean, and as a gravel ſtone is in compariſon of the ſand, ſo is my heart to Chriſt's, and my love to Chriſt's, and my bowels to Chriſt's. Come then, and try by this 1 John 3. 14,16. ſign; Hereby we know that we are tranſlated from death to life if we love the brethren; he loveth not his brother, abideth in death——Hereby perceive we the love of God, becauſe he laid down his life for us, and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren; is not this plain if I love the brethren, Chriſt loveth me; if I feel in my heart an holy diſpoſition to go to God, and to pray, and cry, and intercede for a Saint in miſery, ſurely the Lord Jeſus hath as much bowels towards me, to go and intercede for me, and to preſent my prayers unto God the Father; his interceſſion is mine.

4. If I am called, Juſtified, Sanctified, then is Chriſt's interceſſion mine: Are not theſe the ſubject matter of Chriſt's interceſſion? I pray (ſaith Chriſt) that thou ſhouldſt keep them from the evil.——I pray John 17, 15, 17,20, 24. that thou wouldſt ſanctifie them through the truth! Neither pray I for theſe alone, but for them alſo which ſhall believe on me through their word or preaching; Father I will that thoſe whom thou haſt given me, be with me in glory. He firſt prays that we may be called and juſtified, and then he prays that we may be ſanctified and ſaved: He holds at both ends of this Golden Chain of our ſalvation; the one end is hanged at his breaſt, where the names of all his Saints are written; and the other end is at his heart, that he may be the Author and finiſher, the firſt and laſt, the beginning and ending of our ſouls ſalvation: Alas! There is nothing in us, in our reach here below; the firſt ſtirrings of grace is up in Heaven at the right hand of the Father; and the far end of any gracious thought is as far above us, as the heart of Chriſt is above the earth: Come then, ſith all hang on this great pin of Chriſt's interceſſion; let us ſearch and try, are we called? Do we believe on the Son? Are we ſanctified in ſome meaſure? Are we kept from the evil, that ſin may not have dominion over us? Hath Chriſt put up theſe Prayers in our behalf, that now we feel (as it were) and experience the truth of Chriſt's prevailings with his Father in our Hearts and Lives? O ſure ſigns that Chriſt's interceſſion is ours; away, away, all diffidence, doubting, wavering, fluctuating hopes; a ſoul thus grounded may with Paul caſt the Ganlet, and bid defiance to all the World, Who ſhall lay any thing to the Rom. 8. 34. charge of God's Elect, who is he that condemneth? It is Chriſt that died, yea rather that is riſen again, who is even at the right hand of God, and who alſo maketh interceſſion for us.

Sect. 5. Of believing in Jeſus in that reſpect.

5. LEt us believe in Jeſus, as carrying on this great work of our ſalvation in his interceſſion: wounded ſpirits are full of ſcruples, and thus they cry, My ſins will never be forgiven; have not I ſinned againſt God and Chriſt, and the Spirit of Chriſt? Had I not my hands imbrued in the blood of his Son? And have not I trodden under foot the blood of God, and will that blood that I have ſhed, and trod on, intercede for my pardon? Had I but gone ſo far as the Jews did, who indeed killed and crucified Chriſt I might have had ſome hopes, becauſe they knew not what they did, and therefore Chriſt prayed, Father forgive them, for they know not what they do. But alas! I ſinned, and I knew well enough what, and wherein I have ſinned: Had they 1 Cor. 2. 8. known (ſaith the Apoſtle) *they would not have crucified the Lord of Glory; but alas I knew it, and I was fully convinced, that the commiſſion of every ſin is a crucifying of Chriſt, and yet againſt knowledge, and judgment, and light, and checks of my own conſcience, I have crucyfied the Lord of glory, and is not the Apoſtle expreſs? it is im*Heb. 6. 4, 6.poſſible for thoſe who where once enlightened, and have taſted of the heavenly gift,——if they fall away, to renew them again unto repentance, ſeeing they crucifie to themſelves, the Son of God afreſh, and put him to an open ſhame, Oh I fear my name is not in the roll of thoſe for whom Chriſt intercedes, I have crucified him afreſh, and will he intercede for ſuch a dead dog as I am? I cannot believe. Silence, unbelief! Be not tyrannical to thy ſelf, for Chriſt will not, ſin ſhall do thee no hurt, nor Satan, no nor God himſelf, for Jeſus Chriſt can work him to any thing; if he but open his wounds in heaven, he will ſo work his Father, that thy wounds on earth ſhall cloſe up preſently. O but I have ſinned againſt light; and what then? I hope thou haſt not ſinned Heb. 10. 26, 27. wilfully, maliciouſly, diſpightfully againſt the light: the Apoſtle tells us, that if we ſin wilfully, after we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more ſacrifice for ſins, but a certain looking for of judgment, and fiery indignation. Theſe two Texts in Heb. 6. 4. and 10. 26. are parallel, and give light to each other; and therefore, unleſs thy ſin be the unpardonable ſin, unleſs wilfully, maliciouſly, and diſpightfully, thou haſt crucified Chriſt, as ſome of the Jews did, never paſs a doom of final condemnation on thy ſoul: What is there no difference betwixt a ſin done wilfully, or purpoſely, of malice with delight; and againſt the feeling of thy own conſcience; and a ſin done of meer ignorance, in confederacy, infirmity, or through a ſtrong temptation, though againſt light it ſelf? I know there is a light given in by God's Word, and ſome beam of the Holy Ghoſt, which yet never penetrated ſo far as to transform and regenerate the ſoul wholly to God's Image; and in ſuch a caſe a man may fall away even into an univerſal fall, a general Apoſtaſie; but doſt thou not hope better things of thy ſelf than ſo? I ſuppoſe thou doſt; O then believe! O believe thy part in Chriſt's interceſſion! and for the directions of thy Faith, that thou mayeſt know how, or in what manner to believe, obſerve theſe particulars in their order: As——

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt.
2. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh.
3. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh made under the Law.
4. Faith muſt go to Chriſt made under the directive part of the Law by his life, and under the Penal part of the Law by his Death.
5. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as put to death in the Fleſh, and as quickened by the Spirit.
6. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as quickened by the Spirit, and as going up into Glory, as ſitting down at God's right hand, and as ſending the Holy Ghoſt; of all theſe before.
7. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as interceding for his Saints; this act of Chriſt is for the application of all the former acts on Chriſt's part; and our Faith cloſing with it, it is for the application of this, and all other the actings of Chriſt on our part. Now is our Faith led up very high; if we can but reach this, we may ſay, our Faith ſtands very lofty, when it may at once ſee Earth and Heaven; when it may ſee all that Chriſt hath acted for it here, and all that Chriſt doth act, and will act in Heaven for it hereafter. It is not an ordinary, ſingle, particular act of Faith that will come up to this glorious miſtery; no, no; it is a comprehenſive, perfective act, it is ſuch an act as puts the ſoul into a condition of glorious triumph, Goodwin Chriſt ſet forth Who ſhall condemn? it is Chriſt that will ſave me to the utmoſt, ſeeing he ever liveth to make interceſſion for me. That ſame word [to the uttermoſt] is a good word, and well put in; it is a reaching word, and extends it ſelf ſo far, that thou canſt not look beyond it: let thy ſoul be ſet on the higheſt mountain that ever any creature was yet ſet on, and there let thy ſoul take in, and view the moſt ſpacious proſpect both of ſin, and miſery, and difficulties of being ſaved, that ever yet any poor humbled ſoul did caſt within it ſelf, yea, joyn to theſe all the objections, and hinderances of thy ſalvation, that the heart of man can ſuppoſe or invent againſt it ſelf; lift up thy eyes, and look to the utmoſt thou canſt ſee, and Chriſt by his interceſſion is able to ſave thee beyond the Horizon, and fartheſt compaſs of thy thoughts, even to the utmoſt, and worſt caſe the heart of man can poſſibly ſuppoſe; it is not thy having lain long in ſin, or long under terrours and deſpairs? it is not thy having ſinned often under many enlightnings, that can hinder thee from being ſaved by Chriſt; do but remember this ſame word [to the utmoſt] and then put in what acception thou wilt, or canſt. O the holy triumphs of that ſoul that can but act it's faith on Chriſt's interceſſion! why, this is the moſt perfect and conſummate act of Chriſt's Prieſtly office; this argues thy Chriſt to be a perfect Mediator, and being a perfect Mediator, no condition can be deſperate; Heb 9. 5. And being made perfect, (ſaith the Apoſtle) he became the Author of eternal ſalvation unto all them that obey him; now therefore lead up thy faith to this bleſſed object, and thou haſt under conſideration the whole of Chriſt, and the total of Chriſt's actings in this world from firſt to laſt; in reſpect of mediation this is the Coronis, the up-ſhot, the period, the conſummation, the perfection of all.

8. Faith in going to Chriſt as interceding for us, it is principally and mainly to look to the purpoſe, end, intent, and deſign of Chriſt's interceſſion: now the ends of Chriſt as in the reference unto us, are theſe.—

John 17. 21. 1. That we might have communion and fellowſhip with the Father, and the Son. I pray for theſe, that as thou Father art in me, and I in thee, they alſo may be one in us.

John 14. 16, 17. 2. That we might have the gift of the Holy Ghoſt; I will pray the Father, and he ſhall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever, even the Spirit of Truth.

John 17. 15. 3. That we might have protection againſt all evil, I pray (ſaith Chriſt) that thou wouldſt keep them from the evil. Some may object, are not the Faithful ſubject to evils, corruptions, and temptations ſtill; how then is that part of the interceſſion of Chriſt made good unto us? I anſwer, the interceſſion of Chriſt is preſently available, only it is conveyed in a manner ſuitable and convenient to our preſent condition, ſo as there may be left room for another life; and therefore we muſt not conceive all preſently done; it is with us as with Malefactors doomed to death, ſuppoſe the ſupreme power ſhould grant a pardon to be drawn; though the grant be of the whole thing at once, yet it cannot be written but word after word, and line after line; ſo the grant of our protection againſt all evil is made unto Chriſt at firſt, but in the execution thereof, there is line upon line, and precept upon precept, here a little, and there a little; we know Chriſt prayed for Peter, I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; yet Peter's faith did ſhake and totter; the prayer was not, that there might be no failing at all, but that it might not utterly and totally fail; and in that reſpect Peter was protected.

4. That we might have free acceſs to the Throne of Grace; So the Apoſtle, Seeing then we have a great High Prieſt that is paſſed into the heavens, Jeſus the Son of God, let us hold faſt our profeſſion, and come boldly to the Throne of grace. Heb.4. 14. 16. And again, Having therefore boldneſs to enter into the holieſt by the blood of Jeſus, and having an high Prieſt over the Houſe of God, let us draw near with a true heart in a full aſſurance of faith. Heb 10. 23.

5. That we might have the inward interpellation of the Spirit, which is, as it were, the Eccho of Chriſt's interceſſion in our heart: The Spirit maketh interceſſion for us, with groanings which cannot be uttered. Rom.8. 26. It is the ſame Spirit groans in us; which more diſtinctly and fully in Chriſt prayeth for us. Theſe things I ſpeak in the world (ſaith our Saviour) that they might have my joy filled in themſelves. John 17. 13. q. d. I have made this prayer in the world, and left a record and pattern of it in the Church, that they feeling the ſame heavenly deſires kindled in their own hearts, may be comforted in the workings of that Spirit of prayer in them, which teſtifieth to their ſouls the quality of that interceſſion which I made for them in the Heaven of Heavens; certainly there is a dependance of our prayer on Chriſt's prayer: as it is with the Sun, though the body of it abide in the Heavens, yet the beams of it deſcend to us here on earth; ſo the interceſſion of Chriſt, though as tyed to his perſon, it is made in Heaven; yet the groans, and deſires of the touched heart, as the beams thereof, are here on earth.

6. That we might have the ſanctification of our ſervices; of this the Levitical Prieſts were a type, For they bear the iniquity of the Holy things of the children of Iſrael, that they might be accepted; Exod.28. 38. and he is the Angel of the Covenant, who hath a golden Cenſer to offer up the prayers of the Saints. Rev.8.3. Some obſerve a threefold evil in man, of every of which we are delivered by Chriſt: Firſt, an evil of ſtate or condition under the guilt of ſin: Secondly, an evil of nature under the corruption of ſin: Thirdly an evil in all our ſervices by the adherency of ſin; for that which toucheth an unclean thing, is made unclean thereby. Now Chriſt by his righteouſneſs and merits juſtifieth our perſons from the guilt of ſin; and Chriſt by his Grace and Spirit doth in meaſure purifie our faculties from the corruption of ſin; and Chriſt by his incenſe and interceſſion doth cleanſe our ſervices from the adherency of ſin; ſo that in them the Lord ſmells a ſweet ſavour; and both we and our ſervcies find acceptance with God.

7. That we might have the pardon of all ſin. It is by vertue of Chriſt's interceſſion that a Believer ſinning of infirmity, hath a pardon of courſe, for Chriſt is his Advocate to plead his caſe; or if he ſin of preſumption, and the Lord give repentance, he hath a pardon at the hands of God the Father by vertue of this interceſſion in a way of juſtice. And to this end rather is Chriſt called an Advocate than a Petitioner; If any man ſin, we have an advocate with the Father. 1 John 2. 1. The work of an Advocate differs from the work of a Petitioner; an Advocate doth not meerly petition, but he tells the Judge what is Law, and what ought to be done, and ſo doth Chriſt. O my Father (ſaith Chriſt) this ſoul hath indeed ſinned, but I have ſatisfied for his ſins, I have payed for them to the full; now therefore in a way of equity, and juſtice, I do here call for this man's pardon. If this were not ſo, our eſtate would be moſt miſerable, conſidering that for every ſin committed by us after repentance, we deſerve to be caſt out of the love and favour of God our Father for ever and ever.

8. That we might have continuance in the ſtate Luke 12. 23. of grace, I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not. Some that diſſent from us in the point of perſeverance, object, that in our Saviour's Prayer for Peter there was ſomewhat ſingular? but we ſay, that in this Prayer there is nothing ſingular, which is not common to all the faithful, and unto ſuch as are given unto Chriſt of the Father; they alledge that this privilege was granted to Peter, as an Apoſtle; but we ſay, that if it was granted to Peter, as an Apoſtle, then it was common to Peter and Judas, in that both were Apoſtles. They alledge further, that Chriſt prayes not for the abſolute perſeverance of Believers, but after a ſort, and upon condition, But we ſay the Prayer of Chriſt is certain, and not ſuſpended: in this Prayer, his deſire is not for Peter that would perſevere; but his deſire is for Peter that he ſhould perſevere; the object of the thing for which Chriſt prayes, is diſtinct from the thing it ſelf prayed for.

9. That we might have the ſalvation of our ſouls John 17. 24. in the day of Jeſus; Father I will that they alſo whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am, that they might behold my glory. Why, this is the main end in reſpect of us, our glory; and indeed herein is the main piece of our glory, to behold this glory? Oh to ſee the Lord Jeſus Chriſt glorified, as he ſhall be glorified, muſt be a glorious thing; What is it to ſee his glory, but to behold the luſtre of his Divinity thro' his humanity? In this reſpect our very eyes ſhall come to ſee God, as much as is poſſible for any creature to ſee him: we may be ſure God ſhall appear through the humanity of Chriſt, as much as is poſſible for any creature to ſee him: we we may be ſure God ſhall appear through the humanity of Chriſt, as much as is poſſible for the Divinity to appear in a creature; and therefore Men and Angels will be continually viewing of Chriſt. I know there is another glory of Chriſt which the Father will put upon him; Becauſe he humbled himſelf, therefore God will exalt him, and give him a name above Rev. 14. 4. every name; and we ſhall ſee him in this glory. O the raviſhing ſight of Saints! Chriſt is ſo lovely, that the Saints cannot leave, but they muſt, and will follow the Lamb whereſoever he goes, there ſhall be no moment to all eternity, wherein Chriſt ſhall be out of ſight to ſo many thouſand thouſands of Saints; now this is the glory of the Saints above; as a Queen that ſees the Prince in his glory; ſhe delights in it, becauſe it is her glory; ſo the Church, when ſhe ſhall ſee Chriſt Her Husband in his glory, ſhe ſhall rejoyce in it, becauſe ſhe looks upon it as her own, Is not this a bleſſed end of Chriſt's interceſſion? why, hither tend all the reſt; all the other ends end in this; and for this, above all, Chriſt intercedes to his Father, Cant. 3. 11. Father, I would have my Saints with me, O that all the daughters of Zion may behold King Solomon with the Crown wherewith thou haſt crowned in the day of his Eſpouſals and in the day of the gladneſs of his heart.

Only one Queſtion, and I have done; how ſhould I ſet ~~my faith~~ on work to act on Chriſt's interceſſion for theſe ends? I anſwer.——

1. Faith muſt perſwade it ſelf that here is a vertue in Chriſt's interceſſion. Certainly every paſſage and acting of Chriſt hath its efficacy, and therefore there is vertue in this; it is full of juice, it hath a ſtrong influence in it.

2. Faith muſt conſider that it is the deſign of God, and the intentment of Chriſt, that this interceſſion ſhould be for the good of thoſe that are given to Chriſt. O there's enough in Chriſt, enough in Chriſt's interceſſion to convey communion, the Spirit, protection, free acceſs to the Throne of Grace, a Spirit of prayer, pardon of ſins, continuance in grace, ſalvation of ſouls to the Saints, and people of God, through all the world; and this is the deſign of God, that Chriſt's interceſſion ſhould be as the fountain whence all theſe ſtreams muſt run, and be conveyed unto us.

3. Faith muſt act dependantly upon the interceſſion of Chriſt, for in theſe very ends; this is the very nature of Faith, it relyes upon God in Chriſt, and upon all the actings of Chriſt and upon all the promiſes of Chriſt: ſo then, Is there a deſirable end in Chriſt's interceſſion which we aim at? O let us act our faith dependantly, let us rely, ſtay, or lean upon Chriſt to that ſame end; let us roll our ſelves or caſt our ſelves upon the very interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt: Saying, O my Chriſt, there is enough in thee, and in this glorious interceſſion of thine, and therefore there will I ſtick, and abide for ever.

4. Faith muſt ever and anon be trying, improving, wreſtling with God, that vertue may go out of Chriſt's interceſſion into our hearts. I have heard Lord, that there is an office erected in heaven, that Chriſt, as Prieſt, ſhould be ever praying, and interceding for his people: O that I may feel the efficacy of Chriſt's interceſſion! Am I now in prayer? O that I could feel in this prayer, the warmth, and heat, and ſpiritual fire, which uſually falls down from Chriſt's interceſſion into the hearts of his? Lord warm my ſpirit in this duty; give me the kiſſes of thy mouth; O that I may now have communion with thee, thy Spirit upon me, thy protection over me! O that my pardon may be ſealed, my grace confirmed, my ſoul ſaved in the day of Jeſus! In this method, O my ſoul, follow on; and who knows but God may appear e're thou art aware? howſoever, be thou in the uſe of the meanst and leave the iſſue with God.

Sect. 6. Of loving Jeſus in that Reſpect.

6. LET us love Jeſus, as carrying on this great work of our ſalvation in his interceſſion. Now two things more eſpecially will excite our love. 1. Chriſt's love to us. 2. Our propriety in Chriſt. For the firſt, many acts of Chriſt's love have appeared before, and every one is ſufficient to draw our loves to him again. As——

1. He had an eternal love to man; he feaſted himſelf on the thoughts of love, delight, and free-grace to man from all eternity; ſince God was God (O boundleſs duration) the Lord Jeſus in a manner was loving and longing for the dawning of the day of the Creation; he was (as it were) with Child of infinite love to man before he made the world. Some obſerve, that the firſt words which ever Chriſt wrote, were, Love to Believers: and theſe were written with glory, for it was before gold was, and they were written upon his boſom for then other Books were not.

2. In the beginning of time he loved man above all creatures, for after he had made them all, he then ſpake as he never did before. Let us make man in our image, after our likeneſs, and let him have dominion over the fiſh of the ſea, and over all the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth; and though Gen. 1. 26. man at that very inſtant unmade himſelf by ſins, Chriſt's love yet was not broken off, but held forth in a promiſe till the day of performance, The ſeed of the woman ſhall bruiſe the Serpents head, and in thy ſeed ſhall all the Nations of the earth be bleſſed.

3. In the fulneſs of time his love was manifeſt; the ſeed then bloſſomed, and the birth came out in an high expreſſion of love; the man-child, the love of Chriſt was born, and ſaw the light. After that (ſaith the Apoſtle) the kindneſs and love of God our Saviour towards man appeared. Tit. 3. 4. I ſhall not need ſure to inſtance in ſucceeding paſſages; ſo far as we have gone, we have clearly ſeen Chriſt's life was a perfect mirror of his love, as there is no beam in the Sun, in which there is no light, ſo there was no act in the life of Chriſt, but to a ſpiritual eye it ſhines with the light of love. But above all, O the love of Chriſt in his death! ask a Malefactor, if the Prince's Son ſhould go to his Father, and ſay, Father I confeſs this wretch hath deſerved to dye, but I ſee a willingneſs in thee that he ſhould live; only I preceive it ſticks with thy juſtice; why, for that, Father, here I am; and to ſatisfie thy juſtice I will die my ſelf, only let this poor wretch live to the glory of thine, and my free grace. Ask (I ſay) the Malefactor what kind of love were this? Surely Chriſt dyed for our ſins, and Chriſt roſe again for our juſtification, and he aſcended, and ſate down at God's right hand, and ſent down his holy Spirit, and all for us; there was not one paſſage in all theſe tranſactions, but held forth the breakings and breathings out of a ſtrong fire of love.

4. At this time there is a coal of burning love in the breaſt of Chriſt: this fire was indeed from everlaſting, but flames are as hot this day as ever; now it is that Chriſt loves, and lives; And wherefore lives? but only to love us, and to intercede for us. Chriſt makes our ſalvation his conſtant calling; he is ever at his work, Yeſterday, and to day, and for ever: there is not one hour in the day, nor one day in a year, nor one year in an age, wherein Chriſt is not buſie with his Father in this Heavenly imployment of interceding for us. He loved us before he died for us, his love being the cauſe why he died for us; and he loves us ſtill, in that now he intercedes for us: it is as much as to ſay, Chriſt hath loved us, and he repents not of his love: love made him dye for us, and if it were to do again, he would dye over again; yea, if our ſins had ſo required, that for every elect perſon Chriſt muſt have dyed a ſeveral death, Love, love would have put him willingly upon all theſe deaths; O the loves of Chriſt towards our poor ſouls! If I might but ſtay, and take ſome turns in this large Field of love: How many thouſands of particulars might I draw out of Scripture, expreſſing Chriſt's love to us in this reſpect? though he be in Heaven, yet by vertue of his interceſſion, he bears us in his hands: yea, he leads, us by the hand, and arms too, I taught Ephraim to go, taking them by that we dwell in him: and they dwell in God, and dwell in love, For God is love, and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God. I know not what more to ſay; you know the manner of the high Prieſts, was to carry the names of the children of Iſrael into the Holy of Holies on their ſhoulders, and on their breaſts: but was it ever heard, that any high Prieſt, beſides the greater High Prieſt of our profeſſion, ſhould carry the names of thouſands, and millions on his ſhoulders, and on his arms, and on his hands, and on his wings, and on his boſom, and on his heart; nay in his heart, and in his bowels, as a memorial before the Lord? O unmatchable love!

Methinks this love of Chriſt ſhould now change my ſoul into a Globe or Maſs of Divine love towards Chriſt, as it were by the Spirit of the Lord, Methinks a ſight of Chriſt in his preſenting himſelf, and his ſacrifice to his Father for me, ſhould ſo enamour my ſoul as that I ſhould delight in no other ſight but this; then is a Chriſtian ſweetly exerciſed, when as the Golden Ball of Divine Love is toſſed to an again betwixt Chriſt's boſom and his; and in this reſpect it is a wonder that before this I am not ſickned, and overcome with love, and ready to cry out with the Spouſe, O ſtay me with flaggons, and comfort me with Cant. 2. 5.
apples, for I am ſick of love. O I am wounded with the arrows of love, ſo as neither grave, nor death, nor hell, neither Angels, not principalities, nor powers, nor things preſent, nor things to come, can ever lick theſe wounds, or enbalm, or bind them up. O my Chriſt, my Lord, my Jeſus, What ſhould I do but yield over my ſelf as a Spouſe under the power of her husband? what ſhould I do but loſe my ſelf in ſuch a deep Ocean of love, ſtronger than Wine, hotter than Coals of Juniper, which hath a moſt vehement flame?

2. Another motive of our love to Chriſt, it is our propriety in Chriſt, Ye are not your own, ſaid the A- 1 Cor. 6. 19.
poſtle of us; and he is not his own (may we ſay of Chriſt If any ask how may this be? I anſwer, That the ſoul in loving Chriſt is not her own, and in regard of loving, Chriſt is not his own; every one makes over it ſelf to another; and propriety or intereſt to it ſelf on both ſides ceaſeth: My Beloved is mine, and leave off to be his own, or to be a free God, when he becometh ours; no, no; but he ſo demeans himſelf in reſpect of his loves, as if he were not his own; he putteth on ſuch relations, and aſſumes ſuch offices of engagement, as if he were all for us, and nothing for himſelf; thus he is called a Saviour, a Redeemer, a King, a Prieſt, a Prophet, a Friend, a Guide, an Head, and Husband, a Leader, Ranſomer, Interceſſor; and what not of this nature?

O my ſoul come hither, and put thy little candle to this mighty flame; if thou hadſt ten hearts, or as many hearts in one, as there are elected Men and Angels in Heaven and Earth, all theſe would be too little for Jeſus Chriſt: only goe as far as thou canſt, and love him with that heart thou haſt, yea love him with all thy heart, and all thy ſoul, and all thy might; and as Chriſt in loving thee, is not his own, ſo let thy ſoul in loving Chriſt be not her own; Come, love thy Chriſt, and not thy ſelf; poſſeſs thy Chriſt, and not thy ſelf; enjoy thy Chriſt, and not thy ſelf; live in thy Chriſt, not in thy ſelf; ſolace thy ſelf in Jeſus Chriſt, not in thy ſelf; ſay with the Apoſtle, I am crucified with Chriſt, nevertheleſs I live, yet not I, but Chriſt liveth in me. Certainly, if Can. 2. 20.
ever thou comeſt to love Chriſt truly, thou canſt not but deny thy ſelf, and all created lovers. This love will ſcrue up thy ſoul, ſo high above the world, and above thy fleſh, and above thy life, and above all other lovers, that nothing on this ſide Chriſt, whether in heaven or on earth, will come in competition with him. Suppoſe a man in the top of a Caſtle higher than the third region of the Air, or near the Sphere of the Moon, ſhould look down to the faireſt and ſweeteſt Meadows, or to a Garden rich with Roſes and Flowers, of all ſweet colours and delicious ſmells; certainly he ſhould not ſee or feel any ſweetneſs, pleaſantneſs, colour, ſmell, becauſe he is ſo far above them; ſo the ſoul filled with the love of Chriſt is ſo high above all created lovers, that their lovelineſs cannot reach or aſcend to the high and large capacity of a ſpiritual ſoul? O for a ſoul filled up with all the fulneſs of God! O for a ſoul ſtretched out to its wideſt capacity and circumference, for the entertainment of God! O my ſoul, that thou wert but able to comprehend with all the Eph. 3. 18. 16. Saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height, and to know the love of Chriſt that paſſeth knowledge! Surely if Chriſt be mine, if his death be mine, his reſurrection mine, his aſcenſion mine, his ſeſſion mine, his interceſſion mine. How ſhould I but love him with a ſingular love? farewel world, and worldly glory; if Chriſt come in room, it is time for you to vaniſh; I ſhall little care for a Candle when the Sun ſhines fair and bright upon my head: What? is my name written on the heart of Chriſt? doth he wear me as a Favour and Love-token about his arms and neck? is he at every turn preſenting me and my duties to his heavenly Father? O thou haſt raviſhed my heart, my King, my Cant. 4. 9 Jeſus, thou haſt raviſhed my heart with one of thine eyes, and with one chain of thy neck.

Suppoſe, O my ſoul, thou hadſt been with Chriſt when he waſhed his Diſciples feet, and that he ſhould have come, and have waſhed thy feet; Would not thy heart have glowed with love to Jeſus Chriſt? why Chriſt is now in glory, and now he takes thy filthy ſoul, and dirty duties, and waſhes (as it were) the feet of all, that he may preſent them to his Father; thou canſt not ſhed a tear, but he waſhes it over again in his precious blood, and perfumes it with his glorious interceſſions. O what cauſe haſt thou to love Jeſus Chriſt! Oh you that never loved Chriſt, come, love him now; and you that have loved Chriſt a little, O love him more: Above all, let me, O my ſoul charge upon thee this duty of love; O go away warmed with the love of Chriſt, and with a love to Chriſt.

Sect. 7. Of joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. LET us joy in Jeſus, as carrying on this work of our ſalvation in his interceſſion. Surely this is glad tydings of great joy: when wicked Haman procured letters from King Ahaſuerus for the deſtruction of all Jews, then Eſther, the Queen, makes requeſt to the King, that her people might be ſaved, Eſther 5. 3. 8. 15, 16, 17. and Haman's letters revoked; And the King ſaid to her, What wilt thou Queen Eſther? and what is thy requeſt, and it ſhall be given thee? O the joy of the Jews at this happy tidings! Then the City of Shuſhan rejoyced, and was glad, then the Jews had light, and gladneſs, and joy, and honour; in every province, and in every City, whitherſoever the King's Commandment, and his Decree came, the Jews had joy, and gladneſs, a feaſt, and a good day. Is not this our very caſe? was there not a Law againſt us, an hand-writing of Ordinances, a ſentence of a double death, of body and ſoul? had not Satan, as wicked Haman, accuſed us, and ſought by all means our condemnation? but yet behold, not only an earthly Eſther, but Jeſus the Son of God was willing for our ſakes to come down from Heaven; and he it was that took away the hand-writing of Ordinances, and cancelled it upon the Croſs, that aſcended into Heaven, and there makes requeſts for us, and he it is in whom his Father is well pleaſed; never comes he to his Father, but he obtains the grace of the golden Scepter; no ſooner he cryes, I will that theſe poor ſouls may be eternally ſaved; but his Father anſwers, Amen; Be it ſo: be it, O my Son, even as thou pleaſeſt. O that we would joy at this! O that we could imitate the Jews! O that light, and gladneſs, and joy, and honour, would poſſeſs our ſouls! If at Chriſt's birth was ſuch, and ſo much joy, becauſe a Saviour was proclaimed: Is not our joy to be heightned, when ſalvation is effected? if the firſt act of Chriſt's mediation was ſo joyous, ſhall not the laſt act of his mediation be much more joyous? —— But I hear many objections, which keep back joy, they are as bars and hindrances at the doors of many heavy hearts, that joy cannot enter in; I ſhall inſtance in ſome.

O I am much oppoſed here in this world (ſays one) men are as wolves, and devils; Pſal. 22. 16. Dogs have compaſſed me, the aſſembly of the wicked have encloſed me; they have no bowels; they perſecute, reproach, revile, ſo that I am killed all the day long——— And what then? what matters oppoſitions of men, ſo long as Chriſt doth intercede for thee in Heaven? O remember Chriſt's bowels; it may be he ſuffers men to be mercileſs on earth, that thou mayſt look up, and behold how merciful he is who ſits above; and tell me, haſt thou no experience of this truth? doth not relief ſtrangely come in now and then? why, write upon the forehead of ſuch favours, I have a merciful, and compaſſionate Mediator in Heaven.

Oh I am much tempted (ſayes another) that I cannot pray; had I now the key of prayer, I could then unlock the cabinet where all God's treaſures lye, and take out what I pleaſed; but alas, my prayers are dull, and weak, and dry, and without ſpirit and life, I cannot pray.——If ſo, be humbled for it; and yet know this, that when thou canſt not pray, Chriſt then prays for thee, and he prayes that thou mayſt pray: And tell me, haſt thou no experience of this truth; hath not ſometimes thy ſpirit been enlarged in prayer? haſt thou not ſometimes felt thy heart warmed, or ſavingly affected? haſt thou not ſometimes in prayer been lifted up above thy ſelf, and above the world? conclude then, My Interceſſor above hath ſent me this gift and ſpirit; it is not I, but Chriſt's interceſſion, that by an admirable and ſecret operation hath given me the Spirit to help mine infirmity; theſe are the interceſſions of the Spirit of Chriſt, and they are the very Eccho of the interceſſions of Chriſt in his own perſon.

O but I labour under ſuch, and ſuch corruptions (ſayes another) and the Devil is buſie, exceeding buſie, and he exceedingly prevails; how am I overcome with theſe corruptions, and with theſe and theſe ſins? It may be ſo, and yet do not altogether deſpond; for Jeſus Chriſt is at God's right hand, and there he ſits till all his enemies be made his foot-ſtool; and what? are not thy ſins his enemies? O be of good comfort, for Chriſt will prevail; it is one piece of his prayer that he puts up for thee, To keep thee from Joh. 17. 5. evil; and ſurely he will either keep thee from it, or keep thee in it, that in the iſſue thou ſhalt have the victory. Thoſe that thou gaveſt me I have kept (ſaith Ver. 12. Chriſt) and none of them is loſt; if he undertake for thee, thou art ſafe and ſure; His Covenant is everlaſting, even the ſure mercies of David: and therefore Iſa. 55. 3. if yet thou doſt not, certainly thou ſhalt feel the vertue of Chriſt's interceſſion; ſin muſt be ſubdued, hell-gates ſhall not prevail againſt thee, he will not quench thy ſparks until he bring forth judgment unto victory.

Oh but I am in a ſuffering condition (ſayes another) and there is none that regards, or takes pity on me; all my friends have dealt treacherouſly with me, among all my Lovers there is none to comfort me: they have heard, that I ſigh, and there is none to refreſh me; I ſtand for Chriſt, but there is none ſtands by me; I own him, but there is none owns me. Bleeding Chriſtian, bear up! is not Chriſt's interceſſion a ſufficient anſwer to this caſe? alas, thou wouldſt be pitied for all thy weakneſſes; why, know that compaſſion is natural to Jeſus Chriſt; he is a merciful High-prieſt, and can be no other to thee; God ordained him to officiate in ſuch a Tabernacle as wherein thou dwelleſt, he was in all things like unto thee, ſin only excepted; it may be thou art in want, and ſo was Chriſt, he had no houſe; thou art perſecuted, and ſo was Chriſt; ſin loads thee, and ſo it did Chriſt. A Chriſtian's condition needs compaſſion, and Chriſt knows how much, and it is his work continually to lay it open above; O my Father, thus, and thus it is with the Militant Church, not a Member in it, but he is under ſin and affliction; ſee here the tears, hearken to the ſighs, and groans, and chatterings and mournings of my Doves below; I preſent here their perſons and performances; and Oh that they may find acceptance through my merit! Some ſpeak of Heaven's Muſick, ſome tell us of Saints and Angels, ſinging and warbling, in lively notes, the praiſes of Chriſt in Heaven; and if any ſuch thing be, certainly it is ear-tickling, heart-raviſhing Muſick; O the melody, O the joy of Saints to hear ſuch heavenly Ayres with heavenly Ears! but be it as it will be, of this I am confident, that Heaven it ſelf yields no ſuch Muſick as is the interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt; this (if any thing in Heaven do it) makes melody in the Ears of God, and of all celeſtial Spirits, Saints or Angels: And (O my ſoul) ſuppoſe thy ſelf within the compaſs, if now thou could'ſt but hear what thy Jeſus is ſaying in thy behalf: Is not this a brand newly pluck'd out of the fire? was not this poor ſoul but the other day in a ſtate of nature, defiled with ſin, within a ſtep of hell? and did not I ſend my Spirit to recall him? was not this precious blood ſhed for the redemption of him? and what though ſin ſtick and cleave to him to this day, yet have I not given thee charge to take away his filthy Garments from him, and to cloath him with changes of rayment, even with the ſhining robes of my own righteouſneſs? O my father, let this ſoul live in thy ſight! O caſt him not away for whom I have ſuffered, and done all this, I cannot reſt ſatisfied without his ſociety, I am not right till he is with me in glory; he is my darling, my purchaſe, my portion, my delight, and therefore let him be ſaved. Is not this enough to cauſe thy very heart to leap in thy boſom? Bonaventure fondly reports, That Francis hearing an Angel a little while playing on an Harp, he was ſo moved with extraordinary delight, that he thought himſelf in another World. O but ſuppoſe thou ſhould'ſt hear the voice of Jeſus thy Interceſſor thus pleading for thee, wouldſt thou not be caſt into an extaſie? would not this fill thee with joys unſpeakable, and full of glory?——Come, realize the meditation? certainly if thou art Chriſt's, he is thus, or in ſome other manner interceding for thee? as ſure as Chriſt is in Heaven, he is pleading with his Father in Heaven on thy behalf: O the joys, the joys, the joys that I ſhould now feel!——Tell me, is it not a comfort, for a poor beggar to be relieved at a rich man's door? we are all beggars in regard of Heaven, and Jeſus Chriſt doth not only come forth and ſerve us; but he takes us poor beggars by the hand, and leads us in to his heavenly Father: O what comfort is here!

Sect. 8. Of praying to, and praiſing of Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. LET us pray, and praiſe our Jeſus in this reſpect.

1. Let us pray or ſue our intereſt in this interceſſion: It is a queſtion amongſt the Schools, whether we may conveniently pray to Jeſus, to pray to his Father in our behalf? And thus far is granted, that we may pray to Chriſt to make us partakers of his interceſſions, and to mingle our prayers with his prayers, that they may find acceptance with God his Father. But that we may uſe ſuch a form, as ora pro nobis, O Chriſt pray for us, it is looked upon as inconvenient in this reſpect. 1. Becauſe we have no ſuch cuſtom, neither the Churches of God, 1 Cor. 11. 6. 2. Becauſe it ſavours too much of the error of Arrius, Neſtorius, and indeed of the Romaniſts themſelves 3. Becauſe our prayers are moſt-what directed to Chriſt in his perſon or divine ſubſiſtence, whoſe part is rather to give, than to ask; or if they are directed to Chriſt as Mediator, and not ſimply as the only begotten Son of God, then I ſee no incongruity (though in the former reſpect ſome inconvenience) but that we may pray to Chriſt to intercede for us; for ſo he is God and man; and he is conſidered according to both Natures; only the difference of both Natures is ſtill to be kept and maintained; interceſſion is the office of the whole perſon of Chriſt, and of the two Natures of Chriſt. But he performs this office one way according to his Divine nature, and another way according to his Humane nature. I liſt not to quarrel about niceties; it is thus agreed on all hands, and that is enough to our purpoſe, that we may call on Jeſus, or on God the Father, in and through Jeſus, that Chriſt's interceſſions may be ours, and that he would make it out to us in a way of aſſurance every day more and more.

2. Let us praiſe, let us bleſs God, and bleſs Chriſt for every tranſaction in Heaven for us. It is a wonder to obſerve what Songs of praiſe were chanted to Chriſt in Heaven for that one tranſaction of opening the Book, and looſing the ſeven Seals thereof: firſt, The four Beaſts, and then the four and twenty Elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of Saints, and they ſung a new ſong; ſaying thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the ſeals thereof, for thou waſt ſlain, and haſt redeemed us to God by thy blood.—— Rev. 5. 8 9, 11. 12, 13. 14. And then the Angels round about the Throne, whoſe number was ten thouſand times ten thouſand, and thouſands of thouſands, came on, ſaying, worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain to receive power, and riches, and wiſdom, and ſtrength, and honour, and glory, and bleſſing.—— And then every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and ſuch as are in the ſea, came on, ſaying, bleſſing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that ſitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever; and the four beaſts, and four and twenty Elders fell down and worſhipped him that liveth for ever and ever. I cannot tell what other tranſactions may be in Heaven, we have but hints of them here, nor ſhall we fully or particularly know them till we come to Heaven; but for this one tranſaction of Chriſt's interceſſion, we cannot imagine leſs praiſe to be given to Chriſt than for any other; O then let us do this duty on Earth, as it is done in Heaven! what, is Chriſt praying for us? O let us be on the exerciſe of praiſing him; is Chriſt interceding for us? let us give him the glory of his interceſſion; Heaven is full of his praiſes, O why ſhould not earth ring with the ſound thereof? Praiſe the Lord, O my ſoul, and all that is within me, praiſe his holy Name.

Sect. 9. Of conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. LET us conform to Jeſus in reſpect of his interceſſion. I cannot think but in every action of Chriſt there is ſomething imitable of us. And as to the preſent work, I ſhall inſtance only in theſe few particulars. As——

1. Chriſt appears in Heaven for us; let us appear on earth for him. Is there not equity, as well as conformity in this duty? O my ſoul, conſider what thy Chriſt is doing, conſider wherein the interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt conſiſts! is not this the firſt part of it? why, he appears in Heaven before Saints and Angels, and before God his Father in thy behalf; and art thou afraid to appear before worms, mortals, duſt and aſhes in his cauſe, or for his truth? ſhall Jeſus Chriſt own thee in Heaven? and wilt thou not own Jeſus Chriſt here in this world? ſhall Jeſus Chriſt, as thy great High-Prieſt, take thy very name, carry it upon his breaſt into the preſence of God? and wilt thou not take the Name of Chriſt, and hold it forth in profeſsion and practice to all men? Oh what a mighty engagement is here to ſtand to Chriſt, and to appear for Chriſt, and to own his Cauſe in theſe backſliding times; in that Chriſt, who ſits at the right hand of God, is willing and ready to appear in perſon for us, both as a Mediator, and Sponſor, and Solicitor, and Advocate, and Leiger Embaſſador?

2. Chriſt ſpends all his time for us and our ſalvation, let us ſpend all our time for him, and in his
Heb.7.25. ſervice; the Apoſtle tells us, that He ever lives to make interceſſion for us; it is not for a day, or a month, or a year, but he lives forever upon this account; for ever (i. e.) during all the time from his Aſcenſion until the end of the World; he is ſtill interceding; he ſpends all that time for us, and ſhall we think it too much time to ſpend a few days that we have here to live upon the earth for him? one thinks this the greateſt Argument in the World to make us to walk cloſely with God in Chriſt; He ſpends of his eternity for us, and ſhall not we ſpend of our whole time for him? ſurely people do not think what Chriſt is doing in Heaven for them; if you who are Saints would but ſeriouſly conſider, that Chriſt this Sabbath, this day of Reſt, is at his work, that without any wearineſs or intermiſsion from morning till evening, and from evening till morning he is ever, ever interceding; how would this engage you in this ſervice? Ah Chriſtians! if you ſhould continue praying, praiſing, reading, hearing all this day without any intermiſſion or breaking off. Oh what wearineſs! Oh how would you ſay, When will the day be done, when will the Sabbath be at an end? Well, but Chriſt is not weary of ſerving you; this Sabbath, and the laſt Sabbath, and the other Sabbath, and every Sabbath: when you have done your duties, he took your perſons, and duties, and preſented all unto his Father? he prayed over your prayers continued praying, and ſaying, Lord accept of a ſhort, poor, lean, imperfect ſervice done on earth for my ſake, and for thoſe merits ſake, which I am continually preſenting to thee here in Heaven. Oh why do we not come up to this conformity? Oh why are we ſo uncorformable to the actings of Chriſt? he is preparing Manſions for us in Heaven, and are we digging in this world? he is making mention of our names to God, and are we ſinning againſt him and God? his blood cryes, O that theſe ſouls may be ſaved; and ſhall our ſins cry, It is juſt that theſe ſouls ſhould be damned? O mind the exemplar! Chriſt ſpends all his time for you, do you ſpend all your time for him: we cannot but Judge this to be moſt equal, that they who live ſhould not henceforth live unto themſelves, but unto him who ever lives to make interceſſion for them.

3. He prayes for us, and for all believers, to his Father; let us pray for our ſelves, and for all our brethren, and for all ſorts of men, though they be our enemies, for we were no better to Jeſus Chriſt: Learn of me (ſaith Chriſt) and ſo far as he is imitable let us follow him; doth Chriſt pray? let us pray; doth he pray for us and others? let us pray for our ſelves, and then let us pray one for a-terms (poſſibly) with the Lord, than we our ſelves are at the preſent; Only I would wiſh thy prayers at ſuch a time, when thy heart is got neareſt to God, by ſpecial ſtirrings of faith and love: I ſuppoſe thou canſt not have a ſpirit, and power of prayer, but ſome times or other thou art, (as it were) in the lap of Chriſt, upon the Spouſe's knee, in the Beloved's boſom; O then make a requeſt for an unworthy one; O then, if ever, intercede for me, becauſe then I read Chriſt's own interceſſion in thy interceſſion; what is thy prayer then, but as the eccho of Chriſt's prayer, the Amen to Chriſt's interceſſion; which he makes in Heaven? Chriſtians! 'tis our duty to put one another upon praying one for another; Chriſt intercedes for us, and ſo ſhould we intercede for his, called, or uncalled, if ſo they belong to the election of Grace.

4. Chriſt takes our prayers, and mingles them with his own prayers, interceſſions, Incenſe, and ſo preſents all as his own work mingled together unto God the Father; O let this be our care to put up all our Prayers to God in the Name of Chriſt, and to ſtay our ſelves upon the interceſſions of Chriſt; when all is done, let us beg the acceptance of our prayers, not for our ſakes, nor for our Prayers ſake; but for his ſake, who perfumes our Prayers, by interweaving them with his prayers. Many a poor ſoul is many times afraid to pray to God for want of the due conſideration of this conformity; ſuch a one goes to prayer, and he looks upon it as it lies upon his own heart, or as it comes from himſelf, and then he cries, Oh what a poor, weak, ſinful, imperfect, impenitent prayer is this? well, but if this weak prayer of thine be once mingled with the glorious and heavenly prayer of Jeſus Chriſt, the weakneſs will ſoon vaniſh, and thy prayer will find acceptance with God the Father; it is with your prayers and duties as it is with your fire; your kitchin-fire is troubled with abundance of ſmoak, but if ever it could aſcend into the element of fire above, it would ſmoak no more; ſo your prayer, while it lies upon your own hearth, there's a great deal of ſmoak in it, but if ever it get up into the hands of Jeſus Chriſt, there it is in its own element, and ſo it is freed from all its ſmoak, and ſo the weakneſs of it is done away. O conform to Chriſt in this point; he will not preſent thy prayers to God, but he will firſt mingle it with his own prayers; no more ſhould'ſt thou preſent a prayer to God but in Chriſt's Name, conſidering that all thy prayers find acceptance in, for, and through the interceſſion of Jeſus Chriſt. If it were not for this, I profeſs I knew not how to anſwer the cavils of our diſſolute adverſaries, who throw down prayers, as of no uſe at all; for us they object——

feſſion, without ſome defect, imperfection, ſin: and Object.
if ſo, there is need of a new prayer, to beg pardon for the defects of that prayer; and then another prayer to heal the flaws of that prayer; and then another to do as much for that; and ſo in infinitum; by this means there would be an infinite progreſſion without any ſtop at any prayer to all.

I anſwer, This Objection were valid if Anſw.
there were no interceſſion of Chriſt to ſtay

our ſelves and our prayers on: but as we grant requeſts many times for ſome friends ſake, rather than for the parties ſake: ſo God doth always grant requeſts for Chriſt's ſake, never for our own ſakes: Thou objecteſt there are many defects in our prayers as made by us: But I anſwer, there is no defects in the Merits and Interceſſions of Jeſus Chriſt, for whoſe ſake alone they are granted of God; and therefore our prayers being made in Chriſt's Name, they may ſtay their heads in Chriſt's boſom; in this reſpect we need not ſtill to run our ſelves in a Circle, this being the laſt reſolution, Chriſt's merits, and Chriſt's interceſſion. Chriſt offers up our perſons and wooden prayers in his golden Cenſer to his Father; Chriſt's interceſſion therefore is that which doth the deed. Now, to ſay our prayers are of no uſe, it is all one as to ſay his Interceſsion is of no uſe; not that we are ſo good, that he cannot take exception againſt us, and our prayers; but becauſe Chriſt is ſo good, and his Interceſsion for us is ſo good, that he neither can; nor will take exception againſt him, or his Interceſſion for us; and in this caſe Chriſt and Chriſtians make one perſon (as it were) in Law; his interceſſion for us; and our interceſſions for our ſelves, are but one interceſſion: and indeed he ſo mingles them, that they ſeem but one, for the ſmoak of the Incenſe, and the prayers of the Saints aſcend up together before God out of the Angel's hand Rev. 8. 4.

5. Chriſt pleads the cauſe of his people, and anſwers all the accuſations of Satan againſt them; Oh let us plead for them for whom Chriſt pleads, and anſwer the accuſations of Satans, or his inſtruments againſt their perſons, or their wayes. We have a ſtrange generation of men abroad, whoſe very Religion conſiſts in rayling, reviling, and reproaching the ſervants of the living God; not the beſt men, nor the beſt Miniſters under Heaven eſcape them; Are they not all, ſay they, * Wolves, Dogs, Hirelings, Prieſts of Baal, Covetous, Carnal, Damned; aud what not? Are they not all, ſay they (as the Devil ſaid of Joſhua) cloathed with filthy garments? defiled totally, utterly defiled with the pollutions of Babylon? Chriſtian! when you hear this language, learn you to conform to Chriſt? go you firſt to GOD with the Lords own plea, Now the Lord rebuke thee, O Satan, even the Lord that hath choſen Jeruſalem, rebuke thee, Zach. 3. 2. And then go on in vindication of their perſons and their cauſe; are they not precious, gracious, holy, able, ſhining and burning Lights? it may be ſome of their perſons have been Faulty; but ſav of ſuch? Is not this a brand newly pluck'd out of the fire? Failing, and humane frailties have been in the beſt, yea, in moſt of the Prophets and Apoſtles; but ſhall we therefore condemn to hell the generation of Gods dear Children; or howſoever it may be with their perſons, yet is not their cauſe and office of Chriſt's own Inſtitution? in this reſpect, he that deſpiſeth you, deſpiſeth me, ſaith Chriſt, and he that deſpiſeth me deſpiſeth him that ſent me, Luke 12. 16. Are not the Miniſters of Chriſt as Stars in the right hand of Chriſt? they that would do them any deadly harm, muſt pluck them thence. Chriſtians conform you to Chriſt in this point; you ſee how Satan ſtands at the right hand of our Joſhua's to reſiſt them, now then plead you their cauſe, and anſwer the Adverſaries Accuſations.

6. Chriſt by his Interceſſion ſaves us to the uttermoſt, Heb. 7. 25. O let us ſerve him to the uttermoſt; ſurely all we can do is too little to anſwer ſo great a love as this. Oh Chriſtians! why ſhould it be eſteemed a needleſs thing to be moſt rigorouſly conſcionable, and exactly circumſpect? Chriſt payed our debt to the uttermoſt farthing, drunk every drop of our bitter cup, and now preſents all unto his Father, by way of interceſſion, and ſaves us εἰς παντελὲς throughly to the uttermoſt; why ſhould not we labour to perform his ſervice, and to fufil every one of his commandments, throughly and to the uttermoſt alſo? certainly there is a duty which concerns us Chriſtians, as to be hot in Religion, Rev. 3. 16. to be zealous of good works, Tit. 2. 14. to walk circumſpectly, or preciſely, as the word carries it Epheſ. 5. 15. to be fervent in ſpirit, Rom. 12. 11. to ſtrive to enter in at the ſtrait gate, Luke 13. 24. to contend for the faith, Jude 3. with an holy kind of violence to lay hold upon the Kingdom of Heaven, Mat. 11. 12. Oh that ever men ſhould be afraid of taking God's part too much, or fighting too valiantly under the colours of Chriſt, of being to buſie about the ſalvation of their own ſouls, of being ſingular (as they call it) in the duties of Religion; I obſerve, men are content to be ſingular in any thing, ſave in the ſervice of God; you deſire and labour to be ſingularly rich, and ſingularly wiſe, and ſingularly valorous, and ſingulary proud; but you can by no means endure ſingularity or eminency in Zeal, and the Lord's ſervice; in matters of Religion you are reſolved to do as the moſt do, though in ſo doing you damn your own ſouls, Mat. 7. 13. O come and learn this Leſſon of Chriſt, he ſaves us to the uttermoſt; with all our hearts, and with all our ſouls, and with all our might,

Thus far we have Looked on Jeſus in his Interceſſion, our next work is our laſt work, which is, to Look unto Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our Salvation for us in His coming again, the very end of time to all Eternity; he hath no more now to do, but to Judge the Saints, and to lead them into Glory, and to deliver up his Kingdom to his Father, and ſo to live with His Redeemed ones for ever, and ever, and ever.

SECT. I.

Of Chriſt's preparing for Judgment.

AND is not yet all done? O the unwearied patience, love, mercy, free grace of Chriſt in carrying on this mighty work! he begun it before the beginning of the world; ſince then he hath been labouring in it about ſix thouſand years; and now the time of reſtoring being come, he will perfect what he hath begun, and bring on the other end of the Golden chain; Moreover, whom he did predeſtinate, them he alſo called; and whom he called, them he alſo juſtified; and whom he juſtified, them he alſo glorified. In this piece alſo as in the former we ſhall firſt lay down the object, and then give directions how to look upon it.

Rom.8. 30.

The Object is Jeſus, carrying on that great work of our ſalvation in his coming again to earth, and taking up with him all his Saints into Heaven. In this work I ſhall ſet before you theſe particulars:

1. Chriſt's preparing for judgment.
2. Chriſt's coming to judgment.
3. Chriſt's ſummons of the Elect to come under judgment.
4. Chriſt and the Saints meeting at the judgment day.
5. Chriſt's ſentencing or judging the Saints for eternal glory.
6. Chriſt and his Saints judging the reſt of the world.
7. Chriſt and his Saints going up into Heaven; when ſhall be the end of this world.
8. Chriſt ſurrendring up the Kingdom to God even the Father.
9. Chriſt's ſubjection to the Father, that God may be all in all.
10. Chriſt (notwithſtanding this) being all in all to his bleſſed, ſaved, redeemed Saints to all eternity.

1. For his preparing for judgment. When once the number of all his Elect ſhall be completed, and the work of his interceſſion ſhall be at an end, then immediately will follow theſe particulars. As——

1. A great voice comes out of the Temple of Heaven, ſaying, it is done. It comes out of the Temple of Heaven, that we may underſtand it to be the voice of Chriſt. And if this ſpeech be directed unto God, it is as if Chriſt had beſpoke his Father thus. And now, O my Father, I have done; that office of the Prieſt-hood which by agreement we erected, is now at an end: here I have ſate at thy right hand interceding for my Saints ever ſince my aſcenſion; and of all that thou haſt given me by thine eternal election, I have not loſt a Saint; in their ſeveral ages I produced them and gave them a Being, and in their times I remembred them, and preſented their conditions and neceſſities before thee; and now I have not a Saint more; in the Book of life there is not another Name written to be born on earth; and to what purpoſe ſhould I now continue the world? the Saints are they for whom I made the world, the Saints are they that hold forth the light of my glory in the world, the Saints are they for whom my eternal counſels before the world did work, the Saints are they for whom I was content to ſhed my precious blood when I was in that world below; and now their number is completed, I am reſolved to unpin the fabrick of the world, and take it down; it ſtands but for their ſakes, and therefore now let the ſeventh Angel blow his trumpet, that the myſtery of God may be finiſhed. I ſwear by him that lives for ever, that time ſhall be no longer.

Rev. 16. 17.

Rev. 10. 7. ver. 6.

2. No ſooner this ſaid, but the ſeventh Angel ſounds. This ſeventh Angel (ſaith Pareus) is the Arch-angel that proclaims Chriſt's coming, with a great and mighty ſhout; For the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from heaven with a ſhout, with the Voice of the Arch-angel, and with the trump of God. The Lord ſhall deſcend with a ſhout; but before he deſcends, and I believe upon the very diſcovery of his coming down, there will be a ſhout in Heaven; for ſo it follows, And the ſeventh Angel ſounded, and there were great voices in Heaven; if we may believe Commentaries, theſe are the voices of bleſſed ſouls, and bleſſed Saints and bleſſed Angels in heaven; no ſooner Chriſt bids the Angel ſound] q. d. ſummon thoſe bleſſed ſouls Rev.6.10. Rev.22. 20. that were ſlain for the Word of God, and therefore cryed, How long, Lord, holy and true? ſummon thoſe bleſſed ſouls that have cryed ſo long, Come Lord Jeſus, come quickly; ſummon all ſouls, and ſummon all Angels, and bid them wait on me, now I reſolve to go down, and to judge the world:) no ſooner I ſay, Chriſt bids the Angels ſound, but preſently at the joy of his command, all the voices in Heaven give up a ſhout; why, this is the long-look'd for day, the day of perfecting the number of Saints; the day of joyning the ſoul and bodies of the Saints together; the day of convening all the families both of Saints and Angels under one roof; the day of bringing up the Bride unto the Lamb, and of a completing the Marriage in its higeſt ſolemnity: and therefore no wonder if at this news great voices and cryes (ſuch as are uſed by Mariners, or gatherers of the vintage) were made in Heaven. O what an addition of joy is this to Heaven's joy it ſelf! the ſpirits of the juſt, and the bleſſed Angels that have lived together in heavens bliſs, had never ſuch an advantitious joy as this before; now they ſhout and ſing a new and bleſſed Song, Rev.11. 15. The Kingdoms of this world, are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Chriſt, and he ſhall reign for ever and ever. We may call this Heaven's triumph for the finiſhing of God's myſtery. Now is it that Chriſt will vindicate his Kingdom, and overthrow the power of his enemies; they had long ſet themſelves againſt the Lord, and againſt his anointed, the Kings of the earth, and the Rulers confederated; they ruled all, and as much as in them lay, excluded Chriſt; but now the Kingdoms of the world will return to Chriſt, and he alone ſhall rule; and thence the winged Choriſters of Heaven chant forth this Anthem, The Kingdoms of the world are become the Kingdoms of Chriſt.

3. After this ſhout, The four and twenty Elders Rev. 11. 16,17,18. which ſit before God on their ſeats, fall upon their faces, and worſhiped God, ſaying, we give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and waſt, and art to come, becauſe thou haſt taken to thee thy great power, and haſt reigned; and the nations were angry, &c. By theſe four and twenty Elders we underſtand all God's Saints of the Old and New Teſtament, comprehended under the twelve Patriarchs, and twelve Apoſtles; others would have them to be only thoſe Saints of the Old Teſtament, and therefore called Elders; whoſoever they are, we find they are ſo glad at this news, that Chriſt will now judge the world, that preſently they riſe off their ſeats, and fall on their faces; and firſt they praiſe, and then they pray. 1. They praiſe God for taking to himſelf his own power, Chriſt conniv'ed (as it were) till now at the power of his enemies; Antichriſt, and not Chriſt ſeemed to rule, and to ſit in the Temple of God; Rev. 11. 18. but now Chriſt is reſolved to rule himſelf, and to make all his enemies his footſtool: and therefore now we give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty. 2. They pray Chriſt to go on to judgment. 1. Becauſe the nations were angry, q. d. they have been angry long enough, they have ſet themſelves againſt Chriſt and againſt his Church, and therefore now it is time to bridle their wrath, and to break them with a rod of Iron, O let thy wrath come. 2. Becauſe the time of judgment is now accompliſhed which God had decreed in his eternal counſel, and which the Father had put in his own power; This time was not for mortals to know, but now 'twas revealed to theſe celeſtial ſpirits by Chriſt, and therefore they beg, Go on Lord Jeſus; reward now thy Servants, Prophets, Saints; and deſtroy them which deſtroyed the earth.

Mortalibus ignotum; cæleſtibus vero nunc revelatum a Chriſto. Paræus in loc. Pſal. 110.

4. God the Father is well pleaſed with Chriſt's purpoſe of judging the world. The Lord ſaid unto my Lord, ſit thou at my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footſtool. I know theſe words were ſpoke to Chriſt at his aſcenſion into Heaven, yet that hinders not but that now God ſpeaks them again to Chriſt; for as yet (ſaith the Apoſtle) we ſee not all Heb.2.8 things put under him; and God's purpoſe was that Chriſt ſhould rule, until he had put all things in ſubjection under his feet. Nay, why not theſe words ſpoken now rather than before? Chriſt indeed reigned as King ever ſince his Aſcenſion, but now more eſpecially he is to maniſeſt his Kingdom, for now is he to judg among the heathen, now is he to Pſal.16.10. wound the heads of many countries, now is he to overthrow Pope, Turk, and all his enemies, and he alone with the Father and the Spirit is to reign in his Elect, Saints and Angels. Thus all agree, that Chriſt in the latter dayes ſhall be fully honoured in his Kingly power; hitherto Chriſt hath been much honoured in his Prophetical and Prieſtly office, but not ſo much in his Kingly; but now he muſt be fully honoured in his Kingly office; now eſpecially The Kingdoms of this world muſt become the Kingdoms of Rev.11. 15. the Lord, and of his Chriſt; and ſo he ſhall reign for ever and ever. Certainly there is a difference betwixt Chriſt's reign before, and his preſent reign at the day of judgment, Chriſt hath a double Throne wherein he ſits and reigns To him that overcomes will Rev. 3. 21. I give to ſit with me in my throne, as I alſo overcame, and am ſet down with my Father in his throne. That Kingly rule that Chriſt hath from his aſcenſion is upon his Father's Throne, but the Kingdom that Chriſt ſhall have at the day of judgment and ever after, it is the joynt reign of him with the Father, he ſhall have a Throne himſelf, and the Saints ſhall ſit with him in his own Throne: and now ſaith the Father, Sit thou at my right hand, q. d. ſit on thy own John 5. 22. Throne by me; go on to judge the Nations; I will not judg them, but only in thee, and by thee; Lo I have committed all judgment unto the Son, and do thou judge them, until thou haſt rewarded thy friends, and made thine enemies thy fotſtool. Mark, He hath committed all judgment unto the Son; the Father gives the Son a Commiſſion; wherein is written (as it were) theſe words, My Son, now is the time 2 Pet. 3. 10,13. or ſeaſon which I had put in my own power; and my pleaſure is, that all the world ſhall be ſet on fire: theſe heavens under thee ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe, and the elements ſhall melt with fervent heat, the earth alſo, and the works that are therein ſhall be burnt up; and I will have new heavens, and a new earth, wherein ſhall dwell righteouſneſs; go too then, put on thy Robes, appear in thy glory; empty this heaven of all thoſe glorious ſpirits that are therein, and let them wait on thee to thy judgment ſeat; go, paſs thy doom upon all fleſh, and ſend reprobatees to hell, and bring up hither all thy Saints, that they may live with thee, and here behold thy glory for ever and ever. Lo here is thy commiſſion; be gone, and return no more hither until it be accompliſhed.

Uſe. Chriſtians, I cannot but wonder at this joy and exultation in Heaven, and that we have ſo little or none of this on earth; we ſay with cold lips, and frozen hearts Thy Kingdom come, thy Will be done in earth as it is in heaven; but if our prayers were real and fervent, if we could but imitate thoſe heavenly Citizens, what longings would be in our hearts after Chriſt's comming? how ſhould we rejoyce at the very thoughts hereof? Chriſt comforting his diſciples in reſpect hereof, he ſpeaks theſe words, Luke 21. 28. When theſe things begin to come to paſs, then look up (ſaid he) and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh. The fulneſs of our redemption is a ground of conſolation; all the ſpirits above are ſenſible of this; God, and Chriſt, and the Angels, and Saints rejoyce, and again rejoyce. Rev. 12. 19. The Spirit and the Bride ſay, come; and Chriſt himſelf ſaith, Ver. 20. Surely I come quickly; O let us ſay Amen to it; Even ſo come Lord Jeſus.

Sect. 2. Of Chriſt coming to judgment.

2. FOr Chriſt's coming to judgment; no ſooner CHRIST prepared, and all in readineſs, but down he deſcends from his Imperial Throne to the Judgment-ſeat. In this paſſage I ſhall obſerve theſe particulars.

1. He deſcends with his Train: He comes with his Royal Attendants out of Heaven. This is the glory of a Prince, that hath ſo many Nobles waiting on him; and this is the glory of Jeſus Chriſt, that when he comes to judg the world, he ſhall have his Saints and Angels (the glory of the Creation) to be his Attendants in that work. Behold the Lord comes 2 Theſs. 1. 7. with mighty Angels. Behold the Lord comes with ten thouſands of his Saints, to execute judgment unto all. Jude 14. Certainly a numberleſs number ſhall wait upon him: Daniel tells us of a thouſand thouſand that this day Miniſter unto Chriſt: A thouſand thouſands miniſtred Dan. 7. 10. unto him, & ten thouſand times ten thouſand ſtood before him: or if Heaven have more, I believe Heaven will empty it ſelf of all the Saints, and all the Angels; not one Spirit, whether Saint or Angel ſhall ſtay when Chriſt deſcends: The Son of man ſhall come Matth. 25. 31. in his glory, and all the holy Angels with him. O what a glorious day will this be! if one Sun make the mornig Sky ſo glorious, what a bright, ſhining, and glorious morning will that be, when ſo many thouſands of Suns ſhall ſhine over all our heads, the glorious Body of our Chriſt ſurpaſſing them all in ſplendor and glory? here's a new Heaven of Suns and Stars, ſuch as this nether world never ſaw, Lo yonder the Sun of righteouſneſs with all his Morning ſtars, ſinging and ſhouting for joy. Heaven now empties its ſelf of all its created Citizens, and cleaves aſunder to to make way for Chriſt and all his Train.

2. In his deſcent through the Heavens, he ſhakes Matth. 24. 29. the Heavens. And the powers of the heaven ſhall be ſhaken. The whole frame of Heaven, moſt ſtrong and immutable in its being and motion; or the mighty bodies thereof, moſt mighty in their ſubſtance, laſtingneſs, motion and operation ſhall be ſhaken. I know by the powers of heaven ſome mean the Angels, who at this wonderful deſcent of Chriſt ſhall admire and move; but I rather think the Heavens themſelves are meant hereby, whoſe very nature ſhall be moved, and ſhaken at that day: At his Job. 26. 11. nod the pillars of heaven tremble and are aſtoniſhed. As yet they are Subject to vanity, and therefore tis no wonder if at the coming of Chriſt they tremble and are moved. In this moving or ſhaking the Evangeliſt adds, that the glorious lights of Heaven ſhall Matth. 24. 29. be altered, The Sun ſhall be darkned, and the Moon ſhall not give her light, and the Stars ſhall fall: Many Interpretations are given of this: I am not for Allegories, but rather conceive theſe things are real; the very coming of Chriſt ſhall bring with him ſuch a light, that the ſplendor of the Sun and moon ſhall be obſcured: This is moſt certain, ſaith Aretius, that both Sun and Moon ſhall really be darkened at that day; it is the glory of his Majeſty that will dazle thoſe Candles.

Adventum Chriſti tantam lucem allaturam ut ea ſolis & lunæ ſplendor obſcuretur. Aretius in loc. Certiſſimum autem diem judicii magna majeſtate fore, ut recte & ſol & luna dicantur obſcurandi. Aretius in loc. Pſal. 50. 3.

3. As he paſſes through the Elementory World, a fire doth uſher him. Our God ſhall come, and ſhall not keep ſilence; a fire ſhall devour before him, and it ſhall be very tempeſtuous round about him. Whence this fire ſhould come, I ſhall not diſpute, only one tells us with ſome confidence, † that 'tis begotten in the middle Region of the Air by Divine command: and that firſt it goes before him, uſhering the Judge to the Judgment-ſeat, and that there it ſtays during the judgment; and that ended, and the doom paſſed on all fleſh, then it ſets on fire all the world. Let this paſs as it may, Scripture goes thus far, that Pſal. 97. 3. a fire goeth before him.——— Behold the Lord will come Iſa. 66. 15. with fire, and with his chariots like a whirlwind——— 2 Theſ. 1. 7, 8. And the Lord Jeſus ſhall be revealed from heaven, with his mighty Angels in flaming fire. In which reſpect Dan. 7 Daniel ſaw his throne like the fiery flame, and his wheels as burning fire; a fiery ſtream iſſued, and came forth from before him: and at laſt this fire ſhall have that effect, that the very 2 Pet. 3. 10. Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat, the earth alſo, and the works that are therein ſhall be burnt up. O Chriſtians! What cauſe have we to make the Apoſtles Uſe on this point, 2 Pet. 3. 11, 12. Seeing all theſe things ſhall be diſſolved, what manner of perſons ought we to be in all holy converſation and godlineſs? Looking for, and haſtening unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire ſhall be diſſolvod, and the Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat.

† Suarez de renovatione mundi, in 3 part. Thomæ

He deſcends lower and lower till he is inwrapt with Clouds. Hereafter ſhall you ſee the Son of man ſitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of Heaven. Matth. 26. 64. When he went up into Heaven it is ſaid that a cloud received him out of their ſight; and the Angels then ſaid, Act. 1. 9. Ye men of Galilee, why ſtand ye gazing up into Heaven? This ſame Jeſus which is taken up into Heaven, ſhall ſo come, in like manner, as ye have ſeen him go into Heaven. Act. 1. 11, 12. He went up in Clouds, and he ſhall come down in Clouds. Dan 7. 13 I ſaw in the night viſions, and behold one like the Son of man came with the clouds of Heaven. Here is the firſt ſight of Chriſt to men on the earth, when once he is come down into the Clouds, then ſhall they liſt up their eyes, and have a full view of Jeſus Chriſt; a Cloud firſt received him out of their ſight; and a Cloud now diſcovers him to their ſights; Then ſhall appear the ſign of the Son of man in Heaven, and they ſhall ſee the Son of man coming in the clouds of Heaven with power and great glory: Matth. 24. 30. Is it not plain, that the firſt appearings, and ſight of Chriſt at his ſecond coming from Heaven, is in the midſt of Clouds; Behold he cometh with clouds, and every eye ſhall ſee him, and they alſo which pierced him. Rev. 17. Some controverſie there is about theſe Clouds, as whether they be Angels? When the Pſalmiſt ſpeaks of all ſorts of Meteors, as of Waters, Clouds, Winds, Flames, ſome ſay, all theſe are Angels, and of the Angels he ſaith, who maketh his Angels Spirits, and his Miniſters a flame of fire. Heb. 1. 7. For my part I take it in the litteral ſenſe, that upon the very backs of Clouds, Chriſt ſhall come riding along at the general day; and howſoever, this may ſeem a ſmall matter unto us, yet I cannot look on any Circumſtance of this Tranſaction as ſmall and trifling! The very Clouds on which Chriſt rides, ſpeaks terror, and comfort.

1. Oh what a terrour is this to the wicked? Matth. 24. 30. They ſhall ſee the Son of man coming in the clouds, and then ſhall all the Tribes of the earth mourn, Theſe Tribes of the Earth, are the Tribes of the wicked; no ſooner ſhall they look up, and ſee Chriſt in his Clouds, but with unconceivable horror will they cry it out, O yonder is he, whoſe Blood we neglected, whoſe Grace we reſiſted, whoſe Councils we refuſed, whoſe Government we caſt off. Oh yonder is he that comes now in Clouds, in Tempeſtuous Clouds; O ſee how he ſtorms! Do not thoſe very Clouds, in which he rides, ſpeak, or threaten a ſtorm? In the eighteenth Pſalm is a deſcription of Chriſt's coming to Judgment. But O bow terrible ! In the ſeventh verſe, we find the earth trembling ; in the eighth verſe, a fire devouring ; in the ninth verſe, the Heavens bowing downwands : in the twelfth, thirteenth, and fourteenth, and fifteenth verſes, are thick Clouds darkening the Skie, Thunders, Lightenings, Hail-ſtones, flying through the air, the foundattons of the world diſcovered, thus the Mighty God, our Jeſus deſcends. Oh how ſhould the wicked but tremble at this, when but a Conſideration of this, hath ſometimes ſtartled God's own People ? Heb.3. 16. Behold Habakkuk with quivering Lips, trembling Joynts, Bones mouldering into duſt, when he had only a Prophetick repreſentation of Chriſt's ſecond apperance ! All the dreadful things that attended the preſence of God in Egypt, at the Red Sea, on Mount Sinai, through the Wilderneſs, are made but Types, but Shadows of the terrible march of the Captain of the Lord of Hoſts ; and therefore ſhall the wicked mourn.

2. Here is the Patience, and Faith, and Joy of Saints. Rev.1.7. And all the Kindreds of the earth, ſhall mourn over him ; even ſo, Amen. This I cannot but underſtand of the wicked ; onely ſome tell us of a double mourning on that Day ; the one of Joy and love, and the other of Sorrow and Deſpair ; I ſhall not deny, but there may be ſome ſweet Tears upthis ſweet Subject, Chriſt's apparition in the clouds : Such a ſhine will be from Chriſt in the cloud, that the very ſhine will pierce the hearts of men with the golden-headed arrow of love, and how may this work Tears ? from this Text of John, Behold he cometh with clouds, and every eye ſhall ſee him, and they alſo which pierced him, and all the kindreds of the earth ſhall waile, &c. Some Divines gather, that Chriſt at that day; will ſhew in his glorified body the wounds of his crucifying, as an infallible trophy of his victory over all his enemies; and hence the wicked who pierced, or crucified the Lord of glory, by their ſins, will weep and waile. I can think no leſs, but that Chriſt at that day will open his boſom, and ſhew thoſe wounds, of love, which he had in his heart from all eternity, together with thoſe wounds which he received on the Croſs, as they are glorified in his eternal love : and then as at the diſcovery of Joſeph, he and his brethren fell upon the necks of each other and wept ; ſo will this diſcovery in the appearances of Chriſt bring a ſweet confuſion upon the Spirits of Saints ; then ſhall a Saint fall at the feet of his Saviour, and weeping ſay, O my Jeſus ! thou art my Father, Brother, Husband, Self ; while there were other things, I loved other things beſides thy ſelf, but alas ! they are everlaſtingly gone, and have left me alone, yet now thou owneſt me ; O my Jeſus, thou breakeſt my heart : Oh I cannot but weep out tears of love, and tears of joy at this appearing ; O welcome, welcome, ſweet Jeſus into theſe clouds ; oh welcome, welcome, ſweet Jeſus into this neather world.

Rev.1.7. Hinc conſequitur Chriſtum in eo judicio cicatrices vulnerum oſtenſurum, tanquam trophaum infallibile, contra omnes ſuos hoſtes. Aret. in loco.

In theſe Clouds I muſt leave our Saviour for a while, and the rather, becauſe I believe he will deſcend no lower : only before I paſs, one word of Uſe to all his Saints.

Uſe You ſee him ſtill upon his old deſign ; though the world now ends, yet hitherto there is no end of his great tranſaction ; his firſt coming, and his ſecond coming, is to ſave your ſouls; his firſt coming was to purchaſe, his ſecond to give you the poſſeſſion of Salvation. What ? are you not glad of this Goſpel-news, that Chriſt will come at laſt from this Empyreal Throne to his judgment-ſeat, to give you the poſſeſſion of ſalvation ? is not the promiſe of his coming comfortable ? is it not comfortable to believe in him, and to hope for him ? why, muſe then, what comfort will it be to ſee his perſon with all his glorious train coming for you ? The Mighty God, the Lord hath ſpoken, and called the Earth, from the riſing of the Sun, to the going down thereof ; out of Zion the perfection of beauty hath God ſhined ; our God ſhall come, and ſhall not keep ſilence ; a fire ſhall devour before him, and it ſhall be very tempeſtuous round about him ; he ſhall call to the heavens from above, and to the earth that he might judge his people. Pſal.50. 1,2,3,4. It is indeed a moſt terrible day unto the wicked, but oh how ſweet, and pleaſant, and comfortable to his Saints, Chriſtians ! do we not long to have Chriſt's Spirit come into our ſouls with life ? do we not drop while Chriſt is abſent from our ſouls ? are not the feet of them beautiful that bring glad tydings of peace, and of ſalvation by Jeſus Chriſt ? Oh then ! what will it be to ſee the King, not in his Embaſſadors, but in his own perſon coming for us to fetch us into Heaven? if we have but a dear friend returned from ſome far Country, how do all run out to meet him with joy ? Oh ſaid the child, my father is come ; ſaith the wife, my husband is come ; and ſhall not we, when we ſee our Father, our Husband, our Head, our Saviour returning with great glory, and glorious Majeſty, cry out, he is come, he is come ? ſhall not we at the firſt view of him in his Clouds, cry out, O yonder is he whoſe blood redeemed us, whoſe Spirit cleanſed us, whoſe prayers prevail for us, whoſe Law did govern us ? yonder comes he in whom we truſted, and now we ſee he hath not deceived our truſt ; yonder is he for whom we waited long, and now we ſee we have not waited in vain.

I verily believe thus it will be with us one day ; we ſhall have comfort then, oh let us comfort our ſelves with theſe words ; and ever and anon cry, Come Lord Jeſus, come quickly ! make haſt my beloved, and be thou like to a Roe, or to a young Heart upon the Mountain of ſpices.

Sect. 3. Of Chriſt's ſummoning of the Elect to come under Judgment.

3. FOr Chriſt's ſummons of the Elect to come under judgment : no ſooner is he in the clouds, Throne of judicature, but there he ſtands, and thence he ſends his holy Angels with a great ſound of a Trumpet, and they ſhall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of the heaven to another. Mat.24. 31. Chriſt's ſummons are effectual, if he will have the elect to meet him, they muſt come ; to this purpoſe he ſends his Angels, and they return with his Saints back again to the judgment-ſeat. In the carrying on of this affair, we ſhall diſcuſs theſe particulars. 1. His miſſion of the Angels. 2. The manner of the miſſion. 3. The reſurrection of the world. 4. The collection of the Saints ; wherein, 1. whence, 2. whether they are gathered.

1. For Chriſt's miſſion of his Angels ; he ſhall ſend his Angels. This was their office from their Heb.2.13, 14. firſt creation ; they were ſtill ſent of God this way, and that way ; and indeed herein is one difference betwixt Chriſt and the Angels, he was to ſit on God's right hand, but they were ſent abroad to Miniſter to the Saints and people of God. To which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, ſit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footſtool ? are they not all Miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to Miniſter for them, who ſhall be heirs of ſalvation ? Now according to their office, Chriſt puts them upon imployment at this day, q. d. O my Angels ! you that wait upon me, that excel in ſtrength, that do my commandments, and hearken to the voice of my word ; go your wayes now into all the four winds of the World, gather all my Saints together unto me, thoſe that have made a covenant with me by ſacrifice; ſearch into all the duſts of the earth, and leave not behind one duſt that belongs unto any Saint; ſearch into the bottom of the Sea; ſee what becomes of thoſe drowned bodies of my dear ones; if either worms have eaten thoſe in graves, fiſhes have devoured them in the deep, why now reſtore them; am not I as able to recover them, as I was to create them? is it not as eaſie for me to raiſe the dead, as to make Heaven and Earth, and all of nothing? go then and gather together all thoſe duſts, and let every duſt be brought home to its own proper body, and compact thoſe duſts, as ſoft as they are, into ſolid bones; and propheſie upon thoſe bones, and ſay unto them, O ye dry bones, hear the word of the Lord; thus ſaith the Lord, behold I will cauſe breath to enter unto you, and ye ſhall live, and I will lay ſinews upon you and cover you with skins, and put breath in you, and ye ſhall live, and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord; why this is my will and pleaſure, and therefore be gon, O my Angels, do your office; what have not I commanded you?

Ezek. 37. 4, 5, 6.

2. The Miſſion, or Commiſſion, or Diſmiſſion give, the Angels, ſwift meſſengers of his well fall on the execution, and to that purpoſe immediately they ſound the Trumpet; ſo it follows, And he ſhall ſend his Angels with a great ſound of a Trumpet. Here is the manner of their miſſion; they go, and as they go, they give a ſhout; what this ſhout is, or how it is made, is a curious queſtion, and ſets many wits on work: in this Scripture it is ſet out by the ſound of a Trumpet. * Now ſome would have it to be a material Trumpet, becauſe the Scriptures frequently call it a Trumpet; He ſhall ſend his Angels with the ſound of a Trumpet, ſaith Chriſt; and in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the laſt trumpet we ſhall be changed (ſaith Paul) for the Trumpet ſhall ſound, and the dead ſhall be raiſed. And the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from Heaven with a ſhout, and with the voice of the Archangel, and with the Trumpet of God, But whether this Trumpet ſhall be of Silver or of Braſs, or of the Air, or of the Cloud and Meteors whereon Chriſt rides, they cannot agree: † others more probably look upon this Trumpet as nothing elſe but a metaphor; or a ſound formed in the Air, like the ſound of a Trumpet. A voice it is without all controverſie; and metaphorically it may be call'd a Trumpet, both from the clearneſs and greatneſs of the ſound; ſo loud ſhall it be, that 'twill pierce into the ears of the dead in their graves; It will ſhake the world, rend the rocks, break the mountains; diſſolve the bonds of Death, burſt down the gates of Hell, and unite all ſpirits to their own Bodies. An horrible, terrible voice ſhall it be: But how ſhould Angels who are ſpirits make a voice? by a colliſion of the Air which the Angels can move at their pleaſure; and who can tell, ſay ſome, but there may be ſome new created inſtrument Trumpet-like, adapted for the Angels; at the ſides of which, by a force, and colliſion of the air, this great ſhout may be, to convene all the World? or who knows (ſay others) but that the Lord Jeſus may fill the Angels, even as trumpets are filled with a loud blaſt, and that through them this loud blaſt ſhall come ruſhing like a mighty wind upon the dead Saints, and ſo awaken their bodies out of the duſt? we all know this was uſual in all the Jews ſolemnities to convene the people by the ſound of a trumpet. And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Make thee two trumpets of ſilver,——That thou mayeſt uſe them for the calling of the Aſſembly;——And when thou ſhalt blow them, all the Aſſembly ſhall Aſſemble themſelves; and if you go to war, then ye ſhall blow an alarm with the Trumpets; and in the ſame way (ſay they, Chriſt now will convene all the World with the ſound of a trumpet, or with the ſound of ſome ſuch inſtrument of divine power and vertue, whereby the dead ſhall be raiſed, and their bodies and ſouls re-united. Amidſt all thoſe Authors, if I may deliver my opinion; I ſuppoſe the Text that will clear all to us, above all that is written, is that of 1 Theſſalonians 4. 16. For the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from heaven with a ſhout, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trumpet of God. Give me leave to inſiſt on it, that we may come up yet to a more full and perfect knowledge of this paſſage. In theſe words is ſhewed, or held forth the coming of Chriſt in three particulars; with a ſhout, with a voice, and with a trumpet; ſome think this to be one and the ſame ſet out in variety of expreſſions; but I am of another mind. It is agreed by moſt, that the tranſactions at the giving of the Law on Mount Sinai, were a repreſentation of the proceedings which ſhall be at the great day of Judgment; now in that tranſaction we read of a three-fold voice, The voice of God, the voice of Thunder, and the voice of a Trumpet, (Exod. 19. 16. compared with Exod. 20. 1.) and accordingly we find the Apoſtle ſpeaking of a three-fold voice, Of the voice of Chriſt, of the voice of Thunder, and of the voice of a Trumpet.

1. The Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend with a ſhout, Arius Montanus, and the vulgar, tranſlate it with a command; Lyra and others think this to be the voice of Chriſt himſelf, ſaying, with a loud voice, Ariſe ye dead, and come to Judgment. Thus Jeſus cryed with a loud voice, Lazarus come forth, and with ſuch a voice will he call on the dead at the laſt day. So much Chriſt himſelf hath taught us; The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead ſhall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear ſhall live. The hour is, becauſe by the voice he raiſed ſome at his firſt coming: and the hour is coming, becauſe in the like manner he will raiſe up all men at the laſt day; Marvel not at this (ſaith Chriſt) for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves ſhall hear his voice, and they ſhall come forth. As at the creation of the World, he ſaid, Let there be light, and there was light; ſo at the diſſolution of the World, he will ſay, Let the dead riſe, let the Sea give up the dead that are in it, and Death and Hell deliver up the dead which are in them; and it will be ſo.

2. The Lord ſhall deſcend with the voice of the Archangel. Two queſtions here; 1. Who is this Archangel? 2. What is this Voice?

For the firſt, ſome argue this Archangel to be Gabriel, others Raphael, others Michael. The Jews have an antient tradition, that there are ſeven principal Angels that Miniſter before the throne of God, and therefore called Archangels. The Scriptures ſeem to ſpeak much that way, calling them, ſeven Lamps of fire burning before the throne: and ſeven horns, aud ſeven eyes of the Lamb; and the ſeven ſpirits of God ſent forth into all the earth; and ſeven eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro through the whole earth; and yet more plainly, ſeven Angels that ſtand before God. Now which of theſe Seven is the Archangel, here ſpoken of, is hard to determine; only probable it is, that all the Archangels, and all the Angels are hereby underſtood, as comprehended under that one; to which agrees, Matth. 24. 31. Mr. Aynſworth obſerves, that when things are done by a multitude; where one is chief, that the actions is frequently aſcribe either to the multitude, or to him that is chief indifferently; as Jehoiadah brought forth the Kings Son, and he put the Crown upon him, 2 Kings 11. 12. or they brought forth the Kings ſon, and they pue upon him the Crown, 2 Chron. 33. 11. ſo David offered burnt-offerings, 2. Sam. 6. 17. or they offered burnt-offerings, 1 Chron. 16. 1. and ſo he ſhall deſcend with the voice of the Archangel; or he ſhall ſend his Angels with a great ſound, Matth. 24. 3.

Rev. 4. 5.

Rev. 5. 6.

Zach. 4. 10.

Rev. 8. 2.

That there are ſeven principal Angels, Mr. Mede affirms; and that there is one which yet eminently, is called the Arch-angel; ſome others affirm, as among Devils, there is one chief Devil, called the Mat. 25. 41. Prince of Devils; and therefore the fire is ſaid to be prepared for the Devil and his Angels; ſo from this Text of 1 Theſſ. 4. 16. and of Dan. 10. 13. and of Jude 5. 9. Some probably conclude, that the good Angels have a Prince, even Michael, whom Jude calls the Archangel. But of this no more; the Lord Coll·2. 18. keep me from intruding into thoſe things which I have not ſeen. The day it ſelf will diſcover it, and ſo I leave it, as having ſaid enough to ſatisfie the ſober minded.

For the ſecond, what is this voice of the Archangel? I conceive that thereby we are to underſtand thunder: Here is, (as we have ſaid) a manifeſt alluſion to the proceedings at the giving of the Law; now the voice there mentioned, beſides the Voice of God, and the voice of a Trumpet, is the voice of Thunder; And it came to paſs on the third day in Exod. 19. 16. the Morning, there were Thunders. In this ſenſe ſome --20. 18. expound theſe words of the Apoſtle, where the Law is ſaid to be ſpoken by Angels, becauſe the Angels did Heb. 2. 2. raiſe up thoſe extraordinary Thunders which happily were the matters of the articulate voice, in which the Lord ſpake to Iſrael: or if the Law was ſpoken by Chriſt, (as I have delivered my opinion elſewhere) he being the Angel of the Covenant, Mal. Book. 3. chap. 1. Sect. 4. 3. 1. And the Angel of his preſence, Iſa. 63. 9. Yet this hinders not, but that created Angels might ſpeak the Law too, if not in reſpect of the articulate voice, yet in reſpect of the voice of Thunders which attended on it; thus Thunders are often called the Voice of God, and the voice of his Excellency, Job 37. 4, 5. Pſal. 29. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.

3. The Lord ſhall deſcend with the Trumpet of God. Such a Voice was uſed alſo at the giving of the Law, Exod. 19. 16. and Exod. 20. 18. and ſo it will be now when men are called to account for the keeping or breaking of it. For the underſtanding of this, our laſt Tranſlation tells us, that Chriſt Mat. 24. 31. ſhall ſend his Angels with the great ſound of a Trumpet; but in four Greek Copies, as Beza confeſſeth, as alſo in the Hebrew Goſpel of Matthew, and in the Vulgar, and in the Margent of our laſt Tranſlation, it is read, that Chriſt ſhall ſend his Angels with a Trumpet and a great Voice. And ſo the latter words are exegetical, q. d. with a Trumpet, that is, with a great Voice, like the voice of a Trumpet; ſo that this reading very probably proves, that the laſt Trumpet is to be taken Metaphorically. For the more full confirmation whereof, I argue thus: When any thing is aſcribed to the Angels, which is not ſuitable to their ſpiritual nature, and which they have no need of for the work they are about, it is to be taken Metaphorically; unleſs the context, or ſome other Scripture force us to a proper acceptation; but a material Trumpet of Silver, Braſs, or the like Metal, is not ſuitable to the ſpiritual nature of the Angels; neither have they need of ſuch a ---- Trumpet for producing a great Sound in the Air; it is evident, that without a Trumpet they can make a great ſound like the noiſe of a Trumpet; and there is nothing at all in the Scriptures that will force us, or probably lead us to a proper acceptation of the word; add yet to what hath been ſaid, that ſometimes a great Voice is ſet out by the ſimilitude of a Trumpet; I heard behind me a great Voice, as of a Trumpet, Rev. 1. 10. and the firſt Voice which I heard, was as it were of a Trumpet, Rev. 4. 1.

But why is this ſound as of a Trumpet, called The Trumpet of God? I anſwer, for the greatneſs of it; for it's uſual in the Hebrew Language for the ſetting forth of greatneſs, excellency, or ſuperlativeneſs of a thing, to add the Name of God to the word, whereby the thing is ſignified; as Gen. 23. 6. A Prince of God, (i. e.) a mighty Prince, Gen. 30. 8. With the wreſtlings of God, (i. e.) with great wreſtlings, Pſal. 36. 6. Mountains of God, (i. e.) great mountains, Pſal. 80. 10. Cedars of God, (i. e.) very high Cedars. So here, The Trump of God, (i. e.) A very great Sound, like the ſound of a Trumpet. It is ſaid in the Law, there were Thunders, and Exod. 19. 16. Lightnings, and a thick Cloud upon the Mount, and the Voice of the Trumpet exceeding Loud, ſo that all the People that was in the Camp Trembled; and if there was Trembling at the giving of the Law, Oh what Trembling will be at the General Aſſize, when Sinners ſhall be condemned for breaking of it?

3. No ſooner the ſhout made, but the Saints aroſe; it is true, the Saints that are alive need no Reſurrection, but upon them will this Trumpet have its effect. Something like death ſhall ſeize upon them, and they ſhall be changed. The order of this is given in by the Apoſtle from the Lord; This we ſay unto you by the word of our Lord, that we which are alive, and remain unto the coming of the Lord, 1 Theſ. 4. 15, 16, 17. ſhall not prevent them which are aſleep, for the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from Heaven in a ſhout, with the Voice of the Archangel, and with the Trump of God, and the dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt; then we which are alive, and remain, ſhall be caught up together with them in the Clouds. The firſt that ſhall be called, are the Saints that ſleep, and then the Saints that are alive ſhall be immediately changed. Oh what a day will this be? what a ſtrange ſight to ſee all the dead ever ſince the beginning of the World, riſe out of their Graves? for the Wicked, I believe, they ſhall riſe like Toads from their holes, in a black, ſwarthy, ugly colour: A Queſtion is amongſt the Schools, whether Reprobates ſhall riſe again with all their deformities which they had in this Life? as ſome of them being blind, halt, lame, maimed, deaf, dumb, &c. Whether now they ſhall riſe in the ſelf-ſame condition? for my part, I conceive, that whereas God, the Author of Nature, will at that day reſtore humane nature, that therefore there ſhall be no defects of natural parts; certainly nothing ſhall be wanting in the Damned, which may impede the ſenſe of torment in any part; now a defect of any member would hinder theſe univerſal Torments that muſt ſeize on every part of the Bodies of the damned in Hell; their Bodies therefore ſhall be whole, only the Bodies of ſuch ſhall be foul, ugly, heavy, lumpiſh bodies, as oppoſed to the glorious qualities of the Bodies of Saints; why, what bodies (you will ſay) have they? I Anſwer, glorious bodies: No ſooner ſhall the bodies of the Saints ariſe, but they ſhall exceed with ſingular qualities: They were ſown in corruption, but they were raiſed in incorruption; they were ſown in diſhonour, but raiſed in glory; they 1 Cor. 15. 42, 43, 44. were ſown in weakneſs, but raiſed in power; they were ſown natural bodies, but raiſed ſpiritual bodies. The Sun in its ſhinings, doth but ſhadow forth the glory of their bodies; and this will in ſome meaſure torment the Reprobates, to ſee the difference of their bodies, and the bodies of the Saints. O (will they ſay) yonder are they, whom we deſpiſed, and now are they honoured. See a world of Suns riſing at once out of all parts of the Earth; ſometimes we lived on Earth, and we never ſaw but one Sun riſing in the Eaſt; but lo, millions of Suns on Eaſt, and Weſt, and North, and South; O thoſe are the glorious Saints of Heaven: ſee with what ſwift and agile bodies they are preparing to fly into the Air, to meet their Lord and Saviour there; whilſt in the mean time we riſe with ſuch heavy, dull, and deformed bodies, that we cannot mount. O what will become of us? why, this is the day of Reſurrection. The Angels have been here to unſeal our Graves, and to roll away the ſtones, and at their ſhout, and ſound of the Trumpet, our ſcattered duſts have met together: and lo, now we ſtand upon the Earth.

4. No ſooner the Saints raiſed, and their ſouls and bodies re-united with excellent Majeſty, but then ſhall all the Elect of God, from firſt to laſt, be gathered together: if you ask whence? and whither? I anſwer——

1. To the queſtion, Whence? from the four Winds, from one end of Heaven to another. (i. e.) From all parts of the World, from Eaſt, and Weſt, and North, and South, from one end of the Heaven to another; a vulgar term in regard of our ſight; for in it ſelf Heaven is round, and hath no end: the meaning is, that not one Saint in all the world, from Adam, to the laſt man ſhall be concealed, or lye hid; from the moſt hidden, inward, ſecret boſom of the earth all ſhall be gathered; howſoever their duſts may be ſcattered into a thouſand thouſand parts, yet the power of Chriſt ſhall reſtore all thoſe duſts, and bring them together into their ſeveral compacted bodies.

2. To the queſtion, Whither they ſhall be gathered? ſome ſay, to the Valley of Jehoſhaphat, from that Text, Let the Heathen be weakned, and come up to the Valley of Jehoſhaphat; for there will I ſit to judge the Heathen round about; but I believe this Text hath reference to a particular Judgment of God upon Iſrael's enemies which dwell round about Jeruſalem, and not to the general day of Judgment. Others ſay, to Mount-Olivet from that Text, This ſame Jeſus which is taken up from you into Heaven, ſhall ſo come in like manner as ye have ſeen him go into Heaven; then returned they unto Jeruſalem from the Mount called Olivet. But I believe this Text ſpeaks only on the manner how Chriſt ſhall come, and not of the place to which he ſhall come. Indeed 'tis not probable, that either the Valley of Jehoſhaphat, or the Mount of Olivet, can be ſufficient places to contain all the men that ever were, are, and ſhall be; and therefore if ſuch a thing can be determined, I ſhould rather appeal to that Text, Then we which are alive and remain, wall be caught up together with them (that are raiſed) in the Clouds to meet the Lord in the Air. When Chriſt was askt this very Queſtion, Where Lord? whither ſhall the Saints be gathered? where ſhall the general Judgment be? He anſwers, Whereſoever the body is, thither will the Eagles be gathered together. By the body, Chriſt meant himſelf, and by the Eagles, Chriſt meant his Elect, becauſe their youth is renewed as the Eagles; now the Elect muſt reſort to Chriſt whereſoever He is; and the Apoſtle is expreſs, that Chriſt is in the Air, and in the Clouds: And therefore thither muſt the Elect be gathered; they ſhall be caught up by the holy Angels into the Clouds, to meet the Lord in the air.

Joel 3. 12.

Acts 1. 11, 12.

1 Theſ. 4. 17.

Luke 17. 37.

O my brethren, what ſights are theſe! what changes, wonders, ſtrange face of things will be this day? how is it that we are not as frequent in the meditation of this Summons as Jerom was, who as he thought, heard daily that Sound, Ariſe ye dead and come to Judgment? methinks a ſad and ſerious conſideration of theſe paſſages might keep us cloſe to Chriſt; come try a little, if in the hurryings of the day we are ſo diſtracted, that we cannot reach the ſpiritual part of a meditation, yet in the evening or morning when all is ſtill, or in the night-ſeaſon when all is quiet, then labour to prevent the day of doom; ſo reallize it, as if then we ſaw Chriſt in the clouds, ſending his Angels on this Errand, Away, and bring hither all the Men, and Women in the World; and in the firſt place, gather my Saints together unto me, Adam and Abraham thoſe Fathers of the World and of the faithful, let them ſee all their Children, and let all their Children ſee them, and bring them all to my Throne? awaken the world, let them who have ſlept in their Graves ſome thouſands of years, be now rouzed, and raiſed. Imagine then, as if we heard the Trumpet of God ſounded by the Angels of God, and as the ſound of it waxed louder and louder, that we ſaw the Mountains skip like Rams, and the little Hills like young Sheep. That we ſaw all the graves in Churches, or Church-yards, in Fields, or Plains, or Seas, fly open; that we ſaw all the Bodies of the Dead begining to ſtir, and to ſtand upon their feet, and preſently the Angels coming, and taking all the Saints upon their wings, and ſo flying with them through the Air 'till they came to the Throne, and judgment-ſeat of Chriſt: Is it poſſible that ſuch a meditation ſhould paſs without ſome tincture of it on our ſpirits? if my Ears ſhall hear that ſound, and if my Eyes ſhall ſee theſe Sights, is it not time for me to lay theſe things to heart, that I may be found faithful and well-doing? as ſure as I have this Book in my hand I muſt be one of thoſe that ſhall hear the ſound of the Trumpet, and away I muſt from the mouth of my Grave, wherever I ſhall be buried, to the Cloud where Chriſt doth ſit; come then, how would I riſe? as foul as a Toad? or as an Angel of God? O my God! ſet this home on my Soul! O where's my Lamp? and where's my Oyl? are all ready; and am I ready, furniſhed, and prepared to meet the Lord in the Air? Chriſtians! if we have any life in us, let us act and realize this to the life; O this would keep us cloſe to Chriſt, and to the Banner of Chriſt; who would not march under this Banner, and adhere to him, that but reads over theſe ſummons of ſouls at the laſt dreadful day.

Sect. 4. Of Chriſt and the Saints meeting at the Judgment Day.

4. FOR Chriſt and the Saints meeting at the judgment day; no ſooner are the Saints liſted up, and ſet before the Judge, but theſe things follow.——

1. They look, and gaze, and dart their beams, and reflect their glories on each other. Oh the communications! Oh the darting of beams betwixt Chriſt and his Saints! look as when two admirable perſons, two lovers meet together, their Eyes ſparkle, they look on, as if they would look through one a- So Chriſt and his Saints at firſt meeting, they look on, as if they would look through one another. And ſuch is the effect of theſe looks, that they give a luſtre to each other by their looks. Did not Moſes's face ſhine when he had been with God? and ſhall not the faces of the elect glitter and ſhine when Chriſt alſo looks on them? nor ſtays it there; but as they ſhine by Chriſt, ſo ſhall their ſhine reflect on Chriſt, and give a glory to Chriſt, and this I take to be the meaning of the Apoſtle, That when Chriſt ſhall come, he ſhall be glorified in his Saints not only in himſelf, but in his Saints alſo; whoſe glory as it comes from him, ſo it redounds alſo to him, For of him, and through him, and to him are all things.

2. Theſ. 1. 10.

Rom. 11. 36.

2. They admire at the infinite glory, and beauty, and dignity, and excellency that is in Chriſt. The glory they reflect on him is nothing to the glory that is in him. Oh when theſe ſtars, the Saints, ſhall but look upon Chriſt the Son of righteouſneſs, they exceedingly admire. So the Apoſtle, 2 Theſ. 1. 10. When he ſhall come, he ſhall be glorified in his Saints, and he ſhall be admired in all them that believe. All that believe ſhall break out into admiration of Jeſus Chriſt: they ſhall at the firſt ſight obſerve ſuch an excellency in Jeſus Chriſt, as they ſhall be infinitely taken with it: here we ſpeak of Chriſt, and in ſpeaking we admire; but how will they admire, when they ſhall not only ſpeak or hear, but ſee and behold him who is the Expreſs image of God, and the Heb. 1. 3. brightneſs of his Father's glory? O the luſtres that he caſts forth each way! is not his very body more ſparkling than the Diamond before the Sun? yea, more than the Sun it ſelf now ſhining at noonday? how ſhould the Saints but wonder at this ſight? O there is more beauty, and glory in Jeſus Chriſt than ever their thoughts or imaginations could poſſibly reach; there is more weight of ſweetneſs, joy, and delight in Jeſus Chriſt than either the ſeeing Eye, or 1 Cor. 2. 9 hearing Ear, or the vaſt underſtanding Heart (which can multiply and add ſtill to any former thoughts) can poſſibly conceive: every ſoul will cry out then, I believe to ſee much glory in Jeſus Chriſt, when ever I ſaw him; I had ſome twilight, or Moon-light glances of Chriſt on Earth; but O blind I! O narrow I! that could never have Faith, Opinion, Thought, or Imagination to Fathom the thouſand thouſand part of the worth, and incomparably excellency that I now ſee in him. Why, this cauſeth admiration, when we ſee more, than ever we could expect; the Saints ſhall then cry out, and ſay, I ſee more, ten Thouſand times, more than ever I expected; I ſee all the Beauty of God put forth in Chriſt, I ſee the ſubſtantial reflection of the Father's Light and Glory in Jeſus Chriſt, I ſee Thouſands of Excellencies in Jeſus Chriſt that never were revealed to me before. This is the very Nature of admiration it is ever wondring or admiring at ſome new and ſtrange thing: the Glory of Chriſt will then exceed all former apprehenſion. O they admire to ſee the King in ſuch a Beauty, they admire to ſee the Judge in ſuch a Glittering and Glorious Robe of Majeſty, they admire, and they cannot but admire.

3. They Adore, and Magnifie the Grace and Glory of Jeſus Chriſt; as it is ſaid of the twenty four Elders, that they fell down before him that ſate on the Throne, and Worſhiped him that liveth for ever and ever, Rev. 5. 10. and caſt their Crowns before the Throne ſaying, Thou art worthy O Lord to receive Glory, and Honour and Power, for thou haſt Created all things, and for thy Pleaſure they are and were Created. So all the Saints, now advanced to come up to Chriſt, and to ſtand before the Throne, they fall down before Chriſt, and they Worſhip him that lives for ever, ſhouting and ſinging about Jeſus Chriſt, and ſetting Rev. 7. 9, 10, 11, 12. out his Glory, Grace, and Goodneſs. After this I beheld (ſaith John) and lo a great multitude, which no Man could number, of all Nations, and Kindred, and People, and Tongues ſtood before the Throne, and before the Lamb —— and Cryed with a loud Voice, ſaying, Salvation to our God, which ſitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb; and all the Angels ſtood round about the Throne, and about the Elders, and the four Beaſts, and fell before the Throne on their Faces, and Worſhipped God, ſaying, Amen; Bleſſing and Glory, and Wiſdom, and Thanksgiving, and Honour, and Power, and Might be unto our God for ever and ever Amen. Saints and Angels will both give Glory to Jeſus Chriſt that day; every elect Man will then acknowledge, here is Chriſt that ſhed his Blood for me, here is the Saviour that laid down his Life for me, here is the Sacrifice that gave himſelf a Propitiation for me, here is the Perſon that Mediated, and Interceded, and made Peace for me; here is the Redeemer that Delivered, and Redeemed me from the Wrath to come; and then they begin thoſe Hallelujahs, that never ſhall have end: Hallelujah, Rev. 19. 7. and again Hallelujah; and Amen Hallelujah; for the Marriage of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her ſelf ready,

4. Chriſt welcomes them into his Glorious preſence; if the Father could receive his Prodigal but Repenting with Huggs and Kiſſes, how will Chriſt now receive his Saints, when they come as a Bride to the Solemnization of the Marriage; his very Heart ſprings (as I may ſay) at the ſight of his Bride; no ſooner he ſees her, and Salutes her, but he welcomes her with ſuch Words as theſe: O my Love, my Dove, Hoſ. 2. 19. 20. my Fair one, come now and enjoy thy Husband, many a thought I have had of thee, before I made the World, I ſpent my infinite Eternal thoughts on thy Salvation, when the World began I gave thee a promiſe, that I would betroth thee unto me in Righteouſneſs, and in Judgment; in Loving-kindneſs, in Mercy, and in Faithfulneſs; It was I that for thy ſake was Incarnate, and Lived, and Died, and Roſe again, and Aſcended, and ſince my aſcenſion that have been Interceding for thee, and making ready the Bride-chamber where thou and I muſt Live, for ever and ever: and now I come hither into the Clouds, to meet thee more than half the way; and my meaning is to take thee by the Hand, and to bring thee to my Father; now do I take thee for my own; O my Siſter, my Spouſe, thou art as dear to me as my own dear Heart; come, ſee into my Boſom, ſee here Love written in the Golden Letters of free-grace; come near, For I muſt have thee with me; and I will never more be ſo ſtrange to thee as to this Day; ſometimes thy ſins have made a wall of Partition between me and thee; ſometimes I withdrew and was gone, and I hid my ſelf beyond the Curtains; and for a time thou haſt layen hid in the Cloſet of the Grave; but now wee'l never part more; anon I will bring thee to my Father, and I will ſay to him, Father, behold here my Spouſe that I have Married unto my ſelf; in the mean time welcome to thy Jeſus, I have purchaſed thee with my Blood, I have paid dear for thee: and now I'll wear thee as a Crown and Ornament for ever.

5. Chriſt ſets them on his right Hand; Upon thy right Hand doth ſtand the Queen in Gold of Ophir. This Pſal. 45. 9. is the ſign of Chriſt's Love, and reſpect to his Saints; when he himſelf Aſcended up into Heaven, then ſaid the Father to him; Son, ſit thou down at my right Hand; and no ſooner the Saints are aſcended up to Chriſt, but he ſpeaks the ſame to them, Sit thou down at my right Hand; Chriſt Entertains them, as God the Father Entertained him, he at the right Hand of God, and they at the right hand of Chriſt. And herein is ſet forth the great Exaltation of the Saints; as Chriſt being ſet at God's right Hand, God highly exalted him, and gave him a Name above every Name, ſo now are the Saints Highly Exalted by Jeſus Chriſt, now are they filled with unmatchable perfections, now is the πλήρωμα the fulneſs of perfection, and fulneſs of Honour and Glory conferred upon them; Upon his right hand is ſet the Queen in Gold of Ophir, (i.e.) in the Beſt, Richeſt, Fineſt Gold; the Lord now puts upon his Saints Heaven's Glory; he adorns them with all his Ornaments fit for the Marriage day, and indeed here is the beginning of the ſolemnity of the marriage of the Lamb; not but that the contract was before, but the ſolemnity was reſerved for this day, and all the glory of this day is for nothing elſe but to ſet out the ſolemnity of the marriage. As the Bridegroom on the day of nuptials comes forth in his glory, and as the Bride on the marriage-day comes forth in her beſt array; and as the parents, friends, and ſervants, and all appear on the marriage day in as much glory as they can; ſo Chriſt on this day comes forth in his glory, with all his Angels in their glory; and the Saints, the Lamb's wife, The King's Daughter is all glorious without and within. Pſal. 45. 13. Though Stars may loſe their ſhining when the Sun ariſeth, yet the glory of the Saints ſhall be no leſs becauſe of the Sun of righteouſneſs, but rather more. This is the day that Chriſt ſhall honour his Saints before all the world; (come will he ſay) and ſit you down at my right hand; as a Shepherd divideth his Sheep from the Goats, ſo will I ſeparate you from wicked reprobates; why you are they for whom the eternal councels of my Father did work, you are they in whom I am now to be glorified for ever; and therefore now will I exalt, and advance, and honour you; ſit here, or ſtand here on my right hand: O come, come hither to the right hand of your Saviour.

6, Hereupon Chriſt fully, and actually joys in them; and they in him; he joys in them, becauſe now he ſees of the travail of his ſoul; he ſees the iſſue of all his doings and ſufferings here on earth, he ſees now the great work he hath brought about, to wit, the glory of his Saints; and he cannot but rejoyce therein. As a man that makes a work that is very curious, and glorious, he takes abundance of delight to look upon it; when God made the world, he look't upon what he made, and he ſaw it was good, and he delighted in it, ſo Chriſt looks on his Saints, and when he ſees what he hath done, in raiſing ſo poor a worm to ſo high an excellency, he takes infinite delight therein; now he ſees that he hath attained his end in that great deſign, and deepeſt councels that he had before the world: he was then reſolved to ſave a number of ſinners, and to bring them at laſt to himſelf that they might behold him in his glory, and manifeſt the riches of his grace; and to that pourpoſe hath he ſtill been carrying on the great work of ſouls ſalvation as we have heard; and now that he ſees it accompliſhed, and fulfilled in them, he muſt needs delight: In that day it ſhall be ſaid to Jeruſalem, fear thou not, and to Zion, let not Epheſ. 3. 17. thy hands be faint; for the Lord thy God in the midſt of thee is mighty, he will ſave thee, he will rejoyce over thee with joy, he will reſt in his love, he will joy over thee with ſinging.

And as he joys in them, ſo they cannot but rejoyce in him; as he delights in their glory, ſo they cannot but delight in his glory: are they not at Chriſt's Pſal. 16. 11. right hand? and is not that the place of pleaſure, the Paradice of God? In thy preſence is fulneſs of joy: and at thy right hand are pleaſures for evermore: The very ſetting them on Chriſt's right hand, is the be- Jude 24. ginning of Heaven's joy. The preſence of Chriſt makes joy, exceeding joy, ſaith Jude; oh but what joy? what fulneſs of joy, what exceeding joy will it be to be ſet at Chriſt's right hand? now begins that joy, that never, never ſhall have end. O the complacency which the bleſſed feel in their ſeeing, knowing, loving, and being beloved of Jeſus Chriſt. O my Chriſt let me have tribulation here, let me here ſpend my days in ſorrow, and my breath in ſighings; puniſh me here, cut me in pieces here, burn me here, ſo that I may there be placed at thy right hand; for then joy will come, and ſorrow will vaniſh; ſorrow is but for a night, this night of life; but joy will come in the morning of the reſurrection, and it never ſhall be night again

Sect. 5. Of Chriſt's ſentencing his Saints.

5. FOR Chriſt ſentencing of his Saints; no ſooner are they ſet on his right hand, but he prepares for ſentence; in the opening of which we muſt conſider, 1. The preparative. 2. The ſentence it ſelf.

1. The preparative before ſentence will be ſome exploration or trial of the parties to be ſentenced, as———

1. The Book muſt be opened. And I ſaw the dead, ſmall and great, ſtand before God, and the Books were Rev. 20. 12. opened, and another was opened which is the Book of life. It is ſpoken after the manner of men, in whoſe publick Judgment are produced all the writings of the proceſs, informations, depoſitions of witneſſes, to ſhew that all actions, even the moſt ſecret ones ſhall then be rehearſed and made manifeſt: Auguſtin thinks theſe Aug. l. 30. de civitate Dei cap 14. Books to be the Books of the Old and New Teſtament, wherein all things either to be done, or omitted, are preſcribed by God: and then ſhall theſe Books be opened, becauſe according to them ſhall Rom. 2. 16. ſentence be given; In that day God ſhall Judg the ſecrets of men by Jeſus Chriſt according to my Goſpel. Origen; Origen, Com. ad Rom. 14. and almoſt all with him, think, theſe Books to be the Books of our conſciences, which now are ſhut up, and concealed from men; but then ſhall be made manifeſt to all the world: whatever theſe Books are, we find here one Book opened which is proper to the Saints, called the Book of Life; This Book contains in it the names of all that are elected from firſt to laſt; Thou John, and and thou Joſeph, and thou Judeth, and thou Mary, and thou Elizabeth, &c. you are all Book'd down, there is the particularity, and there is the certainty; Your names are written in Heaven, rejoyce in it; Oh what is the joy of Saints when once they ſee this Book opened, and their names inrolled, engraved there in letters of glory. This very Book clears it to me, that God from all Eternity, made choice of a particular and determinate number of perſons, to ſave them; and that none other can be ſaved, but thoſe who were ſo Elected; and whoſoever are ſo Elected, they ſhall not fall away. All that Worſhip the Beaſt, their Rev. 13. 8. Names are not written in the Book of Life of the Lamb, ---17. 8. from the foundation of the World. On the other ſide, Rev. 3. 5. He that overcometh, the ſame ſhall be written in the Book of Life, and I will not blot out his Name, but I will confeſs his Name before my Father, and his Angels. This is the day when that Book of Life ſhall be opened, and Chriſt ſhall read the Names of every Elect perſon before God and Angels; not that Chriſt needs a Book, or indeed reads a Name, but that his Election ſtands ſo firm, that he knows every predeſtinated Saint as well, as we know their names, whom for our memories we commit unto our books: and then he will ſo honour his Saints, that he will publiſh their names to all the world.

2. All the actions, demeanours, graces, duties, and (it may) be ſins of Saints ſhall be produced and laid open: the Holy Ghoſt tells us, that the Dead were judged out of thoſe things which were written in the Books. It appears hence, that not only names, but things were written, and theſe things were produced, and accordingly they were Judged.

1. As to evil things, unfruitful works of darkneſs. It is a Queſtion, and I dare not be too poſitive in it, viz. Whether the Sins of God's People ſhall be manifeſt at the day of Judgment? Some are for the Negative, becauſe God in his promiſes ſpeaks ſo expreſly, Of forgiving Iniquities, of Remembring them no more, of Blotting them out, of throwing them into the bottom of the Sea, of caſting them behind his Back: In which reſpect, ſay they, the Godly are ſaid not to come into Judgment. I ſuppoſe this laſt Text is ill urged; for by Judgment, is not meant diſcuſſion, but condemnation; and in our beſt Tranſlations ſo it is rendred: others are for the Affirmative, upon theſe grounds; 1. Becauſe many of the Godly and Wicked mens Sins are mingled together, and there cannot be a Judgment and diſcuſſion, preceding that of Condemnation, unleſs Godly men's Sins are alſo produced. 2. Becauſe it is ſpoken generally in reſpect of all ſorts, that the Books were opened. By which Books moſt underſtand the Conſciencies of men; and by the Opening of thoſe Books, they underſtand the manifeſting, clearing, and diſcovering of Conſciences at that General Day. 3. Becauſe the Scriptures are expreſs for the the Affirmative; not but that thoſe Texts are Truths, that Sins are Forgiven, Blotted Out, Thrown away, to be Remembred no More, (i. e.) as to Condemnation; but as for exploration or diſcuſſion, the Lord ſpeaks univerſally, that Mat. 12. 36. of every Idle Word that men Speak, they ſhall give an Account thereof at the day of Judgment. If the ballance weigh down on this ſide (for my part I am not peremptory, but ſhall eaſily ſubmit to the ſpirits of the Prophets) yet this manifeſtation ſhall not be for the ſhame, grief, trouble, ignominy, or confuſion of the godly; but only for the ſetting up of God's Juſtice, and that the goodneſs and free grace of God in Chriſt may be made more illuſtrious: how will Chriſt then be exalted, when all the world ſhall ſee his righteouſneſs and goodneſs, his truth and mercy, now again meeting together, and kiſſing each other? it was ſo at his firſt coming, and it will be ſo at his ſecond coming; then ſhall his juſtice and mercy, his righteouſneſs and goodneſs be manifeſted to all; in that by his own Merits, notwithſtanding their Sins, he will bring all his Saints to his Heavenly glory.

2. As for good things, whether good works, duties or graces, there is no queſtion, but all theſe will be that day produced, and laid open, 1. Wee ſee Chriſt enumerating the good Works of them on his right hand: for Mat. 25. 35. 36. I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat; I was thirſty, and ye gave me drink? I was a ſtranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye cloathed me; ſick, and ye viſited me; in priſon, and ye came unto me. It is true, in this Catalogue we find nothing of Faith, but all of Works; but certainly Faith is included, as the life of the Tree is included in the Fruit; not only, nor principally are Works here mentioned for the goodneſs of the Work conſidered in it ſelf; but as theſe Works did expreſs our faith and love to Jeſus Chriſt, in that by Faith we could ſee Chriſt in a poor beggar or priſoner, and could love Jeſus Chriſt in theſe poor, better than all our worldly goods, or liberties. I do not wonder that Paul adviſeth his 2 Cor. 8. 7. Corinthians, See that ye abound in this Grace of contribution to the Saints: and that he prayed his Philip. 1. 9. Philippians, And this I pray, that your Love may abound yet more; And that he prayeth for his 1 Theſ. 1. 12. Theſſalonians, now the Lord make you to encreaſe, and to abound in love one towards another, and towards all men; and that he praiſeth God in their behalf: 2 Theſ. 1. 3. We are bound to thank God alwayes for your brethren, as it is meet, becauſe that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all towards each other aboundeth. Chriſtians! if we did but conſider, that every duty done to God or Man, that every penny given to a poor naked Saint, that every cup of cold water given to a Prophet in the name of a Prophet, ſhould not loſe his reward, but this day ſhould be reckoned up, or drawn (as it were) into a full Inventory; Imprimis, For this piece of Silver given ſuch a day to ſuch a one; Item, For this piece of bread ſuch a day given to ſuch a one, &c. Oh who would not abound in Faith and Love? Oh who would think any thing too much, too good, too dear, to give to the Needy members of Jeſus Chriſt? there is a charge laid upon Miniſters to preach this Doctrine, I beſeech you give me leave to diſcharge my duty, and to lay it, and leave it at your doors, where beggars uſually ſtand; 1 Tim. 6. 17, 18. 19. Charge them that are Rich in this Word —— that they do good, that they be rich in good Works, ready to Deſtribute, willing to Communicate; laying up in ſtore for themſelves a good Foundation againſt the time to come, that they may lay hold on Eternal Life. You to whom God hath given the riches of this World, as you would meet Chriſt with comfort, learn this Leſſon: conſider whether of of theſe two reckonings will be more comfortable at that day; Item, So much given to ſuch and ſuch a religious uſe? or ſo much given towards ſuch a Feaſt, and for the entertainment of ſuch brave gallants? ſo much to promote the Goſpel? or ſo much at Dice, Cards, Horſe-races? if one ſhould tell you, that either you muſt feed Chriſt in the poor, or you muſt ſtarve in Hell; you muſt either cloath naked Chriſt in the poor, or you muſt be laid naked to the fiery indignation of the Lord for ever, oh what ſtrictneſs would you call this? but I recollect my ſelf; if Chriſt ſet you at his right hand, he will then recount all your charities, and all your Labours of love to the Saints: you that are poor, and had nothing to give, he will tell you of your good works, if it was no more, but at ſuch a time, you caſt a mite into his Treaſury, and at ſuch a time you carryed a Letter for the Lord Jeſus; he will produce and commend theſe pittances of your poor charities to all the world.

2. Not only good works to man; but all the Saints duties to God ſhall come in remembrance. Oh then it will be known who ſerved the Lord in ſpirit and truth, and who did not; then Men and Angels ſhall know, ſuch a day this poor Saint performed ſuch a ſpiritual ſervice; every prayer in publick or private, every tear ſhed for ſin, every ſob, or ſigh, every ſpiritual Meditation, or ſelf-examination, every glance, ejaculation, or looking unto Jeſus, ſhall be recounted by Jeſus: It was ſaid of Cornelius, that as well his prayers Act. 4.01. to God, as his alms to men came up for a memorial before God; certainly every duty in reference to the firſt table is booked in Heaven, and at this day the book being opened, it will appear, that ſuch a Prayer thou madeſt ſuch a morning and ſuch an evening in thy cloſet; and now will Chriſt ſay, Did not I tell Mt. 6a. 6. thee, that if thou wouldſt pray to thy Father in ſecret, then he that ſaw thee in ſecret, ſhould reward thee openly; why now ſhall thou have thy reward in a full view, I will divulge here all thy ſecret duties to Men and Angels; all the world ſhall know it, thy wandrings I told them, and P. 5 thy tears I bottled them; lo here, are they not all written in my Book?

Not only duties, but graces ſhall now be rehearſed; thy Knowledge, Faith, Hope, Love, ſpiritual Joy; thy Fear, obedience, Repentance Humility, Meekneſs, Patience, Zeal, Perſeverance ſhall be fully diſcovered; time was that in the incenſe of ſuch a Prayer many ſweet ſpices were burnt together; therein was Faith working by Love; therein was Humility, therein was Patience in ſubmitting to God's will and pleaſure, therein was Hope of a gracious anſwer in God's due time, therein was Holineſs, brokenneſs of Heart, and love to others, &c. Time was (ſaith Chriſt) that I gathered my myrrh with my Cant. 5. 1. ſpices, that I eat my honey-comb with my honey, that I both accepted and delighted my ſelf in thy heavenly graces; I ſhall never forget how thou didſt raviſh my heart, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe; how thou doſt raviſh my heart with one of thine eyes, and with one chain of thy neck. Why, thus ſhall the Lord ſet forth, and tell all the world what gracious children he had? then will appear indeed the Meekneſs of Moſes, the Faith of Abraham, the Patience of Job, the Zeal of Phineas, the Love of Magdalen ; and according to the meaſure of grace conferred upon thee, Chriſt will ſet thee out ; We commend the graces of ſuch and ſuch Saints at their death, but oh let Chriſt blazon me, and his graces in me at the reſurrection-day.

Thus far for the Exploration or Tryal before ſentence.

2. For the ſentence it ſelf, then ſhall the King ſay to them on his right hand, Come ye bleſſed of my Mat. 2. 5. 24 Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. Every world here is full of life and joy ; 1. Come] this is the King's invitation of his Saints to his Court ; he hath ſummoned them before to his preſence, and now they are about him, he will not part with them, they muſt come a little nearer yet, they muſt go with him into his preſence chamber ; the manſions are ready, the Supper of the Lamb is ready, and now he begins the ſolemn Luk.u90, 21. invitation to his bride, Come. 2. Come ye bleſſed of my Father] Chriſt bleſſed them when he went up to Heaven, and whiles yet on Earth he pronounced them bleſſed many a time ; Bleſſed be ye poor ; Bleſſed are ye that hunger ; Bleſſed are ye that weep ; but now he calls them the bleſſed of his Father ; not only Chriſt, but God the Father hath ever looked upon them as his Children ; it is the Father's will as well as Chriſt's, Luk. 12. 32. that they ſhould be bleſſed, Ye bleſſed of my Father. 3. Inherit the Kingdom] Chriſt had told them before, Rom. 8. 17. it is your Fathers pleaſure to give you the Kingdom ; but then they were only ſervants, or as children under Eph. 4. 13. age, but now they are heirs, Heirs of God, and joynt-heirs with Chriſt ; and now they are come to full age, To the meaſure of the ſtature of the fulneſs of Chriſt ; and therefore they muſt have the inheritance in poſſeſſion, they muſt all be Kings ; this very word ſpeaks them Kings, and makes them Kings ; it is the ſolemn Coronation of the Saints. It is the anointing, the ſetting of the Crown upon the heads of the Saints ; 1 Tim. 4. 8. Henceforth there is laid up for me a Crown of Righteouſneſs, which the Lord the righteous Judge ſhall give me at that day, and not for me only, but unto them alſo that love his appearing. 4. Inherit the Kingdom, prepared for you. as Tophet was prepared of old, ſo was this Kingdom prepared of old ; it was the firſt creature that ever God made, In the beginning God created Gen. 1. 1. heaven ; his firſt work was to make Heaven for himſelf and his Saints to dwell in ; he prepared it for them, and then he prepared them for it : but why for them ? were not Angels the firſt creatures that poſſeſſed it? nay, were they are created in it, or together with it ? yes, but yet the Angels are not properly the heirs, ſons, members, ſpouſe of God and Chriſt, as the Saints are ; the Angels are but miniſtring ſpirits, and the ſervants of the Bridegroom ; but the Saints are the Bride her ſelf, heirs, and co-heirs with Chriſt. 5. Prepared for you from the foundation of the world. This was the great deſign of God and Chriſt from all Eternity ; before the Foundations of the World, and at the firſt ſtone laid, and ever ſince, they have been carrying on this mighty work ; it is not a buſineſs of Yeſterday only ; No, no ; the Eternal thoughts of God have been upon it, He hath choſen us in him before the Foun- Epheſ. 1. 4. dation of the World.

Oh what thoughts are in Saints, when this ſentence is propounded ! Oh what joy enters into them now they are to enter into their Maſters joy ? methinks if it were poſſible that tears could be in a Glorified Eſtate, the Saints ſhould not ſee Chriſt reach out a Crown to ſet it on their Heads, but they ſhould weep, and hold away their Heads, but Chriſt will have it ſo ; This honour have all the Saints ; Praiſe ye the Lord.

Sect. 6. Of Chriſt and the Saints judging the reſt of the World.

6. FOR Chriſt and his Saints judging the world ; no ſooner ſhall the Saints be Sentenced, Juſtified, Acquitted, Anointed, Crowned ; but preſently they muſt be Enthronized, and ſit with Jeſus Chriſt to judge the World. In the unfolding of this we may obſerve theſe Particulars.——

1. As Chriſt is on a Throne, ſo now muſt the Elect be ſet on Thrones ; To him that overcometh will Rev. 3. 21. I grant to ſit with me in my Throne. Thrones are for Kings and Judges ; and in that Chriſt hath now lifted up his Saints to this Condition, he will have them ſit with him as ſo many Judges, and as ſo many Kings ; or if it be more honour to have Thrones for themſelves, than to ſit with Chriſt in his Throne ; John in Rev. 20. 4. his viſion ſaw many Thrones ; And I ſaw Thrones and they ſat upon them, and Judgment was given unto them. and Chriſt himſelf told his Apoſtles, Verily I, ſay unto you, that ye which have followed me in the regeneration, when the Son of Man ſhall ſit in the Throne of his Mat. 19. 28. Glory, ye alſo ſhall ſit upon twelve Thrones judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. Hence ſome Argue that amongſt all the Saints, the Apoſtles ſhall have their Thrones ſeated next to Chriſt ; howſoever the reſt ſhall not be deprived of their Thrones ; for not only twelve Thrones, but twelve and twelve are ſet about the Throne of Chriſt ; Rev. 4. 4 And round about the Throne were four and twenty Thrones (or Seats) and upon the Throne I ſaw four and twenty Thrones and twenty four Elders ſitting cloathed with white Raiment, and they had on their Heads Crowns of Gold. Onely four and twenty Elders are numbred but thereby is repreſented the whole Church of Chriſt ; It is plain enough, that all the Saints ſhall appear plainly in the Glory of Chriſt's Kingdom, having Thrones with him in the Air, during the time of his Judgment

2. The Goats on the left Hand ſhall then be called to receive their Doom. No ſooner the Saints Enthronized, but then ſhall Chriſt ſay, Ye Bleſſed Angels bring hither all thoſe mine Enemies, who have ſaid I ſhall not rule over them, that I may bruiſe them with my Iron Mace, and break them in pieces like a Potter's Veſſel. O the fear and trembling that will now ſeize on reprobates ! do but ſee the caſe of Priſoners, when the Judge ſpeaks that Word, Come Jaylors, bring hither thoſe Priſoners to the Bar. But alas ! what compariſon can we make to ſuit with the condition of theſe Reprobates ? now ſhall their Hearts fail them for fear ; now ſhall they ſeek Death (oh how gladly would they Die again ?) but ſhall not find it ; now ſhall they cry to Rocks and Mountains, Fall on us, Rev. 6. 16. and hide us from the Face of Him that ſitteth on the Throne, and from the Wrath of the Lamb. As a Priſoner in a deſperate Caſe had rather remain in his ſordid ſtinkin Dungeon, than coming into the open Air for execution ; ſo the Reprobates newly raiſed from the Earth, woud fain return again into the Earth, glad to remain, though not on the face of it with Pleaſure, yet in the Bowels of it with rottenneſs and ſolitude ; like Malefactors preſſing to Death, they cry out for more weight, Hills cover us, Mountains fall upon us, yet more weight, more Rocks, more Mountains ; hide us, preſs us, cover us, diſpatch us. But all in vain ; the command is out, Angels and Devils will force them to the Bar, for the Lord hath ſpoken it ; Luke 19. 27. Thoſe mine Enemies which would not that I ſhould Reign over them, bring them hither.

2. They ſhall look on Chriſt, and his Saints, now ſitting on their Thronre As Priſoners that ſtand at the Bar in the Face of the Judge, ſo muſt theſe Reprobates look the Judge and all his Aſſeſſors in the very Face.

1. For the Judge, they ſhall look on him, Behold

he cometh with Clouds, and Every Eye ſhall ſee him, and they alſo which pierced him, We heard before, that no ſooner Chriſt in the Clouds but they ſaw him then; as the Priſoners that ſee the Judge riding to his Judgment-ſeat; Oh but now they ſhall ſee him in the Judgment-ſeat ready with ſparkling Eyes, and thundring Voice to ſpeak their Sentence. Priſoners at the Bar muſt not turn their backs on the Judge, when he begins their Sentence no more muſt reprobates; They muſt ſee him in Majeſty whom they would not begin to look upon in humility; that by ſo much more they may feel his Power, by how much more they derided his weakneſs. Oh the difference betwixt Chriſt's firſt coming in the Fleſh, and in his ſecond coming in the Clouds; then he came in Poverty, now in Majeſty; then in Humility, now in Glory, then with poor Shepherds, now with Mighty Angels; then the contempt of Nations, now the Terror of the World; then Crowned with Thorns, now with Majeſty; then Judged by one Man, now Judging all Men; then as a Lamb, now as a Lion; Oh horror to conceive! how will the ſight of this Judge amaze the wicked? and the rather becauſe they ſhall ſee him whom they have pierced. Is not this the Aggravation of their terror? conceive the guilty man-ſlayer coming to his tryal, will not the red Robes of his Judge make his Heart bleed for his blood-ſhed? doth not that Crimſon Cloath preſent a monſtrous hew before his Eyes? O then what ſight is this, when the Man ſlain ſits in the Judgment-ſeat? the roſy Wounds of our Saviour ſtill bleeding (as it were) in the Priſoners preſence? well may they hang their Heads, but they ſhall not ſhut their Eyes; They ſhall ſee him, ſaith the Text; yea, they alſo which pierced him ſhall ſee him. This very ſight will be as convincing, as if they heard Chriſt ſay, Thou art the Man that didſt murther me, thou art the Man haſt peirced me, this Wound, this Skar, and this Print of the Nails in my Hands and Feet were thy very doings in thy Sinning againſt me. And who can tell but Chriſt may ſpeak in ſome ſuch manner as this! Come all you on the left Hand, prepare you for the Sentence; I am them and whom you did Crucifie afreſh; I am he whoſe Perſon you deſpiſed, whoſe Commands you diſobeyed, whoſe Miniſters you abuſed; whoſe Servants you hated, whoſe Offers you rejected; and of whom you ſaid, There is no Beauty in him that we ſhould deſire him. Whatſoever he ſhall ſay, this I believe, that Chriſt's ſweet Face will be moſt terrible to the wicked at that day. Oh it will cut them to ſee him in the Judgment-ſeat whom they baſely ſhut out of Doors, preferring a luſt before his preſence; then will they begin with extremeſt Grief and bitterneſs of ſpirit to ſigh and ſay, Oh, he that I look upon, and muſt look upon, and cannot chooſe but look upon: he whom I now ſee ſitting on yonder flaming, white, and Glorious Throne, is Jeſus Chriſt, the Mighty God, the Prince of Peace, that true Meſſiah, whoſe precious Blood was poured out as Water upon the Earth, to ſave his People from their ſins: it is he, yea, the ſelf ſame he that many a time whiles I lived on Earth, invited and wooed me by his faithful Miniſters, that beſought and entreated me with tears of deareſt Love, to leave my Luſts, and to bid the Devil adieu; that knocked again and again at the Door of my Heart for entrance, offering himſelf to be my al-ſufficient, and everlaſting Husband, telling me that if I would but have embraced him, at this time ſhould have been the ſolemnity of the Marriage, and now he would have ſet an Immortal Crown of bliſs and Glory upon my Head with his own Almighty Hand; but I alas! like a wilful deſperate wretch forſook my own Mercy, Judged my ſelf unworthy of everlaſting Life, and wretchedly and cruelly againſt my own Soul, perſecuted all the means which ſhould have ſanctified me, and all the Miniſters which ſhould have ſaved me, as Inſtruments in the Hands of Chriſt; and now happy I, if I were an hundred thouſand Millions of Miles diſtant from this ſight of Jeſus Chriſt: oh that theſe Eyes in my Head were holes again, as they were but even now when I was rotting, or rotten in the Grave! Oh that I could turn any way aſide from this Glorious ſight! Oh that I were a Stone, or Tree, or Air, or any other thing that wanted Eyes! Oh that I had no Eye within, nor underſtanding faculty to conceive of Chriſt, or to know Chriſt Jeſus as my Judge, now ready to bid me go to Hell! Certainly theſe will be the woful wiſhes of the wicked, when they ſhall look on Chriſt as ſitting on this Throne of Judgment.

In Majeſtate viſuri ſunt, in humilitate videre noluerunt ut tanto diſtrinctius vertutem ſentiant quanto contemptius infirmitatem deriſerunt.

2. For the Saints, they ſhall looked on them. Indeed, they ſit ſo near their Saviour, that they cannot look on him, but they muſt look on them; the Saints are on their Thrones, either in the Throne or about the Throne of Jeſus Chriſt, and the Reprobates ſtand in a direct oppoſite line to the Saints, ſo that their eyes cannot be off them; It is ſaid in the parable, that the rich man being in Hell, He lift up his eyes, and ſaw Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his boſom; but the diſtance being ſo great as Heaven and Hell, that cannot be literally underſtood, but only parabolically; it is otherwiſe here, for howſoever the ſeparation be already made, yet neither is the ſentence, nor execution paſt upon the Reprobates; and indeed as yet, both the Saints and Reprobates are in the Air; the one on the right hand, and the other on the left hand of Jeſus Chriſt, and therefore they cannot but have a full view of each other. In the Apocriphal Book there is a plain deſcription of this view, Then ſhall the righteous man ſtand in great boldneſs before the face of ſuch as have afflicted him, and made no account of his Labours; and when they ſee it they ſhall be troubled with terrible fear, and ſhall be amazed at the ſtrangeneſs of his ſalvation, ſo far beyond all that they looked for; and they repenting and groaning for anguiſh of Spirit, ſhall ſay within themſelves, this is he whom we had ſometimes in a deriſion, and a proverb of reproach; we fools accounted his life madneſs, and his end to be without honour; how is he numbred among the children of God, and his lot is amongſt the Saints? Here is a ſight that will trouble and amaze the wicked, that thoſe who ſometimes were their footſtoools ſhould now be on Thrones; that poor Lazarus who lay at the gates of that certain rich man, ſhould now ſhine like a Star near the Sun of Righteouſneſs; that they who were reproached, reviled, maſſacred, murthered by them, ſhould now be their Judges, joyning with Jeſus Chriſt to ſentence them to Hell. Oh who can conceive the terrible thoughts of theſe men's hearts! Now the World cannot help them, their old Conpanions cannot help them, the Saints neither can, nor will; only the Lord Jeſus can; but Oh! There is the ſoul killing miſery, he will not; Ye Men, and Devils (ſaith Chriſt) joint-heirs of Hell, fit fuel for eternal fire, look on us in our Throne, time was we could not have a look from you; Chriſt and Chriſtian were an abhorrency of ſpirit unto you, you trod us under foot, but now we are got above you; oh ſee the vaſt difference betwixt us and you; look on us, look on me and my Saints! See us on our Thrones, ſee us glittering in glory; and be confounded and amazed for ever,

Luke 16. 23.

Wiſd. 5. 1, 2, 4. 4, 5.

4. A particular ſtrict account ſhall be then required, and given. Of what you will ſay? I Anſwer——

1. Of ſins: Come, (will Chriſt ſay) Now confeſs all your ſins before all the world; time was that you concealed your ſins, but now every ſin ſhall be laid open before God, Angels, and Men; and now is the black Book of their Conſciences opened, wherein appears all their ſins original and actual; of Omiſſion and Commiſſion. For omiſſions of duties all thoſe ſhall be diſcovered, Chriſt hungry, and I gave him no meat ; Chriſt thirſty, and I gave him no drink , Chriſt a ſtranger, and I lodged him not ; Chriſt naked ; and I cloathed him not ; Chriſt ſick, and in priſon, and I viſited him not. And for commiſſions of evils, all thoſe ſhall be diſcovereed. Theſe and theſe ſins I committed in my child-hood, youth, ripe age, and old age. Theſe were my groſs ſins, Blaſphemy, Perjury, Idolatry, Robbery, Drunkenneſs, Uncleanneſs, Prophaneneſs, &c. and theſe were my leſs ſins, anger, hatred, envy, diſtruſt, impatience, pride, preſumption, contention, deriſion, inconſtancy, hypocriſie, &c. Oh the numberleſs number of evil thoughts, words, and deeds that are now laid open. In the black Book is not only written all ſins done, but all ſuch ſins as were intended and purpoſed to be done; all the projects of the heart, though never acted, muſt now be diſcovered. Men little think of this; if I ſhould tell you of ſuch deſigns that died in your hearts, and never came out to light ; you would be now ready to ſay, Tuſh, I never did ſuch a thing, I only intended it, or had ſome thoughts about it, and what then? Why then thoſe very thoughts, ſecrets, purpoſes, and projects ſhall come to light ; or if there be any thing more hidden or ſecret, as the very bent, and frame of your hearts, the very inclinations of your ſouls to this or that evil, ſhall then be manifeſt to all the World. Nay, yet more, ſuch ſins, as by the ſinners themſelves were never took notice of, either before, or at, or after the commiſſion of them, ſhall this day come out. Conſcience is ſuch a kind of private Notary or Secretary, that it keeps Notes, or Records of all Acts and Deeds, whether you obſerve them or no ; Conſcience hath the Pen of a ready Writer, and takes in ſhort-hand, and in an illegible Character, from your mouths as faſt as you ſpeak, and from your hearts as faſt as you can contrive. Conſciences writing (ſaith one) is not now legible ; as that which is written with the juice of a Lemmon is not to be read by day-light, but againſt the fire by night you may read it ; ſo conſciences writing cannot now be read, but in that day when Heaven and Earth are ſet on fire, this book ſhall be opened, and the cypher be diſcovered. Oh what a day will this be, when not a ſin committed by any Reprobate from the beginning of the World, but now it ſhall be rehearſed.

2. As an account of all ſins, ſo an account of all temporal gifts which God hath imparted to Reprobates muſt now be given. Some have the Gifts of the World ; as Riches, Honours, Places of Authority ; others have the gifts of the body, as health, ſtrength, beauty, life ; others have the gifts of the mind, as underſtanding, wiſdom, policy, learning ; now of all theſe gifts they muſt give an account. Come you that are rich (ſaith Chriſt) render you an account of your ſtewardſhip ; how have you ſpent you riches ? The like will he ſay to the honourable, and to thoſe in places of authority ; O remember you were in authority and office, and place, but what ſervice did you to me, or my members ? You had wiſdom, and learning, and knowledge, and underſtanding conferred upon you, but what good had the Church or Common-Wealth by it ? The like will he ſay to others according to the Talents beſtowed on them, You excelled in ſtrength, beauty, health of body, length of days ; and now tell me, and publiſh it to all the World, how were theſe improved ? I believe many a ſad anſwer wil be given to Chriſt of theſe things, riches miſ-ſpent, and health miſ-ſpent, and wiſdom, policy, learning, gifts, and parts miſ-ſpent ; O conſider it ! If the Factor after many years ſpent in forreign Countries, at laſt returns home without his reckonings, who will not blame him for his negligence? But when his Maſter calls him to account, and he finds nothing but a Bill of Expences, this in Courting, that in Feaſting : Who laughs not at ſo fond a reckoning ? Thus many paſs the time of their life as a time of mirth, that when they return to their Lord again, behold all their accounts are ſins, their profits vanities.

3. I ſhall add one thing more ; not only of Gifts Temporal, but of all Bleſſings Spiritual, though but tendred, and offered, muſt all give an account. Oh the ſad accounts that many a ſoul will make of theſe things ! Methinks I hear ſome wicked wretch confeſſing thus to Chriſt ; True Lord, I lived at ſuch a time when the Sun of the Goſpel ſhone bright in my Face ; and in ſuch a place where all was Goſhen ; I lived under ſuch a miniſtry, who ſet before me, life and death ; many and many a powerful, and ſearching Sermon have I heard ; any one paſſage whereof (if I had not wickedly and wilfully forſaken my own mercy) might have been unto me the beginning of the new Birth, and everlaſting bliſs. Sometimes in the uſe of the means I felt ſtirrings or ſtrong workings in my heart, and then I was fully purpoſed to have been another man, to have cleaved to Chriſt, and to have forſook the World ; I was almoſt reſolved to have been wholly for God, I was almoſt perſuaded to be a real Chriſtian ; Oh what thoughts were in my heart when ſuch a faithful Miniſter preſſed the truth home ? Methinks every Sermon I heard then, is now a preaching again ; methinks I hear ſtill the Voice of the Miniſter, methinks I ſee ſtill his tears dropping down his Cheeks ; Oh how freſh is the reproof, admonition, exhortation of ſuch, and ſuch a Preacher now in my mind ? Oh how earneſtly did he entreat me ! With what love and tender compaſſion did he beſeech me : How did his Bowels yearn over me ! How ſtrongly did he convince me, that all was not well with my ſin-ſick ſoul ! How plainly did he rip up all my ſores ! And open to me all my ſecrets, and my whole heart ! But alas, within a while I made a jeſt of all, I hardened my heart againſt all, I ſtifled all his Convictions, I ſhut my eyes againſt his diſcoveries ; I cared neither for the Miniſter, nor any thing he ſaid or did. And yet here is not all, not only the Miniſters of Chriſt, but the Spirit of Chriſt ſometimes ſpeaks Rev. 3. 20. to my heart ; I remember at ſuch a time Chriſt himſelf (as it were) condeſcended, and bowed the Heavens, and came down to intreat me for my Souls health ; oh the ſtrivings of the Spirit of Chriſt, as if he had been loath to have took a denyal ! O Chriſt, I remember thy words, when thou cryedſt to me, open ſinner, open thy heart to thy Saviour, and I will come in and ſup with thee, and thou with me. Why ſinner, are thy Luſts better than I ? Thy Carnal Pleaſures better than I ? Thy worldly Commodities better than I? Why ſinner, what doſt thou mean? How long ſhall thy vain thoughts lodge within thee ? O take pity on thy Jeſus ! For here I ſtand, and wait at the door of thy heart, and my head is filled with the dew, and my locks with the drops of the night. But alas! I reſiſted Chriſt and his Spirit ; O thou Judge and Saviour of all thine Elect, I dealt churliſhly with thee, I tired out thy patience, I gave thee a repulſe, I told thee I had entertain'd other lovers, and I would have none of thee ; I trod on Council, I trampled thy precious blood under my feet ; and now I am expecting no other but to eat the fruit of my own way. Now mayeſt thou accompliſh thy Word, becauſe I ſet at naught all thy counſels, and would none of thy Reproof, therefore thou mayeſt laugh at my calamity, and mock now my fear cometh. Lo, here the confeſſions of ſins. Every thing now comes out, for Chriſt will have it ſo, as a preparative to his doom upon them.

5. Chriſt and his Saints proceed to ſentence, Firſt, Chriſt the chief judge ſhall pronounce it, depart from me ye curſed, into everlaſting fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels, every word breaths out nothing but fire and brimſtone, vengeance and woe ; Mat. 25. 41. to depart from that glorious preſence of Chriſt were Hell enough, but they muſt go with a curſe ; not only ſo, but into fire ; and that muſt be everlaſting ; and therein they ſhall have no other Company, or Comforters, but wicked Devils, and they inſulting over them with helliſh ſpight, and ſtinging Exprobations.

Give me leave a little to enlarge upon theſe words No ſooner Chriſt begins the ſentence, [depart from me] but methinks I imagine the Reprobates to reply; How? Depart from thee? Why, O Chriſt, thou art all things, and therefore the loſs of thee is the loſs of all things; thou art the greateſt good; and therefore to be deprived of thee is the greateſt evil; thou art the very Centre, and perfect reſt of the Soul, and therefore to be pulled from thee is the moſt cruel ſeparation: We were made by thee, and for thee, O let us never be divided from thee; we were made according to thy Image, O never drive us from our glorious pattern: Away, away, (ſaith Chriſt) ye have no part in me, or in my merits, never ſpeak, or intreat me any more, but depart from me. But ſecondly, they may reply again, if we muſt depart, and depart from thee, at leaſt give us thy Bleſſing before we go, thou haſt great ſtore of Bleſſings to give, and we hope thou haſt one yet in ſtore for us; we crave but a ſmall thing, but a bleſſing. O it is a little one; thou art our Father, (witneſs our Creation) and it is a chief property of a Father to bleſs his Children. No, Depart from me ye Curſed, in place of a Bleſſing, take the full Curſe of your Father, you have been moſt prodigal and diſobedient Children: You have followed him who had my firſt curſe; and now ſhare ye curſed with him, curſed be you in your ſouls, and in your bodies; and in your thoughts, and in your words, and in the hainouſneſs of your ſins, and in the grievouſneſs of your puniſhment. But thirdly, if we muſt depart from thee, and depart accurſed, yet appoint us ſome meet and convenient place to go into: Create a fruitful piece of ground, and let a goodly Sun daily ſhine upon it; let it have ſweet and wholſome air, and be ſtored with Fruits, and Flowers, of all forms and colours; give us the variety of Creatures for our uſes; O if we muſt go from thee, the ſource and fountain of heavenly ſweetneſs, and afford us ſome plenty of earthly pleaſures, which may in ſome ſort recompence our pain of loſs, ſpeak but the word, and ſuch a place will preſently ſtart up, and ſhew it ſelf. No, depart from me ye curſed into fire; though fire naturally burns not Spirits, yet I will lift and elevate this fire above its nature; you have ſinned againſt nature, and I will puniſh you above nature; Fire? Alas that ever we were born! Who is able to reſt in fire? That very thought of it already burns us. Of all the Creatures appointed by God to be the Inſtruments of revenge, fire and water have the leaſt mercy. But Fourthly, if we muſt into fire, let the ſentence ſtand but for a very ſhort time; quench the fire quickly, half an hour will ſeem a great while there; No, depart from me ye curſed into everlaſting fire; it was kindled by my breath, and it hath this property among other ſtrange qualities, that it is an unquenchable Fire; as long as I am God it ſhall endure, and ye broil in it; and when I ceaſe to be happy, then ſhall ye ceaſe to be miſerable. O woe is us! What? To live in a fire perpetually without all end, or hope of end?———— Yea Fifthly, allot us then ſome Comforters, whoſe ſmooth and gentle words may ſweeten our Torments, or ſomewhat dull the moſt keen edge of our extremity: O let the Angels recreate us with Songs and Hymns of thee, and of thy bleſſedneſs, that we may hear that ſweetly delivered which others fully enjoy: No, no; depart from me ye curſed into everlaſting fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels: They ſhall be your comforters, they that will triumph in your miſeries, they that are your deadly, deſperate enemies; they that will tell you by what deceits and by-ways they led you from me, and that will give you every hour new names of ſcorn and horrible reproach. O ſentence not to be endured, and yet never, never muſt it be reverſed. O my Brethren, I tremble at the very mentioning of this ſentence, and O what will they do on whom it muſt paſs? I beſeech you before we paſs from it, will you ask but your ſouls this one queſtion! What, can you dwell with everlaſting fire? If you can, you may go on in ſin; but if you cannot, why then ſtop here, and repent of ſin: O now ſay, if this be the effect of ſin, Lord pardon what is paſt, and O give me grace that I may ſin no more, as ſometimes I have done. Methinks if a temptation ſhould come again for ordinary entertainment, you ſhould fright it away with the remembrance of theſe powerful words, depart from me ye curſed into everlaſting Fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels.

2. The Saints ſhall judge the very ſelf ſame judgment, do ye not know that the Saints ſhall judge the World? 1 Cor. 6. 2. That they as well as Chriſt ſhall judge the World, is without controverſie; And judgment was given to the Saints of the moſt high. Dan. 7. 22. Ye alſo ſhall ſit upon twelve Thrones judging the twelve Tribes of Iſrael. Mat. 19. 28. Behold, the Lord cometh with twelve thouſand of his Saints, to execute judgment upon all. Jude 14. 15. Know ye not that we ſhall judge the Angels? 1 Cor. 6. 5. Not only ſhall we judge the World, but the God of the World; the Principalities and Powers that captivate wicked men at their pleaſure; even they muſt be judged by thoſe whom they formerly ſoyled; ſo then there is no queſtion but they ſhall judge.

Only how the Saints ſhall judge together with Chriſt, is a very deep queſtion. For my part I am apt to think, that it ſhall not be directly known, ere it be ſeen or done. I ſhall only relate what others ſay to this point, and ſo leave you to your liberty of judging what is right.

1. Some ſay that the Saints ſhall judge the World by preſenting their perſons and actions, by comparing their good examples with the evil examples of all the Reprobates; and ſo they ſhall convince and condemn the World. Behold the Lord cometh with Ten thouſand of his Saints, to execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them; Jude 15. this I conceive to be a truth, yet ſurely this is not all truth.

Others ſay, that the Saints ſhall judge the World by way of indicting, impleading, accuſing, witneſſing, &c. And I conceive it may be thus too; the Saints of the Law more eſpecially accuſing the breakers of the Law, by the Law. Do not think that I will accuſe you to the Father, there is one that accuſeth you to the Father, there is one that accuſeth you even Moſes, in whom ye truſt. John 4. 45. And the Saints of the Goſpel more eſpecially judging the prophaners of the Goſpel by the Goſpel: in that day when God ſhall judge the ſecrets of men by Jeſus Chriſt, according to my Goſpel. Rom. 2. 16. This likewiſe is truth, but I believe as yet we have not the whole truth.

3. Others ſay, that the Saints ſhall judge the World after the manner of exaltation, glorying, and rejoycing to ſee the vengeance. The Righteous ſhall rejoyce when he ſeeth the vengeance, he ſhall waſh his feet in the blood of the wicked. Pſal. 58. 10. But this their exulting being a conſtant and perpetual act, not for a time, but for eternity, methinks this preſent act ſhould be yet ſomewhat more.

4. Others ſay, that the Saints ſhall judge the World by way of aſſeſſion, aſſent, vote, ſuffrage, comprobation, and the like ſubordinate, and conformable acts. And I heard another out of the Altar ſay, even ſo Lord God almighty, true and righteous are thy Judgments—— Rev. 16. 17. And after theſe things, I heard a great Rev. 19. 1, 2.

voice of much People in Heaven, ſaying, Allelujah, Salvation and Glory, and Honour, and Power unto the Lord our God, for true and righteous are his Judgments; this certainly is truth, and commonly ſo received, yet neither is this all truth.

5. Others ſay, that the Saints ſhall judge the World (i. e.) Chriſt in the Saints, and the Saints in Chriſt. He in them by thoſe infallible principles of Divine Juſtice which are impreſt in them; and they in him, by thoſe inſeparable bounds of Union, whereby they wholly relate to him: Or he and they together as Head and Members, the act of the Head imputed to the members, and the act of the members acknowledged by the head; his Judiciary Act (eſpecially as from his Mediatorſhip and Manhood) having a peculiar influence upon them; and their Judiciary act (in a perfect conformity, though not any abſolute proportion) having a peculiar reference to him. And methinks thoſe Texts of Mat. 19. 28. Jude 14. 15. ſpeak there of Chriſt's, and of the Saints judgment, as of one joynt act.

Oh what Terror it will be to all wicked men? when not only Chriſt, but all the Saints ſhall ſay of them, away with them, away with them, let them be Damned. You that are Fathers, it may be that your Children will thus ſentence you, I remember when the Jews told Chriſt, that he caſt out Devils through Belzebub the Prince of Devils, he anſwered, if
Mat. 12.7. I through Belzebub caſt out Devils, by whom do your Children caſt them out? therefore they ſhall be your Judges. They liked well enough of the Miracles of their Children who were the Diſciples of Chriſt, but they could not endure them in Chriſt; and therefore he tells them, that their Children whom God hath converted, and to whom he had given power to do the ſame works as he did, even they ſhould be their Judges to Condemn them. And ſo it may be with you, if any of your Children be converted to the Lord, and you remain ſtill in a natural Eſtate, your very Children ſhall be your judges, and condemn you to Hell. But of that anon.

6. In this doom which Chriſt and his Saints ſhall paſs on Reprobates, our Saviour tells us of ſome reaſonings betwixt him and them; I was an hungred
Mat. 25. 42, 44, 45. (ſaith Chriſt) and ye gave me no meat; I was thirſty, and ye gave me no drink, &c. ——— Then ſhall they anſwer, Lord, when ſaw we thee hungry, or a thirſt, or a ſtranger, or naked, or ſick, or in priſon, and did not miniſter unto thee? and then ſhall he anſwer them, verily, I ſay unto you, inaſmuch as ye did it not to one of the leaſt of theſe, ye did it not to me. As if Chriſt ſhould have ſaid, time was that I was under reproach, miſery, calamity, neceſſity; I lay at your doors, like Lazarus, full of ſores, and as I thought nothing too much for you, ſo I expected alſo ſomething from you; but oh cruelty to ſee thy Chriſt an hungred, and not to feed him? to ſee thy Chriſt a thirſt, and not to cool, or quench his thirſt? to ſee thy Chriſt a ſtranger, and not to give him a nights lodging? to ſee thy Chriſt naked, and not to cover him with a garment who would gladly have covered thee with a robe of Righteouſneſs, the garment of Salvation? O monſtrous inhumane heart! O prodigious wretch! who among the Heathens ever dealt thus with their Idols? have any of the Nations ſtarved their Gods, turned them out of doors? and muſt I only be ſlighted? away Reprobates! you had no mercy on me, and now I laugh at your calamity: Surely he ſhall have judgment without mercy, that hath ſhewed no mercy; They ſtand wondering at this, and cannot remember that ever they ſaw Chriſt in ſuch a condition; Why Lord (ſay they) when ſaw we thee an hungred, or thirſty, or naked? art thou not he that roſe again from the dead, and aſcended on high, and ever ſince haſt been exalted above the higheſt Cherubims, a name being given thee above every name, at which name to this day, but eſpecially now on this day, every knee doth bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; Phil. 2. 9, 10. how then could we ſee thee in ſuch a condition? is not this thy ſecond coming in glory? and were we alive at thy firſt coming in humility? how can this be? oh how ſhouldſt thou charge us with unkindneſs to thy ſelf? ſurely if we had known thee in need, we would have given thee of thy own, thou ſhouldſt never have wanted what things we enjoyed, but thou ſhouldſt have commanded both us and them. To which our Saviour replys, O deceitful, ignorant and ſtupid Souls! have you no better learned Chriſt than ſo? am not I head of the Church, and can the Head be without Members? Verily, if you had loved, relieved, or done good to them, you had done ſo to me; but in being uncharitable to them, you were no leſs unto me. Never ſay you would have been thus, and thus kind to Chriſt, whiles you were unkind to Chriſtians: herein lies the deceitfulneſs of your hearts; O they are deceit- Jer. 17. 9, 10.
ful above all things, and deſperately wicked, who can know them? but I the Lord ſearch the heart, I try the reins, even to give to every man according to his ways and according to the fruit of his doings; In as much as ye did it to one of the leaſt of my members, ye did it not to me, and therefore get you down into Hell, and get you out of my preſence; take them, Devils, away with them, Angels, to the Devil and his Angels for ever.

Theſe are the reaſonings betwixt Chriſt and Reprobates; and if ſo, may we not imagine the like between Saints and Reprobates? is there not the ſame reaſon of reaſoning betwixt them and the inferior Judges, as betwixt them and the ſupreme Judge? for my part I cannot conceive, but if we admit of ſuch diſputes betwixt Chriſt and them, well may there be the like diſputes, arguings, and reaſonings betwixt Saints and them; for they had on earth more familiarity, converſe, and communion together; ſome of them, it may be, were in near and dear relations to each other, and now that one ſhall judge the other to eternal flames; oh what paſſages will be betwixt them! I ſhall inſtance in our neareſt Relations upon earth, as of Maſters and Servants, Parents and Children, Husbands and Wives, Miniſters and People, no queſtion but in theſe very relations ſome ſhall judge, and others be judged; our Saviour tells us, There ſhall be two men Luke 17. 34, 35, 36.
in one bed, the one ſhall be taken the other ſhall be left; two women ſhall be grinding at one Mill, the one ſhall be taken, and the other left; two men ſhall be together in the Field, the one ſhall be taken, and the other left; wherein the Lord ſeems to ſhew that God's Election doth extend it ſelf to all ſorts of perſons, and ſeparates the moſt. They ſhall not be ſaved by Families, as in Noah's time, but one Friend ſhall be taken by Chriſt into Heaven, and another left for the Devils to carry into Hell. Give me leave but to enlarge on thoſe reaſonings, or diſcourſes that we may imagine will be now betwixt theſe ſeveral relations. As ———

1. Betwixt Maſter and Servant; if the Maſter be the Saint; and his Servant the Reprobate, then ſhall the Maſter ſay, O thou wicked Servant, how many a time did I call on thee to duty? how often have I told thee that I would have thee to be God's Servant as well as mine? how often came that word to thy ears; Servants obey your Maſters in all things according to the fleſh, not with eye-ſervice, as men pleaſers, but in ſingleneſs of heart fearing God; how often was that precious Coloſ. 3. 22, 23, 24, 25.

Word laid cloſe to thy conſcience, He that doth wrong ſhall receive for the wrong which he doth; but in doing ſervice to me as to the Lord, thou ſhouldſt of the Lord receive the reward of the Inheritance, for in ſuch ſervice thou didſt ſerve the Lord Chriſt? but thou wouldſt not be warned, and now thou art juſtly condemned; I ſay Amen to Chriſt's Sentence; get thee down to Hell, and there ſerve Satan, and receive his wages in Fire and Brimſtone for ever.——— Or if the Servant be the Saint, and his Maſter the Reprobate, then ſhall the Servant ſay, O my quondam Maſter, how many a time haſt thou tyrannized it over me? how didſt thou uſe me, or abuſe me to ſerve thy own luſts and corruptions? many a time I had ſtrong deſires to wait upon God in the uſe of publick and private Ordinances; this morning, and that evening, I would have ſerved my Maſter the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, but thou wouldſt not ſpare me one hours time for prayer, reading, meditation, &c. I was ever faithful in thy ſervice, going to bed late and riſing early, The drought conſumed me by day, and the froſt by night; Gen. 31. 40. 42. and my ſleep many a time departed from mine eyes; ſurely God hath ſeen my affliction, and the labour of my hands, and now he hath rebuked thee: doſt thou not obſerve the admirable juſtice and righteouſneſs of Chriſt in the ſentences paſt on us both? remember that thou in thy life-time received thy good things, and I received evil things; but now I am comforted, and thou muſt be tormented. I now ſerve a better Maſter; after my weeks work with thee, I ſhall keep a perpetual Sabbath with God; but go thou with thy old companions from thy glorious Manſion to a loathſome dungeon; from thy table of ſurfei, to a table of vengeance; from thy faithful Servants, to afflicting Spirits; from thy bed of doom, to a bed of fire; from ſoft linnen and ſilken coverings, to wiſh a rock for thy pillow, and a mountain for thy coverlet.

2. Betwixt Parent and Child; if the Parent be the Saint, and the Child the Reprobate; then ſhall the Parent ſay, O thou wicked, rebellious Son! or O thou wicked, rebellious, and diſobedient daughter! it is I that begot thee, or that brought thee forth; that during thy Infancy, laid thee in my boſom, and dandled thee on my knee, and carried thee in my arms, and ſet thee as a ſeal upon my heart; that durring thy minority fed thee, and apparalled thee, and trained thee up in manners, learning a particular calling, and eſpecially in the nature and admonition of the Lord; and then when I ſaw thy untowardneſs of ſpirit, and thy breakings out into things forbidden of God and man, O the admonitions, reprehenſions, corrections! O the many thouſands of warnings that I gave thee at this day, and of the wrath to come! and yet thou wenteſt on in thy ſtubbornneſs, till thou becameſt many and many a time a grief of mind, a bitterneſs of ſpirit unto me: and then how often did I mind thee of thy duty. Children obey your Parents in all things. Honour thy Father, Coloſ. 3. 20. and Mother, which is the firſt Commandment with promiſe, Epheſ. 2. 6. The eye that mocketh his Father, and deſpiſeth to obey his Mother, the Ravens of the Valley ſhall pick it out, and the young Eagles ſhall eat it. Prov. 30. 27. But alas, all theſe expreſſions made no ſaving impreſſion on thy hardned heart, thy brow was Braſs, and thy ſinew of Iron, thou waſt very ſtiffnecked, and now thou art juſtly damned; I cannot but approve of Chriſt's Judgment upon thee; thou cameſt out of my bowels, yet now I have no pity, no bowels of compaſſion towards thee; the glory of God hath ſo ſwallowed up all my natural affections, that I cannot but laugh at thy calamity, and joy in thy damnation; I gave thee a body, and God himſelf gave thee a ſoul; but now let the Devils have both, and torment them in Hell; be gone! I ſhall never ſee thee again——Or it the child be the Saint, and the Parent the Reprobate, then ſhall the Child ſay, O unworthy Parent; unworthy of everlaſting life! I had my natural being from thee; but my Spiritual being was from the Lord; if I had followed thy ſteps, I had been everlaſtingly damned; did I not know thy ignorance, thy unbelief, thy worldlineſs, thy coveteouſneſs thy pride, thy malice, thy luſt, thy lukewarmneſs, thy impatiency, thy diſcontentment, thy vain glory, thy ſelf-love; didſt not thou often check me for my forwardneſs, and zeal, and holineſs in Religion? didſt not thou ask me, what art thou wiſer than the reſt of the neighbour-hood? are there not many gray hairs among us, whoſe wiſdom and experience thou haſt not yet attained? and canſt thou not walk on ſoberly towards heaven, and either do as the moſt, or keep pace with wiſeſt? what, have any of the Rulers, or of the Phariſees believed on Chriſt? oh I ſhall ever remember to the praiſe and glory of Chriſt, what diſcouragements I had, and yet how the Lord pluckt me as a fire-brand out of the fire; and now hath the Lord ſet me on the Throne to judge thee according to thy demerits; and therefore I joyn with him, who is the Father of Spirits, againſt the Father of my fleſh; depart, go to the Gods whom thou haſt ſerved, and ſee if they will help thee in the day of thy calamity.

3. Betwixt Husband and Wife; now if the Husband be the Saint, and the Wife the Reprobate, then ſhall the Husband ſay; Thou art ſhe whom I knew in the fleſh, whom I dearly affected with my heart and ſoul; whom I nouriſhed and cheriſhed as my own body; thou art ſhe that was the Wife of my boſom, as near and dear to me as my heart in my boſom; thou was my companion, my yoke-fellow, and my very delight: but oh! I could never rule thee, lead thee, guide thee in the way of life, in the path that is called holy: many a time have I wooed, ſued, and ſought to gain thy ſoul to that bleſſed Bridegroom, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, many a a time have I prayed with thee, and for thee; many a time have I ſtirred thee up to hear the Word, to wait upon God in the uſe of all means publick and ptivate; and inſtead of embraces, or yeildings to theſe bleſſed motions, I have met with contentions and Prov. 19. 13. 27. 15. jars as a continual dropping in a very rainy day: but death hath diſſolved that knot, ſo that now I am no more thy Husband; this is the day of ſeparation, and I ſhall no more comfort with thee; at the Reſurrection there is no Mark. 12. 25. uſe of Marriage, but now I am to live as an Angel in Heaven; and becauſe thou wouldſt not draw with me in Chriſt's yoke, now therefore adieu for ever and ever; we ſhall never more lye in one bed, or ſit at one board, or walk in one Field, or grind at one Mill; thou haſt me, and thou haſt loſt Jeſus Chriſt, two husbands in one day; go now and take thy choice in Hell! thou art free from us, but thou ſhall be bound there with indiſſoluble bonds to the Devil and his angels ——— Or if the Wife be the Saint, and the Husband the Reprobate, then ſhall the Wife ſay; Thou art he who I looked upon as my ſecond-ſelf, my head, my governour, my helper, my husband; for whom I was willing to forſake my native home, Father's houſe, dear Relations, of Father, Mother, Brother, Siſter, and many comforts in that kind; and I expected to have found new matter, and a continued influence of comfort, and delight in a marriage-ſtate; but oh the vextions of Spirit! hadſt thou not almoſt drawn me away from Jeſus Chriſt? was I not forced through many provocations ſometimes to break out and ſay, Surely a bloody Husband Exod. 4. 25. art thou to me? many a time I cryed out, O my Husband when wilt thou ſet up the rich and royal trade of grace in thy Family? when wilt thou exerciſe prayer, reading, catechizing conference, days of humiliation, and other houſhould holy duties? oh for doing ſomething to aſſure our ſouls of meeting together hereafter in heaven! But alas! it would not be; and now ſee the effect: here I ſtand like a Queen, deck't and adorn'd with cloth of Gold, with raiment of needle-work, with the white robe of Chriſt's righteouſneſs; ſo that the King of Heaven greatly deſires my beauty, and my ſoul is this day marryed to Chriſt; I acknowledge him, and no other Husband in the world; and for thee who refuſed to joyn with me in the worſhip of God, now God hath refuſed thee: fare well, or fare ill for ever.

4. Betwixt Miniſter and ſome of his People at leaſt: if the People be as ſo many Saints, and Miniſter the Reprobate, then ſhall the People ſay: O thou art the Man that undertookeſt that High and Mighty calling of feeding Souls with the Word of Life; but now are thy Sins Written in thy Fore-Head, for either thou run'ſt before thou waſt ſent, or being ſent, thou haſt been Exceeding Negligent in the gift that was in the: Didſt not thou Propheſie in Baal, and cauſe God's People to Err? Didſt thou not ſtudiouſly and mainly ſeek for the Fleece, not regarding reſpectively the Flock? didſt not thou ſtrengthen the Hands of Evil-doers in Preaching Peace, Peace to the wicked Men? waſt thou not Prophane, and Wicked, and looſe in thy Life, and by that means ledſt many Thouſands to Hell! O thou Bloody Butcher of Souls; hadſt thou been Faithful in thy Miniſtry, well might thoſe damned Companions about thee have eſcaped the Flames! but they are Doomed to Death, and now thou mayeſt hear their Cries, and griveous Groans, and complaints againſt thee, this was the Man ſet over us to give us the Bread of Life, but oh Chriſt, did he not fail us? did he not feed us with unprofitable Matter, Fables, Conceits, Airy Sentences, rather than any thing tending to Godly Edifying, which is in Faith? did not our Tongues, and the Tongues of our Children ſtick to the roof of our Mouths in calling and crying for Bread, for the Bread of Life, and he would not Pity us? we gave him the tenths which thou appointed, but he gave not us thy Truth, which thou didſt Command him; why Lord Chriſt, thou Judge of all the World, didſt not thou bid him feed, feed, feed? didſt thou not bid him feed the Flock committed to his charge? didſt not thou bid him Preach the Word, be inſtant in Seaſon, and out of Seaſon, reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-ſuffering? and notwithſtanding all thy commands, did he not miſerably ſtarve us? inſtead of feeding us unto Salvation, hath he not ſtarved many thouſands of us to our deſtruction. O Chriſt, thou that art the Judge of Nations, and the Revenger of blood! reward thou this Man, as he hath rewarded us; he led us in the ways of wickedneſs, and (if it muſt be ſo) let him be our ring-leader to Hell; and upon his Soul once buried in Hell, let this be the Epitaph, the Price of blood, the Price of blood; if thou didſt hear the blood of Abel, being but one Man, forget not the blood of many, now thou art Judging the Earth. Why thus do the damned cry about thine Ears; and as for us, (ſay the Saints) who were once thy People, but now thy Judges, we conſent to their cry, and to our Saviours Doom, go ye curſed into everlaſting Fire.

Men, Brethren, and Fathers, I begin thus with the Miniſter's Doom, that you may ſee I would deal impratially, and verily I believe it, if our caſe come to this, we of the Miniſtry ſhall be in a thouſand times worſe condition then any of you; for beſides the horror due to the guilt of our own Souls, all the Blood of thoſe Souls who have periſhed under our Miniſtry, through our default, will be laid to our charge; little do you know, or conſider the burthen that lies upon us, a burthen able to make the ſhoulders of the moſt Mighty Angel in Heaven to ſhrink under it. Chryſoſtom was a Glorious Saint, yet caſting his Eye upon one only Text in the Bible, Obey them that have the rule over you, and ſubmit your ſelves, for they watch for your Souls, as they that muſt give account, He profeſſeth that the terror of this Text made his Heart tremble. Surely it is enough to make our Hearts tremble, if we ſeriouſly weigh our terrible Doom, in caſe that we ſhould miſcarry.

Heb. 13. 17.
Hujus comminationis terror animum mihi concutit. Chryſ. d.

But now on the other ſide, if the Miniſter be the Elect, and ſentenc'd to Salvation, and many of his People prove no better than Reprobates, then ſhall the Miniſter ſay, O miſerable Souls, now you feel the truth of thoſe comminations, and curſes which we opened and unfolded, and diſcovered to you out of God's Word! We dealt plainly with you, that the utrighteous ſhould not inherit the Kingdom of God: we adviſed you again and again, be not deceived, neither Fornicators, nor Idolators, nor Adulterers, nor Effeminate, nor Abuſers of themſelves with Mankind, nor Theives, nor Covetous, nor Drunkards, nor Revileirs, nor Extortioners, ſhall inherit the Kingdom of God: And ſuch were you, and notwithſtanding all our threats, warnings, intreatings, beſeeching, thus ye Lived, and thus ye Died; and there is the iſſue, Chriſt now hath Doomed you to Hell, and here am I ſet on a Throne to judge your Souls; for the Saints ſhall judge the World as well as Chriſt himſelf; O what ſhall I do? Oh my Bowels, my Bowels! here's a caſe beyond all the former, each of them according to their relations judge another; but here's a multitude, not one, or two, or ten, or an hundred, but many hundreds, or thouſands, according to the number of ſuch and ſuch Congregations, where I have Preached.

1 Cor. 6. 9,16,11.

In Chriſt's reaſonings with the wicked we have heard of his ſayings; and their anſwers, and of his replications to their anſwers, much ſaid on both ſides to and again; I may ſuppoſe the like here. O what ſhall I do (ſays the Miniſter) what Doom ſhall I paſs on this Aſſembly of Reprobates? can I abſolve them whom the righteous God hath condemned? can I ſay, come along with me to Heaven, now Chriſt hath ſaid, go ye curſed into Hell? and oh how ſhall I turn my ſpeech from my wonted wooing, beſeeching, intreating, exhorting, to a direct Dooming, Damning Condemning theſe Souls to the pit of Hell? ſometimes indeed I opened to theſe Souls the Armoury of God's wrath. I thundred and lightned in their Congregations; but my deſign was to fright them out of Hell-fire, and knowing the terrours of the Lord to have perſwaded them towards Heaven, and Heavenly things; but now if I ſpeak cendemnation, no ſooer ſhall I ſpeak, but their Souls will ſink down to Hell; O miſerable Souls, what ſhall I ſay? or what can you ſay for your ſelves? Then ſhall they anſwer; Oh Sir, do not you aggravate the Torment by your condemnation; the weight of Chriſt's doom is already unſupportable, but will you add more weight? why remember, we are ſome of us (it may be) of your Fleſh and Blood; many a time you told us that you unfeignedly loved us; and that we were dearer to you than all Worldly enjoyments; many a time you told us that you were willing to ſpend yourſelf for us as the candle that burns it ſelf to give others light; you were pleaſed to beſtow your prayers, Tears, Sighs, Groans for our Souls; your very Books and Writings were high expreſſions, and abiding Monuments of your dear love to us; you weighed not your ſtrength and ſpirits in compariſon of our Souls; and ſhall this fair comical ſcene end in a Diſmal, Doleful, Bloody Tragedy? would you do or ſuffer any thing to ſave us, and will you now condemn us? Oh forbear!

Ah no (ſaith the Miniſter) I cannot forbear; all is true that you ſay, I loved you dearly, and I was willing to ſpend, or to be ſpent for you; but this aggravates the more; ah my Travail. Pains, Books, Writings, Words, Fears, Sighs, Groans, are in one volume together, and this volum has been opened this day, and now is the queſtion put; what have you profited by all my Words, Prayers, Tears, Sighs, and Groans? is not all loſt? and are not your Souls loſt? and now do you tell me of love? what, did I ever love you more then Chriſt loved you? were the drops of my tears to be compared with the ſhowers of his Blood? were my pains for you equal with the pains of his Croſs? and hath he not condemned you to Hell? and ſhall not I be like-minded to Jeſus Chriſt? Surely the Lord's will muſt be my will; he hath already judged you, and he will make me to judge you; ſo far am I from pitying you, that if he that formed you will ſhew you no Mercy, if he that ſaved me, and all the Elect People of God, will not ſave you, can I pity you, or ſave you, or diſſent from Jeſus in his Sentence upon you? ſpeak no more of Fleſh, and Blood, of Labours of Love, Chriſt's ſentence muſt ſtand, and as I am a member of Chriſt, and a Miniſter of Chriſt, I cannot but approve of it, and ſo judge you to Hell.

Why then (ſay Reprobates) we will curſe thee, and Blaſpheme Jeſus Chriſt in Hell for ever; Curſed be the time that ever we heard of Jeſus Chriſt, or that ever we knew thee, or thy Miniſtry; do not thy Sermons ſend us deeper into Hell? had it not been eaſier for us at this day of Judgment if we had Lived in Tyre and Sydon, where the Goſpel never was Preached? didſt not thou harden our Hearts in ſuch and ſuch Sermons, when the Word came home? didſt not thou deny us the Seals which might have been for Confirmation of our Souls Salvation? didſt thou not enſtrange thy ſelf from us in reſpect of any inward, intimate, and familiar ſociety, which thou affordeſt to others? doth not the event plainly ſhew, that all the Tears, Prayers, Words, and Works, as in reference to us, were Hopocriſie, Flattery, Deceit, Diſſiumulation? Oh Curſed be the day that ever we lived under ſuch a Miniſtry, or that ever we heard of Jeſus Chriſt.

Nay then (ſaith the Miniſter) it is time for us to part; ſuch were your invectives on Earth, and now they are, and will be your Language in Hell; but have I not anſwer'd theſe Cavils many a time? have I not told you that the Word would harden ſome, and ſoften others, the fault being in your ſelves? have I not cleared it that the Seals are not to be ſet upon blanks, and that confirmation could not be without a Work of Converſion to lead it? and were we not commanded in the Name of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt to withdraw our ſelves from every brother that walketh diſorderly? did not the Wiſe man tell us? he that toucheth pitch ſhall be defiled therewith, and he that hath fellowſhip with a proud Man ſhall be like unto him? can a Man take Fire in his boſome and his Cloaths not be burnt? can a Man go upon hot Coals, and his Feet be not Curnt? as for other Cavils, the Lord be Judge betwixt you and us; nay the Lord hath been Judge betwixt you and us; lo here we ſtand on the right Hand of Chriſt, lo here we ſit on our Throne to Judge you, and that World of wicked Men and Angels; let Chriſt be glorious, and let his ſentence ſtand, and let that Word of Judgment never be reverſed; he that loveth curſing, let it come upon him; and he that cloatheth himſelf with curſing as with a Garment, let it come into his Bowels like Water, and like Oyl into his Bones; no more, but adieu Souls, adieu Reprobates, adieu for ever; you muſt deſcend, but we muſt aſcend; Go you to Hell, whiles we mount upwards to Heaven and Glory.

2 Theſ. 3. 16.
pſal 109. 17, 18.

At this laſt Word, down they go, the evil Angels falling like lightning, and evil-men haled, and pulled down with them from the preſence of God, and Chriſt, and Angels, and all the Bleſſed ones; even from their Fathers, Mothers, Wives, Husbands, Children, Miniſters, Servants, Lovers, Friends, Acquaintance; who ſhall then juſtly and deſervedly abandon them with all deteſtation and deriſion; and forgetting all nearneſs, and deareſt Obligations of Nature, Neighbourhood, Alliance, any thing, will rejoyce in the Execution of Divine Juſtice. Oh the ſhrieks, and horrid crys that now they make, filling the Air as they go! Oh the wailing and wringing of Hands! Oh the deſperate roaring! Oh the hideous yellings, filling Heaven and Earth, and Hell! But I ſhall follow them no further, no ſooner do they fall into the bottomleſs Pit, but preſently it ſhuts her mouth upon them, and there I muſt leave them.

Sect. 7. Of Chriſt and his Saints going up into Heaven, and of the end of this World.

7. FOR Chriſt and his Saints going up into Heaven, and ſo for the end of this World: no ſooner are the Reprobates gone to their place, but the Saints aſcend; now Chriſt ariſeth from his Judgment-ſeat, aad with all the Glorious company of Heaven, he marches towards the Heaven of Heavens. Oh what a comely march is this? what Songs of triumph are here ſung and warbled? Chriſt leads the way, the Cherubims attend, the Seraphins wait on, Angels, Arch-angels, Principalities, Powers, Patiarchs, Prophets, Prieſts, Evangeliſts, Martyrs, Profeſſors, and Confeſſors of God's Law and Goſpel following, attend the Judge, and King of Glory; ſinging with melody, as never Ear hath heard, ſhining with Majeſty, as never Eye hath ſeen, rejoycing without meaſure, as never Heart conceived. O Bleſſed train of Soldiers! O goodly troop of Captains! each one doth bear a Palm of Victory in his Hand, each one doth wear a Crown of Glory upon his Head; the Church Militant is now Triumphant; with a final overthrow have they conquered Devils, Death, and Hell; and how muſt they enjoy God, Life, and Heaven; ſometimes I have with much wonder and admiration beheld ſome Regiments paſſing our ſtreets; but had I ſeen thoſe Roman Armies when they returned Victors, and made their ſolemn Triumphs in the ſtreets of Rome, oh then how ſhould I have then admired? never was the like ſight to this of Chriſt and his Army in this World. O the comely march they make, through the sky, and through the Orbs, and through all the Heavens, till they come to the Heaven of Heavens! were ever ſo many gliſtering Suns together in one day? was ever ſo many Glories together on this ſide the Kingdom of Glory? not to ſpeak of Chriſt, or his Angels, O who is ſhe that looketh forth as the morning, fair as the Moon, clear as the Sun, and terrible as an Army with Banners? are not in the head of theſe Regiments Adam and Abel, and Noah, and Abraham, and Iſaac, and Jacob; and all the Patriarchs and all the Prophets and all the Apoſtles? And if thou art a Saint that readeſt this (art not thou one Son appointed by

Cant. 6. 10.

God amongſt the reſt to follow Chriſt? here's enough to fill thy Heart with joy before hand; as ſure as yond Sun ſhines in the Firmament ſhalt thou that believeſt paſs by that Sun in its very Orb, and by reaſon of thy Glory it ſhall loſe its ſhine? oh then what ſpreading of beauty and brightneſs will be in the Heavens as all the Saints go along! what lumps of darkneſs ſhall thoſe glittering Stars appear to be, when all the Saints of God ſhall enter into their ſeveral Orbs and Spheres? and thus as they march along higher, and higher, till they come to the higheſt, at laſt Heaven opens unto them, and the Saints enter their Maſter's joy; what is there done at their firſt entrance, I ſhall diſcover another time; onely for a while let us look behind us, and ſee what becomes of this neather World.

No ſooner Chriſt and his company in the Empireal Heaven, but preſently this whole World is ſet on Fire; To this prophane Authors ſeem to aſſent, as

1. Philoſophers, eſpecially the Stoicks were of this mind. Humor primordium, exitus Ignis, ſaid Seneca: Moiſture was the beginning, and Fire ſhall be the end of this World. And ſpeaking of the Sun, Moon, and Stars; mark (ſays he) whatſoever now ſhines in comely and decent order, ſhall at laſt burn together in one Fire

2. The Poets grant this; Lucan ſpeaking of thoſe whom Cæſar left unburned at the Battle of Pharſalia; Hos Cæſar Populos ſi nunc non urſerit Ignis, Uret cum Terris. If Fire ſhall not now burn theſe, when Heaven and Earth, and all ſhall burn, then muſt they burn——Ovid in like manner, Eſſe quoque in fatis —— quo Mare quo Tellus ardeat. A time ſhall come, when Sea, and Earth, and all the Frame of this great World ſhall be conſumed in Flame.

3. The Sybills grant this, to which the Roman miſſal ſeems to alude, joyning them with the Prophet David, though I know not by what Warrant Dies Iræ, Dies illa, Solvet ſæculum in favilla, Teſte David cum Sybilla.

A Day of Wrath, a Day of Fire.
So David with the Sybills doth conſpire,

But to wave all theſe, one Text of Scripture is to me more than all theſe. 2, Pet. 3. 10. The Heavens ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe, and the Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat, the Earth alſo and the works that are therein ſhall be burnt up Hence all our Divines agree that Fire ſhall ceaſe on the Univerſe; onely ſome difference is amongſt Divines, whether the World ſhall be wholly annihilated, or renewed by Fire? Jerome and Auguſtin, and many after them ſay, the end of this Fire is for Purifying and Refining of the Heaven, and Earth; for all corruptible qualities ſhall be burnt out of them, but they in their ſubſtance ſhall remain ſtill: if we ask them to what end ſhall this neather World be renewed? ſome ſay for an habitacle of the reſtored Beaſts; others for a fitter accommodation of Men,† and the Glorified Saints; others for a perpetual Monument of God's Power and Glory. Polanus and ſome of our Moderns are of Opinion, that * Theſe Heavens and this Earth when Purified with thoſe Fires, and ſuper-inveſted with new Endowments, they ſhall be the everlaſting habitations of the Bleſſed Saints. But on the contrary, others are of the other opinion, that all the World with all the parts and works (except Men, Angels and Devils, Heaven, and Hell, the two manſions for the ſaved and damned) ſhall be totally and finally diſſolved and annihilated. And of this opinion were Hilary, Clement, and all the ancients before Jerome; and of our moderns not a few.

2 Pet. 3. 10.

† Mundus iu melius immutatus aperte accommodabitur, hominibus in melius immutatis. Auguſt. de civit. Dei, l. 20. c 15.

* Polan. Syntag. l. 6. c. 70.

For my part I rather incline this way, becauſe of the many Scripures that are ſo expreſs, I ſhall only mention theſe--Man lieth down, and riſeth not till the heavens be no more.——Of Old thou haſt laid the foundations of the Earth, and the Heavens are the works of thy hands, they ſhall periſh but thou ſhalt endure. All the hoſts of heaven ſhall be diſſolved, and the heaven ſhall be rolled together as a ſcroll, and all the hoſt ſhall fall down as the leaf falleth from the Vine, and as a falling fig from the fig-tree. To which Propheſie John ſeems to alude, And the heavens departed as a ſcroll when it is rolled together, and every Mountain and Iſland were moved out of their places. Again heaven and earth ſhall paſs away (ſaith Chriſt) but my Word ſhall not paſs away—— The day of the Lord will come as a Thief in the night, in which the Heavens ſhall paſs away with a noiſe, and the Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat, the earth alſo, and the works that are therein, ſhall be burnt up.—— And the world paſſed away, and the luſts thereof; but he that doth the will of God abideth for ever, —— and I ſaw a great white Throne, and him that ſate on it from whoſe face the earth and heaven fled away, and there was found no place for them. Now I would demand, whether being no more, as Job; and periſhing, as David; and rolling together, and falling down like a withered leaf, as I ſay; and paſſing away, as our Saviour, and Peter; and flying away, as John; do not include to utter abolition? If to theſe Scriptures I ſhould add one reaſon, I would argue from the end of the Worlds Creation; was it not partly for the glory of God? and partly for the uſe of man? Now for the glory of God, the manifeſtation of it is occaſioned by the manifeſtation of the world unto man; if man therefore ſhould be removed out of the world, and no creature in it be capable of ſuch a manifeſtation, what would become of his glory? And for the uſe of man, that is either to ſupply his neceſſity in matter of dyet, phyſick, building, apparel; or for his inſtruction, direction, recreation, comfort, delight; now when he ſhall attain that bleſſed eſtate of enjoying God, and ſeeing God face to face, theſe ends or the like muſt needs be fruſtrate. This argument is weighty, and we need no more. Only we ſhall hear an Antagoniſt's objections, and give them their anſwers, and ſo conclude.

The Texts more eſpecially objected againſt this opinion, are two; the firſt is that in Rom 8, 21. The creature it ſelf ſhall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the Sons of God: here (ſay they) is an earneſt expectation, attributed to brute Creatures, that they ſhall be dilivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the Children of God. But I anſwer, that no immortal being of the brute creatures is here promiſed, but only a ſimple deliverance and diſmiſſion from the ſervitude they were in, to ungrateful men. The Birds, Beaſts, and Fiſhes, do now ſuffer for our dyet; Horſes, Mules, and Beaſts of that nature do now groan under the burthens of our pleaſures, or neceſſities; their annihilation therefore to them muſts needs be a kind of deliverance; and at laſt they ſhall be delivered at the time of the glorious liberty of the Sons of God; the Text will bear it thus, † εἰς pro διὰ The Creature ſhall be delivered by the glorious liberty of the Sons of God. (i. e.) When ſuch a deliverance comes to men, theſe ſhall be freed from their ſervitude by being not at all, having done all the buſineſs for which they were ordained, or created.

† εἰς pro διὰ: 1 Cor 10. 2. as ſometimes διὰ pro εἰς Rom. 4. 11. 1 Cor 2. 15. So Chryſoſtome expounds it εἰς pro διὰ.

The ſecond Text is that in 2 Pet. 3. 13. We look for new heavens, and a new earth, wherein dwelleth Reghteouſneſs. Theſe words (ſay ſome) imply a purging, rather than aboliſhing; a taking off the corrupt qualities only, not the ſubſtance. But I am of another mind, and if I muſt give my ſenſe of the place, I ſay ———

1. Negatively that by new heavens and new earth, 2 pet.3.7. is not meant renewed heavens and earth; is it not punctually in the ſeventh verſe, that the heavens and 10, 11.12. the earth which are now, are reſerved unto fire againſt the day of Judgment? and doth not he deſcend unto particulars in the tenth verſe, and the heavens which are now ſhall paſs away with a great noiſe? that the Elements ſhall melt with fervent heat? and that the earth alſo, and the Works therein ſhall be burnt up? and doth he not infer thereupon in the eleventh and twelfth verſes, that all theſe things ſhall be diſſolved? and in the thirteenth verſe, that we are therefore to look for new heavens, and a new earth? diſſolution mends not a fabrick, but deſtroys it; how then ſhould that which is diſſolved be ſaid to be reſerved, and let ſtand? ſurely if Peter had thought of this refining only, ſome words of his would have intimated ſo much. The end of theſe creatures was for man's uſe, and man uſing them no more, to what end ſhould they be reſerved? to ſay for a monument of what hath been; or for the habitation of the Saints; or for an out-let for the Saints, deſcending ſometimes from the higheſt heavens to ſolace themſelves here below; are but groundleſs ſurmiſes, and deſerve no anſwer at all.

2. Poſitively, by new heavens, and a new earth, is meant the heaven of heavens, and place of glory. Now theſe heavens are termed new, not in regard of their new making, but of our new taking poſſeſſion of them for our new habitation; and they are called heavens and earth, becauſe they come in ſtead of that heavenly covering, and that earthly habitation which we now enjoy; ſo that the Text may well bear this Paraphraſe, we look for new heavens (i. e.) the ſupreme court of God's preſence, and a new earth, (i. e.) a new habitation for us; which ſhall infinitely exceed the commodities and happineſs of theſe heavens and earth which we now enjoy, thus John in Rev. 21.1. his Revelations. And I ſaw a new heaven and a new earth, for the firſt heaven, and the firſt earth were paſſed away, and there was no more Sea. This new heaven, and new earth is the place or habitation prepared for the bleſſed Saints and people of God. A new heaven, where the Moon is more glorious than our Son, and the Sun as glorious as he that made it, for it is he himſelf, the Son of God, the Sun of righteouſneſs, the Son of Glory; A new earth, where all their waters are milk, and all their Milk Honey; where all their Graſs is Corn, and all their Corn is Manna; where all their Glebe and clods of earth are Gold, and all their Gold of innumerable Carats; where all their Minutes are Ages, and all their ages Eternity; where every thing is every minute in the higheſt exaltation as good as can be. Of theſe new heavens, and this new earth, I can never ſay enough, nor know enough till I come there to inhabit it. Something only we ſhall diſcover of it in our next Sections; for now are the ſaints entred in with Jeſus Chriſt.

Uſe. Only one word of Uſe; Chriſtians! what's the matter that we are ſo buſie about this world? why look about you, not one of theſe viſible objects ſhall that day remain or have a being; thoſe houſes wherein we dwell, theſe Temples wherein we meet, this Town, this Country, this Iſle, and the Seas and waters that ſourround it, ſhall be all on fire, and conſume to nothing; the Sea ſhall be no more, and time ſhall be no more, or if we look higher, yond Sun, and Moon, and Star, ſhall be no more; that glorious Heaven which rols over our heads, ſhall be rolled together as a ſcroll, and all the hoaſt ſhall Iſa. 34.4 fall down as a leaf falleth from the Vine, and as a falling Fig from the Fig Tree. ——— the heaven ſhall vaniſh Iſa. 51.6. away like ſmoak (ſaith Iſaiah) comminentur in nihilum (as Hierome reads it, they ſhall be battered into nothing. Alas! alas! what do we toyling all the day (it may be all our life) for a little of this little, almoſt nothing ——— earth? you that have an hundred or two hundred, or a thouſand Acres, if every Acre were a Kingdom, all will be at laſt burnt up; ſo that none ſhall ſay that here was Preſton, or here was London, or here was England or here was Europe, or here was the Globe of Earth on which men troad; let others boaſt as they will of their inheritances, but Lord give me an inheritance above all theſe viſibles, heaven ſhall remain, when earth ſhall vaniſh: that Empyreal Heaven, thoſe ſeats of Saints, thoſe manſions above, prepared by Jeſus Chriſt ſhall never end; but for my riches, lands, poſſeſſions, movables, goods, real or perſonal, they will end in ſmoak, in nothing; what? wilt thou ſet thine eyes upon a thing that is not? upon this the primitive Chriſtians took Prov.23.5. joyfully the proiling of their goods; it was but a loſs? a little before the time, and they know in themſelves that they had in heaven a better, and an enduring ſubſtance. O let this be our care! here we have no abiding City, but O let's ſeek one to come, even that one will abide for ever and ever, Amen.

Sect. 8. Of Chriſt's ſurrendring and delivering up the Kingdom to God, even the Father.

8. FOR Chriſt's ſurrendring and delivering up the Kingdom to God, even the Father, no ſooner is he in heaven but theſe things follow. ———

1. He preſents the Elect unto his Father, of this the Apoſtle ſpeaks, you hath he reconciled in the body of his Col. 1. 12, 22. fleſh through death, to preſent you holy and unblameable and unproveable in his ſight: to this end Chriſt dyed that he might waſh us and cleanſe us by his blood, and then that he might preſent us without ſpot unto his Father We may imagine Chriſt as going to his Father, with his bride in his hand, and ſaying thus, O my Father, here is my Church, my Spouſe, my Queen; here are the Saints concerning whom I covenanted with thee from Eternity, concerning whom I went down from heaven, and dyed on earth and aſcending up I having interceded theſe many hundred years; concerning whom I went down to Judge the World, and having ſentenced them to life eternal, I now bring them in my hand to give them the poſſeſſion of thy ſelf. Theſe are they whom thou gaveſt me in the beginning of the World, and now I reſtore them to thy ſelf at the end of the World, for they are thine. Thus he preſents them to his Father. Indeed we read that Chriſt preſents his ſaints to himſelf, as well as to his Father, Chriſt loved the Church and gave himſelf for Eph. 5. 25. 27. it, ——— that he might preſent it to himſelf, a gloriitous Church, not having ſpot or wrinkle; but this I take it was done before; when firſt the Soul believes, it is contracted to Chriſt, when the ſoul is ſentenced to glory, then is the ſolemnity, and conſummation of the Marriage, then doth Chriſt preſent the Soul to himſelf; and I know not but that the Miniſters of Chriſt may have a part in this matter, for I have eſpouſed you to one husband (ſaid Paul to his 2 Cor. 11. 2. Corinthians) that I may preſent you as a chaſt Virgin to Chriſt.

And after this when Chriſt takes the bride home, brings her into Heaven, and leads her by the hand into his Father's preſence; then is his laſt preſentation, then he preſents her faultleſs before the preſence of his glory with exceeding joy. The word ſignifies leaping, ſpringing, exalting joy;

Oh what ſpringing leaping, exalting is in heaven, when Chriſt takes the hand of his Bride and gives her into the hand of his Father; q. d. O my Father, ſee what a number I have brought home to thee; thou knoweſt what I have done, and what I have ſuffered, and what offices I have gone through, to bring theſe hither; and now my Mediatorſhip is done, I reſign all my charge to thee again; ſee what a goodly Troop, what a noble Army I have brought thee home, why all theſe are mine, and all mine are thine, and all thine are mine, and I am glorified in them; all thoſe that thou gaveſt me, I have kept, Joh. 17. 10, 12, and none of them is loſt; ſee here is Adam, and Abel, and Noah, and Sem, and every Saint from the beginning to the end of the World, the Nuptial between them and me is ſolemnized? and whither ſhould I lead them but to my Father's houſe, and into my Father's preſence? I have already pronounced them bleſſed, and the glory which thou gaveſt me, Joh. 17. 22, 23. I have given them, that they may be one, even as we are one, I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one. Here take them from mine hands, now give them a welcome into glory, and let them know that thou haſt loved them, as thou haſt loved me.

2. He preſents all his Commiſſions to his Father, as he is a Mediator at leaſt by Deſtination) from all Eph. 1. 4. Eternity; were not the Saints choſen in Chriſt before the Foundation of the World? then was he a Mediator in the buſineſs of Election, and then was he Predeſtinated to be a Mediator of Reconciliation. Prov. 8. 23. I was ſet up from Everlaſting, (i. e.) I was appointed and deſigned to be a Mediator from all Eternity. Howſoever he was a Mediator virtually and inchoatively from the Fall of Adam, then did he undertake that great Negotiation of reconciling God to man, and man to God; and actually he was a Mediator after his Incarnation; for then was he manifeſted in the fleſh, then was he manifeſted to be what before he was, then did he act that part viſibly upon earth, which before he had acted ſecretly and inviſibly in heaven; then he entred upon the work of his active and paſſive obedience; then he diſcharged his Prophetical and Prieſtly office here on Earth, which having done, then he entred upon his Kingly Adminiſtration in Heaven. Now as to this work he John 6. 27. was called by God; him hath God the Father Sealed; it pleaſed the Father by him to reconcile all things to Coloſ. 1. 19. himſelf. And as to theſe offices ſeverally he had Iſa. 61. 1. commiſſion from God, (the Lord hath anointed me to Pſal. 110. 4. Preach good tydings unto the meek; and the Lord hath ſworn, and will not repent, thou art a Prieſt for ever; Pſal. 110. 1. and the Lord ſaid unto my Lord, ſit thou at my right hand until I make thine enemies thy foot-ſtool.) So now he comes with all his Commiſſions in his hand, and he delivers them all up unto his Father again. In this caſe it is with Chriſt as it is with ſome General, whom the King ſends forth with Regal Authority to the War, who having ſubdued the Enemy, he returns in Triumph, and all being finiſhed, he makes a ſurrender of his Place; thus Chriſt having diſcharged all his offices impoſed on him, now the work is finiſhed, he leaves his function by delivering up his Commiſſions to his Father. In Heaven there is no need of Sun or Moon, Rev. 21. 23. that is, as ſome interpret, there is no need of Preaching, or Propheſying of the Word or Sacraments, for the Lamb is the light thereof, Chriſt is the only means of all the communication that the Elect there ſhall have; and as for his Regal Office, the Apoſtle is expreſs; then ſhall he deliver up the Kingdom to God, even the Father. 1 Cor. 15. 24. Only here is the queſtion, how is Chriſt ſaid to reſign his Kingdom to God the Father? for ſaith not the Scripture, that Chriſt's Kingdom ſhall have Luke 1. 33. no end; and that Chriſt's Throne is for ever Heb. 1. 8. and ever? for anſwer, I ſee no contradiction but that Chriſt may both reſign his Kingdom and yet reſerve it. See a like caſe, All Power, ſaith Chriſt, Mat. 28. 18. in heaven and earth is given to me of my Father: ſhall we ſay now that the Father himſelf was quite ſtript of it? no; but as the Kingdom which the Father gave the Son is nevertheleſs called the Father's Kingdom, or the Kingdom of God; ſo Chriſt ſhall return it, yet retain it alſo. Two things (we ſay) are contained in the Term of Reign, ſci. Dominion, and Execution; to wear the Crown, and to bear the Scepter: now Chriſt in the former ſenſe ſhall reign for ever, the honour of dominion and of wearing the Crown he ſhall never reſign up to his Father, for his Father's Throne diſturbs not his, there are both their Thrones at once, Rev. 7. 11. but the functions of a King, to ſit in Judgment, to reward deſervers, to puniſh evil-doers, to reſcue the oppreſſed, to fight with the Enemy, Chriſt in this ſenſe ſhall ceaſe to reign, and ſhall deliver up the Kingdom to his Father.

More particularly, Chriſt is ſaid to deliver up the Kingdom in three reſpects.

1. Becauſe he ceaſeth to execute that Authority, which nevertheleſs he hath; as a Judge that goeth from the Bench is a Judge ſtill, although he giveth no judgment, but imployeth his time about other occaſions; ſo Chriſt is ſaid to reſign his Place, not that his Authority is ſubject to Diminution, but in that he makes no ſhew; for when his Enemies are all put under, there is no need that any more blows ſhould proceed from his Kingly power.

2. Becauſe the manner of his Kingdom after the judgment day ſhall be wholly changed; he ſhall not reign in the ſame faſhion that he did before; there's no need in heaven of good Laws to keep men from ſtarting into wickedneſs; the orders of this life are changed into a new kind of Government, and in that reſpect he is ſaid to give over the Kingdom.

3. Becauſe he ceaſeth to increaſe his dominion. In this World Chriſt was ſtill gaining more ſouls to his Kingdom by the Preaching of his Word, and ſo he ſpread his dominion further, and further; but when the Lord ſhall have made up the number of his Servants to his mind, then he will end the World, and give up the Kingdom, (i. e.) he will ceaſe to enlarge his confines any more, he will be content with the number of his Subjects that he hath already. Here is the Second thing, Chriſt preſents all his Commiſſions to his Father, he gives up his Prieſtly, Prophetical, and Regal office at his firſt entrance into heaven.

4. He preſents himſelf unto his Father; not only his offices, but Chriſt himſelf is preſented, and ſubjected unto God. This I take it, is the meaning of the Apoſtle, when he ſaith, then ſhall the Son alſo be Subject unto him, that put all things under him. 1 Cor. 15. 28. The words are myſtical, and therefore we had need to underſtand them ſoberly, and according to the Analogy of Faith. The Arrians hence inferr'd, that the Son was not equal with the Father, becauſe he that is ſubject muſt needs be inferiour to him whoſe Subject he is. But the Anſwer is eaſie, Chriſt is conſidered either as God, or as man, and Mediator betwixt God and man, Chriſt as God hath us Subject to him, and is Subject to none; but Chriſt as Man and Mediator is Subject to his Father together with us. Some would have it, that Chriſt is Subject to his Father in reſpect of his myſtical body, the Church; and that this only ſhould be the meaning of the Apoſtle, then ſhall the Church be ſubject to the Father; but I cannot aſſent to this Expoſition. 1. Becauſe the Apoſtle ſpeaks expreſly of Chriſt and of his Kingdom. 2. Becauſe though Chriſt be ſometimes in Scripture read for the Church, or for the body of Chriſt, yet the Son as oppoſed to the Father, is never ſo read or underſtood. 3. Becauſe we read, that he that is to be Subject muſt firſt, have all things Subject to himſelf. Now the Father doth not properly Subject or ſubdue all things to the Church of Chriſt, but only unto Chriſt, and therefore the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Chriſt's ſubjection to the Father; In the ſame way as Chriſt delivers up the Kingdom to the Father, is Chriſt alſo to be ſubject to his Father; but Chriſt delivers up his Kingdom as man, and as mediatour betwixt God and man; in theſe reſpects Chriſt (as we have heard) muſt Reign no more, at that day his Mediatourſhip ſhall ceaſe, and by conſequence in reſpect of his Mediatourſhip, or in reſpect of his Humanity, he ſhall that day be ſubject to his Father.

You will ſay, is not and was not Chriſt always ſubject to his Father as man, or as mediator betwixt God and man? how then do we limit this ſubjection to that day? then (ſaith the Apoſtle) ſhall the Son be ſubject.

I anſwer, this ſubjection will be then, or at that day more clearly manifeſted than ever it was before; then he muſt ſurrender his Kingdom to his Father in the ſight of men and Angels; then he ſhall lay aſide all his Offices in the view of all; ſo that henceforth God ſhall not Reign by the humanity of Chriſt, but by himſelf; nor ſhall we henceforth be ſubject to God through a mediator Chriſt, but immediately to God himſelf; nor ſhall Chriſt himſelf reign over us as mediator any more, for the very glory of his Majeſty ſhall become ſo illuſtrious, that all eyes ſhall ſee how tranſcendently eminent the Deity of Chriſt is above all creatures, even above the humanity of Chriſt himſelf. That a fuller view of Chriſt's ſubjection ſhall be at that day than ever before, we may Illuſtrate thus; by night the Sun Reigns or rules over us, but by the Moon; for the light of the Moon is borrowed from the Sun, though in the night we ſee not any ſubjection of the Moon to the Sun at all: but ſo ſoon as the Sun riſeth, preſently the Moon ſurceaſeth its office of lighting others, and becomes ſubject to the Sun it ſelf; not by a new ſubjection, but by a declaration of its former ſubjection, ſo that now all may ſee what eminency of glory and light the Sun hath both above the ſtars, and above the Moon: thus it is with God and Chriſt now it is God reigns over us, but only by Chriſt as Mediatour; God's immediate Reign we diſcern not ſo clearly for the preſent, but when the end ſhall come, and Chriſt ſhall ſurceaſe his Office of Mediatorſhip, then ſhall the glory of Chriſt's Divinity appear more eminently, not only above all creatures, but above the brightneſs of Chriſt's humanity it ſelf; and in this reſpect Chriſt then ſhall be ſubject, if not by a new ſubjection, yet certainly by a new declaration and manifeſtation of his ſubjection, ſo as never was before.

Uſe. O the wonders of this day! O the admirable ſhews in heaven, at Chriſt and his Saints firſt entrance into Heaven! O my ſoul, where wilt thou ſtand? or what wilt thou ſay, when Chriſt ſhall take thee by the hand, and bring thee into the preſence of his glorious Father; when he ſhall preſent thee, and preſent all his Commiſſion which he received for thee, and preſent himſelf unto his Father with, thee ſaying, O my Father, here we are all before thy glorious God-head; thus far I have carryed on the great work of man's Salvation, and now all's done according to the Covenant betwixt thee and me; lo here all the ſaints which by decree thou gaveſt me before the world was made; lo here all the Commiſſions which I received from thee in order to their ſalvation; lo here the humaniry which thou gaveſt me when I came into the World; ſuch were the ſins of my redeemed ones, and grown to ſuch an height, that Sacrifice and offering thou wouldſt not have, but a Heb. 10. body thou preparedſt for me, and lo here I preſent all theſe 5. before thee; come, take thy Commiſſions, and be thou all in all; we praiſe thee O God, we acknowledge thee to be the Lord. Come welcome me, and welcom mine, we all ſtand here before thy glorious Throne, and expect every way as high an entertainment as Heaven, or the God of heaven can offord us. O my ſoul, what joy will poſſeſs the at this paſſage? be ſure now thy danger is over, and thy arrival is ſafe, neither ſhall it ever be heard, friend, how cameſt thou hither; for the Lord himſelf will run unto thee, he will hug thee and embrace thee, mouth on thy mouth, eyes on thy eyes, and hands on thy hands; and each hand ſhall clap for joy, each harp ſhall warble, each knee ſhall bend and bow, and each heart be merry and glad. O for the day! Oh when will the day come on, when Chriſt ſhall deliver up the Kingdom to the Father.

Sect 9. Of Chriſt's Subjection to the Father, that God may be all in all.

9. FOR the end of Chriſt's ſubjection to his Fa- 1 Cor.
ther that God may be all in all. Surely this 15. 28.
is the meaning: Chriſt therefore ſubjects himſelf unto his Father, that God himſelf might be all in all; that God may no more Reign by a Deputy, or by a Chriſt, but that immediately and perfectly he may reign by himſelf, ſo that every one may ſee him face to face. Here we enjoy God (as it were) by means as in the uſe of the Word, and Sacraments, and the like, but when that Kingdom (where theſe Adminiſtrations are made uſe of) ſhall be delivered up, then ſhall God himſelf be all in all, without means, without defect, without end.

It is obſervable that Chriſt in his mediatory Kingdom hath ſome ſuch things as bear an Analogy to the means and inſtruments of governing in the Kingdoms of men; As, 1. He hath his Militia and his Laws, with threatnings and promiſes, in the ordinances of his Word. 2. He hath his grants, and ſeals, with many privileges to conform his People in the Ordinances of his Sacraments. 3. He hath his Officers and Embaſſadours for the management of ſpiritual affairs in the Ordinances of his Miniſtry; but the ceaſing of Chriſt's Kingdon is the ceaſing of all theſe; and he therefore ceaſeth his Kingdom that God may immediately ſucceed all theſe without any means, or without any Mediatour at all, he himſelf may be inſtead of all; or all in all.

In proſecution of this, I ſhall diſcuſs. 1. The meaning, what it is for God to be all in all. 2. The particulars, wherein more eſpecially is God all in all.

1. For the meaning; it is a Periphraſis of our complete enjoyment of God: that God may be all in all, is as much as to ſay, that we may enjoy God alone to all purpoſes, neither wanting nor willing any thing beſides himſelf; for a perſon to be all in all to me, it is to have an enjoyment of that perſon to all purpoſes, ſo that I neither do; nor need I to enjoy any thing beſides himſelf; thus God is to the Saints in glory, he is their exceeding great reward; they need nothing elſe beſides himſelf, their very droughts of happineſs is taken in immediately from the fountain, and they have as much of the fountain as their ſouls in their wildeſt capacity can poſſibly hold.

2. For the particulars, wherein more eſpecially is God our all in all? I anſwer.

1. In our enjoying God immediately; here we enjoy God by means; either he communicates himſelf unto us through his Creatures, or through his Ordinance, and hence it is, that we know him but in part, we ſee him but in a glaſs darkly; but when 1 Cor. 13. 12. he ſhall be our all in all, we ſhall ſee him face to

1 John 3. 2. face; we ſhall then ſee God as he is clearly and immediately. Oh how excellent is this enjoyment above all preſent enjoyments here below? as the enjoyment of a Friend in his Picture, letters, tokens, is ſhort of what we enjoy when we have his perſonal preſence; or as the heat and light of the Sun through a cloud is beneath that heat and light when the glorious body of it is open to us without any interpoſition; even ſo all the enjoyments of God in the uſe of means, graces, bleſſings, ordinances are infinitely inferior to that enjoyment of God, which ſhall be without all means; all the raviſhments of our ſpirit in prayer, hearing, reading, meditating, is but a ſip of thoſe Rivers which we ſhall have in Heaven. I know the remembrance of God in a private meditation is ſweet, Pſal. 104. 34. and communion with God in any Ordinance is a feaſt of ſweetneſs, and marrow and fatneſs. Pſal. 63. 5, 6. But when the ſoul ſhall immediately poſſeſs God, when this Kingdom of grace ſhall expire; and all the Adminiſtrations of it ſhall vaniſh away, will not the Fountain be much more ſweet than all the ſtreams? ſurely feaſt, and ſweetneſs, and marrow, and fatneſs, are terms exceedingly too diminutive to give us any more than a ſmall hint of that incomprehenſible ſatisfaction by immediate communion. O the wonders of Heaven! there ſhall be Light without a Candle, and a perpetual day without a Sun, there ſhall be health without Phyſick, and ſtrength of Body without uſe of Food; there ſhall be knowledge without Scriptures, and ſetled Government without a written Law; there ſhall be Communion without Sacraments, and Joy without promiſes to be its fewel; the ſoul in glory ſhall go ſtreight unto God, and immediately participate his glory and happineſs. 'Tis the Compariſon of a Learned Divine, ſuppoſe you ſaw a company of Chriſtal Globes placed in a parallel line, becauſe their poſture will not admit the Suns immediate beams; we'll ſuppoſe another ſingle Globe ſet by the middle of them, to tranſmit the Sunbeams unto all thoſe Globes, by this means they all ſhine, though it be only by reflection; but when the Sun ſhall ſo come about, as that they may immediately receive its beams, there's no further uſe of a ſingle Globe then; ſo here, while we through our diſtance from God, are uncapable of immediate enjoyment, there's a neceſſity of Chriſt's Mediation, but when all things that cauſe the diſtance are removed, and we brought into the preſence chamber of God himſelf, there's no ſuch need of a Mediator then. Now here is one thing, wherein he is our all in all, ſhall enjoy him immediately.

2. It conſiſts in our enjoying of God fully. Now I know in part (ſaith the Apoſtle) but then I ſhall
1 Cor. 12. 12. know, even as I am known; our enjoyment of God is but here in its infancy, there it will be in its full age; here it is in drops, there it will be in the Ocean; here we ſee God's back parts, and we can ſee no more, but there we ſhall ſee his Face, not his ſecond Face (as ſome diſtinguiſh) which is his Grace and Favour enjoyed by Faith, but his firſt Face, which is his Divine Eſſence enjoyed by ſight. Yet I mean not ſo, as if the Soul which is a Creature could take in the whole Eſſence of God which is incomprehenſible; but the Soul ſhall, and muſt be ſo full of God, as that it ſhall not be able to receive, or deſire one jot more. And oh how excellent is this enjoyment above all preſent enjoyments? is it now our higheſt happineſs to have ſome Glimpſes of his Glory ſhining on us, and ſome drops of his favour diſtilled into us: oh but when God ſhall be our all in all, we ſhall have as much of God as our Souls can hold, we ſhall have the Glory of God ſo poured in, till we ſhall be able to receive no more. And here is that which gives the Soul a full ſatisfaction; never would it be ſatisfied till it came to this; ſuppoſe that God would draw out all the Beauty, Sweetneſs, Goodneſs that he hath communicated to all Creatures in the world, and bring the quinteſſence of all, and communicate that unto the Soul of one poor Saint, certainly it would not ſerve the turn, there muſt be a greater Communication before the Soul be fully ſatisfied and reſt content; only once admit it into the Glorious preſence of him who is all in all, and preſently expires its infinite deſire into the boſome of that God; for there's enough to fill his Spirit, he cannot deſire ſo much, but there is more and yet infinitely more; if there be enough in God for the Spirits of all juſt Men made perfect with God, if there be enough in God for Angels whoſe Capacities are greater than the Saints, if there be enough in God for Jeſus Chriſt, whoſe Capacity is yet far wider than the Angels, if there be enough in God for God himſelf, whoſe Capacity is infinitely greater than them all; then there muſt needs be ſatisfaction enough in God to any one poor Soul. Here is another thing wherein God is our all in all, we ſhall enjoy him fully.

3. It conſiſts in our enjoying God ſolely. Not as if there were nothing elſe in Heaven but onely God; but that God in Heaven ſhall be all in all, and inſtead of all; it is God in Heaven that makes Heaven to be Heaven; the Saints Bleſſedneſs, and Gods own Bleſſedneſs doth conſiſt in the enjoyment of God himſelf; the School-men tell us, that we ſhall not properly enjoy any thing elſe but only God; we may have ſome uſe of the Creatures, but no fruition; and therefore is God ſaid to be all, or as good as all. And indeed what can we imagine to be in Heaven which is not eminently in God himſelf: if it be Greatneſs, Power, and Glory, and Victory, and Majeſty, all theſe are his; if it be Joy, or Love, or Peace, or Beauty, or any thing amiable or deſirable, all theſe are in him. Hence ſome take it to be David's meaning, when he ſaid, he had none in Heaven but God; that the ſole enjoyment of God, Pſal. 73. 25.
(of God, and of nothing elſe but God) is the Souls true happineſs, when it is at higheſt; whom have I in Heaven but thee? whom? why there are Angels, there are Saints, there are the Spirits of Juſt and Perfect Men; are theſe nothing with David? O yes! all theſe are good, but they are not able to ſatisfie a Soul without God himſelf. Whether God will make uſe of any Creatures for our ſervice then? or if any, of what Creatures? and what uſe? is more than I yet know; but to make up a full enjoyment there is required a gracious-glorious preſence, a ſweet effuſion or communication of that preſence, a juſt comprehenſion of the excellency of that communication, a perfect Love, and a perfect Reſt in the love of whatſoever it is we comprehend; now this is proper only to God; it is he only that fills the whole capacity of the Soul, it is he that ſo fills it that it can hold no more, it is he only that is the object of Love intended to the utmoſt, and therefore he only is properly enjoyed, he only is poſſeſſed with a full contentment as portion enough, and as reward enough for the Soul for ever.

But ſhall not the Saints have to do with ſomething elſe in Heaven, but only with God? O yes! I believe there ſhall be in Heaven a Communion of the Bleſſed Spirits in God, an aſſociation of the Saints and Angels of God: Yet this ſhall not take away the ſole enjoyment of God, that he ſhould not be their all in all. For they ſhall not mind themſelves or their own good or Created things, but altogether God; they ſhall not love them or one another as for themſelves, but only for God; here we love God for himſelf, and it is gracious love; but there we ſhall love our ſelves for God, and 'tis a Gracious love; why this is to enjoy God ſolely, in this reſpect he is all, and in all; whom have I in Heaven but thee?

Here's a point enough to wean us to the World. Alas! the time is coming on a pace, that all this Uſe World ſhall be diſſolved, and then God ſhall be all in all; here lies the Saints happineſs to have God immediately, God fully, and God ſolely; and will not Saints prepare themſelves for ſuch a condition as 1 Cor. 7. 13. this? you that have the world, uſe it as if not, for the faſhion of this World paſſeth away; and you that have but a little to do with the World, improve that condition; ſurely 'tis your own fault if you have not more to do with God, for you have little elſe to take up your hearts; God may dwell and walk in your hearts without diſturbance, give me neither Poverty nor Riches (ſaith the wiſe man upon that account) a mean condition is more capable of happineſs than that which over-loads us with outward things; whilſt others are caſting up their accounts, you may ſay with David, how precious are thy thoughts unto me O God? how great is the ſum of them? whilſt o- Pſal. 139. 17. thers are following their ſuits at Courts of Juſtice, you may follow all you have at a Throne of Grace; whilſt others are numbring their Flocks and Herds, all your Arithmetick may be imployed to number your Days; whilſt others cannot get out of the Clutches of the World, you may get into the embraces of your God; why, this is to prepare your ſelves for fuller and fuller enjoyments of God; it is God will be all in all, and this is the very top of Heaven's happineſs; ſurely the leſs you have of the World now, if you can but inprove it, the more you may have of Heaven's happineſs even upon Earth; for what is the happineſs of Heaven, but the ſole enjoyment of God? Chriſtians! if you feel any inclinations, pantings, breathings, after this World, give me leave to tell you, that you will never be happy till you have loſt all, till you have no Friends, nor Eſtates, no enjoyment but God alone; when all is done, when this World is nothing, when means ſhall ceaſe, both for Bodies and Souls, and when Chriſt ſhall ceaſe his Mediators Office, and the Son of Man be Subject to his Father, then God ſhall be all in all.

Sect. 10. Of Chriſts (notwithſtanding this) being all in all to his Bleſſed, Saved, Redeemed, Saints to all Eternity.

10. FOR Chriſt's being all in all to his Bleſſed, Saved, Redeemed Saints to all Eternity; we ſhall dilate in this Section. Some may object, if God be all in all, what then becomes of Chriſt? is not this derogatory to Jeſus Chriſt? I anſwer no, in no wiſe; for——

1. It is not the Father perſonally and only, but the Deity Eſſentially and wholly that is our all in all; when we ſay God is all in all, we do not exclude the Son, and Holy Ghoſt, for the whole Godhead is all, in all to all the Saints, as well as the firſt Perſon in the Trinity; the Father is all, and the Son is all, and the Holy Ghoſt is all; and in that Chriſt is God, and the Son of God, we may ſay of Chriſt, that he is all in all: only the Truth of this poſition is not from the Humane Nature, but from the Divine Nature of Jeſus Chriſt.

2. It is not derogatory to Chriſt, but rather it doth exceedingly advance Chriſt in the thoughts of all his Saints; while it was neceſſary Chriſt veiled his Deity, and when his Work of Mediation is fully finiſhed, Chriſt then ſhall reveal his Deity to his Saints more than ever before. In this reſpect might I ſay, if any perſon in the Trinity receives Rev. 5. 13. more Honour than other, Chriſt ſhould have moſt; every Creature which is in heaven heard, I ſay, Bleſſing, Honour, Glory, and Power be unto him that ſitteth on the Throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever; not only unto God, but particularly to the Lamb for ever and ever. It is true, that God only and God fully, and God immediately is all in all; but doth that hinder that Jeſus Chriſt is not alſo only, fully, and immediately all in all? ſee how the Rev. 21. 22, 23. Scripture joyns them together, which plainly argues that they may conſiſt, I ſaw no Temple in the City, for the Lord God Almighty, and the Lamb are the Temple of it, and the City had no need of the Sun, neither of the Moon to ſhine in it, for the Glory of God does lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

Now then, as I have ſpoken of God, ſo that I may ſpeak of Chriſt, and conclude all with Chriſt, I aſſert this Doctrine, that the Glory of Chriſt which the Saints ſhall behold in Chriſt to all eternity, is their all in all. In the diſcuſſion of which I ſhall open theſe particulars. 1. What is the Glory of Chriſt? 2. How the Saints ſhall behold his Glory. 3. Wherein is the comprehenſiveneſs of this expreſſion, that the beholding of Chriſt is our all in all.

1. What is the Glory of Chriſt? I anſwer, that the Glory of Chriſt is either Humane or Divine.

1. There is an Humane Glory, which in time was more eſpecially conferred upon his Manhood.

2. There is an Eſſential or Divine Glory, which before time and after time, even from everlaſting to everlaſting iſſueth from the God-head; I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe, that we may rather take a view of Chriſt in thoſe Glories (as we are able) wherein he will appear to his Saints as their all in all to all Eternity.

1. For his Humane Glory, that is either in regard of his Soul, or Body; for his Soul, Chriſt was from the firſt inſtant of his conception full of Glory, becauſe even then he received Grace, not by meaſure, as we do, but as comprehenſion, he had the clear viſion of God, even as the Angels of Heaven, which aroſe from the Hypoſtatical Union of two Natures at his firſt Conception. It is true, that by the ſpecial diſpenſation of God, the fullneſs of thy accompanying that Glory was with-held from Chriſt in the time of his paſſion, and the redundancy of glory from his ſoul unto his body was totally deferred until the exaltation of Chriſt; but Chriſt no ſooner exalted, and ſet on the right Hand of God, but immediately the interruption of joy in his ſoul, and the interception of glory from his ſoul to his body, was altogether removed. Then it was that his ſoul was filled with all joy, ſolace, pleaſure, which could poſſibly flow from the ſight of an object ſo infinitely pleaſing, as is the Eſſence, Majeſty, and glory of God. And then it was that his body was repleniſhed with as much glory as was proportionable unto the moſt vaſt capacity of any Creature; not only his ſoul, but his body is a glorious Creature; it is σῶμα τῆς δόξης a body of glory, that is the moſt glorious body in it ſelf. And the ſpring of glory unto others, ought not Chriſt to have ſuffered theſe things and Luk. 24. 26. ſo to enter into his glory? it is called his glory, as if it were appropriated unto him as the moſt eminent ſubject, and principal efficient of glory; as if he had the monopoly of glory! all the glory in Heaven is in ſome ſort his Glory;

Surely Chriſt's Manhood is exalted unto an higher degree of glory than the moſt glorious Saint or Angel ever was, or ſhall be; Principalities, Powers, Mights, and Dominions fall ſhort of his glory.

But ſome object, that the mediatory office of Chriſt ſhall wholly ceaſe, and that the body and ſoul of Chriſt ſhall then be annihilated.

Indeed this was the opinion of Eutiches, that the humane Nature of Chriſt ſhould be changed or converted into the divine; and thus he interprets that 1 Cor. 15. 28. Scripture, then ſhall the Son alſo himſelf be ſubject, that God may be all in all, what is this ſubjection, (ſaith he) but a converſion of the Creature into the very ſubſtance, or eſſence of the Creatour himſelf? But we deny the interpretation; the Son as a Man ſhall be ſubject, and yet the manhood of Chriſt ſhall ſtill remain: it is true that his Mediatory office ſhall wholly ceaſe, but it follows not that therefore the manhood of Chriſt ſhall be converted or changed into the Deity; there may be other reaſons for the continuation of humane nature beſides the execution of his Mediatory office; As, 1. That the luſtre of his Diety might ſhine through his humanity, and that thereby our very bodily eyes may come to ſee God, as much as is poſſible for any creature to ſee him, I ſhall ſee him (ſaith Job) not with other, but with theſe ſame Eyes; 2. That the Saints may ſee how the power of an infinite God can conveigh the luſtre of his Deity into a Creature; upon this account I verily believe, that Angels and Men will be continually viewing of Jeſus Chriſt, he ſhall come to be admired of the Saints; he ſhall be admired (as we have heard) at the Judgment day; nor is that all, but the Saints in Heaven ſhall ſee with their eyes ſuch excellencies in Chriſt, as that they ſhall admire for ever; I ſay for ever, as much as they did at the firſt moment when they ſaw him; here if we ſee any thing excellent, we admire at firſt, but after a while we do not ſo, but in heaven there will be ſo much excellency in Chriſt, that we ſhall admire as much to all Eternity, as we did at the very firſt moment; there will be no abatement in glory of our being taken with the ſight of the glory in Jeſus Chriſt. 3. That Chriſt by his humanity may converſe more freely, and familiarly with his brethren in his Fathers houſe; oh the intimacy that will be there betwixt Jeſus Chriſt and his Chriſtian Saints! oh the mutual rejoycing and delight that will be there betwixt Jeſus Chriſt and his deareſt darlings! as Chriſt from Eternity rejoyced in the habitable part of his Earth, ſo will the Saints (his habitable Earth) to all eternity rejoyce in Chriſt; the eye of the Saints in glory can never be off Chriſt as Mediator and God; now the eye of the Saints in glory ſhall never be oft Chriſt as God and Mediator then. Thus far of his human glory.

Job. 19. 27.

2 Theſ. 1. 10.

2. For his Eſſential divine glory, it is that glory which Chriſt hath as God: this he never laid aſide, but as the Sun in a dark gloomy day may not ſend forth its beams, ſo Chriſt the Son of righteouſneſs in the time of his abode upon earth (except a little glimps only in his transfiguration) did not ſend forth his glorious beams; but hereafter the body or humanity of Chriſt ſhall not hinder the breaking forth of all his divine glory. No ſooner the Son ſubject, and his Mediatory office diſcharged, but Chriſt, as God will manifeſtly put forth his more immediate glory to all his Saints: 1 John 3. 2. Behold, now we are the Sons of God, and it doth not yet appear, what we ſhall be, but we know when he ſhall appear we ſhall be like him, for we ſhall ſee him as he is. Mark it, when he ſhall appear, at and after the Reſurrection day we ſhall ſee him as he is, (i. e) we ſhall ſee the very eſſential glory of Jeſus Chriſt.

Queſt. But what is the eſſential glory of Chriſt? I cannot anſwer, it is a queſtion not to be reſolved by all the men in the World; we know little of the glory of Saints, how ſhould we know any thing of the eſſential glory of Chriſt as God? The Scriptures ſay that God ſpake to Moſes face to face, yet God tells him Anſw. thou canſt not ſee my face, and he favours him ſo far as to tell him the reaſon, for there ſhall no Man ſee and live, q. d. No man in this life, he muſt firſt Exod. 33. 11, 20. dye, and be changed, and then he ſhall have a peculiar revelation of the divine Majeſty; then he ſhall ſee him as he is; but how that is, I cannot tell; come, let us queſtion this no further; ſurely it is a mercy that this infinite glory is not diſcovered to us; for as a weak eye is not able to behold the Sun, or to ſee it in rota, (as the School-men ſpeak) in that wheel or circle wherein the Sun doth run, but only in the beams of it; no more can we ſee Chriſt as God in his glorious eſſence, or in his eſſential glory, but only in the beams thereof in this World and Effects; if now we know ſo little of ſpirits and ſpirituals, oh then how little do we know of him who is the Father of ſpirits? I ſhall ſay no more, therefore let us be content to be ignorant of theſe things, till we enter into the confines of Eternity.

But whether ſhall this glorious eſſence, or eſſential glory of Chriſt be more ſeen, or manifeſted, Queſt. at, or after the day of Judgment, than ever it was before? I anſwer.——

I believe it will. Some tell us, of ſeveral periods wherein the glory of Chriſt is ſtill more and more Anſw. ſeen; as, 1. In this Life we may ſee it in part, Dr. Anneſly Communion with God. thus David ſpeaks of himſelf, my ſoul thirſteth for thee, my fleſh longeth for thee, to ſee thy power, and thy glory, as I have ſeen thee in the Sanctuary; but this ſight is very dim, we ſee only now as through a glaſs darkly. 1 Cor. 13. 12. The ſecond period is betwixt our diſſolution and reſurrection; and then ſhall we ſee the eſſential glory of Chriſt more immediately and fully, our creeping apprehenſion of God ſhall then be elevated, and our diſtance from God ſhall then be ſhortned, and all the riddles of grace and of Jeſus Chriſt ſhall then be opened. This ſight is ſo great, that if a ſoul ſhould come from heaven to declare it, neither could that ſoul expreſs it, nor we underſtand it, we read of Lazarus, whoſe ſoul Chriſt returned into his body, whom much People of the Jews came purpoſely to ſee, that they might hear ſtories of the other World, but not a word from him of any ſuch matter, Paul's rapture may ſatisfie with the reaſon of it, he heard 2 Cor. 12. 4. there ἄῤῥητα ῥήματα wordleſs Words, ſuch words as could not poſſibly be repeated on earth, and yet all this is but a ſecond ſtep to the full viſion of Chriſt's eſſential glory. The third period is at the Reſurrection, and during the time of the laſt Judgment, and then we ſhall ſee more of his glory; Camero affirms, that 'tis no curioſity to ſay, that the Saints and Angels in heaven had a new glory by the exhibition of Chriſt, the great myſtery of Incarnation being thereby better known; and we may as ſafely affirm, that the Saints ſhall have a new glory, by new viſions of the glory of Chriſt at the day of Reſurrection; they ſhall then ſee the ſolemnity of heavens glory carried on by Chriſt in his glorious actings; and all that ever the ſoul ſaw before in being with Chriſt in heaven till the Reſurrection, ſhall be ſwallowed up with the ſight of this glory of Chriſt at the Reſurrection-day. The laſt period is after the Reſurrection, and that ſhall continue even to all Eternity; now all the manifeſtations of Chriſt's glory before this, are but as a few green ears rubb'd in our hands, ſo that the full crop or the full harveſt is yet behind. But this is that (which as we told you before) we cannot tell though we had the tongues of Men and Angels. Thus far of the firſt point, what is the glory of Chriſt.

2. How ſhall the Saints behold this glory? I anſwer as Chriſt hath a twofold glory, ſo there is a twofold manner of beholding it, (i.e.) ocular and mental.

1. There is an ocular viſion, a ſight of Chriſt Job.9. 27. with our very eyes, whom I ſhall ſee for my ſelf, and mine eyes ſhall behold him; with theſe eyes in our heads we ſhall one day behold the human glory of Chriſt; I doubt not we ſhall behold the beauty of Heaven, the ſhining bodies of the Saints, but above all, our very eyes ſhall delightfully contemplate Chriſt's glorious body; and indeed this ſhall drown all the other ſights, if any think that Chriſt's glorious body ſhall be too intenſive, and too too extraordinary a brightneſs for our weak eyes; let ſuch conſider that——

1. The eyes in Heaven ſhall be glorified; now glorification adds a ſingular excellency to the faculties, it advanceth the faculties, and raiſeth them to an higher pitch of excellency; glorification adds a greater capacity to the eye than ever it had before. In this world there is a difference in our eyes and ſight; a man of a clear ſight ſees more things, and more of every thing then a dark ſight doth; ſo a glorified eye ſees more of things then our eyes now can ſee; it ſhall be enlarged exceedingly to take in objects which now it cannot receive; glorification adds ſtrength to the faculties both internal, and external, ſo that the eye ſhall be able to look on the glory of Chriſt, not with difficulty, but with contentment; in this World every ſenſe we have is apt to be deſtroyed by excellent Objects, and the more excellent, and tranſcendent the object is, the more it hurts and deſtroys the ſenſe; as the Sun by its brightneſs darkens the eye, and other things by mighty ſounds bring deafneſs to the ear; Paul indeed hath a viſion of glory, but becauſe his faculties were not glorified, he was he knew not how, whether in the body or out of the body, whether alive or dead, he did not know; certainly the ſight of the glory of the other World would amaze, diſtract, and deſtroy us, if we had a ſight of it as now we are; but in heaven the eye ſhall have great pleaſure in beholding the brighteſt light, becauſe it ſhall be advanced to the higheſt pitch of ſtrength that may be.

2. As the eye ſhall be glorified, ſo it ſhall act in a glorified body, and this will make the ſight of the glory of Chriſt in ſtead of hurting us, to leave upon us a more ſweet, enlivening, and powerful impreſſion. By this means all the impediments that hinder the conveyance of divine influences from that Heavenly object will be removed. To illuſtrate this, let the moſt excellent ſight be ſet before a man that is defective in his bodily ſtate, and it doth not take him; what ſhould a ſick man do with ſuch things? he makes nothing of the moſt pleaſant gardens, orchards, buildings, nor of the moſt glorious ſights that are; when he is ſick, they are but ſick things to him, and of none effect; but in heaven the body ſhall be glorified, and ſtript of all corruptions and imperfections, ſo that there ſhall be no bar unto the influences of the glory of Chriſt which ſhall there be ſeen.

3. As there ſhall be a glorified eye acting in a glorified body, ſo it ſhall be acted by a glorified ſpirit; the eye is but the organ or inſtrument of ſight, and without the ſpirit would convey no more than a glaſs doth; it is the ſpirit of a man that gives life to viſion, it is the ſpirit of a man that diſcovers things, and ſets them forth in their worth, vertues, ends; now in Heaven the ſpirit of Men ſhall be glorified, and enabled to perform all thoſe offices in perfection; ſo that when a man ſhall look on the man Chriſt Jeſus by vertue of a glorified ſpirit, he ſhall ſee more, know more, taſte more than any other can; As a man of underſtanding when he looks on a diamond, or a wedge of gold, he hath other apprehenſions of it, and a further touch upon his ſpirit, than a beaſt or a child in a cradle hath; ſo where the ſight of the eye is acted by a glorified mind, it takes in more from the ſight of every thing which is to be ſeen (unexpreſſibly more) than what can be done hereby the moſt ſanctified Spirit in the World. Now in theſe reſpects Chriſt's glorified body (though it be the brighteſt viſible thing in the Heaven of Heavens) yet it may be the object of the eye of Saints, for they ſhall have glorified eyes, in glorified bodies, and acted by their glorified ſpirits,

2. There is a mental viſion, a ſight of Chriſt by the eyes of our underſtandings; and ſurely this exceeds the former, the eye of the Body is only on the Body of of Chriſt, but the eye of the ſoul is no the body and ſoul, on the Humanity and Deity of Jeſus Chriſt. This is the very top of Heaven, when Saints ſhall be illightned with a clear and glorious ſight of Chriſt as God; Divines uſually call it Beatifical viſion.

Queſt. But how ſhall Saints behold the glorious Eſſence, or God-head of Chriſt?

Anſw. 1. Some ſay, Chriſt as God, or the God-head of Chriſt ſhall be known by the Humanity of Chriſt; ſuch a luſtre of his Deity ſhall ſhine through his humanity, as that thereby, and by no other means ſhall the Eſſential glory of Chriſt appear.

2. Others ſay, That beſides the Humanity of Chriſt there ſhall be a ſpecies repreſenting the Divine Eſſence of Chriſt, and a light of glory elevating the underſtanding by a ſupernatural ſtrength; and that thereby the glorious Eſſence of Chriſt ſhall be diſcovered.

3. Others ſay, That the Divine Eſſence ſhall be repreſented to the glorified underſtanding, not by Chriſt's humanity, nor by any ſpecies, but immediately by it ſelf, yet they alſo require a light of glory to elevate and fortifie the underſtanding by reaſon of its weakneſs, and infinite diſproportion and diſtance from the incomprehenſible Deity.

4. Others hold, that to the clear viſion of Chriſt as God, there is not required a ſight of Chriſt's humanity as the firſt ſuppoſe; nor a ſpecies repreſenting the Divine Eſſence, as the ſecond ſuppoſe; nor any created light elevating the underſtanding, as the third ſuppoſe; but only a change of the natural order of knowing: It is ſufficient (ſay they) that the Divine eſſence be immediately repreſented to a created underſtanding; which though it cannot be done according to the order of nature; as experience tells us, (for ſo we conceive things as firſt having paſſed, the ſenſe and imagination) yet it may be done according to the order of Divine grace. I ſhall not enter into theſe Scholaſtical diſputes, it is enough for a ſober man to know that in Heaven we ſhall ſee him face to face, his ſervants ſhall ſerve him, and they ſhall ſee his face, 1 Cor. 13. 12. Rev. 22. 4.

Queſt. His face, what's that? I anſwer——

Anſw. 1. They ſhall ſee Chriſt as God, of the ſame Eſſence with the Father, and the holy Ghoſt, and yet a diſtinct Perſon from them both; they ſhall ſee the Unity in Trinity, and Trinity in Unity; they ſhall ſee how the Son is begotten of the Father, and how the Holy Ghoſt proceeds from the Father, and the Son; they ſhall ſee the difference between the generation of the Son, & proceſſion of the Spirit. Theſe are myſteries in which we are blind and know very little or nothing but in ſeeing his face we ſhall ſee all theſe. 2 They ſhall ſee Chriſt at their firſt being, or principle of all the good that is in the World; they John 1.3. ſhall ſee how all things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made; they ſhall ſee all the good in the creature as flowing from Chriſt, and as contained in the abſolute perfection of Chriſt's Divine Nature; they ſhall ſee in one Chriſt all the excellencies of all the creatures united which is indeed to ſee him in his eminency it there be any beauty, riches, honour, goodneſs in any creature, that is eminenly, tranſcendently, and originally in Chriſt and that ſhall be ſeen.

3. They ſhall ſee Chriſt in all his ways, counſels, decrees, executions, tranſactions, from everlaſting to everlaſting; that great buſineſs of Election and Reprobation will then be diſcovered; it is an expreſſion of Auguſtine, They ſhall then ſee the reaſon why one is Elected, and another Reprobated; why one is rich, and another poor; they ſhall then ſee all the works that God ever did, or that ever God will do; it is not yet ſix thouſand years ſince the creation of the World, and what is ſix thouſand years to Eternity? certainly the truth of Orig. l. de principiis 3. c. 5. Origen's opinion touching the exiſtency of other Worlds before this, and the future ſucceſſion of other Worlds, after this, will then be known. If no worlds, before this, yet if God in Chriſt hath done ſuch great things in only ſix thouſand years, what he may do in the next ſix thouſand years, and ſo in the next ſix thouſand years, who now can tell? we ſee not theſe things, but the Saints in ſeeing the face of Chriſt ſhall ſee all things.

4. They ſhall ſee Chriſt in all his glory, ways counſels, decrees, executions, tranſactions, as working for their happineſs. Now this is more than the former; there's a great deal of difference in ſeeing an object as excellent in it ſelf, and in ſeeing an object as conducing to my happineſs; As one that is a ſtranger, and another is an heir rides over ſuch a demeſne! the ſtranger rides over it, and takes delight to ſee the ſituation, rivers, trees, and fruits, but the heir looks upon it after another manner, this (ſaith he) is the Land for which my Father laid out ſo much, and all to enrich me, and all to beſtow it on me, as my Inheritance. So the Saints admitted into the glorious ſight of Chriſt, they take not only a view of Chriſt, of the eſſential glory of Chriſt, of the tranſactions of Chriſt, things excellent in themſelves, but they ſee all theſe as to make them happy; they ſay of Chriſt and all his actings, theſe are mine, and for my happyneſs; A ſtranger may look upon a King, and ſee beauty and Majeſty, and glory, and honour in him, but the Queen looks upon the King and his beauty as her own; ſo the Saints look upon the King of Heaven, they ſee Chriſt, and all in Chriſt as their 1 John 3. 2. own, to make them happy for ever and ever.

5. They ſhall ſee Chriſt as he is; but what? do we not ſee him now as he is? oh no: we now ſee him not as he is indeed and in truth, but only as he is in hear-ſay, and report; we now ſee him only as he is ſhadowed out to us in the Goſpel of peace; and what is the Goſpel, but the pourtraiture of the King, which he ſent to another Land to be ſeen by his Bride? ſo Kings and Queens on earth wooe one another; whilſt the Bride is on earth, ſhe never ſeeth him as he is in his beſt Sabbath-Royal Robe of immediate glory, ſhe ſeeth him rather by the ſecond hand, (i. e.) by meſſengers, words, mediation; he rather ſends his pourtraiture, than comes himſelf; but in heaven the Saints ſee him as he is, they ſee Chriſt himſelf in his own very perſon; they ſee the red and white in his own face; they ſee all the inſide of Chriſt; and thouſands of excellencies ſhall then be revealed, that we ſee not now the myſteries of that glorious Ark ſhall then be opened; his Incarnation, his two Natures in one perſon, his Sufferings as Man, and his ſitting in the ſeat of God as God, all theſe ſhall be ſeen.

6. They ſhall ſee Chriſt without interruption, and without intermiſſion to all Eternity. If once the eye be ſet on the face of Jeſus Chriſt, it will never be taken off again. Some conceive this to be the reaſon why the Saints in heaven can never fall away, becauſe they ſhall have a continual view of Chriſt as God; Surely to have but one glimpſe of Chriſt in this reſpect, though it were gone preſently, it were a great happineſs beyond all that the World affords; it was ſometimes a deſire of a Philoſopher to ſee the nature of the Sun, though he were to be burnt by it; ſo if Chriſt ſhould but grant us this happineſs, you ſhall come to ſee me, but the ſight of me will deſtroy you, this were a deſirable thing; but to have ſuch an excellent glorious ſight as ſhall never end; that Chriſt ſhould not only paſs by, but ſtand ſtill, ſo as the ſoul ſhall never loſe his ſight; O how glorious is this? if a man do but look upon a delightful Object, he is loath to have his eye drawn from it; ſurely the eye of Saints ſhall be eternally opened to ſee the divine nature of Chriſt; turn them which way they will, they ſhall never turn aſide the buſied eyes of their underſtanding from off the the Deity of Chriſt; he fills heaven; he is that fair Tree of life, the branches whereof in all that huge and capacious borders of heaven have not room to to grow in; for the heaven of Heavens cannot contain him. O the wonders of heaven. There is Abraham, Moſes, Elias, the Prophets, the Apoſtles, and the glorified Martyrs, but the Saints have neither leiſure nor hearts to feed themſelves with beholding of creatures; no, no; all the eyes of heaven (which are a fair and numerous company) are upon (only, only upon) the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; the Father hath no leiſure to look over his ſhoulder to his Son; the Husband hath no leiſure to look over his ſhoulder to his Wife; Chriſt takes all eyes off from ſuch created things; ſurely 'tis enough for the Saints and Angels in heaven to ſtudy Chriſt for all eternity; it ſhall be their only labour to read Chriſt, to ſmell Chriſt, to hear, ſee and taſte Chriſt; to love, joy, and enjoy Jeſus Chriſt for ever and ever: Thus far of the ſecond point, how the Saints ſhall behold the glory of Chriſt.

3. Wherein is the comprehenſiveneſs of this expreſſion, that the beholding of Chriſt is our all in all? I anſwer ———

1. It comprehends the immediate ſeeing and looking upon all, that Majeſty and Glory which Jeſus Chriſt hath. In this ſenſe Paul took it when he Cor. 5. 7 complained, we walk by faith, not by ſight. q. d, on earth we have faith, and in heaven we have ſight; it is ſome comfort that now I ſee Jeſus Chriſt by faith, but comparatively to that ſight which the Saints have in heaven it is as no comfort at all; alas! I am not, I cannot be ſatisfied ſo long as I am abſent from the Lord, I look upon my ſelf as one from home; and as a Prince in a ſtrange Land ſits down ſadly, becauſe he hath not the ſight of his Father, ſo I am forced to complain; O I cannot ſee my Lord, I would fain behold him, I am a ſtranger on earth, a Pilgrim in this World, I am not where I would be, I am abſent from him whom I muſt deſire; O I deſire to be diſſolved, and to be with Chriſt; I walk with him here on earth by faith, but to walk with him in the ſtreets of heaven by ſight is far better; O I long, I pant, I breath, I deſire, I think every day a year, and every year an age till I be in heaven, at home, in my Father's arms, that I may behold and ſee him, and that immediately, I ſay immediately in his glory, This is one way of beholding Chriſt, it is an immediate ſight.

2. It comprehends the fruition and enjoyment of Chriſt in his glory. Surely the Saints ſhall not be meer idle ſpectators of the glory of Chriſt, but they ſhall enjoy him, and be taken into fellowſhip with him: It was ſaid of Moſes, that he did ſee the Land of Canaan; but he was not admitted into it; it is otherwiſe with the Saints, they ſhall ſee heaven, and they ſhall enter into heaven, come thou faithful ſervant, and enter into thy Maſter's joy; not only behold it, but enter into it; they muſt behold Chriſt, and take poſſeſſion of Chriſt, John 33. John 17. 24. and enjoy them as their own. And thus the word to ſee, or behold, is often uſed in Scripture; except a man be born again, he cannot ſee the Kingdom of God, (i. e.) he cannot enjoy it: and Father I will that thoſe whom thou haſt given me be with me where I am that they may behold my glory, (i. e.) that they may enjoy my glory; for Chriſt is not only glorious in himſelf, but he is the ſpring of glory unto others: now in this reſpect more eſpeciall is Chriſt our all in all; he is all in himſelf, and if we enjoy him, he is all in all unto us: To ſee a little into the ſtate and condition of the Saints in glory in this enjoyment of Chriſt.——

1. They poſſeſs Chriſt as their own; they go to Chriſt, and they lay hold on him, ſaying, thou art mine. It was indeed the language of the ſpouſe whilſt yet on earth, I am my beloved's, and my beloved is mine; there's a right, and a propriety made over, to her in her betrothing unto Chriſt, but after the ſolemnity of the marriage is over, the poſſeſſion is then more full; when once the ſpouſe comes to behold Chriſt in his Kingdom, ſhe may then go boldly to her beloved, and ſay, all I ſee is my own; I had thee in hope, but now hope is vaniſhed, and actual enjoyment comes in place: lo, now I have thee in my eye, and in my heart, and in my hands, and in my arms; and as nothing ſhall ſeparate us now, for all our enemies are trod under foot, ſo never will I part with thee, ſo far as to be out of my eye, I will ſtill behold thee, and in beholding, I will ſtill poſſeſs thee, for thou art mine own.

2. They have the uſe of what they poſſeſs; and this is an infinite good to the Saints; they ſhall not only poſſeſs Chriſt, but they ſhall have what uſe they will of Chriſt, and of all in Chriſt; they ſhall as they pleaſe make uſe of his humanity, and of his Deity, of his glorious eſſence, and of his glorious attributes; O wonder! that a Saint ſhould come to Chriſt and ſay, O my Lord, thou art mine, and my pleaſure is to make uſe of thy wiſdom, power, and mercy; and that Chriſt ſhould reply and ſay, welcome ſweet ſoul, uſe me and all my glory as thou pleaſeſt, why thus it is; even as a friend will ſay to his friend, make uſe of all I have as your own; ſo will Chriſt come to his Saints, and bid them make uſe of all his riches, glory, excellency, even as they will, even to the utmoſt that they are capable of.

3. They have the ſweet and comfort of all they uſe; and this makes up a complete enjoyment. In things below we may have the poſſeſſion of them, and the uſe thereof, but if we have not the ſweet and comfort of that we uſe, we cannot be ſaid truly or fully to enjoy thoſe things; what is the poſſeſſion and uſe of meat and drink, if we taſt not the ſweet of them? Hence God is ſaid to give us all things richly to enjoy; no creature can give us richly to enjoy another, one may give us ſuch and ſuch things wherein there may be comfort, but he cannot give us comfort in ſuch things, it is only God that can give us that; it is ſo with the Saints in glory, God gives them all things, yea, Chriſt gives himſelf to them as all in all, to enjoy him richly, fully, ſweetly, to the very uttermoſt. This another way of beholding Chriſt, it is a fruition or enjoyment of Chriſt, wherein and whereby he is our all in all.

4. It comprehends all the effects and conſequents of ſuch a beholding of his glory, which are infinite delight and complacency in the will, and all praiſe and thankſgiving in the mouths of his Saints. For the firſt, It is diſputed whether Eternal happineſs be more in the acts of the underſtanding, or of the Will? and ſome conclude that it is principally in the will, becauſe that is an active appetite, and predominant in a man, indeed the whole of a man, oh the joy, delight, and complacency that will ariſe in the will upon the ſeeing and beholding of Jeſus Chriſt! they ſhall delight infinitely in the Eſſential glory of Chriſt, and in the declared glory of Chriſt; they ſhall delight in all that glory that is reflected upon Chriſt by all his creatures in heaven; they ſhall delight in his preſence, and in his love, Chriſt is all delights, and how then ſhould they but delight in Chriſt? for the ſecond, as they delight in their wills, ſo will their mouths be filled with praiſes; we read of Saints and Angels continually praiſing God in Heaven; there ſhall be none of our duties of mourning, faſting, praiſing, humbling; the acts of patience and juſtifying faith ſhall ceaſe in heaven; but the duty of praiſing, and glorifying God will continue to all Eternity. Methinks I ſee the Saints following the Lamb; methinks I hear the familiar converſes betwixt Chriſt and them; as Chriſt opens himſelf to them, ſo they to him; firſt, he begins; Oh my deareſt Saints, you are they, for whom before all time I decreed this heaven, and now you ſee the execution of my decrees; whiles the World ſtood, I was ſtill carrying on the work of your ſalvation, either in doing or ſuffering, or in ſucceſſive works, applying my doings and ſufferings, my active and paſſive obedience to your perſons, and now the World is at an end, you ſee the end of my work, and the end of your Faith, which is the Eternal Salvation of your ſouls; Oh how I have my wiſh, and you have your happineſs; here you and I will live together, that I may for ever behold you and that you may for ever behold me, and my glory; which no ſooner ſaid, but methinks I hear all thoſe innumerable Saints in heaven to anſwer, worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain, Rev. 5. 12. to receive power, and riches, and wiſdom, and ſtrength, and honour, and glory, and bleſſing, and therefore unto him that loved us, and waſhed us from our ſins in his own Rev. 1.6. blood, and hath made us Kings unto God and his Father, to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever, Amen. Yea, methinks I hear every creature in heaven ſay, bleſſing, honour, Glory, and power be unto Ver. 13. him that ſitteth on the Throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever, Amen. hy is Wthis their continual work in heaven; they have nothing elſe to do but with joy and gladneſs to ſing forth the praiſes of God, and of Chriſt, and that his mercy endureth for ever. And this likewiſe is comprehended under that notion of the Saints beholding of Chriſt, which completely makes up the propoſition aſſerted, that Chriſt, or the glory of Chriſt, which the Saints ſhall behold to all eternity, is their all in all.

Thus far we have propounded the object, which is Jeſus carrying on the Salvation of his Saints in his coming again to earth, and taking them up with himſelf and his Angels into Heaven; our next work is to direct you how to look unto Jeſus in this reſpect, and then we have done.

CHAP

SECT. I.

Of knowing Jeſus as carrying on the great great work of our Salvation in his ſecond coming.

WHAT looking is, and what it contains, we have often heard, and that in theſe reſpects we may look on Jeſus.

1. Let us know Jeſus, carrying on the Saints Salvation in his ſecond coming, and taking them to Heaven. Many glorious excellent things, many precious paſſages, many high and heavenly carriages are in this tranſaction; Is it not of high concernment that he that now ſits at God's right hand interceding for us, ſhould thence come again to judge the World, and after judgment take up his Saints with him into glory? can we read of the ſeveral actings of this general Aſſize, and not deſire to read on ſtill? nay, is not all our reading mixt with admiration of every paſſage? come! wonder, and ſit, and pauſe, and ſtop at every word; ſtay and wonder, and adore that light, which appears in any beam of truth, and in the admiration of that truth which doth appear, caſt thy ſelf down at the feet of Chriſt, and cry out, O the depth of Glory and Majeſty, and Goodneſs, and Grace in thee! O the riches of love thou ſhouldeſt let out thy ſelf in theſe ſeveral admirable diſpenſations! come, be exact in this ſtudy; gather up all the crumbs and filings of this Gold; the leaſt beams of the glory of Chriſt (eſpecially as it ſhines and glitters at his ſecond coming) having ſo much light, and love, and ſplendour in them, as that they will be very ſweet to look upon them: every piece or part of this knowledge will be of ſpecial uſe and worth, yea the low and imperfect knowledge of this myſtery, of infinite more value than the high and perfect knowledge of Ten thouſand things beſides. And one thing (o my ſoul) let me tell thee it is poſſible for thee to attain the very ſweet, and ſatisfactory degree of this very knowledge. And therefore ſtudy cloſe, run over again all that hath been ſpoken, and dig yet deeper into that glorious Mine; conſent not thy ſelf with a bare diſcovery of that gold-oare which is only upon the ſuperficies or top of the Mine, but go ſo far as to find out the inward ſpiritual, and experimental knowledge, which the Saints by the light of the Spirit may come to attain. O ſtudy Chriſt in his ſecond coming to judgment.

SECT. II.

Of conſidering Jeſus in that reſpect.

2. LET us conſider Jeſus, carrying on this work of ſalvation at his ſecond coming. It is not enough to know, but we muſt meditate and ſeriouſly conſider of it: A meer ſtudent may know Chriſt, and ſtudy Chriſt, as he knows and ſtudies other things: He may keep together many notions concerning Chriſt, and his coming to judgment, but he hath no impreſſion of the holineſs of Chriſt upon his heart: and in this reſpect he is a ſtranger to Chriſt and all his actings; alas, he ſtudies Chriſt, but he doth not rightly, ſeriouſly, inwardly, conſider of Chriſt, but he doth not look unto Jeſus, as one that looks to his refuge, hope, and help; true and ſpiritual conſideration, is a ſerious matter; its not ſome few and fretting Thoughts that are the diſcharge of this Work, but thoughts reſting dwelling, fixing, and ſtaying upon Chriſt; untill they come to ſome profitable iſſue; O it is another manner of buſineſs than many are aware of; it's a thinking without thought upon thought; it's a reitteration and multiplication of the thoughts of the mind upon the ſubject propounded; ſo the Scripture expreſſeth it, I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and in that next verſe, I turned to ſee; he looked upon, and conſidered his works, and he returned to behold them; he thought on them before, but now he returned to think; he renewed his thoughts upon the matter, and took a new view of them. Indeed when the underſtanding works ſeriouſly and ſpiritually, it will fetch things into ſight, and not only ſo, but it will hold them there, and faſten upon them, and when they are gone, it will fetch them again, my ſoul hath them ſtill in remembrance, my ſoul in remembring doth remember them, and will not off till the end be obtained; ſo a man eyes Chriſt, till he have more of Chriſt, more of his preſence, and more of his light, and more of his favour, and more of his Image. O let this be our Work; let us thus conſider Jeſus in reference to his ſecond coming to judgment. And that we may do it in order ———

Eccleſ. 2. 11, 12.

Lam. 4. 20.

1. Conſider Chriſt's preparing for judgment; reallize it as if thou ſaweſt or heardeſt the ſame; no ſooner the time determined which God hath appointed, but Chriſt commands, make ready ye Angels to wait upon me, and make ready ye glorious Souls that now are with me; it is the Father's pleaſure, and it is my pleaſure to go down into the neather World, and to call before me all the men and women that ever lived in it; there will I paſs my doom upon all fleſh, and reward every one, good and bad, according to his works. O what a ſhout may I imagine in Heaven at this news! what joy is in the Souls of Saints that now they muſt go to their bodies, and enter into them, that both their ſouls and bodies, which ſometimes lived together, may now dwell together with Chriſt, in glory, and never part more? if thoſe that live on earth are commanded by Chriſt, To lift up their heads, becauſe their redemption draweth nigh; how much more ſhall they joy in Heaven, who alſo have waited for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of their bodies, that now the long-looked-for day, is come, it is come; O the exultation of the Angels at this tidings! This is worthy a pauſe, a Selah to be ſet upon it.

2. Conſider Chriſt's coming to judgment; all now in readineſs, the Son of God comes forth with all his glorious attendants; For the Son of Man ſhall come to the glory of his Father with his Angels, and with the Souls of Saints, that for a time have been in Paradiſe. Oh what a goodly ſight is here! In this meditation I may ſee with John, The new Jeruſalem coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a Bride adorned for her huſband. Down comes Chriſt, and down comes the Angels, and down comes the Spirits of the Juſt made perfect: And as they come along, ſee how they ſhake the Heavens, and dim, and dark the very lights of Heaven; ſee what a flood of fire goes before them; ſee how they paſs into the cloud, where Chriſt makes a ſtand, and erects a Throne for himſelf to ſit on. Sure 'twill be a guilded glorious cloud, when Chriſt with all his celeſtial Servants ſhall ſit upon it: a mornings cloud guilded with the beams of the Sun is admirably fair and ſhining; but what a ſhining cloud is that where the Sun of righteouſneſs with all his morning ſtars do ſit and ſhine? here's enough to dazzle my eyes, and to take up my thoughts; O my ſoul think on it!

3. Conſider Chriſt's ſummons of the Elect to come under Judgment; no ſooner in the cloud, but He ſhall ſend his Angels with a great ſound of a Trumpet, and they ſhall gather together his Elect from the four Winds, from the one end of heaven to another. Mat. 24. 31. Will not this be a ſtrange ſight to ſee Chriſt a coming, with Trumpets ſounding before him, cauſing all the dead to awaken out of their ſleeps of death; the very ſound of this Trumpet was ever in Jerom's ears, Ariſe ye dead and come to Judgment, and no queſtion but thy ears ſhall be filled with the blaſt thereof; the Trumpet ſhall ſound that ſhall be heard over all the Word; and then ſhall the dead ariſe out of their graves; and every Saint's ſoul ſhall re enter into his own body, by vertue of the reſurrection of Chriſt their Head. Can I paſs this mediation without ſome reflection on my ſelf? O my ſoul how joyfully wilt thou greet thy body, when thou ſhalt enliven it again? how wilt thou ſay, O my dear Siſter, whom I left behind me in the duſt when I went to Heaven? how ſweet is thy carcaſs, how comely is thy countenance? how do I enter into thee, and animate thee; and I will never more leave thee, thou waſt my yoke-fellow in the Lord's Labours, and my companion in perſecution and wrong; now ſhall we enter together into our Maſters joy; ſee, lift up thy head, behold Jeſus Chriſt yonder ſitting in the cloud; and lo here the Angels waiting on us, and coming to take us with the reſt of the Saints into the Air, to meet our Redeemer there. Could I but realize this ſummons, this reſurrection, this meeting of the ſoul and body, and going with the Angels into the Judgement-ſeat, oh how would it work! and what work would it make within!

4. Conſider Chriſt and the Saints meeting at the judgment day; oh how ſhall the Saints look, and ſtare, and gaze at the beauty of Jeſus Chriſt? oh how will they break out into admiration at the firſt view of thoſe glories which never before appeared on this ſide Heaven? is not this he (will they ſay) of whom we read ſo often, that he was fairer than the ſons of men? that he was white, and ruddy, the chiefeſt of ten thouſands; that his countenance was as Lebanon; excellent as the Cedars, glorious as when the Sun ſhineth in his ſtrength: but was ever the half told us of what now we ſee, and behold? O the ſuper-excellent, tranſcendent beauty of this Son of righteouſneſs! O the treaſures of lovelineſs in this Jeſus Chriſt never ſeen before! And thus as they admire, ſo they adore; now they begin thoſe Hallelujahs, that never, never ſhall have end; they fall at the feet of Chriſt, and the Lord Chriſt takes them up with his hands, and folds them in his Arms; oh what mutual reciprocal ſalutations are theſe betwixt Chriſt and his members? oh my head! and oh my body! oh my husband! and oh my ſpouſe! oh my dear! and oh my darling! never two lovers met with ſuch heat of love, as Chriſt and his Saints; come, ſaith Chriſt, and ſit you down here at my right hand, and let the World be on my left hand; it was otherwiſe with you in your lifetime, my gold and my jewels were then caſt in the duſt; you were then cloathed with infamy, and the vileſt of men were then guilded with honour; but now I will ſet all right, now the duſt ſhall be ſwept away, and the jewels of my Kingdom ſhall be gathered up; now the Goats ſhall be driven into the deſart, and you who are the Sheep ſhall be brought into my fold. O my ſoul, what a meeting is this? what a ſight will this be, to behold the Saints in this condition, and thy ſelf amongſt them; couldſt thou but realize this one every paſſage, it were enough to quench thy luſt, and to kindle a flame of pure love in thy heart to Jeſus Chriſt; it is a quickning, rouzing, riſing, rejoycing, conſideration,

5. Conſider Chriſt ſentencing the Saints for eternal glory; then ſhall the Books be opened, and all the good works of the Saints ſhall be revealed and made known; and then ſhall the Judge from his Throne of Majeſty (in the ſight and hearing of all the World) pronounce that ſentence, Come ye bleſſed of my Father, inherit the Kingdom prepared for you from the beginning of the World. Mat. 25. 34. q. d. Come my Saints, come with me into glory; come now from labour to reſt, from diſgrace to glory, from the jaws of death to the joys of eternal life; for my ſake ye have been railed on, reviled and curſed; but now it ſhall appear to all thoſe curſed Eſaus, that you are the true Jacobs that ſhall receive the bleſſing, and bleſſed ſhall you be; come now and poſſeſs with me the inheritance of Heaven, where you ſhall be for love, Sons; for birth-right, heirs; for dignity, Kings; for holineſs, Prieſts: come, you may boldly enter in, for my Father hath prepared, and kept it for you, ever ſince the firſt foundation of the World was laid.

O my ſoul, doſt thou not remember when ſometimes thou haſt been at the feet of Chriſt in the beauty of holineſs, and there tookeſt in thoſe droppings of his ſpirits; which were better to thee than the feaſts of Kings; doſt thou not remember when ſometimes thou haſt had the very beams of light darted from the face of Jeſus Chriſt, when he whiſpered to thy ſoul the forgiveneſs of thy ſins, ſaying Fear not, by ſins ſhall not hurt thee, I am thy ſalvation: oh what joy was then? what meltings, movings, ſtirrings leapings of heart were then in thy boſom? but was that joy any thing to this, or to be compared with this? that was a drop, but here's an Ocean, here's fulneſs of joy; oh what leapings of heart, what raviſhments will be within when thou ſhalt ſee thy ſelf in the arms of Chriſt, and ſhalt receive words of life from the mouth of Chriſt, in the face of all the World? what a thing will this be, when Chriſt ſhall paſs a ſentence of death on others, and ſpeak words of life unto thee; when thou ſhalt ſee him frowning upon the World (and oh thoſe frowns will break the heart) and ſhalt behold him ſmiling in the fulneſs of his love upon thy ſelf? that Chriſt at ſuch a time ſhould be delighting thee with all the imbraces of love, and with this ſweet invitation to Heaven, Come thou bleſſed inherit the Kingdom, it were enough to a ſpirit, a ſoul half dead; the very meditation of this muſt needs be ſweet.

6. Conſider Chriſt and the Saints Judging the reſt of the World; no ſooner are the Saints ſentenced, but Chriſt turns to the wicked, and bids them go into everlaſting fire; in which ſentence, the Saints ſhall joyn with Chriſt himſelf, Do ye not know that the Saints ſhall judge the World? 1 Cor. 6. 2. when the Saints appear, it is not only by a Summons, but with commiſſion; not only to be judged, but to judge: not only ſhall they ſtand at Chriſt's right hand, but they ſhall ſit down on the Throne of the Son of God, to judge the wicked Angels and the World. O the torment! O the vexation of wicked Men and Devils, when they ſhall ſee thoſe very men whom they ſcorned, oppreſſed, perſecuted, to be now advanced, not onely to glory, but to be their judges! it is as if ſome Noble man had wronged ſome poor man, and that the King ſhould therefore deliver the Noble man into the power of the poor man, to take his own Pſal. 112. 10. revenge: Surely, The ungodly ſhall ſee this, and be grieved, he ſhall gnaſh with his teeth for indignation, and Pſal. 58. 10. melt away: but on the contrary, The righteous ſhall rejoyce when he ſeeth the vengeance, he ſhall waſh his foot ſteps in the blood of the ungodly.

O my ſoul, doſt thou believe this truth? and art thou confident that thou ſhalt ſit with Chriſt on his very Throne to judge the World? why then be joyful in afflictions, exerciſe thou patience in the cenſures and judgments of the World, know thou for thy comfort, that there is a turn and time of judging, 1 Cor. 4. 3. and therefore ſay, With me it is a ſmall matter that I ſhould be judged of you, or of man's Judgment, as the original hath it, of man's day. Is it not enough to command patience, if God's day be at hand, when I ſhall judge my unjuſt judges; hark what the Apoſtle ſaith, Be patient Brethren unto the coming of the Jam. 5. 7, 8, 9. Lord, behold the Husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the Earth, and hath patience for it, until he receive thee early and latter ruin; be ye alſo patient, ſtabliſh your hearts, for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh,-- behold the Judge ſtandeth before the door. Come exerciſe patience, let the World be judging, if they will needs ſlander, reproach, and perſecute thy ſoul, then they had better abuſe any judge on earth than thee, though thou art the pooreſt, weakeſt, meaneſt, of God's Saints upon the earth, they will know one day that they have abuſed their own judge in the abuſing thee. And therefore be thou quiet, ſilent, patient; Say as David, let him alone, and let him curſe, yea, let him judge, for the Lord hath bidden him; it may be the Lord will look on mine affliction, and will requite good for his Judging this day; this is his day; but the day of the Lord is my day, and then ſhall I ſit with Chriſt on his Throne to judge the World. Oh the ſweet that I may ſuck from this hony-comb, of Chriſt and his Saints judging the World.

7. Conſider Chriſt and his Saints going up into Heaven. No ſooner hath he done his work with the World and ſent them away, but then he ſhall conduct all his flock like a faithful ſhepherd to their fold; then ſhall he go with all his troops following him into Heaven. Hath not Chriſt ſaid ſo? Joh. 14. 3. If I go away, I will come again, and receive you unto my ſelf, that where I am, there you may be alſo. O thoſe ſongs of joy, and ſhouts of praiſe that will fill the World at that day! And thus as they go along, Heaven opens unto them, and they enter in; what welcomes they have there is paſt my telling; if we may imagine and gueſs, O the welcome that Chriſt will give! Come my ſpouſe, and come my dear, come all my Saints; here be thoſe Manſions that I went before to prepare and make ready for you, here be thoſe everlaſting habitations wherein you and I will dwell together; here is your Rev. 21. 18. Father's houſe, the building of the Wall is all of Jaſper, and the worſt piece of it is all of pure Gold, like unto clear Glaſs; why this is your home, your houſe made without hands, here you and I will ſpend our time, eternity it ſelf, in joying, enjoying, and beholding of each other. And as thus Chriſt ſalutes them, ſo will the Angels, thoſe Created Citizens of Heaven ſalute them too; for if joy be in Heaven at the converſion of one ſinner, what joy will there be at the glorification of all theſe Saints? what welcome entertainment, will the Angels give to theſe new gueſts at their firſt entrance into Heaven?

O my ſoul, if thou art one of them that ſhalt have this welcome, what wilt thou ſay when thou art admitted in thither! if weeping were in Heaven, wouldſt thou not weep for joy; ſure theſe things are no fictions of man's brain, but truths, and realities; and as they are true and real, ſo they are exceeding full of joy; all the excellencis of this World are but a dream in compariſon of them; even the Sun in its brightneſs is but darkneſs to this glory that ſhall then be ſeen. Come, think over theſe things, and be ſo enlarged in thy thoughts; that before they go, thou mayeſt feel the ſweet, and taſte of this goodneſs of the Lord.

3. Conſider all the ſeveral tranſactions that will follow in Heaven: then will Chriſt preſent all his elect to God his Father; then will he give in all his commiſſions which he hath received from his Father; Then will the Son himſelf be ſubject to the Father, that God may be all in all. I cannot ſtay to enlarge on theſe; Onely remember, though God may be all in all, that excludes not Chriſt, for he alſo is all, and in all to all his Saints, even to all Eternity; Immediate viſions and fruitions of Chriſt, as God is the very top of Heaven's joy: Chriſt is all in all; Chriſt is the center of Heaven's happineſs; Chriſt is the well-ſpring that fills the capacities of Saints and Angels; Chriſt is the object of happineſs it ſelf, there is as much happineſs in Chriſt as happineſs is; what ever belongs to glory, is in Chriſt, In him dwells all the fulneſs, whatever excellency is in Heaven, it is in Chriſt; not only in perfection, but connexion, for all thoſe excellencies meet together, reſt in Chriſt; and Chriſt is all good things to all his Saints in Heaven; he is Beauty to their Eyes, Muſick to their Ears, Honey to their mouths, Perfume to their Noſtrils, Health to their Bodies, Joy to their Souls, Light to their Underſtandings, Content to their Wills; he is Time without ſliding, Society without loathing, Deſire without fainting, Alpha and Omega, the beginning and ending; wanting both, needing neither, yet the Author of them both, he is all in all, from one, not all. Even all the ſtrength, Wit, Pleaſure, Vertues, Colours, Beauties, Harmony, and Goodneſs that are in Men, Beaſts, Fiſhes, Fouls, Trees, Herbs, and all Creatures, are nothing but ſparkles of thoſe things which are in Chriſt. Chriſt himſelf will then ſupply their uſe, ſo that the beſt Creature which now ſerve the Saints, ſhall not have the honour to ſerve them then; There will be no need of the Sun, nor of the Moon, to ſhine in that City, for the glory of God Rev. 21. 23. doth lighten it, and the Lamb is the Light thereof.

And hence the beholding of Chriſt is the all in all to his glorified Saints: this was Chriſt's Prayer, I will that thoſe whom thou haſt given me, be with me where I am, to what end? that they may behold my John 17. 24. glory. Chriſt's heavenly preſence is conſpicuous, he is not preſent as ſome things that are not ſeen, and yet are preſent; but his preſence is, or certainly ſhall be conſpicuous to all his Saints: when he was in the world his glory was covered under a mean out ſide, he was like a bright light in a dark Lanthern, and there were very few that knew him then: but in Heaven he ſhall be as a Cabinet opened, or as the Sun in his full glory; We ſhall know him as we are known, and behold him face to face, and we ſhall 1 John 3. 2. ſee him as he is. Nor only will he be conſpicuous, but his preſence ſhall be vital? a ſtone may be with us, and ſeen clearly, but there's little in the ſight of that; in the beholding of Chriſt there will be an acting of kindneſs upon the Saints, there will be viſions with life and dear refreſhing: O the influences that the ſight of Chriſt will have on his Saints in Heaven! nor only will he be conſpicuous and vital, but his preſence ſhall be fixed; he ſhall abide with the Saints, that they may or ever behold him. Oh if there was ſuch running after Chriſt in this World, ſome getting on hills, and others on treees, that they might behold him, when he paſſeth by, what will the light of Chriſt in Heaven be, when he ſhall be always in the eye of his Saints, and never out of ſight, when they ſhall be alwayes viewing of him, and be alwayes ſatisfied with that view ? nor only will he be conſpicuous, vital, fixed, but his very Rev. 22.4, 5. preſence ſhall transform ; They ſhall ſee his face,-and they ſhall reign for ever and ever. O the influence of this ſight ! it is of ſuch a transforming Nature, that to ſee the King will make Kings ; this viſion of glory amounts unto a fruition of glory, if ever thou art a ſpectator of Chriſt, thou art ſure to be a Pſal. 17. 15. partaker of Chriſt in all his glory. I ſhall be ſatisfied, , when I awake with thy likeneſs. 1 John 3. 2. It doth not yet appear what we ſhall be, but we know that when he ſhall appear, we ſhall be like him ; why ſo ? for we ſhall ſee him as he is. And no wonder, for if the imperfect 1 Cor. 13. 12. beholding of his glory in the glaſs of his Goſpel, change the ſoul into the ſame image from glory to glory ; how much more ſhall the full view of his glory in Heaven transform both the ſouls and the bodies of his Saints into a fulneſs of glory ? Here then is the top of Heaven ; here is the all in all ; here is the ſatisfaction of ſouls to the very utmoſt ; if Chriſt's glory in his transfiguration was ſo ſatisfactory to Peter, as that he deſired his ſight of it might never have end, or interruption , O it is good to be here, let us here build Tabernacles ; and yet Peter was only a ſpectator of this glory, for he had himſelf no ſhare in it ; O then what infinite ſatisfaction mayeſt thou expect in the beholding of Chriſt's Glory in Heaven, which will be accompanied with an everlaſting enjoyment ? the luſtre of his glory will be diffuſed unto all, ſo that ſome ſhall enjoy the glory of the Sun, others of the Moon, and others of the Stars, O my ſoul, if thou art but a Star there, yet if thou art filled with that light that comes from the Sun of righteouſneſs, it is enough. O remember ! O conſider ! oh never forget this Looking unto Jeſus ! as it is thy duty on Earth, ſo it is thy privilege and higheſt happineſs in Heaven for ever and ever.

Sect. 3. Of deſiring after Jeſus in that reſpect.

3. LET us deſire after Jeſus, carrying on this work of Man's Salvation at his ſecond coming. It is true, many ſhrink at the thoughts of death and judgment ; and 'tis an high pitch to deſire the diſſolution of our ſelves, and of this world ; the beſt Chriſtians are compounded of fleſh and ſpirit, and if the ſpirit long to be in Heaven, yet the fleſh is loath to leave this Earth. Speak out, my ſoul, thou prayeſt daily, Come Lord Jeſus, let thy Kingdom come ; but is not the fleſh afraid, leſt God ſhould hear thy Prayers ? O that we could loath our loathneſs in that reſpect ! oh that we could long for this ſecond coming of Chriſt to Judgment ! And Chriſtians, this is attainable, or otherwiſe I ſhould Phil. 1.23. not perſuade you to it. I am in a ſtraight (ſaith Paul) between two, having a deſire to depart, and to be with Chriſt which is far better : And this is the voice of the deſolate Bride, Come ; for the ſpirit of Chriſt within her ſaith come, The Spirit and the Bride ſay Rev. 12. 17. come. Yea, the whole Creation ſaith come, Waiting to be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the Rom. 8. 21, 23. glorious liberty of the Sons of God ; and not onely they, but our ſelves alſo which have the firſt fruits of the Spirit, even we our ſelves groan within our ſeves , waiting for the adoption, to wit the redemption of our body. Oh that we could groant ! Oh that we could come up to this high pitch, even to ſigh out, not our breath, but our ſpirits ! even to groans out, not ſome vapours, but our hearts.

I know it is ſuitable to fleſh and blood to tremble at the thoughts of judgment ; When Paul reaſoned of Acts. 24. 25. righteouſneſs, temperance, and Judgments to come, Felix trembled. Weak Chriſtians as well as Heathens may have many terrible fancies and notions of that day : Oh to think of a time, When there ſhall be a great Rev. 6. 12, 13. 14, 15. 16, 17. earthquake, when the Sun ſhall become black as jet, and the Moon red as blood, when the Stars of heaven ſhall fall, and when the heavens themſelves ſhall depart as a ſcroll ; when the Trumpet ſhall ſound, that will ſhake the Earth, and every Mountain and Iſland ſhall be removed out of their places ; when the Kings of the Earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the cheif Captains and every bond man, and every freeman ſhall hide themſelves in the dens, and in the rocks of the Mountains, and ſhall ſay to the rocks, and to the mountains, fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that ſitteth on the Throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb, for the great day of his wrath is come, and who ſhall be able to ſtand ? Will it not be terrible ? if the people were ſo afraid when the Lord came without ſuch attendants to give the Law upon Mount Sinai ; certainly much more terrible muſt ſuch a coming in this manner be, when he ſhall come like a revenging judge to take an account of the world for the keeping, or for the breaking of that Law.

In this reſpect, I wonder not at ſome weak Chriſtians, that cry out, O Lord thou knoweſt, that I have not deſired this woful day ; A wiſe Jew was wont to ſay, from a deep foreſight of terror of this day, The Meſſiah will come, but Lord let me not live to ſee his coming. Now to conquer this fear, and to abate ſuch ſlaviſh terror in ſuch ſouls ; oh that they would conſider it in the whole notion of it, not only as it ſhall be a day of blackneſs, and of terror, but as it ſhall be a day of reſt and of releaſe. Some are apt to take it up in the half notion of it, they look on it only as a day of Judgment, and a day of condemnation, and ſo they fly from it as from a Serpent ; but if they would take it up again, and look on the other ſide, the Serpent would be turned into a Rod. The day which will be ſo dreadful to the ungodly, and the beginning of their miſery, it will be as joyful to the Saints, and beginning of their glory.

But in what reſpect is this day of Chriſt ſo deſirable a day ? I anſwer in theſe particulars ———

1. It is a a day of refreſhing. Here the Saints work in a furnace ; his fire is in Zion, and his furnace Acts.3. in Jeruſalem ; Iſa.31. But Chriſt in his ſecond coming (when all the World ſhall be on fire) ſhall fan wind (as I may ſay) on his Saints to cool them ; to the wicked it is an hot day, a day of everlaſting burnings ; but to the Saints it is a day of coolings, quickning, reviving, and refreſhing.

2. It is a day of reſtoring of all things. Every creature is now in it's work-day dreſſed, all defiled with Act.3. ſin, but at that day there ſhall be a reſtitution of all things ; all the diſorders and ruins which ſin hath brought into the World ſhall then be repaired, and man himſelf whoſe ſin is the cauſe of all, ſhall then be reſtored to his original glory.

3. It is a day of the manifeſtation of the Sons of God. Then ſhall it be known who are true Saints, and Rom.8.19. who are Reprobates ; here we live in confuſion, and in our moſt refined Churches (if we have none ſcandalous) yet we may have many hypocrites, and we cannot diſcern them ; but in that day it ſhall be known who are the Lords, and who are not ; the hypocrite ſhall then be unmantled ; and the Sons of God ſhall ſhine and glitter as the Sun, that all may run and read, Theſe are God's Elect, theſe are the Sons and Daughters of the Almighty.

4. It is the day of adoption, and of the redemption of our Bodies. It is the day of our Sonſhip and deliverance; I deny not but that the Saints are adopted and redeemed before this day; but this adoption and redemption is not conſummate, nor declared before Chriſt come again to judgment, then it is that he takes his Saints home to his houſe, and all the Angels and Men of the World ſhall underſtand the love wherewith he loves them; then ſhall Chriſt ſay, Theſe are my ſons whom I have redeemed, and as I have ſet them free, ſo now ſhall they live and reign with me for ever and ever.

5. It is The day of Chriſt's coming. He was here not long ſince travelling about the Earth, and about our buſineſs; which done, he went away to Heaven upon a ſpecial errand for his Saints; and there now he is to intercede for them, to attend the court, to be their advocate, and to agitate the buſineſs of their ſouls; and withal there now he is to take up lodgings for them, and to prepare them manſions for eternity: and no ſooner ſhall he have diſpatcht his buſineſs there, but he will come for earth again; he will bow the Heavens and come down to give a report of his tranſactions there; hath he not left us a letter to John 14. 3. that effect, I will come again, and receive you to my ſelf, that where I am, there you may be alſo. O why are his Chariots ſo long a coming? why tarry the wheels of his Chariots;

2 Theſ. 1.7. 6. It is the day of Chriſt's revealing. Chriſt to many of his Saints here is hidden and withdrawn; it is true, he may be in them, yea, certainly he is in them by his ſpirit, but no man knows it, no nor themſelves neither, which makes them cry, O where is he whom my ſoul loveth; but at this day of Chriſt's revealing, all curtains ſhall be drawn aſide, Chriſt ſhall be unhid, and the Saints ſhall ſee him face to face, they ſhall never loſe him more; for without any intermiſſion they ſhall ſtare, and gaze, and be ever looking unto Jeſus.

Col.3.4. 7. It is the day of Chriſt's bright and glorious appearing. When he was upon the earth he appeared in our dreſs, many then ſaw him, who then ſaid of him, there is no beauty in him, that we ſhould deſire him: Oh it was a ſad ſight to ſee him crowned with Thorns and ſcourged with Whips, and nailed to the croſs? but in his next appearing we ſhall ſee him in his beſt attire, arrayed in white, attended with the retinue of glory, riding in his Chariot of light, and ſmiling upon all his Saints. Now is not this deſirable? The Apoſtle tells us of the Saints, Tit.2.13. Looking for the glorious appearing of the great God, and of our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt; therefore ſurely they deſire it.

Iſa 53. 11. 8. It is the day of Chriſt's joy. Then he ſhall ſee of the travail of his ſoul, and he ſhall be ſatisfied. Now what is the travail of his ſoul? it is not the perfection of his redeemed ones? oh when Chriſt ſeeth this, when he ſeeth his ſpouſe as without ſpot, or wrinkle; then ſhall be fulfilled that propheſie, Iſa.62.5. As the Bridegroom rejoyceth over the Bride, ſo ſhall thy God rejoyce over thee, look how the joy of a Bridegroom is over his Bride upon the wedding-day, (ſurely then if ever) all is love and joy; ſo is Chriſt's joy over his Saints at the laſt day; then begins that joy that never, never ſhall have an end, there ſhall be no moment of time wherein Chriſt will not rejoyce over his Saints for ever after.

9. It is the day of Chriſt's perfection. Chriſt as Meditor is not fully perfect till all his members be in glory united to him: As an head that wants an arm, or hand, or leg, we ſay is lame; ſo it is a kind of miſtical lameneſs that Chriſt our head hath not with him all his members; the Saints are little pieces of miſtical Chriſt, and it ſhall not be well till Chriſt gather in his arms, and thighs, and pull them nearer to himſelf in glory: and is not this deſirable to ſee the Lord Jeſus Chriſt as Head of the Church in his perfection? to ſee the Son of righteouſneſs with every beam united to him? O deſirable day!

10. It is Chriſt's Wedding-day, or the Marriage-day of the Lamb. Hoſ.2.18. The Saints are betrothed to Chriſt when firſt they believe in Chriſt, that is Chriſt's word, I will betroth thee unto me, and thou art my ſiſter, my ſpouſe, Cant.4. 10. not my Wife; thou art not yet married, only contracted here: but at that day the marriage of the Lamb will be complete, and then will the voice be heard; Let us be glad and rejoyce, and give honour to him, for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her ſelf ready. Rev.19. 7. O the joy that Chriſt, and Saints and Angels, and all that belong to Heaven will make at this marriage! Bleſſed are they that are called to the Marriage-ſupper of the Lamb. Rev.21.9. One of the Seven Angels that came to John in viſions, talked with him ſaying, Come hither, and I will ſhew thee the Bride, the Lamb's Wife. If the eſpouſed Virgin be willing to be married, how is it that we cry not, Come, Lord Jeſus, come quickly?

11. It is Chriſt's day of preſenting his Saints unto his 1 Cor.5. 24. Father; he delivers up the Kingdom to God, even the Father. Then ſhall he take his Bride by the hand and bring her to his houſe, and preſent her in all ſtate and ſolemnity to the Father, Is not this a deſirable day? ſurely Chriſt rejoyceth, and his very heart even ſprings again to preſent his Church unto his Father, Father, behold my Bride that I have married unto my ſelf. It is true, a Child may ſometimes marry ſuch a one, as he may be aſhamed to think of bringing to his Father's houſe, but how mean and ſinful ſoever we are of our ſelves, when once we are married unto Chriſt, he will not think it any diſhonour, no not before his Father, that he hath ſuch a Bride, Father, (will he ſay) lo here all my Saints, of all that thou haſt given me, I have loſt none, but the children of perdition, theſe are mine dearly bought, thou knoweſt the price, O welcome them to glory.

12. It is the day of Chriſt's Glory. What glorious deſcriptions have we in Scripture of Chriſt's coming to Judgment? The Son of Man ſhall come from Heaven with power and great Glory; Mat. 24. 30. and the work no ſooner done, but he ſhall return again into Heaven with power and great glory. Not to mention the eſſential glory of Chriſt, O the glory of Chriſt as Mediator; all the glory that Ahaſhuerus could put upon his favourites was nothing to this ſpiritual and heavenly glory, which the Father will put upon the Son; it is a glory above all the glories that ever were, or ever ſhall be; it is an eternal glory; not but that Chriſt ſhall at laſt give up his Kingdom to his Father; he ſhall no more diſcharge the acts of an Advocate, or interceſſor for us in heaven, only the glory of this ſhall always continue; it ſhall to all eternity be recorded that he was the Mediator, and that he is the Saviour that hath brought us to life and immortality, and upon this ground the tongues of all the Saints ſhall be imployed to all eternity to celebrate this glory. This will be their everlaſting Song. Unto him that loved us, Rev.1. 5,6. and waſhed us from our ſins in his own blood, and hath made us Kings and Prieſts unto God and his Father, to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever, Amen. Now is not this a deſirable thing? do we believe there is ſuch a thing as Chriſt's mediatory glory, and Chriſt's eſſential glory? as Chriſt's humane glory, and Chriſt's divine glory? and have we no deſires to behold this glory? ſurely Chriſt himſelf deſired it of God, he would have his Saints with him where he is, that they might behold his glory; and ſhall not we deſire it, whom it moſt concerns? O the ſweet temper of the ſpouſe when ſhe cryed Cant. 8. 14. out, Make haſt my beloved and be thou like a Roe, or to a young Hart upon the mountains of ſpices!

Come now, and run over theſe particulars; ſurely every one is motive enough to deſire this day: it is a day of refreſhing, a day of reſtoring, a day of manifeſtation of the ſons of God, a day of adoption, and of the redemption of our bodies; a day of Chriſt's coming, of Chriſt's revealing, of Chriſt's appearing, of Chriſt's joy, of Chriſt's perfection, of Chriſt's wedding, of Chriſt's preſenting of his Saints, of Chriſt's glory; what are we not yet in a longing frame? the wife of youth that wants her Husband for ſome years, and expects that he ſhould return from over ſea-lands, ſhe is often on the ſhore, her very heart loves the wind that ſhould bring him home; every ſhip in view, that is but a drawing near the ſhore, is her new joy, and new reviving hopes; ſhe asks of every paſſenger, O ſaw you my husband? what is he a doing? when will he come? is he not yet ſhipped, and ready for a return? ſouls truly related to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt ſhould methinks long no leſs; O what deſire ſhould the Spirit and the Bride have to hear when Chriſt ſhall ſay to his Angels, Make you ready for the journey, let us go down and divide the skies, and bow the Heavens; I'll gather my priſoners of hope unto me, I cannon want my Rachel, and her weeping Children any longer, behold I come quickly to judge the Nations? Methinks every ſpouſe of Chriſt ſhould love the quarter of the sky, that being rent aſunder ſhould yield unto her Husband; methinks ſhe ſhould love that part of the Heavens, where Chriſt puts through his glorious hand, and comes riding on the Rainbow and Clouds to receive her to himſelf. I conclude this with the concluſion of the Bible, He that teſtifieth Rev. 22. 20. theſe things, ſaith, ſurely I come quickly, Amen. Even ſo come Lord Jeſus.

Sect. 4. Of hoping in Jeſus in that reſpect.

4. LET us hope in Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his ſecond coming. Hope is of good things to come; hope is an act of the will extending it ſelf towards that which it loves as future; only the future good as it is the object of hope is difficult to obtain, and therein it differs from deſire; for deſire looks at future good without any apprehenſion of difficulty, but hope reſpects the future good as it is gotten with difficulty. Lazy hopes that will not be in uſe of means, though difficult, are not true hopes; we ſee many deſirable things ſet before us, of which we may ſay, Oh that we had our part and portion of them! but ſhall we go on, and ſearch and find out the truth, whether we have any part or portion in them? or whether we have any hopes of any ſuch thing? oh this is worthy our pains! come then, let us yet make a further progreſs, let us not only deſire that it may be thus and ſo, but let us ſay, on ſome ſure and certain grounds, John 14. 3. we hope it is thus and ſo; we hope Chriſt will come again, and receive us to himſelf, that where he is, there we may be alſo.

Indeed there is the Chriſtians ſtay and comfort; Heb. 9. 12. ſuch an hope is a ſure Anchor, that will hold the ſhip in a ſtorm; only becauſe our ſouls lie upon it, we had need to look to it that our hopes be true; the worſt can ſay, They hope to be ſaved as well as the beſt; then I fear the hopes of many will be lamentably fruſtrated. Our Saviour brings in many pleading with confidence at the laſt day for life, who ſhall be rejected with miſerable diſappointment. Many ſhall ſay to me at that day, Lord, Lord, &c. and I will confeſs unto them, I never knew them; depart from me. Now to clear this point, that our hopes, are of the right ſtamp, and not counterfeit hopes, I ſhall lay down ſome ſigns, whereby we may know that Chriſt's coming is for us, and for our good, and for the grace that is to be given us at the revelation of Jeſus Chriſt,

1. If we are born again, then will his glorious coming be to glorifie us, Bleſſed be the God and Father of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, who according to his abundant 1 Pet. 1. 3, 4. mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, to an inheritance incorruptible. Whoever hath the true hope of Heaven, he is one that is begotten again; ſo our John 3. 3. Saviour, Except a man be born again, he cannot ſee the Kingdom of God. Many things may be done, as Herod heard John the Baptiſt, and did many things: but except a man be born again, thoſe many things are in God's account as nothing. When Peter had told Chriſt, that he and his fellow-diſciples had forſaken, all and followed him; Then Jeſus ſaid, verily I ſay Mat. 19. 28. unto you, that ye which have followed me in the regeneration, when the Son of man ſhall ſit in the Throne of his glory, ye ſhall alſo ſit upon twelve Thrones, Judging the Twelve Tribes of Iſrael. q. d. Peter, you have forſaken all, and followed me; but know, that bare forſaking is not enough: but you who have felt the Work of God regenerating your ſouls, upon which ye have followed me, ye ſhall ſit upon twelve Thrones. In thoſe who are alive at the laſt day there will be a change, and this change will be to them inſtead of 1 Cor. 15. 51. death; Behold I ſhew you a miſtery, we ſhall not all ſleep, but we ſhall all be changed. Certainly in thoſe who at the laſt day ſhall ſit on Thrones with Chriſt, there muſt be a change likewiſe in this life; (i. e.) a new ſpirit, and a new life muſt be put into them; Oh what a change is this! ſuppoſe a rational ſoul were put into a beaſt, what a change would be in that Creature! ſuppoſe an angelical nature were put upon us, what a change would there be in us? oh but what a change is this, when a man is born again of water and of the ſpirit; I muſt tell you, that the higheſt degree of glory in Heaven, is not ſo different from the loweſt degree of grace here, as the loweſt degree of grace here, is different from the higheſt excellency of nature here; becauſe the difference betwixt the higheſt degree of the glory of Heaven, and the loweſt degree of grace is only gradual; but the difference that is betwixt the loweſt degree of grace, and the higheſt excellency of nature, is a ſpecial difference. Oh there's a mighty work of God in preparing ſouls for glory by grace, and this change muſt they have that muſt ſit on Thrones. Come then, you that hope for glory, try your ſelves by this; is there a change in your hearts, words, and lives? is there mighty work of grace upon your ſpirits? are you experienc'd in the great myſtery of regeneration? why here's your evidence, that your hopes are ſound, and that you ſhall ſit upon Thrones to judge the world.

2. If we long for his coming, then will he Heb. 9. 28. come to ſatisfie our longings. Bleſſed are they that hunger and thirſt for they ſhall be ſatisfied; how ſatisfied, but in being ſaved? Chriſt was offered to bear the ſins of many; and unto them that look for him, ſhall be appear the ſecond time without ſin to ſalvation; unto them that look for him, or long for him, ſhall he appear the ſecond time unto ſalvation; it is very obſervable, how this looking for Chriſt, is in Scripture a frequent deſcription of a true believer in Chriſt. Who are true, ſincere, and ſound Chriſtians but ſuch as live in a perpetual deſire and hope of Chriſt's bleſſed coming they? are ever

2 Pet. 3. 12. ever looking for, and haſtning unto the coming af the day of God. Here are two ſigns in one verſe, looking for, and haſtning unto; true believers are not only in a poſture looking for the coming of Jeſus Chriſt, but alſo, as it were, going forth to meet Jeſus Chriſt with burning Lamps. Luther could ſay, Mat. 6. 10. That he was no true Chriſtian, neither could he truely recite the Lord's prayer that with all his heart deſired not this day of the comming of Chriſt. It is true, that whether we will or no, that day will come, but in the Lord's prayer Chriſt hath taught us to pray that God would accellerate and haſten the day of his glorious coming, thy Kingdom come, (i.e.) the Kingdom of glory at the Judgment, as well as the Kingdom of grace in the Church. It is true, thar the day of the Lord is a terrible day, the Heavens, and Earth, and Sea, and Air ſhall be all on a Bon-fire, and burn to nothing; nevertheleſs we according to his promiſe look for new Heavens, and a new Earth; we that have laid hold upon God, and laid hold on him by the right handle, according to his promiſes, we look for this day of the Lord, we look for it, and haſten unto it, we are glad it is ſo near, and we do what we can to have it nearer, with an holy kind of impatience we beg of the Lord, Come Lord Jeſu, come quickly. This was Paul's character, Rom. 8. 22, 23. We know that the whole creation groaneth, and travelleth in pain together until now; and not only they, but our ſelves alſo, which have the firſt fruits of the ſpirit, even we our ſelves groan within our ſelves, waiting for the adoption, to wit the redemption of our bodies: God's children, ſuch as have the firſt-fruits of the ſpirit, the beginnings of true ſaving grace in them, they conſtantly look and long for the day of full deliverance, or of the coming of Chriſt. This the Apoſtle inſtanceth in his Corinthians, 1 Cor. 1. 7. ye come behind in no gift, waiting for the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; and in like manner he writes to his Philippians, Our Converſation is in Heaven, from Phil. 3. 20. whence alſo we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: And to Titus himſelf he writes the ſame things, Tit. 2. 13. We look for that bleſſed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God, and our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt. Now Chriſtians lay this character to heart, do you long, pant, and look for this glorious and ſecond coming of Chriſt? have you any ſuch wiſhes, and ſayings of heart and mind as theſe are; Oh that Chriſt would appear! Oh that Chriſt would now break the Heavens, and come to Judgment! oh that I could ſee him in the Cloud, and on his Throne? oh that his enemies were ruined, my ſins ſubdued, my ſoul ſaved, that I might ſerve him without wearineſs, for ever and ever! Surely if theſe elongations of Soul be in you, it is a comfortable evidence that your hopes are ſound, and that Chriſt will come to receive you to himſelf, and to bring you to Glory.

3. If we love Chriſt's appearing, then will he 2 Tim. 4. 8. appear on our ſide, Henceforth there is laid up for me a Crown of Righteouſneſs, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, ſhall give me at that day, and not to me only, but unto them alſo that love his appearing. A true Chriſtian loves Chriſt's appearing in Ordinances, and in all the means of Grace, how much more in his own Perſon? but how ſhould we love that we ſee not? O yes! there's a kind of an Idea of Chriſt, and of his glorious appearing in every ſanctified ſoul, and in that reſpect we love him, tho we cannot ſee him, 1 Pet. 1. 1. Ver. 7. Who having not ſeen ye love, ſaith the Apoſtle; and ſo your love and faith at the appearing of Jeſus Chriſt ſhall be found uuto praiſe, and honour, and glory. Thoſe that have not ſeen Chriſt, and yet love the Idea of his ſight, even they ſhall appear at the appearing of Chriſt in praiſe, and honour, and glory. Is not the Crown laid up for them that love the appearing of Chriſt? it is not a ſign of a good cauſe to love a day of hearing? Surely the love of Chriſt's coming cannot conſiſt without ſome aſſurance that a ſoul ſhall ſtand upright in the Judgment. He that hath not a confidence in this cauſe, loves not the coming of the Judge; no guilty Priſoner loves the Seſſions, or loves the Judges preſence; it is the cry of Reprobates, O ye Mountains! and O ye Rocks, fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that ſitteth on theT brone. Rev. 6. 16. But as for Chriſt and his Saints; O the mutual loves and mutual longings in their Breaſts! The Laſt words that Chriſt ſpeaks in the Bible (and amongſt us, laſt words made deepeſt impreſſions) are ſurely I come quickly; and the laſt anſwer that is made in our behalf, is, Amen, even ſo come Lord Jeſus. I know this Character is near the former, and therefore I ſhall paſs it over.

4. If our Works be good, then will he reward us according to our Works, At that great day this will be the Trial, Works are no Works: Then will he ſay to them on his right hand, Come ye bleſſed of my Mat. 25. 33. 34. 35, 36. Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you, for I was an hungred and ye gave me meat; I was thirſty, and ye gave me drink; I was a ſtranger, and ye took me in, naked, and ye cloathed me, I was ſick, and ye viſited me. Ver. 46. I was in Priſon, and ye came unto me. Here were Works, upon which followed the Rewards of Heaven, for theſe went into Eternal Life. I know Works are not meritorious, and yet they are Evidences; I know Works without faith are but gliſtering ſins, and yet works done in faith are ſigns, and fore-runners of Eternal glory; I know, that if all the Excellencies of all the Moralities of all the men in the World were put together, theſe could never reach Glory; and yet a a cup of cold water Mat. 10. 24. given to one of Chriſt's little ones, and in the name of a Diſciple of Chriſt, ſhall not loſe its Reward. If a Chriſtian doubt, how ſhould I know that my Works are of a right ſtamp? I anſwer.

1. Look at the principle, Is there not ſomething above Nature? Do I not find ſome new Light let out by God, that ſhews a glory and excellency, and beauty in good Works? Is there not ſomething in me that makes the ſame to be ſweet, or pleaſant, or agreeable to me? 2. Look at the end, natural works have no better end than ſelf and creature reſpects; but in my works, is there no aim at ſomething higher than ſelf? Whatever I do, is not this in mine eye, that all I do may tend to the honour and glory of God? I had need take heed of Vain-glory and ſelf-applauſe; the Godly at the day of Judgment do not know the good works they did: if my aim be at God, I ſhall forget my ſelf as if all I did were ſwallowed up in God. 3. Look at the manner of my doing Works: Uzziah had a good intention, but his work was not good, becauſe the manner was not good. Are my Works according to the Rule? Do they carry a conformity to the Law of God? Let every man try his own work in this: O my ſoul, bring thy works to the touch-ſtone, the Scripture, the Rule of Goodneſs; is not all thy Gold then diſcovered to be Droſs? the Scripture doth not only tell of works, but tells us the manner of performing them; as for inſtance, If rightly done, they muſt be done in zeal, in fervency, in activity: Thus God's People are called a peculiar people, zealous of good works; a formal, cuſtomary, ſuperficial performance of holy Works fails in the manner of performing them. What, are my works performed in zeal? Is there not too much of coldneſs, emptineſs, formality in all I do? why, thus may I know whether my works are of a right ſtamp; Certainly all works, duties, actings, which are not done by a gracious heart, through a gracious power, to a gracious end, in a gracious manner, are ſins, and not ſuch works as ſhall have the Rewards of Heaven. Some may object, This is an hard ſaying, who then ſhall be ſaved? I anſwer, 1. By confeſſion, very few; What is the whole company of Chriſtians, beſides a very few (ſaid Salvian) but a ſink of Vices? Are they only good works which are thus and thus qualified? It were enough to make us all fear all the Works that ever we have done. But ſecondly, here's all our hope, that in a Goſpel-way Chriſt looks at our good works in the truth of them, and not in the perfection of them; no man goes beyond Paul, who, when he would do good found evil preſent with him. Rom. 7. 18, 19. Alas, there's a perpetual oppoſition and conflict betwixt the Fleſh and the Spirit, ſo that the moſt ſpiritual man cannot do the good things he would do; and yet we muſt not conclude that nothing is good in us, becauſe not perfectly good. Sincerity and truth in the inward parts, may in this caſe hold up our hearts from ſinking; as he in the Goſpel cried, I believe, Lord, help my unbelief; ſo if we can but ſay, I do good works, Lord help me in the concurrence of all needful circumſtances. Here will be our evidence, that our hopes are ſound, and that Chriſt will ſentence us to Eternal Life. Come ye Bleſſed, &c. And why ſo? For I was an hungred, and ye gave me meat, &c.

5. If we believe in Chriſt, then ſhall we live with Chriſt; if we come to him and receive him by Faith, then will he come again and receive us to himſelf, that where he is, there we may be alſo. Good works are good Evidences, but of all works thoſe of the Goſpel are cleareſt Evidences, and have cleareſt promiſes; come then let us try our obedience to the Commandments of Faith, as well as life; let us try our ſubmiſſion to the Lord by believing, as well as doing. Surely the greateſt work of God that ever any Creature did, it is this Goſpel-work, when it apprehends its own unworthineſs, and ventures it ſelf and its Eſtate upon the righteouſneſs of Jeſus Chriſt: If we were able to perform a full, exact, and accurate obedience to every particular of the Moral Law, it were not ſo great a work, nor ſo acceptable to God, nor ſhould be ſo glorioully rewarded in heaven, as this one work of believing in his Son Jeſus Chriſt. This is the Work, to which in expreſs terms ſalvation, Heaven, and Glory is promiſed; John. 3. 36. He that believeth on the Son hath everlaſting life and he that heareth my words, and believeth on him that ſent me, hath everlaſting life, and ſhall not come into condemnation; but he that paſſed from death to life—— John 5. 24. And this is the will of him that ſent me, that every one that ſeeth the Son, and believeth on him may have everlaſting life.—— John 6. 40. And theſe things are written that ye might believe that Jeſus is Chriſt the Son of God, and that believing ye might have Life through his name.—— John. 20. 31. Believe on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved—— Acts 16. 31. And if thou ſhalt confeſs with thy mouth, the Lord Jeſus, and ſhalt believe in thine heart, that God hath raiſed him from the dead, thou ſhalt be ſaved.—— Rom. 10. 9. And we are not of them who draw back unto perdition, but of them that believe unto the ſaving of the Soul.—— Heb. 10. 39. And theſe things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have everlaſting life. 1 John 5. 13. Why this above all is the Goſpel-work, to which are annexed thoſe gracious promiſes of eternal life. So that if we believe in Chriſt, how may we be aſſured that we ſhall live with Chriſt.

O my Soul, gather up all theſe Characters, and try by them. Every one can ſay, that they hope well, they hope to be ſaved, they hope to meet Chriſt with comfort, though they have no ground for it but their own vain Conceits; but hope on good ground, is that hope that maketh not aſhamed; Rom. 5. 5. ſay then, art thou born again? Doſt thou look and long for the coming of Chriſt in the Clouds? Doſt thou love his appearing? Art thou rich in good Works, ready to diſtribute, willing to Communicate? Doſt thou obey the commandments of faith, as well as life? Sure theſe are firm, and ſound, and comfortable grounds of an aſſured hope. Content not thy ſelf with an hope of poſſibility, or probability; but reach out to that Plerophory, or full aſſurance of hope; Heb. 6. 11. the hope of poſſibility is but a weak hope, the hope of probability is but a fluctuating hope, but the hope of certainty is a ſetled hope; ſuch an hope ſweetens all the thoughts of God and Chriſt, of Death and Judgment, of Heaven, yea, and of Hell too, whiles we hope that we are ſaved from it; and are not the Scriptures written to this very purpoſe, That we might have this hope? Rom. 15. 4. Tit. 3. 7. We are not juſtified by his grace, that we might be heirs in hope, heirs according to the hope of eternal life? And was not this David's confidence, Lord I have hoped for thy ſalvation? Pſal. 119. 166. Why then art thou caſt down, O my ſoul? And why art thou diſquieted within me? Hope thou in God, for I ſhall yet praiſe him, who is the health of my countenance and my God. Pſal. 24. 11.

If I may here enter into a Dialogue with my own poor, trembling, wavering ſoul —— Perſon —— Why art thou hopeleſs, O my ſoul? Wouldſt thou not hope, if an honeſt man had made thee a promiſe of any thing within his power? And wilt thou not hope when thou haſt the Promiſe, the Oath, and the Covenant of God in Chriſt? —— Soul —— Yes; methinks I feel ſome little hope, but alas, it is but a little, a very little —— Perſon —— Ay, but go on my Soul, true hope is called a lively hope, and a lively hope is an efficacious hope; no ſooner faith commends the promiſe unto hope, but hope takes it and hugs it, and reckons it as its Treaſure, and feeds on it as Manna, which God hath given to refreſh the weary Soul in the deſart of ſin; go on then, till thou comeſt up to the higheſt pitch, even to that triumphant joyful expectation, and waiting for, of Chriſt in glory. —— Soul —— Why, methinks I would hope, I would aſcend the higheſt ſtep of hope; but alas, I cannot: Oh I am expoſed to many Controverſies, I am prone to many unquiet Agitations; though I have a preſent promiſe, yet I extend my Cares and Fears even to eternity: Alas, I cannot comprehend, and therefore I am hardly ſatisfied; my ſinful Reaſon ſees not its own way and end, and becauſe it muſt take all on truſt and credit, therefore it falls to wrangling; nay Satan himſelf ſo ſnarls the queſtion, and I am ſo apt to liſten to his doubts, that in the concluſion, I know not how to extricate my ſelf. — Perſon — Sayeſt thou ſo? Surely in this caſe there's no cure, no remedy, but only the Teſtimony of God's Spirit; but ſaith not the Apoſtle, That the Spirit of it ſelf bears witneſs with our ſpirit, that we are the Children of God: Rom. 8. 16. If a Man or Angel, or Archangel ſhould promiſe Heaven; peradventure thou mighteſt doubt; but if the ſupreme Eſſence of the Spirit of God bear witneſs within, what room for doubting? Why, this voice of the Spirit is the very voice of God; hark then, enquire, O my Soul, if thou haſt but this teſtimony of the Spirit, thou art ſure enough —— Soul —— Oh that it were thus with me! Oh that the ſpirit would even now give me to drink of the Wells of ſalvation! Oh that the Spirit would teſtifie it home! Oh that he would ſhine upon, and enlighten all thoſe graces which he hath planted in me! Fain would I come to the higheſt pitch of hope, oh that I could look upon the things hoped for as certainly future.—— Per-ſon,—— Thou ſayeſt well, O my ſoul, and if theſe wiſhes be real, then pour out thy ſelf unto God in prayer; this was the Apoſtles method, Rom. 15. 13. Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope through the power of the holy Ghoſt; let this be thy practiſe, pray as he prayed, pray thou for thy ſelf as he prayed for others; if an earthly Father will hearken to his child, how much more will God the Father give the ſpirit to them Luk. 11. 13. that ask the ſpirit of him.——Soul—— Why if this be it; to thee Lord do I come, O give me the Spirit, the witneſs of the Spirit, the firſt-fruits of the Spirit, the ſealing of the Spirit, the earneſt of the Spirit. O give me the ſpirit, and let the Spirit give me this hope. O the hope of Iſrael, and Saviour thereof in the time of trouble, why ſhould'ſt thou be as a ſtranger in my ſoul, and as a way-faring man that turneth aſide to tarry for a night? Come, O come, and dwell in my Soul, Come, and blow on my Garden, that the ſpices thereof may flow out: Come and fill me with a lively hope; yea Lord excite, and quicken, and ſtir up my Soul to act this hope, yea, ſo illighten, or ſhine upon my hope, that I may know that I hope, and know that I joyfully expect, and wait for the coming of Chriſt: O let me hear thy voice, Say Pſ. 35. 3. unto my Soul I am, and will be thy ſalvation.—— Perſon——Well now, thou haſt prayed, O my Soul, Come, tell me, doſt thou feel nothing ſtir? is there nothing at all in thee that aſſures thee of this aſſurance of hope? is there no life in thy affections? no ſpark that takes hold on thy heart to ſet it on flame? no comfort of the ſpirit, no joy in the Holy Ghoſt?——Soul—— Yes! methinks I feel it now begin to work, the Spirit that hath breathed this prayer into me comes in as a Comforter; O now that I reallize Chriſt's coming and my reſurrection, I cannot but conclude with David, Pſal. 16. 9. Therefore my heart is glad, and my glory rejoyceth, and my fleſh alſo ſhall reſt in hope. Oh what an earneſt is this? what a price hath the ſpirit put into my hand of the great ſum promiſed? not only that he in great mercy promiſed me Heaven, but becauſe he doth not put me into a preſent poſſeſſion, he now gives me an earneſt of my future Inheritance. Why, ſurely all is ſure, unleſs the earneſt deceive me; and what? ſhall I diſpute the truth of the earneſt? oh God forbid! the ſtamp is too well known to be miſtruſted; this ſeal cannot be counterfeit, becauſe it is agreeable with the Word; I find in my ſelf an hope, a true ſincere hope, though very weak: I find upon tryal that I am regenerate, that I look and long for the ſecond coming of Jeſus, that I love his appearance even before hand: that my works, though imperfect, are ſincere and true, that I believe on the Name of the Son of God, and fleſh and blood could never work theſe duties or theſe graces in me; it is only that good ſpirit of my God, which hath thus ſealed me up to the day of redemption. Away, away deſpair, trouble me no longer with muſing thoughts; I will henceforth (if the Lord enable) walk confidently, and chearfully in the ſtrength of this aſſurance, and joyfully expect the full accompliſhment of my happy contract from the hands of Chriſt. The Lord is my portion, there- Lam. 3. 24, 25, 26. fore will I hope in him; the Lord is good to them that wait for him, to the Soul that ſeeketh him; it is good that I both hope and quietly wait for the ſalvation of the 1 Pet. 1. 13. Lord.——It is good that I hope to the end, for the grace that is to be brought unto me at the revelation of Jeſus Chriſt.

Sect. 5. Of believing in Jeſus in that reſpect.

5. LET us believe in Jeſus as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation in his ſecond coming. Now this believing in Chriſt is more than hoping in Chriſt; Faith eyes things as preſent, but hope eyes things as future; and hence the Apoſtle deſcribes faith to the ſubſtance of things hoped for; Heb. 11. 1 it is the ſubſtance, foundation, or prop which upholds the building; or it is the ſubſtance, eſſence, exiſtence of things hoped for, and conſequently abſent and a far off, to be by a firm apprehenſion of the believer, as already preſent and real. And this is as neceſſary as the former; oh if we could but ſee things now, as they ſhall appear at that laſt general day of Judgment, how mightily would they work upon our Souls? I verily think the want of this work of faith is the cauſe almoſt of all the evil in the World; and the acting of faith on this ſubject would produce fruits even to admiration. If we could but ſee that glory of God in Chriſt, and thoſe glorious treaſures of mercies that ſhall then be communicated; if we could but ſee thoſe dreadful evils that are now threatned, and ſhall then be fulfilled, would not this draw the hardeſt heart under Heaven? come, let us act faith this day, as if this day were the laſt day; a thouſand years are but as one day to faith? it takes hold upon eternal life, whenſoever it acts; it takes preſent poſſeſſion of the glorious things of the Kingdom of God even now.

O then let us believe in Jeſus in reference to his ſecond coming to judgment. But how ſhould we believe? what directions to act our faith on Jeſus in this reſpect? I anſwer——

1. Faith muſt directly go to Chriſt.

2. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh.

3. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as God in the fleſh made under the Law.

4. Faith muſt go to Chriſt made under the directive part of the Law by his Life, and under the penal part of the Law by his death.

5. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as put to death in the Fleſh, and as quickned by the ſpirit.

6. Faith muſt go to Chriſt, as going up into glory, as ſitting down at God's right hand, and as ſending down the Holy Ghoſt.

7. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as interceding for his Saints, in which work he continues till his coming again. Of all theſe before.

8. Faith muſt go to Chriſt as coming again into this neather world to judge the quick and the dead; This is the laſt act of Faith in reference to Chriſt, From thence he ſhall come to judge the quick and the dead. The coming of Chriſt, the reſurrection of the dead, the change of the living, the laſt judgment, and the glory of Chriſt with his Saints to all eternity, is that tranſaction which muſt be diſpatched at the end of the world, now this is the object of Faith as well as the former; Chriſt's work is not fully perfected till all theſe be finiſhed, nor is our work of Faith fully completed till it reach to the very laſt act of Chriſt in ſaving Souls.—— Oh what an excellent worker is Jeſus Chriſt? he doth all his works throughly and perfectly; the greateſt work that ever Chriſt undertook was the work of redemption, that work would have broken Men and Angels, and yet Jeſus Chriſt will carry it on to the end, and then will he ſay not only prophetically, but expreſly, I have fi- John. 17. 46. niſhed the work which thou gaveſt me to do. Now Faith ſhould eye Chriſt as far as he goes, if Chriſt will not have done till he comes again, and receive us to himſelf, and ſettle us in glory; no more ſhould Faith, it ſhould ſtill follow after him, and take a view of all his tranſactions from firſt to laſt; what, will Chriſt come again? will he ſummon all the elect to come under judgement; will he ſentence or judge them to eternal life? will he conduct them into glory, preſent them to his Father, and be their all in all to all eternity? why then let our Faith act it ſelf upon all theſe promiſes; or if I may inſtance in one for all, Chriſt's coming is the moſt comprehenſive of all; and is not the coming of Chriſt very frequently mentioned in the promiſes, as the great ſupport and ſtay of his Peoples ſpirits till then? do not the Apoſtles uſually quicken us to duty, and encourage us to waiting by the mentioning of this glorious coming of Jeſus Chriſt? why then let us act our faith on this glorious Object; Chriſtians, what do we believe, and hope, and wait for, but to ſee this coming? this was Paul's encouragement to Phil. 4. 4, 5. rejoycing and moderation, Rejoyce in the Lord always and let your moderation be known to all, the Lord is at hand; To think and ſpeak of that day with horror, doth well beſeem the impenitent ſinner, but doth ill beſeem the believing Saint; ſuch may be the voice of an unbeliever, and it may be of a Believer in deſertion or temptation, but is not the voice of Faith. Heb. 10. 37. O believe on Chriſt, as carrying on our ſalvation at his coming again, For yet a little while, and he that ſhall come, will come, and he will not tarry.

9. Faith muſt principally and mainly look to the purpoſe, deſign, intent and end of Chriſt in his ſecond coming to judgment. Now the ends are—

1. In reſpect of the wicked that they may be deſtroyed, for he muſt reign till he hath put all his enemies under his feet. He ſhall come with flaming fire, and then he will take vengeance on them that know not God, 2 Theſ. 1. 8. and that obey not the Goſpel of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; who ſhall be puniſhed with everlaſting deſtruction from the preſence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power. O miſerable Men! now it is God's deſign to be revenged on you. This is the day when the wicked ſhall ſuddenly ſtart out of ſleep, and meet with gaſtly amazedneſs at the mouth of their Sepulchers; above them ſtands the Judge condemning, beneath Hell gaping, on the right hand Juſtice threatning, on all ſides the world burning; to go forward is intollerable, to go backward is impoſſible, to turn aſide is unavailable; which way then? Heaven's Gates are ſhut, Hell's mouth is open, where they muſt end their endleſs Miſery; the laſt torment laſteth ever. O the ſhrieks of the wicked at every paſſage of this day! when the Prophet Joel was deſcribing the formidable accidents of this day, he was not able to expreſs it, but ſtammered like a Child, or an amazed imperfect Perſon, A. A. A. for the day of the Joel 1. 15. Lord is at hand. We tranſlate it, alas, for the day of the Lord is at hand. But Lyra, Ribera, the Vulgar Latin, and others tranſlate it, A. A. A. in Hebrew it is indeed but one word, and ſounds as Aha, which howſoever ſo written, yet is it pronounced without any aſpiration, as Aharon, is pronounced Aaron. The beſt Criticks would but have it one word, and ſo they write it, A a a for the day of the Lord is at hand: Thus they that ſtammer, and cannot ſuddenly ſpeak, ſay A-a-a. It is not ſenſe at firſt; the Prophet was ſo amazed, that he knew not what to ſay; the ſtammering tongue that is full of fear, can beſt ſpeak that terror, which will make all the wicked of the World to cry, and ſhrike, and ſpeak fearful accents; oh the ſhrikes! oh the fearful ſounds that will then be heard! ſure that noiſe muſt needs be terrible, when millions of Men and Women at the ſame inſtant ſhall fearfully cry out, and when their cries ſhall mingle with the thunders of the dying and groaning Heavens, and with the crack of the diſſolving World, when the whole Fabrick of Nature ſhall ſhake into diſſolution, and eternal aſhes. Now conſider this ye that forget God, leſt he tear you in Pſal. 51. 21. pieces, and there be none to deliver you. Shall not the conſideration of theſe things awake your ſpirits, and raiſe you from the death of Sin? what? do you believe theſe things? or do you not? if you do not believe theſe things, where is your Faith? if you do believe them, and ſin on, where is your prudence? and where is your hope? but enough of this; it belongs to the wicked.

2. In reſpect of the Godly that they may be ſaved. Now this contains ſeveral ſteps. As———

1. They muſt be regenerated. It is true they partake of this grace before, but now is the full perfection and manifeſtarion of it, and therefore the laſt day is called a day of regeneration. Mat. 19. 28.

2. They muſt be redeemed. So they are in this life, Paul could tell his Coloſſians, that Chriſt had delivered them from the power of darkneſs; and that in him Col. 1. 13, 14. they had redemption through his blood. Yet the Scripture calls the day of judgment in a peculiar and eminent manner the day of redemption. And grieve Eph. 4. 30. not the holy ſpirit of God whereby ye are ſealed unto the day of redemption.

3. They muſt be adopted. It is true, they are adopted in this life, We are now the Sons of God (ſaith the Apoſtle) yet it doth not appear what we ſhall 1 John. 3. 2. be; the glory which Chriſt will put upon us at the laſt day, is ſo far tranſcendent and ſuperlative to what now we are, that we know not what we ſhall be; ſons, and more than ſons; and therefore the Apoſtle calls the laſt day, the day of Adoption. Rom. 8. 23.

4. They muſt be juſtified. I know they were juſtified by Faith before, and this juſtification was evidenced to ſome of their conſciences; but now ſhall they be juſtified fully by the lively voice of the Judge himſelf; now ſhall their juſtification be ſolemnly and publickly declared to all the world; The Syriack word to Juſtifie, is alſo to conquer, becauſe when a Man is juſtified, he overcomes all thoſe Bills and Indictments which were brought in againſt him; now this is manifeſtly done in the day of Judgment when Chriſt ſhall before Men and Angels acquit, and abſolve his People: Oh what a glorious Conqueſt will that be over Sin, Death, and Hell, when the Judge of the whole World ſhall pronounce them free from all Sin, and from all thoſe miſerable effects of Sin, Death, Hell, and Dominion.

5. They muſt inherit the Kingdom prepared for them, ſo is the ſentence at that day, Come ye Mat. 25. 34. Bleſſed, inherit the Kingdom. Not only are they freed from Hell, but they muſt inherit Heaven. Now herein is an high ſtep of Salvation, and a great part of the deſign of Chriſt's coming, to bring his Saints into Heaven; he went thither before to prepare it for them, and now he comes again to give them the poſſeſſion of it, Come, enter into Heaven. Heaven? what is Heaven? ſurely it is not one ſingle Palace; but a City, a Metropolis, a Mother-City the firſt City of God's Creation: When the Angel Rev. 21. 10. 11. carried John in the Spirit to a great and high Mountain, he ſhewed him the great City, the holy Jeruſalem, deſcending out of Heaven from God, having the glory of God. But a City is too little, therefore its more, its a Luke 12. 32. Kingdom; Fear not little Flock, its your Father's good pleaſure to give you the Kingdom; and at this laſt day he bids his Saints to inherit the Kingdom. Or if a Kingdom be too little, it is call'd a World; Luke 20. 34, 35. 36. the children of this world marry, and are given in marriage; but they which ſhall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the reſurrection from the dead, neither marry nor are given in marriage, neither can they dye any more. There's another World beſides this, and for eminency it is called the World to come. O the Heb. 6. 5. breadth and largeneſs of that World! as the greater circle muſt contain the leſs, ſo doth that World contain this; alas, all our dwellings here are but as caves under the earth, and holes of poor clay in compariſon. In the boſome of that Heaven is many a dwelling place: In my Fathers houſe are John 14. 2. many manſions; there lodges many thouſand of glorious Kings; O what fair fields, and mountains of roſes and ſpices are there? ſurely gardens of length and breadth above millions of miles are nothing in compariſon. O the Vines, the Lillies, the Roſes, the precious Trees that grow in Immanuel's Land! an hundred harveſts in one year are nothing there, the loweſt ſtones in every manſion there are precious ſtones; the very building of the wall about it is Jaſper,

Rev. 21. 18. and the City is pure Gold, like unto clear Glaſs. O glorious inheritance! Tell me Chriſtians, in what City on Earth do Man walk upon Gold? or dwell within the walls of Gold? though none ſuch here, yet under the feet of the inhabitans of Heaven there is Gold;
Rev. 21. 21. All the ſtreets, and fields of that City, Kingdom, World, are pure Gold, as it were tranſparent Glaſs. But alas, what ſpeak I of Gold or Glaſs; all theſe are but ſhadows; indeed and in truth there is nothing ſo low as Gold, of precious Stones, there is nothing ſo baſe in this high and glorious Kingdom, as Gardens, Trees, or Roſes, compariſons are but created ſhadows, that come not up to expreſs the glory of the thing. I ſhall therefore leave to ſpeak this, becauſe unſpeakable.

6. They muſt live with Chriſt in Heaven; they muſt ſee, and enjoy Chriſt there to all eternity. This is a main end of Chriſt's coming, I will come again,
John 14. 3. and receive you unto my ſelf, that where I am, there ye may be alſo —— And Father, I will that thoſe whom thou
John 17. 24. haſt given me, be with me where I am, that they may behold the glory which thou haſt given me. O let faith eye this above all the former! what? will my Saviour come again? and ſhall I ſee his face? Oh what a pleaſant ſight will this ſame be? if Heaven, if the inheritance be ſuch a wonder to the beholders, what a beauty is that which is in the ſamplar? oh what an happineſs to ſtand beſides that dainty precious Prince in Heaven? to ſee the King on his Throne? to ſee the Lamb, the fair tree of life, the flower of Angels, the ſpotleſs Roſe, that Crown, the Garland, the joy of Heaven, the wonder of wonders for eternity? oh what a life to ſee the precious Tree of life! to ſee a multitude without quantity of the Apples of glory! to ſee love it ſelf, and to be warmed with the heat of immediate love that comes out from the precious heart and bowels of Jeſus Chriſt! Oh what a dearneſs to ſee all relations meet in one! to ſee the Saviour, the good Shepherd, the Redeemer, the great Biſhop of our ſouls, the Angel of the Covenant, the Head of the body of the Church, the King of ages, the Prince of peace, the Creator of the ends of the Earth, the Song of Angels and glorified Saints. Not only muſt they ſee Chriſt, but they ſhall enjoy him whom they ſee; they fly with doves wings of beauty after the Lamb, and in flying after him they lay hold upon him, and they will not leave him; they can never have enough of the chaſt fruition of the glorioos Prince Immanuel, and they never want his in-moſt preſence to the full; they ſuck the hony and the hony comb; they drink of the floods of eternal conſolation, and fill all empty deſires; and as if the ſouls of Saints were without bottom; a freſh they ſuck again to all eternity. Now this is ſalvation indeed, the ſoul that attains this full enjoyment, is ſaved to the uttermoſt.

3. In reſpect of Chriſt himſelf that he may be glorified. Now in two things more eſpecially will he be glorified at that day. 1. In his juſtice. 2. In his mercy, or free grace.

1. His juſtice will be glorified, eſpecially in puniſhing the wicked here on Earth, little juſtice is done on moſt offenders; though ſome publick crims are ſometimes puniſhed, yet the actions of cloſets and chambers, the deſigns and thoughts of Men; the buſineſſes of retirements, and of the night, eſcape the hand of juſtice; and therefore God hath ſo ordained it, that there ſhall be a day of doom, wherein all that are let alone by men ſhall be queſtioned by God; Shall not the judge of all the World do right! Gen. 18. 25.
then all thoughts ſhall be examined, and ſecret actions viewed on each ſide, and the infinite number of thoſe ſins which eſcaped here, ſhall be blazoned there; all ſhall have juſtice; and the juſtice of the judge ſhall be ſo exact, that he will account with men by minutes; and that juſtice may reign entirely, God ſhall open his treaſure: I mean the wicked man's treaſure, and tell the ſums and weigh the grains and ſcruples. Is not this laid up in ſtore with Deut. 32. 34.
me, and ſealed up among my treaſures? I will reſtore it in the day of vengeance ſaith the Lord. Oh how will God glorifie his juſtice at that day? ſurely his juſtice ſhall ſhine, and be eminently glorious in every paſſage.

2. His mercy, or free grace will be glorified in rewarding the Saints, And this is the main, the ſupreme end of his coming to judgment, He ſhall 2 Theſ. 1. 10.
come (ſaith the Apoſtle) to be glorified in his Saints; not but that the Angels ſhall glorifie the riches of his grace, as well as Saints; but becauſe the Angels never ſinned, (they have now kept their Robes of innocency, their cloth of Gold above five thouſand years, without one ſpark of dirt, or change of colour:) therefore the glory of his grace is more eſpecially faſtned on Saints, that ſometimes were ſinners. Oh what ſtories will be told at this day of graces acts? I was a blaſphemer, aud a perſecutor, and an injurious Perſon (ſaid Paul) 1 Tim. 1. 13.
but I obtained mercy; ἀλλ' ἠλεήθην, but I was be mercied, as if he had been dipt in a River, in a Sea of mercy; it may be he will make the ſame acknowledgment at the day of judgment; I was a ſinner, but the grace of the Lord Jeſus to me was abundant, ſuperabundant; I obtained as much grace as would have ſaved a World. Certainly free grace ſhall then be diſcovered in ſome purpoſe; then it ſhall be known, That Rom. 5. 20. 20.
where ſin abounded, grace far more; is over abounded, or more than ever abounded: ὑπερεπερίσσευσεν It is a word borrowed from Fountains and Rivers, which have over flowed with Waters ever ſince the Creation; then all the Saints ſhall exalt, and magnifie, and with loud voices praiſe the Glory of his grace; they ſhall look on their debts written in graces book, and then ſhall they ſign and ſay, O the myſtery of grace! O the gold-mines, and the depths of Chriſt's free love! why this was the great deſign of our ſalvation: at the firſt, when God was willing to communicate himſelf out of his aloneneſs everlaſting, he laid this plot, that all he would do, ſhould be to the Praiſe of the Glory Eph. 1. 6. of his grace; and now at his ſecond coming, have done all he will do, the Saints for whom he hath done all, admire, eſteem, honour, and ſound forth the praiſes of his grace. Is not this their everlaſting ſong which they begin at this day? Glory to the Lamb, and Glory to his Grace, that ſitteth on the Throne for evermore? not but that they glorifie him in his Wiſdom, Power, Holineſs, and his other Attributes, ay but eſpecially in this, it is his Grace in which he moſt delighteth; even as vertuous Kings affect, above all their other Vertues, to be had in honour for their Clemency, and Bounty; ſo Jeſus Chriſt the King of Kings affects, above all, the glory of his grace And to this purpoſe Heaven it ſelf is an houſe full of broken men, who have borrowed millions from Chriſt, but can never repay more than to read, and ſing the praiſes of Free-grace; Glory to the Lamb, and glory to the riches of his grace for evermore.

Thus for directions; one word of Application, or a few motives to work Faith in you in this reſpect.

1. Chriſt in his word invites you to believe; theſe are his Letters from Heaven, Come all to the Marriage-ſupper of the Lamb; Ho, every one that thirſts come in; Heaven's gate is open to all that knock, but fools, fooliſh Virgins, fooliſh ſouls, which have no Faith, nor will have any, to render them fit for Heaven. This meets with ſome that ſcruple, what? will Chriſt come again to receive me to himſelf; ſhall I enter with him into glory? alas no unclean thing ſhall enter into that Holy City, and ſhall ſuch a ſinner as I am be admitted? Oh believe, believe thy part in this coming of Chriſt, to receive thee to himſelf; and no ſin, that thou feeleſt a burthen, ſhall keep thee out of Heaven. There is Rahab the Harlot; and Manaſſeth the Murtherer, and Mary that had ſo many Devils; a man that hath many Devils may come where there is not one; Lame, and Blind, and Halt may enter into Heaven, and yet ſtill there is room; Luke 14. 22. there is a great variety of gueſts above, and yet one Table large enough for all; no crouding, and yet thouſands, and thouſands of thouſands ſitting together; Ah poor ſoul, why doſt thou make exceptions, where God makes none? why ſhouldſt thou exclude thy ſelf out of theſe golden Gates, when God doth not? believe, only believe in the Lord Jeſus, and the promiſe is ſure, and without all controverſie, thou ſhalt be ſaved.

2. Chriſt by his Miniſtery intreats you to believe; come, ſay they, we beſeech you believe in your judge; it may be you ſtartle at this, what? to believe in him who is a coming to be your judge? but if your judge be Jeſus, if the ſame perſon who died for you, ſhall come to judge you, why ſhould you fear? indeed if your judge were your enemy, you might fear; but if he who is your Lord, and who loves your ſouls ſhall judge you, there is no ſuch cauſe; will a man fear to be judged by his deareſt friends? a brother by a brother? a child by a Father? or a wife by her husband? conſider! is not he your Judge who came down from Heaven, and who being on earth was judged, condemned, and executed in your ſtead? and yet are ye fearful, O ye of little faith? Oh what an unreaſonable ſin is unbelief! nay, ſay the ſcrupulous, if I were aſſured of this; if I knew that my Judge were my friend, I ſhould not fear; but is he not my enemy; have not I provoked him to enmity againſt my ſoul? do I not ſtand it out in arms againſt my Judge? am not I daily ſinning againſt him, who juſtly may condemn me for my ſin? give this for granted, that this and no other, no better is my caſe, and what ſay you then? if it be ſo, hark then to the voice of our Miniſtry. We poor Miniſters that love your ſouls (ſay what you will of us) would fain have all this enmity againſt God, and againſt Chriſt done away; and to this purpoſe we not only appear many and many a time upon our knees to God for you, but (maugre all your oppoſitions againſt us) we could be content to come upon our knees from God to you, to beſeech you not to provoke your judge againſt your ſouls: what, is Chriſt and you at odds? is the difference wide betwixt your Judge and you? I do now in my Maſter's Name, in the name of God, and in the name of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, beſeech you to believe; I beſeech you in Chriſt's Name; in Chriſt's ſtead, be ye reconciled unto God. Is not this the Apoſtle's word? Now then we are Embaſſadors for Chriſt, as though God did beſeech you by us, we pray you in Chriſt's ſtead? Chriſt's Miniſters are not only God's Legates, 2 Cor. 5. 20. but Chriſt's Surrogates; to make this plain to you, when a Prince ſends a meſſenger to another Prince, that meſſenger is onely an Embaſſador, the Prince being not bound to carry the meſſage himſelf in Perſon; but now Jeſus Chriſt, he is the Father's Embaſſador, and Chriſt is thereby bound to bring the meſſage of peace himſelf, but being neceſſarily imployed elſewhere (in the ſame deſign of grace) he conſtitutes us his Officers; ſo that we do not come only in the Name of God, but in the place of Chriſt to do that work which is primarily his; As the Father hath ſent me, even ſo ſend I you; and this was the commendation of the Galatians that they received the Apoſtle Paul even as Jeſus Chriſt. Now weigh our Joh. 20. 21. deſire, we beſeech you to believe; we beſeech you to ſign the Articles of agreement betwixt Chriſt and Gal. 4. 14. you; what? ſhall ſome baſe inconſiderable luſt ſtand in competition with Jeſus Chriſt? will you not make your peace with your judge whiles you are in a way and before he ſit in the Throne? behold we give you warning, the Judge is at the door, even believe and be ſaved. Oh how fain would we tempt you (as it were) with glory? we tender Chriſt, and we offer peace, we come in the judges name to beſeech you to make ready for him, and for Heaven; we bring ſalvation to your very doors, to your very ears, and there we are ſounding, knocking, Will ye go to Henven, ſinners? will ye go to Heaven. O believe in him that will judge you, and he will ſave you.

3. Chriſt by his Spirit moves, excites, and provokes you to believe. Sometimes in Reading, and ſometimes in Hearing, and ſometimes in Meditating you may feel him ſtir; have you felt no gale of the ſpirit all this while? It is the ſpirit that convinceth the World of ſin, eſpecially of that great ſin of unbelief; and then of righteouſneſs, which Chriſt procu- Joh. 16. 8. red by going to his Father; obſerve here, it is the work of the ſpirit thus to convince, ſo that all moral Philoſophy, and the wiſeſt directions of the moſt Civil men will leave you in a Wilderneſs; yea ten thouſands of Sermons may be preached to you to believe, and yet you never ſhall, till you are over-powered by God's Spirit: It is the Spirit that enlightens, and Iſa. 30. 21. directs you, as occaſion is, ſaying this is the way, walk in Cant. 2. 10 it. It is the ſpirit that rouzeth, and awakeneth you by effectual motions, Ariſe my love, my fair one, and come Rom. 10. away. He ſtands at the door and knocks; he ſtretcheth 21. out his hand with Heaven in it, and he doth ſo all the day long; all the day long have I ſtretched out my hand; and that you may find his yoke eaſie, and his burthen light; it is the Spirit that draws the yoke with you; and by ſecret animations, and ſweet inſpirations heartens, and enables you to do the work with eaſe, and in this reſpect the Saints are ſaid to be led by the Spirit; even as a Mother leads her child that is weak, and enables it to go the better, ſo the Spirit leads the Saints (as it were) by the hand, and ſtrengthens them to believe yet more and more. Rom. 8. 24. I ſpeak now to Saints, if whiles I preſs you to believe in Jeſus, you feel the ſpirit in his ſtirrings, and impetuous acts, ſurely it concerns you to believe; it concerns you to be obſequious and yeilding to the breathings of God's Spirit, it concerns you to cooperate with the Spirit, and to anſwer his wind-blowing. As you are to take Chriſt at his word, ſo you are to take Chriſt's Spirit at his work: if now he knocks, do you knock with him; if now his fingers make a ſtirring upon the handles of the bar, let your hearts make a ſtirring with his fingers alſo; O reach in your hearts under the ſtirrings of free grace; obey diſpoſitions of grace as God himſelf; if now you feel your hearts as hot as Iron, it is good then to ſmite with the hammmer; if now you feel your ſpirits docil, ſay then with him in the Goſpel, I believe, Lord help my unbelief: I believe, what? I believe when Jeſus comes again, he will receive me to himſelf, and that I ſhall be for ever with the Lord. Amen, Amen.

Sect. 6. Of Loving Jeſus in that reſpect.

6. LET us love Jeſus, as carrying on the great Work of our ſalvation for us in his ſecond coming, In proſecution of this I muſt firſt ſet down Chriſt's love to us, and then our love to Chriſt; that is the cauſe, and this effect; that is the ſpring, and this is the ſtream; in vain ſhould we perſwade our hearts to love the Lord, if in the firſt place we are not ſenſible that our Lord loves us, We love him (ſaith the John 4. 19. Apoſtle) becauſe he firſt loved us; it is Chriſt's way of winning hearts, he draws a lump of love out of his own heart, and caſts it into the ſinners heart, and ſo he loves him. Come then let us firſt take a view of Chriſt's love to us, and ſee if from thence any ſparks of love will fall on our hearts to love him again. Should I make a Table of Chriſt's acts of love and free-grace to us, I might begin with that eternity of his love before the beginning, and never end till I draw it down to that eternity of his love without all ending: his love is as his mercy, from everlaſting to everlaſting; he loved us before time, in the beginning of time, in the fulneſs of time, at this time the flames of his love are as hot in his breaſt as they were at firſt, and when time ſhall be no more, he will love us ſtill: this fire of Heaven is everlaſting; there is in the breaſt of Chriſt an eternal coal of burning love, that never, never ſhall be quenched. But I have in ſome meaſure already diſcovered all thoſe acts of his grace and love, till his ſecond coming: and therefore I begin there.

1. Chriſt will come; is not this love? as his deJohn 14. 18. parture was a rich teſtimony of his love. It is expedient for you that I go away; ſo is his returning, I will not leave you confortleſs, I will come unto you; Oh how can we think of Chriſt's returning, and not meditate on the greatneſs of his love? might he not ſend his Angels, but he muſt come himſelf? is it not ſtate and majeſty enough to have the Angels come for us, but that he himſelf muſt come with his Angels, to meet us more than half the way? what King on Earth would adopt a beggar, and after his adoption would himſelf go in perſon, to fetch him from the dunghil to his Throne? we are filthy lazars, from the crown of our heads to the ſoles of our feet we are full of ſores, and yet the King of Heaven puts on his beſt attire, and comes in perſon with all his retinue of glory, to fetch us from our graves, to his own Court of Heaven. Oh the loves of Chriſt in this one act, he will come again, he is but gone for a while, but he will come again in his own perſon.

2. Chriſt will welcome all his Saints into his preſence; and is not this love? after he is come down from Heaven, he ſtays for them a while in the Clouds; and commanding his Angels to bring them thither, anon they come; and oh how his heart ſprings within him at their coming! what throbs and pangs of love are in his heart at the firſt view of them? as they draw near and fall down at his feet, and worſhip him: ſo he draws near, and falls upon their necks, and welcomes them. Methinks I hear him ſay, Come bleſſed ſouls, you are my purchaſe, for whom I Covenanted with my Father from eternity; O you are dearly welcome to your Lord, in that now I have you in my armes; I feel the fruit of my death, the acception of my Sacrifice, the return of [illegible] prayers; for this I was born and dyed, for this I roſe again and aſcended into heaven, for this I have interceded a Prieſt in Heaven theſe many years; and now I have the end and deſign of all my actings and ſufferings for you, how is my joy fulled? look as at the meeting of two lovers there is great joy, eſpecially if the diſtance hath been great, and the deſires of enjoying one another vehement; ſo is the meeting of Chriſt with his Saints; the joy is ſo great that it runs over, and wets the fair brows, and beauteous locks of Cherubims and Seraphims; and all the Angels have a part of this banquet at this day.

3. Chriſt will ſentence his Saints for eternal life; here is love indeed! every word of the ſentence is full of love; it contains the reward of his Saints, a reward beyond their work, and beyond their wages, and beyond the promiſe, and beyond their thoughts, and beyond their underſtanding; it is a participation of the joyes of God, and of the inheritance of the Judge himſelf: Come enter into your Maſters joy, inherit the Kingdom. Oh but if all the Saints have only one Kingdom, where is my room? fear not, O my ſoul, thou ſhalt have room enough; though but one Kingdom, yet all the Inhabitants they are Kings: whole Heaven is ſuch a Kingdom, as is intirely, and fully injoyed by one glorified Saint, all and every one hath the whole Kingdom of his own will; every one is filled with God, as if there were no fellows there to ſhare with him. Oh that I may come under this bleſſed ſentence! never was more love expreſſed in words, than Chriſt expreſſeth in this ſentence, Come ye bleſſed, &c.

4. Chriſt will take up all his Saints with him into glory; where he will preſent them to his Father, and then be their all in all to all eternity. This is the height of Chriſt's love; this is the immediate love that comes out from the precious heart and bowels of Jeſus Chriſt; this is the Zenith of love, when ſenſibly and feelingly it burns at hotteſt; it is true, that Chriſt's love breaks out in all thoſe procedaneous acts, we have already ſpoken; Oh but what loves will he caſt out from himſelf in glory? the more excellent the ſoyl is, and the nearer the Sun is, the more of Summer, and the more of day; the more delicious muſt be the Apples, the Pomgranates, the Roſes, the Lillies that grow there; ſurely Chriſt in glory is a bleſſed ſoyl; Roſes, and Lillies, and Apples of love, that are eternally Summer-green and ſweet, grow out of him; the honey of Heaven is more than honey; the honey of love; that is pure, and unmixt, and glorious in Chriſt, muſt needs be incomparable. I cannot ſay, but that Chriſt's love like himſelf, is the ſame yeſter- 1 John 4. 8. day, and to day, and for ever; there is no intenſion, or remiſſion of his love as in it ſelf; for God is love; he is eſſentially love; and thereſore admits of no degrees; yet in reſpect of the ſenſe, or manifeſtation of this love of Chriſt, there muſt needs be a difference; thus if he loved his ſpouſe on earth, how much more will he love her when his Bride in Heaven? If he loves us while ſinners, and enemies to his holineſs; how much more will he love us, when we are Sons, and perfected Saints in glory; he that could ſpread his arms, and open his heart on the Croſs, will he not then open arms, and heart, and all to them that reign with him in his Kingdom? if in this life ſuch is loves puiſſance, that we uſually ſay of Chriſt, Though the head be in Heaven, yet he hath left his heart on Earth with ſinners; what ſhall we ſay of Chriſt in glory, where love, like the Sun, ever ſtands in the Zenith? where the eternal God is the ſouls everlaſting refuge, and underneath are his ever- Deut. 33. 27. laſting Arms?

5. And if Chriſt love thus; how ſhould we love again for ſuch a love? Lord, what a ſum of love are we indebted to thee? is it poſſible that ever we ſhould pay the debt? can we love as high, as deep, as broad, as long as love it ſelf, or as Chriſt himſelf? no, no; all we can do is but to love a little; and oh that in the conſideration of his love we could love a little in ſincerity! Oh that we were but able feelingly to ſay, Why Lord I love thee, I feel I love thee, even as I feel I love my friend, or as I feel I love my ſelf. Such arguments of love have been laid before us, ſo that now I know no more; we have ſeen whole Chriſt cap-a-pe; we have heard of the loves of Chriſt from eternity to eternity; we have had a view of the everlaſting Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt, wherein his love is repreſented to us as hot as death, or as the flames of God; and do we not yet love him? hath Chriſt all this while opened his breaſt and heart to us, ſaying, Friends, Doves, come in, and dwell in the holes of this Rock? And do we ſcratch his breaſt? do we turn our backs upon him, and requite his love with hatred? ſurely this is more than ſin; for what is ſin but a tranſgreſſion of the Law? but this ſin is both a tranſgreſſion of Law and Goſpel. What? to ſpurn againſt the warm bowels of love? to ſpit on grace? to diſdain him who is the white and ruddy, the faireſt of Heaven? Oh the aggravation of this ſin! 'tis an heart of Flint and adamant that ſpits at Evangelick love: Law love, is love, but Evangelick love is more than love; its the Gold, the Flower of Chriſt's Wheat, and of his fineſt love. Oh the many Goſpel-paſſages of love that we have heard! Oh the ſweet ſtreams of love that we have followed, till now that we are come to a Sea of love, to an Heaven of love, to an infinite, eternal, everlaſting love in Heaven! I want words to expreſs this love of Jeſus; a Sea of love is nothing, it hath a botom; an Heaven of love is nothing, it hath a brim; but infinite, eternal, everlaſting love hath no bottom, no brim, no bounds, and do we not yet love him? do we not yet feel the fire of love break forth? if not, it is time to turn Deu.30.6. 6. our preaching into Praying; O thou who art the Element or Sun of love, come with thy power, let out one beam, one ray, one gleam of love upon my ſoul, ſhine hot upon my heart, caſt my ſoul into a love trance, remember thy promiſe to circumciſe my heart, that I may love the Lord my God with all my heart, and with all my ſoul. Surely the great Marriage of the Lamb is coming on, he will come, and welcome all his Saints into his preſence; he will bid them inherit the Kingdom, and put them in a poſſeſſion of the inheritance; and then we cannot chooſe but love our Jeſus with all our hearts, and with all our ſouls; only begin we it here; let us now be ſick of love, that we may then be well with love? let us now rub and chafe our hearts (our dead cold hearts) before this fire, till we ſay with Peter, Why Lord thou knoweſt all things, thou knoweſt that I love thee.

Sect. 7. Of joying in Jeſus in that reſpect.

7. LET us joy in Jeſus, as carrying on the great work of our ſalvation for us in his ſecond coming: Chriſt delights to have his People look upon him with delight; for a ſoul to be always under a ſpirit of bondage, and ſo to look upon Chriſt as a Judge, a Lyon, or an offended God, it doth not pleaſe God; the Lord Jeſus is tender of the joy of Mat.5.12. his Saints, Rejoyce, and be exceeding glad, ſaith Chriſt;
1 Theſ. 5. rejoyce evermore,——rejoyce in the Lord always; and
16. again, I ſay rejoyce. Let the righteous be glad, let them
Phil 4.4. rejoyce before God, yea let them exceedingly rejoyce.
Pſal.68.3. All that Chriſt doth to his Saints tends to this joy, as the up ſhot or end of all; if he caſt down, it is but to raiſe them up; if he humble, it is but to exalt; if he kill, it is but to make alive; in every diſpenſation ſtill he hath a tender care to preſerve their joy. This is the Benjamin, about which Chriſt's bowels beat; Let my Children ſuffer any thing, but nothing in their joy; I would have all that love my Name to be joyful in me.

Oh ſay ſome, but Chriſt's day is a terrible day; when Chriſt appears, he will make the Heavens, and Earth, and Hell to ſhake and tremble. Our God ſhall come, and ſhall not keep ſilence; a fire ſhall devour Pſal. 50.

him. True! but what's all this terrour but an argument of my Father's power, and juſtice againſt ſinners? if thou art Chriſt's, and haſt thy part in him, not one jot of all this terror belongs to thee,
The Lord knows how to deliver the godly out of temptati- 2 Pet.2. 9 ons, and to reſerve the unjuſt to the day of judgment to be puniſhed. He knows how to make the ſame day a terror to his foes, and a joy to his People? he ever intended it for the great diſtinguiſhing and ſeparating day, wherein both joy and ſorrow ſhould be manifeſted to the higheſt. *O then let the Heavens re-he judge the World, and the People with equity. If you find it an hard thing, to joy in Jeſus, as in reference to his ſecond coming, think of theſe motives——

1. Chriſt's coming is the Chriſtians encouragement; ſo Chriſt himſelf lays it down, You ſhall ſee the Son of Man coming in a Cloud with power and great Luk. 21.
glory; and when theſe things begin to come to paſs, then 27, 28.
look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh. The ſigns of his coming are the hopes of your approaching introduction into glory, and what ſhould we do then but prepare for your approaching with exceeding joy? many evils do now ſurround you every where; Satan hath his ſnares, and the World his baits, and your own hearts are apt to betray you into your enemies hands; but when Chriſt comes, you ſhall have full deliverance, and perfect redemption; and therefore look up, and lift up your heads. The Apoſtle ſpeaks the very ſame encouragement. The Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from Heaven with a ſhout, with the voice of the Arch-angel, and with the trump of God, and the dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe 1 Theſ. 4.
firſt; then we which are alive, and remain, ſhall be 16, 17.
caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the 18.
Lord in the Air, ——wherefore comfort one another with theſe words. Chriſt's coming is a comfortable doctrine to all believers; and therefore all the Elect that hear theſe words, ſhould be comforted by them. Comfort ye, comfort ye my People.

2. Chriſt our Saviour muſt be our Judge; the ſame Jeſus that was born for us, and lived for us, and dyed for us, and doth now pray for us, will come at laſt to judge us; is not this comfortable? you that have heard all his tranſactions, can you ever forget the unwearineſs of Chriſt's love, in his conſtant and continual actings for your ſouls? how long hath he been interceding for his Saints, how long hath he been knocking at their heats for entrance? it is now above a thouſand ſix hundered years that he hath been praying, and knocking, and he reſolves not to give over till all be his, till all the Tribes in ones and twos be over Jordan, and up with him in the heavenly Canaan. And if this be he that muſt be our Judge; if he that loves our ſouls muſt Judge our ſouls; if he that hath a great intereſt and increaſe of joy in our ſalvation, muſt paſs our ſentence; will not this work us into a rejoycing frame.

3. Chriſt's ſentence is the Chriſtian's acquittance; (I may call it his general acquittance from the beginning of the World to the end thereof.) Hence ſome call this the day of the believers full juſtification; they were before made juſt, and eſteemed juſt, but now by a lively ſentence they ſhall be pronounced juſt by Chriſt himſelf; now is the complete acquittance, or the full abſolution from all ſin; now will Chriſt pardon, and ſpeak out his pardon once for all; now will he take his book (wherein all our ſins, as ſo many debts or treſpaſſes are written) and he will cancel all; Acts 3. 19. Your ſins ſhall be blotted out (ſaith Peter) when the time of refreſhing ſhall come from the preſence of the Lord. And is not this enough to cauſe our joy? when the ſpirit witneſſing with our ſpirits, doth but in part aſſure us of ſins pardon, is it not exceeding ſweet? Oh but how ſweet will be that ſentence, which will fully reſolve the queſtion, and leave no room of doubting any more for ever? conſider O my ſoul, the day is a coming, when the Judge of Heaven and Earth will acquit thee of all thy ſins before all the World; it is a part of his buſineſs at that day to glorifie his juſtice and free grace in thy abſolution. O Chriſtians! how may we comfort one another with theſe words?

4. Chriſt in the iſſue will lead us into glory. As the Bridegroom, after nuptials, leads his Bride to his own home, that there they may live together, and dwell together; ſo Chriſt our Royal Bridegroom will lead us into the Palace of his glory. And is not this joy of our Lord enough to cauſe our joy; Oh what embraces of love, what ſhaking of hands, what welcomes ſhall we have into this City? there ſhall we ſee Chriſt in his Garden, there ſhall we be ſet as a ſeal on Chriſt's arm, and as a ſeal upon his heart; there ſhall we be filled with his love, enlightned with his light, incircled in his arms, following his ſteps, and praiſing his Name, and admiring his Glory; there ſhall we joy indeed, Pſal. 16. 11. For in thy preſence there is fulneſs of joy, and at thy right hand there are pleaſures evermore. There is joy, and full joy, and fulneſs of joy; there are pleaſures, and pleaſures evermore at God's right Hand. O the muſick of the Sanctuary! O the ſinleſs and well-tuned Pſalms! O the Songs of the high Temple, without either Temple or Ordinances, as we have them here! Can we chooſe to joy at the thought of this joy above! if God would ſo diſpenſe, that even now we might ſtand at the utmoſt door of Heaven, and that God would ſtrike up a window, and give us a ſpiritual eye, and an heavenly heart, ſo that we could look in, and behold the Throne, and the Lamb, and the Troops of glorified ones cloathed in white; would not this chear up our hearts, and fill them with joy unſpeakable, and full of glory? certainly this day will come, when Chriſt will bring us not only to the door, but through the Gates into the City; and then we ſhall ſee all theſe ſights, and hear all the muſick made in heaven; how then ſhould we but joy in the hope of the Glory of God? O! methinks, raiſed thoughts of our manſion in glory, ſhould make us ſwim through the deepeſt Sea of troubles, and afflictions, and never fear. Come then, O my drowzy ſoul, and harken to theſe motives; if yet thou ſeeſt not the Son it ſelf appear, methinks the twilight of a promiſe ſhould revive thee; it is but a little while, And he that ſhall come, will come, and he will not tarry. It may be thou art reviled, and perſecuted here on Earth; and what then? hath not Chriſt bid thee to Mat. 5. 12. rejoyce in afflictions? is it not his word, that in this very caſe thou ſhouldſt rejoyce, and be exceeding glad—is it not his command, Think it not ſtrange concerning 1 Pet. 4. 13. the fiery tryals, but rather rejoyce, in as much as ye are partakers of Chriſt's ſufferings, that when his glory ſhall be revealed, ye may be glad alſo with exceeding joy. We muſt rejoyce now, that we may rejoyce then; indeed our preſent joy is a taſte of our future joy, and God would have us to begin our Heaven here on Earth. Come then, come forth, O my dull congealed heart! thou that ſpendeſt thy days in ſorrow, and thy breath in ſighing, that mingleſt thy bread with tears, and drinkeſt the tears which thou weepeſt; thou that prayeſt for joy, and waiteſt for joy, and longeſt for joy, and complaineſt for want of joy; O the time's a coming, when thou ſhalt have fulneſs of joy; the time's a coming when the Angels ſhall bring thee to Chriſt, and when Chriſt ſhall take thee by the hand, and lead thee into his purchaſed joy, and preſent thee unſpotted before his Father, and give thee thy place about his Throne; and doſt thou not rejoyce in this: art thou not exceedingly raiſed in ſuch a Meditation as this? ſurely if one drop of lively faith were but mixed with theſe motives, thou mighteſt carry an Heaven within thee, and go on ever ſinging to thy grave; ſay then, doſt thou believe? or doſt thou not believe? if thy Faith be firm, how ſhould'ſt thou but rejoyce? if thou rolleſt thy ſelf on Chriſt, and on that promiſe, I will ſee you again, and your heart ſhall rejoyce, and your joy no Man taketh from you; how ſhouldeſt thou but rejoyce, and be exceeding glad? if thou lookeſt upon the Holy Ghoſt as deſigned by the Father and Son to bring joy and delight into thy ſoul? how ſhouldeſt thou but be filled with the Water of life, with the Oil of gladneſs, and with the new Wine of the Kingdom of God? O the bleſſed workings of Faith on ſuch a ſubject as this! if once we are but juſtified by Faith, and that we can act our Faith on Chriſt's glorious coming then it will follow, that we ſhall have peace with God, and rejoyce Rom. 5. 1, 2, 3. in the hope of the glory of God; and not only ſo, but we ſhall glory in tribulation alſo.

Sect. 8. Of calling on Jeſus in that reſpect.

8. LET us call on Jeſus, as carrying on our ſouls ſalvation at his ſecond coming; this contains prayer and praiſe.

2. Let us pray for the coming of Chriſt; this was the conſtant Prayer of the Church, Come Lord Jeſus, come quickly. The Spirit and the Bride ſay come. Rev. 22. 17. Well knows the Bride that the day of Chriſt's coming is her wedding day, her coronation day, the day of preſenting her unto his Father, and therefore no wonder if ſhe pray for the haſtning of it; Make haſt Cant. 8. 14. my beloved, and be thou like to a Roe, or to a young Hart; thy Kingdom come. Many prayers are in the bowels of this, as that Chriſt, when he comes, may bid us welcome, and give us a place on his Throne, on his right Hand, and pronounce us bleſſed, and take us to himſelf, to live with himſelf in eternal Glory, &c. But I mention only this general, and let each ſoul expatiate on the reſt.

2. Let us Praiſe him for his coming, and for all his actings at his coming. Our engagement to Chriſt even for his tranſaction is ſo great, that we can never enough extol his Name; at that day the Books ſhall be opened, and why not the Book of our engagements to Jeſus Chriſt? if it muſt be opened, I can ſurely tell you it is written full; the Page and Margent, both within and without, is written full; it's an huge book of many volums. O then let our hearts be full of Praiſes! let us joyn with thoſe bleſſed Elders, that fell down before the Lamb, and ſung, Rev. 5. 12. Worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain to receive power, and riches, and Wiſdom, and ſtrength, and honour, and glory, and bleſſing. Yea, let us joyn with all thoſe creatures in heaven, and on Earth, and under the earth, and in the ſea; whom John heard, ſaying, Ver. 13. Bleſſing, Honour, Glory, and Power be unto him that ſitteth on the Throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever, Amen.

Sect. 9. Of Conforming to Jeſus in that reſpect.

9. LET us Conform to Jeſus, as coming again to judge the World. Looking to Jeſus, contains this; when the Apoſtle would perſuade Chriſtians to patience under the Croſs, he lays down firſt the cloud of witneſſes, all the Martyrs of the Church of Chriſt; and ſecondly Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, as of more vertue and power than all the reſt; the Martys ſuffered much but Chriſt endured more than they all; and therefore ſaith the Apoſtle, Heb. 12. 2. Look unto Jeſus; ſurely he is the beſt exemplar, the cheif pattern to who in all his tranſactions, we may in ſome way or other conform.

But how ſhould we conform to Chriſt in this reſpect? I anſwer ——

1. Chriſt will in time prepare for judgment; Oh let us at all times prepare fer his judging of us; doth it not concern us to prepare for him, as well as it concerns him to prepare for us? if Chriſt come, and find us careleſs, negligent, unprepared, what will become of us? the very thought of Chriſt's ſudden coming to judgment might well put us into a waiting, watching poſture, that we might be ſtill in readineſs; it cannot be long, and alas, what is a little time when it is gone; how quickly ſhall we be in another World, and our ſouls receive their particular judgments; and ſo wait till our bodies be raiſed, and judged to the ſame condition, or ſalvation? it is not an hundred years in all likelyhood, till every ſoul of us ſhall be in Heaven or Hell; it may be within in a year, or two, or ten, or thereabouts, the greateſt part of this congregation will be in Heaven or Hell; and I beſeech you what is a year, or two, or ten? what is an hundred, or a thouſand years to the days of eternity? how ſpeedily is this gone? and how endleſs is that time, or eternity that is come? is it not high time then to prepare our Lamps, to trim our ſouls, to watch, and faſt, and pray, and meditate, and to remember that for all our deeds, good or evil, God will bring us to judgment? herein is our Conformity to Chriſt's coming; before he comes he prepares for us, oh let us againſt his coming prepare for him,

2. Chriſt at his coming will ſummon all his Saints to ariſe, to aſcend and to come to him in the Clouds; O let us ſummon our ſouls to ariſe, to aſcend, and to go to Chriſt in the Heavens. What Chriſt will do really at that day, let us do ſpiritually on this day. It was the Prodigal's ſaying, Luke 15. 18. I will ariſe, and go to my Father, and ſay unto him. We are naturally ſluggiſh, we lye in a bed of ſin, and ſecurity; and we are loath to ariſe, to aſcend and to go to God. Oh then let us call upon our own ſouls! Awake, awake Deborah! why art thou ſo heavy O my ſoul? let us ſtir up our ſpirits, conſciences, wills, affections every day; let us wind them up, as a man doth his watch, that it may be in a continual motion. Alas! alas! we had need to be continually ſtirrring up the gifts and graces that are in us; it is the Lord's pleaſure that we ſhould daily come to him, he would have us on the wing of Prayer, and on the wing of Meditation, and on the wing of Faith; he would have us to be ſtill ariſing, aſcending and mounting up in divine contemplation to his Majeſty. And is it not our duty, and the Saints diſpoſition to be thus? Mat. 24. 28. Whitherſoever the dead carcaſs is, thither will the Eagles reſort: If Chriſt be in Heaven, where ſhould we be but in Heaven with him? For where your treaſure is, there will your hearts be alſo. Oh that every morning, and every evening at leaſt, our hearts would ariſe, aſcend, and go to Chriſt in the Heavens.

3. Chriſt will at the laſt judge all our ſouls, and judge all the wicked to eternal flames; oh let us judge our ſelves, that we may not be judged of the Lord in that ſad judgment, 1 Cor. 11. 31. If we would judge our ſelves (ſaith the Apoſtle) we ſhould not be judged. Good reaſon we have to conform to Chriſt in this point, or otherwiſe how ſhould we eſcape the judgment of Chriſt at the laſt day? but in what manner ſhould we judge our ſelves? I anſwer —— 1. We muſt ſearch our ſins. 2. We muſt confeſs them before the Lord. 3. We muſt condemn our ſelves, or paſs a ſentence againſt our own ſouls. 4. We muſt plead pardon, and cry mightily to God in Chriſt for the remiſſion of all theſe ſins whereof we have judged our ſelves, and condemned our ſelves.

1. We muſt ſearch out our ſins. Zeph. 2. 1. Winnow your ſelves O People, not worthy to be beloved. There ſhould be a ſtrict ſcrutiny to find out all the prophaneſs of our hearts and lives, all our ſins againſt light, and love, and checks, and vows; Winnow your ſelves. If you will not, I pronounce to you from the eternal God, that ere long the Lord will come in the Clouds, and then will he open the black Book wherein all your ſins are written; he will ſearch Jeruſalem with candles, he will come with a Sword in his hand to ſearch out all ſecure ſinners every where, and then will all your ſins be diſcovered to all the World. O that we would prevent this by our ſearch and ſcrutining a foreband,

2. We muſt confeſs our ſins before the Lord; we muſt ſpread them before the Lord as Hezekiah did his letter; only in our confeſſions obſerve theſe rules; As——

1. Our confeſſion muſt be full of ſorrow I will declare my iniquity (ſaith David) I will be ſorry for my ſin. Pſal. 38. 18. Theſe confeſſions were dolorous confeſſions; he felt ſin, and it wrought upon him as an heavy burthen, Verſe 4. They were too heavy for me. There's nothing in the World can make an heart more heavy, than when it feels the weight and heavineſs of ſin.

2. Our confeſſion muſt be a full confeſſion, we muſt pour it out. Thus David ſtiles one of his Pſalms. Pſal. 102. Preface. A prayer of the afflicted when he is overwhelmed, and poureth out his complaint before the Lord. We muſt pour out our complaints, as a man poureth water out of a Veſſel. Lam 2.19 Ariſe, cry out in the night in the beginning of the watches, pour out thine heart like water before the face of the Lord. Water runs all out of a Veſſel, when you turn the mouth downward, never a ſpoonful will ſtay behind; ſo ſhould we pour out our hearts before God, (and if it were poſſible) leave not a ſin unconfeſſed, at leaſt for the kinds, if not for the particular ſins.

3. Our confeſſion muſt be with full aggravation; we ſhould aggravate our ſins by all the circumſtances, that they may ſhew them odious. Thus Peter when he had denied Chriſt it is ſaid that Mat. 14. 72. he thought thereon, and he wept. He thought thereon, or he caſt in his thoughts one thing upon anothnr; q. d. Jeſus Chriſt was my Maſter and yet I denied him; he told me of this before hand, that I might take heed of it, and yet I denied him; I profeſſed to him that I would never do it, I would never forſake him, and yet I denied him; yea, this very night, and no longer ſince, I ſaid it again and again that I would not deny him, and yet I denied him; yea yea, I fail'd, Although others deny thee, yet will not I; and yet worſe than all others, I denied him with a witneſs, for I affirmed deſperately that I knew not the man; nay, I ſware deſperately that I knew not the man; nay more than ſo, I ſware, and I curſed too, If I knew the man, let God's curſe fall upon me; and all this I did within a few ſtrides of my Lord; at that very time when I ſhould have ſtood for my Lord, in that all the World forſook him; why, theſe were the circumſtances of Peter's ſin, and meditating on them, He went out and wept bitterly. And thus we ſhould aggravate our ſins in our confeſſions; O my ſins were out of meaſure ſinful. O they were ſins againſt knowledge, and light, againſt many mercies received, againſt many judgments threatned, againſt many checks of conſcience, againſt many vows and promiſes; thus oft, and in this place, and at that time, and in that manner, I committed theſe and theſe ſins; but of all the aggravations, let us be ſure to remember how we ſinned againſt the goodneſs, and patience, and love, and mercy of God; ſurely theſe circumſtances will make our ſins out of meaſure ſinful. The Angel that reproved the Children of Iſrael at Bochim, after the repetition of his mercies towards them, and of their ſins againſt him, he queſtions them in theſe words, Oh why have ye done this? q. d. Judges 2. 2. The Lord hath done thus and thus mercifully unto you, oh why have ye done thus unthankfully towards him? why was his mercy abuſed, his goodneſs ſlighted, his patience deſpiſed? do ye thus requite the Lord, O fooliſh People and unwiſe? in like manner ſhould we confeſs and aggravate our ſins, O my God, thou art my Father; was I ever in want, and thou didſt not relieve me? was I ever in weakneſs, and thou didſt not ſtrengthen me? was I ever in ſtraits, and thou didſt not deliver me? was I ever in ſickneſs, and thou didſt not cure me? was I ever in miſery, and thou didſt not ſuccour me? haſt thou not been a gracious God to me? all my bones can ſay, who is like unto thee; Lord, who is like unto thee? and ſhall I thus and thus reward the Lord for all his mercies towards me? hear, O Heavens, and hearken O Earth; Sun ſtand thou ſtill, and thou Moon be thou amazed at this! hear Angels, and hear Devils; hear Heaven, and hear Hell, and be you avenged on ſuch a ſin as this is! O the ſinfulneſs of my ſin in regard of theſe many circumſtances.

3. We muſt condemn our ſelves, or paſs ſentence againſt our own ſouls; Lord, the worſt place in Hell is too good for me; Lord here is my ſoul, thou mayeſt if thou pleaſeſt ſend Satan for it, and give me a portion among the damned. This ſelf judging, or ſelf condemning is exemplified to this life in Ezra; for ———

1. He fell on his Knees, he did not bow down his Ezra 9. 5. knees, but like a man aſtoniſhed he fell on his knees; he had before rent his garment, and mantle, and pluckt off the hair of his head and off his beard, and ſate down aſtoniſhed; and now at the evening Sacrifice he falls on his Knees, and on the ground in great amazement.

Verſe 5. 2. He ſpread out his hands unto the Lord; q. d. here is my breaſt, and here is my heart-blood, I ſpread my Arms, and lay all open, that thou mayeſt ſet the naked point of thy Sword of juſtice at my very heart.

3. He is dumb, and ſpeechleſs (as it were) Verſe 10. before the Lord; And now our God, what ſhall we ſay after all this? for we have forſaken thy Commandments; q. d. ſhall I excuſe the matter? alas! it is inexcuſable? what ſhall we ſay after all this? ſhall we call for thy patience? we have had it, but how did we abuſe it? ſhould we call for mercy? indeed we had it, but our ſtubborn hearts would never come down: O our God what ſhall we ſay? I know not what to ſay, for we have ſinned againſt thee.

4. He lays down his Soul, and all the Peoples Souls at God's feet, q. d. here we are, thou mayeſt damn us if thou wilt, Behold we are all here before Verſe 15. thee in our treſpaſſes, for we cannot ſtand before thee, becauſe of this. Behold here we are, Rebels we are; here are our heads and throats before the naked point of thy vengeance, if now thou ſhouldeſt take us from our knees, and throw us into Hell, if we muſt go from our prayers to damnation, we cannot but ſay that thou art juſt, and righteous; Oh its mercy, its mercy indeed that we have been ſpared, its juſt and righteous with God that we ſhould be damned.

In this more eſpecially lies ſelf-condemnation; it makes a man to trample upon his own ſelf, it makes a man freely to accept of damnation; They ſhall accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity, and then Levit. 26. 41, 42. will I remember my covenant with Jacob: They ſave God (as it were) a labour, judging themſelves, that they may not be judged.

4. We muſt plead pardon, and cry mightily to God in Chriſt, for the remiſſion of all our ſins. This is the way of judging our ſelves, we ſee nothing but Hell and damnation in our ſelves, but then we fling down our ſelves at God's Gate of mercy; we deſpair not in God, though in our ſelves; God in Chriſt is gracious and merciful, forgiving iniquity, tranſgreſſion, and ſin; and hence we make bold to intreat the Lord for Chriſt's ſake to be merciful to us; ſurely herein lies the difference betwixt nature and grace; the natural man may ſee his ſins, and confeſs his ſins, and judge himſelf for his ſins; thus Saul did, and thus Judas did, but then they deſpaired in God, and were damned indeed; now the gracious man hath a conſcience within, that repreſents to him his damned eſtate, but withal, it repreſents to him the free grace of God in Jeſus Chriſt, and ſo he only deſpairs in himſelf, and not in his God; now thus far good: come Chriſtians! do we deſpair in our ſelves? do we fling off all our hopes, and our own dependencies, hangings, holdings on duties, purpoſes, graces, performances? and do we go to God in Chriſt, and tell him, We hang upon nothing but the meer mercy, the free Grace of God in Chriſt; and therefore Lord pardon, Lord forgive for thy Names ſake, promiſe ſake, mercies ſake, and for the Lord Jeſus ſake: O let free grace have his work; Lord, glorifie thy Name, and glorifie the riches of thy grace in ſaving us: Why, this is the beſt hold in the World, though the World cannot abide it; ſurely if we thus judge our ſelves, we ſhould not be judged.

4. Chriſt at his coming will be glorified in his Saints; not only in himſelf, but in his Saints alſo; whoſe glory as it comes from him, ſo it will redound to him: O let him now be glorified in us, let us now in ſome high way conform to the image of his glory, let us look on Chriſt till we are like Chriſt, not only in grace, but in glory; and this glory as it comes from him, ſo let it redound to him. I will not ſay, that the Kingdom of Heaven and Glory is in this life, I leave this opinion to the Dreamers of this time, I mean to the Familiſts, Quakers, and ſuch like; but this I ſay, that even in this life the Saints of God enjoy a begun and imperfect conformity to Chriſt's glory; and this is that I would now preſs upon us; let us ſo behold the glory of the Lord in the glaſs of the Goſpel, as that we may be 2. Cor. 3. 18. changed into the ſame image from glory to glory; from a leſſer meaſure to an higher meaſure of glory. The day is a coming that Chriſt will be glorified in himſelf, and he will be glorified in his Saints, O the glories then that will be accumulated and heaped upon Jeſus Chriſt! come now, let us behold this glory of Chriſt till we are changed in ſome high meaſure into the ſame glory with Chriſt; Chriſt's glory rightly viewed is a changing glory: And herein the views of Chriſt ſurpaſs all creature-views, if we behold the Sun, we cannot poſſibly be changed into another Sun, but if with the Eye of Knowledge and Faith we behold Jeſus Chriſt, we ſhall be changed into the glorious image of Jeſus Chriſt; if the Sun of righteouſneſs caſt forth his golden beams upon us, Cant. 6. 10. and we enjoy this light; why then, Who is ſhe that looketh forth as the morning (as Aurora, the firſt birth of the day) fair as the Moon, clear as the Sun.

I know this glorious change is but a growing change by degrees, from glory to glory; and yet who can deny but there is ſome conformity to Chriſt's glory, even in this life? do not theſe very Texts ſpeak the ſelf ſame thing? John 15. 11. Theſe things have I ſpoken to you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full. 1 John 1. 4. And theſe things write we unto you, that your joy may be full. John 16. 24. And ask, and ye ſhall receive, that your joy may be full. Iſa. 66. 10. 11. And rejoyce with Jeruſalem, and be glad with her all ye that love her,—— that ye may ſuck and be ſatisfied with the breaſts of her conſolations, that ye may milk out, and be delighted with the abundance of her glory. Rom. 5. 13. And the God of all hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing. Surely all joy and peace, are Synechdochically put for all other inchoations of glorification. But how is a Saint in this life filled with all joy? I anſwer, 1. In regard of the Object, God and Chriſt. 2. In regard of the degrees; though not abſolutely, yet ſo far forth, as the meaſure of joy in this life attainable; I might inſtance in the joy of Mr. Peacock, Mrs. Brettergh, and of Phil. 4.4. ſome Martyrs who ſung in the Fires. 3. In regard of duration, rejoyce always, not only in the calm of peace, but in the ſtorm of violent oppoſition. A Saint may have his troubles, but theſe troubles can never totally or finally extinguiſh his joy, John 16. 22. your joy no man taketh from you. He rejoyceth always.

O that ſomething of the glory of Chriſt might reſt upon us! oh that having this glory of Chriſt in our thoughts, we could now feel a change from glory to glory! Is it ſo that the Lord Jeſus will be glorified in all his Saints? and ſhall we have inglorious Souls; baſe and unworthy affections and converſations? or ſhall we content our ſelves with a little meaſure of Grace? O be we holy, even as he is holy; let our converſations be heavenly, let us purifie our ſelves even as he is pure; let us reſemble him in ſome high meaſure of grace. And laſtly, let us glorifie him in bodies and Spirits; all our glory is from him; and therefore let all our glory redound to him; let us now begin that Goſpel-tune of the eternal Song of free grace, which one day we ſhall more perfectly chant in glory; Allelujah! and again Allelujah! and Amen Allelujah! ſalvation, and glory, and power, and praiſe, and thankſgiving, and obedience, be unto him that ſits on the Throne, the Lamb bleſſed for ever and ever, Amen.

The Concluſion.

And now (my brethren) I have done the Errand which Chriſt ſent me on, I verily believe, I have now delivered this work of the everlaſting Goſpel, or of Chriſt's carrying on the great work of Man's ſalvation, hath been ſomewhat long in ſpeaking, but oh how long in acting! may I give you a ſhort view of what I have ſaid; and of what hath been acted from eternity, and will yet be acted to eternity; you may remember, that God in his eternity laid a Plot or Deſign to glorifie the riches of his Grace in ſaving Sinners; and to that purpoſe firſt he decreed a Chriſt. 2. Preſently after the fall, he promiſed the Chriſt he had decreed. 3. In fulneſs of time he exhibited the Chriſt that he had promiſed; then it was that the ſame Chriſt took upon him our nature, and joyned it to his God-head to be one Perſon; and in that perſon he was born, and lived, and died, and roſe again, and aſcended into Heaven; there now he hath been ſitting, ſending down the Holy Ghoſt, and interceding for his Saints for above one thouſand ſix hundred years: And in this laſt work he will continue till the end of the World, and then he will come again to judge the World, and to receive his Saints to himſelf, that where he is, they may be with him, to ſee and enjoy him to all eternity. This is the Epitome of all I have ſaid; only in every particular I have ſet down Chriſt's actings towards us, and our actings towards Chriſt; in various forms, and out-goings of his love he hath acted towards us; and in various forms, and out-goings of our Souls we have been taught fitly and ſuitably to act towards him.

Now in all theſe actings, how doth the free-grace of God in Chriſt appear? Eph. 2.5. Ye are ſaved by grace, ſaith the Apoſtle, Epheſ. 2. 5. the decrees, the means, the end of our ſalvation is grace, and only grace. The decree is grace, and therefore it is called the election of grace; the means are of grace, and therefore Rom. 1. 5. we are called according to his grace; and Tim. 1. we are juſtified freely by his grace. And the end is of Grace, 1. 3. for eternal life is the gift of God, 6. both beginning, and progreſs, and execution is all of Grace. This is the riches of his grace, the exceeding, the hyperbolical riches of his grace; 7. 7. the concluſion of all is this, God's free grace which was firſt deſigned, will at laſt be manifeſted, and eternally praiſed by Saints and Angels; the ſame free grace which from the beginning of the age of God, from everlaſting drove on the ſaving Plot and ſweet deſign of our Salvation, will at laſt be glorified to purpoſe; when Heavens Inhabitants wi be ever digging into this Golden Mine; ever rolling this Soul-delighting and precious ſtone; ever beholding, viewing, enquiring and ſearching into the excellency of this ſame Chriſt, and this free Grace. Now all is done, ſhall I ſpeak a word for Chriſt, or rather for our ſelves in relation to Chriſt; and ſo an end? if I had but one word more to ſpeak in the World, it ſhould be this; Oh let all our Spirits be taken up with Chriſt! let us not buſie our ſelves too much with toys, or trifles, with ordinary and low things, but look unto Jeſus. Surely Chriſt is enough to fill all our Thoughts, Deſires, Hopes, Loves, Joys, or whatever is within us, or without us; Chriſt alone comprehends all the circumference of all our happineſs: Chriſt is the Pearl hid in the large Field of God's Word: Chriſt is the ſcope of all the Scriptures; all things and perſons in the old World were Types of him; all the Prophets foretold him, all God's love runs through him, all the gifts and the graces of the Spirit flow from him, the whole eye of God is upon him, and all his Deſigns both in Heaven and Earth meet in him; Eph. 1. 10. the great Deſign of God is this, That he might gather together in one all things in Chriſt, both which are in Heaven, and which are on Earth, even in him. All things are ſummed up in one Jeſus Chriſt; if we look on the Creation, the whole World was made by Chriſt, if we look on Providences, all things ſubſiſt in Chriſt, they have their being, and their well-being in him. Where may we find God but in Chriſt? where may we ſee God but in this eſſential and eternal glaſs? Chriſt is the face of God, the brightneſs of his glory, the expreſs image 2 Cor 4.6 of his Father's perſon; the Father is as it were all Sun, Heb. 1. 3. and all Pearl; and Jeſus Chriſt is the ſubſtantial rays, the eternal and eſſential irradiation of this Sun of glory: Chriſt outs God as the ſeal doth the ſtamp; Chriſt reveals God, as the face of a man doth reveal the man; ſo Chriſt to Philip, He that hath ſeen me, John. 14. 9. hath ſeen the Father; q. d. I am as like the Father, as God is like himſelf; there is a perfect indiviſible unity between the Father and me, I and the Father are one; one very God, he the begetter, and I the begotten: Chriſt is the ſubſtantial Roſe that grew out of the Father from eternity; Chriſt is the eſſential wiſdom of God; Chriſt is the ſubſtantial word of God, the intellectual birth of the Lord's infinite underſtanding. Oh the worth of Chriſt! compare we other things with Chriſt, and they will bear no weight at all; caſt into the ballance with him Angels, they are wiſe, but he is wiſdom; caſt into the ballance with him Men, they are liars, lighter than vanity, but Chriſt is the Amen, the faithful witneſs; caſt into the ſcales Kings, and all Kings, and all their glory, why he is King of Kings; caſt into the ſcale millions of talents-weight of glory; caſt in two Worlds, and add to the weight, millions of Heavens of Heavens, and the ballance cannot down, the ſcales are unequal, Chriſt out-weighs all. Shall I yet come nearer home? what is Heaven but to be with Chriſt; what is life eternal but to believe in God, and in his Son Jeſus Chriſt? where may we find peace with God, and reconciliation with God, 2 Cor. 5. 19. but only in Chriſt; God was in Chriſt reconciling the World unto himſelf? where may we find compaſſion, mercy, and gentleneſs to ſinners, but only in Chriſt? it is Chriſt that takes off infinite wrath, and ſatisfies juſtice, and ſo God is a moſt lovely compaſſionate, deſirable God in Jeſus; all the goodneſs of God comes out of God through this golden pipe the Lord Jeſus Chriſt: It is true, thoſe eſſential attributes of love, grace, mercy, and goodneſs, are only in God, and they abide in God, yet the mediatory manifeſtation of love, grace, mercy, and goodneſs, is only in Chriſt; Chriſt alone is the Treaſury, Store-houſe, Magazine of the free goodneſs and mercy of the God-head. In him we are Elected, Adopted, Redeemed, Juſtified, Sanctified, Saved; he is the ladder, and every ſtep of it betwixt Heaven and Earth; he is the way, the truth, and the life; he is honour, riches, beauty, health, peace, and ſalvation; he is a ſuitable and rich portion to every man's ſoul; that which ſome of the Jews obſerve of the Mannah, that it was in taſte according to every man's pallate, it is really true of Chriſt, that he is to the Soul whatſoever the Soul would have him to be. All the ſpiritual bleſſings wherewith we are enriched, are in and by Chriſt: God hears our prayers by Chriſt; God forgives our iniquities through Chriſt; all we have, and all we expect to have, hangs only on Chriſt; he is the golden hinge, upon which all our ſalvation turns.

Oh how ſhould all hearts be taken with this Chriſt? Chriſtians, turn your eyes upon the Lord; Look, and look again unto Jeſus: Why ſtand ye gazing on the toys of this World, when ſuch a Chriſt is offered to you in the Goſpel? can the World die for you? can the World reconcile you to the Father? can the World advance you to the Kingdom of Heaven? As Chriſt is all in all, ſo let him be the full and compleat ſubject of our deſire, and hope, and faith, and love, and joy; let him be in your thoughts the firſt in the morning, and the laſt at night. Shall I ſpeak one word more to thee that believeſt? Oh apply in particular all the tranſactions of Jeſus Chriſt to thy very ſelf; remember how he came out of his Father's boſom for thee, wept for thee, bled for thee, poured out his life for thee, is now riſen for thee, gone to Heaven for thee, ſits at God's right hand, and rules all the World for thee; makes interceſſion for thee, and at the end of the World will come again for thee, and receive thee to himſelf, to live with him for ever and ever. Surely if thus thou believeſt, and liveſt, thy life is comfortable, and thy death will be ſweet; if there be any Heaven upon Earth, thou wilt find it in the practice, and exerciſe of this Goſpel-duty, in Looking unto Jeſus.

JESU.

JE*SU* is in my Heart, his Sacred Name
Is deeply Carved there; but th' other Week,
A great Affliction broke the little Frame,
Ev'n all to pieces; which I went to ſeek:
And firſt I found the Corner, where was J,
After, where E S, and next where U was graved.
When I had got theſe parcels, inſtantly
I ſate me down to Spell them, and perceived,
That to my broken Heart he was I eaſe you, and to my whole is J E S U.

Right Honourable,

2 Tim. 1. 6. I Have known you from your Childhood: And when I call to remembrance the unfeigned Faith, which dwelt firſt in your Grandmother Lois, and your Mother Eunice (if I may ſo call her of Pious memory) and I am perſuaded in you alſo ab incunabilis, I cannot but comfortably hope, that the ſame Seed of God ſown in your heart by the Spirit ſo early, doth ſtill remain, and abide in you to this very day: Many changes have you ſeen, and run through, in theſe few days of the years of your Pilgrimage, and yet I hear the ſame Faith, and Love, and Spirit of moderation continue with you as at the firſt, and increaſe in you daily like the Rivers drawing nearer to the Ocean. My heart rejoyceth in this good report, and I know not what more to beg of God for you, as truly neceſſary in this World, than that you may abound in theſe Graces of Faith in Chriſt, love to the Saints, and moderation towards all men. In acting the firſt Grace you look Heaven-wards; in the ſecond on thoſe that are heavenly, in the third on the divided intereſts of them, who ſhould ſtudy and practiſe mutual forbearance, and condeſcenſion towards each other. Oh that in this laſt we had many more imitators of his Majeſty that now is, or of you that walk in the ſteps of ſo gracious a Sovereign! It is obſerved that in the Primitive times, while the true Church was ſtill known by its Faith and Love, and moderation, and ſweetneſs of deportment towards all its members; that on the contrary the Arians and Donatiſts, *and ſuch like, were ſtill dividing, and ſeparating, and rigorouſly impoſing on others unneceſſary things. If I may ſpeak without offence to any, were it not happy with us, if all that agree in the Subſtantials and Eſſentials of Religion, would make it their main work to preſs Faith and Holineſs, and allow a liberty to each other in indifferent things? Were all as ſenſible of the advantage we give to the common Enemy, (I mean the Papiſts) as I am, that live and reſide amongſt them, I ſuppoſe we ſhould be more willing to unite our ſelves, and to bear the burthens of one another in love. Your Honour's
Humble, faithful Servant in Chriſt

Iſaac Ambroſe:

To the Chriſtian

READER.

Amongſt the means, duties, ordinances, which once I diſcover in their right method, manner, and proceedings, I obſerve three Ordinances made little uſe of, though moſt neceſſary. The firſt is War with Devils held forth in Epheſ. 6. 12. the ſecond is Miniſtration of, and Communion with Angels held forth in Heb. 1. 14. the third is Looking unto Jeſus, held forth in Heb. 12. 2. Theſe three have ſome ſuitableneſs among themſelves, and accordingly I have obſerved ſome ſuitableneſs in this Work: In themſelves it is ſuitable that War with Devils ſhould have encouragement from holy Angels, and yet that we ſhould not ſtay there, or dwell on them, but look a little further, and reſt on nothing on this ſide Jeſus Chriſt. In the work, I have firſt enlarged by way of Preface on each Duty; I ſee they are Ordinances little practiſed, or made uſe of, and therefore I thought a confirmation of each Duty, and a perſwaſion to it, as well as direction in it, was not altogether labour in vain: In the direction it ſelf, I have followed each one from firſt to laſt; War with Devils begings with the beginning of our life, and continues to death: Miniſtration of, and Communion with Angels begins at our beginning, and continues till the ending of this World, or Reſurrection day: Looking unto Jeſus begins with Eternity, and continues to Eternity; it minds what was before the World was; and minds what ſhall be, when time ſhall be no more. Now in that I have obſerved ſuch a correſpendency in all theſe Ordinances. I thought it not amiſs to joyn all theſe together; and though for the largeneſs they contain two Volums, yet to compriſe them in one Work. Thou haſt now my laſt works of practical Divinity that ever I mean to publiſh to the world; and if laſt words are wont to bear the greateſt weight, and to make the deepeſt impreſſion, much more let theſe laſt Practical lines, find ſome entertainment from thee, and acceptance of thee, for thy Spiritual good. This (next to God's glory) is my chiefeſt aim: and ſo I leave thee, and the Book together in God's hands: may his ſpirit inſpire good motions, whilſt thou readeſt my directions, and bring them to good iſſue: It is the Prayer of

Thy unworthy Friend, and

Servant in Chriſt's Vineyard,

WAR with DEVILS.

The Firſt Book.

EPHES. VI. 12.

We wreſtle not againſt Fleſh and Blood, but againſt Principalities, againſt Powers, againſt the Rulers of the Darkneſs of this World, againſt Spiritual Wickedneſſes in Heavenlies.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

The Coherence, and Diviſion of the Words.

AMongſt other Exhortations, our Apoſtle
Ver. 10. gives in this, Be ſtrong in the Lord, and in the Power of his Might: And to this end he propounds, 1. The Means, put
Ver. 11. on the whole Armour of God: And, 2. The Motives, drawn from a Chriſtian Fight and Combat;
Ver. 12. wherein is, 1. The kind of Combat; called Wreſtling, we Wreſtle: 2. The Combatans themſelves; to wit, Chriſtians and Devils; we are the Defendants, and they are the Aſſailants: They, who are they? 1. Nagatively, or Comparatively, not fleſh and Blood: 2. Affirmatively, or Poſitively, Principalities, Powers, Rulers of the darkneſs of this World, and ſpiritual Wickedneſſes in (or about) Heavenlies.

Sect. 2. Of the ſeveral Doctrines deduced from the Words.

FRom every part we may deduce a ſeveral Doctrine; as, 1. Our ſpiritual Combat is a wreſtling. 2. All God's People are to be in the Fight. 3. Our Enemies are more than Fleſh and Blood. 4. They are mighty and malicious Enemies that war againſt us, even Principalities, Powers, Rulers, and ſpiritual Wickedneſſes. My deſign is to inſiſt on the firſt; Only we ſhall begin with the three latter, and briefly ſay ſomething of every one of them.

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

Of the firſt Doctrine to be handled.

ALL God's People are to be in the Fight, We] wreſtle. This we, is either Excluſive or Incluſive. 1. Excluſive, not the Wicked. 2. Incluſive, but we that are Saints and the People of God.

1. Not the wicked, they ſerve not in this War; inſtead of fighting the Lord's Battels, they ſpend their time in Chambering and Wantonneſs, in Luſts and Uncleanneſs, in Careleſneſs and Idleneſs: they ſleep in ſecurity, they make no reſiſtance, for they are altogether ignorant of Satan's aſſaults. Oh that mens eyes were opened! Oh that ſuch men would know they are none of the We in this Text! They are not the Lord's Soldiers, but the Devil's Revellers; and therefore they fight not againſt
Iſa. 28.15. him, nor will he fight againſt them: for they have made a Covenant with Death, and with Hell are they at agreement.

2. All the Saints muſt be in this fight, We] wreſtle. I Paul, and you Epheſians, and all God's 2Tim.4.7. People, from firſt to laſt. Firſt for Paul himſelf;
2 Cor. 10. 3, 4. I have fought a good fight; and then for Paul and others jointly; for though we walk in the fleſh, we do not war after the fleſh, for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of ſtrong holds. Or, if we may bring in the example of God's Saints in all ages; Adam had his Combate; Job his Temptations; Moſes, and Aaron, and Lot, and David, and all the Patriarchs, and all the Prophets had their ſeveral onſets: nor was it thus only before Chriſt's time, but ſince his coming, Peter was winnowed;
Heb.10.32. Paul was buffeted; the Hebrews indured
1 Tim. 6. 11, 12. a great fight of affliction; and Timothy was incouraged by Paul, Thou O man of God, fly theſe things, and follow after Righteouſneſs, Godlineſs, Faith, Love, Patience, Meekneſs, fighting the good fight of Faith; but to what purpoſe ſhould I inſtance? never was there any Member of Chriſt's Church, who was not exerciſed with this Chriſtian warfare: not Adam in innocency; not the Apoſtles of Chriſt; no, nor Chriſt himſelf, when he Matt. 4. 1. was upon Earth; Then was Jeſus led up of the Spirit into the Wilderneſs to be tempted of the Devil.

SECT. II. Uſes.

Uſe. 1. ARE all God's people to war with Devils? Then conſider all of you what what Religion will coſt you: You that are ſtrangers, know, that 2Tim.2.3. a Chriſtian Soldier muſt endure hardneſs; Thou therefore endure hardneſs as a good Soldier of Jeſus Chriſt. Saints muſt be winnowed and buffeted, and tryed, and tempted; ſharp war, ſudden violences, dreadful dangers, are the portion of God's Act.14.22. people; They muſt through much tribulation enter into the Kingdom of God: They muſt proceed from one affliction to another, and out of one temptation into another: was it not Paul's caſe? how was 2 Cor. 11. 23, 26, 27. he in labours more abundant, in ſtripes above meaſure, in priſons more frequent, in death oft, in perils of Waters, in perils of Robbers, in perils by Countrymen, in perils by Heathen, in perils in the City, in perils in the Wilderneſs, in perils in the Sea, in perils amongſt falſe Brethren; in wearineſs and painfulneſs, in watchings often, in hunger and thirſt, in faſtings often, in cold and nakedneſs? Certainly Chriſtianity is not ſo eaſie as many take it to be. I ſpeak not theſe things to diſmay any, but to awaken all, and to adviſe all to caſt up their accounts, and to be reſolved men.

Uſe 2. 2. Are we to fight with Devils? then courage Chriſtians! you that are of the right ſtamp, of the number of this We: O be not you dejected becauſe of the Enemy, but be you of good heart! what are ye afraid of Satan's Fiery Darts? know they are but as the waves toſſing the Ark, yet ſaving Noah: or as the Whale ſwallowing up, yet preſerving Jonah: or as the Dragon purſuing the Woman, yet procuring her greater preſervation: or as the File grating the Iron, yet making it cleaner and brighter than before: or as the Mill grinding the Wheat, yet making it uſeful: or as the Coals heating Perfume, yet making it thereby more odoriferous. You ſay this War is troubleſome; this indeed is Jacob's voice, for never an Eſau complained thus: but do not you feel your ſpirits ſharpned, your pride depreſſed, your fleſh cooled, your old man deſtroyed, your new man renewed day by day? tell me, are not you provoked to more earneſt and ardent Prayers by this War? do not you accuſtom your ſelves to more patience, as now experiencing the fragility and frowardneſs of your Natures? Are not Satan's temptations as thorns in your ways, to keep you from ſtraying and running wrong? O then be not you afraid: Come, enter into the Liſts, and fight valiantly: it is an honeſt War: Chriſt invites you to it, and he will lead you, and never leave you in it, what needs more? Be ſtrong, and of a good Courage.

CHAP. III.

Of the ſecond Doctrine and Uſes.

OUR Enemies are more than fleſh and blood: We wreſtle, but with whom? 1. Negatively, not with fleſh and blood: or rather Comparatively, not only, or not ſo much with fleſh and blood. By fleſh and blood, is either meant man, as having a bodily ſubſtance conſiſting of fleſh and blood: or our boſom-corruptions, ſo often called Gal. 5.17. in Scripture fleſh; the fleſh luſteth againſt the ſpirit; Matth. 16. 17. and ſometimes fleſh and blood; as fleſh and blood hath not revealed this: and fleſh and blood cannot 1 Cor. 15. 20. inherit the Kingdom of God.

1. If by fleſh and blood be meant the former, it hints to us our weak and infirm Natures: q. d. our Adverſaries are not ſuch as we are, they are not poor, weak, inconſiderable Enemies: when the Lord ſpeaks our frail condition, he gives it the Gen. 6. 3. like expreſſion, my ſpirit ſhall not always ſtrive with man, for that he alſo is fleſh; and the Iſa. 31. 3. Prophet Iſaiah hath the ſame expreſſion concerning the Egyptians, Now the Egyptians are men, and not God; and their Horſes fleſh, and not ſpirit. In this ſenſe the Apoſtle removes the uſual Militia, or more tolerable Conflicts, q. d. We wreſtle not ſo much with man, as with Devils; we wreſtle not only, or chiefly with fleſh and blood, weak, frail, fooliſh, viſible, or mortal creatures; alas! what are they? the Enemies that we fight with, are more than fleſh and blood, more envious, malicious, furious, dangerous, numerous, more ſubtil, powerful, every way fearful: and therefore in compariſon we wreſtle not with fleſh and blood: we matter not man, we mean no ſuch Combatants.

Uſe. Here then I muſt leave our martial men, whoſe war is with fleſh and blood, and 'tis well if it be not only with fleſh and blood, and nothing elſe. The Jam. 4. 1. Apoſtle's queſtion needs but application, From whence come wars, and fightings among you? Come they not hence, even of your luſts, that war in your members? q. d. you have wars and fightings among your ſelves; if they were only with foreign Enemies, they were more tolerable; civil Wars are ever worſt, and whence are theſe? are they not of a baſe original and deſcent, of the lineage of luſt. O the covetouſneſs, pride and ambition that is amongſt you! O the loathing, rejection and diſobedience of the Goſpel of Chriſt: O the dear and high eſteem, advancement, and vile embracement of the intereſt of this preſent world! do not worldly private intereſts bear the ſway? and what are theſe but luſts? and what are the effects of luſts, but wars and fightings amongſt your ſelves? In way of application; Oh that I could not truly ſay, we wreſtle not againſt fleſh and blood, but againſt Devils: Or oh that I could not truly ſay, we wreſtle not againſt Devils, but only againſt fleſh and blood: But my deſign is not to intermeddle with outward wars, it is a more inward and ſpiritual work I have in hand.

2. If by fleſh and blood be meant the latter, viz. our boſom corruptions, it hints to us our ſtrong Enemies, ſtrong indeed, q. d. We have Enemies within us; do we not feel how the fleſh luſteth againſt the ſpirit? and are not theſe Enemies, as the Sons of Serviah, too hard for us? but that is not all, for Satan who is yet ſtronger, ſtrikes in with the fleſh, and by this means we wreſtle not only with fleſh and blood, naked Corruptions, but with Satan in them; our fleſh is ſtrong, but when it is edged with Satan's policy, and backt by Satan's power, oh how ſtrong is it then?

This Enemy within us the Holy Ghoſt deciphers by many names; it is called the old man; the old Adam; the earthly, carnal, natural man; the ſin which is inherent, and dwelleth in us: the adjoyning evil: the Law of the members: the luſts of the fleſh which fight againſt the Soul. By all which is ſignified our corruption of nature, derived from our firſt Parents, whereby we are made backward to all good, and prone to all evil. Every man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own concupiſcence, Jam. 1. 14, 15. and is enticed; and then when luſt hath conceived, it bringeth forth ſin, and ſin when it is finiſhed, it bringeth forth Death: The Apoſtle here intimates, that as Satan is the Father, ſo fleſh is the Mother of ſin, which receiving Satan's temptations into a fruitful Womb, it doth conceive, nouriſh, and bring forth ſin; and when ſin is born, like a deadly ſtinging Serpent, it brings forth death both to Body and Soul, unleſs the poyſon thereof be took away by the precious Blood of Jeſus Chriſt.

And what, my Brethren? are our Enemies more Uſe. than fleſh and Blood? Oh, the ſad condition of men that provide not for this War! Chriſtians! how doth it concern you to ſtand upon your guard, and to be in uſe of all means againſt fleſh and blood? If a City were beſieged with forreign Forces, and they within knew that they harboured home-bred Traytors, would they not lay hands on them, and put them to death? My Brethren, your Souls are as Cities, beſieged with all the power and policies of Devils, and you have within you home-bred Enemies, even your own fleſh and Blood, and theſe ſeek all occaſions to betray your Souls into the Devil's hands; is it not time then to mortifie the fleſh, and luſts thereof? Is it not time then to implore the aid and aſſiſtance of God's Spirit, whereby you may be ſtrengthened and enabled to ſlay thoſe Luſts, which war againſt the Soul: theſe are in ſome reſpects more dangerous and pernicious than Devils themſelves; they are within your boſoms, and like ſecret Traytors, they open the City-Gates, yea, they diſarm you of your weapons, and lay you naked to Satan's invaſions and temptations: Probable it is, that Satan could never vanquiſh you, unleſs the fleſh and the luſt thereof did betray you into his hands: probably his policy could never circumvent you, unleſs theſe ſecret Traytors did give him continual intelligence of all advantages. Sure I am, the Devil is but an outward cauſe of Sin, he cannot compel or force you to ſin, but your luſts help on; Oh, then how ſhould you watch over your boſom-corruptions, and be in uſe of all means for the mortifying of this fleſh and blood.

CHAP.

CHAP. IV. SECT. I.

Of the third Doctrine.

THey are mighty and malicious Enemies that War againſt us, even Principalities, Powers, Rulers of the darkneſs of this World, and ſpiritual wickedneſſes in Heavenlies. Thus are they poſitively deſcribed. I ſhall a little ſearch into the words, that we may underſtand, what puiſſant Enemies we have againſt us.

1. Principalities, they are not only Princes, but Principalities, in the abſtract; it ſets forth the eminency of their Government, above all the Princes in the World: other Princes rule in ſome parts, but Satan rules over all the Earth: Hence ſome-Joh.14.30. times he is called the Prince of this World, and 2Cor.4.4. ſometimes the God of this World; he could tell Je-Luk.4.6,7. ſus Chriſt, that all the Kingdoms of the World, and the glory of them were delived unto him, and to whomſoever he would he gave them. I do not ſay that the Devil ſpake truth to Chriſt; for the World was not his either in poſſeſſion or diſpoſition; Pſal.24.1. for poſſeſſion, the earth is the Lords, and all that therein is, the World, and all that dwell therein; and for diſpoſition, it is God's Prerogative, and Pro.18.15 Peculiar, By me Kings reign. All Powers that Rom.13.1 are, are ordained of God. He maketh low and he maketh high, it is the Moſt high that beareth Dan.4.12. rule over the Kingdoms of Men: Yet this we grant, that Satan is truly called the Prince of the World, as it is corrupted; when the World departed from God to his Adverſary, God in Juſtice gave Satan leave to prevail and rule in the Sons of Diſobedience; and thus Devils are Princes, or in the abſtract Principalities over all the Earth.

2. Powers. They are not only powerful, but Powers in the abſtract, (i. e.) they are cloathed and filled with a mighty Power: Were Devils Princes only in their Style, and had no power, the Title could not carry it: we little eſteem of Sound, Syllables, and Words: have we not ſeen what the Sword can do without a Title, and how empty the Title is without the Sword? Well, but Devils have both; as they are Principalities, ſo they Eph. 2. 2. are Powers; they are Princes of the Power. What this Power is, is paſt my telling, only if we look in the World, we may find it wonderful in ſeveral parts of it. As ——

1. For the Elementary part of the World, what Element is it, that he hath not power over? 1. Fire is the Element prepared for him; and he can (if let looſe) ſend it down contrary to its nature from Heaven to earth: thus one of the Meſſengers told Job 1. 16. Job, The Fire of God is fallen from Heaven, and hath burnt up the Sheep and the Servants, and conſumed them, and I only am eſcaped alone to tell thee: it is called the Fire of God, though cauſed by Satan: it was not God but Satan, that was the immediate kindler of it; and yet called the Fire of God, becauſe of the ſtrangeneſs of the Fire: it was a wonderful, great, and extraordinary Fire; ſome think it was a flaſh of Lightning, and it is more probable, becauſe it is ſaid to fall down from Caryl on Job. 1. 16. Heaven. Satan can do mighty things, command much in that Magazine of Heaven, where the dreadful Artillery, thoſe fiery meteors, which make men tremble, are lodged and ſtored up. For inſtance, he can diſcharge the great Ordnance of Heaven, Thunder and Lightning; and by his Art he can make them more terrible and dreadful than they are in nature. 2. The Air is his own Element, wherein now he reigneth; he is Prince of the Epheſ.2.2. power of the air (i. e.) of the airy Dominion or Princedom. The Jews have a Tradition, that all the ſpace between the Earth and the Firmament is full of Troops of evil Spirits, their Chieftains having their reſidence in the Air. Auguſtin and Hierome tell us, that this was the opinion of all the *Aug.de Civit.Dei.*l.8 c. 22. Hier in Eph. 6. Primitive Doctors: Now if there they are as Princes, and have Power, no wonder if they can violently move the Air, and cauſe Tempeſts and Storms: Thus another Meſſenger told Job, There Job 1. 19. came a great wind from the Wilderneſs, and ſmote the four corners of the Houſe, and it fell upon the Young men, and they are dead. Satan being left to his own diſpoſe, can raiſe and enrage Storms and Tempeſts. I believe (ſaith one) Satan connot raiſe Caryl on Job 1. 19. ſo much wind by his own Power, and at his own Pleaſure, as will wave a feather; but when God ſaith Go, and do ſuch things, then he can raiſe wind enough to move Mountains, and raiſe the Foundations of the proudeſt and ſtrongeſt Buildings. Thus Job's Children were buried in the ruins of their Houſe, by a Puff (as one calls it) of the Devils mouth. 3. The Water is an Element commanded by him; he can trouble the Seas, and cauſe ſuch Waves and Billows to ariſe, as ſhall ſwallow up Ships and Men: he can make ſuch Surges as ſhall ſwell over Banks: It is Mr. Gurnal's expreſſi- Gurnal's Chriſtian Armour. on, He can hurl the Sea into ſuch a commotion, that the depths ſhall boil like a Pot, as if Heaven and Earth would meet. I cannot but think the Devil was in that ſtorm, when the Waves beat into the Ship wherein Chriſt ſlept, for being awoke, Mar.4.39. He rebuked the wind, and ſaid unto the ſea, peace, be ſtill, πεφίμωσι, a word that ſometimes he uſed to the Devil, Luke 4. 35. q. d. he muzzeled Satan, Luk.4.35. thou ſtirreſt theſe Waves: had my Diſciples believed, as they ſhould have done, thou hadſt not done this; by Faith Satan avoids, and by Diffidence Satan re-enters, and is full of rage. 4. The Earth is an Element over which he rangeth; when Job. 1. 7. the Lord asked him, Whence comeſt thou, Satan? he anſwered, from going to and fro in the Earth, and from walking up and down in it: Satan here ſpeaks like a Prince that had gone about his Countries to view his Provinces, his Kingdoms, and Cities; I come (ſaith he) from viſiting my ſeveral places and Dominions: and though his intent be to devour men, yet in reference to this very Element, he can cauſe Earth-quakes, throw down the ſtrongeſt Buildings, root up the beſt ſettled Trees, and move all things.

2. For the ſenſible part of the World, he can enter into the bodies of Beaſts, and act them at his pleaſure: We have one notable inſtance of a Legion Mat.5.13. of Devils, entering into an herd of Swine, and the herd ran violently down a ſteep place into the Sea (they were about 2000) and were choaked in the Sea: An eaſie thing it is with Satan to hurry up and down the Bodies of Beaſts, and make them with violence ruſh hither and thither: and they have no leſs power on the bodies of men: have they not poſſeſſed them, and made them lunatick, Mat.17.15 and ſo vexed them, that oftentimes they have fallen into the Fire, and oftentimes into the Water? Nay, have they not made ſome deaf, and dumb, daſhing them, and tearing them, till they foamed, and gnaſhed with their teeth, and even pined away? or, (if I may ſay more) have they not ſometimes carried and hurried up and down even in the Air, the bodies of men? I could inſtance in that Sacred body of Chriſt, whom the Devil took up into the Mat.4.5,8. Holy City, and ſet him on a Pinacle of the Temple: and after took him up again into an exceeding high Mountain, and there ſhewed him all the Kingdoms of the World, and the glory of them. That Satan can tranſport the bodies of Witches, many Hiſtories record: and that he can bewitch the bodies of Unbelivers none will deny: but here Scripture ſpeaks of a power that the Devil had over Chriſt's body, and elſewhere, of a like power that he had over the bodies of the Saints. Job is one inſtance, and the Daughter of that woman of Canaan, that was a Daughter of Abraham, may ſerve for another inſtance: and if the Lord ſhould not reſtrain the malice and power of the Adverſary, we might have as many inſtances as there are men and women in the World.

3. For the Souls of men, which we call the intellectual part of the World, he hath a great power over them. 1. He can work on the Underſtanding: he can penetrate into the fancy, which is the Organ of the internal Senſes, and move thoſe Phantaſms he finds there, and by that means excite various thoughts in the underſtanding, and perſwade to this or that; do we not experience his power within us? do we not perceive evil thoughts injected into our minds againſt our wills? not that Satan imports any new thing into our minds, which he found not in our fancies before: it is uſually delivered in Schools, That the Devil cannot put into the fancy new ſpecies of things, and ſuch as the ſenſes had never any knowledge of; as he cannot make a man born blind, to dream of Colours, and their differences: but he can make many compoſitions and deductions of thoſe various Phantaſms he finds within, and accordingly move the underſtanding to this or that. 2. He can move the Will; I cannot ſay abſolutely he can determine it: the bowing, bending, turning, and forming of the Will efficacibuſly, is only proper to God, yet can the Devil act ſomething as towards the Will, and his acting carries a kind of power with it, though God only can determine it. The Will may be ſaid to be moved, or bowed, two ways, either inwardly or outwardly: the internal mover or agent, is either our own natural inclination, and propenſion to its object, God himſelf, who is the Author of that natural inclination: now in this way, there is nothing can move the Will, but God and our ſelves. The external mover or principal, is either the object propounded to the Will, the Underſtanding having apprehended it as good; or the affections and concupiſcence which reſide in the ſenſitive appetite; for by them is the Will often ſeduced, and drawn to conſent: very paſſions can make that many things which are evil, may ſeem good to the Will, and ſo incline it to imbrace them: Now this is certain, that Devils can propound an object; and they can move and trouble, and affect our paſſions; they can ſtir up Wrath, Pride, Covetouſneſs, Luſts in Men; and therefore externally they can move the Will.

3. Rulers of the Darkneſs of this World, Theſe words hold forth a proper ſeat of the Devil's Empire; he is not Lord over all, that is the incommunicable title of God, but a Ruler of the Darkneſs of this World. Where the time, and place, and ſubjects of his Empire are ſet down and limited.

1. The time when he rules, it is during the time of this World: immediately after Adam's fall he began his rule, and while the World ſtands he will continue it without any change or alteration. Here is a difference betwixt the Devil and any human power, for theſe have but a ſhort time: the ſame man that rules now will be dethroned within a few days, or months, or years, by death, if not by treaſon: or ſuppoſe his line, or model of government continue longer, yet ſome obſerve that ſcarce any rule continues in one form above 600 years continuance: See Abraham's time from the promiſe of his Seed to the giving of the Law 460 years. See Iſrael's time from their going out of Egypt, to the building of the Temple, 480 years. See David's time, from the Anointing of him King to the death of Zedekiah, 470 years. What ſay we to our own Kingdom? Cæſar's time betwixt his invaſion, and the rule of Valentinian, 500 years. The Saxon's time betwixt their Heptarchy, and Egbert's Monarchy, 460 years. The Norman's time betwixt their Conqueſt, and the Union of whole Britain, 536 years. On what unſureneſs is Majeſty poſſeſt, that within a few years time, ſo much is altered? But the Devil hath a longer time, even ſo long as the World laſts, from the beginning to the end, until time ſhall be no more. Indeed when the frame of this World ſhall be taken down, then ſhall the Devil be degraded, his Crown taken off, his Sword broken over his head, and he himſelf become a cloſe Priſoner in Hell: In the mean he rules, and will rule, during the time of this preſent World.

2. The place where he rules, it is here in this World below: he was a bright Angel in Heaven, and he ſometimes ruled there; but he would not keep in his own Chair of Eſtate, and therefore aſpiring higher, he fell down into this nether World, and here now he rules. In the Air, and here about Earth the Devils have their Manſions, and here they tempt, ſeduce, and do all the miſchief they can to the Sons of men. I know it is our ſadneſs, and trouble that they are amongſt us: Wo, wo, wo to the inhabitants of the Earth in this reſpect! Rev.8.31. and yet here is the joy of Saints, they have no power or rule in Heaven, whence they are fallen, and where the Saints Happineſs muſt for ever be: well may this make us long for Heaven, whilſt we are on Earth. Soldiers in tedious and dangerous Voyages cannot but deſire earneſtly after Victory: Oh, (may we think) how welcome will triumph, and leading Captivity Captive be after war! as the hopes of a ſafe Haven is to Mariners toſſed up and down in troubleſome Seas; ſo is Heaven to Chriſtians, whoſe life in this World is a warfare. O friends! look after Heaven, for on Earth is many a Snare, and many a Gin, and many a plot of Satan to undo your Souls, and to ſubject you to his Rule.

3. The Subject, or Perſons whom he rules, they are the darkneſs of the World. (i.) Such as have no life of Grace, no light of knowledge; for by darkneſs is meant, ſuch who are in darkneſs; and they are of two ſorts: firſt thoſe who are in ſtate of ſin, called the work of darkneſs: ſecondly, thoſe who are in ſtate of ignorance, compared to darkneſs; Eph.5.11. Ye were ſometimes darkneſs, but now are ye light in the Lord. Eph. 5.8. But I am diſcovering the Prince or Ruler, and not his Vaſſal: and therefore I ſhall pretermit this title, and come to the next.

4 Spiritual wickedneſſes. They are not ſtiled wicked Spirits, or ſpiritual wicked ones; but in the abſtract Spiritual Wickedneſſes. Oh, what Enemies are theſe! 1. They are Spirits, and not Bodies: if we had only to deal with fleſh and blood, whether men or beaſts, it were not ſo very much, though very terrible: but we wreſtle; not with fleſh and blood, but with ſpiritual ſubſtances, with inviſible Spirits: An arm of fleſh againſt poor fleſhly Creatures were enough to ſtartle us; Oh, what ſtartling, frighting work have we had within theſe very few years? but how much more ſtartling is an arm of Spirits, that can reach to Spirits? that know how to fight with us at all times, in all conditions, in all poſtures; whether we are alone, or in company; idle, or imployed; ſleeping, or waking; that can fight inviſibly, when we cannot ſee them; for as their nature, ſo are their aſſaults, ſuch as by the eyes of fleſh and blood cannot be ſeen. 2. They are wickedneſſes, as by nature they are Spirits, ſo by their condition they are evil and malicious Spirits, ſpiritual wickedneſſes, or Spirits of wickedneſs, (i.) moſt monſtrouſly wicked and malicious Spirits. Some obſerve, that the Devil hath his name ὁ πονηρὸς, the wicked one, to denote his ſpiteful Nature; he is not barely wicked, but maliciouſly wicked, he cannot endure that Souls of men, ſhould fare any better than himſelf, and therefore he makes it his trade, his delight, his main work to damn Souls. 3. Some yet go higher, ſaying, that theſe ſpiritual wickedneſſes are ſuch, as provoke men to wickedneſſes of a ſpiritual nature; we wreſtle (ſaith the Apoſtle) againſt whom? it is in the original πρὸς τὰ πνευματικὰ τῆς πονηρίας, (i.) againſt the ſpirituals of wickedneſs; as if theſe wicked Spirits ſhould make it their great deſign, not only to beſet us with groſs and fleſhly ſins, but with ſins ſpiritualized, or with ſpiritual wickedneſſes, ſuch as unbelief, pride, hypocriſie, idolatry, blaſphemy, &c. As black as Devils are, they can, if they will, appear as Angels of Light, and accordingly ſuit their temptations of the fineſt make.

But what is meant by the laſt word, in Heavenlineſs? I cannot ſay Heavenly places, but Heavenly things: as if the Apoſtle ſhould ſay, the cauſe of this fight is not for Earthly things, it is an otherwiſe quarrel than is uſual with us in our Battels: Devils will not fight for Lands, or Livings, for Riches, or Mines of Gold, but for Heavenly things; they would if they could, bereave us of our God, our Saviour, Sanctifier, of all our hopes of Salvation, and Glory of Heaven.

SECT. II. Uſes.

Uſe 1. ARE Devils thus mighty and malicious? then mind this, conſider what Enemies you muſt fight againſt! Methinks a ſerious conſideration of their power ſhould raiſe up your hearts to bleſs that God that keeps you from them. Oh, the mighty advantage they have over you! ſhould the Lord but give the Chain, what work would they make in the World? how would they rend the Heavens, ſhake the Earth, undo all Men and Women in the World in an inſtant? My Brethren, I would not have you dread them too much; and yet becauſe they are ſuch mighty malicious Enemies, I would not have you ſlight them too much: I tell you there is nothing in this inferiour World able to ſtand before them, no Creature, no Man. The good Angels indeed can match and maſter Devils; but if God ſtop his Angels, and withdraw his hand, they would quickly over-run, unquiet, unſettle all the World. Oh! then maintain ſuch apprehenſions of their greatneſs, as that you may for ever bleſs that God, who binds up ſuch Enemies, that they do not the miſchief unto which their nature inclines them, and inables them.

Uſe 2. Are Devils mighty and malicious? then let all tempted ones fly to God, and rely on his power; be they never ſo mighty, yet the Lord only is Almighty; he hath all Devils in a Chain, and he ſtraightens or enlargeth it as he pleaſeth: his power is not only in Heaven, but on Earth, and in Hell, and here is the hope of Saints, here is their Psal.9.1.1. Tower of refuge: He that dwelleth in the ſecret place of the moſt high, ſhall abide under the ſhadow of the Almighty. O then, that God's people would in all danger haſte to their fortreſs! that they would ſay of the Lord, he is my refuge, and my Fortreſs, my God, in Him will I truſt. But the uſes of this nature we ſhall bring into the next point, and to that I haſten.

CHAP. V. SECT. I.

Of the main Doctrine intended.

OUR ſpiritual combate is a wreſtling. ἐςὶν ἡμῖν ἡ πάλη, there is a wreſtling to us: or, we wreſtle. πάλη dicitur, quia corpus πάλλεται, id eſt, quatitur: the Greek Word, according to the proper notation of it, ſignifieth ſuch a ſtrife as maketh the body of him that ſtriveth to ſhake: and howſoever ſometimes it is given to a ſtrife of ſport; yet here it is uſed for a ſerious and fierce Fight and Combate, ſo fierce as it may well make the Soul ſhake again.

But why is this Combat called a wreſtling?

1. Becauſe Satan's fight is very cloſe. This is the nature of wreſtling, not to fight at a diſtance, but very near; Satan is ſo near that he cloſeth with us; yea, gets within us: he takes hold of the Heart within, the Soul within. Other Wreſtlers may catch at the Head, or Arms, or Thighs, or they may fold their Arms about the middle of the Body, and ſtrive with it, but Satan is a Spirit, and enters into Spirits; his wreſtling is ſo cloſe, that neither Underſtanding, Will, Affections, nor any thing within can eſcape his fangs.

2. Becauſe this fight is very violent; wreſtling is not an eaſie, laſie, idle Combate: they that wreſtle, do it with their might, and ſtrength, and utmoſt vigour. So deals Satan with us, he goes a- 2 Pet.5.8. bout as a roaring Lion, he is very active to do miſchief, he puts to his ſtrength to devour our Souls: and accordingly muſt we deal with Satan, finally Eph.6.10. my Brethren, be ſtrong in the Lord; as we muſt take Heaven by violence, ſo we muſt eſcape Hell by violence; Devils are not to be dallied withal; we muſt quit our ſelves like men, reſiſt unto blood.

3. Becauſe this fight hath in it many wrenches, windings, wiles, and arts. The cunning Wreſtler carries it not meerly with his ſtrength, but with his feats; his eye is upon all advantages; with a wrench, a turn, a trip, a ſleight he gets the maſtery: Satan in this reſpect is an eminent Wreſtler; he makes it his trade, and is well acquainted with all the myſteries of it: he hath thouſands, and ten thouſands of ſtratagems and wiles: he hath his βάθη and νοήματα, as the Apoſtle calls them, that is his 2 Cor. 2. 12. depths, his profound plots and contrivances, moulded by malice and ſubtilty in his own large underſtanding, furniſhed with the experience of our corruptions, and the ſucceſs of his many temptations for ſome thouſands of years, managed with all the crafts and polices of the moſt dark and hidden corners of Hell: he hath his μεθοδείας, as they are called, Eph.6.11. exquiſite methods, in the wily conveyance of his ſtratagems, in ordering his aſſaults, and ſpitting his fiery darts. And is it not our duty and prudence to be well ſkilled in his wiles, and to counter-work him in his crafts? are we not therefore adviſed to put on the whole armour of God, that we may be a- Eph.6.11 ble to ſtand againſt the wiles of the Devil? As there is no ſtanding without armour, ſo there is no fear of falling, if we are but armed and prepared for him: his wiles ſhould make us wiſe unto Salvation, that though he wreſtle artificially with us, we may be able to ſtand.

4. Becauſe in this combate, each party hath uſually his Aids or Seconds. It is thus both with Satan and us: Firſt, he hath his Aids; theſe are led under the conduct of thoſe two Captain Generals the World and the Fleſh: This World is the Devil's Darling, and chief Champion: on the right hand it encounters us with proſperity, it caſts before us the golden Apples of Riches, and how prone we are to liſten to theſe Syren-Songs, our experience tells us: on the left hand it tempts us by adverſity, turning its Smiles into Frowns, its Allurements into Threats, its offers of Honours and Riches, to proud menacings of Poverty and Ignominy: and how terrible theſe are in the eyes of fleſh and blood the beſt hearts can tell. The fleſh is the Devil's darling, by which we underſtand the corruption of Nature; it fighteth and luſteth againſt the Spirit, it rebels againſt the Law of our mind, and Gal. 5.17. leadeth us captive to the Law of Sin: The fleſh luſteth againſt the Spirit, and the Spirit luſteth againſt the Fleſh, and theſe are contrary the one to the Rom.17.9 other; ſo that we cannot do the ſame things that we would: both theſe are Satan's aids. Secondly, we have our aids; as firſt God takes our part, and he hath appointed his own Son as General of the Field, Heb. 2.10. called the Captain of our Salvation; whenſoever we wreſtle, he ſtands by with a reſerve (as it were) for our relief at a pinch; and if we will but call upon him at our need, he will never leave us, fail us, nor forſake us. Secondly, the Angels take our part: Behold Chariots of fire upon the Mountains round about Eliſha: Wreſtlers are uſually compaſt with a Ring, and ſuch a Ring have Pſal. 34.7. Saints, the Angels of the Lord encamp round about them that fear him, and they deliver them. Now what better Aids, or Seconds can we have than the Angels of God, and the God of Angels? Surely, there are more for us than can be againſt us: Oh, the comfort of this!

Sect. 2. Uſe of Terror.

IS our ſpiritual Combate a Wreſtling? then wo to the wicked, that never wreſtle at all: Let them know, that they are not the Lord's Soldiers, but the Devil's Revellers, and therefore he fights not againſt them, becauſe they are his Friends. Luk. 11. 20. When the ſtrong armed man (Satan) keepeth his Palace, his Goods are in Peace: but when a ſtronger than he cometh to diſpoſſeſs him, there will be many a ruſſle, and many a wreſtle, and uſually Amos 6.1. ſuch a man will feel the Conflict. Now wo to them that are at eaſe in Sion: Can we be God's Servants, and not his Soldiers? Is not Chriſt's Church on Earth a truly Militant Church? in a warfare, as well as wayfare? Oh, then what is their condition that are rid only by the Devil! they will not grapple with Satan, they love to ſleep in a whole Skin, they crown themſelves with pleaſant Garlands of reſtful Security, they imagine they may go to Heaven in a bed of down; Oh, but what will be the end of theſe men! the Devil hath already laid them on their backs, and there remains nothing more but to kick them out of their ſecurity into Hell.

Sect. 3. Uſe of Incouragement.

IS our ſpiritual Combate a Wreſtling? then courage Chriſtians! from thoſe Words Eph. 6. 10. be ſtrong in the Lord, and in the power of his might: * one rightly obſerves, that the Chriſtian of all men needs courage; a cowardly Spirit is beneath the loweſt duty Rev. 21.8. of a Chriſtian: the fearful are in the forlorn of thoſe that march for Hell: the Violent and Valiant are they which take Heaven by force; except thou canſt prove thy Pedigree by an heroic Spirit, except thou wilt dare to be holy in ſpight of Men and Devils, never think that thou art begotten of God. Oh, how uncomely a ſight is it, a bold Sinner, and a fearful Saint! one reſolved to be wicked, and a Chriſtian wavering in his Holy courſe! to ſee Hell keep the Field, impudently braving it with diſplayed banners of open prophaneneſs, and Saints to hide their Colours for ſhame, or to run from them for fear, who ſhould rather wrap themſelves in them, and die upon the place.

* Gurnal's Chriſtian Armour.

Take courage therefore, O ye Saints, and be ſtrong. When Joſhua was to march before Iſrael into Canaan, the Lord was fain to raiſe up his Spirit with redoubled words, Be ſtrong and of a good Joſh. 1. 6, 7, 9. courage——Only be thou ſtrong and very courageous.——Have not I commanded thee? be ſtrong and of a good Courage, be not afraid, neither be thou diſmayed, for the Lord thy God is with thee, whitherſoever thou goeſt. I ſay the ſame to you, who are to march through this Wilderneſs into that Heavenly Canaan, Take courage, for the Lord your God is with you: what if Devils come behind and trip up your heels? Nay what if they fly in your faces, and grapple with you hand to hand? any weak David may wreſtle with Goliah, ſo long as the Battel is the Lord's, and that he comes to the Field in the Name of the Lord of Hoſts, the God of Iſrael. But motives I ſhall reſerve for the next uſe.

Sect. 4. Uſe of Exhortation, with Motives.

IS your ſpiritual Combat a wreſtling? Come then, fall on the duty: here's a world of Devils ready to encounter: you may imagine (and really it is ſo) that they come ſwiftly, furiouſly, ſtrongly, their arms ſpread wide, and their fangs are open, and if they can, they will faſten on the whole man; their aim is to throw Body, Soul, and all into Hell. What will you do now? Will you turn your backs and fly? ſhall the Devil conquer without a ſtroke? no, God forbid! I beſeech you ſtretch forth your arms, bid Devils defiance, reſiſt them to your utmoſt, wreſtle with all your might. Why, this is the duty I am preſſing on you: Be ſerious, and wreſtle, though all ſhake by it.

The Motives are ſeveral.

1. There is a neceſſity for it; either you muſt wreſtle with him, or be taken Captive by him; there is no middle courſe; and ſhall not neceſſity make you fight? it is ſaid that neceſſity and deſpair will produce wonders, they would make Cowards fight, and are you worſe than Cowards?

2. The Victory is certain, if you will but wreſtle. When Chriſt hath made a valiant reſiſtance, the Devil gave way, and left him. And to this Mar. 4.11. Jam. 4.7. purpoſe you have a promiſe, reſiſt the Devil, and he will fly from you. Satan is a foiled Adverſary, Chriſt hath overcome him already, and ſo ſhall ye, if ye will but valiantly enter in Chriſt's Name into the Liſts.

3. The ſweetneſs of Victory will abundantly recompence the trouble of your wreſtling; uſually we miſtake in the Traverſes of our minds: we reckon upon the ſweetneſs of ſin, and the trouble of wreſtling; but the right compariſon is between the fruit of ſin, and the fruits of Victory: you have often had experience what it is to be overcome, do you now make trial how ſweet Victory will be in overcoming.

4. The Cauſe is juſt, your Combate is lawful: God, who is Juſtice it ſelf, hath proclaimed it by his Heralds, Finally my Brethren be ſtrong in the Eph. 6.10, 11. Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that ye might be able to

ſtand

Jam. 4. 7. 1 Pet. 5.8. ſtand againſt the aſſaults of the Devil. Reſiſt the Devil, and he will fly from you; be ſober and watch; for your Adverſary the Devil is a roaring Lyon, walketh about ſeeking whom he may devour, whom reſiſt ſtedfaſt in the Faith. There are two things, which make a War lawful and juſt. 1. The call of a juſt Authority. 2. A juſt Cauſe: Now in this conflict is a concurrence of both. 1. You have a lawful Authority calling you to fight, even God, who is the Authority Supream. 2. Your Cauſe is juſt, for Satan aſſaulting any of the Children of God, is a meer Uſurper, he hath no right over you, you are not his, but the Lords, by Creation, by Redemption, by ſpecial Dedication: you do but defend your own Souls, and the Territory and Dominion of God, and Jeſus Chriſt in you, and over you, whoſe Dominion you are bound to preſerve. Surely you have good cauſe to wreſtle, if you had none but this, becauſe your cauſe is good.

5. You have already in Baptiſm taken a military Sacrament, and therein promiſed that you will continue God's faithful Souldiers unto your lives end: What, my Brethren, take preſs-money to ſerve in God's Wars againſt the Devil, and all his Aids, and now to run away from your Colours! A ſworn Enemy to Sin and Satan, ſhould never of all other turn his back; why you are ſworn Enemies, and therefore ſtand to it, be of a good courage, reſiſt unto blood.

6. The Lord meaſures out your temptations, weigheth your ſtrength, and will not ſuffer you to be tempted above that you are able; he giveth ſhoulders and fitteth the burthen. Is not this his promiſe? There hath no temptation taken you, but 1 Cor. 10. 13. ſuch as is moderate, (or common to man) but God is faithful, who will not ſuffer you to be tempted above that you are able, but will with the temptation alſo make way to eſcape, that ye may be able to bear it. Souls are apt to complain, the Devil is ſtrong, and temptation is ſtrong, and I ſhall fall by the hand of Saul: why, know now that all theſe temptations are weighed and meaſured out by God himſelf, he ſaith to Satan, as to the Waves of the Sea, Thus far ſhalt thou go, and no further: Job 1. 12. Thus he ſaid concerning Job; Behold Satan, all that he hath is in thy power, only upon himſelf put not forth thy hand: Satan had a mind to have gone further, he would have been upon Job himſelf, if God had not ſtopt and curbed him: Certainly Satan would break all your backs, if he were let alone; but God will not ſuffer it; let Satan do his worſt, you ſhall be able to bear it, for God hath ſet him bounds, and he will give you a proportionable ſtrength. As a wiſe Phyſician does not give the ſame Phyſick to every Perſon, but conſiders every ones ability; ſo the Lord orders Satan in tempting, that he cannot put the leaſt dram into any temptation, but as it is meaſured out by the hand of God.

7. The Lord hath promiſed his preſence with you in ſix dangers, and in ſeven: He goeth out with you into the Field; not only as a Looker on, but to weaken the Enemies, and to ſupply you with new ſtrength. 1. He weakens your Enemies, and upon this account partly it is ſaid, Rom. 8. 37 that we are more than Conquerors through Chriſt that loveth us: because in and through Jeſus Chriſt, our Enemy is overcome before he ſtrikes, and his blow is broken as he ſtrikes. 2. He ſupplies you with new ſtrength. I will not deny, but now and then you may have a foil, but if ſo, the Lord will raiſe you up again, for though we fall, yet ſhall we not be caſt Pſal. 37. 24. down, becauſe the Lord putteth under his hand, or, he upholdeth us with his hand.

8. Your weapons are impenetrable: your Armour is Armour of proof, compleat Armour, every way ſufficient to defend and keep you harmleſs. This if you put it on, will make you able to ſtand Eph. 6. 11. 13. 16. againſt the Wiles of the Devil, and to withſtand in Eph. 6. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18. the evil day: and to quench all the fiery darts of the Wicked. If you ſay, what is this Armour? the Apoſtle tells you of a girdle of truth; and a breaſtplate of Righteouſneſs, and ſhoos of the preparation of the Goſpel of Peace; and a ſhield of Faith, and an helmet of Salvation, and a ſword of the Spirit, praying always with all Prayer, and ſupplication in the Spirit. The meaning is, that your Armour is the Graces and Ordinances of Jeſus Chriſt. Truth, and Righteouſneſs, and Patience, and Faith, and Hope, and the Word, and Prayer, (under which by a Synechdoche all other Graces and Ordinances are comprehended) are your ſpiritual Armour. I know that all the vertue of this Armour depends wholly upon God alone: Our Faith, and Hope, and Love, and the Word, and Prayer, would all be broken to ſhivers at one ſtroke of the temptation, if the Lord did not eſtabliſh, and confirm them; and this is that which Chriſt tells Peter, I have prayed for thee that thy Luk. 22. Faith fail not: but this Armour by God's power hath been ſucceſsful, and in the power of his might it ever will be ſucceſsful: What is ſaid of the Bow of Jonathan, and of the Sword of Saul, is truly ſaid of this Armour in this reſpect, they never returned empty from the blood of the ſlain, and from 2 Sam. 1. 21. the fat of the mighty. Surely, never any harneſſed with this Armour of God, loſt the Field finally. Oh, what encouragement is this!

9. To put all out of queſtion, the Lord hath made promiſes of life to thoſe that wreſtle, he will give them to eat of the Tree of life in the midſt of Paradiſe: He will give them of the Manna that is hid, and he will write their names in the Book of Life. Bleſſed is he that endureth temptation, for Jam. 1. 12. when he is tryed he ſhall receive a Crown of Life, which the Lord hath promiſed to them that love him. We do not contend for Counters, but for Crowns, and thoſe not temporal and corruptible, but eternal and incorruptible, even for a Crown of Life. 1 Cor. 9. 25.

10. There will be a day of triumph to all that will but wreſtle: if you ask when? I anſwer, 1. At the day of Judgment, then ſhall Chriſt your Captain ſtand upon the Earth, and you ſhall ſtand with him, glorying and triumphing to ſee your Enemies dead, or wounded before you. Indeed others that were faint and delicate, and would not wreſtle, as they were led captives by Satan at his pleaſure, ſo ſhall they be led in triumph by him into Hell: but for you that fight the Lord's Battels, the day is a coming when you ſhall march with Chriſt into Glory, and then ſhall you triumph all the way, and thoſe Enemies that now aſſault you, ſhall lie dead (as it were) before you, and you ſhall ſee them again no more for ever. 2. In that Eternity, which follows after: no ſooner ſhall Chriſt and his Saints enter into Heaven; but oh, the glorious aſtoniſhing triumphs that will be there! The Poet ſung ſweetly,

There ſhall we conquer, have our Conqueſt crown'd
By hands of Seraphims, triumph't with the ſound
Of Heaven's loud Trumpet, warbled by the ſhrill
Celeſtial Quire, recorded with a quill
Pluckt from the Pinion of an Angel's Wing,
Confirm'd with joy by Heaven's eternal King.

O my Brethren where is now your courage? where is your Spirit? where is your Ambition? think not on mean things, but on Crowns, and

Victories, and Glories: Hold faſt that which thou
Rev. 3. 11. haſt, that no man take thy Crown.

CHAP. VI.

Other ſorts of Motives.

That I may yet prevail with you to make you Wreſtlers; Conſider further,

1. God is on the ſide of all that wreſtle. What, art thou afraid of the Iſſue? Art thou indeed in Satan's hands? know then that Satan is in God's hands: If thou art but the Lord's Souldier, he will not ſuffer himſelf to be ſo much diſgraced, as to ſuffer thee to be overcome by his mortal Enemies: he hath armed thee with his own Armour, and ſent thee out to fight his Battels; and therefore he will not have thee vanquiſhed, being fortified with his ſtrength: for ſo ſhould his Weapons be eſteemed weak, and he himſelf be overcome in thee. When the Lord ſent the Angel to incourage Zachariah concerning Jeruſalem, the meſſage was this; I, ſaith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about her. Surely, Jeruſalem muſt needs be impregnable that is thus walled about: the ſame promiſe is made to all the Saints, and therefore they muſt needs be all invincible; if your Shelter were Stones, theſe might be battered: were it Walls of Lead, theſe might be melted: were it defence of Waters, theſe might be dryed up: were it Garriſons of mighty Men, theſe might be ſcattered: were it Engines of War, theſe might be defeated: were it Trenches, theſe might be ſtopped: were it Bulwarks, theſe might be overthrown: But you are guarded with ſuch a defence, which cannot be demoliſht, to wit, with a Wall of fire round about you. Balls of Wild-fire are a Terrour and Conſumption to any Enemies: who could quench the fire of Sodom? or who ſhall quench the World when it ſhall be on fire? Surely none: Paradiſe was kept with a fiery flaming Sword, and none could enter thereinto, Gen. 3. 24. Iſrael was guided and protected by a fiery Pillar, and none could moleſt them in their march, Exod. 13. 21. What ſhall we ſay then, when the Lord our God is a wall of fire round about you, to conſume your Enemies, and to ſuccour you? Chear up Chriſtians! your God, whoſe you are, and whom you ſerve, to whom nothing is too hard, Gen. 18. 14. To whom nothing is impoſſible, Matth. 19. 16. To whom none is like among the Gods, glorious in Holineſs, fearful in Praiſes, doing Wonders, Exod. 15. 11. Who removeth Mountains, ſhaketh the Earth, commandeth the Sun, ſealeth the Stars, and thundereth marvelouſly with his Voice, even he is a Wall of fire round about you. Oh, what encouragement is this.

2. Jeſus Chriſt is your Captain; God hath made him General of the Field, and if you had none other to fight for you, yet he alone is mightier than all your Enemies: he hath already vanquiſhed Satan, yea he hath ſo bruiſed the Serpent's head, that now he cannot overcome finally the leaſt of his followers. Satan was the ſtrong man, who poſſeſſed all in peace; but our Saviour Chriſt, who is ſtronger than he, coming upon him hath overcome him, Luk. 11. 21, 22. and taken from him all his Armour wherein he truſted, and divided his ſpoils. Hence he is truly called our King, our Redeemer, our Head, our Captain; and will not you, the Subjects of this King, the Ranſomed of this Redeemer, the Members of this Head, the Soldiers of this Captain, fight under his Standard? Why conſider, if you wreſtle, Jeſus Chriſt ſtands by to bring you off with honour. Sure you need not doubt of help, who have Chriſt your Captain for your Second: If Satan be a roaring Lyon, Chriſt is the Lyon of the Tribe of Judah: If Satan be an Accuſer, Chriſt is an Advocate: He lived and died for you, and rather than you miſcarry, he will live and die with you: for mercy and tenderneſs to his Souldiers, none like him; he knoweth what it is to be expoſed to the rage of a Cruel Fiend, and therefore he will ſuccour thoſe that are tempted. Chriſt's Heb. 4. 15. heart is intendered by his own experience, ever ſince he grappled with Satan; he is full of Bowels to all them that are infeoffed by him; yea, Chriſt is ſo dear over them, that then eſpecially he intercedes his Father, when he obſerves his People in temptations, q. d. O Father, I pray that this poor Man or Woman may not fall in time of temptation: Thus he prayed for Peter, when he was on Earth, I have prayed for thee that thy Faith fail not: Luk. 22. 32. and thus he prays now for you in Heaven. No ſooner he ſees Satan run in upon you, but he runs into the preſence of God the Father, and ſpreads his blood and his ſatisfaction for your help. Oh, the love of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt!

3. The Spirit of God will ſtrengthen you againſt the power of the evil Spirit: This is that Spirit of Wiſdom and Underſtanding, that Spirit of Iſa. 11. 2. Counſel and Might; that Spirit that helpeth your Rom. 8. 26. infirmities; that kindleth and filleth your Hearts with love, and zeal, and other Graces; that comforts your Conſciences, and conſumes your Corruptions, and continues in you, ſealing you to the day of Redemption: even He it is that ſtrengthens you againſt the power of the Devil. But how doth the Spirit ſtrengthen? I anſwer, 1. He teacheth you in, and by your temptations. Luther could ſay, that three things made a good Divine, Meditation, Prayer, and Temptation. And, indeed, when and where doth the Holy Spirit reveal himſelf more fully unto his People, than in the times of their Temptations? It is ſaid that at Maſſah and Meribah, the waters of ſtrife, and of temptation, there the Lord gave Iſrael all his Statutes. 2. He bears up, and upholds your hearts with Grace, My Grace is ſufficient for thee, ſaid the Lord to Paul; the Spirit of the Lord in your Combates uſually comes in with aſſiſting Grace; or if that be not enough, he comes in alſo with accepting Grace: though thy Prayer be weak, and thy Faith low, yet ſaith the Spirit, it is the time of Temptation with my poor Servant, and therefore I will take the duty though it be never ſo little.

4. The good Angels wait upon you as a Guard, have they not a charge from God to ſee to your ſafety? and is not one Angel ſtronger than all Devils? if a man were to paſs by Ship over a dangerous Sea, full of Rocks, Pirats, Robbers, would not Letters of ſafe conduct be his comfort? but if a great Navy ſhould be ſent to conduct him over, if the Admiral ſhould call out all his Men of War to ſee him ſafely arrived, how much more comfortable would this be? Even thus God deals with us, he ſends his Angels, who willingly afford their miniſtry, becauſe of their love to man, but in reſpect of God's Word and Charge, they are much more willing. O the ſtrong Motives that we have to fight! God, and Chriſt, and his Spirit, and Angels, all take our part: What greater Dignities? What better defence? What greater Solace? What better ſafety than this? to be attended and guarded, not by men (which we count an honour and happineſs) but by Angels, who pitch their Tents about the Pſal. 34. 8. Saints? Methinks the Knowledge, Aſſurance, Remembrance, and Meditation of this ſhould marvellouſly comfort and encourage the People of God.

5. The Spirits of the Juſt, made perfect with God, contribute their aſſiſtance: do they not pray for the Church in general? Do they not mind the condition of thoſe, who are yet militant here upon Earth? do they not ſtand upon the Walls of Heaven, and call on you to march up the Hill after them, crying aloud, fall on and the City will be yours as now it is ours? the ſame words that Paul ſpake living, he even ſpeaks now dead, 1 Cor.16.13. Watch ye, ſtand faſt in the Faith, quit your ſelves like men. The printed Books, the living Examples of dead Saints, call on you ſtill to be valorous: Do they not really 2 Sam. 10. 12. ſpeak in Joab's Language, Be of good Courage for your Souls, and for the Glory of your God.

6. Other Saints on Earth are in the ſame poſture with your ſelves: they are all wreſtling, they are all enduring a great fight of Afflictions and Temptations. Certainly you march in the midſt of gallant Spirits: your fellow-Soldiers are every one the Son of a Prince, yea of the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords; and this is their way, to encourage you, and to be encouraged by you: there's not a watch you make, nor a ſtroke you ſtrike, but it pleaſeth them, and it refreſheth them; as on the other ſide, there is not a negligence, nor a fail but it wounds them, and afflicts them.

7. The Devil himſelf is not altogether ſo terrible as ſeems. Do you look on him in theſe particulars.——

1. He is but a Creature, though he be ſtiled a Principality and Power, yet his Power is but a created power, he is Potent, but not Omnipotent; he is the ſtrong man armed, but Jeſus Chriſt is ſtronger than he; and though you cannot, yet the Luk. 11. 22. Lord Jeſus can eaſily diſarm him, and take away that wherein he truſteth.

2. He is a Creature under a Curſe; this may take off much from that dreadfulneſs which many Gen.3.14. look upon him with. Curſed ſhalt thou be above all the Beaſts of the Field. O the encouragement, that all our Enemies (both that Field-Serpent and the old Serpent called the Devil) are under a Divine Curſe! Surely God's Curſe is a weakning thing.

3. He is a wounded Creature. 1. Wounded by Gen.3.15. Chriſt, he ſhall break thy Head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his Heel. The Lord Jeſus breaks Satan's Head, as he is our Head; he hath wounded him for us, and for our ſakes. Here is comfort; Alas! Satan was too ſtrong for us hand to hand, and therefore our Lord firſt enters the Liſt, and gives him a wound, and then, as Joſhua, he bids us come and tread on his Neck. Thus when we read of Chriſt's glorious Acts, that he overcame Satan, Matth. 4. 11. Lead Captivity captive, Epheſ. 4. 8. Spoiled Principalities and Powers, Coloſ. 2. 15. Made his Enemies his Foot-ſtool, Matth. 22. 44. Overcame thoſe that war againſt him, Rev. 17. 14. We are to underſtand that all theſe Acts were for our benefit, and that for us he combated with, and conquered all theſe Foes. 2. He Luke 20. 18, 19, 20. is wounded by the Members of Chriſt. Satan is fallen from Heaven like Lightning, and made ſubject to the Saints. His weapons have been often battered and blunted, not only by Chriſt, but alſo 1 Joh. 2. 13, 14. by Chriſtians. I write unto you young men, becauſe you have overcome the wicked one. Others have been, and if we will but wreſtle, we alſo ſhall be more than Conquerors through Chriſt that loveth us. Rom.8.37

4. He is a chained Creature. The Angel that Rev.20.1, 2. came down from Heaven had a great Chain in his hand, and he laid hold on the Dragon, that old Serpent, which is the Devil and Satan, and bound him a thouſand years. In this Chain he is ſo confined, that he cannot ſtir until God ſlack his Chain: nor need we trouble our ſelves, becauſe it is ſaid only for a thouſand years; for indeed God hath ever kept him in Fetters ſince his Fall, either leſs or more, and he ſhall never ſhake them off again until Dooms-day: He hath delivered him into 2 Pet.2.4. Jude 6. Chains of darkneſs, to be reſerved unto the Judgment of the great Day. Oh, what incouragement is this! think of it, Chriſtians. Devils can do nothing without a Commiſſion from your God: though they ruined Job's ſtate, yet they had their power from God; and though they infeſted his Body with ſad Diſeaſes, yet they were fain to ask new leave from God; they could not ſo much as enter into Swine, but Chriſt muſt give them Authority, and bid them go. Luk.8.32. How ſhould this animate us, that our greateſt Enemy is ſubject to the power of our beſt and deareſt Friend! Enough for Motives.

Sect. 6. Uſe of Doctrine.

IS our Spiritual Combate a wreſtling? then ſome directions how we are to manage this Spiritual Combate. This is that ſpecial uſe which I ever aim at in all practical Points. Many are convinc'd of ſuch and ſuch a duty, that know but little how to go about it: Others indeed may abound in their own ſenſe, and they may in their own experiences find out ſome Rules moſt proper for their own diſpoſition, and moſt powerful for their own Reformation; and for my part, I ſhall gladly leave them to themſelves; yet for ſuch who are not better furniſhed, and yet deſire ſome help how to manage wiſely this great Duty of wreſtling with Devils, I ſhall preſcribe for their uſe and mine own (as the Lord ſhall enable) theſe following directions.

In our Spiritual Combate two things are neceſſary to be known. 1. Satan's aſſaults. 2. Our repulſes. His aſſaults I ſhall trace, according to the ſeveral periods of our life, wherein more eſpecially he combates with us in ſuch or ſuch a kind: As in our Infancy he combates thus; and in our Youth, or time of Converſion, he combates thus; and in our riper Years he combates thus: and in the end and period of our life he combates thus: Now herein lies our duty. 1. To be acquainted with his ſeveral methods at ſuch times. 2. To repel him in ſuch a manner, and by ſuch means, as are moſt ſuitable to his methods. And, O that the Lord would help, and ſtrengthen me in this work! O that he would preſent his Light and Truth, that I may diſcover to you theſe works of darkneſs, both for the avoiding and conquering of him, who is reſerved for everlaſting chains Jude 6. under darkneſs unto the judgment of the great Day.

WAR with DEVILS.

The Second Book.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

Of the time when Devils begin their firſt Aſſaults.

THE firſt Period, wherein Satan firſt begins to aſſault the Elect, it is from their quickning in the Womb, and during their Infancy, till they become adult: Come then, and firſt learn we his methods; and ſecondly, practiſe we thoſe Duties that concern us in our wreſtling with him in theſe reſpects.

1. For Satan's firſt Aſſaults; certain it is, that then he begins, when we begin firſt to live, and move and have our being: are we not by nature in Satan's Power? is not the Devil then ſaid to rule in us, when the Soul and Body do firſt meet, and are both defiled by ſin? As it is ſaid of the Dragon, that he ſtood before the Woman which was ready to be delivered, to devour her Child as ſoon as it was born: So may we ſay of every Child, as ſoon as it is quickned in the Womb, that the great Red Dragon, the Devil, ſtands ready to devour it. And upon this ſuppoſition, even in Auguſtine's time, there were Exorciſms uſed at the Baptiſms of Infants, by which they ſignified that the Child was under the Power and Dominion of Satan: we uſe not this Ceremony now, though it be very ancient; we deſire rather to content our ſelves with the ſimplicity of the Goſpel in all the Inſtitutions and Ordinances of Jeſus Chriſt; but this diſcovers the ancient truth of Satan's Aſſaults, and Kingdom over Children by nature, even in the Womb. Behold, I was ſhapen in iniquity, and in ſin did my Mother conceive me, ſaith David. 1. I was ſhapen in iniquity; in the very forming of the parts of his body, and diſpoſing it for Animation there was ſin, though not explicitely and formally, yet initially, inchoatively, and imperfectly, becauſe the body was in tendency to take up man. 2. And in ſin did my Mother conceive me: It is in the Hebrew, my Mother did warm me, or nouriſh me: which relates not ſo much to the actual conception, as to the time that his Mother did bear, and warm him in the Womb. The inference from the Text is this, that ſo ſoon as that Maſs of the Body is enlivened, and animated, ſo ſoon is original ſin in a man; and when original ſin, like a Leproſie, ſpreads it ſelf over the whole man, the Devil alſo doth ſeize upon him as his own: So that as a man is ſaid to dwell in his own houſe, it is his home, he may do there what he will; ſuch a right and claim hath the Devil to a man by Nature, he dwells in him, reigns in him, and leads him captive at his will.

Rev. 12.4.

Pſal. 51.5.

But if thus it be with us, whilſt we are in the Womb, is it not otherwiſe in our birth, and in our Infancy, till we become adult? I anſwer.

1. So long as we are in nature it is all one: no ſooner are we born, but we are Atheiſts, Idolaters, Blaſphemers, Sabbath-breakers, Murtherers, Adulterers, Thieves, Falſe-Witneſſes, Covetous; not by actual tranſgreſſion, but by an habitual diſpoſition: as we are ſaid to be men, becauſe we have in us the Image of man, and ſeeds of Humanity, though we never did any manly action, ſeeing nothing is wanting but growth and maturity: ſo by as good right we are called ſinners of all kinds, becauſe we have the nature and very image of ſin, and the ſeeds of all corruption living in us in our very infancy: Which, if we grow, will grow with us, and without preventing Grace will come to full ripeneſs, if we ever attain unto perfect age. In this reſpect how ſhould Satan but dwell in us, move in us, reign in us; and at our very birth, and during our infancy, do with us, and domineer it in us, even as he pleaſeth.

2. So long as we are in infancy, and not adult, ſuppoſing that we live to the age when we may enjoy uſe of means, appointed by God for Regeneration, Juſtification, Sanctification, it is very probable that we are in a ſtate of nature, and Vaſſals of Satan, as we are in the Womb. A late Divine thus delivers himſelf, I know no reaſon to conclude, that God ſhould break his own ordinary road of beſtowing Grace in Infant-age, upon thoſe that live to the uſe of means appointed to that end, and I ſuppoſe (excepting the caſe of John the Baptiſt, who yet may be looked upon as priviledged by an extraordinary account; to wit, that by a miraculous inſtinct he might bear witneſs to Chriſt, as his Fore-runner in the Womb, as well as in the Wilderneſs) it can hardly be aſſerted de facto, concerning † any one that ever lived to perfect uſe of reaſon, that he was juſtified and ſanctified from the Womb, or any period of infancy whatſoever; nor have we any Scripture-warrant to expect it: nay, it were againſt the very end for which God appoints the uſe of means, ſeeing by beſtowing ſaving Grace out of them, to thoſe that live to enjoy them, God would in a ſort make void his own Inſtitutions; for what need of them, when the ends of them may be otherwiſe attained? I confeſs, grace is wrought in ſome very early, poſſibly in Childhood, but ordinarily 'tis after they come under Catechizing. And if this be ſo, then Satan keeps his hold for this firſt period, (i.) from our firſt quickning in the Womb, and during our Infancy, till we become adult.

Mr. Ford in his practical uſe of Baptiſm.

† His opinion is, that the inſtance of Jeremy being ſanctified from the Womb, is but only a ſetting him apart for his office. Jer. 1. 5.

Sect. 2. Of the manner of Devils aſſaulting at that time.

BUT how do the Devils aſſault, or tyrannize it in us at ſuch a time? I anſwer, they do it quietly, and without reſiſtance. The ſtrong armed man, Satan, quietly keeps the houſe, and the things that he poſſeſſeth are in peace. Poor Creatures in this caſe are as Priſoners, content to be tyed in the Fetters of ſin: and therefore to what purpoſe ſhould Satan rage it in their Conſciences? I know Satan is ſubtil, and more exactly watcheth them that are ſprung of Godly Parents: he obſerves from time to time how they bewail the ſin of their Babes, and how they preſs God with a Covenant of Grace, and how they dedicate their Children to the Lord, and how they preſent them to God in that Ordinance of Baptiſm: and though for all this he holds his Claim, and leads them as captives at his will; yet I verily believe, upon theſe Obſervations, he looks very enviouſly and maliciouſly upon ſuch Children: as if it were not that God hedgeth them about with a Wall of Holy and Bleſſed Angels, he would do his utmoſt to cut off their lives in their polluted ſtate of nature, and immediately hurry them to Hell, unto the Judgment of the great day. Howſoever he matters not much, whilſt he keeps poſſeſſion; he knows well enough that till they are actually regenerated, he is their Lord; he needs not plant any of his ſtrongeſt Batteries, main temptations againſt them yet; and therefore in that reſpect, as a Keeper of ſuch Priſoners, he may ſleep ſecurely; he commands with eaſe, he keeps the houſe quiet, and all are obeyſant to his will.

Sect. 3. Of the State of Infants dying at that time, either in the Womb, or in their Infancy.

IF this be ſo, then well may we ſay of our Infants dying at this time; Oh that they had never been conceived! Oh, that they had never come out of the Womb into the World! not ſo neither; for amongſt Infants, ſome are Elect, and ſome are not: and ſome are within a Covenant of Grace, and ſome are not.

1. Some Infants are Elect. For the Children not being yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpoſe of God according to Election might ſtand, not of works, but of him that calleth, it was ſaid, the Elder it ſhall ſerve the Younger; as it is written, Jacob have I loved, but Eſau have I hated. When Jacob was but an Infant in the Womb, he was Elect; and if Jacob had died in the Cradle, he had been ſaved. Hence believing Parents may comfort their Souls concerning thoſe Children that early die, in that they may be Elected, and by conſequence eternally ſaved.

2. Some Infants are within a Covenant of Grace, and this ſpeaks yet more encouragement. Indeed, we cannot look into the Book of Life, which is in Heaven, and thereby know that the names of our dying Infants are written there; yet we may look into the Covenant of Grace, and ſatisfie our ſelves as in the effect of their Election. Are not the Children of believing Parents the reputed Members of Jeſus Chriſt? Is not the ſame promiſe made to the Children that is made to the Parents, for receiving Gen. 17. 7. Act. 2. 39. both as Members? I am thy God, and the God of thy Seed, ſaid the Lord to Abraham; and the Promiſe is to you, and to your Children, and to all that are afar off, ſaid Peter to the Jews. God is in Covenant with our Infants as ſoon as they are living in the Womb, and God is Sacramentally and ſolemnly ingaged to our Infants in Baptiſm, as ſoon almoſt as they are born into the World: nor doth it hinder, that ſuch Infants were ſhapen in iniquity, and conceived in Sin; for that is firſt which is natural, then that which is ſpiritual: The Devil firſt Ezek. 16. 6, 7, 8. reigns in them as his Subjects, and then the Lord paſſing by, and ſeeing them in their blood, he ſaith to them in their blood, live; yea, he ſaith to them in their blood, live; that time is a time of Love, and therefore the Lord ſpreads his skirts over them, and covers their nakedneſs, and ſwears to them (in Baptiſm) and enters into a Covenant with them, and ſo they become his.

But when is it that Infants dying in the womb or in their Infancy, are entred into this Covenant of Grace? I anſwer,——

1. Externally, the Infants of Church Members are in Covenant ſo ſoon as they are quickened in the Womb.

2. Internally, they are in Covenant ſo ſoon as by the intervention of the Spirit they are wrought on ſavingly and effectually: now this may be either in the Womb; and ſo Godly Parents may comfortably hope of all their Infants as die in the Womb, before they ſee this World's light; or after Birth, at any time, before they become adult: Only as we will not limit the Spirit, ſo we cannot but probably think, that the time of the Spirit's Regeneration is ordinarily in this caſe, the very time of their Baptiſm. Thus a Modern ſpeaks: Although God be not bound to his Ordinance of Baptiſm, ſo as to give grace to all Elect Children at the inſtant of their Baptiſm, yet ſeeing Sacraments are not only bare Signs and Seals of the Covenant, but Conduits of the Grace of the Covenant, when, and in what manner God is pleaſed to diſpence it; I know not why the Sacrament of Baptiſm to ſome Elect Children, (I mean to thoſe that die in Infancy,) may not be indeed the Laver of Regeneration, and they receive the Grace of Baptiſm with the ſign: For no perſon can enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, except his Perſon be juſtified, and his Nature ſanctified, and God uſeth to diſpence theſe Graces in ſome Ordinance or other; and ſeeing ſuch Infants live not to be capable of any other Ordinance, why ſhould I not believe them Regenerated in Baptiſm? If this Opinion may be thought of any to favour the Papacy, that holds the Sacrament to be effectual, ex opere operato: He anſwers ſolidly, that his Opinion ſtands at a great diſtance from theirs; for that by their Doctrine they make no difference between Good and Bad, Elect or Non-Elect, in the participation of thoſe Benefits: They hold that in Baptiſm all Infants that receive it are actually Regenerate, whereas he reſtrains the Efficacy of that Ordinance only to the Elect; and he admits not all of them neither, for he excludes thoſe of the Elect that afterwards live to come under the means of Regeneration, only he ſuppoſeth a poſſibility and probability, that in ſome Elect Infants, (viz. thoſe that die in Infancy) the ſeaſon of God's doing that, which all Chriſtians acknowledge is done at one time or other before the ſeparation of Soul and Body, (ſc. their Renovation, Juſtification, and Sanctification) is rather the time of Baptiſm, than any other time.

Mr. Ford in his Infant-Baptiſm.

If any demand, how can Infants in the Womb, or in their Infancy be juſtified and ſanctified? Is not Juſtification beſtowed on believing? and is not Sanctification conveyed to us in the attendance upon the outward and ordinary means? The anſwer is, That God juſtifies them upon another account, and ſanctifies them in another way, than thoſe that are of Age: and for this my Author cites another; ſaying, As in the bodily life, one Organ is the inſtrument of nouriſhment to the Child in the Womb, another when born; ſo in the conveyance of ſpiritual life, 'tis one way to a Child, another to one of years: For this is not the moſt univerſal Propoſition of the Goſpel [he that believeth ſhall be ſaved,] but this, [he that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son hath not life:] now God gives his Son by the Spirit, and we receive him by Faith: but God can ſupply the want of that hand in a Child, by dropping into his mouth what he cannot receive with his hand, as I may ſay. All this I have ſaid of Infants dying in the Womb, or in their infancy; but as for ſuch, whoſe life God prolongs till they come to years of age and diſcretion, I have already delivered my mind in the former Sections.

Sect. 4. Of the Priviledges of Elect Infants living beyond that time, but for preſent under Satan's Power.

WE ſee it may be well with Elect Infants dying in their Infancy; but what ſay we of them who may live longer, and are for preſent under Satan's power? have they no Priviledge above thoſe Children that are not Elect?

I anſwer, Yes; and I may inſtance in theſe particulars.

1. They have God's love, Jacob have I loved, ſaid God of Jacob before he was born: which muſt needs be as true of Jacob when he was born: There is in God a love of benevolence, and that is afforded to Elect Infants whilſt yet carnal, and dead in ſin: as a Woman lately conceiving loves her future fruit, ſo the Lord loves thoſe whom he purpoſeth for himſelf: Indeed, his love of complacency is not till their change and converſion, but his love of benevolence, is from eternity.

Rom. 11. 7, 28.
2. They have a right to the Covenant of Fore-Fathers. This difference the Apoſtle makes between Jews and Jews, The Election have obtained, and the Election are beloved for the Father's ſake. I ſpeak here of the Covenant of God with Fore-Fathers, as it undergoes an abſtracted conſideration from the perſonal Covenant with us by Faith: Infants of believers are far from actual Faith, and yet they have this Priviledge, that the ancient Covenant betwixt God and their Fore-Fathers hath run (as it were) down in a line to them: and upon this account, Godly Fathers many times ſpeak for their tender Babes, before they are able to ſpeak for themſelves; they plead a Covenant entailed, and put it into ſuit for them, whiles they are not yet but as a ſpan long: as if every ſuch a one ſhould ſay, Lord, here is a Child conceived in ſin; and born in ſin; the very guilt and pollution of his Nativity renders him obnoxious to eternal fire; and yet thou haſt ſaid, I will be thy God, and the God of thy Seed; and the Promiſe is to you, and to your Children; and thou haſt ſtiled thy ſelf a God, ſhewing mercy unto thouſands of Generations of them that love thee; and thy Word is clear, that the Election is beloved for the Father's ſake: Now therefore be merciful to my poor Child that comes of ſuch and ſuch a Race, even for the Covenant ſake.

3. They have a right to the inward part of Baptiſm; as to Regeneration, Renovation, Remiſſion of Sins, &c. You will ſay, if Infants were then regenerated, they could not be under Satan's Power. I grant the improbability of their being actually regenerate until years of diſcretion, and yet by Baptiſm they have jus ad rem, a remote right to thoſe initial Graces. Sacraments were never intended by God to exert their vertue only in, or during the adminiſtration. As in the Lord's Supper, Chriſtians by their experiences can teſtifie, that the benefit is moſt-what after the receiving of it: ſo in Baptiſm it may be many Years after the receiving of it: For otherwiſe it would follow, that Baptiſm would be altogether a barren Sacrament all our lives long; except only during the little time of its adminiſtration. Oh, what a bleſſed Priviledge is this! the Non-Elect may indeed be baptized, and have the waſhing of water: but the Elect, ſooner or later, are baptized alſo with the Holy Ghoſt and with Fire; they have that initial Sacrament for the beſtowing of initial Graces upon them in the Lord's own time.

Heb.1.14. 4. They have the tutelage of Angels. Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them who ſhall be heirs of Salvation; It is true, they are under Satan's Power; Devils move in them, dwell in them, reign in them; they keep the houſe of poor Infants Souls, and they are in quiet and peaceable poſſeſſion; yet notwithſtanding all this, the Holy Angels have a charge from God to ſee thoſe Infants, and to preſerve them charily as choſen Veſſels (maugre the Dominion of Satan) againſt the time he ſhall manifeſt himſelf unto them. But of this Priviledge more fully in another diſcourſe.

Sect. 5. Of the Duty of Wreſtling, that concerns Parents in this reſpect.

2. THE Duties that concern us in our wreſtling with Satan, as to his firſt Aſſaults, are either Parents Duties, or Childrens. 1. For the Parents, they are to perform ſome Duties before, and ſome after their Childrens birth.

1. The Duties before they are born are theſe.

1. Let the Parents be humbled for that ſin which they tranſmit to their Children. Oh, how ſhould this pierce their hearts, that in Adam all ſinned, and by reaſon of that ſin both they and theirs are all defiled. Good Lord (may they ſay) is not this lamentable, that we ſhould derive ſin from our Parents, and that we ſhould convey the ſame ſin to our Children! that we ſhould make our little ones ſo ſoon as they live Vaſſals of Satan, and Objects of God's Wrath! Oh, the wo of this ſin! did we but rightly conſider it; what is this Original ſin, but in ſome ſenſe all ſin, and univerſal guilt? it makes the Underſtanding guilty, the Will guilty, the Affections guilty, even guilt all over; there is no part of Man, no not his Mind, nor his Conſcience, but it is all over defiled with this Sin; this is the Sin, that is the Root and Fountain of all the actual Evils we commit every day: is not every one tempted, and drawn aſide by his own Luſt? Oh wretched Babes, whom we have begotten after this Image! how juſt were it now that God ſhould turn you out of your Mothers Womb into Hell flames? and are we the Inſtruments of your damnation, except the mercy of God God ſhall prevent it? O deplorable condition! O wretched men that we are! Here's matter of Humiliation.

2. Let Parents call to remembrance, and improve the free and gracious Covenant which God hath made with them and their poſterity; I am thy God, and the God of thy Seed: for the promiſe is unto you, and to your Children: Gen.17.7, 9. Act.2.39. It is true, that by Natural Generation the Children of Believing Parents are defiled with ſin, and ſo under wrath; and yet they are holy by Covenant, and free acceptation: We ſee the Promiſe is not only to the Parents, but alſo to their Children: Oh, then that this Promiſe may come into remembrance! Oh, that Parents would improve this Promiſe, and make ſure, (as much as in them lies) that their Children are indeed under the promiſe! But what can they do to make this hopefully ſure? I anſwer,——

1. Let them make ſure that they themſelves are under the promiſe: If their Evidences are but clear, that they have an intereſt in the Covenant of Grace, and that God is their God in Chriſt, then may they have a comfortable hope that God will be the God even of their Seed alſo.

2. Let them give themſelves unto God by a renewed Covenant: Let them again reſign up themſelves in all things to be guided by his Word. Surely, they that would give their Children up unto God, muſt firſt give up themſelves. As the Promiſe is made to the Faithful, ſo that Faith which truly acts in Dedication of Children to God, muſt firſt draw the Parties themſelves to yield up their Souls and Bodies as a Living Sacrifice unto the ſame God.

3. Let them offer their Children up unto God by hearty Prayer: God's Promiſe to accept our Children, calls for prayer on our part, that he would be pleaſed to make good his promiſe. Thus 2 Sam. 7. 27. David reaſoned, Thou, O Lord of Hoſts, God of Iſrael, haſt revealed to thy Servant, ſaying, I will build thee an Houſe, therefore hath thy Servant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee: And ſo ſhould every Parent ſay unto God, O Lord of Hoſts, God of Iſrael, thou haſt covenanted to be my God, and the God of my Seed; therefore am I bold to entreat thy Fatherly acceptance of my poor Pſal. 127.3 Infant: Haſt thou not ſaid, that Children are an Heritage of the Lord, and that the fruit of the Womb is thy reward? Oh, that this Child may be one of thy Heritage of the Society of Saints, and that thou wouldeſt be to it a God and Father in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; I preſs thee with thy promiſe, and I rely on thy promiſe; why Lord, I believe, help thou my unbelief.

2. The Duties after they are born are theſe.——

1. Let the Parents give up their Children again to God. We read in Chriſt's time, that ſome devout Perſons Luk. 10. 13, 16. brought their Children to Chriſt, putting them into his hands and arms; And thus ſhould Parents deal with their Children, no ſooner they are born, and received by their Parents from God, but they ſhould again by Prayer and Thankſgiving be offered up to God. Parents ſhould put them into his hands, and caſt them into his arms: q. d. Bleſſed Lord, thou haſt given us in mercy theſe tender Babes, and now we ſee them perfect in Limbs, and like thee in their Souls (for which we ever bleſs thy Name,) we deſire now to throw them into the hands of thy Fatherly Providence, and to caſt them into the arms of thy everlaſting Mercy: own them, we humbly pray thee, as thy Children in Jeſus Chriſt.

2. Let Parents tender them to the Ordinance of Baptiſm, that they may receive the Sign and Seal of Regeneration. . But what needs this (ſay ſome Phanaticks) is not the promiſe it ſelf ſufficient? and cannot God make it good unto our Children without this Sacrament? I anſwer, Yes, he can; but ſeeing God ſo far condeſcends to our weakneſs as to give us a Sign and Seal for the confirmation of our Faith, in this caſe to ſlight it, to neglect it, to refuſe it, what is it but to tempt God? This Sacrament is a Sign ordained by God, and ſhall we refuſe it? This was Ahaz caſe, the Lord bids him ask a ſign for the confirmation of his Faith in the promiſe, but he refuſeth it as a thing needleſs; I will not ask a ſign, neither will I tempt the Lord: Nay, Ahaz, in not asking Iſa. 7. 12. it at God's command, therein thou didſt tempt the Lord. Indeed not to believe without a Sign, were in Mat. 12. 38, 39. ſome ſenſe to tempt the Lord. Maſter we would ſee a ſign from thee, ſaid the Scribes and Phariſees to Chriſt, for which he calls them an evil and adulterous Generation; but where God affords a Sign for the help of our infirmity, there to refuſe it, is both preſumption and rebellion. Nor is this Sacrament only a Sign, but a Seal; and howſoever the Promiſe may be made good without a Seal, yet cannot we urge the Promiſe with the ſame evidence and ground of aſſurance, as when the Seal is added to the Promiſe; otherwiſe it muſt needs follow, that the Sacraments add nothing at all to the Covenant, in point of certainty and evidence. Away, away with theſe Heterodox Doctrines, and let all that fear God take heed of contemning or neglecting this Ordinance of God. Chriſtians! bring your Children to Baptiſm; and when you bring them, indeavour to affect your Hearts with ſuitable diſpoſitions to that action. As——

1. Have an high thankful eſteem of the rich mercy of God in Chriſt to you and yours. Is it not an honour that God ſhould make your Iſſue the Nurſery of the viſible Church, that Chriſtianity through a Covenant of Grace ſhould deſcend in your Line, and become in a ſort (as we may ſay) hereditary. Surely, the trueſt nobility is to be made a Chriſtian. Theodoſius was more glad to be called a Chriſtian, than to be the Emperour of the World. You would think it a great honour if you could but make your Children Heirs of the World, but what Honour is this, that God makes them by Covenant and Seal, Heirs of Heaven? Oh, for an Heart raiſed up, and inlarged in thankfulneſs for this!

2. Rejoice in the Lord, and again I ſay rejoice. Is there not cauſe? What is this day of Baptiſm, but the day of our Childrens eſpouſals to Jeſus Chriſt? Now they have his Name put upon them, and he makes them a Jointure beyond the abilities of all the Monarchs of the World, now they are his † Souldiers, his Sons and Daughters, by a Spirit of Adoption ſealed in Baptiſm. I remember when Jacob bleſſed the Sons of Joſeph, Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, he bleſſed them thus, *Let my name be named upon them, and the names of my Father A*braham and Iſaac, Gen. 48. 16. He adopted them for his Sons, they muſt be two of the twelve Tribes of Iſrael, to have an Inheritance with them in the Land of Canaan. So when God puts his Name upon your Children, he ſignifieth and aſſureth that they are his Sons, * Ye are all the Children of God by Faith in Chriſt Jeſus, for as many of you as have been baptized into Chriſt, have put on Chriſt.

Sect. 6. Of the Duties that concern Children in this reſpect.

1. FOR the Children or Parties themſelves when grown.——

1. Let them bewail their own original ſin. Oh, that as this is the firſt ſin, ſo it might be firſt taken notice of! Oh, that ſo ſoon as Children come to ripeneſs they would conſider thus: Bleſſed Lord, how comes this to paſs? the Pſalmiſt tells me, I was Pſal. 51. 5. ſhapen in iniquity, and in ſin hath my Mother conceived me: Oh, I am a Child of Adam, the Son or Daughter of a ſinful brood: he was the Rock whence I was hewen, and the hole of the pit whence I was digged, and who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean? not one. As ſoon as ever I lived I was polluted, and for that one ſin, if I had never ſinned more, the Lord might juſtly have condemned my Soul long ſince to Hell, and am I yet alive? Why Lord, what a long Reprieve have I enjoyed? How Job 14. 4. many years have I lived in a condemned condition? Oh, that I had been the Child of a Toad, or Serpent, or venomous Creature; for ſurely God doth not loath and abhor their young ones, they are not by nature Objects of God's Wrath, neither doth Satan rule in them, nor are they expoſed to eternal Torments; but thus is the ſinful Off-ſpring of all mankind. Now I wonder not that Luther in the deeps, and troubles, and ſorrows of his heart, becauſe of this ſin, cryed out ſo pitifully, Oh, that I had never been a man! Now I wonder not that Paul, beſet with this original ſin, was forc'd to ſay, Oh, wretched man that I am, who ſhall deliver me from this body of death? In this or the like manner ſhould they bewail themſelves. Many are apt to mourn for actual ſin, but few mourn for this ſin, that firſt made the breach and began the Controverſie betwixt God and Man. Surely the horrible nature of this firſt ſin is not well underſtood; Chriſtians, let me tell you, next unto the ſin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, and contempt of the Goſpel, this is the greateſt ſin, that cryes loudeſt in God's Ears for vengeance day and night againſt a World of men. Oh, then let Children grown take notice of this, and bewail this ſin.

2. Let them urge the Covenant of God made to them in their Fathers. q. d. Lord, we are ſinners from the womb, and yet by good providence we are ſprung of a believing Race: was there not a League of old betwixt thee, and our Fathers, and wilt thou not remember thy gracious promiſe to them and us? Should David do kindneſs to Mephiboſheth for his Father Jonathan's ſake, and are there no remnants of Love in thy Breaſt towards the Poſterity of thy old dear Friends? why remember, Lord, the unfeigned Faith that dwelt in our Grandmother Lois, or in our Mother Eunice, or in ſome other of our Godly Progenitors; and remember how often they acted their Faith upon that Promiſe that thou wouldeſt be the God of them and theirs: Did they not preſs thee with thy Promiſe on our behalf? Did they not pray to thee once and again, to be good and gracious unto us their Children? Why dear Father, the God of our Fathers, and our God; wilt thou pleaſe to read over the Petitions which are yet on file in Heaven on our behalf: nay wilt thou pleaſe to read over thy Anſwers to them, when as yet our bones were only written in thy Book! Oh, let it never be ſaid that Children deſcended of ſuch a Prayerful Race are caſt out of thy favour, or that the Prayers of that Race ſhould become unſucceſsful unto us, on whoſe behalf they were put up. What though we were conceived and born in ſin? and what though Satan doth claim and challenge us for his own? yet thou waſt pleaſed to enter into a Covenant of Grace, and thou haſt ſtiled thy ſelf to be the God of Abraham and his Seed: O now remember thy Word, and remember thy Promiſe, and remember the Covenant, and remember our Fathers in Covenant with thee for thy Mercies ſake.

3. Let them ſue out the Grace and Benefit of their former Baptiſm: They had the outward waſhing before, but not the inward waſhing till now: why now let them preſs hard for this. Now Satan wreſtles, and now ſhould they wreſtle (as we ſhall hear more particularly another time) now ſhould every ſuch a one cry to God, Come Lord Jeſu, come quickly, O reſcue thy Creature out of Satan's ſlavery: See, he holds me faſt in his Net, and Gins, and Snares, and he will not let me go; he tells me, I am one of his Subjects, a Goat of his Fold; but Lord, doſt thou not know that I have had thy Sheep-mark upon me from a Lamb? was not I born in thy Family? and did I not in Baptiſm put on Chriſt Sacramentally? O that now I may put him on ſavingly: It is true, the Sacramental waſhing in water is not enough; and is it not high time for me now to make out after Sacramental Grace to cleanſe my filthy nature? Had I not need to apply my ſelf to thoſe promiſes, whereby I may be made partaker of a new nature? Lord, I come to the Fountain opened in the Goſpel for ſin, and for uncleanneſs: O ſprinkle clean water upon me, regenerate me (as thou haſt already with water, ſo) now with the ſpirit: beſtow on me the inward and ſpiritual part of my Baptiſm, ſanctifie me in purſuance of thy promiſe ſealed therein by the Word, and preſent my Soul to thy ſelf without ſpot or wrinkle, or any ſuch thing.

See theſe Meditations enlarged by Mr. Ford in his Infant Baptiſm.

4. Let them repent of their Apoſtaſie, and breach of Vows, ſince they were admitted into Covenant with God. This brings into their remembrance all their actual ſins, and ſeaſonably they are to be remembred, and repented of, when they mind converſion. The Spirit's firſt work is to convince of ſin: of ſin original, and of ſin actual, and amongſt other aggravations of actual ſins, this is a great and mighty aggravation, the breach of Vows. But what Vows were made by them whilſt they were Infants? I anſwer, they vowed to be God's and Chriſt's; they vowed to forſake the World, and Fleſh, and Devil, and to manage war againſt them all their days: they vowed to fight under the Banner of Chriſt, and to be his Soldiers, and to maitain his cauſe, and to promote his Kingdom. For underſtanding whereof, we muſt take notice of a double Vow: the firſt is a vertual Vow, when we vow legally, though in our own perſons we promiſe nothing. The ſecond is a formal Vow, when in expreſs terms we take upon us any Obligation: Infants, whilſt Infants, cannot vow formally, but they do vertually; their Fathers ſtand inſtead of themſelves and Infants, and privately at their firſt quickning in the Womb, but ſolemnly at their Baptiſm in the Church, they bind themſelves, and their Seed to God in this manner. Know all men by theſe Preſents, that J. A. do hereby oblige my ſelf, and my Heirs, and poſterity from me deſcending, to the great God of Heaven and Earth, in all the Duties required in the Law and Goſpel. Now this Vow is it that vertually was made by Infants: they could not do it in their own perſons; and therefore by a gracious Prolepſis God accepts it on their behalf, thus made and ſigned, by their mediate, or immediate Parents. And have they not many and many a time broken theſe Sacred vows? have they not as ſoon as they could learn to ſpeak, begun to ſwear and lie? have they not very early forfeited their bonds, and entered into a contrary Covenant and confederacy with the Devil, and Death, and Hell, and their own Luſts, and maintained a War rather with God than Devils, with abundance of youthful heat and activity? Oh, then what remains, but that they ſhould remember from whence they are fallen, and repent, and renew their Covenant with God in their own Perſons, with all poſſible ſpeed and ſeriouſneſs. And thus much for our wreſtling with Satan, or repelling Satan, as to his firſt Aſſaults.

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

Of the Devil's Aſſaults in our Youth, or at the time of Converſion.

THE Second Period, wherein Satan aſſaults or combates with us, it is from our youth to our riper years: or eſpecially from the beginning to the end of our Converſion. And in proſecution of this, firſt learn we ſome of thoſe depths and wiles, and methods of Satan in his aſſaults: and ſecondly, practiſe we thoſe Duties that concern us in our wreſtling with him in theſe reſpects.

1. For Satan's Aſſaults; then he begins his ſtrongeſt Batteries, or main temptations, when we are firſt entring into a renewed ſtate: Now this is moſt uſual in the days of our youth. So many of our Worthies obſerve: One ſpeaking of young People, ſaith, Amongſt them uſually the ſtream of converting Grace moſt runs.—— It may be in ſome: Grace is wrought very early, even in Child-hood, but ordinarily 'tis after they come un- der catechizing; and are more adult. Another thus: Converſion doth not only belong to the old but to the young: yea commonly Converſion is ſooner wrought upon the young ſort of people, for they have not reſiſted the Grace of God ſo much, they have not provoked God to give them up to their own Hearts, Luſts, and Deſires, as many aged perſons have: ſo then let young ones hearken to Sermons, let them attend to what the Miniſters of God exhort, Eccl.12.1. Lam.3.27. Remember thy Creator in the days of thy Youth; and it is good to bear the yoke in thy youth; it is good to feel the bitterneſs of ſin betimes. Vortier's effectual calling. Another thus, The Lord can convert and bring home to himſelf at all times, in middle age, in old age, at the very laſt, as the Thief upon the Croſs; yet the time of effectual calling is more ordinary in the time of youth. Some have obſerved the time of effectual calling to be between the years of eighteen and thirty moſt commonly. —— And I believe that moſt Saints experience, that the Lord wrought upon them in their younger days. —— Marriages are moſt in younger time; ſo are ſpiritual contracts in Jeſus Chriſt: David was good when young, Daniel a young Prophet, Timothy a young Hammon's exercitation of confirmation Preacher, Samuel began with God betimes, Abijah good when a Child, ſo was Joſiah. Another thus, Thoſe who in their Infancy were conſidered as parts of their Parents, and ſo by vertue of their Parents memberſhip injoyned the Ordinance of Baptiſm; whence once grown up to maturity and ripeneſs of years, they are to be looked upon and conſidered in themſelves, and no longer as in their Parents, and therefore as being in a capacity ſo to do, they ought now to take hold of the Covenant for themſelves, and to render a perſonal account of their Faith. It pleaſeth God that many do ſo even very betimes: which agrees with the former opinion, that ſome are regenerated after they come under Buxtorf. in Synt. c. 3. Catechizing. It was the uſe of the Jews (as Buxtorf reports) ‘that ſo ſoon as their circumciſed Children were able to ſpeak, they taught them ſome ſelect places of Scripture, and ſo proceeding on by degrees, at thirteen years of age they were called filii præcepti, Sons of the Precept; and then they were to receive the Paſſover (as ſaith Mr. Weens) and to obſerve the 613 Synt. l. 1. c.5. Sect. 4. Par. 1. Precepts, which comprehended in them the ſum of the Moſaical Law, and Jewiſh Religion; and then they themſelves were accounted guilty and lyable to puniſhment both Divine and Humane, if they did tranſgreſs the Law, whereas before their faults were imputed to their Fathers, of whom the puniſhment was exacted. The manner of the Jews, it ſeems was thus: The Son being thirteen years compleat, The Father calls ten Jews to witneſs; ſaying, that his Son is now of age, hath been inſtructed in the Precepts, well learned their Cuſtoms, and can readily recite the benedictions and dayly Prayers, and therefore he is willing to be henceforth free, and to ſhake off the Sins of his Son; after which he concludes with Prayer, beſeeching God that his Son may grow up into many years and good works. I hope I may ſay of Gentiles, as well as Jews, that Converſion is ſometimes very early, even ſo early as at thirteen years of age, though it be not ordinary. And oh, how good is it for a man to bear the yoke in his youth, ſeeing it muſt be born at one time or other? the burthen of ſin at that age will be the lighter, the flowing of Heavenly Affections will be the ſweeter, the removal of Sin, in all likelihood, will be ſooner, at leaſt the ſurer, God having engaged himſelf, Prov.8.17. that they that ſeek him early ſhall find him. Satan knows all this full well, and therefore he ſets a ſtricter watch on youth; he obſerves all the motions, ſtirrings, actings of the Soul, and of God's Spirit at ſuch a time moſt narrowly: and if he ſpy any thing that may probably diſturb him of his Poſſeſſion, he preſently foams and fumes, and prepares himſelf for Battel, and now he is ready with all his fiery Darts (his thouſands of temptations) to throw them at him, that would throw down his Kingdom.

BUT what ails Satan, that he begins thus to rage? it was but ere-while that he kept the houſe quietly, and poſſeſſed all in peace; and is he now diſturbed? O yes; for now the Soul begins to conſider, it was but lately that the man was at ſome Sermon, or read ſome Book, or obſerved ſome providence, or heard ſome pray: Some Goſpel-news, or glad Tidings is freſhly come, that Jeſus Chriſt is in the Field, ſent of God on this very account, to reſcue Souls from the Devil's power; and to that end he hath made a Proclamation, that if any poor Sinner weary of the Devil's Government, and heavy laden with the Chains of his Spiritual Bondage, will but come and repair to Chriſt, he ſhall have protection from God's Juſtice, the Devil's Wrath, and Sin's Dominion. This, or the like meſſage hath perſwaded the Soul to pauſe, to conſider, to ponder, commune with it ſelf what it had beſt to do.

Conſideration is the firſt ſtep to Repentance; the Prodigal firſt came to himſelf before he came to his Father; he conſidered with himſelf what a ſtarving condition he was in; his Husks were poor Meat, and yet he had not enough of them neither; but at his Father's Houſe was Bread enough, and to ſpare, and ſhould he periſh with Hunger? It is uſual with the Soul thus at firſt to conſider with it ſelf, And am I a Satan's Vaſſal, and under Satan's power? and ſhall I tontinue in this ſtate? is not the ſweet Government of Chriſt a thouſand times better than the Tyranny of Satan? and is not Chriſt's Rewards a thouſand thouſand times better than the Devil's Wages? What is not Heaven better than Hell? and did I not promiſe to fight under Chriſt's Banner againſt the World, Fleſh, and Devil? How is it then that I have ſerved him thus long? and that yet he leads me captive at his will and pleaſure? What if this Night I ſhould leave this World in this ſtate? What would become of me to all Eternity? could I be content to loſe God, and Chriſt, and the Joy above, and to dwell with Devils, and Reprobates, and all thoſe Infernal Fiends below? Conſider, O my Soul, and have ſad thoughts on theſe weighty and everlaſting Affairs; for as the Tree falleth, ſo it muſt lye for ever and ever. This or the like conſideration, is the Devil's Alarum: now he is occaſioned to beſtir himſelf, or he ſees he is gone; and therefore as a Gyant awoke out of ſleep, he rouzeth and ſhakes himſelf, and beſets the Soul with theſe ſeveral Temptations following.

Sect. 3. Of the ſeveral immediate Aſſaults that Satan at firſt doth make.

HIS Aſſaults in this caſe are either immediate, or mediate; by himſelf, or Aids.

1. He aſſaults by himſelf, either by removing thoſe pious Thoughts tending to Holineſs, or by injecting ſuch impious thoughts as tend to Wickedneſs.

1. He endeavours to remove pious thoughts. q. d. What do theſe Strangers here? How come theſe Gueſts into my Houſe and Dwelling without my leave? Are theſe fit Companions for the Soul where I bear rule? away with them, ſhut them out of Doors, for I cannot endure them in my Territories.

2. He injects impious thoughts inſtead of good, theſe are the Darts which he throws into the Soul at pleaſure; and now is he moſt buſie, leſt the Soul want work to buſie it ſelf withal. By his good will, (ſaith one) the Soul ſhould not have a thought of Heaven or Hell from one end of the week to the other; and that he may have as few as may be, he keeps him full handed with work: The Sinner grinds, and he is filling the Hopper, that the Mill may not ſtand ſtill: he is with the Sinner as ſoon as he wakes, and fills his wretched Heart with ſome wicked thoughts; and all the day long he watcheth him, and injects more ill thoughts; and at night, like a careful Jaylor, he locks him up again in his Chamber, with more Bolts and Fetters upon him, not ſuffering him to ſleep as he lies in his Bed, till he hath done ſome miſchief.

Gurnal's Chriſtian Armour.

Before I proceed, I ſhall propound theſe Queſtions.

1. Whether Satan knows our thoughts? 2. Whether Satan can ſhut the Door that good thoughts may not enter? 3. Whether Satan can at pleaſure inject ſinful thoughts, and ſo ſet on the Soul to imbrace them, and to tamper with them.

1. Whether Satan knows our Thoughts? I anſwer; As Thoughts are taken ſtrictly, ſimply, or meerly for Conceits, Apprehenſions, Meditations, Diſcuſſions, Deliberations, which the Underſtanding or Mind in and by it ſelf, or by the help of fancy frames within it ſelf, they are not known unto Satan: but as Thoughts are taken largely, conjunctly, or as they are accompanied and waited on with the ſtirred up Images of the Fancy, and Paſſions of the Body; ſo our Thoughts, as well as Words and Actions, are known to Satan. Now I muſt confeſs, few Thoughts are in us, but they ſtir up the Fancy, or ſome Affection of Fear, or Joy, or Grief, or ſome ſuch like; and therefore in that reſpect we have very few Thoughts but they are known to Satan: That Satan hath an inſight into the Fancy and the images therein, there is no doubt; and that Satan hath an inſight into the Paſſions, which are but the flowing and reflowing of Corporal Spirits, the moſt will grant; it muſt therefore needs follow, that howſoever the immediate Acts, which are immanent in the Soul it ſelf are utterly hidden from Satan, yet as thoſe Acts are do tranſire, and appear, and are put forth in the Body and Corporeal Organs, either outwardly in actions, or inwardly in the images of the Fancy, or in the Paſſions, ſo they may be diſcerned and known by Satan.

2. Whether Satan can ſhut the Door, that good thoughts may not enter? I anſwer, in natural men, as yet unregenerate, he may ſhut the common Gate of the Fancy, that no good Thoughts ſhall enter in that way; and the reaſon is, becauſe the Devil hath the Keys in his own hands of all the Rooms, next to the Privy Chamber; he rules there, and locks or unlocks at his pleaſure. For the better underſtanding of this, we muſt know that within man are ſeveral Rooms or Chambers; the Fancy, the Affections, the Heart or Soul, which conſiſts of the Underſtanding and Will; the Underſtanding is joined to the Fancy, as the next room to it; and the Will is joined to the Affections, as the next room to it; hence the Fancy brings in to the Underſtanding, and the Affections bring in to the Will: and on the other ſide, the Underſtanding imprints much upon the Fancy what it conceives, and the Will imprints much upon the Affections what it commands: Now for the outer Rooms, as Satan can diſcern them intuitively, ſo he can work upon them at his pleaſure; in the Fancy he can make ſuch Compoſitions, as the Underſtanding may preſently take off, and read what is written there; and in the ſenſitive Paſſions, ſuch as Love, Hatred, Anger, Concupiſcence, he can ſo move the Humours and Spirits in which they float, that the Will is apt to chuſe and command accordingly as the Paſſions are moved there; but for the moſt inner Room or privy Chamber, wherein we place the Underſtanding and Will, as Satan cannot intuitively or immediately diſcern it, ſo neither can he imperiouſly or efficaciouſly work upon it. Indeed (ſaith * a Modern) to ſpeak exactly, the Devil hath no efficient power over the rational part of a man, he cannot change the Will, he cannot alter the Heart of a Man, neither doth he know the thoughts of a man, ſo that the utmoſt he can do in tempting of a man to ſin, is by ſwaſion and ſuggeſtion only; but then how doth the Devil do this? even by working upon the Imagination; Learned men make this his method, that he obſerveth the temper, and bodily conſtitution of a man, and thereupon ſuggeſts to his fancy, and injects his fiery Darts thereinto, by which the Mind and Will come to be wrought upon: for it is Ariſtotle*'s rule, that* Phantaſmata movent intellectum ſicut ſenſibilia ſenſum, that Phantaſms and Imaginations move the Underſtanding, as the objects of ſenſe being preſent do preſently move the ſenſe; the Devil then though he have no imperious efficacy over the Underſtanding and Will, yet becauſe he can ſtir and move the Imagination, it follows that any ſin in the Imagination, though but in the outward works of the Soul, yet doth it quickly lay hold on all. Well then, if Satan be Lord of the outer-works, and if through thoſe Doors and Chambers every good thought muſt uſually enter, before it comes into the privy-chamber; if (as the School-men ſay) the Underſtanding receives things by the mediation firſt of the external Senſes, then of the Fancy, of which the Memory is the Treaſure, ſo that all comes to us in ordinary no way but that; how eaſily may we conclude, that Satan will bar, and lock, and ſhut thoſe Doors in men unregenerate, that no good thought ſhall enter in that way: Nor doth this at all trench on that Prerogative of God, who is ſaid alone to be the Heart-ſearcher, the Underſtanding's Light, and Will's Determiner; for he knows either immediately how to ſpeak to the Soul, or he can countermand the Devil's power, and ſpeak by the Senſes and Fancy, maugre the malice of Satan and all his power.

*M. Burges of original ſin.

3. Whether Satan can at pleaſure inject ſinful Thoughts, and ſet on the Soul to embrace them, or to tamper with them? I anſwer. As he hath a power to hinder good Thoughts, ſo he hath a power to ſuggeſt evil Thoughts. It is clearly and expreſly ſaid of Judas that the Devil put it into his heart to betray Chriſt: The Devil being a Spirit, had acceſs to his Spirit, and ſo he inſtilled his Suggeſtions into him. As the Lord Chriſt did breath upon his Diſciples, and ſo they received the Holy Ghoſt, and were filled with the Spirit; ſo Satan breaths filthy Suggeſtions into the Spirits of wicked men, and fills them with all manner of wickedneſs, Malice, Unrighteouſneſs, he fills them with the Spirit of Hell; Why hath Satan filled thine heart, ſaid Peter to Ananias? Satan had filled his Heart to lie to the Holy Ghoſt. I know the Devil tempts ſeveral ways: as ſometimes he preſents and holds up an Object, and and ſo he dealt with Jeſus Chriſt, repreſenting the World's Glory to him in a Map, or a Landskip: and uſually Objects are firſt preſented, which he cauſeth to dwell upon the Fancy, till the Heart be inſnared: But ſometimes, yea oftentimes the Devil tempts through the immiſſion of Thoughts, which he doth alſo by the help of the Fancy; for otherwiſe how ſhould the Devil tempt to Deſpair, or to Blaſphemy, or to Spiritual Sins; or how ſhould he blind the Mind by carnal Imaginations, and Conceits, and obſtinate Prejudices againſt the Truth? And theſe Thoughts once immitted, may be continued in a Diſcourſe, till at laſt the Soul both tampers with them, and yields unto them. I have done with theſe Queſtions; and now we ſee how Satan aſſaults by himſelf.

Sect. 4. Of the ſeveral mediate Aſſaults that Satan at firſt doth make.

1. HE aſſaults mediately and by his Aids, he likes not that the Soul ſhould have any thoughts of leaving him, or of coming to Chriſt: The very firſt Meditation gives all the Legions of Hell an Alarm, as it were; they are as much troubled at it, as Herod and Jeruſalem were when they heard the news that Chriſt was born: and therefore they call in all their Aids, and command them to ſtifle thoſe Holy Thoughts and Conſiderations.

Theſe Aids are either the World or Fleſh.

1. By the World I underſtand impious, carnal, and unbelieving men, with all their Baits and Enticements unto Vanity; and all their Diſcouragements, Afflictions and Miſeries, wherewith they hinder God's Children in travelling the path of Righteouſneſs which leads to Heaven. This wicked World aſſaults us on both ſides; on the right hand it offers us the Bait of Pleaſure, Honours, Riches, that thereby it may allure us to ſwallow the Hook of ſin: it caſts before us Golden Apples, that by ſtooping down to gather them, we may be hindred in running the Chriſtian Race, and ſo loſe the Goal and Garland of everlaſting Glory. On the left hand it encounters us with Threats, Miſeries, Afflictions, Poverty, Ignominy; all which being terrible in the eyes of fleſh and blood, ſo far prevail with ſome that they move them make ſhipwrack of Faith, and a good Conſcience.

Methinks I imagine the World ſpeaking to the Soul in ſuch a Language as this, What Strangers are theſe that diſturb our dwelling? have we not poſſeſt this Heart ſo many years; and muſt we now be gone, and give up our room to Foreigners that invade? Come take up other thoughts of the ſweet and pleaſure of this World; here Soul! we offer thee Wealth; or if that will not allure, thou ſhalt have Honour; or if that will not prevail, thou ſhalt have pleaſure. As Balak dealt with Balaam, who firſt ſent under-Meſſengers, and they not prevailing, he yet again ſent Princes, more and more honourable than they; and they came to Balaam, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Balak, the Son of Zippor, let nothing I pray thee hinder thee from coming unto me, for I will promote thee unto very great honour: ſo ſaith the World, Let nothing, I pray thee, divorce thee from me; for I will promote thee unto very great honour. Or, if theſe Allurements do not divert thy Soul, but ſtill it conſiders; Oh, what will become of me in the other World! Then doth the World frown, and threaten, and boaſt of his great ſtrength; then he marcheth againſt the Soul with all his Forces, ſometimes hiding his Troops in the Ambuſhments of worldly Vanities; and ſometimes drawing out his Forces in open view: q. d. Come Afflictions! and come Perſecutions! and ſet on this Soul by force and violence! will it needs run away from us in the ways of Godlineſs? be you like Briars in the way to hold it from going forwards? or be you like Thorns under its feet to vex and torment it, that it may be weary in its paſſage? And, Oh, the Vexations, Griefs, Fears, and Torments, which the frowning World darts into the Soul at ſuch a time!

Num. 22. 16, 17.

2. By the Fleſh, I mean not the body and the fleſh thereof, but that corruption of nature, which hath defiled the Body and Soul, being ſpread and mixt with every part of both, even as the Light is mixt with Darkneſs in the twilight, or dawning of the day; hereby we find our ſelves prone to all Sin, and ready to entertain all Temptations, which promiſe the ſatisfying the luſts of the Fleſh. This Enemy is called the old man; the old Adam; the earthly, carnal, natural man; the ſin which is inherent, and dwelleth in us; the adjoyning evil, the Law of the Members; the luſts of the Fleſh which fight againſt the Soul. As Satan is the Father, ſo the Fleſh is the Mother of Sin, which receiving Satan's temptations into a fruitful Womb, doth contain, nouriſh, and bring forth Sin.

Now as this is another of Satan's Aids, ſo methinks I imagine the Fleſh beſpeaking the Soul in this or the like kind, What manner of communication is this which thou haſt with my Enemy? Are Godly thoughts ſuitable to dwell with me? Or to ſit down with me? Am not I thy ſelf, conceived, and born, and brought up with thy ſelf? And wilt thou now entertain an Enemy, either to weaken, or deſtroy me? I cannot endure any thought tending to the ſpiritual man: thou canſt not but be ſenſible, that we two cannot reign together and flouriſh together in the ſame Soul at once: If the Spirit live I dye, and if the Spirit thrive, I periſh: and am I not nearer to thee, and dearer to thee than the Spirit? Was not I with thee in the Womb? and did I ever leave thee till this time? have not I ſtudied to pleaſe thee with all the Delights, and Incomes, and Pleaſures of this World? and wilt thou now turn thy back upon the old man, thy ancient acquaintance? See here a Legion of Luſts attending on thee; Come, let us greet, and embrace, and throw out theſe pious thoughts that ſeem to diſturb us in our dalliances. And thus we ſee how Satan aſſaults us by his Aids.

Sect. 5. Of the Duties that concern us, in reſpect of the immediate Aſſaults.

FOR the Duties in our wreſtling with Satan as to theſe Aſſaults, let Souls practiſe reſpectively. As———

1. To Satan's immediate Aſſaults uſe theſe repulſes.

1. Give entertainments to pious Thoughts, hear what they ſay; what if they are ſtrangers to thy unregenerate heart (for ſo I may yet ſuppoſe thee) this hinders not, but thou ſhould'ſt bid them welcom. It was the old Law, Love ye therefore the ſtrangers, for ye were ſtrangers in the Land of Egypt. And it is the Apoſtle's charge, be not forgetful to entertain ſtrangers, for thereby ſome have entertained Angels unawares. Holy thoughts are precious things, and if not Angels (ſtrictly ſo called) yet are they God's Meſſengers, and in that ſenſe Angels ſent from God: they are the immediate Fruits and Buds of an immortal nature; they come from God, and they tend to God: they never come but for good, nor do they dwell any where, but in the iſſue they give exceeding great Rewards.

Deut. 10. 19.
Heb. 13. 2.

Why! then cheriſh theſe motions of the Spirit, commune with them again and again; know the errand fully and throughly, on which they come from Heaven: their meaning is to bring up thy Soul from Earth to Heaven, and were it not pity to let them go before they have done the great buſineſs on which they come.

2. Complain of Satan's ſhutting the Doors againſt ſuch thoughts: tell thy God that his Enemy and thine has got the Poſſeſſion of thy Fancy and Affections, and of all the outer Rooms that lead to the Privy-Chamber of thy Heart; and that he hath put his Bars and Bolts ſo ſtrongly in, that thou canſt not open to thoſe ſtrangers. Yea, cry out againſt Satan and thy ſelf. O the tyranny of Satan! and oh the loathneſs of my own heart to entertain theſe holy thoughts! if they ſtand at the Door and offer their ſervice, do not I join with Satan, and bid them be gone? or if they ſtep in before I am aware, am not I weary, and willing with Satan 2 Cor.3.5. to drive them out again? Why Lord I am not ſufficient of my ſelf, to think any thing as of my ſelf, but my ſufficiency is of thee, if I endeavour never ſo much to wind up my Soul to an holy Meditation, preſently I find my Fancy or Imagination, like the Peggs of an Inſtrument ſlip between my fingers as I am winding them up, and to fall down ſuddenly again. Oh wo is me, that my nature is thus vile, and that Satan is thus ſtrong in me! Come Lord, and break open theſe Doors, that thy Meſſengers may come in, and find due welcom; all my ſufficiency is of thee, and thou art God allſufficient; Why Lord if thou wilt, thou canſt throw out Satan, and make room for theſe Harbingers, and Forerunners of thy Majeſty.

3. Stand and ſtartle at thoſe wicked thoughts, that come inſtead of the former good ones. Is Satan ſo buſie with thee, that now he hath filled thy heart with proud, unclean, or diſtruſtful thoughts? doth he now ſuggeſt, That there is no God, that the world is for ever, that Riches are better than Grace, that the Pleaſures of ſin are better than Hopes of Heaven? Oh ſhew thy abhorrency of them, and chide thy Soul ſharply for ſo much as holding any conference with them: But in this repulſe begin betimes, cruſh them early at the very firſt riſing, or Satan will prevail. It is not to tell what a world of miſeries man brings upon himſelf: by giving way to the firſt wicked thoughts. In the firſt place Iſa. 55. 7. therefore, remember that Text, Let the wicked man forſake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts.

Sect. 6. Of the Duties that concern us in reſpect of the mediate Aſſaults.

2. TO Satan's mediate Aſſaults by the World, or Fleſh, make uſe of theſe repulſes. As——

1. To his Aſſaults by the World, Conſider—

1. It is the Lord's command that we ſhould have no intimate, indeared Amity, or Correſpondency 1 Joh.2.15. with the World. Love not the World, neither the things that are in the World, if any man love the World, the love of the Father is not in him.

2. God and the World are at ſuch enmity, that Mat. 6.24. we cannot ſerve both. No man can ſerve two Maſters (that are oppoſite) for either he ſhall hate the one, and love the other, or elſe he ſhall lean to the one and deſpiſe the other; ye cannot ſerve God and Mammon. The Apoſtle herein appeals to our Conſciences; know ye not that the amity of the Jam. 4. 4. World is enmity with God? whoſoever therefore will be a friend of the World, maketh himſelf the Enemy of God. It is a rouzing queſtion, know ye not? worldly men do not ſo much out of ignorance, as out of incogitancy; they do not conſider: and what ſhould they conſider? That the amity of the World is enmity with God, that to pleaſe the World is to wage war againſt Heaven. Oh, conſider this ye that forget God.

3. In our Baptiſm we renounced the World, with all the vain Pomps and glorious Vanities thereof; then we profeſſed that we would couragiouſly fight againſt them under Chriſt? and ſhall we run away from the Banner of Chriſt? ſhall we caſt aſide the Livery of Jeſus Chriſt? ſhall we backſlide from our Religion in Truth and Power, and joyn in League with the profeſt Enemies of God and Chriſt? what is this but to be worſe, and more nefarious in the latter end, than we were in the beginning? For 2 Pet. 2. 20. if after we have eſcaped the pollutions of the World, through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, we are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worſe than the beginning.

4. What is the World, but changeable, variable, deceitful, miſerable? was there ever more experience of this truth than at this time? Oh, what tumblings and toſſings have been of late? how have men been deceived in their expectations and fruitions? fair ſhews have been repreſented to ſome, as they were to Chriſt, when the Devil ſhewed him Matt. 4.8. all the Kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them, and how many have fallen down and worſhipped? but are they not deceived! what matters the world's gorgeous ſhows? It is in touch a Feather, in ſight a ſhadow, in weight a Smoak, in truſt a Reed, in all deceitful. Achitophel for all his policy, Haman for all his ſway, Goliah for all his ſtrength, Nebuchadnezzar for all his pleaſure; theſe worldlings that ſuckt in the ſweets of this World, they found its deceit, and now feel its puniſhment. Wicked World! how doſt thou undo men with a world of Treacheries? it hates them that love it, deceives them that truſt it, afflicts them that ſerve it, reproaches them that honour it, damns them that follow it. Athanaſius tells of an Hermit to whom God ſhould reveal the ſtate of this World, Et omnia viſcoſa, omnia operta tenebris, & obſeſſa laqueis, All hanged full of nets and Devils ſate by to watch them. Go you over the whole world, behold Countries, view Provinces, look into Cities, hearken at Doors, ſee what is done in Halls, in Palaces, in private Houſes; are not the Devil's Snares in every corner? Juſtice is ſold, Shame is loſt, Truth is wreſted, Right deſpiſed; what lying, what ſlandering, what deceiving is there? the innocent are condemned, the guilty delivered, the wicked advanced, the Virtuous oppreſſed; Pride, Envy, Perjury, Vanity, theſe bear ſway.

Ah poor Soul! doth the World interpoſe to hinder thy conſideration, or thought of change? doth it tell thee of Riches, Honours, Pleaſures? ſay then with Chriſt, what if a man gain the whole world, and loſe his Soul? or doth it tell thee of Afflictions, Perſecutions, Torments? ſay then with the Apoſtle, That the afflictions of this life are not worthy of the Glory, which ſhall be revealed in us. Or if all this will not ſtop the mouth of the World, conſider again, and conſider of theſe particulars; the commands of Chriſt, the enmity betwixt the World and Chriſt, thy Promiſe and Vow, and firſt obligation to Chriſt; yea, conſider of what the World is, either in it ſelf, or to thy ſelf; and then bid it be gone; away world, for it is written, the time is ſhort,——and the faſhion of this world paſſeth 1 Cor.7.31 away.

2. To his Aſſaults by the Fleſh, Conſider——

1. It is the Lord's command that we ſhould depoſe the Fleſh; Let not ſin reign in your mortal bodies, Rom.6.11 that

Eph. 4.22. that ye ſhould obey it in the luſts thereof. And put Col. 3. 5. off the old man, which is corrupt, according to the deceitful luſts. And mortifie your members which are upon Earth, as Fornication, Uncleanneſs, inordinate Affection, evil Concupiſcence.

2. The Fleſh is a worſe Enemy than the Devil himſelf; for never could the Devil hurt us, if this inbred Enemy did not betray us: This is the Root, the Fountain, the Origine, of all other ſin, when luſt hath conceived, it bringeth forth ſin. Hence we ſay, that ſuggeſtion could do nothing without luſt: if there were no fire in our Wood, never could Devils breath kindle any flame in our Souls.

3. We are to weaken the Fleſh, by abating the Fewel of whatſoever may nouriſh or ſtrengthen it: Rom. 13. 14. Make not proviſion for the fleſh to fulfil the luſts thereof. As in a Siege all means are uſed to ſtop the paſſages, by which the Enemy may be victualled, ſo muſt we ſtop thoſe paſſages of ſin, by which the Fleſh is ſtrengthned. Now as the Fleſh is reſident in all parts and powers of the Body and Soul, ſo muſt we in every reſpect keep back Proviſion from every part; from the Body, Delicacy, Drunkenneſs, Wantonneſs; from the Fantaſie, vain Imaginations, pernicious Errors: from the Mind and Will, ſinful Cogitations, wicked Deliberations; from the Memory, the remembrance of ſinful pleaſure, unleſs it be to repent of thoſe that are paſt, and to flee from thoſe that are preſent; from the Heart, unlawful Luſts, wicked deſires, unruly Paſſions. I might thus inſtance in every part.

4. As we muſt weaken, ſo we muſt watch over the fleſh: and the rather, becauſe though we ſhould get the better in many conflicts, yet ſtill it is plotting and practiſing new and freſh Treaſons. But what are thoſe parts of the fleſh we muſt eſpecially watch? I anſwer. 1. The Senſes; theſe are the Gates of our Souls, and therefore they had need to be ſtrongly guarded: Job 31. I made a Covenant with my Pſal. 119. 38. eyes, why then ſhould I think upon a Maid? And turn away mine eyes from beholding vanity, and quicken Pro. 23.2. thou me in thy way. And put a knife to thy mouth, Pſal. 39.1. if thou be a man given to appetite. And I ſaid I will Eph. 4.29. take heed to my ways, that I ſin not with my tongue. And let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the uſe of edifying, that may miniſter grace unto the hearers.——2. The Heart; this of all parts is the moſt ſubtil and crafty, Jer. 17.9. the heart is deceitful, and deſperately wicked above Pro. 4.23. all things, who can know it? The Counſel of the wiſe is therefore good, keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the iſſues of life. Indeed the Heart is the chief Monarch in this little World of man, which rules and commands all other parts; it is the Guide and Captain, which leads and directs them in all their courſes, it is as the primum mobile, which moves all inferior Spheres; or as the chief Wheel in the Clock, which ſets all the reſt of the Wheels a going; it is the Spring and Fountain of all our Thoughts, Words and Actions, which being defiled, defileth them, or being purified, communicates its purity unto them: as the Heart directeth, the Tongue ſpeaketh, the Hand worketh, the Luk. 8.45. Eye ſeeth, the Foot walketh: A good man out of the good Treaſure of his Heart bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man out of the evil Treaſure of his heart, bringeth forth that which is evil; for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth ſpeaketh.

Ah, poor Soul! doth the fleſh interpoſe to hinder thy conſideration or thoughts of change? doth it tell thee of its nearneſs and dearneſs to thee, of its ancient acquaintance with thee even from the Womb, of thoſe many pleaſures and incomes of delight it hath provided? tell it again of its ill neighbourgood, of its ancient feud, by ſo much the worſe becauſe more ancient; and for the pleaſures and delights it ſpeaks of, tell it that ſuch Baits have Hooks under them, the Harlot's Lips dropt Honey in the greeting, and Worm-wood in the parting: what is the end of ſuch Delights but death and damnation; For if ye live after the Fleſh, Rom.8.13 ye ſhall die: and therefore ſay again, Oh why ſhould I ſatisfie my fleſh, to endanger my Soul? Or if theſe reaſonings will not ſatisfie, conſider ſeriouſly, and dwell upon theſe Conſiderations, that God hath commanded thee to depoſe it; and that no Enemy is ſo bad as that in thy boſom: that either thou muſt weaken it, and watch over it, or it will prevail, and lead thee to the Chambers of death, For, when luſt hath conceived, it bringeth forth ſin, and Jam.1.15. ſin being finiſhed bringeth forth death.

Only one Objection remains. Alas! ſaith the Soul, I am unregenerate, and though I hear a voice Iſa. 30.21. behind me, ſaying, this is the way, walk in it, yet I do want fear, and ſtrength to walk therein; theſe are good rules of wreſtling againſt the Devil, World and Fleſh, but I cannot ſtir, nor move, nor meditate: I am not ſufficient of my ſelf to think, how then ſhould I follow theſe rules? you ſing to a deaf man, you preſcribe to a man dead in ſins and treſpaſſes.

I anſwer, indeed I ſuppoſe no leſs: and yet if I ſpeak not to a man ſpiritual, I do to one rational, and as a mere rational man, thou mayſt fix thy thoughts on this or that object electively, which is a poſture of Soul, wherein the Lord may appear, and affect thy Heart. Come then, and peruſe theſe directions, and reaſon thus, Why ſhould I not do thus as I am directed? Heart, what haſt thou to ſay, why thou ſhould'ſt not follow this Counſel that is given thee? Again, it may be the Lord will come in, whilſt thou art endeavouring after him: I will not ſay, that God is bound ex congrue to give grace to thy endeavours: In all the word of God we find not one promiſe to any merely natural, or moral act of ours; Yet (as one obſerves) Mr. Ford's Spirit of Bondage. God hath ſeldom been obſerved, if ever, to fail any in their expectations of grace from him, doing in the way of means, what they by the power of nature can, and what the Spirit of God moves them unto. Hearken then to theſe rules, and obey: What if thy endeavours have no immediate influence upon grace, yet are a neceſſary way that God hath commanded every one to walk in, and they are as a means wherein God will diſpence his Grace to whom he pleaſeth; ſo that whoſoever doth wilfully neglect the uſe of ſuch means, he cannot promiſe to himſelf any converſion; yea, he may certainly conclude, God will not convert him. In all the directions which may be hereafter to the unregenerate, I wiſh this may ſtill be remembred.

CHAP. III. SECT. I.

Of the next Aſſaults that Satan makes againſt us.

IF in the firſt aſſault Satan be foil'd, and the Soul be reſolv'd to go on, the Holy Spirit uſually comes in and works on the Soul theſe ſeveral ſteps. As 1. A ſight of Sin. 2. A ſenſe of Miſery. 3. Sorrow for Sin. 4. Seeking for Comfort. See my firſt things 5. A ſight of Chriſt. 6. Deſire after Chriſt. 7. Relying on Chriſt. 8. Obedience to Chriſt. And accordingly Satan counter-works, and in every of theſe ſteps aſſaults the Soul either leſs or more, to keep it ſtill in his hold: Oh, he is loath to leave, and therefore at every ſtep he meets the Soul, and and wreſtles with it. I ſhall (as the Lord enables) firſt obſerve his Aſſaults, and then inform the Soul of its ſeveral Duties, in repelling of Satan reſpectively.

Sect. 2. Of Satan's Aſſault upon ſight of ſin.

NO ſooner hath the Holy Ghoſt opened the Eye of the Soul to ſee its ſin, but preſently Satan comes on with his fiery Darts: Sometimes he makes ſin little, is it not a little one; and ſometimes he makes ſin great, Oh, the greatneſs, and oh the numerouſneſs of thy ſins!

1. Sometimes he makes ſin little, and herein he prevails with many Souls: they are loath to hear the worſt of themſelves, and therefore Satan helps them with Fig leaves to cover their nakedneſs. What? is it not Satan's Language that we hear in men? Surely, our ſins are not ſo great, we are not ſo bad, we have ſome good, we have ſome hopes, if God be merciful, what matters it if we be ſinful? Thus do men ſtifle and reſiſt the firſt breathings of the Spirit of God. I believe (ſaith one) that all the powers of Hell conſpire together to blind mens eyes, and darken mens minds in this firſt work of Chriſt; Principiis obſta: It is the policy of Satan to ſtop Chriſt in his entrance, in his firſt ſtroke upon the Soul. No wonder then if he puts the wrong end of the Proſpective-Glaſs to the Eye, that ſin appears very little, if any thing at all.

Shepherd's Sound Believer.

2. Sometimes he makes ſin great; he draws a charge at length, he takes up all the bloody aggravations he can think of; as partly in reſpect of the nature and quality of the ſins themſelves; and partly in reſpect of the circumſtances, as being committed againſt knowledge, at ſuch a time, in ſuch a place, and by ſuch a perſon, as that God is thereby moſt diſhonoured, his Brethren moſt offended, &c. It is not to tell how the Devil can ſtretch out ſin upon the tenters of his Temptations: yea, of a ſmall drop with the blaſt of his Suggeſtions, he can make a great Bubble: and which is moſt to be admired, he can in this charge preſent himſelf as an Angel of Light; he knows how to imitate thoſe Convictions of the Holy Spirit, whoſe Office it is to convince of ſin, and therefore many a time in his Aggravations of ſin, he comes in God's Name: he obſerves well enough how the Squares go between God and the Soul, and that the Spirit of God lays ſin home, and cloſe, q. d. O thou wretch, What haſt thou done? What ſins are theſe that cry up to Heaven againſt thee? So ſaith Satan, Oh thou damned wretch, what a life haſt thou lived upon the Earth? What groſs, and grievous, and bloody, and crying ſins ſtandeſt thou guilty of?

Sect. 3. Of the Duties that concern us in this reſpect.

THE Duties in wreſtling with Satan, muſt be ſutable to his Temptations: and therefore——

1. To that Temptation, that ſin was but little, Conſider——

1. That no ſin is ſo little, but it is againſt a great God. Againſt thee, thee only have I ſinned, and done this evil in thy ſight. As all Inditements in criminal Pleas are ſtiled againſt the King, his Crown, and Dignity: So are ſins againſt God, a great God, be they in our eſteem never ſo little.

Pſal. 51.4.

2. No ſin is ſo little, but it deſerves Death and Damnation. The wages of ſin is death: the Wages of every ſin, whether little or great ſin: Indeed great ſins may have greater Puniſhments, but the Stipend or Deſert of every ſin is formally death, be it never ſo little.

Rom.6.13

3. Every ſin, whether little or great, is a ſtrong and Soul-killing Poyſon. We may know this by that firſt ſin that ever the Sun ſaw: no ſooner was it committed, but preſently it polluted mankind: All the Sons and Daughters of Adam that were ever ſince, or ever ſhall be to the World's end, have been, and will be infected by that very ſin. And we find to this day, that any little ſin doted on impenitently, like a lump of Leaven, it ſowers all the Soul, defiles the whole man, and every thing that proceeds from him: it doth not only unhallow his Meat, Drink, Buying Selling, Giving, Lending, and other Dealings in the World, but alſo turns all his Spiritual Services and Duties, his Praying, Hearing, Reading, Meditating, &c. into Abomination.

4. The leſs the ſin, the greater our folly to commit it: for what is it to ſin, but to lay as it were in one Scale of the Ballance the Glory of God, the Blood of Chriſt, the Joys of Heaven, the loſs of an immortal Soul; and in the other ſome rotten Pleaſure, earthly Pelf, worldly Preferment, fleſhly Luſt, ſenſual Vanity, and to ſuffer this to outweigh all thoſe? if Chriſt could ſay, What is a man profited if he gains the whole world and loſe his Soul? How much more may I ſay, what profit in this exchange, to loſe a Soul for a Pin, a Point, a Trifle, a Vanity; or confeſſedly for a ſmall punctilio peccadillo, a very little ſin? Speak no more of ſin as little, if we will prefer it before the great things of God, and Chriſt, and Heaven, and Souls of men. O prodigious madneſs!

2. To that Temptation, that ſin is great, or as Cain cryed, My iniquity is greater than can be forgiven. Conſider——

Gen.4.13.

1. The dew of grace hath ordinarily fallen upon moſt graceleſs Souls. What if thy ſins be great; was it not the caſe of many a Saint, whoſe ſins were forgiven? haſt thou been an Idolater? ſo was Abraham; haſt thou been an Adulterer? ſo was David; haſt thou been a Blaſphemer? ſo was Paul: What needs more inſtances? Poor Soul, if thou could'ſt but peep into Heaven, thou ſhould'ſt find, there is Rahab the Harlot, there is Manaſſeh the Murtherer, that made the Streets of Jeruſalem ſwim with Blood; there is Mary Magdalen that had ſeven Devils in her: A Man or Woman that hath many Devils may come where there is not one; the moſt devilliſh, helliſh Creature, may, through the mercy of God, be partaker of Heaven; lame, and halt, and blind may come in there, and yet ſtill there is room.

2. It is as eaſie with God to forgive the greateſt ſin upon repentance, as the leaſt ſin, This is a faithful ſaying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Jeſus Chriſt came into the World to ſave ſinners, of whom I am chief: though Paul was the greateſt Sinner in the World, yet God could, and did forgive him. What, do thy ſins cry up to Heaven? yet is God's Mercy above the Heavens: indeed God's Mercy is infinite, for as God is an infinite God, ſo every Mercy of God is as infinite as himſelf: his Attributes and his Eſſence are but one and the ſame: and therefore no wonder if it be all one with infinite Mercy to forgive ſins of the greateſt ſize, as well as the leaſt; thy ſin is but the ſin of a finite Creature, but God's Mercy is the Mercy of an infinite Creator; thy greateſt ſins are but the ſins of a Man, but the leaſt of God's Mercies is the Mercy of God.

1 Tim. 1. 15.

3. The Lord calleth all, even thoſe Sinners which are heavy laden with ſins, to come unto him, Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy Mat. 11. 28. laden. Is not this enough to rouze and raiſe up thy heart from ſinking? Remember what was ſaid to Bartimeus the blind man ſitting by the way-ſide Mar. 10. 49. at Jericho; be of good comfort, ariſe, he calleth thee. So chear up thy heavy heart with this ſweet Balſom; lift up thy Hands which hang down, and thy Knees which are weak, and make ſtrait ſteps with thy Feet, even unto the Throne of Grace, behold he calleth: q. d. poor Soul! thou that complaineſt thy ſin is great, come hither, and I will eaſe thee of it: Let me bear thy Cares, and thou ſhalt bear my Comfort: Give me thy Sins, and I will give thee my Righteouſneſs. Heavy hearts, whom this Call of Chriſt cannot revive.

4. Thy Sins indeed are great, and very great: and if ever the Holy Ghoſt do but open thy eyes, he will make thee ſee it: but yet they are not ſo great, as that therefore they cannot be forgiven; that is not the voice of the Holy Spirit, but of him who is the Father of Lies: If thy ſins were a thouſand thouſand times greater than they are, and if thou ſhould'ſt add to them the ſins of Cain and Judas, and all the Reprobates in the World, doubtleſs there would be a great heap, yet lay this huge heap before infinite pardoning Grace, and there will be no compariſon; what ſayeſt thou? that God either cannot, or will not pardon thee? or that never ſuch a ſinner as thy ſelf was pardoned: Oh do not limit the Holy One of Iſrael! have no low thoughts of God's love, which Eph. 3. 19. (ſaith the Apoſtle) paſſeth all underſtanding. Suppoſe the like ſinner to thy ſelf was never Iſa. 43. 19, 20, 21. pardoned: Behold ſaith God, I will do a new thing, now it ſhall ſpring forth, ſhall ye not know it? I will make a Way in the Wilderneſs, and Rivers in the Deſart, ——— to give Drink to my people, my Choſen: This people have I formed for my ſelf, they ſhall ſhew forth my praiſe. It is the Iſa. 55. 7. ſame with that promiſe, he will abundantly pardon; or, he will multiply to pardon, q d. I'll drop Mercy with your Sin, and ſpend all I have, rather than it ſhould be ſaid, my Good is overcome of your Evil.

But how may I know the falſe accuſations of Satan, from the convictions of God's own Spirit? for both tell me, my ſins are great, and very great: I anſwer; When they aſperſe God, and ſo charge the Soul, that withal they reflect on God's Goodneſs, and Mercy, and Love, and the Riches of his Grace, then are they not of the Holy Spirit, but of the Evil Spirit. Oh mark this ſign! if thy ſins are ſo repreſented to thee, as exceeding the greatneſs of God's Mercy, and thou cryeſt with Cain, My iniquity is greater than can be forgiven; here the Devil opens himſelf. One Mr. Gurnal in his Chriſtian Armour. ſweetly obſerves, The holy Spirit is Chriſt's Spokeſman to commend him to Souls, and to woo ſinners to imbrace the grace of the Goſpel, and can ſuch words drop from his ſacred lips, as ſhould break the match, and ſink Chriſt's eſteem in the thoughts of the creature? you may eaſily know where this is minted; when you hear one commend another for a wiſe, and a good man, and at laſt comes in with a But —— that daſheth all; you will think he is no friend to the man, but ſome ſly Enemy, that by ſeeming to commend, deſires to diſgrace the more. Thus when you find God repreſented to you, as Merciful, Gracious, but not to ſuch great ſinners; to have power and ſtrength, but not able to ſave ſuch as you are, you may ſay, Avant Satan, thy ſpeech bewrayeth thee.

Sect. 4. Of Satan's Aſſault upon ſenſe of Miſery.

THE Holy Spirit that convinceth of ſin, in the next place works fear: or ſenſe of miſery. Thus Paul trembled, and the Goaler trembled. As when a man ſees danger near and imminent, he naturally fears: ſo when the Spirit preſents a man's danger, death and wrath even at the Door, he begins then to fear, Ye have not received (ſaith the Apoſtle) the ſpirit of Bondage Rom. 8. 15. again to fear: This plainly intimates, that once they had received it: The Spirit purſues Souls whom he purpoſeth for Heaven with ſtrong fears, till proud man falls down before God, crying, and ſaying, Oh, I am undone! Oh, that I had never been born! &c. Now in this caſe Satan ſteps in, and either allays theſe fears with worldly comforts, ſome counterfeit calm, or elſe he works further and deeper fears than the Holy Ghoſt himſelf alone intended.

For the firſt; ſometimes he allays theſe Fears with worldly Comforts, or ſome counterfeit Calm. Of this I ſhall ſpeak when I come to that other ſtep of ſeeking for comfort. Satan hath his Comforters, though the Lord knows they are miſerable Comforters all.

For the ſecond; ſometimes he aggravates fears, and to that purpoſe he tells men of God's Eternal Wrath, and of God's Eternal Rejection, and that God will never be merciful, and ſo he lays them lower, and caſts them into a further fear and bondage than the Holy Ghoſt is cauſe of; yea Devils now combine, and ſay as David's Enemies ſaid in his diſtreſs, What? would theſe Souls eſcape our clutches? Come, let us now take them, for God hath forſaken them; let us now devour them, and ſwallow them up with fear and deſpair: As God ſays of thoſe Enemies of his Church, I was but a little diſpleaſed and they helped forward Zach. 1. 15. the affliction: So when the Spirit works fear, in order to converſion, Satan watcheth his opportunity, and puts on that fear to utter deſpair.

It is a queſtion, how Satan can work this fear on the Conſcience, which is uſually attributed to God's Spirit? But the anſwer is given in thus, ——

1. That Satan cannot immediately wound the Dr. T. Goodwin in his Child of Light. Conſcience; for as no Creature can ſhed abroad God's love, and cauſe a poor Soul to taſte of the ſweetneſs of it, ſo no creature can make impreſſions of God's wrath upon the Conſcience, but only God himſelf, or the Spirit of God immediately. But ———

2. Satan can do it upon the Conſcience mediately, and that in theſe ſeveral reſpects.

1. When the Holy Ghoſt hath laſht and whipt the Conſcience, and made it tender, and fetcht off the ſkin, then Satan can fret it more and more, and ſo be ſtill rubbing upon the ſore by his horrid ſuggeſtions, and falſe fears caſt in.

2. From renewing the remembrance of thoſe terrors impreſſed by the Spirit, he can amaze the Soul afreſh with fear of worſe.

3. He can bring home all the Threatnings that are thundred forth in the Word againſt Hypocrites, and men unregenerate, and diſcharge them all with much violence and noiſe upon the poor doubting Soul.

4. He can ſtir up the paſſions of Fear, and Grief, and trembling of Spirit; he is the Prince of the airy part of the little world in man, as well as of that elementary Region in the great World, and ſo can raiſe unnatural ſtorms and vapours that ſhall darken Reaſon, and cauſe ſuch Thunders and Lightnings, nings, as ſhall burn all into a black confuſion, ſuch as if Hell and the Soul would preſently come together. And this he doth more than ſimply morally, (i) by bare propounding ſuch objects as ſhall move them (which men only can do) but further alſo phyſically, by ſtirring ſuch humours in the Body which ſuch paſſions do act and ſtir in; and when he hath thus diſtempered and diſordered all in a man, and put a man to ſuch diſpoſitions of fears, then he comes with his ſuggeſtions, and ſpeaks nothing but of wrath and terrors; and then looks as when a man's choler is up, every ſmall thing provokes him; ſo now when fear is excited, every ſuggeſtion, every ſurmiſe, doth ſtrike the Soul through and through with horrid fears: And thus though not immediately, yet through the means of theſe Miſts, and Vapours, and Fogs raiſed, which inviron and darken this Sun, he works upon the Conſcience.

But what means Satan thus to fill the Conſcience with fears? I anſwer, his end is eſpecially double. 1. To bring the Soul to deſpair of Eternal Life. 2. To bring the body to ſome violent temporary death, in both which if he can prevail, then he makes ſure to hurry the whole man into the torments of Hell. We may imagine him to beſpeak the Soul in his horrid helliſh Language. Wouldſt thou now, vile wretch, turn unto God, hoping to be received to Grace and Mercy? Why aſſure thy ſelf it is too late; are not thy ſins in number numberleſs, and in their quality and nature moſt heinous and outragious? and haſt thou not continued in this thy rebellion a long, a very long time? Hath not Chriſt often called, and yet thou wouldſt not come? Hath he not graciouſly offered and tendered himſelf to thee, but thou ſaidſt, he ſhould not reign over thee? And haſt thou not ſerved me, and obeyed me all the days of thy life? Now therefore the day of Salvation is gone, the acceptable time is paſt, and never, never can be recalled; thou mayſt with Eſau ſeek repentance with tears, but thou ſhalt never find it no more than Eſau did. Moreover, add to the conſideration of thy ſins the remembrance of God's Juſtice, the terrible curſe of the Law, the fearful torments of Hell prepared for ſinners, amongſt which number thou art one of the chief: Come do not flatter thy ſelf with hope of Mercy, but rather expect thoſe fearful judgments, and endleſs torments which are due unto thee for thy rebellions. Thus Satan labours to bring a poor ſinner to deep deſpair, and to fill his Conſcience with horror and fear, which if he can accompliſh, he reſts not there, but like a cruel Coward, who can never be quiet till he ſee the death of his Enemy, he then perſwades him to ſeek ſome eaſe of his preſent torments, by imbruing his hands in his own blood, and putting himſelf to ſome violent death: this is ſad, yet ſome are brought to this, the Lord knows, I will inſtance in none but Cain and Judas, of whom the former deſperately blaſphemed the Mercy of God, and the other deſperately laid violent hands
Mat. 27. 5. on himſelf, he hanged himſelf, and falling head- Acts 1. 18. long, he burſt aſunder in the midſt, and all his bowels guſhed out.

Sect. 5. Of the Duties that concern Souls in this caſe.

THE Duties, or Defeature, or Soul's Encounter in this caſe, muſt be ſuitable to Satan's Aſſaults: and therefore ——

1. To that of Deſpair, conſider: 1. As to Sin. 2. As to God's Juſtice. 3. As to the Law. 4. As to Hell.

1. As to Sin, conſider; that no ſin, though never ſo great, ſhould be a cauſe to move thee to deſpair. What would Satan perſwade thee, becauſe thou haſt been ſo great and prodigious a ſinner, therefore to deſpair? Retort his argument upon himſelf, and tell him, that very thing by which he would perſwade thee to deſpair, doth much more deter thee from deſpairing; for though thy ſins be great, yet this is the greateſt of all other ſins; other ſins bind thee over to wrath, but this ſin gives fire to the threatning, and ſets the Soul on flame with extreme horrour; other ſins wound the Law, and the Name of God through the ſides of the Law, but this ſin wounds the Goſpel, in that it is not willing to have the wounds healed which former ſins have made; other ſins have wronged God the Father in treſpaſſing againſt him, but this ſin will not let Jeſus Chriſt make ſatisfaction for the wrong that by his ſins are done to the Father; other ſins reflect on the Name, or Power, or Juſtice, or Holineſs of God, but this ſin fights againſt all his lovely Attributes of Goodneſs, Mercy, Love, and Grace, and Satan claps his hands to ſee all the glorious Attributes of God ſerved alike, and diveſted of their Honour; other ſins, though great, are pardonable, if not mixed with this, but the leaſt ſin envenomed by this of deſpair, is wholly unpardonable. Hence we ſay that Judas ſinned more, and more diſhonoured God in deſpairing of his Mercies, than in betraying of his Son; and Cain more grievouſly offended in ſaying, My ſin is greater than can be pardoned, than by murdering his Brother. O tremble at deſpair! for this ſin draws nearer to the ſin of Devils, and is of the complexion of the damned Souls in Hell.

2. As to God's Juſtice, conſider; thou art not to look only on Juſtice, but on Juſtice and Mercy, as meeting together and kiſſing each other. Theſe two are long ſince reconciled, ſo that now God knows how to be juſt, and yet to ſave thy Soul. In that promiſe of God's betrothing himſelf to ſinners, it runs thus, I will betroth thee unto me in Righteouſneſs, in Judgment, in Loving-kindneſs, and in Mercies; Hoſ. 2. 19. he will do it in Juſtice and Mercy, he will be righteous and gracious. If Satan object, Can the Lord be juſt, and ſave ſuch a ſinner as thou art? Yes, mayſt thou ſay, God tells me, that he will marry me in righteouſneſs as well as mercy; that is to ſay, he will do it in Chriſt, whoſe great undertaking was to bring Juſtice to kiſs Mercy, that there might not be a diſſenting Attribute of God in his marrying of me. In this caſe, as I would wiſh ſinners have an eye on God's Juſtice to keep them from preſumption, ſo likewiſe to have an eye on God's Mercy to keep them from deſpair; or (which is all one) to think of Chriſt, who hath already paid the price for the pardon of ſin; and therefore as it were againſt Mercy to damn, ſo it were againſt Juſtice to exact the debt of them for whom Chriſt hath paid it, what ſhould we think of that man, who having a debt fully diſcharged by the Surety, ſhould preſs upon the Principal for the payment of the ſame debt again? Surely it were a fearful diſhonour to the righteous Judge of all the World, to conceive, that having received an exact and full ſatisfaction for all thy ſins by the Hearts-blood of his own dear Son, he ſhould ever require them again at thy hands. If thou ſayeſt, but hath Chriſt paid the debt for my ſins? Yes, if thou wilt but accept of Chriſt on his own Terms; come then poor Soul, thou who art toſſed with the waves of deſpair, think of Juſtice interwoven with Mercy; or if Juſtice be it thou feareſt, think of it as now thy friend in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, it is Juſtice that acquits thee, if thou but relyeſt on Chriſt, and who then ſhall condemn thee? who then ſhall lay any thing to thy charge?

3. As to the Law, look not upon that exact obedience which the Law requireth, for then Satan will attain his purpoſe, but go out of thy ſelf, Look upon Jeſus, and reject thy own righteouſneſs, as altogether imperfect and inſufficient. Alas! Who can exactly live up to the Law? the Law requires of us things that we cannot do; the Law accepts of nothing, but abſolute perfection in all it requires: the Law looks that things ſhould be done in a right manner, out of a right principle, and to a right end; yea, that all ſhould be done in the perfection of degrees, to the utmoſt that is required: Now if Souls pore on this, and look only on this, no wonder if the Devil tempt them either to looſneſs or deſpair; the way is therefore to go out of thy ſelf, and to rely upon the alone righteouſneſs and obedience of Jeſus Chriſt, as being in it ſelf, allſufficient for thy juſtification and Salvation: Thou canſt not perform the Duties of Obedience, which the Law requireth, but Chriſt hath done it, and God himſelf profeſſeth that he is well-pleaſed with him, and as contented with him and his Obedience for thee, as if done by thy ſelf. Surely this is Goſpel, the glad Tidings: O what Courage and Comfort may'ſt thou take at this news.

4. As to Hell, with which the Devil frights thee; meditate that Hell is thy deſert, but Heaven is God's Gift; and though Satan may hold thee over Hell, yet he cannot turn thee into Hell; if the Lord will ſave thee, not all the Devils in Hell can poſſibly damn thee: And is Hell a place to be expected, or rather to be avoided? Tell Satan to his face, that thou wilt not willingly be his companion in Torments, and therefore thou wilt not ſo far gratifie him, nor be ſo cruel to thy ſelf, as to be led by him into that griſly Gulph of Deſpair, which is the very next door to Hell; no, no, thou wilt rather hope and wait on God in a way of contentedneſs to be at his diſpoſal; ſay, If the Lord will have mercy on me, I ſhall live; or if the Lord will glorifie his Power and Juſtice in condemning me, which I have deſerved, I muſt die, only I will hope and wait; and be contented ſtill to be at the Lord's diſpoſal, and not at Satan's; and therefore avaunt Devils, be gone, I am of Paul's mind, we are troubled on every ſide, but not diſtreſſed; we are perplexed, but not in deſpair. 2 Cor.4.8.

Obj. One Objection here muſt be removed: The Soul now in fear, or ſenſe of miſery, is adviſed for the avoiding of deſpair, to look on Juſtice as its friend in Chriſt, and to look on Chriſt as having paid the price for the pardon of its ſin, and to rely on the obedience of Chriſt as allſufficient for its ſalvation, and to hope and wait, and to be content to be at God's diſpoſal: Now how ſhould the Soul do thus that is in a ſtate of nature? all theſe are the props and peculiar works of believers, and not of the unregenerate; what can they do to be ſaved? or what can they do to reſiſt Satan in order to converſion? I anſwer.

Anſw. 1. Men, though unregenerate, may yet be in the uſe of means, duties, and Ordinances; and if ever the Spirit comes into the hearts of people, it is uſually this way: Nay, I ſhall ſay more, that beſides the rational acts of meditation, application, &c. which are common to men, the Spirit of God doth always in a general, but ſometimes in a ſpecial way draw out thoſe acts, ſo as may be moſt for God's glory, and our good. For example, it is in the powet of nature to go to Church, and to hear the Word; yet that I go at ſuch a time (it may be againſt my own inclination) and that I obſerve the Word, and lay it up, and meditate on it more than others; this is the Spirit's ſpecial influence, by way of gifts, for in all this there may be no grace neither.

2. The men I am ſpeaking to, I do not look upon as wholly unregenerate, nor as yet regenerate, they are juſt as Embryo's in the womb, before they have any perfect ſhape; neither are they as they were, nor as they muſt be, but imperfect Creatures of God's Spirit, that will, if the womb miſcarry not, be children of God. Now in this caſe I ſuppoſe thou may'ſt go further than a meer natural man; as for inſtance, thou may'ſt hope, and if thy hope be not the grace of hope, yet grace may be ſeminally in it, and may firſt appear by it. A Reverend Divine gives us the diſtinction of a gracious hope, and a rational or moral hope, whereby the Soul comes up to a firm aſſent of this Propoſition, though my caſe is ſad, yet it is not deſperate: Now although Grace do not always attend or accompany this hope, yet the Spirit of God doth uſe it, as it doth all other preparatory works, to diſpoſe the Soul for Grace: Nay (ſaith my Author) I know not, but that if the Soul follow this moral hope, with a conſtant uſe of all means and ordinances, and in them reſolve to caſt himſelf upon Chriſt, to be ſaved by him in his own way: I ſay, I know not but this hope may be the immediate ground, if not the Vehicle or Chariot of the very firſt act of juſtifying faith, wherefore let this hope produce waiting, and let this hope and waiting in the uſe of means produce endeavours, and reſolutions to believe on Chriſt, and then to look on Juſtice as thy friend in Chriſt, and to look on Chriſt as having paid the price for the pardon of thy ſin, and to rely on the obedience of Chriſt, as all-ſufficient for thy ſalvation. Thus for the defeature of the firſt aſſault.

Ford of the Spirit of Bondage.

2. To that aſſault of ſelf-murder, I almoſt tremble to name it, yet if Satan inject ſuch thoughts, let the poor Soul conſider, this ſin above other ſins is againſt God, and Chriſt, and the Spirit, and thy neighbour, and thy own ſelf.

1. Againſt God, in breaking his pure and perfect Law, Thou ſhalt not kill. If it be an horrible crying ſin to kill another, if it ſtain the face of a whole Kingdom with ſuch a bloody brand, that it cannot be razed out, but by the blood of him that ſhed it; ſurely it is much more execrable and villainous to kill a man's ſelf, for not only God's Law, but his Majeſty, Crown and Dignity, is ſtruck at by this ſin. Numb.35. 33.

2. Againſt Jeſus Chriſt; for hath he not bought thee with his deareſt Heart-blood? why then ſhould'ſt thou murder another man's ſervant? hath he not invited thee to come in and cloſe with him, and told thee, that the union ſhould be near, as near might be betwixt thy Soul and him: why then ſhould'ſt thou offer violence, maiming, deformity, to his Myſtical Body? If any ſin be a crucifying of Chriſt, this muſt needs be one: Hearken then to the voice of Chriſt from Heaven, Soul, Soul, why perſecuteſt thou me, I am Jeſus of Nazareth, whoſe Image thou defaceſt; and whom thou killeſt.

3. Againſt the Holy Spirit, whoſe office is to ſanctifie us, to dwell in us, to reveal unto us the mercies of God, the merits of Chriſt, the power of the Word, the ſweetneſs of the Promiſe; to beget in us aſſurance, and hope, and affiance, and patience and Chriſtian fortitude: But thou that layeſt violent hands on thy ſelf, contrary to all theſe holy operations, thou defileſt thy ſelf with thy own blood, thou ruineſt the houſe and habitation of the Spirit, and thruſts him out of his lodging; thou trampleſt upon the truth of all thoſe glorious diſcoveries of the Spirit of Grace, and for his promiſes of aſſurance, hope, patience, fortitude, thou neglecteſt, and rejecteſt them all. Oh what a ſin is this!

4. Againſt thy Neighbour; for hereby the Church is offended, the Land is defiled, thy friends, kindred, wife, children, parents, are grieved and aſhamed; yea, thy very name, houſe, poſterity, are ſtained and branded; or if all this be little in thy eyes, conſider how the mouths of God's enemies are hereby opened, and the profeſſion of Religion hereby vilified: Is it not uſual for worldings in this caſe to cenſure thy over-much ſtudying of the Scriptures, hearing of the Word, praying and meditating, and other duties, as if they were the cauſes that ſhould bring thee unhappily to this fearful end? and is it a ſmall matter to give occaſion to wicked men to blaſpheme God's truth, or to expoſe that Religion which thou profeſſeſt to their ſlanders and calumniations? Oh far be it from thee! Now the good Lord prevent this! Let it not be told in Gath, nor publiſhed in the ſtreets of Aſhkelon, leſt the Daughters of the Philiſtines rejoyce, and of the uncircumciſed triumph.

5. Againſt thy own ſelf, by making thee guilty of a moſt horrible ſin, and alſo obnoxious to moſt grievous puniſhments for ſin, ſelf-murder is a miſhapen monſter, compounded of many ſins: As 1. Of helliſh pride, which ſuffers thee not to ſtoop under God's afflicting hand. 2. Of impatiency, whereby thou murmureſt and repineſt againſt God's providence. 3. Of deſpair, whereby thou caſteſt away all hope of mercy, and miſerably becomeſt thy own butcher and hang-man: But oh the fearful plagues that follow after this ſin! not only a temporary death, but immediately after death thou ſend'ſt thy ſoul bleeding to the dreadful Tribunal of the ever-living God, the moſt certain and ſure revenger of all bloodſhed; and what follows this but damnation? A ſad buſineſs, to be ſo impatient of the heat of the Sun, as for eaſe to leap into the fire of hell: I will not, I dare not thus judge of them, who through the abundance of melancholy are diſtracted of their wits, or who being terrified with Satan's temptations, do run headlong into this ſin, not knowing what to do; but if thou art in thy right mind, and upon ſetled purpoſe, and willing choice, and ſerious deliberation, ſhalt murder thy ſelf, that thou may'ſt be freed from ſome miſeries, loſſes, or diſgraces which thou wilt not out-live, I profeſs to thee in the Word of Chriſt, thy ſoul is in danger of hell fire; and therefore thou hadſt need to pray, Lord, lead me not into temptation, but deliver me from evil.

By this time we may diſcern the difference between the Holy Spirit, and the evil Spirit's workings, both bring into, and keep ſouls under bondage, only the bondage of the Holy Spirit is mitigated by the conjunction of hope, and works towards a deliverance, but the bondage of Satan excludes all hope, or poſſibility in the ſoul's apprehenſion of ever being removed. Again, the bondage or fears of the holy Spirit are deſtinate for converſion, they are not penal only, but medicinal alſo; they are a ſort of God's Rods, by which he brings men within the bonds of the Covenant, and makes them to enquire what they ſhall do to be ſaved; but the bondage, fears, and horrors which Satan ſets home on ſouls, are meerly for deſtruction, they are not medicinal, but only penal.

Obj. Yea, but my ſpirit of bondage is helliſh and deſperate; ſometimes I am apt to blaſpheme the mercy of God, as not able to pardon me, and out of deſperate horror of ſpirit to chuſe ſtrangling, or any thing, that I might be but out of my preſent terrors, and know the worſt of my condition: and is there, or can there be any thing of God's Spirit in ſuch a diſmal bondage as mine is?

Anſw. This is Mr. Ford's objection, and I have known it the real objection of many a ſoul; but he anſwers —— No doubt theſe fearful ſuggeſtions and injections proceed from the Prince of darkneſs emanative, they are minted in hell, for they bear his Image and ſuperſcription, but the Spirit of God hath an hand in them divers times diſpoſitive, by way of diſpoſal and management; and that the poor ſoul may clearly ſee, in that he hath not utterly left him to himſelf, but hath preſerved him many and many a time from executing thoſe horrid temptations, and gratifying Satan by ſelf-deſtruction. Come then, and bear up poor ſoul, think with thy ſelf, if the Spirit of God would have given thee over to Satan, why not ſooner? and if he have preſerved thee hitherto, why may he not longer? whiles thou liveſt under means of grace, there is hope; he that is above ground, is in ſight of Heaven: See, and acknowledge the gracious conduct of the holy Spirit hitherto, and do not by too long adventuring to parle with Satan, drive the Holy Ghoſt from thee.

* Ford of the Spirit of Bondage.

Sect. 6. Of Satan's Aſſaults upon ſorrow for ſin.

THE next work of the Spirit is ſorrow for ſin, it is God's promiſe, I will take away the ſtony heart out of your fleſh, and I will give you an heart of fleſh, that is to ſay, a ſoft heart, a plyable heart, the Spirit of God works on the affections, and melts them into godly ſorrow for ſin, which is all one with an heart of fleſh here promiſed.

Ezek. 36. 26.

Now herein Satan counter-works, and either keeps the heart, as long as he can, from mourning for ſin, or if that will not be, then he labours might and main to keep the Conſcience continually upon the wrack: And I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe.

1. Satan is exceedingly induſtrious to keep the heart reſolutely ſtubborn and hard. Well he knows that if once a poor ſoul bruiſed with the burden of ſin, into tears of godly ſorrow, and penitent ſoftneſs, ſhall but fly into the Boſom of Chriſt Jeſus bleeding upon the Croſs, it will deprive him of all right and intereſt unto that Soul for ever, and therefore he labours to keep it as long as he can from mourning for ſin: yea, ſuch a ſtirrer he is againſt true ſorrow, that indeed moſt know not what it means; or if the heart begins to be wrought upon by the Word, he raiſes all poſſible oppoſition againſt its yielding: And oh the loathneſs of Souls to leave Satan's ſervice! Oh the withſtanding of the Word, Miniſtry, motions of the ſpirit, and all other means to lead Souls out of hell into the glorious liberty of the Sons of God! but above all, Oh the hardneſs of mens hearts! Oh the difficulty of Miniſters duty to prick a ſtony heart to the quick, to make a rock to weep and tremble! either muſt God bear his own arm, and put to his own ſtrength, power, and efficacy, or it will never be done.

And if indeed, God's merciful violence ſhall conquer Souls, and they begin to melt kindly under ſin, then Satan labours on the other ſide, that ſuch may be ſwallowed up with over-much ſorrow: Was not this the caſe of the inceſtuous Corinthian? No queſtion the ſentence of Excommunication, and his delivering up to Satan, wought deeply upon him, ſo that Paul was fain to write in his ſecond Epiſtle, that they ſhould releaſe him of his cenſure, receive him into the Church, and miniſter a word of comfort to him, leſt he were ſwallowed up with overmuch ſorrow. 2 Cor.2.7. This is another of Satan's depths; when godly ſorrow is once on foot in an afflicted Soul; very prone it is to feed ſtill on tears: When the flood-gates of the heart are but once opened, it is Satan's deſire that they ſhould run for ever; and in this caſe what ado is there, and what an hard matter is it to be perſwaded of God's mercy, and to apply the Promiſes? Oh how the Devil interpoſes with all his cruel policy, and curſed contradiction! He then objects, and urges to the utmoſt, the hainouſneſs of our ſins, the littleneſs of our ſorrow, together with the great diſproportion betwixt our heinous ſins and little ſorrow, the number of our ſins, and fewneſs of our tears.

Sect. 7. Of the Duties that concern us in this reſpect.

THE duties of wreſtling muſt ſtill be ſuitable to Satan's aſſaults. So then——

1. To that aſſault of keeping the heart from mourning for ſin. Conſider——

1. Thy heart hath been the fountain whence all thy filthy thoughts, raging paſſions, wicked purpoſes, rotten ſpeeches, rebellious actions have ſprung and iſſued out, then great reaſon haſt thou to make that heart of thine a fountain of godly Sorrow; of penient tears, of mourning and lamenting, of bleeding and bewailing over all thy ſins.

2. If Chriſt Jeſus open a fountain of his own dear warm hearts-blood for ſins and for uncleanneſs; ſurely thou art a curſed wretch, and cruel enemy to thy Soul's comfort, if thou doſt not endeavour to keep open in thy heart a counter-well (as it were) of weeping over him whom thou haſt pierced, and for thoſe ſins which have put the Son of God to death: What? ſhall the precious heart of God's own Son fall aſunder in his breaſt, like drops of water for thy ſins? and ſhall not thy ſinful heart groan and ſigh at all? ſhall it not mourn and melt for the infinite abominations of thy own heart and life?

3. If that Heart of thine be not wounded by the miniſtry of the Word, while it is called to day, it will and muſt hereafter be filled with that horror which would burſt a thouſand hearts to think upon Luke 6.25. it. This is Chriſt's Threat, Wo be to you that laugh now, for ye ſhall wail and weep! There is Matt. 22. 13. a weeping of deſpair in Hell; there ſhall be weeping and gnaſhing of teeth. Either therefore now make thy heart the ſubject of godly Sorrow, or as ſure as thy heart is in thy body, it will hereafter become the Object upon which the fierce wrath of God, and fierceſt Torments in Hell ſhall be exerciſed and executed with extremity and everlaſtingneſs.

4. In caſe of outward troubles, as loſſes, croſſes, diſgraces, death of Friends, or the like, thou canſt take on extremely; and is not ſin more grievous than any of theſe? If all outward miſeries require one Tear, the leaſt ſin of the Soul may juſtly challenge a whole torrent; if the death of thy Friend, or of thy Son deſerve a ſigh, well may the death of thy ſoul challenge the laſt drop of thy deareſt heart-blood?

5. A truly broken heart gets a title, right, and intereſt to all the purchaſes of Chriſt's paſſion, all the promiſes of life, and all the pleaſures in Heaven; yea, in this way thou ſhalt bring down the great Majeſty of Heaven to dwell in thy heart, as in a Royal Throne, Chair of Eſtate, and Seat of Eternity: Thus ſaith the high and lofty one, that inhabiteth Eternity, whoſe name is Holy, I dwell in the high and holy place, with him alſo that is of an humble and contrite ſpirit, to revive the ſpirits of the humble, and to revive the hearts of the contrite ones. Iſa.57.15.

6. God hath appointed eſpecial Soveraign means for the ſoftning of hearts, if thou ſay'ſt what Soveraign means? I anſwer 1. The Word: Is not my Word like a fire, (ſaith God) and like an hammer that breaks the rock in pieces? Jer.23.29. An hammer it is that breaks, and thus doth the Law break our hearts, by ſhewing us the terrors thereof; a fire it is that melts, and thus doth the Goſpel melt our hearts, by revealing to us the mercy of God in Chriſt; Oh, will a ſoul ſay, hath the great God of heaven and earth ſent Chriſt into the world for me? hath he left Angels (now Devils) and many thouſands of men to chuſe me? whoſe heart will not melt that is warmed with the love of God? 2. Prayer; and to that purpoſe we have his wiſhes and promiſes, which we may turn into prayer: O go to God, and put him in remembrance of that which he hath deſired in his Word, O that this people had ſuch hearts, as wou'd fear me, and keep my Commandments always! Deut.5.29 Ezek. 11. 19. ſay unto the Lord, it is as eaſie with him to create ſuch an heart in thee, as to wiſh thou hadſt ſuch an heart: put the Lord in mind of his promiſe, I will take away their ſtony hearts, and I will give them hearts of fleſh; entreat him for the Lord Jeſus ſake to make good this Word to thee, cry to him, Come Lord, and break this hard heart of mine, prick it, and launce it, and rather than I periſh, let thy holy Spirit be a ſpirit of bondage to it, that I may be afflicted, and mourn, and weep for my ſins.

2. To that aſſault of ſwallowing up thy heart with over-much ſorrow, this is more uſual with God's people; many a ſoul hath many a time complained, No heart ſo hard as mine, my ſins are above ordinary, of a ſcarlet crimſon dye, and my ſorrow is very poor, and ſcant, in no proportion to my great and grievous provocations, and therefore as yet I cannot, dare not, will not meddle with any mercy, apply any promiſe, or be perſwaded that Jeſus Chriſt belongs unto me: Oh that any ſhould thus wilfully lye upon the rack of terror, and trouble of mind! Oh that any ſhould lay himſelf thus open to Satan's horrible Injections, and cruel temptations! Away, away with all exceptions, pretexts, ſcruples, ſtandings out to receive Jeſus Chriſt: And conſider.——

1. It is not the muchneſs of thy ſorrow, but the truth of thy ſorrow for ſin, as ſin, that God expects. The Devil tells thee of thy great ſin, and little ſorrow, and of the poor proportion betwixt theſe two; and the truth is, if an exact proportion of ſorrow to the inherent nature and demerit of ſin be looked at, there is none ſuch to be found: Alas, what proportion is there betwixt finite and infinite? thy ſorrow is finite, but thy leaſt ſin being againſt an infinite God it is therefore infinite: And ſuppoſe thy ſorrow were infinite as thy ſin, yet according to the tenour of the firſt Covenant it would not be acceptable, becauſe there is no clauſe in the Covenant to give any hope of repentance; look therefore at the truth and ſincerity of thy ſorrow, for this is the proportion of the Goſpel; Heart-ſorrow is Goſpel-ſorrow: When Act.2.37. the Jews were pricked in their Hearts, then Peter like a good Chyrurgeon, would not keep thoſe bleeding Patients any longer in pain with their wounds open, but preſently he clapt on the healing Act.2.37. Plaiſter of the Goſpel, believe on the Lord Jeſus: Weeping Soul, doth thy Heart, when thou art in ſecret weeping for thy ſins, condemn thee? Or doth it clear thee? If thy Heart be falſe, I cannot help thee, no, nor the Goſpel neither, but if thy Heart be ſincere, then be of good comfort, for certainly thou art not far from the Kingdom of Heaven.

2. Jeſus Chriſt calls thee, is not that his voice, Mat.11.28 Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you reſt. Wade on a little with me in the unfolding of this ſo comfortable a Call, and be revived. Firſt then here is to be conſidered, who calleth: Secondly, whom he calleth: Thirdly, why he calleth: Every of theſe contains in it Wine of comfort, and Oyl of Grace to glad the Heart, and to chear up the heavy Countenance of the ſorrowful and ſobbing Soul.

1. Conſider who calleth; is it not the Woman's Seed appointed to cruſh and bruiſe the Serpent's Head? Is it not that root of Jeſſe, that Son of David, that ſweet Emanuel, that meek Meſſias, that merciful Jeſus, that ſole and only Mediator, which in his own perſon hath concluded a peace, and made a full attonement between the Lord and thee? Is it not that Jeſus Chriſt ſhadowed in the Law, foretold by the Prophets, and in the appointed time exhibited? ſurely he it is, and none but he: Thou Mat.1.21. ſayeſt, thou art a ſinner, a grievous ſinner, and he tells thee, his name is Jeſus, for he will ſave his people from their ſins: Oh! if Souls would believe this, would not this dry up their Tears? Thou ſayeſt, thou ſeeſt him not, but thou haſt his Word, and he is real in what he ſpeaketh; Suppoſe then, that in the Chamber where thou art crying after him, or in the Church where thou art waiting for him, he ſhould appear; ſuppoſe that he whom thou heareſt in his Word ſhould appear, and viſibly appear before thine eyes; opening his Boſom, and Bowels, and Blood before thee, and calling unto thee to this purpoſe, I entreat thee, and beſeech thee, by all thoſe Tears I have ſhed for thee in the days of my fleſh, by all thoſe bitter Agonies I have ſuffered for thee, by all thoſe tender Bowels which have been rolled together towards thee, come to me, imbrace thou me, and lay thy weary weltring Soul in this bleſſed Boſom of mine; Who would not come in? Who would not riſe out of the Duſt, and with chearful ſpirit imbrace the motion of his dear Redeemer? why he it is that calleth thee.

2. Conſider whom he calleth: Is it not thoſe who are weary and heavy laden? Is it not thoſe who are tired and over-burthened with the weight of ſin? Chriſt, and all Goſpel-promiſes belong to Luk. 4.18. them that mourn in Sion: The Spirit of the Lord is upon me (ſaith Chriſt) becauſe he hath anointed me to preach the Goſpel to the poor, he hath ſent me to heal the broken hearted. —— O thou afflicted, and Iſa.54.11. toſſed with Tempeſts, that haſt no comfort, behold I will lay thy Stones with fair Colours, and lay thy Foundations with Saphires, &c. The ſpiritual excellency of ſuch Soul is declared by a Similitude of a goodly, coſtly, ſtately Structure, which the Iſa.57.15. Lord would build for himſelf. Thus ſaith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth Eternity, whoſe Name is Holy, I dwell in the high and holy place, with him alſo that is of an humble contrite ſpirit, to revive the Spirits of the humble, and to revive the hearts of the contrite ones: He that hath Heaven for his Throne, and Earth for his Footſtool, hath yet another Throne on Earth, even in the Hearts of humble contrite ſinners: They that ſow in tears Pſal. 126. 5, 6. ſhall reap in joy; he that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious ſeed, ſhall doubtleſs come again with rejoycing, bringing his Sheaves with him: As ſure as Harveſt follows Seed time, will comfort follow mourning, for therefore Chriſt calls, that he may wipe away all Tears from ſuch as weep for ſin: Indeed ſorrow for ſin gives not the Soul an intereſt in Chriſt as any cauſe; in ſtrict ſpeaking there is no other condition in the Covenant of Grace, but only believing in Chriſt; yet becauſe no man will come to a Saviour, but he muſt know what need he hath of a Saviour; therefore we muſt firſt be convinced of ſin, and muſt be ſenſible of ſin; they only will attend to Chriſt's Call, who feel ſin a burthen; as if a man be under an heavy Burthen in ſome dark night, and hears but the noiſe of the feet of one paſſing by, then he cryes out for help; ſo the Soul under the heavy burthen of ſin, is glad to hear of any direction out of the Word of God to come to Chriſt, and therefore Chriſt only calls them who are thus qualified, Come to me all ye that are weary and heavy laden.

3. Conſider why, or to what end he calleth; Is it not to take poſſeſſion of Chriſt and all his Graces? Is it not to come to a near, and ſweet, and everlaſting fellowſhip with Chriſt himſelf? Is it not to have his perſon, and to have his priviledges, reſt, and peace, and reconciliation with his Majeſty? If Chriſt ſhould ſay to thee, Come into the Garden, and there watch and pray with me, ſorrow and ſuffer with me, wouldſt thou not count it an Honour? what is it then to ſay, Come, and have reſt; Come, and I will eaſe thee of thy burthen of ſin; Come, and I will ſprinkle thy Conſcience with my blood, that thou ſhalt be able to give an anſwer to all the temptations of Satan; thou ſhalt have thy pardon now, and at the great day of Judgment thy pardon ſhall be ſolemnized by men and Angels. Ah poor Soul! why weepeſt thou? Is it not time to wipe thine Eyes with Mary, and to ſay Rabboni? Surely if God gives thee but an Heart to make this real to thy Soul, thou may'ſt depart in peace, and go away, and bleſs thy God, and ſay with the Pſalmiſt, O now my Soul return Pſal.116, 7. unto thy reſt, for the Lord hath dealt very bountifully with thee.

If yet thou ſay'ſt, when is my ſorrow ſufficient? and when may I receive comfort in due ſeaſon? I anſwer ——

1. When the Soul is weary of its Bonds and Fetters of ſin, as much, or more than of the Fetters of trouble; when the Chains of Corruption are grievous as pangs of Conſciences; when the Soul hates Satan as a Tempter, as much as a Troubler, then is it ripe for comfort; but when the cry is louder, Oh my ſorrow and oh my grief! than oh my ſin! and oh my guilt! When it follows God, and means with, O give me comfort! but never with, Oh give me grace! this Soul is not ripe for comfort.

2. When the Soul is contented, if God ſee it fit and needful for the Soul to be longer without comfort; when a Soul can pray in ſincerity, Lord, if my rotten heart be not broken enough, break it more; if my ſearched wounds be not throughly ſearched, lance them, and ſearch them more; if there be any wickedneſs in me, ſearch me Lord, and try me till thou find it out? If I would be proud of thy favour, or if I would turn thy grace into wantonneſs, or get above Ordinances and Duties of Religion, or proudly deſpiſe my Brethren that are lower than I, let me faſt longer from comfort; here is a Soul (if any) that is ripe for comfort; but till a man come to this frame, it is a ſign that he is not truly broken, and therefore comfort to ſuch a one would be like raw Meat, that would never digeſt with him, the Lord hath not yet gotten the Maſtery over his Will, and therefore no wonder if he lay more Irons yet upon him.

Sect. 8. Of Satan's Aſſault for ſeeking for comfort.

THE Soul ſorrowing for ſin, is now commanded to ſeek for comfort, and to that purpoſe it is the Lord's Meſſage to his Miniſters, Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, ſpeak ye comfortably to Jeruſalem, and cry unto her, that her warfare is accompliſhed, that her iniquity is pardoned. (Iſa. 40. 1.) Satan knowing this, and perceiving the Soul's diſpoſition to enquire after this, coins comforts of his own deviſings, and preſents them to the Soul, q. d. Come Soul, will nothing ſerve but comfort? Is this thy voice, ſome crums of comfort to a poor languiſhing Soul? O make me to hear joy and gladneſs, that the bones which God hath broken may rejoyce; why then thou ſhalt have comfort; Lo at the Door ſtands waiting on thee thy old Companions, joyn but with them, and they will drive away theſe dumps and melancholy fits: doſt thou not hear them ſay, Come on, let us enjoy the good things that are preſent, let us ſpeedily uſe the Creatures as in youth, let us fill our ſelves with coſtly Wines and Ointments; and let no ſhower of the ſpring paſs by us: let us crown our ſelves with Roſe-buds before they be withered, let none of us go without his part of our Voluptuouſneſs, let us leave tokens of joyfulneſs in every place, for this is our portion, and our lot is this. (Wiſdom 2. 6, 7, 8, 9.) Or if thou ſay'ſt, all theſe are carnal, and thy ſorrow is ſpiritual, and there is no proportion betwixt theſe two; why then (ſaith Satan) go to the Word, and Prayer, and other means, kindle a fire, and compaſs thy ſelf about with ſparks, and then walk in the light of thy fire, and in the ſparks which thou haſt kindled: (Jer. 50. 11.) go thy ways to Duties, and reſt in Duties, and never talk more of a principle of Grace or of love to God; fetcht from Chriſt Jeſus, as the ſpring of all. Thus Satan tempts, this is his Method and Malice in this caſe, he plots firſt to allay, and take away the ſmart which God hath made by outward mirth; but if he finds the Soul bleeds ſtill, and will not be ſtanced, but only by the Blood of Chriſt, and that is it which it is buſily enquiring after, then by way of diverſion he bids ſuch pray, and hear, and meditate, and confer, and joy in them, and reſt in them: He cares not where they have comfort, ſo it be on this ſide Jeſus Chriſt; well he knows, that a reaching out of the Soul towards that merciful hand of Chriſt, holden out to help it up, is the next and immediate act, by which a Man is quite and for ever pull'd out of Satan's Power, and put into the Paradiſe of Grace; and therefore here now he beſtirs himſelf, and to the Soul that cryes after eaſe and comfort, he offers comforts of theſe ſeveral ſorts, Carnal and Spiritual, outward Mirths, and reſting on means of Grace.

Sect. 9. Of the Soul's wreſtling with Satan, as to theſe Aſſaults.

TO theſe two Aſſaults we muſt uſe ſuitable Repulſes. To the firſt then of wicked Companions, and their Temptations, conſider of theſe particulars.

1. It is not ſo much a Companion, a Friend, a looſe company of men, as the Devil in and by them that tempts thee to carnal comforts. When Chriſt began to ſhew to his Diſciples how that he muſt go into Jeruſalem, and ſuffer many things of the Elders, and Chief Prieſts and Scribes; then Peter took him aſide, and would needs comfort him, with, Be it far from thee Lord, this ſhall not be unto thee: But he turned and ſaid unto Peter, Get thee behind me Satan, thou art an offence unto me, thou ſavoureſt not the things of God, but thoſe that be of men. (Mat. 16. 21, 22, 23, 24.) Peter in his diſſwaſion was an Inſtrument of Satan, and ſet on work by Satan, and therefore Chriſt calls him Satan; no leſs are they that bring carnal Comforts to ſpiritual Sores.

2. In ſeeking comfort, it is no way of God to adviſe with carnal and unregenerate friends: Alas they think thou art mad, they know not what trouble for ſin means, why then ſhouldſt thou diſcover thy diſeaſe to ſuch who are no Phyſicians? when God wrought wonderfully from Heaven in the Converſion of Paul, it is ſaid, that he obeyed God immediately, and never conſulted with fleſh and blood. (Gal. 1. 16.) Thus do thou, Doth God by his Miniſtry convince thee of thy ſinful ways, of becoming a new man, of coming to him for eaſe and refreſhing? give up thy ſelf to this Call immediately, and conſult not with fleſh and blood.

3. There is no ſuitableneſs of what they offer to the healing of thy ſorrowful and ſin-ſick Soul: What idle Companions can quiet thy Conſcience, forgive thy ſin, ſupport thy Spirit, or fill thee with ſpiritual joy? Alas! all their joys are but like the crackling of Thorns under a Pot; Vanity, vanity of vanities, all is vanity. —— I ſaid of laughter, it is mad, and of joy what doth it? (Eccl. 2. 1, 2.) There is no more agreement betwixt carnal Mirth, and a ſpiritual Sore, than betwixt light and darkneſs. Away then, depart from the Tents of theſe wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, leſt thou be conſumed in all their ſin. (Numb. 16. 26.)

4. It was the Apoſtles advice to them, who upon the prick of the heart enquired for cure, ſave your ſelves from this crooked Generation. And this he did very earneſtly, for with many words did he teſtifie and exhort, ſaying, ſaving your ſelves from them. (Act. 2. 40.) He inſiſted much on it, and ſeriouſly charged, adjured, entreated them, as knowing it to be a buſineſs of very great importance in what company ſuch young beginners lighted; ſurely this concerns thee as much as him. Oh that when ſuch temptations are abroad, thou wouldſt think as if thou heardſt that queſtion put to thee, Why ſeek ye the living among the dead? (Luk. 24. 3.) what living-laſting joys can be found with them that are dead in ſins? Oh ſave thy ſelf from them.

To the ſecond Aſſault of going to Duties, and reſting on Duties for eaſe and comfort, conſider——

1. This is a ſeeking for righteouſneſs, as it were, by the works of the Law, not directly, but as it were, it ſets up one thing for another: being ignorant of the righteouſneſs of God, we eſtabliſh our own righteouſneſs, and are not ſubject to the righteouſneſs of God. (Rom. 9. 31. Rom. 10. 3.)

2. Duties may pacifie Conſcience for a time, but certainly it will not hold: Then Ephraim ſaw his ſickneſs, and Judah ſaw his wound, then went Ephraim to the Aſſyrian, and ſent to King Jareb, yet could they not heal him, nor cure him of his wound. (Hoſ. 5. 13.) It is natural to men to reſt in Duties, ſo it was at firſt, Adam and all his Poſterity was to be ſaved by doing; Do this, and live: And hence all to this day ſeek in like manner to be ſaved by doing; but if this were ſufficient, what need of a Saviour? If we reſt on Duties, or on any thing on this ſide Chriſt, we ſhall find them as weak as the Aſſyrian, or as Jareb, they cannot heal us, they will not cure us of our Wounds.

3. Duties muſt be uſed; but carnally applauded and glorified in, they will undo Souls. Duties are to Satan as the Ark of God was to the Philiſtines: he trembles to ſee a Soul diligent in the uſe of Duties, but when the Creature confides in them and reſts on them, he hath his deſign. This was Bernard's Temptation, when being aſſiſted in Duty, he could ſtroak his own head with bene feciſti Bernarde: O Bernard*! this was gallantly done, now chear up thy ſelf.* Many a poor Soul would have comfort, and knows not whither to go for it but to Prayer, Hearing, Reading, &c. and that done he goes away, and ſtrokes himſelf, Surely I ſhall do well now, I ſhall be able to wreſtle with Devils: This is the very way to miſcarry. One ſpeaks it out boldly, but truly; Many Souls do not only periſh praying and repenting, but they periſh by their praying and repenting, whilſt they carnally truſt, and comfort themſelves in them. I deſire to be rightly underſtood in this point, ſome becauſe they muſt not relie on Duties, let go their Duties becauſe their comfort ought to be all in Chriſt; therefore they imagine a Chriſt talked of, and not deſired, loved, believed in, or prayed to, will ſolidly comfort: Oh take heed of Satan's deceits either way! What? is thy Soul ſad, and ſeeks to be comforted? go to Chriſt, but go to him in a way of Duty, not reſting on the Duty but only on him; hear a Sermon to bring thee to Chriſt, faſt and pray, and get a full tide of Affections in them to carry thee to the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; in thus doing Satan will vaniſh, and depart from thee, at leaſt for a ſeaſon, as he did from Chriſt, the Captain of thy Soul's Salvation.

Sect. 10. Of Satan's Aſſaults upon a ſight of Chriſt.

Hoſ. 6. 1, 2, 3.

THE Soul now underſtanding that there is no ſolid ſuitable comfort on this ſide Chriſt, begins therefore to look out for Chriſt: Come (ſay Converts) let us return unto the Lord, for he hath broken us, and he will heal us; he hath ſmitten us, and he will bind us up: after two days he will revive us, in the third day he will raiſe us up, and we ſhall live in his ſight; then ſhall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord, his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he ſhall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth: Well (ſaith Satan) if it be thus, if nothing but Jeſus Chriſt will ſerve the turn, if a ſight of Chriſt be the next thing looked after, then take a view of Chriſt in his Beauties, Graces, Sweetneſſes; acquaint thy ſelf with the hiſtory of Chriſt from firſt to laſt; learn him in his Natures, Perſon, Incarnation, Offices, Indowments; for his Natures he is God and Man, θεάνθρωπος, God manifeſted in the fleſh; for his Perſon, he is the ſecond Perſon in the Trinity, in which Perſon both the natures are united; for his Incarnation, he was Conceived of the Holy Ghoſt, Born of the Virgin Mary; for his Office, he is a King, a Prieſt, and a Prophet; and for his Endowments, he received the Spirit without meaſure, in him are hid all the Treaſures of Wiſdom and Knowledge, in which reſpect he is ſaid to be fairer than all the Children of Men: Why all this (ſaith Satan) I am willing thou ſhouldſt learn, ſtudy, and gain as much of the ſpeculative, notional knowledge of Chriſt as poſſibly thou canſt; lanch out (if thou wilt) into the deep queſtions and Controverſies of three Perſons in one Nature, and of two Natures in one Perſon; conſult all Schoolmen in their hot Diſputes and new Opinions, there thou may'ſt hear enough of the ſound of his Name: Oh the Temptations of Satan, when he hears ſinners complain! What? no remedy for a ſin-ſick Soul: is there no Balm in Gilead, no Phyſician there? And when the anſwer is given, no, there is no other name under Heaven, whereby poſſibly thou canſt be ſaved, but only Jeſus Chriſt: Why then let me ſee Chriſt (ſaith the Soul) give me a view of Jeſus, or I dye, I am undone, I periſh everlaſtingly: Hereupon, ſteps in Satan, ſaying, Come, thou ſhalt have a view of Chriſt, I am no Enemy to a General, Notional, Hiſtorical, Speculative Knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt; only content thy ſelf with Chriſt as an Object of Knowledge, and not of Faith. And thus Satan deals with Souls as we do with Surveyors of Lands, that take an exact compaſs of our Grounds or Lands, of which they ſhall never enjoy a Foot; and many are taken in this Snare: There is much talking of Chriſt, many luxuriate into a Theoretical Knowledge, a meer brain knowledge of Chriſt, that have no right nor title to Chriſt, nor ever look after it, and ſo they miſcarry.

Sect. 11. Of the Soul's wreſtling with Satan as to this Aſſault.

TO this Aſſault you muſt uſe theſe Repulſes,——

Iſa. 9. 6.

1. Labour ſo to know Chriſt, as to have your Hearts taken up with the practical admiration of the Glory of Chriſt above all Glories in the World, that is true Knowledge, which ſtirs up Affections in the Heart, and the Effects thereof in your life; and the firſt Affection that is ſtirred up in the Hearts of men at the ſight of Chriſt, it is a wondring and admiring at the Glories, Splendours, and Excellencies that are in Chriſt, his Name ſhall be called Wonderful: You have ſeen many Wonders abroad, you have ſeen the Heavens and the Earth, at which you many times wonder; but when God darts light into your Spirits, to cauſe you to ſee the Beauties of Jeſus Chriſt, all other Wonders will ceaſe, and give way to this great wonder: As the Stars, though they be Glorious Creatures in themſelves, yet when the Sun ariſes, all their Glory is eclipſed; ſo though God hath many wonders in the World, yet when the Sun of Righteouſneſs ariſeth, all other Works of God are darkned with the Glory of him. Certainly that Soul knows not God nor Chriſt ſavingly, that knows him not practically as the Wonder of the World, and ſo cries out, Oh the height, and depth, and breadth, and length of the Glory of God in Jeſus Chriſt.

Malac. 4. 2.

Phil. 3. 10.

2. Labour ſo to know Chriſt, as to have a practical and experimental knowledge of Chriſt in his Influences, and not meerly a notional. Alas! Chriſt is but a meer Notion, and Imagination to moſt people in the World; how few know Jeſus Chriſt by way of influence, and power, and fellowſhip with him? It is ſaid of them that fear his Name, That Chriſt the Son of Righteouſneſs will ariſe with healing in his Wings, and they ſhall go forth, and grow up as the Calves of the Stall: This clears it up, that as the Sun by an influence into the earth doth quicken and enliven the earth, and makes all the Seeds and Roots hidden in the Earth to revive, and put themſelves forth to ſprout and flouriſh; ſo there is an influence going forth from the Son of Righteouſneſs into the Souls of men, to make them of dead to become living, and of barren to become fruitful; and this is called the power of Chriſt, that I may know him, and the power of his Reſurrection, (i) that I may know Chriſt, and be made partaker of the good things flowing from Chriſt; this is the voice of one that would ſavingly know Chriſt, Oh that I may know him as a Prophet inſtructing me, as a Prieſt ſanctifying me, and as a King reigning ſpiritually in me? Oh that I may know the Power of his Reſurrection in the viviſication of my Soul, in the abolition of my ſin, in the acquiſition of righteouſneſs, and in the reſtoring of me to the aſſured hope of future Glory! The Devil is no great Enemy to an Hiſtorical Knowledge of the Prophetical, Prieſtly, and Kingly Offices of Chriſt, or of the Reſurrection of Chriſt, of which Paul ſpeaks Synecdochically; but to the holy Virtue and Power which comes from Chriſt in any of theſe particulars, he is a deadly Enemy: it is your Duty therefore ſo to know Chriſt, as that you may feel the Heavenly influences of whatever you know of Chriſt: For inſtance, it is one part of the cry, O that I may know Chriſt as a Prophet inſtructing me! How is that? why Chriſt in his Prophetical Office teacheth the Heart concerning himſelf, which none can do but only Jeſus Chriſt. I will not deny but Men or Angels may preſent Truths, and convince the Underſtanding, but they cannot ſo make known a Truth, as to gain the Heart by it, or to transform the Heart into the very Image of that Truth; only Jeſus Chriſt in the adminiſtration of the Prophetical Office teaches and prevails with the Heart when he comes with Truths. We ſee many People come to Sermons, and there Chriſt is opened clearly and diſtinctly, and thereupon they get ſome notional, ſpeculative Brain-knowledge of Jeſus Chriſt, but they are not changed, their Hearts are not overpowered. At another time the ſame perſons may come to a Sermon, when Chriſt is named only by the By, and then their Hearts are mightily wrought upon, and they go away ſaying, Verily God is in this Place; why now Chriſt ſpeaks to the Heart, and before man ſpeaks only to the ear. 2. It is Rom. 6.4. another part of the cry, Oh that I may know the power of the Reſurrection of Chriſt! How is that? why there is a Virtue flowing from the Reſurrection of Chriſt from the Grave, to the Reſurrection of the Souls of men from the death of Sin: as Eph. 1.19. Chriſt was raiſed from the dead by the glory of the Father, even ſo we alſo ſhould walk in newneſs of life. And this influence of Chriſt is called, The exceeding greatneſs of his power: It is exceeding great power that by the Reſurrection of Chriſt, an holy and gracious change ſhould be wrought in the Souls of men, from death to life, from Bondage to Liberty, from Uncleanneſs to Holineſs, and from the power of Satan unto God. Oh that thus you would labour to know Chriſt in a powerful, practical, and experimental Knowledge.

3. Labour ſo to know Chriſt, as to make him the Object of your Faith, and not meerly as the Object of your Knowledge: Many ſtudy Chriſt, but herein they act only as Students, and not as Believers: Oh be acquainted with this Myſtery of Grace! the very ſetting of Chriſt before the Soul as the full Object of juſtifying Faith, hath a mighty power to draw out Faith upon Jeſus Chriſt; as the ſetting of a Temptation before a Man, hath a power to draw out his corruptions; ſo the ſetting in his Glory and Excellency, in his Active and Paſſive Obedience, in what he is, and what he came into the World for, as an Object of Faith, it hath a mighty power both to draw out Faith where it is, and to cauſe or procure Faith where it is not: Chriſt is not only an Object for you to work upon when you have Faith, but ſuch an Object, as being ſet before the Soul, hath a quickning power to cauſe Faith: It may be your complaint, Chriſt is a glorious Object indeed, he is the chiefeſt of ten thouſands, but alas, I am dead in ſin, and I want a faculty to ſee him ſavingly in all his Glories. Why now ſet Chriſt before you as the Object of Faith, and ſooner or later, if you belong to him, you will feel his Influences; he is not only an Object of Faith for the Soul to work upon, when it can ſee, but ſuch an Object, as the very ſetting of it before the Soul, hath a quickning power to work life in the Soul to cauſe the Eye to ſee him, and to cauſe the Heart to make after him, though it were never ſo dead.

4. Labour ſo to know Chriſt, as he is your Righteouſneſs, both to expiate former iniquities, and to yield Obedience to the Law for your Juſtification. This is the Spirit's ſecond Conviction of all whom he purpoſeth for Salvation: Firſt he convinceth them of Sin; and ſecondly he convinceth them of Righteouſneſs; but of what, or whoſe Righteouſneſs? ſurely not of their own. Alas! Souls in this caſe uſually look upon themſelves firſt as ſinners, obnoxious to the Law of God, and the curſe thereof, and therefore never able to expiate Sin. Secondly, as creatures made to a ſupernatural end, and therefore bound to anſwer the whole mind of God in the obedience required at their Hands; now it being diſcovered to them that both theſe are beyond the compaſs of their own Endeavours, there is no other way, but to look to Jeſus Chriſt as their Righteouſneſs, the Spirit therefore convinceth them of Chriſt's Righteouſneſs: And indeed it is Chriſt, and only Chriſt, who firſt expiates former Iniquities, he ſatisfies for ſin, and procures the remiſſion of Sins, In his blood we have Redemption, Eph. 1.7. the forgiveneſs of ſins: And ſecondly, he fulfils all Righteouſneſs, he performs all the Obedience which juſtly might have been required of us, For if Rom.5.10 when we were Enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled, we ſhall be ſaved by his life. His death reconciles us, and his life ſaves us; his Paſſive Obedience, and the Actual Obedience which he yielded to the whole Law of God, is that Righteouſneſs whereby we are reconciled and ſaved. Oh, that you would labour to know Chriſt thus, as he is God your Righteouſneſs, and ſo act your Faith on him.

Sect. 12. Of Satan's Aſſaults upon Deſires after Chriſt.

THE Holy Ghoſt that hath brought on the Soul thus far, in the next place begins to breed in the Heart ſome deſires after Chriſt, and indeed, how ſhould it be otherwiſe? the frequent Diſcourſes of Chriſt, and of the Mercies of God in Chriſt to poor ſinners are ſo ſuitable and ſavoury, that the Soul begins to taſte ſome ſweeneſs in hearing of them, and this ſweetneſs ſtirs up ſome paſſionate deſires; Oh that Chriſt were mine! Oh that I had my ſhare in the paſſion and pitrity of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt! Oh I thirſt, I faint, I languiſh, I long for one drop of Mercy; as the Hart panteth after the water-brooks, ſo my Soul panteth after thee, my Lord, and my God: Oh that my poor trembling Soul were now received into the bleſſed bleeding arms of Jeſus Chriſt!

Satan that hears this, underſtands well enough that now the Soul is not far from the Kingdom of God, it is even upon the quickning; and therefore he plies this ſeaſon, therefore he beſtirs himſelf with all the policy and power of Hell to cauſe it to miſcarry, q. d. Come my Angels, come Devils, and beſtir your ſelves, it may be theſe deſires are only flaſhy, it may be theſe pantings are nothing but a Pang; have not the deſires of many been like lightning, ſoon in and ſoon out, too violent to hold? or like the wind, which how ſtrongly ſoever it ſeem to blow one way at preſent, yet ſoon after is found in the quite contrary point: A man may be drunk with Paſſion and Affection as really as with Wine: and as it is ordinary for a man to make a Bargain when he is in his Cups, which he repents of ſo ſoon as he is ſober again; ſo it is ordinary for ſinners, who make choice of Chriſt and his ways in a Sermon (while their Affections have been elevated above their ordinary pitch by ſome moving Diſcourſe) to repent of all they have done a while after: How many have come from a Sermon with a full gale of deſires, but when the impreſſion of the Word (which heated their Affections) was but once worn off, then they came to themſelves again, and were as far from any ſuch deſires after Chriſt, as ever they were before? Sudden deſires ſeldom ripen into a deliberate choice; raſh and haſty wiſhes do but ſeldom ſettle into a permanent reſolution to renounce ſin and ſelf, and to caſt the Soul wholly on Jeſus Chriſt; Come then, and blow on theſe deſires, blaſt them in the bud, that they never bear Fruit, not come to maturity of Faith. Thus Satan calls on his Legions, and they arm themſelves againſt the Soul, now panting and breathing after Jeſus Chriſt.

Sect. 13. Of the Soul's wreſtling with Satan as to this Aſſault.

THE Duties therefore that now concern you, are theſe.———

1. Content not your ſelves with ſome ſudden pangs of Affection, but labour to preſerve thoſe Impreſſions, which the Spirit at any time makes on your Souls. This is the Caveat of the Apoſtle, therefore we ought to give the more earneſt heed to the things which we have heard, leſt at any time we ſhould let them ſlip, or run out, as leaking Veſſels. It may be at preſent your deſires are ſtrong, earneſt, eager, vehement, extream thirſtings, as the parched Earth for refreſhing ſhowers, or as the hunted Hart for the Water-brooks; ſurely this is well, and herein you difference your deſires from lazy, cold, heartleſs, indifferent deſires: But oh take heed now leſt this prove but as the early Dew, none of which is to be ſeen at Noon.

Queſt. But what ſhall I do to preſerve theſe impreſſions?

Anſw. I anſwer: 1. If thou haſt got this heat in a Sermon, or any other publick Ordinances, betake thy ſelf to thy Cloſet, and there labour to take the advantage of thy preſent frame, for the more effectual pouring out of thy Soul to God. Oh beg of God! that now he will not leave thee ſhort of Faith, which begins in deſires, but that he will cheriſh theſe beginnings, and remember his promiſe, Mat. 12. 20. for he hath ſaid, that he will not quench the ſmoaking flax, nor break the bruiſed reed until he bring forth Judgment unto Victory. 2. If thou haſt got this heat in prayer, or any other private or ſecret duty, hold out in that duty begun, and joyn therewithal, a waiting on God in the uſe of publick means: The Spouſe that ſought Jeſus Chriſt by night on her Bed, would not reſt there, but now her deſire was up, ſhe would up too, and go Cant. 3.2. to the publick Aſſemblies, I will riſe now, and go about the City in the ſtreets, and in the broad ways I will ſeek him whom my Soul loveth. The Soul that would preſerve her deſires, will go from Duty to Duty, from publick to private, and from private to publick, and never faint: What (ſaith the Soul) is Chriſt whom I breath after to be found in publick? why then to thoſe publick Aſſemblies let me Pſal. 42.1, 2. go. As the Hart panteth after the water-brooks, ſo my Soul panteth after thee; O God, my ſoul thirſt- Pſal. 63.1, 2. eth for God, for the living God; O when ſhall I come and appear before God! —— O God, thou art my God, early will I ſeek thee, my Soul thirſteth for thee, my fleſh longeth for thee, in a dry and thirſty Land where no water is, to ſee thy Power, and thy Glory, as I have ſeen thee in the Sanctuary.

2. Try your deſires by the Touch-ſtone of God's Word, that you may not be baffled out of them, as if they were ſpurious. But what are thoſe ſigns, or marks, by which I may try, and be aſſured that my deſires are right? I anſwer,———

1. Every true deſire is ever joyned with an hearty willingneſs, and unfeigned Reſolution to ſell all for Chriſt, to part with all ſin, to bid adieu for ever to thy darling delight: It is not an ordinary wiſh of natural appetite, like Balaam's: we have many that deſire to be happy, but are unwilling to be holy; they would gladly be ſaved, but are loth to be ſanctified: Now if thou deſireſt truly, thou wilt live according, and willingly part with any ſin for Chriſt: what? is not Chriſt better than ſin, wilt thou ſay? O that I may ſin no more!

2. True deſire is ever quickned and enlivened with a continued and conſcionable uſe of the means, and it draws from them, by little and little, ſpiritual ſtrength and vigour; it is not an idle, ignorant, unexerciſed deſire; it were very vain and abſurd to hear a man talk of his deſire to live, and yet would neither eat, nor drink, nor ſleep, nor exerciſe himſelf: It is as fruitleſs and fooliſh for any one to pretend to a deſire of Grace and Salvation, and yet he will not prize and ply the Word, Prayer, Meditation, Conferences, and all the Means and Ordinances appointed and ſanctified by God; deſires themſelves will quickly vaniſh, if they be not nouriſhed in the uſe of means. Take heed then of living above Ordinances, if thou loveſt thy Soul, or would'ſt have any part in Jeſus Chriſt.

3. True deſire is ever conſtant, and importunately greedy after ſupply and ſatisfaction, it is not begot by the tempeſt of ſome preſent extremity and then quite vaniſhing away, when the ſtorm of Terror and Temptation is over; this is that the Devil looks at, he obſerves how many in a fit could be content to leap out of their Skin to get Heaven, and to keep out of Hell; but after this is over, they cannot away with croſſing their nature, fighting againſt Luſts, wreſtling againſt Satan, labouring for the Righteouſneſs of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt, above all things, and therefore their Wiſhings and Wouldings come to nothing. Come then, and try thy deſire by this mark, which utterly confounds Satan, if thy deſire takes root in a truly humbled Heart, and never determines, nor expires, till thou haſt what thou deſireſt after: If thou cryeſt, Oh give me Chriſt, or I will never be ſatisfied! my Soul is reſtleſs, and it ſhall be reſtleſs, till I have Chriſt in my Arms, and Hand of Faith: Surely this is a good ſign, and thou may'ſt build upon it, and at laſt thou ſhalt ſee, he will fulfil the deſire of them that breath thus after him.

Sect. 14. Of Satan's Aſſaults upon relying on Chriſt.

THE Holy Spirit that leads on the Soul by ſteps, begins now to work in the Soul a relying on Chriſt; and this is that act of Faith to which Juſtification is uſually promiſed; it is called an affiance, dependance, adherence, reliance; or if there be any word that expreſſeth the act of an humbled Soul, whereby it caſteth and repoſeth it ſelf upon the promiſe of God in Chriſt, for the obtaining remiſſion of ſins, and everlaſting life, that is it which now the Spirit works in the Soul of whom he purpoſeth to ſave. I would have this well underſtood and felt; this is that hinge on which the Doors of Heaven do turn: In this act, the poor Soul inlightned, and affrighted with the ſenſe, and ſight of its ſin, and miſery for ſin, and having a ſight of Chriſt, which breeds in it ſome deſires after Chriſt, it throws it ſelf into Chriſt's Arms, graſping faſt about him, and hiding it ſelf in the clefts of this Rock, crying and ſaying, my Lord, and my God, O ſave me or I ſink; O hold me faſt, or I periſh for ever. By this Act we are accepted for Juſt before God, for the Sake and Sufferings of Jeſus Chriſt.

Now when the Devil perceives this, he ſees himſelf gone, and the Soul in ſafety out of his power, only he will not ceaſe to tempt and trouble; and to that purpoſe, if he cannot prevail againſt the eſſe of a Chriſtian, he wreſtles againſt the bene eſſe; if he cannot keep off the hand of Faith, from laying hold on Chriſt, yet will he trouble the Head and Heart of a Chriſtian with cloudy Vapours, and miſgiving Thoughts. But firſt ſometimes he keeps off the Hand of Faith, darkning the Soul with a deep melancholly, that it cannot ſee and remember the Promiſe; or if it be remembred, yet he ſcares the Soul from off the promiſe, q. d. What do you meddle with the promiſe, it does not belong unto you, you have ſinned ſo and ſo, and therefore the threatnings and not the promiſe belongs unto you. Secondly, ſometimes he breeds in the Soul a jealous and ſuſpitious frame, that it will not believe that it doth believe. And hence we hear theſe crys, Alas! I cannot think that I do really reſt and rely on Chriſt; or if ſometimes I be in ſuch a frame, yet at ſome other times I cleave again to a ſenſual good, more than to a ſpiritual Promiſe, or to an heavenly Chriſt: Oh I do not fully and conſtantly cling unto the bleeding Wounds of Jeſus, I am up and down, I reſt not continually on the freeneſs of his love, and merit of his Paſſion, and truth of his Promiſe, as upon a rock of Eternity; And is this to rely on Jeſus Chriſt? Oh the depths of Satan! 1. He deſigns to keep the Soul from believing, but if he cannot keep the Edifice of Faith from being built in the Soul, yet he will keep it (if poſſible) from ſtanding ſure: Simon, Simon, (ſaith Chriſt) Satan hath deſired to winnow thee like wheat, but I have prayed for thee that thy Faith fail not. Luk. 22. 31, 32. The word [winnow] ſignifies to ſhake up and down, as with a Fan the Wheat is uſed. Look how he dealt with Job, becauſe Satan had no power over his life, he executed his power to the utmoſt upon the comforts of his life: So he deals with the Soul of a Chriſtian, if he have no power over the life of Faith, then he will execute his power to the utmoſt, that the Soul may never come to have the comfortable Senſe of Faith; and when he brings his Rams to batter his comforts, no wonder if the poor Mud-Wall of a Chriſtian ſhakes up and down.

Sect. 15. Of the Soul's wreſtling with Satan as to this Aſſault.

FOR the bearing off theſe blows in time of Temptation, let us conſider them apart: And firſt, to that of Satan's endeavouring to ſunder or ſever the Soul from the promiſe, and to keep it off from Faith, do you take this courſe.——

1. Do you gather in promiſes that you may have them at hand: I ſhall inſtance in ſuch as Rev.22.17 theſe, —let him that is athirſt come, and whoſoe-
Mat.11.28 ver will, let him take of the water of life freely.
Joh. 7. 37. ——Come unto me all ye that labour, and are hea-
Joh.20.31 vy laden, and I will eaſe you.——If any man thirſt,
Act.16.31. let him come unto me and drink.——Theſe things are written, that ye might believe, and that believing, ye might have life through his Name.——Believe on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and thou ſhalt be ſaved.

2. Take poſſeſſion of the Promiſes, and value them as your own; the Prophet recording a Promiſe in Iſa. 54. 17. adds thus, This is the Heritage of the Servants of the Lord, and their righteouſneſs is of me, ſaith the Lord. Iſa. 54. 17. If you look into God's Book, and find any promiſe of Chriſt, or of Chriſt your Righteouſneſs, or of Chriſt offering himſelf for your Righteouſneſs, you ſhall make it your own, for it is your Heritage: O lay hold on thoſe promiſes, and ſay, This is mine, it is a part of my Heritage, and I am to live upon it.

3. If Satan ſtave you off, ſaying, Hands off, the Threatnings, and not the Promiſe belongs unto you; tell Satan again, that when you went on in a way of Sin, he could tell you otherwiſe, viz. That the Promiſe and not the Threatning belonged to you; but now it is not with you as it was then, now all ſin is to you as a burthen, and now every promiſe is to you as a world of Gold, and therefore Satan, didſt thou tell me that the Promiſe did belong to me then? ſurely now, much more: Avoid Satan, for it is written, Come to me, ye that are weary and heavy laden with ſin.

4. Remember that the ſame Lord Jeſus that invites you, commands you to believe and to rely upon him, and therefore apply the promiſe to your ſelves, This is the Commandment, that we ſhould 1 Joh. 3. 23. believe on the Name of his Son Jeſus Chriſt. Luther was a man that laboured under great Temptations, and being once ſorely tempted, and the tears trickling down his Cheeks, my Friend (ſaith he) came unto me, and ſaid, Oh my Son, why doſt thou mourn! doſt thou not know that God hath commanded thee to believe? When (ſays Luther) I heard that word [Command] it prevailed more with my heart than all that was ſaid, or thought on before: So ſay I now unto thee, doth not Satan come in with this Temptation, and tell thee, The Promiſe belongs not to thee? Anſwer, Ay, but the Lord hath commanded me to believe; and therefore it is my duty to believe; and becauſe I cannot believe, unleſs I apply the promiſe to my ſelf, therefore I may conclude that the promiſe doth belong unto me. Thus for the firſt temptation.

2. For the other, that your relying on Chriſt is not conſtant: True Faith (ſaith Satan) is ever alike ſtrong and ſtedfaſt; but thy faith is but a wavering, inconſtant, flitting Faith. Conſider——

1. It is a fallacy, and no truth, that Faith in the exerciſe of ſenſe, is ever alike ſtrong and ſtedfaſt. The experience of all Saints can tell you, that Faith hath its flowings and ebbings, full and wane: Sometimes a Chriſtian is on the wing, and then he ſaith, I think if the Devil laid hold on me, yet I could truſt in God for heaven; as Job could ſometimes ſay, If the Lord ſlay me, yet will I truſt Job 13. 15. in him: but we know that was not Job's temper always: ſometimes I think, that if God would take me away in a Maſſacre, I ſhould yield my Blood without a repining word; another time, I ſo doubt my intereſt in Chriſt, that I do not know how I ſhould die upon my bed, unleſs with crying, Lord take me not away with the wicked. Pſal. 28. 3. David ſometimes would not be afraid of his Soul going out of his Body, if ten thouſand ſwords were ready to cut out a paſſage; I will not be afraid of ten thouſand Pſal. 6. 3. of people, that have ſet themſelves againſt me round about: at another time he cries, complaining and ſhrieking, O ſpare me, that I may recover ſtrength Pſal. 39. before I go hence, and be no more. 13. Faith may be ſo interrupted, that the Pulſe of it cannot always beat alike, and yet while there is life, the pulſe of Faith beats, though ſometimes more faintly and deadly, than at other times.

Collins's Cordial.

2. Faith, that in the exerciſe or ſenſe is not ever alike ſtrong and ſtedfaſt, yet in the Habit or Eſſence is ever true, and truly relies upon Jeſus Chriſt. Senſe in a Chriſtian, may not only have a miſt caſt before its Eyes, but (as ſaith a Modern) may have its Eyes put out. Chriſtians are miſ-judging Creatures, and too ready upon Satan's Temptations to ſuſpect their own happineſs; they may call their Faith preſumption, as well as ſome call their preſumption Faith: the Hypocrite calls his droſs, gold, and his alchymy, ſilver, and the ſuſpecting Chriſtian is as ready on the other hand to call his gold, braſs, and his ſilver, lead: Chriſt may be ſaying in Heaven, concerning ſuch a one, Thou art ſaved, thou art ſaved, whilſt he may be crying on Earth, O I am damned, I am damned: The Angels may be in Heaven rejoycing over him whom we ſee here mourning over his own Soul for ſin, and will not be comforted; It may be thou ſayeſt, I do not believe, I do not rely on Jeſus Chriſt; But let me ask, Could there be ſuch an hungring and thirſting after Chriſt, if thou didſt not believe on Chriſt? Could there be ſuch a care to pleaſe Chriſt, and a fear of offending Chriſt in thy whole life and converſation, if thou didſt not rely upon him for Eternal Life and Salvation? Could there be ſuch a willingneſs in thee to part with all for Chriſt, if thou didſt not rely upon him as thy Portion, and thy All in All? Surely this is impoſſible, content thy ſelf; if thou haſt not the Senſe, yet thou haſt the Habit, and not only the Habit, but the act of Faith alſo in ſome meaſure, at ſome times, though it ſeem very weak.

Sect. 16. Of Satan's Aſſaults upon Obedience to Chriſt.

THE laſt act of the Spirit, as to Converſion, is to work in the Soul an Obedience to Chriſt: True Faith cannot be without works; the Soul that truly takes Chriſt as a Saviour, to free him from the miſery of ſin, is willing alſo to take him as a Lord, Husband, and King, to ſerve, love, honour and obey him: And to this purpoſe the Spirit now works in ſuch a one, a willingneſs to ſpend the remainder of his life in endeavouring after mortification of ſin, conqueſts over Corruptions, ſanctification, purity, new obedience, ability to do, or ſuffer, any thing for Jeſus Chriſt; and this is that which we ordinarily intend, by ſaying, Saving faith to be operative: That Faith which brings forth nothing of Holineſs, what is it but a dead Faith? As the body without the ſpirit is dead, ſo faith without works is dead alſo.

Jam. 2.26.

Satan that obſerves this, begets ſcruples in the Soul, as to that point of working Faith, and either fills the heart with an opinion, that works are unneceſſary, or makes the ſoul conceit, that the Faith it hath, is not a working, but an idle, lazy, fruitleſs and barren Faith. I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe.——

1. In ſome Satan works ſtrongly, that works are not needful, and therefore to what purpoſe ſhould they work? naked Chriſt, and a naked Faith is enough for them: Chriſt as a Prieſt and Saviour is Goſpel-news; let them hear ſuch, and only ſuch Sermons as hold forth free Love, free Juſtification, free Grace, without any mixture of the works of the Law, to what purpoſe (ſay they) is this living Faith, or working Faith, or power of Faith, evidenced in ſtrictneſs of walking? Chriſt hath redeemed us, and Chriſt requires no other condition but only this, Believe, and be ſaved; and why then ſhould we vex and torment our ſelves by imbracing mortification, newneſs of life, &c.

2. In others (whom I rather mind) Satan ſuggeſts, that their faith is not a working faith, and therefore no true faith: Convinc'd they are, that faith and grace, where ever it is, cannot be idle; faith hath its work, and therefore it is called, The work of Faith with power: But alas, they cannot find any thing in their Souls that looks like the powerful work of faith: Satan tells them, that if they do any good it is but from natural or moral Principles, and not from this quickning power of faith, it is not the obedience of faith, as the Apoſtle calls it.

Sect. 17. Of our wreſtling with Satan as to theſe Aſſaults.

IN repelling theſe Aſſaults, let us avoid both extreams. And firſt, to that of denying works, Conſider——

1 That a naked faith is no faith, that only is true faith which worketh by love. This was the ſaying of John Huſſe, Where good works appear not without, faith is not within. There is a natural connexion of faith and works; and therefore of neceſſity both muſt be in the ſame ſubject though both appear not in the ſame court: Faith that imbraceth Chriſt is obediential, and fruitful in all good works; and hence we ſay, that faith hath two notable acts, firſt to apprehend and lay hold on Chriſt; and ſecondly to purifie and cleanſe the Heart: O, let no man ſeparate thoſe things which God hath joyned together; as Chriſt is made to us righteouſneſs and ſanctification, ſo they that by faith receive the righteouſneſs of Chriſt, muſt be alſo ſanctified by Chriſt; whoſoever is in Chriſt, is a new creature.

Gal. 5. 6.

1 Cor. 1. 30.

2 Cor. 5. 17.

2. That good works are neceſſary by command of God, for this is the will of God, even your ſanctification. Hence the Law of God ſtill remaineth as a Rule and Directory; and Paul profeſſeth, that he delighteth in the Law of God in his inward man. And how often do we read of this Command of God in his Word? Charge them that are rich in the World——that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to diſtribute, laying up in ſtore for themſelves a good foundation againſt the time to come, that they may lay hold on Eternal Life——For we are his workmanſhip, created in Chriſt Jeſus unto good works, which God hath before ordained, that we ſhould walk in them. A multitude of ſuch paſſages may we find in Scripture.

1 Theſ. 4.8.

Rom. 7.22.

1 Tim. 16, 17, 18, 19.

Eph. 2.10.

3. That to hold forth Chriſt only as a Saviour, and not as a Prince, faith, and not works, it is not right and full Goſpel-preaching: This is a faithful ſaying, and theſe things I will that thou affirm conſtantly, that they which have believed in God, muſt be careful to maintain good works; theſe things are good and profitable unto men. Oh how unfaithful are they in their ſayings that deny that, which Paul would have Titus to affirm conſtantly? Surely this is true Goſpel-preaching, He gave himſelf for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purifie unto himſelf a peculiar people, zealous of good works; theſe things ſpeak and exhort. Paul to Titus, and Peter to the Jews, ſpeak one and the ſame thing, The God of our Fathers hath raiſed up Jeſus, to be not only a Saviour, but a Prince, not only to give remiſſion of ſins, but alſo repentance to Iſrael. Away, away with that Temptation, that works are unneceſſary.

See them at large in Collins's Cordials.

2. To that complaint, that the ſoul cannot find the powerful work of faith in it '[All theſe works of mine (ſaith the ſoul) are but natural, or moral; or if I have any faith, it is the idleſt, laziest, looſeſt faith that ever Chriſtian had] Give me leave to ſum up theſe directions ———

1. Clear up the eyes of thy underſtanding, and judge aright: Some works may be only the effects of natural or moral cauſes, but other works, reſpecting the principles and circumſtances of them, cannot proceed from any but a true faith: For inſtance, an unfeigned hatred of every falſe way, a doing of duty in pure obedience to the command of God, and in pure reſpect to the glory of God: Theſe are ſuch effects of faith, as no hypocrite in the world either hath, or can have. An hypocrite may leave the Commiſſion of ſome ſins, or he may hate ſome enormities of life, but he cannot, as David did, hate every falſe way. An hypocrite may faſt, and pray, and mourn, as the Phariſee, and Ahab did, but he cannot do thus meerly out of obedience to God and for the glory of God: Come then, clear up thy eyes, and ſee if there be no more ingredients in thy actions, than what an hypocrite may have.

Pſal. 119. 104.

2. Set thy faith on work, on the powerful works of faith, and ſo put all out of queſtion. As 1. Cauſe thy ſoul every day in ſolemn manner to act that firſt work of faith, of panting, breathing, deſiring after Chriſt, of truſting, reſting, relying on Chriſt for life, and for Salvation. 2. Act that next work of faith, of depending on Chriſt for holineſs and ſanctification: draw virtue out of Chriſt his death for the mortification of thy ſins, knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of ſin might be deſtroyed, that henceforth we ſhould not ſerve ſin, and draw virtue out of Chriſt his Reſurrection, for a quickning power from the death of ſin to the life of holineſs, that as thou art dead with Chriſt, and buried with Chriſt, ſo thou mayeſt alſo riſe with Chriſt through the faith of the operation of God who hath alſo raiſed him from the dead. 3. Be much in prayer, meditation, reading, hearing the Word, &c yea, lay out thy gifts, graces, time, ſtrength, riches, intereſt to thy Maſter's uſe; think which way thou mayſt do moſt to promote the Goſpel, to ſave ſouls; as Chriſt bad Peter, When thou art converted, ſtrengthen thy brethren. Why thus wouldeſt thou do in ſincerity and truth, thou wouldeſt put all out of queſtion, that thy faith were not a dead faith, but a living, working, juſtifying, ſoul-ſaving faith.

Rom. 6. 6.

Coloſ. 2. 12.

Luk. 22. 32.

3. Deſpiſe not the day of ſmall things, the breathings of faith are as much true faith as its full voice, when it ſaith, My beloved is mine and I am his.

4. State thy condition, and ſee if thou doſt not find ſuch a temper of ſpirit as faith uſeth to ſuit the ſoul with in ſuch a condition: Faith hath his change of rayments for gracious ſouls; ſometimes it acts the ſoul in joy and rejoycing, ſometimes only in adherence and waiting: Thou ſayſt thou canſt not find in thy ſoul ſuch a perſwaſion of God's love, ſuch an holy rejoycing in God, as the Scripture expreſſeth, to be effects of true faith; why, it may be it is a day of darkneſs in thy ſoul, and therefore examine the other way: Is not thy heart wrought into a fit temper to wait upon him who hides his face from thee, and to ſeek him who ſeems to have forſaken thee, and to cling unto him that ſeems as if he would kill thee? This is true tryal: Firſt, ſtate thy condition, and look for Faiths anſwerable workings to thy condition, as it is ſtated. And thus much of our wreſtling with Satan, as to his Aſſaults in our Youth, or the time of our Converſion, or ſecond Period.

I cannot ſay, but Satan in his time hath many more Aſſaults than I have numbred, or poſſibly can number. As the Spirit's workings are various, ſo are Satan's counter-workings; the Spirit humbles ſome much, and comforts others as much: Some it may be, had a falſe and counterfeit work before a true one, and others were never inlightned until ſavingly; and this variety affords riſe and occaſion for ſeveral temptations: I was never thus humbled, ſays one, nor I thus comforted, ſays another, I had ſome workings and inlightnings heretofore, ſays a third, and I was deceived then, and I may be ſo now alſo: and I had a ſudden violent work indeed, ſays a fourth, which came in like a ſpring-tide, but now the tide is fallen, and my firſt love is abated. Thus every ſeveral way of working lies open to ſeveral exceptions, and hath its ſeveral temptations; but the remedy is, that Souls ſhould look to the main, and for the manner and meaſure of the work in every part and piece of it, to leave it to the good pleaſure of the Spirit, who is a free Agent, and muſt not be limited by our reaſonings. I fear I have been too tedious in this Period, and therefore I ſhall add no more.

CHAP. IV. SECT. I.

Of the Devil's Aſſaults in our manhood or riper years.

THE third Period, wherein Satan aſſaults or combates with us, it is from our manhood or riper years, until our death or dying moment: And in proſecution of this, as of the former; firſt learn we ſome of thoſe depths, or wiles of Satan againſt us; and ſecondly, practiſe we thoſe Duties that concern us in our wreſtling with him in theſe reſpects.

1. For his Aſſaults in this Period, I ſhall reduce them into this method, viz. they are either Perſecutions, Temptations, or diabolical Injections: So * one of our Worthies divided his fiery Darts, his Perſecutions are by the World, his Temptations are by the Fleſh, his Injections are only and immediately by himſelf.

* Satanæ tela, dum certis ea cancellis includere moliebar, viſa ſunt mihi reduci poſſe ad perſecutiones, tentationes, & injectiones diabolicas. D. Arrowſmith, Tactica Sacra.

Sect. 2. Of Satan's Perſecutions by the World.

HIS Perſecutions are by the World, ſo Chriſt tells the Church of Smyrna, The Devil ſhall caſt ſome of you into Priſon, that ye may be tryed, and ye ſhall have tribulation ten days: The Devil ſhould do it; but how ſhould the Devil do it, but by the aid of his Inſtrument the World? He is the God of this World, he rules in the hearts of wicked men, he directs their Thoughts, Wills, and Affections, and ſo he moves them, and carries them to perſecute the Children of God, and to caſt them into Priſon.

Rev. 2.10.

This is ordinary after Converſion; no ſooner is the change wrought, and the man brought truly home to Chriſt, but by this time is he become the Drunkard's Song, Table-talk to thoſe that ſit in the Gate, Muſick to great men at their Feaſts, a By-word to the Children of Fools, more vile than the Earth. Now it is that the Seed of the Serpent diſcovers it ſelf, the Devil, and his Angels and his Sons combine to lay a load of lying Imputations, unworthy uſages, and any kind of perſecutions upon his Saints: In this caſe the Wicked are as Preſſers, and the Godly are as Olives and Grapes;

And what can they expect from ſuch men, but to be preſſed and ſqueezed till the blood come out? But why is it that the Wicked ſhould be thus inraged againſt the Godly? have they done them any wrong? do they wiſh them any evil? or would they not be glad to do them good, as to their eternal welfare? No queſtion of all this; but ungodly men are compelled by Satan to do what they do; the old Serpent hates God, and the Holineſs of God, which ſhines in his Saints, with deadly hatred; he knows that he himſelf is caſt out of Heaven, and therefore he envies and vexes at the Salvation of any. And as thus it is with Satan, ſo ungodly men, (that are Satans Tools and Inſtruments whereby he works) have ſucked up the old Serpent's Poyſon, and they ſwell with it, and by it they are enraged againſt all Godlineſs alſo, that as it is ſaid of Tygers, they enter into a rage upon the Scent of fragrant Spices; ſo ungodly men, without any other reaſon are in a rage at the bleſſed ſavour of Godlineſs, whereſoever it is: An unjuſt man is an abomination to the juſt, and he that is upright in the way, is an abomination to the wicked. Pro. 29. 27.

I know not any that fear God, but in ſome meaſure or other, they have felt this Aſſault. Bleſſed Mr. Bolton could ſay, If Satan meet with a man, that by the Grace of God is already entred into a ſtate of Regeneracy, then he ſtands like a great red Dragon in the way, and caſts out of his mouth floods of perſecution, vexations and oppoſitions, that ſo he may over-whelm and cruſh him before he come to any growth or ſtrength in Chriſt; and to this end he ſets on foot and fire too, and whets with keen Razors many lewd and prophane Tongues, to ſcoff, diſgrace and diſcourage him in his narrow, but bleſſed paſſage to immortality? But how do they do it? why either by reproaches, ſlanders, exprobration of his former life, or by odious names of Hypocrite, Singulariſt, Puritan, a fellow of irregular Conſcience, and ſtirring humour, of a factious and contradictious Spirit, and ſuch like. Nor is it thus only at firſt entrance, but ever after, for ſo he goes on. Every faithful Chriſtian knows by good experience, that as he ſhall ſtir in a good cauſe, ſtand againſt the Corruptions of the place where he lives, or diſcharge his Calling with Conſcience and faithfulneſs, that preſently he ſhall have the ſpirit of Prophaneneſs to fly in his face with bruitiſh and implacable malice and inſolency. So true is that of the Apoſtle, at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lyſtra, I endured Perſecutions; yea, and all that will live Godly in Chriſt Jeſus, ſhall ſuffer perſecution.

Bolton in his diſcourſe of true happineſs.

2 Tim. 3. 11, 12.

Sect. 3. Of our wreſtling with Satan, as to this Aſſault.

In repelling theſe Aſſaults, conſider we the kinds of perſecution wherewith Satan aſſaults; it is either in word, or in deed.

1. If it be only in Word, as Taunts, Jeers, Reproaches, then practiſe theſe rules.——

1. Take heed that we be not hindred in our way, or break off our profeſſion of Religion becauſe of reproach; what though there be filth caſt in the way, ſhall we decline our way? though Clouds do ariſe and darken the light of the Sun, does the Sun ceaſe in its courſe becauſe its darkned? No, no, it goes on ſtill, and anon it breaks forth; ſo ſhould we go on and ſay, I knew this way would be cloudy, I entred into it upon theſe Terms, to be willing to ſuffer reproaches; this is God's ordinary way towards his people, and I expect yet greater trials than theſe.

2. Conſider, how is God and Chriſt reproached daily? How is the Majeſty, Sovereignty, and Authority of God contemned in the World? how are the dreadful Threatnings of God and the Revelation of God's Wrath ſcorned in the World? this made † Luther to ſay, No man is able to bear ſo much contempt as Chriſt bears daily; and Bolton to ſay, If any meek ſpirit ſhould ſit but one hour in the Throne of God Almighty, and ſhould look down upon the earth as God doth continually, he undoubtedly in the next hour would ſet all the World on fire, and not ſuffer his Wrath to be pacified or the fire to be quenched; be thou then for ever aſhamed to take on, or to break patience for every trivial provocation. Oh, what be our names to God's name? or what are the * Reproaches of a Creature, to the Reproaches, Diſhonour and vilifying of God.

† Luther in Pſal. 122.

* For my part, I think the Miniſters of the Goſpel would want one of the badges of honour belonging to their office, were they not thus reproachfully uſed. It is part of the ſtate which belongs to the true Miniſters of the Goſpel, to be followed by ſuch black mouthed Lacqueys, who by their virulent ſpeeches are ſo far their friends as to keep them from that curſe, Wo be unto you when all men ſpeak well of you. Stillingfleet in his Irenicum.

3. Conſider the great Mercy of God in concealing the ſecret ſins of our thoughts? there are none ſo innocent, but if God ſhould turn the inſide outwards, and diſcover all the filth and baſeneſs within the heart to the World, certainly it would make them aſhamed of the Society of men. Now if God conceal theſe, well may this quiet our Hearts, when troubled for any reproach: It is a great work of nature to keep the filth of the body, when it is in a man, from being unſavoury to others; ſo it is a great mercy of God to keep the filth of the Soul, though it be unſavoury to God, from that unſavourineſs that it might be to men

4. Conſider what Honour God hath put, and will put upon us, beſides the Honour of Reproach it ſelf: Hath not the Lord been pleaſed to bring us into the honourable eſtate of Sons and Daughters? Hath he not put his Glory upon our Souls, and honour'd us by that near relation we have to Chriſt? Hath he not honour'd us in the Hearts of his Saints, men of precious ſpirits; who know much of God's mind, who are able to judge wherein true excellency conſiſts? when Doeg reproached David with devouring baſe Words in Saul's Court, yet David bleſſed himſelf in this, But I am like a green Olive Tree in the houſe of my God, Pſal. 52. 8. q. d. Doeg flouriſheth in the Court, and my nam emay be blaſted there, but in the Houſe of my God my name is precious, I am there as a green Olive tree. Beſides what honour hath the Lord provided for us in that other World of Souls? If a man were going to be crowned, and ſome as he goes along contemns him, and vilifies him, what cares he for that? He knows that within a few days he ſhall be honoured by thoſe that now reproach him; if we believe there are ſuch things to come, that we ſhall ſit with Chriſt, and judge the Angels, and judge the Reproachers, why ſhould we be troubled at what they ſay? it will not be long but they ſhall be forced to call us, The bleſſed of the Lord, and the bleſſings of the whole World: 'twill not be long but Chriſt will bring forth our Righteouſneſs as the light, and ſet all ſtreight, which ſlanderous Tongues have now made crooked.

5. Make our moan unto God, and lay our caſe before him. Thus when Rabſhekah reviled God, and the people of God, Hezekiah ſpread the Letter before God and made his moan there: This was the practice of Job and David. My friends ſcorn me (ſaith Job) but mine eyes pour out tears unto God——And hold not thy peace, O God of my praiſe (ſaith David) for the mouth of the wicked, and the mouth of the deceitful are opened againſt me; they have ſpoken againſt me with a lying Tongue, they have compaſſed me about with words of hatred, they are my Adverſaries, ——— but I give my ſelf unto Prayer, q. d. For my part, I go for help to my God; others others have evil Tongues to help them, and run to this and that witneſs to ſeek help for themſelves, but I give my ſelf unto Prayer, I cry unto the Lord, and he ſhall ſend from Heaven, and ſave me from the reproach of him that would ſwallow me up. Selah.

Job 16. 20.

Pſal. 109. 1, 2, 3, 4.

6. Return good for evil, as occaſion and providence offers it ſelf: 1 Cor. 4. 12, 13. Being reviled we bleſs (ſaith Paul) being perſecuted, we ſuffer it, being defamed, we entreat. Thus if we can pray for our Reproachers, and deſire good for them, and be willing to take notice of any good in them, and be ready to offer any offices of love and reſpect, and kindneſs unto them, and ſo heap coals of fire upon them, there is a great ſign of Grace, and we have made a good progreſs in God's way: It was Chriſt's own Mat. 5. 34, 43 Command to his Apoſtles, Bleſs them that curſe you; pray for them that deſpitefully uſe you, that ye may be the Children of your Father: Why, were they not Children before? Yes, but this declares it; now God owns them for his Children: And certainly if we behave our ſelves thus we may have the comfort of this, that our reproaches come to us as to God's people, we are the Children of God.

7. If our perſecutions be in deed, as to impriſonment, loſs of Goods, Exile, or Death, then practice thoſe rules I have elſewhere laid down; viz. in Self-denial, and Saints ſufferings.

Sect. 4. Of Satan's Temptations by the fleſh.

SAtan's next Aſſaults we call Temptations which are by the fleſh, our own luſts, or concupiſcence; not but that Satan can tempt us by himſelf, and ſo can we; he can tempt us, and we not joyn with him; and we can tempt our ſelves, and Satan not joyn with us; but moſt times our Temptations are mixt, he and we concur, and make one act of tempting; and herein either Satan begins to us, and we pledge him, or we begin to him, and he joyns with us; when we by diſcontent or other inward motion, expoſe our ſelves to temptation, then we begin to him; but when Satan doth make the offer, by moving the fancy with thoughts within, or by propoſing ſome object without, then doth he begin to us. Theſe ways are 1 Cor. 7. 6. ordinary, and it is but rare that the Devil will not interpoſe. Hence Paul ſpeaking to the married, he bids them not to be long aſunder, but to come together again, leſt Satan tempt them for their incontinency: Why? was there not fleſh and blood in them, corrupt affections, and natural concupiſcence, enough to diſpoſe them to luſts and to make them incontinent? Yes, but they wreſtled not againſt fleſh and blood, but againſt Principalities and Powers: The Devil puts in, even in thoſe very things wherein fleſh and blood doth aſſail us alſo; as we have temptations within, ſo the Devil without ſharpens thoſe Temptations, and gives them points, and makes them taking, and mingles and joyns himſelf with the Temptation.

Sect. 5. Of Temptations, in reſpect of our natural Diſpoſitions.

NOW theſe Temptations are infinite, and paſt my recounting; yet that I may reduce them into ſome method, they have either a reſpect to our natural diſpoſitions, or to our outward conditions, or to our ſpiritual Eſtates.

Firſt, Satan hath an Eye to our diſpoſitions, he obſerves to what ſins we are moſt inclined by our nature, temper and bodily conſtitution, and to thoſe he inclines us, thruſting us, as it were down the Hill, where we are apt to run headlong of our own accord: For example, if he find a man ambitiouſly affected, then he covers his Hook with the Bait of Honours; or if he find a man addicted to voluptuouſneſs, then he covers it with the Bait of pleaſures: or if he find a man given to covetouſneſs, then he lays for him a golden Net, or he makes a breach in his Heart with a Golden Bullet.

In this caſe it is the Chriſtian's beſt skill, as ſoon as may be, to obſerve his own nature, temper, and diſpoſition, and to find out what ſin he is moſt prone to; I may call it his boſom ſin, his beloved ſin, his darling pleaſure, his minion delight; certainly this is Satan's ſtrongeſt hold, his Tower of greateſt confidence, and ſecurity: Oh how it ſticks and cleaves to the Soul! Oh what a deal of ado muſt the beſt Saints have with Satan and this ſin, before it be killed!

In ſome this ſin is Worldlineſs, Wantonneſs, Pride, Paſſion, in others it may be Drunkenneſs, Gluttony, Gaming, ſcurril Jeſting, obſtinate Inſatiableneſs in allowed Recreations, or the like. I cannot ſpeak to every of theſe, for ſo would the work ſwell under hand, yet to ſome I dare not but ſpeak, and oh that it may be with fruit and profit, both to others, and my own Soul!

Sect. 6. Of Satan's Temptation to Worldlineſs.

SOme Souls the Devil tempts to worldlineſs, he ſees them prone to it, and he ſets it on, and drives it forwards: But how does he that? I anſwer: 1. He ſometimes ſets the very images and Repreſentations of the world's Glory before mens Mat. 4. 8. eyes, and ſo he tempts them: Thus I am ſure he dealt with Chriſt, he ſhewed him all the Kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them. (i) He offered the Images ſenſibly and actually, after a wonderful and ſtrange manner, making thoſe images to appear to his Senſes. This is not ordinary, but this, no queſtion, is in Satan's power: If a man by his art can repreſent to the Senſes in a Glaſs, any perſon or thing, by which he that ſees not the thing it ſelf, diſcerneth a notable Image of it; how much more may we think that Satan by his art can repreſent to the Senſe the Images of things not preſent?

2. He ſometimes ſets the very World it ſelf, or the things of the World before mens eyes, and ſo he tempts them. Thus he ſet the Babyloniſh Garment in the Eye of Achan, and Naboth's Vineyard in the Eye of Ahab, and Bathſheba the Wife of Uriah in the Eye of David; and then according to the Proverb, He comes to the Sea by the River, to the Heart by the Eye; and indeed, what poyſon is there almoſt that he doth not convey into our ſouls by this very paſſage? our Eyes are his ſpokes-men to our Hearts; firſt we ſee, and 1 Joh. 2. 16. then we covet and deſire the World, and hereupon covetouſneſs is called by the Apoſtle, the Luſt of the Eyes. 3. He ſometimes and moſt uſually works upon the Imagination, Affections, and conſequently upon the Will: And indeed an eaſie thing it is for him to move them all, when they are ſo willing to receive his Suggeſtions, and of themſelves urge the ſoul to yield to his Temptations: 1 Tim. 6. 9, 10. This made the Apoſtle ſay, They that will be rich, fall into temptations and ſnares, —— for the deſire of money is the root of all evil. Satan ſees before hand, there's a man reſolved that he will be rich, and therefore Satan needs not ſtrive againſt the ſtream, let him but uſe the tide of ſuch a mans will, and he may carry him ſwiftly into a Sea of ſin: They that will be rich fall (without pulling, even as the ſtone that deſcends naturally downwards) into tempations and ſnares.

Sect. 7. Of wreſtling with Satan to overcome this ſin.

NOW if this be thy darling ſin, then wreſtle thus ——

1. Conſider, worldlineſs is extreamly fertil of ill; what frauds, what deceits, what perjuries, what cruelties, what hatreds, what murders, what villanies have been exerciſed for the nouriſhing of this luſt? other ſins have their aggravations, but this is the moſt earthly of all other, and in ſome reſpects the moſt unworthy a man; why, a man hath a ſoul, which is a ſparkle of heaven, and for him to imploy it in no other ſervice but meerly to be an earth-worm, to creep in and upon the ground, this muſt needs be a very great evil.

2. Conſider, worldlineſs is attended with manifold ſorrows: As 1. It is full of cares. 2. It is full of ſnares; grins are in gold, birdlime in ſilver, ſaith an Ancient. 3. It is full of labours, men toil all day, and they cannot reſt by night; the fear of loſing pierceth as much as the pain of getting, and there is no end of their travel. 4. It is full of trouble of conſcience, and flaſhes of hell fire: It may be the Devil for a while may conceal Matt. 4. 8. theſe griefs; it is ſaid, that he ſhewed Chriſt the Kingdoms of the World, and the glory of them; only the glory, he ſhewed the pleaſure but not the puniſhment; he ſhewed the gain, but not the pain: now we knowing this craft, muſt labour in theſe temptations to ſee that which the Devil hides, and to apprehend the fearful after-claps: Oh let us labour to ſee Jael's nail, as well as her milk, the Bees ſting, as well her hony; the Snakes poyſon, as well her beauty and imbraces; the 2 Sam. 2. 26. ſpeech of Abner is true of the world, Knoweſt thou not that it will be bitterneſs in the latter end? Oh let this be conſidered ſeriouſly.

Luke 12. 15. 3. Conſider, A man's life ſtands not in the abundance of the things that he poſſeſſeth. A man's life (i.) the good, and happineſs, and comfort of his life, is not in riches, but in God that fills them: And hence we ſay, that the true enjoyment of riches is the portion of God's people, and not of the wicked; they may have them, but they do not truly enjoy them; the Devil encourageth them to crack the nut, but God takes away the kernel, and gives it to them that are godly before them: Is not this the meaning Eccleſ. 2. 26. of the Preacher, God giveth to a Man good in his ſight, wiſdom and knowledge, and joy, but to the ſinner he giveth travel? He gives to the godly wiſdom to purſue riches, and to go right ways for the attainment of them; he gives them alſo knowledge how to improve them, and joy, or the comfort of them; but to the ſinner he gives travel, to gather, and heap up, but not for his comfort; the wicked dig the mines, they plough the ground, but the Saints enjoy, they only reap and gather: And is not this the meaning of the Apoſtle, 1 Tim. 6. 6. Godlineſs with contentment is great gain? Theſe two, godlineſs and contentment, make up riches; thou talkeſt of gain, but art thou content? and art thou godly? there is the gain, there lies the happineſs: Pſal. 37. 16. in this ſenſe, the little that a righteous man hath, is better than the riches of many wicked. The ſolid comfort of all outward things, is the Saint's peculiar, becauſe of his nearneſs unto God; never tell me of this great man, and the other noble man, for indeed that which men are, they are unto God, their true value is according to the proportion of their nearneſs, not to riches, nor to Princes, nor to the great things of this World, but to God.

2 Tim. 2. 4. 4. Conſider that of the Apoſtle, No man that warreth intangleth himſelf with the affairs of this life. Now, what are we but warriours againſt Principalities, Powers, Rulers of the darkneſs of this world, and ſpiritual wickedneſſes? How then do we intangle our ſelves with the affairs of this life? It is true, we may uſe the world as if not, but to be intangled with it, is dangerous and pernicious: As rivers that ſlide in the Ocean, touch the Coaſts and ſhore by which they run, but they ſtay not there: ſo muſt our ſouls in their return to heaven, only touch the earth as we paſs along, but not ſtay there for fear of intanglements. Luther tells us, that when the Pope ſent ſome Cardinals to him, to intangle him with the promiſe of great wealth and honour, turning himſelf to God, he ſpeedily ſaid, Se nolle ſic ſatiari ab eo; that God ſhould not put him off with theſe low things. Oh that all Soldiers under Chriſt's Banner were but of this mind! for then might they ſay, The ſnare is broken, and we are delivered, or then might they do, as the ſilly bird which mounts aloft towards heaven, when ſhe ſeeth any danger of being catched, and thereby ſhe fruſtrates the Fowler's hope, Surſum corda, lift up your hearts, mount on the wings of faith and love, have your converſations in heaven, be much in meditation of thoſe ſurpaſſing joys, ſo will you fruſtrate Satan's hopes, and eſcape the world's intanglements or ſnares.

5. Conſider the words of the Preacher, Vanity Eccleſ. 1. 2. of vanities, all is vanity: How? all is vanity: yes, all, and ſome? I know not any thing in the World, but thou mayſt write vanity on it: Bethink thy ſelf, O deluded world (ſaith one) and Dr. Arrowſmith's Chain. write over all thy School doors, Let not the wiſe man glory in his wiſdom; and over all thy Court-gates, Let not the mighty man glory in his might; Jerem. 9. 23. and over all thy Exchanges and Banks, Let not the rich man glory in his riches; Pro. 30. 31 yea, write upon thy Looking-glaſſes that of Bathſheba, Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vain; upon thy Mews and Artillery-yards, that of the Pſalmiſt, God delighteth Pſal. 147. 10. not in the ſtrength of an Horſe, he taketh no pleaſure in the legs of a man; upon thy Taverns, that of Solomon, Wine is a mocker, ſtrong drink is Pro. 20. 1. raging, and whoſoever is deceived thereby is not wiſe; upon thy Magazines and Wardrobes, that of our Saviour, Lay not up for your ſelves treaſures on earth, Mat. 6. 19. where moth and ruſt doth corrupt; and where thieves break through and ſteal; upon thy Counting-houſes that of Habakkuk, Wo to him Hab. 1. 6. that increaſeth in that which is not his, how long? and to him that ladeth himſelf with thick clay; upon thy Banqueting-houſes, that of the Apoſtle, Meats for the belly and the belly for Meats, but 1 Cor. 6. 13. God will deſtroy both it and them. O the vanity of the World, and all things in it! Will a man hearken to Satan, and give his Soul to the Devil for vanity, emptineſs, nothing at all? God forbid.

6. Conſider the counſel and promiſe of God himſelf, Let your Converſation be without Covetouſneſs, Heb. 13. 5. and be content with ſuch things as you have, for he hath ſaid, I will never, never, never, never, never, leave thee nor forſake thee: The word in the original is ſo often repeated: and if one promiſe be enough to ſtay thine heart, ſhall not five promiſes in one? But heark again, To him that overcometh will I grant to ſit with Rev. 3. 21. me in my Throne, even as I overcome, and ſit with my Father in his Throne. One ſerious thought of ſitting in the Throne with Jeſus Chriſt, were enough (through Grace) to wean a Soul from worldly mindedneſs: He that overcomes ſhall inherit all things, and I will be his God, and he ſhall Rev. 21. 7.

be my Son. Let the World be as nothing, and thou ſhalt have all things: ſit looſe to thy Relations here, and Chriſt will he inſtead of all Relations; Mat.19.29 Whoſo forſaketh Houſes, or Brethren, or Siſters, or Father, or Mother, or Wife, or Children, or Lands for my Names ſake, ſhall receive an hundred fold, and ſhall inherit everlaſting life.

7. Act thy faith upon thoſe promiſes, Heb. 13. 5. Revel. 3. 21. Revel. 21. 7. Mat. 19. 29. O the fulneſs and freeneſs of theſe precious promiſes! how ſhouldſt thou want, that by the promiſe haſt a command (as I may ſay) of God's own Purſe? Let him that is without God in the World, ſhift and ſhark by his Wits, but do thou live by thy faith in reference to theſe promiſes.

8. Commend thy ſelf to God in Prayer, that he Jude 24. may keep thee faultleſs before the preſence of his Glory, Pſal. 119. 36. that he may incline thine heart unto his Teſtimonies, and not to Covetouſneſs; that he may prepare thy Soul, and ſpeed his work, and haſten his coming, Cant.8.14. Make haſt my beloved, and be thou like to a Roe, or to a young Hart upon the Mountains of Spices: Rev. 21. 20. He that teſtifies theſe things, ſaith, ſurely I come quickly, Amen, even ſo come Lord Jeſu.

9. Look up to Heaven, and grow more and more weary of the World: A man that would always live here, is like a Scullion that loveth to lie among the Pots; in thoſe bleſſed Manſions above thou ſhalt have pure company, and be out of the reach and danger of temptations; there is no Devil in Heaven, they were caſt out long ſince, and we are to fill up their vacant rooms and places: The Devil when he was not fit for Heaven, he was caſt into the World, a fit place for miſery, ſin, and torment; and now this is the Devil's walk, he compaſſeth the Earth to and fro: Oh who would be in love with a place of Bondage, with Satan's Dioceſs! Oh who in this Pilgrimage, would not often look upwards and heaven-wards, and mind his home?

10. Go before-hand into that World to come, mind thy Eternity, into which thou muſt enter, the Lord knows how ſoon: It is a wonderful thing, that men of reaſon, that are here to day, and in endleſs joy or miſery to morrow, ſhould ever forget, or ſhould not ever remember ſuch unexpreſſible concernments: Come ſhake off thy worldly-mindedneſs, and inſtead thereof get this into thy mind, and dwell upon it, within a few days and nights thy ſoul will either be in Heaven or Hell; and if in Heaven, thou'lt little care for the World then, and why ſhould thy care of it be too exceſſive now? or if in Hell, the World will leave thee for its pleaſure, then only thy ſinful care and minding of it, will vex and torment thee everlaſtingly: O reliſh this, as if now thou wert entring into that other World of Souls! Certainly thou ſtandeſt at the Door, thou art daily dying, and even ſtepping in, there is but a thin Vail of fleſh betwixt thee and that amazing ſight, that eternal Gulf, and ſhall not this wean thee from thy worldlineſs?

11. Think over thy beginning, and thy ending. 1. For thy beginning, it was of nothing: Methinks I am conſidering what and where thou waſt ſome few years ago, what and where thou waſt when thy Father was born, or when he was a Child; if I lay aſide an odd trifle of days, if I take away a ſhort courſe of running time, no man or Woman now living was alive, and then creeping things, though they could but creep, did live, and rejoyce in a comfortable being; and other little Creatures had Wings, and were able to fly readily here, there, and here again, upwards and downwards; and thou (who now goeſt with ſuch a grace, and lookeſt ſo full eyed, and buildeſt ſuch Babels in thy imagination) hadſt thou then no kind of being; theſe Churches, theſe Towns, theſe Kingdoms, this heap of Kingdoms, the World, were as now we ſee them, but thou for thy part was not ſo much as heard of, and all becauſe thou waſt not; the very ſame Sun that riſes and ſets did ſhine, now red, now pale upon the World, it ran its days journey, and conſtantly kept its time; ſuch Birds of the ſame colours did ſing, and hop from Branch to Branch, and fly from Tree to Tree, as now they do; Beaſts and Fiſhes in the ſame diverſity of ſhapes followed their ſeveral inſtincts of nature, the Winds blew cold and warm, and warm and cold again; men and women ſuch as thou art, did as thou doſt, and all this while thou waſt not: O wonderful! a little while before yeſterday thou kneweſt not that there was a World, that there were Angels, that there was a God; thou hadſt no knowledge, no being, which is the foundation and ground of Knowledge: O think of this beginning! 2. For thy ending, it will be worſe than nothing, if thou continueſt a worldling ſtill: Methinks I ſee thee lying on thy ſick bed, or on thy deaths bed: Oh how pale and wan thou art! thou hadſt a freſh and youthful colour the other day: Alas how much art thou changed from the gallant man thou waſt? how thy breath labours, how every joynt ſhakes for exceſs of pain, how every Vein trembles, thy Eyes fix conſtantly upon one thing, as if there thou ſaweſt the dreadful ſentence of Eternity: Oh how little now do all thy profits, and incomes of the World pleaſure thee! ſuch rich Purchaſe, the favour of ſuch a Noble Man, ſuch and ſuch a merry meeting, what do they help thee in this Agony? thy Friends are preſent, yet of themſelves they are miſerable Comforters; human power ſtands amazed and cannot help thee, and for thy ſelf, thou art ſo dulled and overclouded with the pangs of death, that thou canſt not raiſe from the fog of thy body one clear thought towards God or Heaven: See, ſee, thou art going, thou ſtandeſt upon the Threſhold, Death looks in at yonder corner, and aims at thy heart, there flew the Arrow, and now here's a change indeed, thy Soul is gone, but it could not be ſeen. Verily, verily, here is the mind that hath Wiſdom, to improve this Meditation, ſo as to avoid the Devil's Temptation to worldlineſs, or worldly-mindedneſs.

Sect. 8. Of Satan's Temptations to Wantonneſs, or fleſhly Luſts.

IT is Satan which tempts men for their incontinency, and incontinency is in the Apoſtle's ſtile, 1 Cor.7.5. 1 Tim. 5. 15. a turning aſide after Satan, a neer correſpondency and communion there is betwixt theſe two, the Devil and fleſhly Luſts; and hence as he is called, Mat. 10.1. Eph. 5. 5. the unclean Spirit, ſo are they unclean Luſts, or uncleanneſs it ſelf in the abſtract, Rom. 1. 24. Epheſ. 4. 10. 2 Pet. 2. 10. Some call theſe Luſts the Devil's Captain, that ſmite at the Soul eſpecially, 1Pet.2.11. Dearly beloved, I beſeech you as ſtrangers and Pilgrims abſtain from fleſhly Luſts, which war againſt the Soul.

Queſt. But how doth Satan ſtir up theſe Luſts in men? I anſwer. ——

Anſw. 1. He obſerves the Temperature and Complexion of ſuch and ſuch a man, and if it be ſanguine, he takes the advantage thereof, and accordingly tempts him to luſt, incontinency, and all voluptuous pleaſures of the fleſh. Hence the Apoſtle was much afraid of his body, as probably being 1 Cor. 9. 27. of ſuch a temperature, I keep under my body and bring it unto ſubjection, leſt that by any means when I have preached unto others, I my ſelf ſhould be a caſt-away. It is an alluſion to Wreſtlers, who fought for Maſteries, when one did beat the other black and blew about the face; ſo was he fain to wreſtle with his body to keep under his body, and to bring his body by mortifying of his carnal Luſts into ſubjection: He names not his fighting with the World and the Devil, tho' theſe be potent Enemies, but with the body only, becauſe they could not eaſily hurt us, if this Domeſtical Enemy, and home-bred Adverſary, did not betray us; luſts lie in the body like fire in the Flint, and any Temptation will draw them out. This Satan marks in the firſt place, that he may ſuitably fit his Temptations to the temperature and diſpoſition of the body.

2. Sometimes he ſets before ſuch a one a taking object; he preſents or holds up a ſight or ſpectacle ſuitable to his Temper. 1 Sam. 11. 2, 3. Thus when David walked upon the roof of the King's Houſe, he ſaw a Woman waſhing her ſelf, and the woman was very beautiful to look upon, and David ſent, and enquired after the woman. I make no queſtion but Satan had an hand in this: Many a time ſuch a wanton object is caſt into the way by Satan's ſleight, and he needs do no more to overcome a laſcivious mind, if he but ſay, See yonder is a naked Breaſt, a naked Arm, a naked neck; and if ſuch Signs hang at the Door, you may gueſs what immodeſty is within: This he knows is taking, and thus he overcomes thouſands of men, by ſtirring up their Luſts even through their Eyes.

3. Satan deals with a man a degree further, he not only preſents ſuch and ſuch an object, but he caſts in and injects the motion, he ſtirs and moves the imagination (ſurely that is the Devil's Room wherein he doth often appear) he works upon the imagination many an impreſſion, and many a ſuggeſtion to this and that baſe Luſt; in this reſpect Rom.7.24 we may all cry out, O wretched men that we are, who ſhall deliver us from this body of death! or from theſe carnal Luſts, which are a death to us, or which threaten our ſpiritual death: A man while unblameable in his life, may yet have his imagination like a Cage of unclean Birds, and ſo in his Soul become guilty before God. The Apoſtle 2Pet.2.14. Peter ſpeaks of ſome, who had eyes full of Adultery (it is in the original, full of the Adultereſs) and that ceaſed not from ſin: The meaning is, that imagination ſet their Eyes continually upon the Adultereſs, ſo that they ceaſed not from ſin, even while ſhe was abſent; they might be reſtrained from the actings of ſin, and yet their Hearts burned inwardly with Luſts: and that is the meaning Hoſ. 7. 6. of the Prophet, They have made ready their Hearts like an Oven; that as the Oven heated is ready to bake any thing put therein, ſo was the Heart of thoſe wicked men prepared for any kind of naughtineſs, it lay in their Heart and Imagination day and night: O the perpetual conſtant workings of Satan upon the imagination! We ſay of other parts of the Soul (as of the will and mind,) that they are only ſubject to ſin whiles we are awake, but the fancy or imagination, is many times very ſinful in the night-time: How many polluted and wicked Dreams do men fall into at ſuch a time, at which they tremble, and abhor themſelves when once awaked?

4. Satan can do ſomewhat more than inject and ſuggeſt ſuch thoughts, for he can mightily irritate and provoke; he can ſtir up the heart to be willing to give entertainment to ſuch a luſt: As Satan ſtood up and provoked David to number Iſrael; 1 Chro.21. 1. ſo I believe he ſtood up and provoked David to lie with Bathſheba; he did not only preſent the object, and move the imagination, but he provoked David, he never let him alone but followed him, and ſollicited him to it. It is true he could not force David to do evil, the will is never forced by Satan, nor can it be, he uſes no compulſion beyond a moral perſwaſion well ſet on, he hath no imperious efficacy over the will, yet he can ſtrongly ſtir the imagination, and that exceedingly provokes the will, that it gives conſent: And indeed, if the Soul be naturally deſtitute of Grace, it cannot withſtand the ſuggeſtions and provocations of Satan, but anon it yields. And this is the manner of Satan's ſtirring up fleſhly Luſts in the Minds and Spirits of the Sons of men.

Sect. 9. Of wreſtling with Satan to overcome this ſin.

IF this be thy darling ſin; if by the conſtitution and grain of thy body, or by ſiniſter Education or otherwiſe, thy mind and heart run much this way, then wreſtle thus.——

1. Avoid all occaſions of Luſts. The Jewiſh Doctors thus charged their Novices, That by no means they ſhould feed their Eyes with ſtaring on the Generation of Beaſts for fear of provocations. It is our wiſdom to check the beginning of temptations, to caſt away the very firſt fancy of Luſt with indignation: Surely if we give liberty, and fall to parley and talk with Luſts, they will gain more and more upon us, and then be harder to reſiſt. He walks more evenly that flyeth from temptations, and keeps at a diſtance from that which would enſnare him, than he that ſuffers the Bait to be near him, and at hand. David's woful experience may tell what it is to give way to a wandring luſtful Eye; and Joſeph's Reſolution may tell what an advantage it is to fly away, and not ſtand a parley with temptations. In this caſe, he wreſtles beſt with the Devil, that turns his back on the temptation: Fly youthful Luſts, ſaith Paul 2Tim.2.2 to Timothy; he calls on him, not only to avoid, nor only to run, but to fly from, or to make all poſt haſte away from them. Come not near the Pro. 5. 8 door of her houſe. It was the ſpeech of one, who though ſick, yet would not have the temptation come nigh him, ſaying, Auferte ignem, adhuc enim paleas habeo: Take away the fire, for I have yet chaff within me.

2. Set a guard on the outward Senſes. He that looketh on a woman to luſt after her (ſaith Mat.5.28 Chriſt) hath committed adultery with her already in his heart. There are Stories of Heathens, that they would not look upon excellent beauties, leſt they ſhould have been inſnared: I made a Covenant with my eyes (ſaith Job) Why then ſhould I Job 31. 1. look upon a Maid? The Eye muſt be guarded; nor is that all, Take heed alſo of lending thy ears to filthy talk, rotten Speeches, wanton Diſcourſes, ribal'd Songs; it was the Apoſtle's charge, But for- Eph.5.3,4. nication, and all uncleanneſs, or covetouſneſs, let it not be once named amongſt you, as becometh Saints; neither filthineſs, nor fooliſh talking, nor jeſting, which are not convenient; and let no cor- Eph.4.29, 30. rupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good, to the uſe of edifying, that it may miniſter grace unto the hearers. Mark here, how filthy ſpeech is called corrupt, or rotten communication, like Carrion in a Ditch, which ſhould cauſe all that paſs by to ſtop their Noſes. Oh that that any ſhould delight to ſpeak or hear ſuch things! what (ſay ſome) may we not jeſt and be merry, without all this ado? But we anſwer, Have you no honeſter mirth than this? will you feed upon that which is Carrion, and corrupt? Will you make merry with that which God condemneth, and threatneth to ſhut you out of his Kingdom for? Have you nothing but filthineſs, and the ſervice of the Devil, and the wrath of God to play with, and to make merry withal? Idle talk is the Devil's Minſtrelſie, and prepareth people to actual Whoredomes, for thoughts and words are but preparatives to deeds. The ſame may we ſay of unchaſt touchings, laſcivious behaviours, luſtful ſmilings, &c. why, all theſe muſt be avoided; a ſparkle, if it lye maketh a great fire; a little leaven doth run through the whole lump.

3. Act all thy affections of deſire, and love, and joy, on Jeſus Chriſt: Is not he thy Bridegroom? hath not he married thee to himſelf in holineſs? and wilt thou eſpouſe thy ſelf to the Devil his Enemy, by the meditation of filthy and baſe luſts? Oh what indignity is this to Jeſus Chriſt? if there be any thing of Chriſt in thee, turn the ſtream of thy deſires and luſtings in a ſpiritual manner towards him, it is he is thy Husband, whoſe comelineſs ſhould be always in thy eye, and whoſe beauty ſhould for ever enflame thy heart, whoſe loves ſhould draw out thy affections ſtrongly, and whoſe converſe ſhould fill thy mind and inlarge it altogether; here is one that ſhould lead thee captive, body and Soul. Now for this excellent one to be out-bid by ſo baſe and harlotary love, for Jeſus Chriſt to be caſt off, as if not fair, or worthy enough for a polluted Creature, how ſhould it but be deep in the Heart of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt? Hark how the Apoſtle queſtions, Know ye not, that your bodies are the members of Chriſt, ſhall I then take the members of Chriſt, and make them the members of an Harlot? God forbid. 1Cor.6.15

4. Avoid idleneſs, for that is the proper ſoil for theſe filthy weeds to grow in: Fancies of ſinful luſts ſeldom offer themſelves, where the Soul is buſied in ſome innocent or virtuous imployment. A man that diligently follows his particular calling, hath ſomething elſe to mind, but if he gives himſelf up to idleneſs, then Satan is buſie with a bait: As a ſtanding Pool, not having any courſe of running, groweth filthy of it ſelf, and full of Toads, and noiſom Vermin, ſo the Heart, that is not taken up in ſome good and honeſt Calling, is a fit place for the Devil wherein to breed, and to ingender Luſts: What was the reaſon why the Sodomites grew ſo filthy and unclean, but becauſe having the moſt fruitful and abundant Country in the World, they grew rich, and gave themſelves to nothing elſe but to eaſe and delight? Their nature was no worſe than others, but their idleneſs did ſo corrupt their Hearts, as the Devil had liberty to caſt in, and they had leiſure to put on all monſtrous and unclean deſires.

Cor. 9.27. 5. Keep under thy body, and bring it into ſubjection; ſubdue thy fleſh to the obedience and diſcipline of the Spirit of God: My meaning is not to faſten any thing of will-worſhip on thee, ſuch as Scourges, Hair-cloaths, Pilgrimages, Vows of willing Beggery, and perpetual Continency: The keeping under of thy Body, is a buſineſs of another nature, and conſiſts in the mortifying of Luſts, and in the exerciſes of Piety, and yet this I grant, that intemperance and delicacy in meat and drink, is herein forbidden; the more the fewel, the greater is the flame; the body muſt be ſo dieted, as that the nimbleneſs and readineſs requiſite to a ſpiritual Combate may ſtill be maintained: This was Paul's care, leſt that when he had preached to others, he himſelf ſhould have been a Caſt-away: A Caſt-away; what's that? not a Reprobate, as if he were uncertain of his Election, but reprovable or unapproved. It is a Metaphor taken from thoſe who proved Maſteries, and hath regard to thoſe times, when there were certain Colleges or Academies (like our Artillery Gardens) for exerciſe of Arms, where the Novices that ſubmitted not themſelves to the rigour of their diſcipline, or were found tardy in their tryals, or of purſie or unweildy bodies, were caſhiered or reproved by their Maſters: in this reſpect Paul kept his body under, leſt he ſhould have been reprovable, or unapproved, as thoſe were that poorly and faintly wreſtled, or ran for the prize.

6. Be in the uſe of holy Ordinances. What Ordinances? ——

1. The Word, whether read, or heard, or meditated on. Paul calls it, the Sword of the Spirit: Eph. 6.17. When Chriſt had his combate with Satan, he made no uſe of his Authority to command him away, but of the Word, thus it is written. Meer reaſon was never appointed by God to drive away Satan, but run we to the Word, and that will do it: I have ſuffered (ſaith Luther) many great Paſſions, but ſo ſoon as I laid hold on any piece of Scripture, and ſtaid my ſelf upon it, as upon my chief Anchor-hold, ſtraightway my temptations vaniſhed. Hence we are commanded to ſearch the Scriptures, as men ſearch in Mines for Gold, and the rather becauſe here is all Gold, and no Droſs. The particulars that herein thou art to follow, are theſe. ——

1. Thou muſt have ready the Precept, forbidding that ſin to which thou art prone; what is it, uncleanneſs? urge then theſe Texts, Avoid Satan, for it is written, thou ſhalt not commit adultery; and, Avoid Satan, for it is written, mortifie your members which are upon earth, fornication, uncleanneſs, inordinate affection, evil concupiſcence. Coloſ. 3.5. Again, Avoid Satan, for it is written this is the will of God, even your ſanctification, that ye ſhould abſtain from fornication, that every one of you ſhould know how to poſſeſs his veſſel in ſanctification and honour, not in the luſt of concupiſcence; —— for God hath not called us unto uncleanneſs, but unto holineſs. 1 Theſ. 4.3. 4, 5, 7.

2. Thou muſt have ready the threatning, that if thou yieldeſt, thou indangereſt all. Eve was ſtrict enough to mind the Commandment, Gen. 3. 3. God hath ſaid ye ſhall not eat of it, neither ſhall ye touch it; but when ſhe came to the commination, where God ſaid, ye ſhall ſurely die, ſhe faulters, and hath it thus, leſt ye die: Take care therefore of this, to add the commination to the prohibition, not only to ſay, it is written thou ſhalt not commit adultery, but withal, fornicators and adulterers God will judge: Heb. 13.4. The works of the fleſh are manifeſt, which are theſe, adultery, fornication, uncleanneſs, laſciviouſneſs, of which I tell you before, as I have alſo told you in times paſt, that they which do ſuch things ſhall not inherit the Kingdom of God: Gal. 5. 19. 11. Be not deceived, neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, —— ſhall inherit the Kingdom of God. 1Cor. 6.9, 10. Luſt, as it is inkindled of Hell, ſo it ſhall be there perpetually puniſhed; the Holy Angels will at the laſt day be moſt active againſt ſuch, to bring them to condign puniſhment, 2 Pet. 2. 10.

3. Thou muſt have ready the promiſe, both for avoiding, and rewarding. 1. For avoiding the temptation, thou haſt theſe promiſes, Whoſo pleaſeth God, ſhall eſcape from her, but the ſinner ſhall be taken by her.——And the God of peace ſanctifie you wholly, and I pray God your whole ſpirit, and ſoul, and Body may be preſerved blameleſs unto the coming of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt; faithful is he that calleth you, who alſo will do it. 2. For rewarding thee if thou overcomeſt, thou haſt theſe promiſes, Bleſſed are the pure in heart, Mat. 5. 8. Rev. 14. 1, 4. for they ſhall ſee God: And I looked, and lo a Lamb ſtood on the Mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thouſand, having his Fathers name written in their foreheads.——Theſe are they which were not defiled with women, for they are Virgins; theſe are they which follow the Lamb, whitherſoever he goeth; theſe were redeemed from among men, being the firſt fruits unto God, and to the Lamb. O live by faith, and feed on theſe promiſes!

Eccl. 7.26. 1 Theſ. 5. 23, 24.

2. Prayer. A man is never overcome by temptation, as long as he can pray againſt it, he may perhaps be more troubled then, but what if he be, let him pray on ſtill, yea pray with perſeverance, and all manner of Prayer, and the end will be, that if he do not give over to pray, Satan muſt and will give over to tempt: But what ſhould I pray for? why, pray that God may purifie thy heart, and ſanctifie it by his holy Spirit; pray that God may give thee ſtrength to overcome Satan in his fiery temptation; tell him, that thy Luſts and Corruptions are too hard for thee, and therefore thou art forced to bring to him this unclean Devil, and either he muſt help thee to caſt him out, or thou ſhalt not prevail: Pray alſo that God may give thee patience to wait upon him, till he ſhall perform thy deſires; how long thou muſt be put to wait, I know not, but if thou dieſt waiting, thou ſhalt be bleſſed; only pray that it may be, and wait with patience till it ſhall be, and God will come in then in his appointed time.

3. Meditation. But on what ſhould I meditate? 1. On God's Preſence, he ſees, knows, underſtands thy Actions, Words, Geſtures, Thoughts within thee, thou would'ſt be aſhamed to be ſeen of men, and is not God of purer Eyes? Oh let thine Heart be on his Eye! 2. On the ſhortneſs of pleaſure, it is but momentany, but the gnawing of thy guilty Conſcience will abide for ever. 3. On thy mortality: Oh let thoughts of thy death be the death of thy Luſts! 1 Pet. 2. 11. Dearly beloved, I beſeech you as ſtrangers and pilgrims abſtain from fleſhly luſts. 4. On Hell fire; fiery ſins will beget fiery torments. I have read a Story of a young Virgin, that being tempted by a young Man to the act of Uncleanneſs, ſhe gave him this anſwer, If you will grant me one thing (ſaid ſhe) I will ſatisfie your demand; he told her he would; why then (ſaid ſhe) I deſire you would put your finger for a whole hour to burn in this Candle: O, ſaid the man, that you ask me is unreaſonable: It is true (ſaid ſhe) it is unreaſonable, but you ask a requeſt more unreaſonable, to ſatisfie you in a thing, for which I ſhall not only burn one hour, but for ever and ever in the fire of hell. The like Story is that of a young man, who every time he felt luſt to ariſe in him, he would run to the fire, and put his finger in the flame, and ſcorch his finger, and then would reaſon with himſelf, and ſay, O my ſoul, and O my body, if thou canſt not endure a minutes time to hold thy finger in the Fire, how wilt thou endure to all Eternity, to have not only thy finger, but thy whole body in hell flames? And by this means (as he ſaith of himſelf) he got much ſtrength to mortifie thoſe burning Luſts within him.

4. Looking unto Jeſus in his death. Art thou troubled with a ſpirit of uncleanneſs? go to the Croſs of Chriſt, contemplate his death, conſider ſeriouſly and ſadly his bitter, ſhameful, painful Suffering, and then cry, O that virtue may come out of this death of Chriſt to mortifie my Luſts? Certainly there is a conveyance of mortifying virtue flowing into the Soul, in the time of its viewing, eying, contemplating, reflecting, upon Chriſt crucified, Chriſt lifted up, and this comes from the ſecret preſence of God, bleſſing this our looking upon Chriſt, as the Ordinance by which he hath appointed to make an effectual impreſſion upon the Heart. It may be when all is done, this ſin as to ſome bublings within, will not die or ceaſe in thee altogether, only through the Grace of Chriſt it ſhall not reign, it ſhall not have dominion over thee, Chriſt's death will kill it by degrees, and be thankful for that.

5. The laſt Ordinance I ſhall name, is Marriage, and the due and lawful enjoyment of it. This is a principal end of Marriage, to keep a man chaſte; It is good for a man not to touch a Virgine; nevertheleſs, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife. 1 Cor. 7. 1, 2. And if this prevail not, ſee whether thou haſt not been guilty of uncleanneſs before Marriage; if ſo, thou muſt truly repent of it, for Marriage, without Repentance, abates not the power of luſt. Be in the practice of all the particulars mentioned before, avoid all occaſions of Luſt, ſet a guard on thy Senſes, for thou may'ſt be drunk with thy own Fountain, if either in Eye, or Ear, or Tongue, or Hand, or out of time, or out of meaſure thou abuſeſt thy ſelf; ſet thy affections of deſire and love, and joy on Jeſus Chriſt, take heed of idleneſs, and idle company, keep under thy body, be in uſe of Holy Ordinances, bring the unclean Devil to Chriſt himſelf to be caſt out, and if the Word, or Prayer will not do it, add faſting to all, and either in ordinary or extraordinary Duties God will be ſeen. And if ever thou dieſt to Luſt in thy Affections, and in thy Converſations, if ever thou getteſt the Victory, and God eaſe thee of thy Vexation, and give thee a chaſt Mind, to thy content and comfort; Oh! remember to be thankful, leſt the temptation come again, and bring ſeven Temptations with it worſe than himſelf.

Sect. 10. Of Satan's Temptations to Pride.

SOme men are naturally, and by diſpoſition prone to Pride; not that any one is free, but ſome are more prone than others. Indeed there is a great diſpute, which is the Maſter-ſin in every man? No queſtion (as we have ſaid) in every one is ſome one ſin, which carries one one way, another another way; and this ſin, whatſoever it is, ariſeth from Complexion, Education, Condition, and other cauſes, and occaſions, which often varies, as the temper of our Bodies, and the order of our eſtate doth change: Hence this year it is one ſin, and ſeven years hence (as every ſeventh year there is a ſenſible change in the humour of the body) it is another ſin: But that ſin of all ſins, which runs through all Ages, and through all the race of Mankind, it is Pride; and in this reſpect, this is the Captain ſin, the moſt general and univerſal ſin in all the World: Unbelief may have that name, and be well called our Maſter-ſin, in reſpect of Juſtification; but the chief ſin which is our greateſt moral Vice, and carries continually the greateſt power with it, in reſpect of Sanctification, tion, it is the ſin of Pride. All other ſins do a kind of homage to Pride, as to their King and Lord: other ſins that we (ſpeaking from feeling) do call our Maſter-ſins, are made uſe of by God to humble his Saints, and to eat out this ſin; and therefore this ſin of Pride is in that reſpect alſo the chiefeſt ſin. As we ſee in Trees, there is a Maſter-root, ſo in original ſin the Maſter-root is pride; and therefore God that reſiſts all other ſins, is ſaid Pſal.138.6. eſpecially to reſiſt this ſin afar off, he cannot abide the ſight of it. Now Satan that knows this full well, labours with might and main to provoke all men to this ſin; it was his own ſin, the very ſin that made him of a bleſſed Angel a curſed Devil, and therefore he chiefly labours to derive this ſin to all the ſons of men; and indeed he ſo far prevailed on Gen. 3. 5. our firſt parents, by telling them, Ye ſhall be as Gods, Gen. 3. 5. that ever ſince this ſin hath claimed a kind of Regency in the hearts of all; as we are ſinful, ſo we are all proud, all would be flattered into an eſteem of themſelves, ye ſhall be as gods, is a temptation to all ſorts of men: Hence we ſay, pride is a weed that grows in every ground, yea, on humility it ſelf. Do we not ſee men pretend to humility for their greater riſe in the world? What ſelf-denial and hardſhip will men and women endure for this very ſin? witneſs, naked breaſts, and naked arms, and naked ſhoulders, we all hold of Adam in Capite: Pride was the firſt and great ſin in Adam, and ſo it is in all his ſeed; we had this luſt from him, and he had this luſt from the Angels: O the pride of Angels! it gives them their fall, and O the pride of Adam! it gave him his fall; and O the pride that is in us! and therefore without repentance we alſo may periſh by this Epidemical ſin.

Sect. 11. Of our wreſtling with Satan to overcome this ſin in ſome particulars.

THAT by God's grace we may be able to wreſtle with Satan and this ſin: we may do well to obſerve ſome things in particular, and then deal with it in general.

1. In particular: Pride is either converſant about carnal objects, as pride of beauty, ſtrength, riches, apparel, &c. or about ſpiritual objects, as pride of gifts, graces, priviledges. I ſhall ſpeak to both theſe.

1. For the former, as the objects are ſeveral, ſo in reſpect of them ſeverally conſider thus.——

1. For beauty, conſider thy beauty is but ſkin deep; and never was any ſo beautiful, but the flowers of the field, ſuch as the Roſe and Lilly, do in beauty of colours go beyond them: This made Pro.31.30. the wiſe man ſay, Favour is deceitful, and beauty is vanity, but a woman that feareth the Lord ſhe ſhall be praiſed; that is the true comelineſs, and beſt beauty, which a picture cannot expreſs. Chryſ. ad pop. Hom. 40.Tom.4. Art thou fair and beautiful (ſaith Chryſoſtome) why this is the glory of Daws, and not of men; thou art not fairer than the Peacock, or the Swan, do we not ſee harlots, and effeminate men have a great ſhare in this glory? Beſides, what loathſome matter lieth hid under this fair ſkin? what filthy excrements are they that iſſue out of the noſe, eyes, and ears, and pores, and other paſſages? if the fountain within were but viewed whence all theſe come, how might this humble thee? I may add this ill of beauty, it is uſed moſt frequently by the Devil for a bait to ſin, it is a ſhining flame to ſet mens hearts on fire with unlawful luſts: But if there were nothing elſe, alas! to what purpoſe art thou proud of a thing ſo mutable, a little ſcratch impaireth it, and a greater wound doth quite deform it; a days ſickneſs doth much abate it, or if it be but of a weeks continuance it doth quite deface it; yea, ſo fading is it, that a little Sunſhine robbeth us of it; or if it be preſerved from the violence of extraordinary accidents, yet time will by little and little ſteal it away: When old age cometh, it ploughs deep furrows in the moſt beautiful viſage, it changeth the colour, and when death comes, the moſt amiable countenance will be ſo deformed, that they who moſt admire it, will then loath it. Oh that thou wouldſt turn the edge of thy affections from this earthly traſh, to ſpiritual and heavenly beauty! Oh that thou wouldeſt mind the beauty of the mind, which conſiſts in virtue and the ſanctifying graces of God's ſpirit! Old age ſhall never make any wrinkles in the face of this, ſickneſs ſhall never hurt this, violence ſhall not deface this, grief and ſorrow ſhall not impair this, death it ſelf ſhall not blemiſh or diſgrace this, but rather it ſhall crown this beauty of grace with the beauty of glory.

2. For ſtrength, conſider this is common to men and beaſts: How vain is it therefore that any ſhould be proud of ſuch baſe vanities? Chryſ.hom. ad Pop.40. Tom. 4. Art thou ſtrong (ſaith Chryſoſtome) and art thou therefore proud? why the Lion is hardier than thou, and the Boar is ſtronger than thou; yea, robbers, thieves, ruffians, and thy own Servants excel thee herein, and doſt thou think this is a thing praiſe worthy? Thou art ſtrong, but can this deliver thee from thoſe innumerable dangers unto which this frail life is daily ſubject? Pſal. 33. 16. The King is not ſaved by the multitude of an hoſt, neither is the mighty man delivered by his great ſtrength; it can neither defend thee from the Judgments of God, nor from the aſſaults of the Devil; it can neither deliver thee from ſickneſs nor death. Oh that thou would'ſt be ſtrong in the Lord, and in the power of his might! Oh that thou wouldſt Eph.6.10. 11. put on the whole Armour of God, that thou mightſt be able to ſtand againſt the wiles of the devil! why, this is ſtrength to purpoſe, hereby thou mightſt be Phil. 4.13. able to do all things through Chriſt that ſtrengtheneth thee: Hereby thou mightſt ſtand manfully in the day of battel againſt all the aſſaults of thy ſpiritual enemies; bodily ſtrength without this is little worth: oh! what will become of thee in the day of tryal?

3. For riches, conſider thy riches will not avail in the day of the Lord's fierce wrath; what is a fat portion to a lean ſoul? outward things never mend us, but often worſen us, for a man to be proud of riches, it is as if an horſe ſhould be proud of his trappings; thy riches are but thorns, which unleſs a man hold warily he is ſure to be pricked: Hence are ſo many Epithetes of riches in Scripture, that they may wean our affections from priding in them, Luke 16.9. 1 Tim. 6. 17. Mat. 13. 22. as the Mammon of unrighteouſneſs, the riches of the world, the deceitfulneſs of riches. Auguſtine adds, that they are an evil maſter, a tracherous ſervant, fathers of flattery, ſons of grief, a cauſe of fear to thoſe that have them, and a cauſe of ſorrow to thoſe that want them. Oh that men, Chriſtians, Profeſſors of Religion ſhould ever be choaked with theſe thorns, or intangled with theſe ſnares, or eſpecially overtaken with pride, of ſuch ſordid, carnal, worldly things!

4. For apparel, conſider that this was the effect of ſin; had our firſt parents continued in their ſtate of innocency, they had remained glorious in themſelves, but ſin brought ſhame, and this ſhame they would cover by the help of garments: What then is our apparel, but a daily Monitor to call our ſin and ſhame to remembrance? Oh that men ſhould vaunt themſelves in this vanity! As if a thief being adjudged to wear an halter for his

Crimes, ſhould make him one of ſilk, or golden twiſt, and becauſe it glitters ſhould preſently grow proud of that, which indeed ſhould humble him: Why, our apparel is the very ſign of our ſin, and ſhall we convert that which is given us to hide our ſin into ſin it ſelf? before Adam ſinned the moſt glorious garment would have been to him but as a Cloud to the Sun; and after Adam ſinned (to put him in mind of his ſin and ſhame) God cloathed him not with ſilks or velvets, curiouſly imbroider'd with gold and ſilver, but with beaſts-skins; ſurely this was to humble him, and not to puff him up with pride; this was to mind him of his brutiſh condition, yea of his frailty and mortality, ſeeing the creatures, for his ſake, were already ſubject to death and vanity: Oh that thou would'ſt mind the 1 Tim.2.9. 1 Pet. 3.3. Word, which bids thee array thy ſelf with ſhame-fac'dneſs and modeſty, not with broider'd hair, or gold, or pearls, or coſtly apparel! Oh that thou would'ſt conſider thy ſelf a pilgrim upon earth, and and therefore thou ſhouldeſt not go as a Citizen, or Courtier of this world! Oh! that as a Noble-man would be aſhamed to borrow cloaths of a beggar, ſo thou would'ſt rather be aſhamed, than glory in the ornaments which thou borroweſt from inferiour creatures, as from one his fleece, and from another his skin, and from another his feathers, and from another his bones, and from another his entrails, excrements, what not? why alas, beaſts, and birds, and ſilly worms, have the firſt title, and moſt natural intereſt to all thou weareſt, and thou comeſt to it only by conqueſt, violence, and force of arms? Oh that thou would'ſt remember, that thy gay apparel doth not make thee more religious, humble, juſt and temperate; it doth not abate thy pride, but rather increaſeth it; it doth not extinguiſh the heat of luſt, but rather inflames it; it doth not warm thy heart with charity, nor expel the force of Satan's darts, but rather cauſeth thy love to freeze, and lays open thy ſoul to Satan's blows! A vicious man adorned with glorious garments, is like a dead corps ſtuck with flowers, or like the ſtately Temples of Egypt, which had the outward Courts, Porches, Walls, and Roofs richly adorned with Gold, and Silver, and curious carving and ingraving, but if a man went into the inmoſt parts, to ſee the Idol which was there worſhipped, inſtead of ſome ſtately Image ſet out according to the reſt of the bravery and pomp, he could find nothing but the baſe picture, or reſemblance of ſome Cat, or Crocodile, or ugly Serpent: Theſe men who load themſelves with coſtly apparel, if this outward glory were but removed, and they more narrowly ſearch'd into the inmoſt Temple of their hearts, inſtead of God's Image ſhining in his Spiritual Graces, we ſhould find perhaps Crocodiles, and Serpents, luſts, and pride, and wantonneſs, and immodeſty, and ſuch like ſins. O that men profeſſing mortification, ſhould ever be thus vain!

2. For the other objects of pride, as they are more ſpiritual, ſo it concerns Chriſtians to be more heedful: A meer natural man is proud of his beauty, ſtrength, riches, apparel, or the like; but a Chriſtian is chiefly prone to be puffed up with higher and more raiſed perfections as being more ſuitable to his Chriſtian calling. Now as theſe objects are ſeveral, ſo in reſpect of them ſeverally conſider thus ———

1. For gifts; conſider, theſe gifts are not thy own, but God's, and not for thy ſelf, but for others edifying, and one day thou muſt make a reckoning for them all: And what, art thou proud of another's bounty given on theſe terms? Suppoſe a man ſhould leave a Cheſt of Money in thy hands, to be diſtributed to others, what folly were it to put it into thy own Inventory? Bernard was much troubled with this temptation, when even in preaching, pride would be whiſpered in his ear, Bene feciſti Bernarde; O well done Bernard. But he was humbled for this in the midſt of his Sermon, being interrupted by Satan, he turned to him, and ſpake theſe words, Non propter te hoc opus cœptum eſt, non propter te, nec in te finietur: This Sermon was not begun for thee, nor ſhall it end in thee. Pride is a worm bred in the Roſe, and the more parts men have, the more doth this diſeaſe increaſe: But oh conſider that of the Apoſtle's. What haſt thou that thou haſt not received? 1 Cor 4.7. Now if thou didſt receive it, why doſt thou glory as if thou hadſt not received it? Matthew Paris relates of a great Scholar, much admired for his learning, that in his Lectures once in the Schools, proving the divine and human nature of Chriſt with great applauſe, he moſt arrogantly ſaid, That Chriſt was beholden to him for that diſpute, and that he owed (as it were) his Divine Nature to his Learning; upon which blaſphemy he was immmediately ſtricked with ignorance, and ſuch ſottiſhneſs, that he was afterward taught the Lord's Prayer by a little child: O that men ſhould ever pride themſelves about notions and apprehenſions? Oh that men ſhould forget the account they muſt give and make of every talent! It may be thou haſt a great meaſure of gifts, Oh take heed! for if thou doeſt unprofitably bury them, or abuſe them unto ſin, the greater and more fearful ſhall thy condemnation be: The Servant that knoweth his Maſter's will, and doth Luke 12. 47. it not ſhall be beaten with many ſtripes.

2. For gaces; conſider, they will not juſtifie, they cannot ſave, why then art thou proud of thy own righteouſneſs? thoſe who have had more to ſhew than thy ſelf, have thrown away all, and gone a begging to Jeſus Chriſt. Read Paul's Inventory, Phil. 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. though I might have confidence in the fleſh, If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might truſt in the fleſh, I more. Circumciſed the eighth day, of the ſtock of Iſrael, of the Tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews: as touching the Law, a Phariſee: concerning zeal perſecuting the Church: touching the righteouſneſs which is in the Law blameleſs; and what of all this? Why, all this was nothing, what things were gain to me, thoſe I counted loſs for Chriſt; yea doubtleſs, and I count all things but loſs, for the excellency of the knowledge of Chriſt Jeſus my Lord; for whom I have ſuffered the loſs of all things, and do count them as dung that I may win Chriſt, and be found verſe 9. in him, not having my own righteouſneſs, which is of the Law, but that which is through the faith of Chriſt, the righteouſneſs which is of God by faith. I am not againſt graces, and gracious actings, but I am againſt pride in them, or truſting to them: Certainly grace will never thrive this way. One Gurnal in his Chriſtian warfare. obſerves, that ſome have a long time been profeſſors, and yet come but to a little growth in love to God, humility, heavenly-mindedneſs, mortification; and 'tis worth the digging, to ſee what lies at the root of their profeſſion, whether there be not a legal principle that hath too much acted them; did they not think to carry all with God from their duties, ſervices, graces, or gracious actings? Alas this is as ſo much dead earth, which muſt be thrown out, and Goſpel principles be laid in the room thereof. Methinks I am in this taken with the Author, and therefore hearken to his advice, try but this courſe, and ſee whether the Spring of thy grace will not come on apace. David gives an account how he came to ſtand and flouriſh, when ſome that were rich and mighty, on a ſudden withered, and came to nothing; Pſal. 52. 7, 8. Lo this is the man that made not God his ſtrength, but truſted in the abundance of his riches; but I am like a green Olive tree in the houſe of God, I truſt in the mercy of God for ever and ever. Whilſt others truſt in the riches of their righteouſneſs, and ſervices, and make not Chriſt their ſtrength, do thou renounce all, and truſt only in the mercy of God in Chriſt, and then ſhalt thou be like a green Olive tree in the Houſe of God.

3. For priviledges, ſuch as ſpiritual comforts, ſenſe of pardon, maniſeſtations of God's love, &c. conſider, theſe were given (if ever they were given) to humble thee and not to make thee proud. It is true, that in the beſt of Saints there remains ſuch dregs of corruption unpurged, that the Devil often makes theſe priviledges an occaſion of pride; and indeed the Lord lets us ſee our proneneſs to this ſin, by the ſhort ſtay he uſually makes when he comes in with any ſuch diſcoveries: A ſhort enterview of Heaven now and then chears up a Chriſtian, who had he but a conſtant ſhine, he would forget himſelf, and grow too wanton: Was not Paul in danger of pride from his ſhort rapture? but therefore it was but ſhort, and God gave him a prick in the fleſh to keep him down: if ever comfort abounds, and God dandles thee on the knee of his love, take heed then of this ſin of pride, it is God's meaning by this to chear thee a little, but then to humble thee, and not to puff thee up: As when he gave Manna to Iſrael in the Wilderneſs, it was not to Deut. 8. 16. ſwell them, but to humble them, who fed thee in the wilderneſs with Manna which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee: So when God gives out his ſpiritual comforts, his end is, and his meaning is to humble thee; how can that be? why, if not in the gift, yet in the manner of his giving it, thou may'ſt ſee it: If the Iſraelites could not ſee any thing in the Manna to humble them, for it was not mean food, but delicious food, called Angels Pſal. 78. 23. food, yet in the manner of diſpenſing it from hand to mouth, in giving them every day their portion, and no more, in keeping the key of their Cupboad (as one ſpeaks) and making them to ſtand to his immediate allowance, in this they might know that his purpoſe was to humble them; thy priviledges are precious and rare things; it may be thou art weak in grace, or thou art in the beginning of a new and Chriſtian courſe, and leſt thou faint in the way, the Lord is pleaſed ſometimes to take thee up in his arms, and to give thee the kiſſes of his mouth, but preſently he lets thee down again, and makes thee feel thy feet in the ordinary way of duties, and his very cheriſhing thee is to humble thee: Doſt thou not ſee thy weakneſs by his carrying of thee in his arms! Weak children are oftner in the mother's lap, than thoſe that are ſtrong, and it is but a while, a very little while, that he thus deals with thee. O then take heed of pride, leſt he ſend thee a prick in the fleſh to let thee blood, or a Devil out of hell to buffet thee ſoundly for thy pride; if he thus dealt with Paul, how much more may he thus deal with thee? Oh conſider of this.

Sect. 12. Of our wreſtling with Satan in general, to overcome this ſin.

BUT as thus I have dealt with ſome particulars, ſo I would propound ſome general rules, which may differently ſerve for every latitude, meridian, or elevation of pride. As ——

1. Preſs into God's preſence; conſider of God's greatneſs, purity, holineſs, perfection, Majeſty: A ſight of his glory were enough to humble thee, and caſt thee down into a depth of Dragons. To this purpoſe we are called on, to humble our ſelves in the ſight of God. Lam. 4. 10. A ſight of God is it that makes the creature ſhrink into nothing: Now mine eyes ſeeth thee (ſaith Job) wherefore I abhor my ſelf, and repent in duſt and aſhes: Job. 42. 6. This made Eliſha to wrap his face in a mantle; 1 Kin. 19. 13. this made the Angels cover their faces and feet; this made the twenty four Elders to caſt their Crowns before the Throne of the Lamb. Revel. 4. 10. Nothing will more pluck thy plumes of pride, then a ſerious view of the glory of God: as the Stars vaniſh when the Sun appeareth, ſo will our poor candle when the glory of God ariſeth in our thoughts: Come then look on him, and be humbled, that a creature ſo vile (as thou wilt then appear) ſhould ever be proud; Iſai. 6. 5. Then ſaid I, wo is me, for I am undone, becauſe I am a Man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midſt of a people of unclean lips, for mine eyes have ſeen the King, the Lord of Hoſts.

2. Note that ſin eſpecially, which all thy life long hath been of moſt infamy, and dwell upon it: David once fell foully into adultery, and therefore he cryed, My ſin is ever before me; Pſal. 51. 3. it kept him very low, Pſal. 131. 1, 2. Lord, my heart is not haughty, nor mine eyes lofty, neither do I exerciſe my ſelf in great matters, or in things too high for me: I am even as a child that is weaned of his mother, my ſoul is even as a weaned child. Paul was once a perſecutor, and injurious, and therefore he crys, 1 Tim. 1. 15. O I am the leaſt of Saints, and the greateſt of ſinners: This is a faithful ſaying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Chriſt Jeſus came into the world to ſave ſinners of whom I am chief. Men are proud, becauſe they know not themſelves; when Agur had but ſtudied himſelf, he cryes Pro. 30. 2. Surely I am more bruitiſh than any man, I have not the underſtanding of man. If we would but examine our ſelves, and call to mind our fouleſt ſins, and moſt irregular practiſes, theſe would be as the Peacocks feet to pull down our plumes. O who could be proud whilſt he were raking in the filth of his moſt noiſome luſts?

3. Obſerve God's Judgments on pride, either on thy ſelf or others. Dan. 5. 21, 22, 23, 25. Nebuchadnezzar's pride made his heart like the beaſts, ſo that his dwelling was with the wild aſſes, they fed him with graſs like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven. And as on him, ſo God's Judgments fell on his Son, for ſo it follows, And thou his Son, O Belſhazzar, haſt not humbled thine heart though thou knoweſt all this, but haſt lifted up thy ſelf againſt the Lord of heaven, and therefore God ſent the writing, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN: Are not theſe terrible examples? Job. 37. 22. With God is terrible Majeſty, ſaith Job: He ſhall cut off the ſpirit of Princes, ſaith David; Pſal. 76. 12. he is terrible to the Kings of the earth; he cuts off their ſpirits that are proud, in Hebrew he ſlips them off, as one would ſlip off a flower between his fingers: Matth. 11. 19. And thus he dealt with Pharaoh, Antiochus, Herod, and other proud Tyrants. Attilas King of the Hunns proudly gave out, that the Stars fell before him, and the Earth trembled at his preſence, and he would be the ſcourge of all Nations, but ſhortly after he died by a Flux of Blood, breaking out at his mouth, which choaked him on his wedding day.

4. Looking unto Jeſus, and conform to him, yea, by faith draw out the ſpiritual virtue of an humble Chriſt: Chriſt's example, is not only directive, but full of virtue, the very hem of his Garment, believingly touched, would cure this bloody iſſue: Was not this Chriſt's own leſſon? Learn of me, for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye ſhall find reſt unto your ſouls, q. d. Learn of me, for I am lowly, I am ſent by God the Father into the world, and this is one ſpecial end that I am ſent into the world for, even to hold out unto the world a pattern of humility, I am appointed as a great Ordinance of God the Father to hold forth this, and therefore look on me, and be ye lowly, as I am lowly: Surely good reaſon we ſhould be as he was, lowly, as he was lowly, and humble, as he was humble. When Rebecca came to Iſaac, and ſhe ſaw him walking in the field, and asked the ſervant who it was, and he ſaid it was his Maſter's Son, preſently Rebecca lighted down, and goes on her feet, ſhe would be as he was; he walked, and Rebecca would walk too: It is good reaſon that the Spouſe of Chriſt ſhould be lowly as Chriſt; and therefore ſaith Chriſt, Learn of me, look on me, write after me, let the ſame mind be in you, which was in me; Every Chriſtian is united to Jeſus Chriſt, and ſhould be acted by Phil. 2. 5, the ſame ſpirit that Chriſt is: Let this mind be in

6, 7, 8. you which was alſo in Chriſt Jeſus, who being in the form of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God, but made himſelf of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a ſervant, and was made in the likeneſs of men, and being found in faſhion as a man, he humbled himſelf. Now let this mind be in you. As pride is the reſemblance of the Devil, which brought him to ruin, ſo is humility the reſemblance of Jeſus Chriſt, which brought him to honour. O let this mind be in you, which was in Chriſt! look at him in all the particular acts of his humility, and by faith draw virtue out of all thoſe acts.

5. Let every act of pride be accompanied with a ſubſequent act of humiliation: If thou canſt not prevent this ſin of pride, yet check it ſo ſoon as ever it ariſeth. This was Hezekiah's courſe, after he was ſick, and reſtored to health, he forgot him-
2 Chro. 32. ſelf, and render'd not again according to the benefit
24, 25, 26. done unto him, for his heart was lifted up, therefore there was wrath upon him, and upon Judah and Jeruſalem; notwithſtanding Hezekiah humbled himſelf, for the pride of his heart (both he and the inhabitants of Jeruſalem*) ſo that the wrath of the Lord came not upon them in the days of* Hezekiah. It is high time to be humbled, and lye low, when thou haſt committed ſuch a ſin, as to provoke God to wrath: Hear ye, and give ear, be not proud,
Jer. 13. for the Lord hath ſpoken.——But if ye will not 15, 17. Lam. 4. 9, hear, my ſoul ſhall weep in ſecret places for your
10. pride. If pride go before, humiliation muſt follow after; Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep, let your laughter be turned into mourning, and your joy to heavineſs; humble your ſelves in the ſight of the Lord, and he ſhall lift you up.

6. Treaſure up ſome holy principles, and keep them freſh and ready in thy thoughts to quell this ſin: when we would ſuppreſs weeds, we uſually ſow the contrary ſeed; ſo have thou at hand, and in mind, ſome contrary ſeed, ſome holy Principles. I ſhall inſtance in theſe two.

1. Pride is the fore-runner of ruine; it is a Proverb as true, as commonly ſpoken, that pride goes before a fall. Indeed Solomon in his Proverbs gives
Pro. 16. that for one, pride goeth before deſtruction, and an
18. haughty ſpirit before a fall; and therefore he pourtrayed the proud man to the life, that pictured him ſnatching at a Crown, and falling, with this Motto, Sic mea fata ſequor.

2. Humility is the way to glory; this is often inculcated by our Saviour, He that humbleth himſelf Luke 14. 11. ſhall be exalted: We are all by nature proud (as
18. 14. we have heard) we ſhould all be exalted; how is it then that we forget this principle? The way to riſe, is to fall; God gave us a pattern of it in Jeſus Chriſt: Firſt, he emptied himſelf, and humbled Phil. 2. 5, himſelf to the death of the Croſs, wherefore God 6, 7, 8, 9.
hath highly exalted him, and given him a Name above all Names. I know not any good, but humility is a means to obtain it; am I in trouble? and would I have deliverance? The Lord heareth Pſal. 10.
the deſires of the humble: Am I in a place of hon- 17.
our? and do I fear a fall? A man's pride ſhall Prov. 29.

in ſpirit. Though places of advancement be ſlippery, yet the humble ſhall be upheld: Am I diſconſolate? and would I ſee more of God, and of his favour and love? he that is in the loweſt pits, ſees Stars in the day time, the Lord will revive Iſa. 57. 15.
the ſpirits of the humble: Would I be advanced not only on earth, but in heaven? whoſoever ſhall Matt. 18. 4.
humble himſelf as a little child, the ſame ſhall be greateſt in the Kingdom of heaven.

O think of theſe principles! pride leads to hell, but humility to heaven: It was an anſwer that a Philoſopher gave to one that asked him, what God did in heaven? Why, ſaid he, He is beating down the proud, and lifting up the humble.

Sect. 13. Of Satan's Temptations to Paſſion, or Anger.

OThers are of cholerick diſpoſitions, and ſo prone to paſſion or anger, that they break all Rules, both of Reaſon and Religion; now Satan that obſerves their temper, puts on, to make them more raging, fierce, and furious; Satan ſtill hath a great hand and ſtroke in every ſin, he can eaſily make uſe of our bodies, by commotion of the humours, he can ſtir us up to uncleanneſs, paſſion, revenge, and all other ſenſual luſts: Hence carnal deſires are called his luſts, Joh. 8. 44. and giving place to anger, is in the Apoſtle's language, a giving place to the devil, Epheſ. 4. 26, 27. Indeed the Heathen, who underſtood not the operation of the Devil, thought all our conflicts were againſt internal paſſions, but my Text is clear, We wreſtle not only againſt them, but againſt Principalities, and Powers, and Rulers of the darkneſs of this world, and ſpiritual wickedneſſes in heavenlies. I ſhall not deny, but ſometimes we begin the temptations, and ſometimes Satan; as Zanard ſpeaking of the outward power of the Devil over tempeſts, Sometimes, ſaid he, he may raiſe the matter, at other times the matter being prepared, Satan may adjoyn himſelf and make the tempeſt more impetuous. And yet for all this, it muſt be granted, there is a juſt, and harmleſs, and holy anger. Be ye angry, and ſin not, ſaith the Apo- Epheſ. 4. ſtle. Thus Jacob was angry, Gen. 30. 2. and 26.
Moſes was angry, Numbers 16. 15. and Nehemiah was angry, Neh. 5. 9. and Jeremiah was angry, Jer. 6. 11. and Chriſt himſelf was angry, Mark 3. 5. But this paſſion of anger I ſpeak of, it is that which is unjuſt and ſinful, it is anger which gives place to the Devil, it is an anger which miſſes in object, time, meaſure, end, and other circumſtances. Give me leave but a while to inſiſt on theſe, and then you will know what anger is ſinful, and what anger I mean. ———

1. It is ſuch an anger as miſſes in reſpect of the object; holy anger hath a right object, as matters of Reaſon, Religion, the honour and glory of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt; but ſinful anger is either exerciſed about nothing: Thus many are angry, and they know not wherefore; there's a great deal of cry (as they ſay) and but little wool; or it is exerciſed about every thing. Thus every trifle, every toy, any thing in the world, that falls out in the leaſt manner againſt their minds, puts many into anger; or it is exerciſed againſt ſome excellency that God hath beſtowed upon others more than themſelves: So Saul was angry with David, and Cain was angry with Abel: When Tygers ſmell the fragrancy of ſpices, they are put into a rage or fury (as ſometimes you have heard) ſo many were angry at the graces of God's Spirit which they obſerve in others: Theſe, and ſuch like are the objects about which ſinful anger is converſant.

2. It is ſuch an anger as miſſes in reſpect of time; holy anger is deliberate, ſeaſonable, and ſhort, but the anger which the Devil ſets on, it is 1. Sudden and indeliberate: Thus many men and women have tender ſpirits, or Gun-powder ſpirits, as ſoon as ever the fire comes to them, they are all
Pro. 4.17. in a flame: Againſt this, ſaith Solomon, he that is Eccleſ. 7.9. ſoon angry dealeth fooliſhly; and be not haſty in thy ſpirit to be angry, for anger reſteth in the boſom of fools. From this haſty anger, we call the paſſion of anger haſtineſs; ſuch a man is an haſty man, or ſuch a woman is an haſty woman. Now this is
Pro. 14.29 folly, ſaith the wiſe man; He that is ſlow to wrath
Jam. 1.19. is of great underſtanding, but he that is haſty of ſpirit exalteth folly: Wherefore my beloved brethren, let every man be ſwift to hear, ſlow to ſpeak, and ſlow to wrath. Holy anger is ſlow, wherein it imitates God, but ſinful anger is ſudden. 2. It is unſeaſonable; thus many are angry in the preſence of others, who ſhould not ſee it, or they are angry when they ſee others angry before them. This minds me of the counſel that one gave to a young married coupel, who were both of paſſionate and cholerick ſpirits, that they ſhould be ſure not to be angry together, it cannot be good to add heat to fire; or they are angry when they are about to perform a duty, this is the Devil's ſeaſon; many are angry, either before Sermon, or after Sermon, or, it may be, immediately before or after prayer;
Mat. 5.24. to theſe, ſaith Chriſt, firſt be reconciled to thy Brother, and then come and offer thy gift. And of 1 Tim. 2.8. theſe ſaith the Apoſtle, I will therefore that men pray every where, lifting up holy hands without wrath. This wrath, at ſuch a time, is an impoyſoning and heavy hindrance, which clogs and clips the Wings of a Prayer, that it can never be able to aſcend up into Heaven; and therefore this anger is very unſeaſonable. 3. Sinful anger is conſtant, it abides too long, the Sun goes down
Eph. 4.26. upon it: when the Apoſtle ſaid, Be angry, and ſin not, he adds, let not the Sun go down upon your wrath, neither give place to the Devil. A man that retains his anger longer than evening, gives place to the Devil: many can ſay, Shall I give way to mine Enemy? ſhall I yield to him who hath done me ſuch and ſuch wrong? but they little conſider, that in retaining their anger, they give way to the Devil, they yield to the Devil: What? is it not better to yield to your Brother, tho' your inferiour, than to yield to the Devil? Shall men live as if they drank no other Waters but of Maſſa and Meriba, of the Waters of Strife? as the Church ſaid
Jer. 3. 1. concerning God, Will he reſerve his anger for ever? ſo may I ſay of ſuch, will they reſerve their anger for ever? ſurely this anger is ſinful, in reſpect of time.

3. It is ſuch an anger as miſſes in reſpect of meaſure; holy anger keeps within compaſs, but ſo doth not this; nor do I wonder, for amongſt all the affections or paſſions of the mind there is none more like to abound in meaſure, than the paſſion of anger, it is a fiery Paſſion, and fire we know is apt to exceed: How great a Fire will one Sparkle kindle.

4. It is ſuch an anger as miſſes in reſpect of the end; holy anger hath right aims and ends, as the glory of God and good of Souls: but what is the end of this anger? what is it a paſſionate man aims at? If I may anſwer for him, either he aims at this, that he may ſatisfie a peeviſh ſpirit; or he aims at this, that he may bring others under him; or he aims at this, that he may be eſteemed of others as ſome-body in the World; or he aims at this, that he may have his will another time: Theſe are the chief ends of a paſſionate Spirit: But oh it is otherwiſe with a gracious Spirit! ſuch a one may be angry ſometimes, but it is not to ſatisfie himſelf, but to bring things into order; it is not to ſubject others under him, but to bring all under God; it is not to appear ſome-body in the World, but that the Glory of God may more appear; it is not to have his will more at another time, but that God's Will may be done on Earth as it is in Heaven; it is not that he may avenge himſelf, but that he may do good to others, never aiming more at the parties good that he is angry withal, than at that very time when he is moſt angry. Now you may ſee what anger I inveigh againſt, and what anger it is which gives place to the Devil.

Sect. 14. Of our wreſtling with Satan to overcome this ſin.

IN reſiſting Satan, and this ſin, do you wreſtle thus.

1. Be you humbled for what hath been paſt; were you but humbled for ſin in general, it would much meeken your Spirits; but were you humbled for this particular ſin, in that your lives formerly have been ſo peeviſh, and pettiſh, and paſſionate; oh the good you might get by this humiliation! is not this the way to mortifie ſin at the Heart-root? as when Weeds are moiſtned at the Root, then is the time to get them up, and not when all is dry: So when the heart is humbled for this ſin at the root, when the Heart is bedewed with Tears of Repentance, and becomes ſoft and fleſhy, which before was ſtony and hard, then will this ſin up, or be mortified with far more eaſe. I lay this humiliation as the foundation of all other helps, many being convinc'd that ſuch or ſuch a thing ought not to be done, they reſolve preſently they will do ſo no more, but they bottom not their reſolution upon humiliation, and ſo all comes to nothing, but as the morning Dew it quickly vaniſheth. O begin here, repent of ſins paſt, of former pettiſhneſs and peeviſhneſs of ſpirit, and upon this foundation we may comfortably hope the building may ſtand, notwithſtanding the Rain, and Floods, and Winds that may beat upon it.

2. Reſolve and renew your Reſolutions and Covenants with God from day to day: it may be you find that naturally you are overcome with Paſſion, and therefore each morning think but thus with your ſelves, I may meet with occaſions this day to diſquiet my heart. I have had experience, that though the day hath been fair in the morning, yet it hath been foul before night; I ſee I am weak, I have ſometimes promiſed and covenanted with God againſt this ſin, but I have been overcome again and again, I will now therefore in the ſtrength of Chriſt, reſolve that this day whatſoever falls out, I will bear it quietly, and if I be wronged, I will implead it the next day, or the next opportunity, only this day I will retain my quiet of ſpirit. Why thus would you reſolve, and renew your reſolutions from day to day, who knows but it might gain upon your Hearts to overcome paſſion? and if a little were but done for the preſent, yet would it not be ſo hard as now it is to overcome it afterwards.

3. Set an high price upon the quietneſs of your Pro. 17.1. ſpirit: Better is a dry morſel and quietneſs therewith, than an houſe full of ſacrifices with ſtrife. There is as much difference betwixt quietneſs and ſtrife, as betwixt a ſtormy, dark, tempeſtuous night, and a calm, ſweet, Sun-ſhiny, Summer's 1 Pet. 3.4. day: When the Apoſtle ſpeaks of the ornament of a meek and quiet ſpirit, he adds, that in the ſight of God it is of great price; other Graces are precious with God, but a meek and quiet ſpirit is in the ſight of God of great price, it is worth a great deal, it is a Jewel of great worth; Kings and Princes and Nobles wear Jewels ſometimes worth thouſands of Pounds; but every meek man and woman that goes up and down, though never ſo poor, yet they wear a Pearl worth a World; thus God eſteems it, and ſo ſhould we alſo. Tell me you that bear croſſes with a quiet and meek Spirit, do you not find a great deal of comfort in this quiet and meek frame? why then ſay, It ſhall coſt me dear, but I will keep this frame: If a man ſhould throw Dirt at you, and you had a Golden Ball in your hand, would you throw that away, becauſe he throws Dirt at you? what if others caſt upon you Reproaches and froward Words? they have no other Weapons for themſelves, they ſcarce ever knew in all their lives what the ſweetneſs of a quiet Spirit meant; Oh but you that fear God, and whom God hath adorned with the Graces of his own Spirit, do you prize a quiet Spirit at an high rate, do you ſuffer for it, for there is much good in it.

4. Remove the occaſions of anger; as Cotys King of Thrace, when one brought him curious Veſſels, but brittle, (I ſuppoſe of Glaſs, or the like) he commended their rare Workmanſhip, yet preſently brake them, leſt (being of an haſty nature) when his Servants by any accident had broken them, he ſhould have been exceſſively angry. When Saul caſt a Javelin at Jonathan to ſmite him, then Jonathan aroſe from the Table, and would eat no meat in Saul's preſence: It is our wiſdom to get out of the Company of ſuch as have offended us, as Jonathan did, rather than ſinful anger ſhould break out. Or,———

5. If the occaſion cannot well be removed, then give reaſon leave to interpoſe, and divert. It was good counſel which Athenodorus gave to Auguſtus, that when the object and occaſions of choler were in his Eye, he ſhould not be moved before he had pronounced over the Letters of the Alphabet: When the mind is diverted, there may be ſome room to deliberate, and therefore in this caſe, divert to ſome other Buſineſs, Company, pleaſant Imployment, thoughts of content; theſe are notable coolers, and very convenient to ſlake this paſſionate fire. As Phyſicians obſerve in bleeding, when a man or woman bleeds very violently at the Noſe, the way to ſtanch the blood is to let them blood in another Vein: So thoſe that are paſſionate, they ſhould labour to turn the channel of their Affections another way. For inſtance, what? do I feel my anger ſtir? let me ſtir up fears, Oh! let me have the fear of the Great God before mine Eyes: or doth my anger ſtir? let me ſtir up ſorrow; Oh! let me grieve for their ſin, whereby they have provoked God more than me: or doth my anger ſtir? let me ſtir up love: I am called on to love mine Enemies, and will not the heat of love take out the heat of anger? the ſhining of the Sun upon a Fire, deadens the Fire; and ſurely the Beams of love in my Heart towards God, and towards his Saints, and towards mine Enemies, ſhould deaden or weaken this fire of paſſion that is ſo ſtrong in me. Thus by a wile (as it were) may'ſt thou ſubdue thy anger, if thou canſt but turn thy Affection another way.

6. If Diverſions will not do it, then ſtand at the Staves end, and reſiſt this ſin at its firſt breaking out. A little thing will quench a great fire when it is new kindled, but if you ſtay a while, then Buckets of water will not do it: Pro. 17.1 The beginning of ſtrife is as when one letteth out water, (I may ſay as when one letteth out fire) therefore leave off contention before it be medled withal. You are to take as great care of the beginning of anger, as you would be careful to quench a little ſpark of fire that is in the midſt of many Barrels of Gunpowder; and great reaſon, for the fire of contention which begins at a little (if not prevented) riſeth to a great deal. Camerarius tells a Story of two Brothers, who walking out in the Evening, and ſeeing the Element full of bright ſpangling Stars; one of them being a Graſier, wiſhed, that he had as many Oxen as there were Stars in the Firmament; then ſaid the other Brother, and if I had a Paſture as big as the World, where would you keep the Oxen? he anſwered, in your Paſture; What, ſaid the other; whether I would or no? Yes, ſaid his Brother; the matter was very light, but it fell out very heavy, for they preſently fell to words, drew one upon another, and killed one another. Do we not ſee many Neighbours fall out about very ſmall matters? and if ſome wiſe man in the beginning did but mediate between them, how eaſily might they be reconciled? otherwiſe the fire kindles to ſuch a flame, that few or none know how to extinguiſh it, or to make them friends.

7. Be convinc'd it is much better to bear wrong, than to be ſinfully angry for wrong: in bearing wrong there is no danger of Satan's hurt, but for the Devil to come and tempt thee by this or that wrong, to be in a pet or angry fit, there lies the danger: It is Auguſtine's expreſſion, when the Fowler hath ſet a net to catch Fowls, then he comes and throws Stones in the Hedges to fright the Birds out: So when the Devil hath ſet his Nets and Temptations to catch poor Souls in, then he ſets others on to do them wrong, that ſo he may take them in his Net: Oh take heed now of Anger! take heed now of the Net that the Devil hath on the other ſide of the Hedge; it is better to ſuffer wrong from another than to ſuffer ſin in thy own Soul.—But how muſt I do if I be injured? I anſwer: 1. Look on God, and conſider all thy wrongs and unworthy uſages are ordered by God, for thy everlaſting good, this very one thought, that God is the principal Agent, kept freſh and on foot in thy mind, will be of Sovereign power to cool and beat back any intemperate anger, yea, and make thee ſay to God with David, Psal. 39.9. I was dumb and opened not my mouth, becauſe thou didſt it. Thus Joſeph looked beyond his Brethren's barbarous dealing with him, and ſaid, The Lord ſent me before you. Thus Job looked beyond the Caldeans lawleſs outrages, and ſaid, The Lord hath taken away. Thus David looked beyond Shimei's dogged rancour, and ſaid, The Lord hath bidden him to curſe. Thus Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, bleſſed for ever, looked beyond the Phariſees, Prieſts, Jews, Judas and the Souldiers, to his Father's Cup: This Cup which my Father hath given to me to drink, ſhall I not drink it? In caſe of injuries, ſay thus in thy ſelf, This is from God for my good, as ſometimes old Eli ſaid, It is the Lord, let him do what ſeemeth him good:

2. Look on man, and make the beſt conſtruction thou canſt of any wrong done by him; if the party that hath wronged thee be a young man, impute it to his raſhneſs, and want of experience; if he be an old man, impute it to his weakneſs, ſenes bis pueri, old men are twice Children; he might do thee wrong, and yet mean thee no harm; if he be a good man, impute it to ſome miſtake, for certainly he would not purpoſely do thee an evil; if he be a wicked man impute it to the enmity betwixt the Seed of the Woman, and the Seed of the Serpent; if he do thee harm, ſay, it is no more than thou expectedſt from him. If thus thou wouldſt make the beſt conſtruction of every thing, how mighteſt thou overcome paſſion, and procure to thy ſelf a great deal of peace and patience all thy life long.

Eph. 6.17. 8. Take unto you the Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God: Satan provokes men that they may be provoked, he would have them yield to anger, and then they yield to him: but that you may wreſtle and prevail, take up your Weapons, have your Sword (which is the Word of God) in your hands and heart: It is the Sword that ſlays corruptions, and ſatanical temptations, as David ſaid of Goliah's Sword, There is none to that, ſo may we ſay of the Sword of the Spirit, there is none to it. If you ask how may I furniſh my ſelf with this weapon? or how may I cut aſunder by this ſword this temptation of anger? I anſwer—— 1Sam.21.9

1. Obſerve the Temptation: Satan uſually comes in with many motions or objections, and ſo puts on to wrath, or makes Apologies for wrath. Now theſe in the firſt place we muſt obſerve.

2. Seek out a ſuitable Word, and with that anſwer him as Chriſt anſwered, ſaying, Avoid Satan, for thus it is written. I ſhall inſtance in theſe two, for they are two main points.

Obj. Mat. 5.22. 1. Satan in thee objects, Yea, hath God ſaid, that whoſoever is angry with his Brother without a cauſe, ſhall be in danger of Judgment: Why, alas! it is but one ſin, and is it not a little one? it may be thou art paſſionate, but thou faileſt only in this; hark but what others ſay of thee, ſuch a man is a very good man, only he is of an haſty ſpirit; or ſuch a woman is a very gracious woman, only ſhe is of an haſty ſpirit: So they ſay, and ſo I ſay, thou mayſt be angry, and godly, haſty, and holy; and therefore ſin on.

Anſw. Anſwer. How? Angry and Godly? Haſty and Holy? Surely if this anger be ordinary, conſtant, and reigning they are not conſiſtent. Oh what need have I to look to my evidence! the word ſaith, They that are Chriſt's, have crucified the fleſh with the affections and luſts: And what are thoſe affections and luſts, but amongſt the reſt, Hatred, Variance, Emulation, Wrath, Strife? Now if theſe be not crucified, if theſe be not in ſome good meaſure mortified, how ſhould I be good, or gracious, godly, or holy? This is certain when grace comes into the heart, it works a change, and a new frame of ſpirit; the Word ſaith, the Wolf ſhall dwell with the Lamb, and the Leopard ſhall lie down with the Kid, and the Calf, and the young Lion, and the Fatling together, and a little Child ſhall lead them: The meaning is, that furious ſpirits ſhall then become meek, and haſty ſpirits ſhall then become gentle; grace will tame men; thoſe that were in diſpoſition like wild beaſts, and hurtful creatures, ſhall by this powerful work be metamorphoſed and become meek and harmleſs. And doth Satan tell me, I may be gracious and peeviſh? would he flatter me that a conſtant, ordinary, reigning, paſſionate ſpirit, may conſiſt with truth of Grace? Avoid Satan, for it is written, this luſt muſt be mortified, my Lion-like nature muſt become Lamb-like, or I cannot be ſaved.

Gal. 5.24.
ver. 20.
Iſa. 11. 6.

But Satan puts into thee another plea, and tells thee, that if thou art angry thou art thereto provoked; thou couldſt live quietly enough in thy Family, and amongſt thy Neighbours, if thou wert not provoked, it is their fault that provokes thee, and not thine, that thou art thus angry with them. Obj.

Anſwer. How? am I angry? and may be angry becauſe I am provoked? what a reaſon is this? I would rather ſay, that God now calls on me for meekneſs, and not for anger: any one can be meek when they are not provoked, (as we ſay, the Devil is good when he is well pleaſed) but if I am provoked, then is the ſeaſon if ever, to exerciſe meekneſs: The Word ſaith, that a godly man is like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his ſeaſon: It is the excellency of Grace to work in due ſeaſon, for then is every thing beautiful; and when is the due ſeaſon of meekneſs, but only when I am provoked? or if this be a plea, why might it not be Moſes plea as well as mine? The Word ſaith, They angred him at the waters of ſtrife, they provoked his ſpirit, ſo that he ſpake unadviſedly with his lips. Meek Moſes is now angry, and he was provoked unto it, but that will not excuſe him before God; for the Word ſaith, It went ill with Moſes for their ſakes: God would never be intreated to let him go into the Land of Canaan for this very ſin; and therefore avoid Satan, for it is written, if I am provoked, then is the ſeaſon of meekneſs; or if I am provoked to anger, it will go ill with me as it went ill with Moſes, and no provocation will be my excuſe.

Pſ.106.33.
ver. 32.

But Satan hath thouſands of pleas, and ten thouſands of ways, either to put thee into paſſion, or to juſtifie thee in it: it is impoſſible for me to inſtance in all, but againſt them all I would have thee lay up, and to make uſe of ſeveral Scriptures, turn them down in thy Book, or learn them by heart (as we ſay) that thou may'ſt ſtill have them in readineſs, they are ſuch as theſe: Pride, and Arrogancy, and the evil way, and the froward mouth do I hate.——They that are of a froward heart are abomination to the Lord, but ſuch as are upright in their way are his delight.——Ceaſe from anger, and forſake wrath, fret not thy ſelf in any wiſe to do evil.——Ye have heard it was ſaid by them of old time, thou ſhalt not kill, and whoſoever ſhall kill, ſhall be in danger of the Judgment, but I ſay unto you, that whoſoever is angry with his Brother without a cauſe, ſhall be in danger of the Judgment,——and whoſoever ſhall ſay thou fool, ſhall be in danger of Hell fire.——Let all bitterneſs, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil ſpeaking be put away from you, with all malice; and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Chriſt's ſake hath forgiven you. Are not theſe Scriptures as ſo many Swords? why, then wield them, and in the uſe of them cut aſunder all temptations of Satan.

Mat. 5.21, 22.
Eph. 4.31, 32.

9. Set before thee the example of Chriſt, till thou find'ſt it to work upon, and to change thy ſpirit. Chriſt's example (if rightly eyed and improved) doth not only work morally, but efficaciouſly, by way of efficiency. It is reported of a Noble Earl Elſtarius, that he had ſuch a quiet ſpirit, that all wondred; his Wife and others asked him, how he came to that meek, humble, and quiet frame? To whom he anſwered thus, When any wrongs me (ſaid he) I preſently turn my thoughts to the injuries that Jeſus Chriſt ſuffered, and I never leave off ruminating and remembring the injuries of Chriſt, until I find my heart wholly quiet. Mat. 11. 29. Learn of me (ſaid Chriſt) for I am meek. Chriſtians according to the example of Jeſus Chriſt, ought to be meek ones; indeed, meekneſs is that Evangelical Grace that Chriſtians ought to imitate Jeſus Chriſt in; and therefore, Learn of me, ſaith Chriſt, ſet me before you, learn and never ceaſe learning, till of that fulneſs that is in me you receive Grace for Grace, even Meekneſs for Meekneſs.

10. Pray conſtantly in this, as in other like caſes; pray down the ſin of anger, pray for a Spirit of meekneſs, entreat the Lord to quiet and ſweeten thy froward nature, pray alſo for heavenly-mindedneſs, and thou wilt not be diſquieted with worldly troubles: As the upper Region of the Air is not moleſted with Wind, Rain, Hail, &c. ſo neither is an heavenly-minded Chriſtian, who is lifted up far above theſe ſublunary things, afflicted with them, or periſh for them: Pray alſo for faith that thou may'ſt roll thy ſelf upon him and his promiſes, who hath ſaid, Rom. 8. 28. that all things ſhall work together for their good who love God, and are called according to his purpoſe: Why then ſhouldſt thou be angry, ſeeing God will turn the Injuries of men into Bleſſings and Mercies? 2 Sam. 16. 11, 12. Let him alone, and let him curſe, it may be the Lord will look on thine affliction, and that the Lord will requite good for his curſing this day: Pray alſo for love, which is of more force to reſtrain thee from revenge, than any injury to provoke thee to anger, for love 1 Cor. 13. 5, 7. ſuffers long; yea, love ſuffers all things: It will make thee to look upon him with whom thou art angry as a Brother, and therefore to forgive him, as thou wouldſt have God to forgive thee; it will make thee to meditate on the unbounded Mercy of God, whoſe Vertues thou muſt imitate if thou art his Child; he forgives thee, and he forgives thy Enemies their many ſins, and canſt thou not forgive them? thou ſtandeſt in need of infinite mercy for waſhing away thy many foul offences, and wilt thou not let one drop of mercy fall upon thy Brother to forgive him in ſome trifling wrongs? O pray for love and pray for patience, and pray for the aſſiſtance of God's Spirit to mortifie thy anger, and to ſanctifie thy nature, that thou may'ſt be ſerviceable to God's Glory, the good of thy Brethren, and the furtherance of thy own Salvation in Jeſus Chriſt.

Sect. 15. Of Temptations in reſpect of our outward Conditions.

Hitherto of Temptations, in reſpect of our natural diſpoſitions; the next have a reſpect to our outward conditions. Now thus we are either in proſperity, or adverſity; if we are in proſperity, then Satan tempts us to thoſe ſins, whereto that ſtate is moſt ſubject, as to forgetfulneſs of God, contempt of our poor Brethren, love of the World, Pride, &c. If we are in adverſity, then he tempts us to the uſe of unlawful means for the repairing of our Eſtates, or to diſtruſting in God, or to ſtealing, defrauding, murmuring, repining, what not. I cannot inſiſt on all theſe particulars, for I intend brevity, only I ſhall mention one aſſault in reference to proſperity, and another as to adverſity, and then have done with this Head.

Sect. 16. Of Satan's aſſaults of contemning our Brethren.

If we are in proſperity, it is one aſſault of Satan, and it is our common ſin, to contemn our brethren; the very cauſe of the Corinthians, who in their Love-feaſts carried it ſo unequally, that one was hungry, to wit the poor, and another was drunken, to wit the rich; this made the Apoſtle to ask them, What? have ye not houſes to eat and drink in? or deſpiſe ye the Church of God, and ſhame them that have not? 1 Cor. 11. 21, 22. in the original, them that are poor. The very caſe alſo of the Chriſtian Jews in general, and therefore ſaith James in his general Epiſtle to them, My brethren, have not Jam. 2. 3, 4. the faith of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt with reſpect of perſons; for if there come unto your aſſembly a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in alſo a poor man in vile rayment, ye have reſpect to him that weareth the gay cloathing, and ye ſay to him, ſit thou here in a good place, but ye ſay to the poor, ſtand thou there, or ſit under my footſtool: Are ye not partial in your ſelves, and Judges of evil thoughts? I ſhall not deny, but that there is an holy and warrantable reſpect of perſons in reſpect of their age, calling, gifts, greatneſs, in the world; but when great reverence is ſhewed to the rich, and our poor brethren are under contempt, as if they were unworthy our company and converſe, when we go ſo far as to eſteem the wicked rich, above the godly poor, whence when we ſo debaſe the godly poor, that we conſider them not at all according to their eminency in grace and high ſtation in Chriſtianity; but we paſs by the appearance of God in them, without any mark or notice, ſurely this is a ſin, and this is a temptation of Satan; can it be of any thing that's ought, that a reſpect ſhould be had to a worldly luſtre rather than to a ſpiritual grace? that a Gold-ring ſhould be preferred before a rich faith, doth this ſavour of Chriſtianity? or rather doth it not ſavour of the order of theſe Principalities, and powers, and rulers, and ſpiritual wickedneſſes, here in my Text? I believe Devils do thus in oppoſition to God, and his ways; they deſpiſe the poor, and prefer the rich: but Jam. 2. 5. hearken my beloved Brethren, hath not God choſen the poor of this world, rich in faith and heirs of the Kingdom? God and the Devil are as contrary as may be; God hath reſpect to the lowlineſs Luke 1. 48, 49. of his hand-maiden, he exalteth them of low degree, he filleth the hungry with good things, and the rich he ſends empty away. But Satan prefers wicked worldlings, and accordingly tempts others to exalt, advance, and honour them, whilſt the godly poor muſt be neglected, contemned, depreſſed, and it may be perſecuted, becauſe of their outward deſpicableneſs; to this ſin are they moſt prone, that are great and rich and proſper in this world, what care they for the Image of God ſhining in mean Chriſtians? if they be not of their rank, they will ſcarce look on them as men, much leſs as godly, and as David calls them, The excellent of Pſal. 16. 3. the earth.

Sect. 17. Of our wreſtling with Satan in this reſpect.

If this be one of Satan's ſtratagems, for the upſetting and upholding of his own Kingdom, then you whom God hath bleſſed with outward eſtates, it concerns you to arm your ſelves againſt this temptation, and to wreſtle thus.——

1. Own them that fear God, be they never ſo poor: Are they not the Glory of God? the Treaſure of God? the Portion of God? the peculiar people of God? and what? are you aſhamed of them who are gracious, becauſe they are outwardly mean? what is this, but to be aſhamed of Chriſt himſelf? He was poor in the world, and he preached the Goſpel to the poor, and he accounts of the poor as his Members, and at the laſt day he will acknowledge that what is done to the poor, it is all one as if done to himſelf. O then be not aſhamed of them, as you would not have Chriſt to be aſhamed of you at the laſt day; men are willing enough to own their treaſure. I muſt tell you, that the godly poor are the Churches treaſure, and upon that account who would not own them? I remember when Lawrence was to ſuffer Martyrdom, the Tyrant that perſecuted him underſtanding him to be a Deacon of the Church, and a diſtributer of the Churches riches, he promiſed to himſelf a double prey, by the apprehenſion of one ſilly ſoul; thereupon he demanded of Lawrence where was the ſubſtance of the Church; Lawrence craving three days reſpite, he promiſed to declare to him where the treaſure might be had: In the mean time he cauſed a number of poor Chriſtians to be gathered together, when the day of of his anſwer was come, the perſecutor ſtrictly charged him to ſtand to his promiſe; then valiant Lawrence ſtretching out his arms over the poor, ſaid, Theſe are the precious treaſure of the Church, theſe are the treaſure indeed, in whom the faith of Chriſt reigneth, in whom Jeſus Chriſt hath his Manſion place: What more precious Jewels can Chriſt have, than thoſe in whom he hath promiſed to dwell, for ſo it is written, I was hungry, and ye gave me to eat; I was thirſty, and ye gave me to drink, &c. And look what ye have done to one of theſe, the ſame ye have done to me. Indeed, this anſwer vexed the Tyrant, but the poor Martyr ſtood to it, though he died for it a moſt cruel death: O do ye own them who are godly poor, now for ſhame be not you aſhamed of them.

2. Cloſe with them, vouchſafe to be much in Rom. 12. 16. their ſociety: this was the Appſtle's rule, Mind not high things, but condeſcend to men of low eſtate. Jerome in his Epiſtle to Pamachius, bad him to equal himſelf to the poor, and now and then to go into the Cells of the needy. I can eaſily obſerve how the rich aſſociate themſelves with the rich, and many times with the poor or inferiour ſorts of men, but they are with the moſt vile, prophane, and debauched, of all the poor in the Country. In the mean time the godly poor are ſtrangers to them, and ſtrange they muſt be, unleſs they will drink, ſwear, ramble, and applaud them for their kindneſs and hoſpitality to all the rabble with whom they converſe and live. Alas this is not the life of Chriſtians, but of Heathens. I ſhall never forget the common Mr. H. of D. ſaying of a grave, ancient and godly divine in this Country, who is now with God, A leg of a Lark (ſaid he) is more worth than the whole body of a Kite. One poor ſoul, be it never ſo poor, if it have but the breathing of God's ſpirit in it, he is of more value than a Village, or a whole Town full of wicked, debauch'd, atheiſtical boon companions, as we uſually call them: God's people (whether poor or no) are the glory of the world, yea the glory of God himſelf; but as for others, God ſpeaks of them as dirt and droſs: Thou putteſt away all the Pſal. 119. 119. wicked of the earth like droſs. God's people are uſually in Scripture called his portion, The Lord's portion is his people, Deut. 32. 9. his pleaſant portion, They have made my pleaſant portion a deſolate wilderneſs, Jer. 12. 10. his treaſure, his peculiar treaſure, Ye ſhall be a peculiar treaſure to me above all people, for all the earth is mine, Exod. 19. 5. His glory, the Crown of his glory, Thou ſhalt alſo be a Crown of glory in the hand of the Lord, and a royal Diadem in the hand of thy God, Iſai. 62.3. What is it thus? are poor Saints in ſuch eſteem with God, and he looks upon them as his portion, his pleaſant portion, his treaſure, his peculiar treaſure, his glory, the Crown of his glory? O then how ſhould you bend your ſelves to cloſe with them, and to be much in their ſociety, whoſe very ſociety is indeed the communion of Saints.

3. Delight in men, as thoſe in whom God himſelf delights. David, though a King, could ſtoop thus far; I believe he was upon the point of Charity, when he ſpake thus of them, but whom did his charity benefit? not God, but his poor Saints: O my Soul, thou haſt ſaid unto the Lord, thou art Pſal. 16. my Lord, my goodneſs extendeth not unto thee, but 2, 3. to the Saints that are in the earth, and to the excellent, in whom is all my delight. It ſeems the poor Saints were a King's delight; Kings have their delights, and this was all the delights King David had, In them is all my delight. And no wonder, for herein he conformed to God, the poor Saints are God's delight, it is God's Judgment of men, that the righteous is more excellent than his neigh- Prov. 11. bour. 26. Hence ſome obſerve, that the Lion and Eagle were not offered in ſacrifice to God, but the poor Lamb and Dove were, great and brave ſpirits of the world, high as the Eagle and lofty as the Lyon, God regards them not, but poor humble ſpirits, that are contemptible in the eyes of the world, thoſe are precious to God, he delights in them as in his own darlings: Why thus do you delight in them, as thoſe in whom God himſelf delights.

4. Do them good, as the beſt and chief objects of charity; it is the Apoſtle's advice, As we have Gal. 6.10. opportunity, let us do good unto all men, but eſpecially unto them who are of the houſhold of Faith. You ſee there is an eſpecially put upon them: Let me tell you of a deal of miſtaken charity amongſt you; you think to do offices of love, or of kindneſs, or of alms, promiſcuouſly to all, is brave, and gets a good report of the Country, and the praiſe of men; and you ſhall never have the praiſe of God for this: If you will do any office of love, kindneſs, alms, or the like, be ſure to ſet an eſpecially upon the houſhold of Faith: Theſe are they that repreſent Chriſt, and indeed are the Members of Chriſt, and ſtand in Chriſt's ſtead; ſo he will tell you at the laſt day, For I was an hungry, and ye Matt. 15. gave me meat; I was thirſty, and ye gave me 35, 36. drink; I was a ſtranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye cloathed me; ſick, and ye viſited me; in priſon, and ye came unto me. —— In as much as ye have done it unto the leaſt of theſe my brethren, ye have done it unto me. Mark, thoſe who are Chriſt's Brethren, (which the wicked are not) yea, thoſe who are the leaſt of Chriſt's Brethren, (which the proud high lofty ones are not) why theſe are they whom Chriſt reckons on his own account, ſo that whatſoever you do to them, you do it unto him. Oh that this plea of Chriſt were writ on your doors, that you might better know whom to welcom in, and whom to entertain and do good unto, as you would bid welcom and give entertainment to Chriſt Jeſus himſelf.

Sect 18. Of the Aſſaults of Satan to the uſe of unlawful means.

IF we are in adverſity, Satan uſually tempts us to the uſe of unlawful means. Thus when Chriſt had no ordinary means of getting bread, Satan tempts him to provide for himſelf by extraordinary: When Eſau came out of the field weary and hungry and almoſt dead for want of meat, then ſell thy birth-right (ſaid Satan) and ſo he did: When Peter was in great danger in the High Prieſts Hall, then deny thy Maſter (ſaid Satan) forſwear him, and curſe thy ſelf: When we are in adverſity, and in want, then ſaith Satan, Thou muſt live, thou muſt not put forth thy family to beg, thou muſt utter thy wares, though by lying, ſwearing, exacting, deceiving. Want and neceſſity is the Devil's opportunity to ſet upon us; Fowlers uſually ſet their ſnares for birds in the winter time, when there is Prov. 30. 8, 9. want of food; and therefore prayed Agur, Give me neither poverty nor riches: And why not poverty? Leſt I be poor, and ſteal, and take the Name of God in vain: In poverty, temptations are ſtrong to diſtruſt, to ſteal, lye, ſwear, or to uſe ſhifts, and unlawful means. Many a time have I ſeen a poor profeſſor put to ſhift, and whilſt others cenſured I have thought with my ſelf, Oh poor Soul, why ſhould I, or any other cenſure this poor man? Little know we the temptations to which he is ſubject: But to ſuch let me give ſome counſel.

Sect. 19. Of wreſtling with Satan in this reſpect.

1. Conſider, that all good things are then beautiful, when they are compaſſed by good means. Hence the godly man conſults ever what is juſt, not what is gainful, or what may be compaſſed by honeſt courſes, not what may be gained by fraud, deceit, cozenage, or the like carnal deal-
Pro. 16. 8. ings: Better is a little with righteouſneſs, than great Revenues without right.

2. Conſider, that there is no neceſſity, if ordinary and lawful means fail, to uſe unlawful; when men ſay, I muſt live, I muſt maintain my family: Know, it is not abſolutely neceſſary thou ſhouldſt live, but ſo long as God pleaſeth; nay, it is abſolutely neceſſary that thou ſhouldſt rather periſh and not live, than break God's Commandments; if thou dieſt for want of means, thou mayſt go to heaven as Lazarus, and exchange a miſerable life with an happy; but if to keep thee from dying, thou loſeſt thy ſoul, this is to leap out of the frying-pan into the fire: Thou hadſt better ſtarve, than through diſtruſt to uſe unlawful means, and ſo offend God: Who would wilfully, upon any pretence, run himſelf into an hot burning oven? O take heed! O for ſhame never plead a need or a neceſſity for hell.

3. Conſider, that whatſoever is got with ill means, is got with God's anger, and the ſplitting ſhipwrack of a good conſcience; an hard bargain!
Pro. 20. 15. This made Solomon ſay, There is Gold, and a multitude of Rubies, which happily may be got in ſelling or buying by a falſe oath, or lye; but the lips of truth are a precious Jewel. The meaning is, that truth and a good conſcience are far more precious than Gold or Rubies. Oh it is pittiful exchange, when with the loſs of our beſt Jewels, we Matt. 16. 26. gain nothing but dung and droſs: What is a man profited if he gain the whole world and loſe his Soul? or what ſhall a man give in exchange for his Soul? O the folly, to ſave the nail of thy finger, with the loſs of thy eyes! to get a little wealth, and to loſe thy God, thy Soul, and a good Conſcience, more worth than worlds. Mr. Perkins relates a ſtory of a good man, who being ready to ſtarve, ſtole a Lamb, and being about to eat of it, with his poor Children, and (as his manner was) to crave a bleſſing, he durſt not do it, but fell into a great perplexity of Conſcience, acknowledged his fault to the owner, and promiſed reſtitution, if ever God enabled him. In this caſe, if ever thou repenteſt, thus will thy conſcience ſmite thee, and if thou never repenteſt, thy conſcience will be as a worm gnawing on thee in hell.

4. Labour to live the life of faith; if lawful means fail, as bread in famine, yet mayſt thou feed thy ſelf with faith; Is not this the Pſalmiſt's cure?
Truſt in the Lord, and do good, ſo ſhalt thou dwell Pſal. 37. 3.
in the Land, and verily thou ſhalt be fed: Mark that verily, it is all one with, in truth and ſtableneſs thou ſhalt be fed: A promiſe well improved, is inſtead of meat and drink to an hungry Soul;
the Juſt, in troubleſome times, ſhall live by faith: Heb. 2. 4.
Did not Abraham thus, when he told his Son Iſaac, as they were going up the Mount, My ſon, God Gen. 22. 8. will provide himſelf a Lamb for a burnt offering? Come, it may be thou art low, and haſt ſcarce bread enough to put into thy mouth, remember, that if God ſpeak the word to weak means, they ſhall work as well as the ſtrong; an hard and dry cruſt of bread, and a very little, ſhall be nouriſhment, both competent and comfortable, never uſe ſhifts, if in any of thy wants thou haſt not lawful means at hand; He that believeth, will not make Iſai. 28. 16.
haſte, ſaith the Prophet: Chriſt in his greateſt neceſſity would not turn ſtones into bread to ſave his life, and wilt thou in far leſs neceſſity, not to ſave thy life, but to increaſe thy wealth, turn ſtones into bread, yea into blood, the blood of poor Saints, as poor as thy ſelf, by thy oppreſſion and extortion? rather call to mind God's promiſe, Man ſhall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. By every word, that is by every thing which God appoints, and gives power unto to be our nouriſhment; the Lord would have us live by faith, and to depend on him in the greateſt ſtraits, for he is God all-ſufficient.

Sect. 20. Of Temptations in reſpect of our ſpiritual eſtates.

THE next kind of temptations, is in reference to our ſpiritual eſtates: And herein Satan conſiders men either as weak Chriſtians, or as ſtrong; for the former he tempts them to errors, deſpairs, diffidence, blind zeal, &c. for the latter, he tempts them to privy pride, ſecret hypocriſie, ſolitary muſings on the temptations of Satan, miſinterpreting of the Lord's doings, turning the grace of God into wantonneſs, diſtractions, and wandrings of heart in holy things, to boaſting, and exalting their ſtrength of grace already received, &c. I cannot ennumerate all, much leſs can I inlarge upon all, only I ſhall ſpeak to one aſſault of a weak Chriſtian, and to another of a ſtrong Chriſtian, and paſs by all the reſt.

Sect. 21. Of Satan's Aſſauls to bring weak Chriſtians to Errors.

IF Chriſtians are but weak in knowledge, then Iſa. 11. 9.
Satan preſents them with dangerous error, as if Zach. 12. 8.
it were ſome precious glorious truth of God. This Dan. 12. 4.
Satan doth for theſe ends; As 1. To ſeduce the godly, and to draw them into Error: Indeed he cannot ſeduce them to damnable, yet he may ſeduce them to dangerous Errors, and if he can but prevail in that, he counts it worth the while: Or 2. If he cannot ſeduce, yet he will endeavour to unſettle weak Chriſtians in the truth already received, q. d. If this be not truth, then mayeſt thou queſtion every thing, for truth, which already thou believeſt, and where art thou then? Or 3. If he cannot unſettle, yet will he labour to ſhake them in the truth received; all have not attained to the ſame meaſure of ſtedfaſtneſs, ſome are but weak, and babes in knowledge, though others are as grown men: Now variety of errors, opinions, and diſputes, are a ſhaking of weak minds, which made the Apoſtle ſay, Him that is weak in faith receive Rom. 14. 1.
ye, but not unto doubtful diſputations. Or 4. If he cannot ſhake them, yet if he can but perplex them and trouble them, he hath his end.

This hath been Satan's great deſign in all ages of the Church of the God, to raiſe up ſome Impoſtors, or notable Seducers to perplex and to trouble the Church of God; he hath no comfort himſelf, and he envies comfort wherever he ſees it: hence he labours if he cannot ſeduce us out of the way, yet to hedge up our way with thorns, to caſt blocks in our way, to diſturb us in our courſe towards heaven. Or, 5. He may yet have a farther end, he preſents error, that if he can do no more, yet he may prejudice the entertainment of further truth. Satan knows full well, that towards the end of the world there will be abundance of truth revealed and made known; The knowledge of the Lord ſhall be as the waters that cover the ſea: God hath ſpokon glorious things of the latter days, every Child ſhall be as David; and the knowledge of the Lord ſhall be increaſed. Now at this time Satan will vent his Errors, he will ſet on foot many dangerous Errors to prejudice the hearts of the people of God in the receiving and entertaining of truths to be revealed: When God is ſowing Wheat, then is Satan buſie to ſow his Tares: when God is diſcovering truths then he is buſie to communicate his errors; the Devil is never more buſie, than when God's work goes beſt on: he hopes in the heat of the Market to vent his own wares, he hopes in the throng to put off one with another, and that men will not ſo carefully obſerve it: at leaſt if men be ſhy to entertain the one, he hopes by this to leſſen the authority, and to prejudice the entertaining of the other. Theſe are Satan's ends, and no wonder if he prevail with weak Chriſtians, that as yet are babes in knowledge, and know not how to reſiſt.

Sect. 22. Of wreſtling with Satan as to this Aſſault.

BUT that you may be armed, and able to overcome Satan in this reſpect, obſerve theſe particulars——

1. Be ſure of a right knowledge in the principles, and fundamental truths; theſe are the eſſentials of Chriſtianity, without which no heaven, no ſalvation: nor need the ripeſt Chriſtians contemn this leſſon; for principles are of daily uſe for them, yea, they muſt continually live upon them, as on their bread and drink; the want of this knowledge is the cauſe of much Hereſie and Apoſtaſie in theſe diſmal times, and the not digeſting and improving of this knowledge is the cauſe of much of the hypocriſie, and ſelf deceiving kind of Religiouſneſs that in theſe times have ſo prevailed. Come then, and be well grounded in theſe fundamentals, you have them in every Catechiſm opened to you, and laid before you; and thus you are likeſt to ſtand in a time of trial, and to reſiſt Satan in his fiery darts, and to hold faſt, and to grow up in the knowledge of the ſuperſtructure. It's our miſery, and Satan's advantage, that Chriſtians are ſo earneſt about circumſtantials and neglect the great fundamentals, upon which the eternal being of their precious ſouls depends.

2. Take heed of ſpending, or rather miſ-ſpending your precious time and thoughts in needleſs Controverſies, in doubtful diſputations. Satan hath not prevailed in any thing like to this. This cauſeth ſiding, and vain names: which adminiſters much fuel to the fire of contention, ſo much blown up by evil ſpirits. Oh what ſtrange and ſtrong conteſts have you uſually met with, about Church-governments? what breaches have been among Brethren about matters of Diſcipline? Have they not (like fooliſh children) thrown dirt into one anothers faces, whiles the common enemy hath weakned and inſulted over them all? I am exceedingly taken with thoſe Divines, who decline (as much as they may) theſe needleſs Controverſies. It is ſaid of Zachary Urſine, that his enemies troubling him and crying out againſt him that he was a Sacramentarian; he ſo naturally abhorred brawls, and in his Judgment ſo diſliked eccleſiaſtical contentions, that he choſe rather to leave Uratiſlave his native place, and to wander whither the Lord ſhould direct him, that he might live in quiet, and preach neceſſary, practical, ſaving truths. None are more apt to fall into Errors, than they that buſie themſelves moſt with unneceſſary, curious, circumſtantial points. In the differences that have been amongſt us about Diſcipline and Eccleſiaſtical Government, it was Mr. Palmer's ſaying, This is the ſatisfying ſtay of my ſoul, that if Diſcipline had been as neceſſary as Doctrine, the All-wiſe, the All-merciful God would not have left the one in the dark, and revealed the other ſo clear: and hence he adviſed all to avoid doubtful diſputations, he lookt on them as the deſign of Satan upon the Saints, which he deſired to impart unto them, and of which he bad them to beware. Of all the Books I ever read about this, I commend that Irenicum lately compoſed by Mr. Stillingfleet.

3. Get an humble heart, and a meek ſpirit: God is ſaid to reveal his ſecrets to babes (i. e.) to the humble and meek; The meek will be guide in judgment, and the meek will he teach his way. God will break his mind to the broken in heart; that is the way to find out any truth in general, and this and that particular point in controverſie: You ſee this in Ezek. 43. 10, 11. Thou ſon of man, ſhew the houſe to the houſe of Iſrael, that they may be aſhamed of their iniquities, and let them meaſure the pattern; and if they be aſhamed of all that they have done, then ſhew them the form of the houſe and the faſhion thereof, and the goings out thereof, and the comings in thereof, and all the forms therof, and all the Ordinances thereof, and all the Laws thereof. Oh what contentions have we about the form of Government in the houſe of God? what firing as Enemies upon one another, who are all Souldiers under the ſame Captain, Chriſt. This makes ſome ſadly think that in moſt diſputes and contendings for the truth, men are rather Satans, than Saints to one another; rather tempters to ſin, than helpers of the graces of each other. O that God would give us humble and meek ſpirits. O that we would ſerve one another, bear one with another, and build up one another in holy faith and love. O that we were once aſhamed of our doings, and of our iniquities. Certainly this were the way to find out the truth of God in every Controverſie.

Pſal. 25. 9.
Ezek. 43. 10, 11.

In this I highly commend Mr. Stillingfleet's ſpirit: his Weapon ſalve for the Churches wounds diſcovers it clearly.

4. Walk anſwerable to thoſe manifeſtations you have, walk in conformity to that meaſure of truth you have received; and when God ſees you faithful in a little, then will he reveal more to you; when he ſees you walk up to the light which he hath made known, then will he reveal his whole mind to you, ſo far as is neceſſary for your ſalvation. You have a plain Scripture for this, Let us therefore as many as be perfect be thus minded; and if in any thing ye be otherwiſe minded, God ſhall reveal even this unto you. As many as be perfect (i.e.) as many as are upright or ſincere; or as many as are perfect, as many as are fully inſtructed in the eſſentials of Chriſtianity, and truly ſtrive for Chriſtian perfection; he ſets them who have well profited in the knowledge of Chriſt, againſt the ruder and more more ignorant ſort, and they may yet come to more Verſe 16. knowledge, only with this Caution, Nevertheleſs, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the ſame rule, let us mind the ſame thing. Let us walk by the ſame rule, (i. e.) Let us walk by the word of God, which is the rule of faith and life, not croſſing one another in our ways of teaching, or courſe of life.

5. Be much converſant in reading and hearing the good Word of God. This is the way that Jeſus Chriſt directed the quarrelling Jew in, to have ſatisfaction of him and his mind, John 5. 39. Search the Scriptures (ſaith he) for they are they which teſtifie of me. There is enough in the Sacred Scriptures to ſet us all ſtraight, and to keep us from Errours, eſpecially in all things neceſſary to Salvation.

Object. But here's an Objection; the Scriptures are capable of divers ſenſes, and one holds forth this to be the ſenſe of Scripture, another holds that which is the clean contrary, and therefore how ſhould we know which is the right ſenſe and the very meaning of the Holy Ghoſt?

Anſw. I anſwer: God hath not left us without ſome helps, whereby we may come to the knowledge of the right ſenſe of Scriptures: I ſhall inſtance in theſe ——

1. Look upon the ſcope, the end, the matter, the circumſtances, viz. of perſons, place, time, together with the antecedents and conſequents, and by this means it will neither be difficult to refute many Errours: nor to clear many truths.

2. Compare one place with another: It may be in one place the ſenſe is dark, and we do not underſtand it; but if we ll compare that place more dark, with another place more clear, we ſhall then find the ſenſe of both. Thus James 2. 21. ſeems dark, but compare this with Rom. 4. 2. and it is cleared. James ſpeaks of a declarative Juſtification before men, and Paul of a Juſtification in the ſight of God.

3. Be ſure that our Expoſitions agree with the analogy of faith. This analogy is the conſtant and perpetual ſenſe of Scripture in the cleareſt places of it; of which ſort are Articles of Faith, the Lord's Prayer, the ten Commandments, whatever is repugnant to theſe, is a falſe Expoſition.

4. Conſult with others, eſpecially with the Comments and Expoſitions of the beſt and moſt Orthodox. But in this take heed of tying your faith to men; be content to take in the light of others, but do not ſhut your own eyes. As there is a publick and authoritative judgment of concord and agreement in Synods, Councils, Aſſemblies; I may call it a Miniſterial judgment, for Councils are not for government, but for unity and communion, and therefore their judgment is a judgment of concord; and as there is a publick and authoritative judgment of direction in the Paſtors and Doctors of the Church, which may be accompanied with a commanding, as an Herald or Purſevant may command in the Princes Name, only this is limited to the ſuperiour direction of the Word of God; ſo there is a judgment of diſcerning what is ſound Doctrine, and this belongs to every Chriſtian ſingly by himſelf, and for himſelf; I may call this a private, rational, ſelf-directive judgment, in the court of every man's Conſcience; 1 Theſſ. 5. 21. of which the Apoſtles ſpeak, Prove all things, and hold faſt to that which is good. And, 1 John. 4. 1. Believe not every ſpirit, but try the ſpirits whether they be of God, yea or no. Rom. 14. 5. And, Let every man be fully perſwaded in his own mind. Certainly every private Chriſtian is to ſearch the Scripture, to examine, prove, try, and judge the mind of God revealed in his word, ſo far as concerns his own faith and practice. So then part not with this, and yet as a means conſult with others, and borrow all the light they can afford you, to guide you and lead you into truth.

5. Mark if your own inward experience will not prove the beſt Commentary unto you. What? do you doubt of the ſenſe of ſuch on ſuch Scriptures, as are indeed practical, and contain in them neceſſary truths? ſurely they that are ſanctified and illuminated by the ſpirit of grace, will find ſomething within, anſwerable to that word without, which will clear up the meaning. Hence we ſay that the Book of Canticles, which treats of that ſpiritual and heavenly fellowſhip, which the ſanctified Soul hath with Chriſt, cannot be throughly underſtood in the true life of it, but by thoſe that are ſanctified: Put a carnal man to it, to tell you the ſence of ſuch Texts as hold forth Regeneration, the power of ſaving faith, the nature of godly ſorrow, the ſenſe of God's ſweeteſt mercies in the remiſſion of ſins, in his favourable countenance, in communion with Chriſt, in the teſtimony of his Spirit, as to our adoption, in the whole art of our ſpiritual warfare, containing the wiles and ſubtil methods of Satan in tempting, with the admirable power of grace and ſpiritual wiſdom in making reſiſtance and overcoming: Alas theſe things are riddles unto him; experience and evidence of them in his own heart he hath none, and therefore it is no wonder if he know not the ſenſe of any ſuch Scriptures. But he that is ſpiritual 1 Cor. 2. 15, 16. diſcerneth all things, he hath the mind of Chriſt writ on his heart, and that work within is his beſt Commentary.

6. Pray over all: Thus David did, Open mine Pſal. 30. 18 eyes (ſaid he) that I may underſtand the wonderful things of thy Law. You read and underſtand not, becauſe you do not pray; if you would profit more you muſt pray more; go therefore to him who hath the keys of David, and deſire him to open, and reveal his mind to you; deſire him (who is the Lamb) to unclaſp the Book, beg of him to take the Veil from off your Hearts, and the Scales from off your Eyes, that you may underſtand the wonders of the Law, and Myſteries of the Goſpel; you have a promiſe that you ſhall be all taught of Joh. 6. 45. God; O turn this Promiſe into a Prayer, and deſire him who only can teach, that he will teach you: This was David's way, (Lead me in thy truth and Pſal. 25. 4, 5. teach me, ſhew me thy ways, O Lord teach me thy paths.)

It may be you will ſay, we have been in the uſe of all theſe means, and yet we find the Scripture is not eaſily underſtood. —— I confeſs it is not in many places, and yet in things neceſſary it is every where plain enough; and where it is not plain enough, if we only uſe our diligence in the uſe of means, though we do miſs the truth, there is no danger; How? no danger? No (ſaith Chillingworth) becauſe nothing is neceſſary to be believed, but what is plainly revealed: For to ſay, that when a place of Scripture, by reaſon of ambiguous terms, lies indifferent between divers ſenſes, whereof one is true, and this other is falſe; that God obliges men under pain of damnation not to miſtake through error and human frailty, is to make God a Tyrant, and to ſay that he requires us certainly to attain that end, for the attaining whereof we have no certain means; which is to ſay, that like Pharaoh, he gives no Straw, and requires Brick, that he reaps where he ſows not, that he gathers where he ſtrows not, that he will not be pleaſed with our utmoſt endeavours to pleaſe him, without full, and exact, and never failing performance; that his will is we ſhould do, what he knows we cannot do; that he will not accept of us according to that which we have, but requireth of us what we have not; which whether it can conſiſt with his Goodneſs, Wiſdom, Word, I leave it to honeſt men to judge. Much more might be ſaid to this aſſault of Satan, but through the bleſſing of God this may ſuffice.

Sect. 23. Of Satan's Aſſaults to bring ſtrong Chriſtians to boaſt and pride themſelves in their own ſtrength.

IF Christians are ſtrong in Grace, then Satan tempts them to boaſt and pride themſelves in their ſtrength of grace already received. Thus he dealt with Peter when he made that Bravado, Though all ſhould forſake thee, yet would not I. And (as if this were the great deſign of the Devil in theſe times) thus he hath dealt with thouſands: Not that ſtrong Chriſtians do profeſſedly, ordinarily, or in right mood either boaſt or pride themſelves in their mighty ſtrength; this were not compatible with true Grace, in any meaſure; but in the hour of temptation Satan goes far in prevailing with them; and Peter may be an inſtance how far the Saints may yield to the Devil in this very ſin; and indeed it is rare to find a ſtrong Chriſtian that is not at ſome time or other puft up with an over-weening conceit of his own abilities. But this aſſault of Pride I have already ſpoke to: And the general rules of wreſtling with it, may well ſerve to keep down our Spirits from boaſting or priding our ſelves in the ſtrength of Grace already received: Only I ſhall add theſe few Directions more.

Sect. 24. Of our wreſtling with Satan as to this Aſſault.

1. COnſider, if thou art conceited of thy ſtrength of Grace, it is the ready way to make thee grow looſe and negligent in thy duty; nay its well if it bring thee not further, even to the deſpiſing of Holy Ordinances, except thou haſt ſome more courtly fare than ordinary: Such a paſs were the Corinthians come to, Now ye are full, now ye are rich, ye reign like Kings without us. 1 Cor.4.8. One obſerves well, how the Apoſtle lays the accent of theſe words on the Particle Now: Now ye are full, q. d. I know the time, when if Paul had but come to Town, and if news had been ſpread abroad in the City that Paul was to preach, you would have flockt to have heard him, and you would have bleſſed God for the ſeaſon, but then you were poor and empty; but Now ye are full, now ye are rich, now ye reign like Kings without us: Now ye have got to an higher attainment, Paul is a plain fellow now; he may carry his chear to an hungry people if he will; but as for your parts you are well apaid. Thus the Apoſtle ſpeaks by way of an Ironical reproof, to make way for his following exhortation to humility, exemplified by himſelf and his mean condition, and oh that we had not the like occaſion to ſpeak to ſome, who perſwade themſelves they want nothing more of our help, who extol themſelves above all others as a King in his Kingdom: the worſt we wiſh you, is this; I would to God ye did reign in deed and truth, but alas, if once thou art conceited of thy ſtrength, it is to be feared the next news we hear of thee will be ſad, either thou wilt be above Ordinances, or thou wilt grow looſe and negligent in them; we have had woful experience of this

2. Conſider an over-weening conceit of thy own ſtrength of Grace, will make thee too bold and preſumptuous. Mr. Gurnal tells us, The humble Chriſtian, is the wary Chriſtian, he knows his weakneſs, and this makes him afraid. I have a weak Head (ſaith he) I may ſoon be diſputed into an Errour and Hereſie, and therefore I dare not come where ſuch ſtuff is broached, leſt my weak head ſhould be intoxicated: On the other ſide, the confident man he'll ſip of every Cup, he fears no poiſon, he is ſo eſtabliſh'd in the truth, that the whole team of Hereticks ſhall not draw him aſide. I have a vain light heart, ſaith the humble Soul, I dare not come among wicked debauch'd company, leſt I ſhould at laſt bring the naughty man home with me: but one conceited of the ſtrength of his Grace, dares venture into the Devil's Quartars; as Peter into the rout of Chriſt's Enemies, and how he came off you know, there his faith had been ſlain on the place had not Chriſt ſounded a retreat by the ſeaſonable look of love he gave him. It was a bold ſpeech of Mr. Clapham and yet a good man (as my Author ſaith) If Clapham die of the Plague, ſay Clapham had no Faith; and this made him boldly go among the infected.

3. Conſider, a conceit of thy ſtrength of Grace will make thee cruel to thy weak Brethren in their infirmities; and ſurely this ſin leaſt becomes a Saint; it is the Apoſtle's counſel, If a man be overtaken Gal. 6. 1 in a fault, ye which are ſpiritual, reſtore ſuch a one in the ſpirit of meekneſs: But how ſhall a Soul get ſuch a meek Spirit? it follows, Conſidering thy ſelf, leſt thou alſo be tempted. Why are men ſo ſharp in their Cenſures, but becauſe they truſt too much to their Grace, as if they could never fall? it was otherwiſe with Bernard, how when he heard of any ſcandalous ſin of a Profeſſor, hodie illi, cras mihi, would he ſay, he fell to day, and I may ſtumble to morrow.

4. Turn the Eye from the fruitleſs and dangerous ſpeculation of thy own worthineſs, and faſten it a while upon thy corruption and infirmities, upon thy many deficiences in Religious Duties, wants and weakneſſes in Prayer, omiſſions of occaſions for the enlarging of the Kingdom of Chriſt, fear of the vain and wretched imputations of Worldlings, and out of this conſideration thou wilt be ſo far from ſelf-conceitedneſs of thy own Gifts and Graces, that thou wilt find much matter, and juſt cauſe, to renew thy repentance, to continue thy humiliation, and to ſtand upon the guard againſt this Spiritual Pride.

5. Conſider the ſtrongeſt Chriſtian hath not his ſtrength in himſelf, but only in Chriſt; I live, yet Gal. 2.22 not I, but Chriſt liveth in me. As all the Myrrh, and Odours, and Inſtruments of Heſter's Purification, and all her rich and coſtly Apparel, were given Eſt. 2. 15, 17. her out of the King's Houſe, and the Royal Crown was put upon her head by the King's own hand: So all the purity and perfection, all the Righteouſneſs and Holineſs, all the dignity and excellency of an holy gracious Soul is drawn from Chriſt, he, and only he is the root by whom the Chriſtian is ſuſtained, the ſpring, by whom the Chriſtian is repleniſhed, the Sun, by whom the Chriſtian is enlightned, the Garment, by whom the Chriſtian is clad and covered; whatſoever Goodneſs, Grace, or Excellency is in a Chriſtian, it is Chriſt's, and not his own; and this Paul was willing to acknowledge: He was not aſhamed (ſaith one wittily) to let the World know, that Chriſt carried his Purſe for him, Not that we are ſuffici- 2 Cor.3.5 ent of our ſelves to think any thing as of our ſelves, but our ſufficiency is of God: Yea, after many years Phi'.3. 13, 14. trading, this holy man ſees nothing he had got, I count not my ſelf to have apprehended; he is ſtill preſſing forward, I preſs towards the mark, for the price of the high calling of God in Jeſus Chriſt. How then is it, that the ſtrongeſt Chriſtian, be he never ſo ſtrong ſhould have high thoughts, and an arrogant opinion of himſelf? What is this but to rob God of his Glory, and Chriſt of his Grace? May'ſt thou not ſay of every dram of Grace, as the young man of his Hatchet, Alas Maſter, it was borrowed? Oh! Why ſhould'ſt thou be lifted up on this account? ſhall the Dunghil boaſt becauſe the Sun ſhines on it? Shall the Chriſtian admire himſelf, becauſe the Son of Righteouſneſs hath ſhined on him? Oh God forbid!

6. Conſider, the ſtronger thou art in Grace, the more humbly and ſubmiſſively ſhould'ſt thou carry thy ſelf; the old rule of quanto doctior may well here take place, quanto ſanctior es, tanto te geras ſubmiſſius? By how much the more Holy, by ſo much the more lowly. Was not Chriſt, the faireſt of all the Children of men, (Grace being eminently poured into him) an humbled Chriſt? and may we not thence learn, that the higheſt excellency, and the greateſt humility, may conſiſt together? Many think, that to be lowly and humble, would argue too mean and abject a Spirit for a ſtrong Chriſtian; but was ever Spirit ſo truly heroical, and ſo eminently gracious as Chriſt's Spirit? and yet never was ſuch an humble lowly Spirit in this World; men are miſtaken in this thing, for a proud Spirit, is the baſe Spirit, and an humble Spirit, is the raiſed Spirit, Humility is the Grace that puts a Varniſh, Luſtre, Beauty, Glory, on all other Graces; and therefore ſaith the Apo- 1 Pet. 5.5. ſtle to ſtrong Chriſtians, Be cloathed with humility; the propriety of the word ſignifies a cloathing or dreſſing with Ribbons, with fine beautiful Ornaments: It is the beautiful Ornament of a Chriſtian, and of all the Graces of a Chriſtian, it puts off Grace, and every action with a Grace, it graceth all Graces whatſoever, and therefore by how much the more holy, by ſo much the more humbly ſhouldſt thou carry thy ſelf.

7. Conſider the ſtrength of the ſtrongeſt Chriſtian grows ſuitable to his ſtrength in humility; if he be humbled, this makes him profitable under afflictions as the Vine under the hand of the Pruner dreſſing it: this makes him capable of the Word of God, as the broken ground is of Seed, and the empty Veſſel is of Water; this makes Chriſt very welcome and aimable in the eye of the Soul the faireſt of ten thouſands; this diſpoſeth man to every Duty, makes the yoke of Chriſt very eaſie, the Soul never thrives more, than when it is humble under the ſtrength which God hath given it; he fills the hungry with good things; but on the other ſide, if thy heart begin to ſwell, it is time for God to hold his hand, and turn the Cock, for all that is poured on ſuch a Soul, runs over into ſelf-applauding, and is good for nothing: A proud Heart, and a lofty Mountain, are never fruitful; ſuch a one goes backward, and not forward, he ſpends on the old ſtock, and drives no trade at preſent to bring in more: O the difference betwixt a Chriſtian humble and one grown proud and inſolent! when humble, he prayed in the ſenſe of his own weakneſs to get ſtrength, but when proud, he prays to ſhew his ſtrength, that others may admire him. And O the Juſtice, if Hezekiah-like, he once calls in Spectators to ſee his Treaſure, that God takes away his Treaſure. Indeed if God love him, he may well take that away from him, which takes away his Heart from God, and ſo make him humble, that he may become more ſtrong.

Sect. 25. Of Satan's injections by himſelf.

SAtan's next aſſaults we call injections, which are only and immediately by himſelf: Theſe uſually are Satan's reſerves; when his other aſſaults prove unſucceſsful, then he opens this Quiver, and ſends a ſhower of theſe Arrows to ſet the Soul on flame, if not of ſin, yet of terrour and horrour: Theſe injections are terribilia de fide, horribilia de Divinitate; terrible things of Faith, and horrible things concerning God. We may call them Blaſphemies, blaſphemous thoughts, which the Devil throws into the fantaſie, infinitely againſt our wills, and by which he ſets all within on fire; they are ſhot in like thunderbolts, as thick and quick as can be imagined, and they cauſe a trembling, even to Fleſh as well as the Spirit, ſeeing there is neither pleaſure nor profit in them, but a fearful expectation of ſpeedy vengeance. But you may wonder, are ever Chriſtians, Profeſſors, Saints, troubled with ſuch aſſaults as theſe? I anſwer, yes, the moſt holy Hearts are many times moſt haunted with theſe horrours: it was bleſſed Bolton's ſaying, That ſtrangers to the ways of God, are not much troubled in this kind, or ordinarily vexed with ſuch horrours: Satan makes as much of his in this world as he can poſſibly, knowing that he hath time enough, even Eternity it ſelf, to torment them in the world to come; and therefore he is not wont to weild this terrifying weapon againſt them, ſave only at ſome dead lift or upon ſome ſpecial advantage, as under ſome extraordinary miſery, or in exceſs of melancholy, to drive them thereby to diſtraction, or deſpair, or to hinder converſion, by a diverſion into by-ways: But ſure I am (ſaith he) the ordinary object, and ſpecial aim of Satan's malice in this point, are only thoſe who happily eſcaped out of his clutches, already have, and are fully, and for ever freed from his damning fury and all deadly hurt. And I know not whether there be any of theſe, which do not leſs or more, at one time or other, ſuffer under this horrour; and yet every one of them thinks himſelf ſingular in this ſuffering, and that it is not uſual for God's Children to have ſuch prodigiouſly foul and fearful thoughts put into their heads which they dare not mention for their abhorred monſtrouſneſs, neither think of at any time without trembling. I remember I was ſometimes told, that in a Lecture ſet up at London againſt the Jewiſh Religion, and for the converſion of that people, holy Mr. Vines preaching his turn, he argued ſtrongly againſt the Jews in their horrid Blaſphemies of Jeſus Chriſt. In concluſion of his Sermon, he ſeemed to recollect himſelf, ſaying, but to whom preach I? to Jews or Chriſtians? If none be here but Chriſtians to what purpoſe ſhall I refell theſe Jewiſh Blaſphemies? Ah (ſaid he) have Chriſtians no need of ſuch Sermons? are not Chriſtians ſometimes troubled with Satan's injections of this nature againſt the Divinity of Jeſus Chriſt? Alas! for my own part, I know not how to clear my ſelf, but that I tell you, I would kiſs the feet of him that would bring me theſe glad tidings that I ſhould never more be troubled with theſe injections, that Jeſus Chriſt is not the Meſſiah, or that Jeſus Chriſt is not God. The Congregation being very throng, and hearing this they gave out a groan, as if it had run through the Congregation, and had been the groan only of one man; the Relator being preſent, and affected with it, he told me, he ſuppoſed the meaning of that groan was this, q. d. If thou that ſpeakeſt, a knowing godly Divine, art afraid of theſe Blaſphemies, how much more may we?

Sect. 26. Of our wreſtling with Satan as to this Aſſault.

IN this caſe that we may prevail againſt Satan, let us learn theſe Leſſons. As ———

1. Let us learn (or at leaſt endeavour it) that we may diſtinguiſh Satan's injections, and thoſe temptations bubling up from our own Heart: Certainly there is a difference, if we could but know, betwixt thoſe fire-balls which are thrown in at our Windows by Satan, and thoſe ſparks of corruption which fly (as it were) from our own Heart, and take fire at our own ſinful Hearts. Theſe differences are not agreed on by all, and yet ſome inward, powerful, ſpiritual men, lay them down thus. ———

Gurnal. Arrowſmith.

1. They may be differenc'd by the time when they begin to ſtir. All the while a man is a ſtranger to God, and Chriſt, he is not troubled with ſuch Blaſphemies, or at leaſt he is not ordinarily aſſaulted in this manner; but when once the work of Converſion hath newly paſſed, or is now paſſing upon the man, when he is coming out of Nature to Grace, and declares for Jeſus Chriſt againſt Sin and Satan, then is the time, when ordinarily theſe blaſphemous Suggeſtions begin to make their apparition, and theſe Virmin are ſeen to crawl in the Chriſtian's Boſom, a ſtrong probability, that they do not breed there, but are ſent by Satan, in a way of revenge, for the Soul's revolt from him.

2. They may be differenc'd by the manner how theſe blaſphemies ariſe in Chriſtian's thoughts; Satan's injections are uſually violent and ſudden, they come like lightning flaſhing into the Chriſtian's thoughts, before he hath time to deliberate with himſelf, what he is doing; whereas that luſt, which is the ebullition of our own hearts, is ordinarily gradual in its motion, it moves in a way more ſtill and ſuitable to nature, it inticeth the Soul, and by degrees ſlightly inveigles it into a conſent.

3. They may be differenc'd by the effects; for Satan's injections uſually have a diſmal horrour and conſternation on the Chriſtian's ſpirit, which reacheth often to the diſcompoſure of the body; whereas that luſt which is our own, uſeth to pleaſe us better: We naturally like the conceptions of our own mind, as we naturally love the Children of our own Loins.

I know ſome others approve not of theſe differences, for neither the time, nor their violence, nor their ſuddenneſs, nor their independency (which ſome alſo make a difference) nor their horrour, nor their unnatural conſternation, or terrour, are ſo proper to Satan's injections, as that our luſts may not partake of all theſe accidents: To ſay that our luſts may not puſh out on a ſudden, or be independent, or that they may not be unnatural or terrible, is hard, ſaith Mr. Capel. Theſe differences therefore we lay down but as topical and not as demonſtrative: It were happy, if we could be abſolutely reſolved, that all our blaſphemous thoughts were injections of Satan, and not from our luſts; for then we might ſay, they were Satan's ſins not ours, ſo long as we are paſſive, and not active in them: And therefore I ſee no reaſon but we may ſtudy the point, though it be a work too hard for moſt men to find out.

2. Let us beat them back ſo well as we may, let us never conſent, or approve of them, and we are ſafe: This may comfort us, whether they come from Satan, or our ſelves; and upon this ground ſome would not have us perplex our ſelves too much with needleſs Queries, which thoughts be Satan's, and which be ours; for if we reject them, whether they come from him or us, they are not at all imputed to us. The rule runs thus; That only is ours which we accept and aſſent unto; when I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, ſaith Paul; therefore no more is imputed by God, than is ſeen and allowed by us; if it come from Satan it is no ſin of ours at all; if it come from our luſts, ſin it is materially, but not formally, for the guilt is done away in that we do not allow it, but abhor it. John Climachus tells a ſtory of one, who being aſſaulted with a ſpirit of Blaſphemy for twenty years, he writ a Letter to a good old man of his ſad condition; the matter being ſifted, and found out that the poor Monk had been long aſſaulted, but during that time, had prayed and faſted, was ſenſible of it, but never conſented to it; the old Saint fell a laughing, and coming to the tempted perſon, whom he found grovelling on the ground, Come (ſaid he) ſtand up, and lay thine hand upon my head, which when he had done, thy ſin (ſaid the old Soldier of Chriſt) be upon me, for the time paſt, and time to come; which no ſooner ſaid, but the ſickly tempted man grew healthy and ſtrong, his diſeaſe both chronick and accute, immediately vaniſhed, his mind was ſetled, and Satan avoided: It is the concurrent Judgment of our beſt Divines, that blaſphemous thoughts reſiſted, and not conſented unto, are not our ſins but our croſſes: or ſuppoſe there be any tainture on our parts, yet condemning them in our judgments, and abhorring them with our Hearts, Chriſt's precious blood takes away the venom of all. It was good Divinity, though but ill Poetry, Tentans non lædit, niſi cum tentatus obedit.

Rom. 7:20.

Scalæ Paradiſi gradu 23.

3. Let us not diſpute or reaſon the caſe with Satan, but at the very firſt approach bid Satan avoid: Thus Chriſt did, when Satan tempted him to fall down and worſhip him, Avoid Satan, ſaith Chriſt: The Devil is an old Sophiſter, of above five thouſand years ſtanding, in the School of hideous temptations, and helliſh polices; and we are but Novices of yeſterday, and but a little acquainted with his methods, devices, and depths; and therefore if we will debate this matter with the Devil, we may be more and more confounded; ſurely it is better to bid Satan avaunt; inſtead of diſputing, there ſhould be loathing, our Hearts within us ſhould riſe at the injection, and throw it away with deteſtation, as Chriſt Jeſus did, and then will Satan depart, as leaſt for a ſeaſon, as he did from Chriſt.

4. During the hour and power of darkneſs, avoid ſolitarineſs and deſart places, there Satan hath the greateſt advantage for all his aſſaults. Is not this the meaning of the Preacher? Two are better better than one, and wo be to him that is alone, if he fall, he hath none to help him up. When Chriſt was to be tempted of the Devil, the ſpirit led him into the Wilderneſs: And why into the Wilderneſs, but that Satan might have all the advantage againſt him, in reſpect of the place? Indeed, no place is free from Satan's temptations, Lot was caught in a Cave, David on his Houſe, Adam in Paradice: We ſee how buſie Satan is with us in our publick Aſſemblies, yet of all places, none ſo fit for the Devil as ſolitary places; when he is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry (or ſolitary) places; and while he is in a man by way of poſſeſſion, he carries him into the Wilderneſs, or ſolitary places: When did Satan aſſault Eve, but when ſhe was alone? When did he aſſault David, but being alone on his Gallery? When Lot's Daughters, but when they were alone in the Cave? He is a Prince of darkneſs, and therefore paſſeth all his exploits in as much darkneſs, ſecreſie, and ſilence as he can. I might inſtance in * others; but give me leave to ſpeak a little of my own experiences in this kind, much of my time I have ſpent in eminently famous and publick places, but at laſt weary of thoſe hurries, jars, envies, pride, diſcord, and policies of men in Streets and Towns, I reſolved to ſpend the remainder of my time, for the moſt part, in the ſilent Gardens, Fields, and Woods; there ſometimes I was taken with the various tunes of melodious Birds, and occaſionally they have lifted up my Heart in ſpiritual Songs, and Pſalms, and Hymns: But alas, I find theſe places are not freer from temptations, then they that are more publick; Satan hath his temptations of another ſort, and eſpecially his moſt hideous and horrible injections in ſuch places more than publick. And this more reſolves me than all the Arguments that ever I read, of the errour of thoſe Eremites and Votaries of old, who, to free themſelves from Satan's malice, and for more holineſs, voluntarily forſook the ſocieties of men, and lived by themſelves in woods and wilderneſſes; And yet is there no mean betwixt theſe two extreams? is not ſociety good? and is not ſolitarineſs good in their times and ſeaſons? I dare not for a world deny either, and I think he is no Chriſtian that makes not uſe of both: Hence I ſay, that in the very time of the aſſaults, or of Satan's injections, it is good to avoid ſolitarineſs, as of choice; yet if God, by vertue of our calling, ſhall draw or lead us into ſolitary places at ſuch a time, we need not fear, Jeſus Chriſt was lead of the ſpirit into the wilderneſs, to be tempted of the Devil. If we are led into a wilderneſs by Divine Providence, and in our calling, and that we run not our ſelves raſhly into a temptation, we may confidently expect a comfortable iſſue out of it. But herein we had need of caution and direction. 1. For caution, beware that in ſolitary places we yield not to roving, ranging thoughts, the time there ſpent muſt not be unprofitably ſpent: Indeed, the heart is a wandring thing, like a Mill ever grinding, ever in a motion, take heed then, watch over it, give it not leave to muſe unprofitably. 2. For direction, carry we our ſelves ſo in ſolitary places, that we may ſay with Scipio, we are never leſs alone, than when we are alone; or rather with Chriſt, I am not alone, for the Father is with me. There is a ſweet liberty (when we are ſolitary) of converſing with God, there may we make our addreſſes to him, and ſharpen our prayers, and meditate on him, and on his word and works: And thus in a wilderneſs we may have ſafety, for as the hills compaſs Jeruſalem, ſo doth the Lord compaſs his people, whiles they are in his ſervice.

John 16. 32.

5. We muſt have a care to avoid idleneſs, holy exerciſes, and the duties of our lawful callings ſhould then be our work: For holy exerciſe, I commend conferences with others, to ask counſel, to acquieſce in counſel well given, is a preſent Cure: Prayer alſo is a duty taught us by Chriſt, Lord ſuffer us not to be led into temptation, q. d. Lord rebuke Satan, and reſtrain his malice, that either he may not caſt his helliſh wild-fire of blaſphemous thoughts into our minds, or at leaſt that they may be quenched at their firſt entrance, and not inflame our concupiſcence with the leaſt liking of them. And for our particular callings, follow them with all diligence; by this means we ſhall have no leiſure to hearken to Satan, and in them ſeaſonably we ſerve God our Father, as well as in our general callings.

6. If for all this we cannot be rid of theſe ſad injections, be we not therefore over-much grieved, but ſeeing they are Satan's ſins, and not ours, let them paſs as they come, without any great trouble. Some of bold ſpirits tell us, that in this caſe we may deride Satan, not haughtily, but holily, as if we ſhould ſay, Sir Satan, thou unclean ſpirit, if thou couldſt do me any greater miſchief, I know thou wouldſt do it, but I regard thee not, for I call on God as my helper againſt all thy aſſaults. The proud Devil cannot endure himſelf to be contemned, and this holy contempt of Satan, hath proved the cure of ſome poor tempted ſouls as * Gerſon affirms.

CHAP. V. SECT. I.

Of the Devil's furious Aſſaults in the End and Period of our Life.

THE fourth and laſt period wherein Satan aſſaults or combats with us, it is in the end and period of our life; and in proſecution of this, firſt we learn ſome of thoſe depths or wiles of Satan againſt us, and then practiſe we thoſe duties that concern us in our wreſtling with him at ſuch a time.

His aſſaults are uſually ſharpeſt then, thus * one tells us, Amidſt the variety of Satan's methods, he is for the moſt part conſtant in one piece of policy, and that is this, he conceals his greateſt fury, his moſt deſperate aſſault unto the laſt; he reſerves his fierest dart, his deadlieſt poyſon, his ſharpeſt ſting, until he meet us on our Deaths-bed. Another of our Worthies, agrees with him, As evil ſpirits are ever buſie and reſtleſs in their aſſaults, ſo their laſt conflicts uſe to be moſt vehement, whether it be for that now the Soul is paſſing out of their reach, or whether it be for that the painful agonies of death yield them more hopes of advantage, ſince the Soul, whiles it is ſtrugling with thoſe laſt pangs, muſt needs have her powers diſtracted in her reſiſtances: Cruelty, where it would prevail, will be ſure to lay moſt load upon the weaker. I have often wondred, why all the Saints are not then moſt troubled; ſome we ſee paſs out of the world without any moleſtation, but it is not for want of Satan's Will, God hath him in a Chain, and rebukes Satan, and the holy Angels guard the Saints and keep off Devils, otherwiſe I believe not one ſhould paſs out of this world, but Satan would aſſault him with all his fiery darts, yet as he tempts all in life, ſo it is the Lord's pleaſure that in death he ſhould have a liberty to fall on ſome, and them he aſſaults with his fiereſt dart, his deadlieſt poyſon, his ſharpeſt ſting indeed; and of ſome of theſe I ſhall ſpeak.

* Bolton's diſcourſe of happineſs.

Sect. 2. Of the ſeveral Aſſaults of Satan at our death.

BUT what are thoſe deadly machinations which the Devil uſeth at this time? Here we are at a ſtand: Alas, we know not the ſecret projects of ſilly men like our ſelves, much leſs can we attain unto the underſtanding of all the infernal plots of ſubtil Devils; ſuch knowledge is too wonderful for us, our clew hath not line enough to fathom theſe depths of Satan, yet (as golden mouth'd Hall) Though we be not able to deſcry thoſe infinite and hidden particularities of diabolical arts, yet our woful experience and obſervation hath taught us ſome general heads of theſe miſchievous practices. I cannot ſay I can tell you any of their aſſaults at ſuch a time by my own experience, for I have not yet paſſed thoſe pikes and pangs of death, yet may I bring in the experiences of others, and ſo gueſs at the variety of Satan's aſſaults at the point of death. For inſtance, ſome he moves to an ungrounded confidence in God, others to a diſtruſt, where they have ſure grounds of true belief; ſome he works to a ſpiritual pride, and over-weaning opinion, others to a defectedneſs of ſpirit, ſo that they cry; Why art thou caſt down, O my Soul? Into ſome he throws many needleſs ſcruples, affrighting them even from lawful actions; into others he darts preſumptuous thoughts, that nothing ſtartles them, be it never ſo wicked; ſome he ſmooths up in the good opinion of their graces, or gracious diſpoſition; others he beats down with a diſparagement of the true graces planted in them by God's own Spirit; ſome he feeds with a ſweet contentment of their own righteouſneſs and gracious actings, others he endeavours to freeze up with a dulneſs and deadneſs in all their duties; ſome he flatters with an unfallible aſſurance of their happy condition, and of their Election unto glory; others he tempts to a careleſs indifferency, and ſtupid neglect of their future eſtate; ſome he objects againſt, in that the meaſure of their ſorrow and contrition is unſufficient: others he perſwades, that the leaſt velleity of penitent ſorrow, without ſtraining it to any further afflictive degrees of ſorrow for ſin, is ſorrow enough; into ſome he throws flaſhes of hell fire, and preſents death to them as the King of terrors: others he turns into ſtocks and ſtones ſo that they mind neither Death, nor Judgment, nor Heaven, nor Hell, nor any thing of that eternity that is before them. But becauſe I ſpeak only of Believers, and their aſſaults, this I obſerve, that moſt-what he either tempts to preſumption or deſpair, either he puffs up poor ſouls with ſome ungrounded preſumptions of preſent ſifety, and future glory, or he caſts undue and unjuſt fears into the conſciences of them that are moſt tender and weak; and therefore paſſing by all the reſt, I ſhall take notice only of theſe two aſſaults, and give directions how to wreſtle againſt them.

Sect. 3. Of the Aſſaults of Preſumption.

1. IF Satan takes this courſe to tempt us to Preſumption, it is uſually on this principle, that our lives have been holy, that we have walked before God in truth, and with a perfect heart, and have done that which is good in his ſight. I will not deny but this may be done: Hezekiah is not condemned, but commended in this very ſaying; our duties, and graces, and gracious actings, as to the matter of ſanctification, are precious metal, and as they have the Image of Chriſt upon them, and for them we may bleſs the Name of God; but as to the matter of Juſtification, we are to renounce all; and as to the matter of Sanctification, we are to attribute the ſtrength, the power, and the glory of all unto Jeſus Chriſt, and nothing to our ſelves. If either we truſt to them, or reſt on them, or expect ſalvation in them, or by them or pride our ſelves in the exerciſe of them on our dying beds, it is Satan's temptation, and we had need to look to it, and avoid it.

Sect. 4. Of our wreſtling with Satan in this reſpect.

WHich that we may, let us obſerve theſe Rules.

1. Conſider, whatſoever good we have done, or howſoever holy we have been, it was not of our ſelves, but of the free gift and grace of God in Chriſt: What have we that we have not received? and if we have received it, why do we glory, as if we had not received it? 1 Cor.4.7. It is ſtoried of Mr. Knox, that the night before his death, he ſlept ſome hours with great unquietneſs, often ſighing and groaning, whereupon when he awaked, the ſtanders by asked him how he did, and what it was that made him mourn ſo heavily? to whom he anſwered, “In my life time I have been aſſaulted with temptations from Satan, and he hath oft caſt my ſins into my teeth to drive me to deſpair, yet God gave me ſtrength to overcome all his temptations. But now the ſubtle Serpent takes another courſe, and ſeeks to perſwade me, that all my labours in the miniſtry, and the fidelity that I have ſhewed in that ſervice, hath merited heaven and immortality; but bleſſed be God that brought to my mind theſe Scriptures: What haſt thou that thou haſt not received? and not I, but the grace of God in me, &c. With which he is gone away aſhamed, and ſhall no more return. And now I am ſure that my battel is at an end, and that without pain of body, or trouble of ſpirit, I ſhall ſhortly change this mortal and miſerable life, with that happy and immortal life that ſhall never have an end. Oh that thus it may be with us, that God's grace may be all, and we may be nothing: We are not ſufficient of our ſelves to think any thing as of our ſelves, but all our ſufficiency is of God. 2 Cor.3.5.

2. Reſt not on any thing on this ſide Jeſus Chriſt; neither grace, nor duties, nor holineſs, are to be truſted upon: It is true, we muſt hold them faſt, in point of practice and obedience, but it is our ſin and danger to hold them faſt in reliance and confidence; do them we muſt, but glory in them we muſt not; we may remember on our death beds what we have done, and how holy we have been in obedienee to God, and by the grace of Chriſt; yea, we may go further, and deſire God to remember us concerning them: Remember me, O my God, concerning this alſo, and ſpare me according to the greatneſs of thy mercy: Neh. 13. 21. Nehemiah had done many good offices to the Church of God, and he deſires of God to remember him in reſpect of them; Think upon me, my God, for good, according to all I have done for this people: Neh.5.16. yet we are not to boaſt of them, to truſt in them, or to expect a reward for them, it is not propter but ſecundum, not for all I have done, but according to all I have done: As Chriſt will reward his Saints according to their works, ſo Nehemia prays, Lord, Matth. 16. 17. think upon me according to all I have done, as being the beſt witneſſes of my inward righteouſneſs, but not for what I have done, as if I ſhould merit heaven by my juſt deſervings. Our Saviour tells us, When we have done all we can do, that ſtill we muſt ſay, we are but unprofitable ſervants: Luke 17. 10. How! unprofitable; this title is given to evil ſervants, Caſt ye the unprofitable ſervant into utter darkneſs; and they are all unprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one. Certainly this ſhews what our merits are, if God ſhould be ſevere: Matth. 29. 30. Rom. 3. 12. Can a man be profitable unto God? If thou be righteous, what giveſt thou him? or what receiveth he of thy hands? Job 21 2. 35. 7. Take heed then of reſting on, or truſting to any righteouſneſs or works of thy own, they are no cauſe of heaven, and therefore not to be conſided in.

3. Roll we our ſelves on Chriſt, and Chriſt alone, for life and for ſalvation. Bellarmine could ſay, after all his diſputes for relying on works, on Saints, and Angels, tutius eſt, &c. the ſafeſt way is to rely on Jeſus Chriſt, Works, Saints, and Angels, may be ſome comfort in their way, and at time of death. I would have an eſpecial eye to Angel protection, of which afterwards; yet I muſt needs ſay, that Faith is not content with the preſence and aſſiſtance of an Angel, except the Lord Jeſus Chriſt be there himſelf. When God promiſed to ſend an Angel with his people to drive out Exod. 33. 4. the Canaanites, the Iſraelites mourned, and no man put on his ornaments; they put on blacks, like a loving Wife that would have her Husband: What do you tell her of ſending a truſty ſervant with her? nothing will content her but her Husband: So when our Faith is ſet on work, it makes us but ſick to tell us of an Angel, except we may have Chriſt Jeſus alſo, him or none, he is our righteouſ- Pſal. 57.3. neſs, and he will be ſure to be our ſtrength: At what time I am afraid (ſaith David) I will truſt in thee. Indeed all the Saints are taught the ſame Leſſon, to renounce their own righteouſneſs, and to expect all from the pure mercy of God in Chriſt, which act of faith is ſo pleaſing to God, that ſuch a ſoul ſhall never be aſhamed. A heathen could ſay, when a Bird ſcared by a Hawk flew into his Boſom, I will not betray thee unto thy enemy, ſeeing thou comeſt for ſanctuary unto me: How much leſs will God yield up a ſoul unto its enemy, when it takes ſanctuary in his Name, ſaying, Lord, I am troubled with ſuch and ſuch a temptation, but I truſt in thee, I reſt upon thee for life and for ſalvation: O take me into the boſom of thy love for Chriſt's ſake! O caſt me into the arms of thy everlaſting ſtrength! I have no confidence in my ſelf, or any other, into thy hands I commit my cauſe, my life, my ſoul, or whether I live or die, here will I ſtick, and here will I abide for ever. Oh bleſſed Soul, that thus avoids Satan, and rolls it ſelf on Chriſt, and Chriſt alone for its eternal happineſs.

Sect. 5. Of the Aſſaults of deſpair.

But Satan (it may be) takes another courſe, if men will not preſume, he endeavours with might and main to drive them to deſpair: this is the Gulph that ſwallows up ſouls, and therefore Satan makes ſure, if he can but prevail in this aſſault; and to that end, he ſets before their eyes all the groſs ſins which ever they commited, and all the judgments which thoſe ſins have deſerved; Theſe he writes (as it were) on the Curtains of their Beds, and endeavours as much as he can to keep their eyes upon them, q. d. Read here the bloody characters of thy ſcarlet ſin, peruſe the greatneſs, the multitude, the heinouſneſs of thy tranſgreſſions; the word is, that no unclean thing ſhall enter into the Kingdom of God; and canſt thou hope with Rev. 21. 27. all thy ſins to paſs through thoſe golden gates? there ſhall in no wiſe enter into them any thing that defileth, neither whatſoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lye; and ſtandeſt not thou guilty of all theſe ſins? What hope then to enter through thoſe gates into the City? Come, deſpair and dye, expect nothing but the wrath of the Judge, and the wages of ſin, viz death eternal, both of body and ſoul.

Thus Satan tempts, he knows that he muſt now or never prevail, for if their Soul once go to heaven, he ſhall never vex nor trouble them any more.

Sect. 6. Of our wreſtling with Satan as to this laſt Aſſault.

To this laſt aſſault of deſpair, I have ſpoken before in Chap. 3. Sect. 5. which in this caſe may be reviewed, yet a few conſiderations I ſhall add here, and then I have done.

1. Conſider, it is as eaſie with God, upon true repentance, to forgive the greateſt ſin as the leaſt, and he is as willing to forgive many, as to pardon one, and his mercy ſhineth more in pardoning great ſinners, than ſmall offenders; as appears in the examples of Manaſſes, Magdalen, Peter, Paul, &c. Moreover, the Law entred, that the offence might Rom. 5. 20. abound, but where ſin abounded, grace did much more abound. O bleſſed Word.

2. Conſider, that Chriſt is the remedy appointed by God the Father to ſave ſinful ſouls; if then Satan tell us we are miſerable ſinners, and muſt deſpair, we may anſwer, Chriſt came into the world to ſave ſinners, Mat. 9. 13. Iſa. 53. 5. 2 Cor. 5. 21. This bleſſed Mrs. Catherine Stubbs wreſtled with Satan, as appears in that Dialogue: How now Satan, what makeſt thou here? art thou come to tempt the Lord's ſervant? I tell thee (thou hell-hound) thou haſt no part nor portion in me, nor by the grace of God ever ſhall have; I was, now am, and ſhall be the Lord's for ever; yea Satan, I was choſen an elect of Chriſt unto everlaſting Salvation, before the foundation of the world was laid, and therefore thou muſt get thee packing, thou damned dog. But what doſt thou lay to my charge, thou foul Fiend? Ah that I am a ſinner, and therefore ſhall be damned: I confeſs indeed that I am a ſinner, and grievous ſinner, both by original ſin and by actual ſin, and that I may thank thee for, and therefore Satan, I bequeath my ſin to thee, from whence it firſt came, and I appeal to the mercy of God in Chriſt Jeſus: Chriſt came to ſave ſinners (as he himſelf ſaith) and not the righteous: Behold the Lamb of God (ſaith John) that taketh away the ſins of the world; the Blood of Jeſus Chriſt doth cleanſe us from all ſins. And therefore I conſtantly believe my ſins are waſhed away in the precious Blood of Jeſus Chriſt, and ſhall never be imputed to me any more. But what ſayſt thou now Satan? doſt thou ask me, how I dare come for mercy? I tell thee Satan, I am bold to come unto him through Chriſt, being aſſured and certain of pardon and remiſſion of all my ſins for his Names ſake: For doth not the Lord bid all heavy laden with the burden of ſin, to come unto him, and he will eaſe them? Chriſt's arms were ſpread wide open upon the Croſs to imbrace me, and all penitent ſinners, and therefore I will not fear to preſent my ſelf before his foot-ſtool, in full aſſurance of his mercy for Chriſt his ſake; what more Satan? doſt thou ſay, It is written, that God will reward every one according to his deſerts? So it is written again, thou deceitful devil, that Chriſt's righteouſneſs is my righteouſneſs, his works my works, his merits my merits, and his precious blood a full ſatisfaction for my ſins: O but God is a juſt God (thou ſayſt) and therefore in juſtice muſt needs condemn me: I grant Satan that he is a juſt God, and therefore he cannot in Juſtice puniſh me for my ſins, which he hath already puniſhed in his own Son: It is againſt the Law of Juſtice, to puniſh one fault twice; I was, and am a great debtor unto God the Father, but Jeſus Chriſt hath paid the debt for me, and therefore it ſtands not with the Juſtice of God to require it again; and therefore avoid Satan, avoid thou fire-brand of hell, and tempt me no more, for he that is with me is mightier than thou, even the mighty and victorious Lion of the Tribe of Juda; who hath bruiſed thy head, and hath promiſed to be with his children to the end of the world; avoid therefore thou daſtard, remove thy ſiege, and yield the field won, and get thee packing, or I will call upon my grand Captain Jeſus Chriſt, the valiant Michael, who beat thee in heaven, and threw thee down to hell, with all thy helliſh Train and devilliſh crew.— She had ſcarcely pronounced theſe laſt words but ſhe fell ſuddenly into a ſweet ſmiling laughter, ſaying, Now he is gone, now he is gone, do you not ſee him fly like a coward, and run away like a beaten Cock; he hath loſt the field, and I have won the victory, even the garland and crown of Everlaſting life; not by my own power, and ſtrength; but by the power and might of Jeſus Chriſt.

3. Peruſe the evidences which in former times we have gathered and kept for ſuch a time as this: Have not many Saints avoided Satan thus, and got the victory? I ſhall inſtance in that one, recorded in Mr. Callamy's ark, who reports of her thus: “I knew (ſaith he) a very godly Woman, who “in her life time had taken a great deal of pains to “compoſe and write down her Evidences for heaven, and who alſo kept a diary of her life, and “wrote down how ſhe ſpent every day; it pleas'd “God to withdraw himſelf from her for a while, “and to let the Devil looſe, who tempted her to “deſpair, told her ſhe was an hypocrite, and formalliſt, and had no true grace in her; ſhe ſent “for me, made her bitter complaint to me, and “ſadly bewail'd her condition; then ſhe told me “(which before I knew not) how ſhe had ſpent “her life, how careful ſhe had been in ſearching “her ways, in obſerving how ſhe ſpent every day; “and how exact in collecting evidences for heaven: The book was ſent for, I read a great part “of it to her, and took much delight and content “in what I read, and it pleaſed God to come to “her with comfort in the reading of it: She ſhewed her ſtaff, and her bracelets, and thereby quenched the fiery darts of the Devil.

4. Improve the comforts and precious promiſes which are more ſuitable to our conditions, I ſhall Luke 22. 31, 32. inſtance in theſe, ——Behold Satan hath deſired to have you, that he might ſift you as wheat, but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not.—— Rom. 8. 38, 39. For I am perſwaded, that neither Death, nor Life, nor Angels, nor Principalities, nor Powers, nor things preſent, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, ſhall be able to ſeparate us from the love of God, which is in Chriſt Je- Heb. 2.14, 15. ſus our Lord. ——— Having ſpoiled Principalities and Powers, he made a ſhew of them openly, triumphing over them upon the Croſs, and ſo through death hath deſtroyed him that had the power of death, that is the devil, that he might deliver all them which for fear of death were all their life ſubject to Rom. 16. 20. bondage.——And the God of Peace ſhall bruiſe Satan under your feet ſhortly.—— Revel. 12. 12. The devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, becauſe he knoweth that he hath but a ſhort time. His rage is greateſt when his time is ſhorteſt, even as the darkneſs is greateſt a little before day, but this is a ſign that a calm is at hand; the Devil's grand temptations, are meſſengers of his retiring, as when the ſtrength of an enemy is waſted, he will make one or two furious aſſaults againſt the Caſtle, and then he raiſeth the ſiege: And is not this the voice of Matth. 11. 28. Chriſt, Come unto me all ye that labour, and are heavy laden, and I will give you reſt? Sooner muſt God deny himſelf, or diſrobe himſelf of the brighteſt beam of his glory, and of the faireſt flower in his Garland of Majeſty, which is his mercy, before he deny pardon of ſin to the truly penitent: Thou ſayſt thy ſins are as black as hell, as red as blood, as foul as Sodom, yet ſaith Chriſt, Come and welcome. But above all others, methinks there is one promiſe which is able to put life and freſh vigour in the moſt deſpairing Soul: Let the wicked forſake Iſai. 55. 7, 8, 9. his ways, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him, and to our God for he will abundantly pardon; for my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, ſaith the Lord: For as the heavens are higher than the earth, ſo are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. Thus the Lord draws his people to the Fountains of graces, and drives them from deſpair, by a conſideration of his tranſcendent and unlimitted mercies: It ſeems they had reaſoned thus, We have been ſo wretched by rebellions, that there is no returning unto him, there is no hope of pardon: What, ſaith God, will you meaſure my mercy by your mercy? why, there is great odds between my ways and your ways, my thoughts and your thoughts, i. e. between my mercy and your conceits of my mercy, as there is diſtance between heaven and earth. O golden promiſes!

5. Pray earneſtly that now the Lord may ſtep in, and help us by the Power of his might. This was the way of the Saints of old, the holy Siſter of Baſil, and Melania, whom Hierome magnifies for their ſanctity, beſought God with great fervency, that thoſe envious ſpirits might not hinder them in their laſt paſſage: And devout Bernard to the ſame purpoſe, when he drew near his end, he ſued to his friend for his earneſt prayers, that the heel of his life might be kept ſafe from the Serpent, ſo as he might not find where to fix his ſting: Arm me for my laſt brunt (prayed divine Hall) O my God, ſtand by me in my laſt combate, make me faithful to the death, that thou may'ſt give me a Crown of life. Why thus let us pray in this caſe of deſpair: Remember me, O God, according to the multitude of thy tender compaſſions, and blot my iniquities out of thy remembrance for thy Names ſake, impute not unto me thoſe helliſh thoughts ſuggeſted by Satan, which through thy grace I deteſt unfeignedly, under which I deſire to be humbled, and from which I beg to be delivered: Return, O Lord, cauſe the light of thy countenance to ſhine upon me, refreſh my parched Soul with the ſenſe of thy mercy, diſpel the miſts of this black temptation, rebuke Satan and reſtrain his malice: Thou art the God of peace, tread Satan I beſeech thee under my feet ſhortly, that with a quiet and chearful Spirit I may finiſh my courſe: Oh plead my cauſe againſt the enemy of my Soul, and of thy glory! Lord how long wilt thou look on; reſcue my ſoul from theſe fiery aſſaults of the wicked one, I am ſore troubled, I am bowed down greatly, I walk in heavineſs all the day long, my heart panteth, my ſoul is exceedingly diſquietted with temptations; this thou haſt ſeen, O Lord, keep not ſilence; O be not far off from me, ſtir up thy ſelf, and awake to my Judgment, curb and chain up Satan, that he may moleſt me no longer, and ſtrengthen thy poor ſervant, that through thy might I may conquer and triumph over him: And my ſoul Pſal. 55:9, 10. ſhall rejoyce in the Lord, it ſhall rejoice in his Salvation; all my bones ſhall ſay, Lord, who is like unto thee, which delivereſt the poor from him that is too ſtrong for him, yea the poor and needy from him that ſpoileth him?

6. Above all, take the ſhield of Faith in Je- Eph. 6.16. ſus Chriſt, wherewith we ſhall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked: Our Faith will do wonders, if thereby we take Chriſt Jeſus and ſet him againſt the Tempter: we are not ſo weak in the hands of Satan, as Satan is in the hands of Jeſus Chriſt; turn him then over to Jeſus Chriſt, and let Chriſt alone with him: Thus did the aforeſaid Mrs. Brettergh, after a great conflict with Satan; Satan (ſaid ſhe) reaſon not with me, I am but a weak woman, if thou haſt any thing to ſay, ſay it to my Chriſt, he is my Advocate, my Strength, and my Redeemer, and he ſhall plead for me. It was the ſpeech of Tulerus, one that Luther prized above all, Though (ſaid he) the Mariners make uſe of their Oars in the time of calm, yet when a ſtorm comes down, the Mariners leave all and fly to their Anchor: So though at other times we may make uſe of reſolutions, vows, &c. yet when the ſtorm of temptation comes down, nothing then ſo good as to fly to the Anchor of Faith, or to caſt the Anchor of Faith into the vail; then Chriſt, and none but Chriſt, Lord though thou ſlayeſt me, yet will I truſt in thee: And Satan though thou ſlayeſt me, yet will I keep to Jeſus Chriſt. *I remember a ſtory of one Chriſtopher Haſs, a Senator of Halens in Swevia, who lying on his deaths-bed, one like a Scribe, or Scrivener, appeared to him, who bringing paper, pen and ink, ſat down at the Table, and in this manner ſpake to the ſick man, O Chriſtopher, number all thy ſins in their order, which ever thou committedſt, for I am ſent of God that I may write them down, and carry them to the tribunal, where thou muſt ſhortly give an accont. At theſe words, the dying man lifting himſelf up in his bed as well as he could, knowing that now he had to deal with Satan, he anſwered boldly, If I muſt number my ſins, firſt then write over them the title, and let this be it, The Seed of the Woman ſhall bruiſe the Serpent's Head; and to this title, (ſaid he) do thou underwrite all my ſins: The Devil in his feigned habit, no ſooner heard this anſwer, but preſently he vaniſhed. What, is Satan buſie to work our Souls into deſpair? let us then ſtir up our ſelves to believe, and rowl our Souls upon Jeſus Chriſt, for life and ſalvation, and Satan will avoid.

Gen. 3. 15.

7. Mind the witneſs of the ſpirit, either in former times, or at this time. Sometimes when Satan is moſt buſie, the Lord ſteps in with his own teſtimony, and ſtops the Lion's mouth, that he can ſay no more: Surely this ſhould be minded. And this minds me of thoſe horrid temptations which my dear and Reverend Brother Mr. Edward Gee, had on his deaths-bed: At that time of his laſt ſickneſs I went to viſit him, and I found him as full of ſpiritual raviſhings and heavenly joys as (I thought) his heart could hold, he expreſſed them ſo largely, in a continued Speech for a long time, that I could do nothing all the while but admire, and give God the glory: But about two hours after I had left him, and was gone, Satan began his aſſaults of diffidence and deſpair, thrice he aſſaulted him, and nothing was ſeen or heard by the witneſſes waiting on; but that at the firſt time Maſter Gee ſaid, Away with thee, away with thee, thou Accuſer of the Brethren, God confound thee. And when Satan aſſaulted him the Second time, he ſaid, Who is he that condemns? it is God that juſtifies: And I know that God will tread Satan under my feet; he that is in me, is ſtronger than he that is againſt me. And when Satan aſſaulted him the third time, he ſaid, Now have we beaten him, I am nothing; but what I am, I am by the grace of God: Whether at this time, or at another, was a very remarkable temptation, and I ſhall declare it (as it is given in to me) in Mr. Gee's own words: A Miniſter and ſome others being with him, he told them thus—— I was praying (ſaid he) to God my merciful Father in Chriſt Jeſus for the main thing, viz. that he would ſtrengthen and perfect, and give me life everlaſting: To which purpoſe I uſed that Scripture in Pſal. 138. 8. The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me, thy mercy, O Lord, endureth for ever, forſake not the works of thine own hands.—— And then (ſaid he) the devil came to me, and ſuggeſted thus: Its true, thou prayeſt, and uſeſt Scripture as an argument in prayer, and thou ſayeſt, thou believeſt, but God will give mercy only to them that are true believers: And now what proof or evidence canſt thou give me, that thou art a true believer? upon this ſaid Mr. Gee, I was in a moſt woful condition, and it was far worſe with my ſoul than any pangs of death, I was full of horrour, and terrour, ſo that I was ready to tumble off my bed into the grave, yea, into the pit of hell, and I was ready to cry out, Oh damned wretch that I am! And I was the more full of horrour, becauſe I had ſaid ſo much of my aſſurance and joy to them that were about me before: But this temptation laſted but a while: For 1. God, my moſt merciful father in Chriſt Jeſus, came in to my Soul with his teſtimony. And 2. Chriſt my moſt bleſſed Redeemer came into my ſoul with his teſtimony. And 3. The ſpirit my Sanctifier, came into my ſoul with his teſtimony; and they writ their teſtimony in my heart, as if I ſhould write upon paper with a pen and ink, and God, my moſt merciful Father, enabled me to ſay to Satan, thou implacable and irreconcileable enemy of my ſoul, away with thee, away with thee, it's true what thou ſayeſt, that none but true believers can receive any comfort and ſtrength from God: But ſee thou here, I have a threefold teſtimony, that I am a true believer; God my moſt merciful and heavenly Father, Chriſt my moſt bleſſed and dear Saviour, and the Holy Spirit; I have theſe three witneſſes, and therefore away with thee. And now (ſaid he) the Devil's mouth was ſtopped, and my ſoul triumphed: ſo that I had a fuller teſtimony of the Spirit after this conflict, and more joy than ever I had in all my life, as I remember; nay I had more joy than I can conceive, or an Angel can expreſs. I tell this (ſaid he) for God's glory, and for your good; and I pray you tell it to others, that ſo they may know what malice and ſpight the Devil bears to their Souls, and likewiſe that they may be comforted as I was. And if the Lord deals thus with any of us, if he come with this ſeal, Oh let us mind it, and make the ſame uſe of it as he did, in repelling Satan, and then we may expect the ſame he had, both victory, and joy, and triumph.

SECT. I.

Of the occaſions of them.

MIniſtration of Angels is a point both Scriptural and Practical: that ſuch a thing is, no Chriſtian doubts that ever I yet heard of; only the manner of Miniſtration may ſeem ſtrange to them who are not throughly acquainted with the ſubject. I perceive by what hath been told me by a precious Friend, that ſuch as have lately diſcuſt of Angels, have met with the cenſure of more curious conjecture, than of evidence in their diſcourſe, reaſon not reaching to the Subject, and Scripture not ſpeaking diſtinctly of it. I deny not but ſome may have met with that cenſure in reſpect of ſome Controverſies about the deputation of Angels; yet in other things not controverted, I verily believe (notwithſtanding all cenſures) they have brought truth a-bed. It is in my mind what Peter Martyr ſaith, that to enquire of the Angels accurately and ſubtilly is, magis ad curioſitatem noſtram, quam ad ſalutem, and he wiſheth that School-men in their knotty, thorny, and unprofitable diſcourſes had obſerved this, and yet he confeſſeth, it is profitable for us to know how the Angels are deſtined to our miniſtry, for thereby we underſtand God's goodneſs towards us; And therefore of this (ſaith he) the Scripture is not ſilent. Yea of “ this (ſaith “ Muſculus) the Scripture is very full. Yea the “ the Scripture (ſaith Calvin) ſtandeth moſt upon “ that which makes moſt to our comfort, and con“firmation of faith, to wit that the Angels are “ Diſtributers and Adminiſtrators of God's bounty “ towards us, and therefore the Scripture reciteth, “ that they watch for our ſafety, Pſal 91. 11. Pſal. 34. 7. Gen. 16. 9, &c. Howſoever I approve well of the caution, and it was therefore my reſolution to have altered my method, and every Section, where the difficulty lay, Firſt, to have delivered my own Tenets; Secondly, to have backed them with ſuch Authors as are moſt Orthodox; Thirdly, to have proved them by Scriptures; Fourthly, to have given in Experiences: But the Preſs having received my Papers, went on too faſt for me, and I was prevented, before I was aware. And yet I ſee not but the thing is done, though not ſo diſtinctly in the method as I had purpoſed: if any thing be wanting, it is only the Citation of ſuch Authors as I moſt build upon, and of thoſe Texts of Scripture which they ſo numerouſly cite. I ſhall now therefore lay the foundation, on which I make it my work to ſuperſtruct, and this (ſith I cannot do it otherwiſe) I ſhall pin upon the Front or Porch of the following Fabrick, that all the work that follows may ſeem leſs ſtrange, and become more edifying to the intelligent Reader.

Sect. 2. Of the Sayings and Proofs of Dr. Uſher Biſhop of Armagh.

LEſt any thing I write may be thought Novel, I appeal unto others both Godly and Orthodox Divines. And firſt let us hear what one of our Worthies (if not moſt worthy) hath ſaid of the ſeveral kind of Angels Miniſtration. The Offices which Angels perform towards man, are either in this life, or the life to come. In this life the good Offices which the Angels perform towards the Godly, are either as inſtruments to beſtow on them good things, or to keep them from evil things; the good things partly concern the Body, and partly the Soul; for the Body, 1. They are uſed as inſtruments to beſtow things for the preſervation of it, and to bring neceſſary helps to men in their diſtreſs, as to Elias, and Hagar. 2. They are appointed of God to be as a Guard and Garriſon unto his Children to comfort and defend them walking in their lawful callings, Pſal. 34. 7. and 91. 11. 3. They give an happy ſucceſs to them in the good things they go about, Gen. 24. 7. 40. v. 4. They are appointed as Watchmen over the Saints, that by their preſence they might keep their bodies in ſhamefac'dneſs, holineſs, and purity, 1 Cor. 11. 10. And for the Soul, they are, 1. To reveal the will of God to the Saints, and inform them in things which he would have done, Acts 10. 5. 2 To ſtir up good motions in their Hearts. 3. To comfort them in ſorrow, as Chriſt was comforted, being diſtreſſed in Soul, Luke 22. 43, 44 and as Paul was comforted, Acts 27 23, 24 4. To rejoyce at the converſion of Saints, Luke 15. 10. Again, the evil thing from which the good Angels do keep the Godly do partly concern the body, and partly the Soul: the evils of the body, are either without us, or within us, the evils without us from which we are preſerved by the Miniſtry of Angels, are, 1. From thoſe dangers that one man bringeth upon another. 2. From thoſe they are ſubject unto by reaſon of wild Beaſts. 3. From thoſe they are ſubject unto by reaſon of other creatures without life. 4. They do not only preſerve the bodies of the Saints, but all things are theirs, as their Goods, Wife, Children, and Families: the Evils within us, from which alſo the Angels keep the bodies of Saints are 1. Sickneſs. 2. Famine. 3. Death. And as thus for the body, ſo the Evils of the Soul from which the Angels keep us, are the Evils of ſin, and that two ways. 1. By their continual preſence. 2. By their power. Laſtly, The Offices which the good Angels are to perform towards men after this life. 1. They carry the Souls of the Godly, being ſeparated from the body, with comfort into Heaven, Luke 16. 22. 2. They wait upon Chriſt at the day of Judgment to gather all the faithful unto him, and to ſeparate the wicked from among them. Matth. 24. 31, 51. and to rejoyce at the ſentence which he ſhall give. This Analyſis we have from the eminently able, and worthy Divine, the Glory of this, and our Neighbour Nation: his character is Antiquitatis primævæ peritiſſimus, orthodoxæ religionis vindex ἀναντίῤῥητος, errorum malleus, in concionando frequens, facundus, præpotens, vitæ inculpatæ exemplar ſpectabile. And for his Catechiſm, out of which it is taken, it is the ſum and ſubſtance of Chriſtian Religion upon which as a more ſure Foundation we build our Faith, and ground all our hopes.

Sect. 3. Of the Sayings and Proofs of Mr. Edward Leigh.

A*Nother of our Worthies gives us another Scheme, both of the Miniſtration of Angels, and our Communion with Angels: as thus*; Their Miniſtration, ſtration, or ſervice in reſpect of the Church and People of God, is —— 1. They are glad for the good which befals the Elect, Luke 2. 14. Luke 15. 10. 2. They reveal unto them the will of God, Dan 8. 9. Rev. 1. 11. 3. They keep the Elect from dangers both of Soul and Body, ſo far as is expedient, Gen. 19. 16. and 28. 12. and 25. 7. and 32. 1, 2. Pſal. 34. 7. and 91. 11. Numb. 22. 1 Kings 19. 7. 2 Kings 6. 16. and 8. 9, 10. 4. They comfort them in diſtreſs, heavineſs, and diſtraction, Gen. 20. 17, 18. and 32. 1, 2. Iſa. 6. 6. Luke 1. 30. and 2. 10. Matth. 28. 5. Acts 10. 4. and 27. 23, 24. Judg. 6. 12 and 13. 10. Dan. 10. 12. Matth. 1. 20. and 2. 12, 13. 5. They ſuggeſt holy thoughts into their hearts, as the Devil doth evil and unclean thoughts. 6. They carry the Souls of the Elect into Heaven at the end of this life, Luke 16. 22. and at the day of Judgment they ſhall gather the Elect from the four Winds, and ſeparate between the Elect and Reprobate, Mat. 24. 31. and 13. 27. —— And as for our Communion with them, 1. We honour them, and judge them more noble creatures than man; they have greater Wiſdom, Holineſs, and Power, than man hath. 2. We love them becauſe they love us and delight in our good, being ready to help us every where. 3. We ſhould be careful of our carriage becauſe of their preſence, we ſhould not ſin becauſe of the Angels. 4. We ſhould deſire to make them examples of our lives, that we may do God's Will as they do. 5. If Angels ſhould appear viſibly to us, we ſhould honour them as more excellent creature, but ſtill keep within the bounds of civil, or fraternal honour, as to our fellow-ſervants, though above us; and not honour them with Religious Worſhip. The Papiſts ſay, a Religious Worſhip is due unto them, not primary, ſuch as is due unto God, but ſecondary: but we reply, Religious Worſhip is only due to the Creator, as being the command of the Firſt Table; and Civil Worſhip is only due to the Creature as being the command of the Second Table. By conſent of all, Religious Worſhip is that whereby we do ackwowledge God to be the primum principium, the ultimum finem, & ſummum bonum, now is this but one, and we may well ſay, there is a ſummum bonum ſecundario; as there is a ſecondarious Religious Worſhip. Again, there is the ſame reaſon of a Religious Worſhip, as there is of a Divine act of Faith, but we cannot ſay that we may with a Divine Faith believe in God primarily: and in Angels ſecondarily, for this were ridiculous.

* A Syſteme, or body of Divinity, by Ed. Leigh, Eſq; and M. A. of Mag. Hall, Oxon.

Conſectaries from Angels. 1. We ſhould imitate the Angels. 2. It ſhews us how much we are beholding to God and Chriſt; no Angels could love us, if it were not for him. God's Angels are our Angels to defend and keep us, God hath committed the care of us to theſe miniſtring Spirits. This is the Doctrine of Angels, laid down by the Authors, as one of the Fundamentals, and main Grounds of Chriſtian Religion; So then to deny this, it were to deny a Fundamental, which (ſaith the ſame Author) muſt of neceſſity deſtroy Religion.

Sect. 4. Of the Sayings and Proofs of Mr. Sam. Clark.

The Marrow of Divinity by Sa. Clark.

A*Nother of our Divines, whoſe Works praiſe him in the Gates, is yet more full.* The Miniſtration of Angels is either in this life, or here after: in this life it relates to mens Bodies and Souls; for Bodies in general, they are ſaid to attend on the Saints, and to miniſter to them, Heb. 1. 14. Matth. 18. 10. in particular, 1. They are as Stewards to provide for them in their need, 1 Kings 19. 5. 2. As Phyſicians to cure their Maladies, John 5. 4. 3. As Nurſes to bear up, and keep them from hurt, Pſal. 91. 11, 12. 4. As Guides do direct and keep them from wandrings, Gen. 24. 7. 32. 1. 5. As Soldiers to guard them, Pſal. 34. 7. 2 King. 6. 17. 6. As reſcuers and deliverers to pull them out of dangers, Acts 5. 19. and 12. 7, 8. Dan. 6. 22. —— In reference to their Souls in this life, 1. They are as Prophets or Teachers to inſtruct them, Dan. 8. 16, 17. and 9. 22, 23, 24. Luke 1. 15, 34, 35. Acts 1. 11. 2. They are comforters to them in their fears and perplexities, Gen. 21. 17. Iſa. 6. 6, 7. Luke 22. 23. 3. Coadjutors, to ſtand with them againſt Satan, Zach. 3. 1, 2. Judg. 9. 4. Fellow-members to rejoyce with them at the converſion of ſinners, Luke 50. 10. 5. Tutors to incourage them in Duties, 2 King. 1. 15. and to puniſh them for their offences, that they may be brought to repentance, 2 Sam. 24. 16. —— Hereafter in the life to come they are, 1. Watchers, to carry their Souls at the ſeparation of them from their Bodies into Heaven, Luke 16. 22. 2. As keepers at the laſt day to gather all the Elect together, Mat. 24. 31. 3. Fanners, or Fiſhers, to ſeparate the evil from the good, Mat. 13. 49. 4. Companions in Heaven, to join with them in praiſing God, Rev. 7. 9, 10, 11. See Dr. Gouge on Heb.

One Objection is raiſed, that God's Children oft fall into inconveniencies, how then are they attended by the Angels?

Anſ. 1. They are preſerved by the Angels from many inconveniencies that they know not of; as we have Devils about us continually, ſo certainly there is a conflict between the good Angels and them about us continually. 2. If at any time we fall into inconveniencies, it's becauſe we are out of our way, and then they have no charge over us, Pſal. 19. 11. 3. If we ſuffer in the cuſtody of Angels any inconveniency, it is that we may be tryed, exerciſed, and made better by it; for if they keep us not from ill, they keep us in ill, and deliver us out of it at length, ſo that there is nothing in the World befals God's Children, but they are gainers by it at laſt, whatſoever it is, Rom. 8. 28.

This may teach us. 1. Not to grieve theſe good Spirits: if we commit ſins in ſecret where no eye of man ſees us, yet God and the bleſſed Angels ſee us, and grieve when we fall into ſin. 2. To bleſs that God that hath thus honoured us, not only by taking our nature on him, but by giving us his own guard of Angels to attend us. 3. To take an holy ſtate upon us; and to think our ſelves too good to abaſe our ſelves to ſin, to be ſlaves to men, ſeeing we have Angels to attend upon us; we are Kings, and have a mighty guard, therefore we ſhould carry our ſelves anſwerable. 4. Not to deſpiſe the meaneſt Chriſtian, ſeeing Angels deſpiſe not to attend upon them. 5. To imitate the Angels. 1. In rejoycing at the converſion of ſinners as they do, Luke 15. 10. 2. In reverencing the Majeſty of God as they do, by covering their Faces, Iſa. 6. 2, 25. 3. In ſtanding ready preſt to execute the Will of the Lord as they do, Pſal. 103. 20, 21. 4. In executing for manner as they do, viz. with chearfulneſs, ſincerity, and without weariſomneſs. This is a piece of that Marrow of Divinity, collected out of the Works of our moſt judicious, experienced, and orthodox Engliſh Divines, with ſome additionals of his own, as the Author confeſſeth.

Sect. 5. Of the Sayings and Proofs of Dr. Manton.

* A Practical Commentary on Jude by Tho. Manton, D. D.

TO *theſe I ſhall add * another of known parts and piety.* This tutelage of Saints is from their firſt conception in the Womb, till the tranſlation of Body and Soul into Glory: Survey all the paſſages of life from the Womb to the Grave, nay after death, till the Ruſurrection, the Miniſtry of Angels doth not wholly ceaſe: their care beginneth as ſoon as the Child is quickned in the Womb, for then they have another diſtinct charge to look after; and as they are ſervants of Providence, by their help they are born and brought into the World; God's Providence taketh date thence, Gal. 1. 15. and they, I ſay, are inſtruments of Providence; they watch over us in infancy and childhood; little ones are committed to their cuſtody, and Babes and Sucklings have their Angels, Mat. 18. 10. Jeſus Chriſt was provided for in his Cradle by an Angel, Matth. 2. 13. The Devil rampeth about the Elect, whilſt they are yet in their ſwadling cloaths; that expreſſion Revel. 12. of the Dragon's ſeeking to devour the man-child as ſoon as he was born, is figurative, but it alludeth to what is true. Again, as we grow up, they rejoyce at our converſion, Luke 15. 10. We read of Joy in Heaven over a ſinner that repenteth; you cannot gratifie the Angels more than in your converſion to God; the Devil ſeeks to hinder it as much as he can, but they rejoyce when a brand is pluckt out of the burning, Zach. 3. Again, after converſion, they watch over us in duty, and danger, and temptations, in Duties where Satan is moſt buſie to hinder, Zach. 3. 1. they are moſt helpful: the Angels are in the aſſemblies of the faithful, 1 Cor. 11. 10. ſo in dangers, when Peter was in Priſon, God ſendeth him an Angel to bring him out, Acts 12. 7. Ruffinus ſpeaketh of a young man, a Martyr on the Rack, that had his face wiped by an Angel, and refreſhed by him in the midſt of his pains: nay in caſual dangers, which we cannot foreſee and prevent, Pſal. 91. 12. He ſhall give his Angels charge over thee, that thou daſh not thy foot againſt a ſtone; ſo in temptations, Matth. 4. 11. they miniſtred to Chriſt, when he was tempted by the Devil; they came, to ſhew how God will deal with his people in like caſes. Once more, they are with us to comfort us in death; in the midſt of his agonies the Lord Jeſus was comforted, and refreſhed by an Angel, Luke 22. 43. So they are with the faithful, helping and eaſing them in their ſickneſſes. After death they carry our Souls to Heaven, as Lazarus was carried into Abraham's boſom, Luke 16. 22. though the body had not the honour of a pompous burial, yet the Soul is ſolemnly conveyed by Angels, and gathered up into the communion of the Souls of juſt men made perfect, as Chriſt himſelf alſo aſcended into Heaven in the company of Angels, Acts 1. 10. Once more, after death they guard our bodies in the grave, as the Angels guarded Chriſt's Sepulchre, Matth. 28. 2, 3, 4. God did ſet his guards, as well as the High Prieſts: their laſt miniſtry and ſervice about the faithful, is to gather up their bodies at the laſt day, They ſhall gather up the Elect from the four winds, Matth. 24. 31. and then their Office and charge ceaſeth; Thus far this Author.

Sect. 6. Of the Sayings and Proofs of Biſhop Hall.

IN this Doctrine I have the conſent of many others: and to this purpoſe in the Treatiſe it ſelf I have cited Dyke, Dingley, Laurence, in whoſe Book of Communion, and War with Angels (ſaith Mr. Baxter in his Saints Everlaſting Reſt, Part 2. Chap. 7.) is taught the true and ſpiritual uſe of this Doctrine. But I leave him and Mr. Dingley in their Controverſies; My meaning is only to hold forth poſitive, preſuppoſed, and on both ſides granted, and decided truths. And in that reſpect I ſhall appeal but to one more of our native Practical Divines. * Biſhop Hall, ſpeaking of the imployments, and operations of Angels, ſaith thus; What variety is here of your aſſiſtance? one while ye lead us in our way, as ye did Iſrael, Exod. 33. 2. another while ye inſtruct us, as ye did Daniel, Dan. 8. 16, 17. one while ye fight for us, as ye did for Joſhua, Joſh. 5. 13. another while ye purvey for us, as for Elias, 1 Kings 19. 5. one while ye fit us to our holy vocation, as ye did to Iſaiah, Iſai. 6. 6, 7. another while ye diſpoſe of the opportunities of our calling for good, as ye did of Philip's to the Eunuch, Acts 8. 26. one while ye foretel our danger, as to Lot, Gen. 19. 12, 13. another while ye comfort our affliction, as to Hagar, Gen. 21. 17. one while ye oppoſe evil projects againſt us, as to Balaam, Num. 22. 32. another while ye will be ſtriven with for bleſſing, as with Jacob, Hoſ. 12. 4. one while ye reſiſt our offenſive courſes, as to Moſes, Exod. 4. 24, 25, 26. another while ye encourage us in our devotions, as ye did Paul, and Silas, and Cornelius, Acts 16. 25. and Acts 10. 3, 4. one while ye deliver from durance, as Peter, Acts 12. 7, 8, 9. another while ye preſerve from danger and death, as the three Children, Dan. 3. 25. one while ye are ready to reſtrain our preſumption, as the Cherub before the gate of Paradiſe, Gen. 3. 24. another while to excite our courage, as to Elijah, 2 Kings 1. 15. one while to refreſh, and cheer us in our ſufferings, as to the Apoſtles, Acts 5. 19, 20, 21. another while to prevent our ſufferings, as to Jacob in the purſuit of Laban and Eſau, Gen. 31. 34. and Gen. 32. 1. one while ye cure our bodies, as at the Pool of Betheſda, Joh. 5. 4. another while ye carry up our ſouls to glory, as ye did to Lazarus, Luke 16. 22. It were endleſs to inſtance in all the gracious offices which ye perform.

* The inviſible World diſcovered to ſpiritual eyes, by I.H. B. N.

I ſhall need to repeat no more out of him, whom I have ſo often cited in the diſcouſe that follows. But if any be offended, that I have ſo highly eſteemed of this Biſhop, is there any communion with ſuch in name or thing? I ſhall anſwer, 1. I never was offended with the name of Biſhop, nor will any wiſe man, that finds the name ſo frequently uſed in Scriptures, be offended with it. 2. Nor am I offended with the thing, if moderation were uſed, and ſuch an Epiſcopacy erected as Biſhop Hall, and Biſhop Uſher did propound as ſatisfactory; and ſuch men to manage it as were peaceable, godly, and eminent for grace and gifts; nor do I believe that any Oath taken by me was againſt ſuch an Epiſcopacy. Thus ſome affirm; * it is not againſt moderate Epiſcopacy, but only againſt the exorbitant ſpecies; introducing unavoidably the many miſchiefs which we have ſeen and felt. If all exorbitancies of power were retrenched by the Biſhop, and if thoſe Presbyteries, which no Law hitherto hath forbidden, were reſtored to their primitive rights, I know no reaſon but I might ſubmit both to the name and thing: But from the dominion of

* Baxt. Of Church government, p. 105.

Prelacy, and from the rigorous impoſition of Ceremonies by it, and from the extirpation of diſſenting brethren, who will not, or dare not conſcientiouſly ſubmit, ſubſcribe, or ſwear unto it, the Lord deliver us. 3. I ever looked upon Biſhop Hall as peaceable and moderate. * Mr. Baxter cites him on that ſcore. I ſhall prove (ſaith he) from the example of reverend Biſhop Hall, that moderate men will agree on the foregoing terms, —— Bleſſed be God (ſaith the Biſhop) there is no difference in any eſſential matter betwixt the Church of England and her Siſters of the Reformation; we accord in every point of Chriſtian Doctrine without the leaſt variation, — the only difference is in the form of outward adminiſtration, wherein we alſo are ſo far agreed, as that we all profeſs this form not to be eſſential to the being of a Church, though much importing the well or better being of it, according to our ſeveral apprehenſions thereof: and that we do all retain a reverend and loving opinion of each other in our own ſeveral ways, not ſeeing any reaſon why ſo poor a diverſity ſhould work any alienation of affection in us one towards another. But with all nothing hinders but that we may come yet cloſer to one another, if both may reſolve to meet in that Primitive Government (whereby it is meet we ſhould both be regulated) univerſally agreed on by all Antiquity, wherein all things were order'd and tranſacted by the conſent of the Preſbytery, moderated by one conſtant Preſident thereof. —— And if in this point (wherein the diſtance is ſo narrow) we could condeſcend to each other, all other circumſtances and appendances of various practices or opinions, might without any difficulty be accorded. But if there muſt be a difference of Judgment in theſe matters of outward Policy, why ſhould not our hearts be ſtill one? why ſhould ſuch a diverſity be of power to endanger the diſſolving of the bond of brotherhood? may we have the grace but to follow the truth in love; we ſhall in theſe ſeveral tracts overtake her happily in the end, and find her embracing of peace, and crowning us with bleſſedneſs. So far Biſhop Hall. 4. Nor was he only peaceable and moderate, but golden-mouth'd and of godly life. Mr. Braxter reckons him amongſt ſome others, that have been excellent inſtruments of the Churches good, and ſo eminent for God's graces and gifts, that their names will be precious whilſt Chriſt hath in England a Reformed Church; were there in all England but one ſuch man diſſenting from us (ſaith he) as Hooper, Farrar, Latimer, Cranmer, Ridley, Jewel, Abbot, Davenant, Uſher, Hall, &c. " What ſober godly man would not be " exceeding ſolicitous for a reconciliation? for the laſt of theſe, the World well knows he had a double portion of the gifts of the tongue above his brethren; when he lived his lips dropped myrrh, and his pen the oyl of Calamus, and Cinnamon, the ſmell whereof hath filled the houſe of God with ſuch a perfume, as this age will never wear out. His works all praiſe him, and amongſt them all, thoſe of the myſtery of Godlineſs, and of the inviſible World, he left as a legacy, and ſpecial valediction to the Saints. I cannot but give much to theſe laſt works of his, and eſpecially to that part of the inviſible World, viz. " of God and his " Angels. Some have obſerved that many holy men in their laſt works as they drew nearer to Heaven ſo they became more Spiritual and Heavenly in their work; thus Dr. Preſton ended his works with a Treatiſe of the knowledge of the divine Eſſence and Attributes: and Mr. Bolton ended his works with a Treatiſe of the four laſt things. Death, Judgment, Hell and Heaven; and this Author ended his works with a Treatiſe of the inviſible world; and not without reaſon, when our bodily eyes are glutted with the view of the things that are ſeen (a proſpect which can afford us nothing but vanity and vexation) what can be more meet (ſaid he) than to feed our ſpiritual eyes with the light of inviſible glories? It was his aim in that Work, that the Reader ſhould aſpire with him towards that happineſs which is laid up above, for all thoſe that love the appearance of our Lord Jeſus, and therein I conſpire with him, and Oh that ſuch might be the iſſue of all that make uſe of his excellent piece, or of this ſlender Work of mine.

Heb. 12.1.

Miniſtration of, and Communion with ANGELS.

The Firſt Book.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

HEB. 1. 14.

Are they not all Miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them, who ſhall be heirs of ſalvation.

The coherence and diviſion of the words.

THE Apoſtle is here making a compariſon betwixt Chriſt and the Angels: as the world is wonderfully inclined to ſuperſtition, ſo it is wont many times to darken the glory of Chriſt, by too much exalting of Angels; good reaſon it is therefore that they ſhould be put into their place; the Angels are excellent, but Chriſt more excellent: the Angels are glorious; but Chriſt more glorious: now the Prelation of Chriſt before the Angels, the Apoſtle proves by ſeveral arguments: as, 1. From the name of Chriſt, he is called God's Son; ſo are not the Angels: 2. From the rule and dominion of Chriſt, he is the head and prince, ſo are not the Angels: 3. From the Office and Place of Chriſt; he ſits at God's right hand (i. e.) he hath the ſecond place given him after the Father, he is the Father's Lieutenant, or his chief Ambaſſador to exerciſe all power; ſo are not the Angels; and therefore it follows that Chriſt is more excellent and glorious than them all; indeed they are Spirits, and therein they have a title of great excellency given them; but they are miniſtring Spirits, and that takes off, and holds them within the compaſs of their degree; if they but miniſter, they muſt needs be inferiour to Chriſt, who is Lord over all; and though it may be objected, that Chriſt is ſometimes called a miniſter and that he came to miniſter, yet that is not in regard of need, but of good will, the Angels do it of neceſſity, but Chriſt voluntarily: it is natural in the Angels, but only by accident in Jeſus Chriſt; and therefore in all things Chriſt hath the preheminency, yet let not this doctrine paſs without ſome conſolation to the Saints and People of God; be it known to you, that as Angels are miniſtring Spirits, ſo they are ſent forth to miniſter for you; are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them, who ſhall be heirs of ſalvation?

Ver. 4, 5.

Ver. 6. to ver. 13.

Rom. 15.8

Acts 20. 28.

You ſee I had need to be careful what I ſay of the Angels, leſt that honour which ſhould be given to God and Chriſt, may in any ſort redound to them. This hath been the errour of former ages, and of all errours there is almoſt none more ancient than this. Paul himſelf had much to do with ſome, who ſo advanced the Angels, that in a manner they would have brought Chriſt under Coloſſ. 2. 18. ſubjection, Let no man beguile you of your reward (ſaith he) in a voluntary humility, and worſhipping of Angels. Indeed there ſhines in them ſuch a brightneſs of the Majeſty of God, that there is nothing whereunto we are more eaſily drawn, than with a certain admiration to fall down in worſhipping of them; this very thing John in the Revelation confeſſeth of himſelf, but he addeth withal, Revel. 19. 10. that he received this anſwer, ſee thou do it not, for I am thy fellow ſervant, and of thy brethren, that have the teſtimony of Jeſus, worſhip God, there is no worſhipping of Angels: and yet we muſt not throw away the comfortable doctrine of Angels: I hope before I have done to convince you of a wonderful pledge of Chriſt's love to your perſons in the adminiſtration of Angels, Are they not all miniſtring Spirits? &c.

In this Text is a deſcription of Angels, wherein 1. Of their Nature, Are they not Spirits? 2. Of their Office, Are they not miniſtring Spirits? 3. Of their Conjunction in this Office, Are they not all miniſtring Spirits? 4. Of their Commiſſion and execution of this Office ſo undertaken, Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter? 5. Of the Object about which the execution of their Office is moſt converſant, Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them, who ſhall be Heirs of Salvation.

Sect. 2. Of the ſeveral Doctrines deduced from the Words.

FROM every part I may deduce a ſeveral doctrine; as, 1. That the Angels are ſpirits. 2. That the office of the Angels is to miniſter and ſerve. 3. That the higheſt Angel is not exempted from this office. 4. That they have their Commiſſion from God and Chriſt, to execute their office of miniſtration. 5. That the miniſtring office of the Angels is not for all, but only for heavens Heirs. On the four firſt I ſhall only give a touch, but on the laſt I ſhall inſiſt, and (if the Lord help) inlarge my diſcourſe to the full of my deſign.

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

Of the firſt Doctrine.

THE Angels are Spirits: And ſo is God, and ſo are the Souls of men, but with this difference, God is a Spirit moſt ſimple, without any compoſition at all; the Souls of men are ſpirits conjoyned with fleſh and blood; thus the Philoſopher deſcribes the Soul to be the act of the body: Now betwixt theſe two Spirits are the Angels, who are neither without all compoſition, as God is, nor are they covered with fleſh and blood, as the ſoul of man is. I know it is a queſtion, whether the Angels have bodies? And ——

1. The Peripateticks and Schoolmen are for the negative; The Angels (ſay they) are altogether incorporeal: And for this opinion are brought in by others theſe very Texts, ‖ Who maketh his Angels ſpirits, —— And are they not all miniſtring ſpirits?

‖ Pſal. 104. 4.

2. The Platonicks and many of the ancients are on the other ſide: The Angels have their proper bodies (ſaith * Tertullian) and although inviſible to us, yet viſible to God. † Auguſtine is of the ſame mind: And herein (ſaith * Lombard) he followed many famous Authors, as all the Platonicks, Origen, Lactantius, Baſil, with all the writers almoſt of his time: And ſome more modern agree with them herein; all ſpirits have their bodies (ſaith † Bernard) as need is, excepting only God himſelf; and the need that the Angels have, he proves from this Text, Are they not all miniſtring ſpirits? For how can they execute their Miniſtry (ſaith he) without a body, eſpecially amongſt them that are in the body? beſides they could not diſcourſe, nor move from place to place, without a body. Nor ſpeaks he of bodies aſſumed, but of bodies proper and peculiar to themſelves.

* Vid Zanch. de operibus Dei, part 1. l. 2. c. 3.
† Bernard iv Cantic. Canticorum Serm. 5.

Methinks a middle betwixt both theſe comes neareſt truth, * That in compariſon of God they are bodies, but in compariſon of us they are pure and mighty ſpirits. Certainly the Angels are not ſimply Spirits as God is, who is a ſpirit moſt ſimple, without any compoſition at all; nor are they infinite or immenſe, as God is, but are terminated in their dimenſions, and move from place to place as bodies do. Hence † Zancby approves rather of the ancients, than of the Schoolmen, That Angels are not ſimply and altogether incorporeal, only their bodies (ſaith he) are not earthly, nor airy, nor heavenly, as the Stoicks would have them, for all ſuch bodies were created of that Chaos, Gen. 1. 1. but rather as the Imperial heaven is a corporeal ſubſtance far different from theſe nether heavens viſible to us, ſo the Angels made together with that heaven, are corporeal ſubſtances far purer, and more ſubtil than either earth or air, or fire, or the matter of theſe viſible heavens. I will not ſay they are of the ſame body, but they may have like bodies to that glorious body of the higheſt heaven, or ſeat of the bleſſed; and ſo in reſpect of us * or of our craſs bodies they may be called pure and mighty ſpirits.

CHAP. III.

Of the ſecond Doctrine.

THE office of the Angels is to miniſter and ſerve: It is true, they are called Principalities, Powers, Mights, Thrones, Dominions; ſo the Apoſtle ſpeaks of Chriſt, That he was ſet at Eph. 1. 20. 21. God's right-hand in heavenly places, far above all Principalities, and Powers, and Might and Dominion. And by him were all things created in heaven, Coloſſ. 1. 16. whether Thrones, or Dominions, or Principalities, or Powers: by all which, though we underſtand not divers dignities of Angels, whereby in nature they excel one another, yet we muſt needs underſtand the dignity, excellency, authority, and power, of every one of the Angels.

And yet this hinders not, but that theſe mighty powers are miniſtring ſpirits; and therefore in other places of Scripture we find other titles given to them; as ſometimes they are called Watchers, I ſaw in the Viſions of my head, and behold a Watcher and an Holy One came down from heaven: Dan. 4. 13. And ſometimes they are called Soldiers, And ſuddenly there was with the Angel a multitude of heavenly Soldiers (or of the Heavenly Hoſt) praiſing God. Luk. 2. 13. Moſt frequently they are called Angels, which is not a name of their nature, but of their office; the word ſignifies a Meſſenger, as if they were ever running errands betwixt heaven and earth: So Jacob dreamed of a Ladder ſet on earth, whoſe top reached to heaven, and behold the Angels of God aſcending, and deſcending on it. Gen. 28. 12. Now this is clear, that Watchers, Soldiers, and Meſſengers, are but Miniſters and ſervants. If it be demanded what is their miniſtry, or ſervice, it is either to God, or to men; Pſal. 103. 20. in reſpect of God, they are ſaid to do his Commandments, to hearken to the voice of his Word, to Matth. 18. 10. behold the face of God, to celebrate the praiſes of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt; and in reſpect of men, they do them many offices of love and ſervice, which Rev. 5. 12. we ſhall diſcover in the laſt point, for are they not miniſtring ſpirits ſent forth to miniſter unto them, I ſay unto them, who ſhall be heirs of Salvation?

CHAP. IV.

Of the third Doctrine.

3. THE higheſt Angel is not exempted from this office. Are they not all miniſtring Spirits? It is not one, nor ten, nor a hundred, nor a thouſand, but all Angels, and Archangels, Principalities and Powers, Thrones and Dominions, are all miniſtring ſpirits. A queſtion there is, 1. Of the order of Angels, and if that be admitted, 2. Act. 17. 33. Whether the chief of that order may be conſidered as miniſtring ſpirits?

For the firſt, Dionyſius (I will not ſay the Areopagite) tells of nine orders, becauſe of nine words in Scripture relating to the Angels, as Seraphims, Cherubims, Thrones, Powers, Hoſts, Dominions, Principalities, Archangels, and Angels; and at large he deſcribes their ſeveral natures, diſtinctions, properties; as that the firſt three orders are for immediate attendance of the Almighty; and the next three orders, for the general government of the creatures; and the laſt three orders, for the particular good of God's Elect; that the Archangels ſurpaſs the beauty of Angels ten times, Principalities ſurpaſs the Archangels twenty times, Powers ſurpaſs the Principalities forty times, &c. How he, or any other, came to this learning, is yet unknown, yet hath this Hierarchy, in theſe ſeveral orders, paſſed for currant through many ages of the Church.

Learned Mede in his Diatribæ of the Angels, tells of ſeven principal Angels, which miniſter before the Throne of God, and therefore are called Archangels, ſome of whoſe names we have in Scriptures, as Michael, Gabriel, Raphael; to this Tobit. 12. 15. purpoſe he cites ſeveral texts: As I am Raphael, one of the ſeven holy Angels, which ſtand and miniſter Zach. 4. 10 before the glory of the Holy One. And theſe ſeven are the eyes of the Lord, which run to and fro Rev. 4. 5. through the whole earth. And I ſaw (ſaith John) ſeven Lamps before the Throne, which are the ſeven Rev. 5. 6. Spirits of God; and I beheld, and lo in the midſt of the Throne ſtood a Lamb, as it had been ſlain, having ſeven horns, and ſeven eyes, which are the ſeven Spirits of God, ſent forth into all the earth. Rev. 8. 2. And I ſaw the ſeven Angels which ſtood before God. And the Archangel Gabriel, ſpeaks of himſelf to Luke 1. 19. Zacharias in the very ſame language, I am Gabriel, that ſtand in the preſence of God.

That there is order amongſt the Angels, I do not doubt; God is the God of Order, and as he orders all things below, ſo no queſtion he obſerveth a moſt exact order in the court of Heaven: amongſt us ſome are ſuperiour, and ſome inferiour, ſome greater, and others leſſer; equality hath no place either on earth, or in hell; and in this viſible hea- 1 Cor. 15. 41. ven, one ſtar (ſaith the Apoſtle) differs from another in glory, how then ſhould we imagine any ataxye or confuſion to be in heaven? Certainly there is a moſt beautiful diſtinction and order amongſt the bleſſed Angels, yet I am apt to think and do believe, that the difference of thoſe glorious ſpirits in heaven, is not in their nature, but in their offices; for as among men there is a parity and equality in reſpect of nature, and the excellency of one above another is but by accident, ſo it is with Angels, they are equally ſpiritual ſubſtances, all equally created good, and pure, and perfect, and their imparity is becauſe of the divers kinds of their offices, wherein they are imployed: Hence * ſome are ſimply called Angels, ſome Archangels, ſome Principalities, ſome Dominions, &c.

But, 2. admitting this order and diſtinction of Angels, Whether are not the higheſt Angels miniſtring ſpirits? the Platonicks that firſt divided them into three orders, as ſome above heaven, called Supercæleſtes, others in heaven called Cæleſtes, and others under heaven called Subcæleſtes, do ſuitably give them ſeveral offices: As, 1. They above heaven (I mean this viſible heaven) continually ſtand before God (as they ſay) praiſing, and lauding, and magnifying his Name. 2. They in heaven are there ſeated, to move, and rule, and govern the ſtars. 3. They under heaven, are ſome to rule Kingdoms, others Provinces, others Cities, others particular men. Many Chriſtians that write of the Hierarchy of the Angels, follow theſe opinions. Now by this ſurmiſe the higheſt Angels do not miniſter to the Saints, but only and immediately to God himſelf. But on the contrary, did not Mi- Jude 9. chael (one of the ſeven) contend with Satan about the body of Moſes? And was not Gabriel, who ſtands before the preſence of God, ſent to ſpeak to Zachari- Luk. 1. 19, 26. as, and to Mary, and to ſhew the glad tidings of Zach. 4. 10. the Goſpel? And were not thoſe ſeven Archangels Rev. 5. 6. called ſeven eyes, and the ſeven ſpirits of God ſent forth into all the Earth? Surely then neither Seraphims, nor Cherubims, nor Thrones, nor Powers, are exempted from this office, they are all miniſtring Spirits.

CHAP. V. SECT. I.

Of the fourth Doctrine.

4. T*Hey have their commiſſion from God and Chriſt to execute their office of Miniſtration*; they will not go, unleſs ſent forth: as Chriſt would not do the office of Mediator until he was called, Heb. 5. 4, 5. ſo neither will the Angels execute their office without a Call: In this reſpect the Angels are ſaid to wait on Chriſt, they ſtand behind him, and receive deputations to their ſeveral offices: I ſaw by night, and behold a man,— Zach. 1. 8. and behind him were there red horſes, ſpeckled and white, i. e. And he ſaid, I will go forth, and I will be a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all his Prophets; and he ſaid, Thou ſhalt perſwade him, and prevail alſo, go forth, and do ſo. All this diſcourſe is by way of reſemblance, as it is with Kings and Princes, ſo it is ſaid of God, all his Hoſt (good and bad Angels) ſtand about him, and receive their Commiſſions from him: No ſooner is any deſign agreed on, but he gives out the word of command, Go forth, and do ſo. See here the Commiſſion, Go forth ſaith God: Are not they all miniſtring ſpirits, ſent forth, ſaith the Apoſtle.

Sect. 2. A tranſition to the laſt Point.

ON theſe four ſeveral Doctrines I have no mind to inſiſt, and the rather, becauſe they are ſo very ſpeculative, and ſo full of controverſie: For my part I ſhall never forget what Graſerus ſaid he had found in his viſiting the ſick, and in his own preparations for well dying; That moſt of the Controverſies in Divinity were utterly uſeleſs, and did intangle the Conſciences of the ſimple, juſt as the human inventions in Popery formerly did; and therefore he begun with full bent of mind to ſhun or abhor them, and in his publick preaching, to propound only thoſe things which tended to the kindling of true faith in Chriſt, and to the exerciſe of true Godlineſs according to the Word of God, and to the procuring of true conſolation both in life and death: Nor ſhall I forget what is writ of Abraham Buchaltzer, whoſe care in his publick Miniſtry was to avoid thoſe queſtions that do but gender unto ſtrife, and to inſtruct his Auditors how to live well and die well. Some indeed blamed him of cowardize, for that being endowed by God with ſuch excellent abilities, yet he would never enter into the liſts with the Fanatick Adverſaries of thoſe times; but the reaſon was, becauſe he always affected peace, having no delight in wrangling, which cauſed him to ſay to a Friend, Deſii diſputare, cœpi ſupputare, quoniam illud diſſipationem hoc collectionem ſignificat. Beſides, he ſaw that the greateſt Antagoniſts to the Churches peace had not ſo much as one ſpark of Grace in them, and that there came no profit, but much hurt to the Church of Chriſt by thoſe continual quarrels amongſt Divines. I will not deny, nay I dare not but acknowledge, that in our Pulpits we may, and muſt (as occaſion is) propound ſuch a ſubject as this of the Angels, and no queſtion but out of it we may draw matter for faith, and life, and comfort; but as to theſe particulars of the Angels, that they are Spirits, Miniſters of ſeveral Orders, and all delegated (as the Lord pleaſeth) to this or that office, they are very abſtruſe points wherein we may wrangle, and do as Boys in ſport, who ſtrive to ſtrike moſt ſparks out of their Flints, but never intend to kindle thereby for uſe: So we may diſpute and jangle about Words, or ſtrive to ſtrike out the moſt ſubtil and fineſt ſpun Notions that we can invent, but alas they will not profit our Souls, nor tend much to practice, which is the life and ſpirit of Religion: upon this I verily believe it is, that we have far leſs written in Gods Word of the nature of Angels than of God himſelf; becauſe the knowledge of God is far more practical, and leſs controverſial, and more neceſſary to Salvation, than the knowledge of Angels or Archangels; only if there be any thing of Angels revealed in Scripture, and moſt worthy of our knowledge (as certainly there is) I take that to be it, which the Schoolmen in all their learning took leaſt notice of, and that is of the miniſtration of Angels, in reference to God's People: With this one uſe (ſaith * Zanchius) could the Apoſtle content himſelf, as knowing that in the Doctrine of Angels, this was the moſt principal, and indeed moſt practical, and therefore on this point I mean to inlarge, and the other points I ſhall leave to others; in the Margent you may ſee to whom. † Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them, who ſhall be Heirs of Salvation?

CHAP. VI. SECT. I.

Of the laſt Doctrine.

THE chief point yet remains, viz. that this miniſtring office of the Angels is not for all, but only for Heaven's Heirs: On this I mean to inſiſt, and to inlarge my diſcourſe; wherein I ſhall 1. Confirm. 2. Apply. 1. For Confirmation, we have Scripture and Reaſon.

Sect. 2. Scriptures for Angels miniſtration.

HE ſhall give his Angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways; they ſhall bear thee up in their hands, leſt thou daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone. Pſal. 91. 11, 12.

In this Scripture we may obſerve theſe particulars.

1. That the Elect are ſo precious with God, that for their ſakes he gives out Commands.

2. That he commands the Angels (his choice and chief Servants) for the good of his Choſen: He ſhall give his Angels charge over thee. It is the uſual way of his Providence, to command the ſtrong in behalf of the weak, and to commend the weak to thoſe that are more ſtrong: Thus it is betwixt Children and Parents, Wives and Husbands, the Sick and Sound, the Saints and Angels; he commands the Angels over Saints, or he commends the Saints unto his Angels.

3. That the end or meaning of the Command, is for the Elects cuſtody, to keep thee: They muſt not exerciſe a power or dominion over them, they muſt not exact Adoration or Worſhip from them, as the evil ſpirits do from all their followers: but the command is to preſerve them, defend them, and deliver them, keep them.

4. That the keeping of Saints is limited to their ways; they ſhall keep thee in all thy ways: i. e. in all thy neceſſary lawful ways, not in thy ſinful devious wandrings.

5. That the obedience of the Angels to this command, is preciſe, exact, and diligent, they ſhall bear thee up in their hands, i. e. they ſhall accompany thee, go before thee, wait upon thee, follow thee, as the ſhadow follows the body, compaſs thee round, lead thee, obſerve thee, and in all ſtraits or neceſſities lend thee an hand.

6. That the iſſue of this obedience is ſafety and ſecurity; leſt thou daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone. By this one danger we underſtand by a Synechdoche, all other dangers, q. d. not any hurt, be it never ſo little, ſhall befall the Elect: So far ſhall they be from harm in the head, that it ſhall not reach the foot; indeed neither foot nor head, nor an hair of their head ſhall periſh to their prejudice, Luke 21. 18.

The ſum of all is this. As Nurſes and Mothers deal with their Children, ſo muſt the Angels deal with the Children of God, that is, they muſt keep them in their ways, they muſt bear them up in their hands: Children often ſtumble and fall, unleſs they be led and carried in hands and arms; and therefore God hath given his Angels a charge over his Children, to keep them, and carry them as in arms, leſt they daſh their feet againſt the ſtones.

Pſal. 34. 7. The Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth them: They that ſometimes are compared to Nurſes and Mothers, are other whiles compared to Souldiers that incamp themſelves about the Saints: Thus when the young Man had his eyes opened at Eliſha's prayer, 2 Kings 61. 7. he ſaw, and behold the Mountain was full of Horſes, and Chariots of fire round about Eliſha. Many military ſervices are they ever and anon performing for the Saints; they are watchful Centinels, giving a timely alarm to prevent the Enemy: Mat. 2. 13. Ariſe and take the Babe and his Mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there until I bring thee word, for Herod will ſeek the Babe to deſtroy him. They are faithful Life-guards, preſerving the Saints in Pſal. 91. 10, 11. the midſt of dangers: There ſhall no evil befall thee, neither ſhall any plague come nigh thy dwelling, for he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee. They are ſafe Convoys, bringing the Saints through their Wilderneſs to their heavenly Canaan: Jacob had Gen. 32. 1, 3. experience hereof, And Jacob went on his way, and the Angels of God met him; and when Jacob ſaw them, he ſaid, this is God's Hoſt, and he called the name of that place Mahanaim, i. e. two Hoſts or Camps, the one before, and the other behind, or the one on one ſide, and the other on the other ſide; or they placed themſelves in ſuch ſort, as to give Jacob aſſurance of ſafety every way.

Sect. 3. Reaſons for Angels miniſtration.

BUT why ſhould they miniſter for the Saints? the reaſons are: 1. In reſpect of God. 2. In reſpect of them. 3. In reſpect of us.

1. There are ſome reaſons in reſpect of God: As—

1. It is his will and pleaſure that they ſhould ſo miniſter. Thus Nebuchadnezzar could acknow- Dan. 4. 35. ledge, He doth according to his will in the Army of Heaven. The Lord's will is the rule of all Juſtice, and a moſt perfect Law, whereby he governs the Army of heaven, that is, the Angels: Pſal. 103. 21. Hence they are deſcribed to be God's miniſters that do his pleaſure, they enquire no further what is to be done, or why it ſhould be done, but acquieſce in the diſcovery of his will and pleaſure. Indeed all things and actions are reſolved into this firſt Eph. 1. 11. Principle, the good pleaſure of his Will: He worketh all things after the counſel of his will. This is the Supreme reaſon.

2. It is his command that they ſhould ſo miniſter; every thing that God wills, he doth not command, he wills ſin to be in the world, but he doth not command it, for then he would be the Author of ſin; but as for Angel miniſtration, he Pſal. 103. 20. wills and commands them to it: Bleſs the Lord ye his Angels, that excel in ſtrength, that do his Commandments, hearkning to the voice of his Word: Upon this ground is the Lord very often called, Gen. 32. 2. the Lord of Hoſts, i. e. the Lord of Angels, for ſo Jacob called the two Armies of Angels, God's Hoſt, and the multitude of Angels that praiſed God at Luk. 2. 13. Chriſt's Nativity, are called a multitude of the heavenly Hoſts. Look as commanders ſay to their Souldiers, Go, and they go, ſo ſaith God to his Angels, Go, and they go; go and miniſter to my Saints, preſently they miniſter.

3. It is his goodneſs that they ſhould ſo miniſter. Alas, if the Lord ſhould deal with us according to our demerits, rather Tygers and Dragons ſhould wait upon us, than the Angels: It is more than we can challenge, that any creature after the fall ſhould be ſerviceable unto us, but that all the Hoſt of Heaven ſhould be abaſed to ſo low a work, as to be ſent forth to miniſter for the meaneſt Saint, even for us poor ſinful wretches, duſt and aſhes; Oh! what goodneſs is this? upon this account, of the love, mercy, and goodneſs of God, we read ſo often of the Lord's ſending his Angels to attend his Saints: Thus Abraham told his ſervant, The Lord Gen. 24. 40. before whom I walk, will ſend his Angel with thee: And thus God told Moſes, I will ſend an Angel be- Exod. 32. 2. fore thee: And thus Daniel told the King, My God hath ſent his Angel, and hath ſhut the Lyons Dan. 6. 22. mouths, that they have not hurt me. So gracious is that King of Heaven, that he will ſpare his own Courtiers out of Heaven, and ſend them on errands to his Saints for their preſervation; whence David reaſons, Oh taſte and ſee that the Lord is good! Oh Pſal. 34. 7, 8. the goodneſs of God.

2. There are other reaſons in reſpect of the Angels. As—

1. It is their duty; not the brighteſt Angel, but is ſubbordinate unto God, and therefore muſt act and move as the Lord appoints. This is the living Ezek. 10. 20. creature that I ſaw under the God of Iſrael, and I knew that they were the Cherubims. The Cherubims are glorious Angels, of great wiſdom, ſtrength and agility, and yet they are ſubſervient to the Lord, and therefore are ſaid to be under the God of Pſal. 103. 21. Iſrael: Surely that word of the Pſalmiſt (They do his pleaſure) is the very image of true obedience, q. d. they miniſter not at their own pleaſure, but at God's: now what is God's pleaſure but the Saints Pſal. 33. 7. welfare? He hath pleaſure in the proſperity of his ſervants. The Angels that know this, ſtand not upon terms with God, all they do is but to hearken Ezek. 11. 22. to the voice of his word, and then they flie? Then did the Cherubims lift up their wings and the wheels beſides them: It is a note of * a Divine upon theſe * Greenham in loc. words; All things are under the God of Iſrael, he hath the prehemminence, he is above wheels, and Angels are under him, at his diſpoſe; if he give out the word, the Cherubims move, lift up their wings and order the wheels: If he ſay, go and miniſter beyond Saints, preſently they go, as it is their duty.

2. It is their delight to attend the Saints. They know that one day they ſhall live together, and ſing together, and rejoice together; they know that the Saints ſhall ſupply the room of the fallen Angels, and when they meet, O the joy that will be betwixt them. In the mean time, it is their deſire and delight to attend their Partners in Heavens joy, for they are acquainted with God's deſign and purpoſe to ſave them; they know what Chriſt hath done and ſuffered for them. The Myſtery of Godlineſs is ſeen of Angels; it is ſo ſeen, that they take great delight to behold it, yea, they are raviſhed in the very beholding of it, as at ſome new and ſtrange object, Ἐπιθυμοῦσιν, they look into it, ſaith Pe- 1 Pet. 1. 12. ter, their whole ſpirits are taken up with it, as if it were the bleſſedeſt ſight that ever they could behold, and they that are ſo raviſhed at the work of our Redemption, how ſhould they but with delight attend the Redeemed Ones of Jeſus Chriſt.

3. It is their Honour to wait on the Saints. It is true, in ſome reſpects they are of an higher form, they come neareſt to God of all the creatures in the World, and they have kept their Cloaths of Gold unſtained ſix thouſand years: O the purity,

John Rose

ty, agility, beauty, glory, ſanctity, and excellency of the Angels! Man in his greateſt honour, advanced to the higheſt pinacle of happineſs, is yet in many things below the Angels; Thou haſt Pſal. 8. made him a little lower than the Angels, and yet it is no indignity for them to attend the Saints, for herein they are but fellow-workers with God Joh. 5. 17. and Chriſt, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work. My Father is beneficent in preſerving Saints: and I work by the ſame power, ſaith Chriſt. At firſt I created, and ſtill I preſerve. Now if God and Chriſt thus work and wait, well may the Angels co-work with them. It was Paul's honour that he wrought together with God; We 2 Cor. 6. 1. then, as workers together with him, beſeech you alſo. Servants of God (ſuch as men and Angels) cannot but look on it as their glory, to put to their hands in the ſame work with their Sovereign Lord, Mat. 20. 28 the King of Glory: If Chriſt himſelf came not to be miniſtred unto, but to miniſter, the Angels may well think it an honour to imitate him, and to miniſter alſo.

3. There are other reaſons in reſpect of Saints. As,

1: It is for their conſolation, a mighty comfort it is, that other creatures ſhould do them ſervice, that heaven, and earth, and all therein ſhould be made for them, and be continued and preſerved for their ſakes, and yet as if all this were not enough, except the Angels alſo were ſubſervient: That Creatures of the higheſt order, of the fineſt make, of the nobleſt ſpirits, who behold the face of God himſelf, and are taken up with the immediate enjoyments of his fulneſs, that they, even they ſhould be deſtined by Chriſt the King of Saints, to miniſter to his Saints: Oh what a comfort is this! Rom. 15. 4. If whatſoever things were written afore-time, were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope: Surely this that is written of the Angels, as concerning their office and miniſtration, muſt be full of comfort: Indeed Reprobates and Unbelievers have none of this comfort, alas they are not within the verge of this bleſſed Text, they have nothing to do with this Scripture of Heaven's Heirs, it is for them, and only for them, who ſhall be heirs of Salvation.

2. It is for their benefit, both of body and ſoul: Some obſerve, that were it not for the Angels, the Devils that are ever ſeeking to devour, would quickly tear all the bodies of the Saints into Atoms. We read, how afore Chriſt's death, the bodies of many were poſſeſſed of Devils, and when they had Mar. 1. 26. torn them, by the Command of Chriſt they were diſpoſſeſſed: But after the great work of our Redemption, the Devils were more reſtrained of their Joh. 12. 31. Power, Now ſhall the Prince of this world be caſt out. Chriſt ſo bound him in Chains by his holy Angels ſince that time, that now he hath not his liberty as before to hurt the Saints: It is true, that he is ſtill in the World, and rules in the Air, but the good Angels ſo defend our bodies againſt the evil Angels, that they cannot touch an hair to our hurt, and as for our Souls, they are in their ſpecial care; it is not to tell how many are the benefits they adminiſter that way, they teach us Truths, they open God's Will, they reveal the ſecrets and myſteries of Grace, and by theſe means they promote the ſalvation of our Souls: Thus they did ſometimes by dreams in the night, and ſometimes by conference in the day, when they aſſumed bodies; but now ſtill they admoniſh our minds, and in a ſecret unperceivable way, they perſwade us to the reading, hearing, and obeying of God's Word. But of theſe, and the like Soul-ſervices of the Angels, we ſhall inlarge another time.

Sect. 4. Uſe of Terrour.

WELL then; Is the miniſtring office of the Uſe 1. Angels not for all, but only for Heaven's Heirs? What terrour is this to the wicked? Alas they have no Angels to keep them, or take care of them, they are devoid of the preſence and miniſtry of the heavenly Angels; or if they have any inſpection of them, it is but a general inſpection, ſuch as Hagar and Iſhmael had, who are ſet out in Scripture as the types of thoſe that are rejected of the Lord. And this I take it is the reaſon why Reprobates live, and are not all ſuddenly ſtruck dead, to wit, becauſe the Angels have ſome general charge and care of them, that they may be preſerved to their condition, but they are not properly Guardians of any ſuch men: O woe, Rev. 9. 12. woe, woe to the wicked World, when one woe is paſt, behold there come two more woes after. As it was with Saul, when God was gone from him, then the Philiſtines made war againſt him, and he was ſore wounded of the Archers, and at laſt he fell on his own Sword and died: So where the Angels of God ſtand aloof of, and will not reſcue, one woe follows after another, there the evil ſpirits keep their rendezvous, the Devil works in them mightily, they are hood-winkt and beſotted and blinded by the God of this World, having no power ſo much as to groan, or to wiſh for deliverance; we may ſay of all Reprobates as it 2 Tim. 2. was ſaid of Saul, An evil ſpirit is upon them, and 26. God is not with them: They are already taken in the Snare of the Devil, he hath them in a ſtring and leads them captive at his will: and no wonder, for they have not thoſe aids, thoſe contrary whiſperings, they have not the good Angels to conflict with the bad, they have not the ſpirit, a new nature, much leſs the external helps and guards of holy and bleſſed Angels; ah woe to theſe men!

Sect. 5. Uſe of Incouragement.

WHAT incouragement is this to the Godly? Uſe 2. though the wicked have not ſuch guards, yet the godly are the proper objects of the Angels miniſtry. —— Are they not miniſtring ſpirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them? It is a queſtion that puts all out of queſtion: The wicked indeed are left to the wide world, but God is at charge of giving the Saints Tutors, and Governours, and Guardians; here is a mighty incouragement to the people of God: I know not the condition that any Saint in the world may be in, wherein we cannot find in Scripture ſome encouragement or other drawn from an Angel: Art thou in a journey? ſo was Abraham's ſervant, when Abraham told him, He ſhall ſend his Angel before Gen. 24 7. 40. thee, and proſper thy way: Art thou in Battel, or ready to march againſt the Enemy? ſo was Iſrael, when the Lord told Moſes, For mine Angel ſhall go before thee, and bring thee in unto the Amorites, Ex. 23. 24. and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, &c. and I will cut them off: Art thou in oppreſſion, under the tyranny of wicked men? ſo Moſes told Edom the Iſraelites were, Thou knoweſt of all the tra- Num. 20. 14, 15, 16. vel that hath befallen us, how our Fathers went down into Egypt, and the Egyptians vexed us, and our Fathers, and when we cryed unto the Lord, he heard our voice, and ſent an Angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: Art thou in perſecution for Religion, and forc'd to fly for thy life? ſo was Elijah, when he requeſted for himſelf 1 King. 19. 4, 5. that he might die, and ſaid it is enough now, O

Lord, take away my life for I am no better than my Fathers; and as he lay and ſlept under a Juniper tree, behold an Angel touched him, and ſaid unto him, Ariſe, and eat. Art thou traduced, maligned, cenſured, impriſoned, and condemned to death for Righteouſneſs ſake, or for the truth? ſo was Daniel, whom God yet deliverd by an Angel: Dan.6.22. My God hath ſent his Angel and hath ſhut the Lyons mouths, that they have not hurt me, for as much as before him innocency was found in me: Acts 12.7. 11. And ſo it was with Peter, For behold the Angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light ſhined in the priſon, ——— and when Peter was come to himſelf, he ſaid, Now I know of a ſurety that the Lord hath ſent his Angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod: Art thou amidſt a People, whom God for ſin hath decreed to deſtruction? ſo was Lot, whom the Angels haſtned out of Sodom leſt he ſhould be conſumed in the iniquity of the City. But I am ſaved this labour of ſearching any further into Scripture; * a worthy Author hath framed us the variety of their aſſiſtance in this ſame Scheam: One while they lead us in our way, as they did Iſrael, another while they inſtruct us, as they did Daniel; one while they fight for us, as they did for Joſhua, another while they purvey for us, as they did for Elijah,; one while they fit us to our holy vocation, as they did Iſaiah, another while they diſpoſe of the opportunities of our calling for good, as they did of Philip's to the Eunuch; one while they foretel our danger, as to Joſeph and Mary; another while they comfort us in our afflictions, as they did Chriſt and his Apoſtles; one while they reſiſt our offenſive courſes, as they did Moſes, another while they encourage us in our devotions, as they did Paul; one while they deliver us from durance, as they did Peter: another while they preſerve us from death, as the three Children; one while they reſtrain our preſumption, as the Cherub before the gate of Paradiſe; another while they excite our courage, as to Joſhua, Gideon, and the other Judges; one while they cure our bodies, as at the pool of Betheſda; another while they carry up our ſouls to heaven, as they did to Lazarus. It were endleſs to inſtance in all the gracious offices which the Angels perform. And is not here great incouragment to all the Saints? The Children of Princes are not without their guard, no more are God's Children; as they have an heavenly Father, ſo they have an heavenly guard to wait upon them, and to miniſter unto them. O mighty encouragement!

* Biſhop Hall in his inviſible World.

Sect. 6. Uſe of admiration.

Uſe 3. HOW may this Angel-adminiſtration cauſe the Saints to admire at the kindneſs of the Lord towards them? You darlings of the Almighty, if others regard not, you have cauſe to wonder at this, that the Angels, thoſe created Citizens of glory, ſhould receive you in your ſtraights, march after you in your ways, counſel you in your doubts, defend you in your dangers; in a word, that God ſhould charge all his Elect Angels to ſhew love and reſpect unto you, yea, to ſerve and to miniſter unto you: Stand amazed at this, O ye Saints! The Angels are the moſt glorious creatures in the world, they are the gliſtering Courtiers of heaven, the beautiful companions of Jeſus Chriſt; Job calls them morning ſtars, in that being newly created they gave glory to the Creator, even as the birds in ſpring begin their notes, and ſing at break of day: and he calls them Sons of God, in that he doth uſe them as children, they are very near to him, they do always attend him, and continually ſee his face, they have the priviledges of ſons: The Morning ſtars ſing together, and the Sons of God ſhout for joy. Job 38.7. Now that ſuch creatures ſhould wait on ſinful wretches, duſt and aſhes, worms and not men, it is enongh to caſt any man in the world into an amazement or aſtoniſhment. A wonder it is, that any creature, though inferiour, ſhould be ſerviceable to man, that by ſin hath loſt his dominion over the creatures; a wonder it was that the Ravens ſhould miniſter unto Elijah, but that all the Hoſt of Heaven ſhould be abaſed (if we may ſpeak after the manner of men) to ſo low a work, that Angels ſhould perform offices of reſpect to the meaneſt Creatures; that an Angel cloathed with light and glory ſhould come to Zachary, to Mary, and to the Shepherds? What, Angels of God to wait upon thoſe who are the moſt deſpiſed and rejected of men? Stand and wonder at this! When I conſider the heavens (ſaith David) the work of thy fingers, the Moon and the Stars which thou haſt ordained, what is man that thou art mindful of him, and the ſon of man, that thou viſiteſt him? for thou haſt made him a little lower than the Angels. Pſal. 8. 3, 4, 5. This indeed is applyed to Chriſt, Heb. 2. 6, 7, 9, 11. Who was made a little lower than the Angels, by the ſuffering of death, but now is crowned with glory and honour. Heb.2.6, 7, 9, 11. Yet (ſaith the Apoſtle) He that ſanctifieth, and they who are ſanctified are all one, for which cauſe he is not aſhamed to call them brethren. Chriſt and we are of the ſame nature, which though in ſome reſpect it be lower, yet it is but a little lower than the Angels; nay, in ſome reſpects are we higher than the Angels, for the Angels wait on the Saints, and the Angels are not ſo married to Jeſus Chriſt in a myſtical union, as the Saints and People of God reſtored to his Image are. Admire at this all ye Saints! verily there is ſomewhat in holineſs more than the world ſeeth or knoweth, there is ſome worth, or excellency, or conſanguinity in the Saints to Chriſt, or I cannot think that Chriſt would ſet ſuch a guard upon them as his own Courtiers. The Angels are indeed near in alliance to Chriſt, but the Saints are nearer: The Angels are God's Progeny, the Sons of God, and ſo Chriſt is their Brother, but man is allied nearer to Chriſt than ſo, in that man is of God's Lineage, and Chriſt is of man's Lineage: And hence it is, that the Angels muſt now ſtoop, and bow, and wait, and ſerve, and miniſter to the Saints. Are they not nearer allied than all the Angels? unto which of the Angels ſaid he at any time, You are my Sons, my Kinſmen, Brethren, Mother, Siſter, Spouſe? An Angel is conſtantly called a miniſtring Spirit, but is no where read a friend of God, the Son of the Father, the delight of the Son of man, the Temple of the Holy Spirit, wherein the Thrice glorious Trinity takes up his Manſion. Chriſtians admire, here is enough to caſt you into an extaſie: Come view the Saints Pedegree, and tell me what you think of it.

Upon the view of this Line, Genealogy, Pedegree (call it what you pleaſe) methinks (my brethren) we ſhould all cry out, Pſal. 8. 4, 5, 6, 9. Lord, what is man that thou art mindful of him? for thou haſt made him higher than the Angels, and haſt crowned him with glory and honour, thou haſt made him to have dominion over the works of thy hands, thou haſt put all things under his feet; O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the world?

Sect. 7. Uſe of Magnanimity.

Uſe 4. DO Angels wait on Heavens Heirs? Come then ye holy ones, and take an holy ſtate upon you, think your ſelves too good to abaſe your ſelves to the world, or to ſin, or to be ſlaves of men: Why you are Kings, and have a mighty guard, and therefore you ſhould carry your ſelves anſwerable. Little do the men of this world think of this, or believe this truth; if they ſee a man to have at his heels a long train of earthly followers, in ſilks, ſattins, golden chains, and ſuch like braveries, Oh how are ſuch ſights gazed on? and how are ſuch men uſually ſtiled, Your Greatneſs, Highneſs, Excellency? Alas, alas! all is but beggery to the glory of the leaſt of the Saints of God, and of their attendants. I ſee indeed a great deal of gliſter in ſome of theſe earthly State ſolemnities, yet in all their pomps they had need of a fair day, and clear Sun-ſhine, or elſe half their Shew will be loſt: But Angels (the Saints attendants) enlighten the greateſt darkneſs, Luke 2. 9. Acts 12. 7. Is not their countenance as lightning, and their rayment white as Snow? Mat. 28. 3. Matth. 28. 3. Oh then! how ſhould this greaten the Spirits of God's people? Why, think of it you whom it moſt concerns; it was an high favour for Mordicai, a poor porter, to have Haman, the great pompous Peer of the Empire, to be his Attendant, his Lacquey, or his Footman for an hour: How much more honour is it for you poor worms, to have thoſe mighty Peers of heaven, little Royes, Demigods, to wait upon you continually? King Solomon in all his Royalty in the midſt of his two hundred Targets, and three hundred Shields of beaten Gold, was not like one of the Lillies of the field, much leſs like a Saint invironed, and incompaſſed with a wall of Angels: Matth. 18. 10. Hence was that ſaying of Chriſt, Deſpiſe not one of theſe little ones: and why ſo? Becauſe in Heaven their Angels do always behold the face of my Father. The brighteſt Angels that look in the face of God, deſpiſe not to attend upon the meaneſt Saints, and how then ſhould any deſpiſe them whom the Angels honour? How ſhould any think them unworthy of their Company, or Countenance, whom the great Angels think moſt worthy of their Service and Attendance? But eſpecially, how ſhould any preſume to wrong the Saints, or to ruſh into God's Paradiſe, ſuch as every true Chriſtian is, where ſtands the Angels of God with a flaming Sword which turns every way? It's enough (one would think) to affright all the men in the world from offering any violence to any of God's people; But howſoever they carry, let Chriſtians carry as Heavens Heirs, let them walk worthy of God, who hath called them to his Kingdom and Glory: 1 Theſ. 2. 12. Let them conſider what Servitors and Miniſters God hath appointed to wait on them, and in the Name of God let them carry themſelves anſwerably, and be holily magnanimous. Plutarch tells of Themiſtocles, that he accounted it not to ſtand with his ſtate to ſtoop down to take up the Spoils of the Enemy, whom he had ſcattered in flight, but ſays to one of his Followers, You may, for you are not Themiſtocles. If others mind the earth and earthly things, as the Swine that follow the Trough, and can look no higher, yet let the Saints, (whom the Angels wait on) walk above the World, and above all things that are here below. Citizens of Rome might not accept of any other freedom in any other City; they accounted it a diſhonour to the Freedom of Rome, to take Freedom any where in the World beſides: You that are free of the Kingdom of Heaven, and that have the created Citizens of Heaven to be your Life-Guards, Oh do not entangle your ſelves with the things of earth, ſeek not to be free here, as if you had no better portion: Surely if you underſtand your own Priviledges, you are Spiritual Kings and Queens of an otherwiſe Kingdom than this World: You have the Priviledges of a Council, to wit, God's Teſtimonies, Pſal. 119. 24. and the Priviledges of a Guard full of ſtate and ſtrength, to wit, God's Angels: Oh how ſhould this greaten your Spirits: Let the Saints be joyful in Glory; let them ſing aloud upon their Beds. Let the high Praiſes of God be in their mouths; and a two-edged Sword in their hands: To execute vengeance upon the Heathen, at whoſe command is a Legion of Angels. This honour have all his Saints. Pſal. 149. 5, 6, 7.

Sect. 8. Uſe of Exhortation.

IS the miniſtring Office of the Angels for Heavens Heirs? Then to your Duties of Communion with them. Uſe 5. Oh improve this Ordinance! Why, here is an Ordinance of Jeſus Chriſt ſcarce thought on; the Angels miniſter to Saints, and the Saints almoſt, if not altogether, forget their Duties which they owe to God and Chriſt in that reſpect. What (my Brethren) are you ignorant of ſuch an Ordinance? Or do you know it, and yet are you negligent? If you are ſimply ignorant, and that your ignorance is of pure negation, and not of evil diſpoſition, it is then high time to diſcover this myſtery of Godlineſs to you, that you may be in the exerciſe of ſuch Duties yet unknown; or if you know them, and are negligent of them, it is then high time to rouze up your Spirits, and to ſtir up your pure minds by way of remembrance, that you may be mindful of the words which were ſpoken before by the Holy Prophets, and of the Commandments of the Apoſtles of our Lord and Saviour. 2 Pet. 3. 1, 2. Howſoever the caſe ſtands with you, I beſeech you hear, learn, practiſe, and make uſe of this preſent Book and Work; it is another meſſage that I have from God, another Ordinance that I would diſcover; therefore Set your Hearts to all the words that I teſtifie to you this day, for it is not a vain thing, but it is for your Lives. Deut. 2. 64.

The Motives I uſe, ſhall be only theſe,——

1. Angel-miniſtration, and our Communion with them, is an Ordinance of Jeſus Chriſt; it is an inſtitution of Chriſt, which hath connexed to it ſome kind of Spiritual efficacy to work on Souls. Amongſt other intervening Mediums (ſaith one) there is one great Ordinance, which we have Lawrence of Angels. not ſo much conſidered of, viz. That the good Angels (the Chariots and Horſes) ſhould relieve us, as they did Eliſha; nor is their relief only as to outwards, but in relation to our religious walking, and to our inward Man. Were it not ſad to loſe an Ordinance of Jeſus Chriſt? Or if it be not loſt in reſpect of the living Inſtruments on their parts, yet is it not ſad that we ſhould make no uſe of them? Miniſters are an Ordinance of Chriſt, they are Meſſengers, Interpreters, (even as the Angels, and therefore are called Angels, Rev. 1. 20.) their Job 33.23. 2 Cor. 5. 20. Epheſ. 4. 12. office is to declare unto man his Righteouſneſs; to pray men in Chriſts ſtead to be reconciled unto God; to gather together the Saints, to be Chriſt's Paranymphs, to deal about the getting of a Wife for the Lamb, to Cater for Heaven, to bring in cuſtom for the Kingdom of God. Miniſters and Angels are in the very ſame imployment. Now were it not ſad, that the Miniſters of Chriſt ſhould be neglected or deſpiſed? What if you have Miniſters? Is there no uſe to be made of ſuch an Ordinance? The Apoſtle tells you, you cannot have ſaving Knowledge, Regeneration, or Faith, without their uſe: I do not ſpeak what God may do extraordina- Rom. 10.4. rily, but this is God's ordinary way: How can they belive on him of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without a Preacher? I may ſay the ſame of Angels in their way, for they are rational and living Inſtruments, they are Miniſters of God, and they adminiſter to us ſaving Truths: An Luk. 2,10. Angel told that firſt news of the Goſpel, Behold I bring you good tydings of great joy, which ſhall be to all people. And ſhall this Ordinance of Chriſt be without any conſideration how we may receive good from it? God forbid.

2. The Angels are an Ordinance ever preſent; ſome other Ordinances may be taken from us: Men may take from us our Bibles, Teachers, Paſtors, or they may Impriſon us where we cannot enjoy them, but they cannot take from us the Holy Act. 5.18, 19, 20. Angels: When the High-Prieſt, and all that were with him, laid hands on the Apoſtles, and put them in the Common Priſon, then the Angel of the Lord by night opened the Priſon Doors, and brought them forth, and ſaid, Go ſtand and ſpeak in the Temple Acts 12. 6, 7. to the People all the words of this Life. And when Peter was in Priſon, ſleeping between two Soldiers bound with two Chains, and the Keepers before the door kept the Priſon, behold the Angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light ſhined in the Priſon, and he ſmote Peter on the ſide, and raiſed him up, ſaying, Ariſe up quickly. No Priſon is ſo cloſe, no Keepers are ſo vigilant as to keep out Angels: Though we want and may want other Ordinances, yet we have the Angels as an Ordinance to walk up and down with us, whereſoever we are, or witherſoever we go. I cannot but remember that Speech of a great Divine, which at firſt reading Biſhop Hall of the inviſible World. exceedingly ſtuck with me: The good Lord forgive me, for that amongſt my other Offences, I have ſuffered my ſelf ſo much to forget, as his Divine preſence, ſo the preſence of his Holy Angels: It is I confeſs my great ſin that I have filled my eyes with other Objects, and have been ſlack in returning praiſes to my God for the continual aſſiſtance of thoſe bleſſed and beneficent Spirits, which have ever graciouſly attended me without intermiſſion, from the firſt hour of my Conception to this preſent moment, neither ſhall ever, I hope, abſent themſelves from my tutelage and protection till they ſhall have preſented my poor Soul to her Final Glory. If a good Man of an Holy gracious Spirit was ſo forgetful of them, that he was fain to cry Peccavi, I confeſs my great ſin, and the good Lord forgive me. Methinks it ſhould be a prevailing motive to work on us, ſo to converſe with them, and to perform our reſpective Duties to them, as being ever preſent, without intermiſſion they wait on us, how is it that days without number we ſhould forget them, and their Miniſtration?

3. The Angels are an Ordinance improving other Ordinances of Jeſus Chriſt: In this reſpect there is no fear of claſhing with other Ordinances: It is true that the Lord never calls any Aſſembly to two divers Imployments at one and the ſame time, unleſs they be ſubſervient the one to the other. Hence it is, we blame them, who coming into our Congregations when ſome publick Ordinances are in hand, they betake themſelves to their private Devotions, and will not reverently (without more-a-do) compoſe themſelves to join with the Aſſembly in that Ordinance of God which is in hand: We would not have Ordinances claſh, only Angel-miniſtration in Religious Affairs will not hinder, but further our Religious Services; and Angel-miniſtration in civil Affairs will not hinder, but further our civil buſineſs. 1. In Religious Services the Angels are aſſiſtant; it is ſaid, that they ſuggeſt ſuitable, ſeaſonable, and pious thoughts at ſuch a time: When Cornelius was praying, he ſaw an Angel, ſaying unto him, thy Prayers and thy Act. 10. 4, 5. Alms are come up for a Memorial before God: And while Zacharias was Executing the Prieſts Of- Luke 1. 8, 9, 10. fice before God, there appeared unto him an Angel of the Lord on the right ſide of the Altar of Incenſe, Pſal. 9. ſaying, thy Prayer is heard. 2. In Civil Affairs the Angels are aſſiſtant; They ſhall keep thee in all thy ways, in thy Vocation, or particular Calling. Now herein is the excellency of ſuch an Ordinance, that it is an Addition and Improvement to all other Ordinances, an argument ſufficient to bind us to our duties in reference to it.

4. Angel-miniſtration, and our communion with them, is an Ordinance in oppoſition to Satan's Temptations, and our communion with them, it were enough to amaze poor Souls to conſider the Powers and Principalities that are againſt them; were they but weak, they were leſs conſiderable; but we wreſtle not againſt fleſh and blood Epheſ. 1. 12. (ſaith the Apoſtle) but againſt Spirits, yea, againſt ſpiritual wickedneſſes in heavenly places. And yet as great as the Power and Policy of Devils are, they are leſs in Power than the Holy Rev. 12. 7, 8. Angels: There was War in heaven, Michael and his Angels fought againſt the Dragon, and the Dragon fought and his Angels, and prevailed not. ——— Rev. 20. 1, 2. And I ſaw an Angel come down from Heaven, having the Key of the Bottomleſs Pit, and a great Chain in his hand, and he laid hold on the Dragon, that old Serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thouſand years. Now here is the incouragement to our Duties; not only God and Chriſt, who is the Author and Finiſher of our Faith, but even ſpiritual ſubſtances of good Angels, proportionable to the other of bad Angels, contend with them, and ſtand moſt valiantly on our ſide.

But what are thoſe Duties of Communion we owe the Angels in this reſpect? I anſwer, 1. In general. 2. In ſpecial.

1. In general: As is their miniſtration, ſo is our duty of Communion with them. Now in ſeveral ways do they adminiſter to us, and ſo in ſeveral reſpects do we owe duties to God and them.

There is a proportion (if we can find it out) betwixt their Miniſtration and our duty, and they anſwer one another as in the Glaſs face anſwers face: If they ſerve us, certainly there is ſomething of ſervice that we owe God and them: As the Lord could ſay, If I be a Father where is mine Honour? And if I be a Maſter, where is my Fear? So if the Angels ſtand in any ſuch relation towards us, it cannot be, but proportionable or ſuitable duties are to be performed by us. Malach. 1. 6.

2. In ſpecial: As the kinds of their Miniſtration differ at ſeveral times, ſo are we to obſerve their Miniſtration at theſe times, and to return ſuitable duties. At the firſt they miniſter in one kind, and anon they miniſter in another kind; as our ſeveral needs are at ſeveral times, ſo are their ſeveral miniſtrations in thoſe times. Ex. gr. When I was in my Mothers Womb they miniſtred thus; and when I was born, and yet an Infant, they miniſtred thus; and when I was grown, and come to riper years, they miniſtred thus; and when I die, and go out of the World, they will miniſter thus; and when I ſhall riſe again, and come to Judgment, they will miniſter thus. Now here is my Duty: 1. To conſider their ſeveral Miniſtrations at thoſe ſeveral times. 2. To return ſuitable duties at times ſeaſonable, as I am in their ſeaſon to perform all other duties.

Sect. 9. Uſe of Direction.

AND this is that ſpecial uſe which I aimed at, and which I had firſt in my Eye, when I begun this Work; it is an uſe of direction, wherein I ſhall firſt lay down the Office of Angels, and then our Office. Firſt, what they do in their times, and then what we muſt do in our times, in anſwer to them and their Miniſtrations. And O that the Lord would bleſs this work to thee that readeſt! Oh that he, on whoſe Errand I come, would ſpeak himſelf to thy Soul, for he is able to inſtruct, yea, when he teacheth, all are Scholars. Uſe 6.

Miniſtration of, and Communion with ANGELS.

The Second Book.

CHAP. I. SECT. I.

Of the time when the Angels firſt begin their Miniſtration.

THE firſt Period wherein the Angels miniſter to Heavens Heirs, it is from their quickning in the Womb till their Birth. Come then, and firſt, ſee the Miniſtration of Angels at this time; and ſecondly, learn, and practiſe we thoſe ſeveral Duties that eſpecially concern the Saints in that reſpect.

1. For the Miniſtration of Angels in that Period, moſt probable it is, that then they begin their Miniſtration. The exact beginning is indeed queſtionable; ſome would have it to begin at the firſt hour of Conception. They have ever graciouſly attended me (ſaith one) without intermiſſion from the firſt hour of my Conception to this preſent moment. Others at the firſt infuſion of the Soul. Their care begins (ſay they) as ſoon as the Child is quickned in the Womb, for that they have then another diſtinct charge to look after. Others at the Birth of the Elect; God revealing to the Angels who are ſuch, by requiring their attendance on them then: From their Birth to the end of their Life (ſaith * Zanchius) Angels are aſſigned of God to wait on the Elect. Others at the Baptiſm of Infants: † Origen recounting many Opinions, doth mention this; which is very improbable, for then it is in the power of Parents, who ſet the time of Baptiſm, to ſay, when the Angels ſhall begin their office over their Children, but the Elect are precious and dear to God before, as after the Ordinance of Baptiſm. Others at the time of Converſion. Of which two Reaſons are given.

† Origen Tract. 5. in Matth.

See Dingley Deput. of Angels.

1. Becauſe the Angels know not the Decrees before that Election be declared in Converſion: But this we deny.

2. Becauſe in the ſtate of Nature a man is under the wrath of God, and is vexed with evil Spirits that hurry him to ſin, and rule in the Children of Diſobedience; but although this cannot be denied, yet God is reſolved that all his Elect ſhall have inviſible ſupports againſt Satan, to preſerve them charily, as choſen Veſſels, againſt the time that he ſhall manifeſt himſelf unto them; and it is ſufficient to Angels, that God wills their attendance, and that hereafter they ſhall diſcern ſome fruit of their attendance. For my part amidſt all theſe differences, I cloſe only with them, who ſay, that the Angels begin the execution of their Charge when the Soul is infuſed: and the Reaſons are ſolid——

1. Becauſe the Child hath then a diſtinct being of his own.

2. Becauſe then it is a perſon conſiſting of Soul and Body.

3. Becauſe Gods' Providence over Soul and Body (of which the Angels are Servants) taketh date thence: Thou haſt covered me (ſaith David) in my Mother's Womb: The Lord in framing our Bodies and creating our Souls in our Mother's Womb, did then cover his tender work with his mighty power from all incoveniences, as with a Shield; and therefore then did the Angels begin their Miniſtration. Pſal. 139. 13.

Sect. 2. Of the manner of Angel-miniſtration at that time.

BUT how do the Angels miniſter at ſuch a time? I anſwer, they keep, preſerve, defend, deliver, ſuſtain and ſtrengthen Babes, even in the Womb. I cannot think that they have only one Office at ſuch a time, but that ſometimes they attend them for good, and ſometimes they deliver them from evil. The caſe ſtands thus; in the creation or infuſion of the Soul, (which is all one, for creando infunditur, & infundendo creatur) the Angels receive their Commiſſion, as if the Lord ſhould ſay, Come Bleſſed Angels, here is a Creature that ſhall at laſt fill up the room of ſome fallen Angel, and then it ſhall be like to your ſelves, and you ſhall love it as you love your ſelves, but in the mean time, it is my pleaſure that you ſhould miniſter unto it, and keep it ſafe: Which is no ſooner ſaid, but they are prompt and ready to do God's will.

We may wonder at this, that the Angels ſhould thus miniſter to man after his Fall, which they never did before. In that Collation betwixt Innocent Adam, Second Adam, Renewed Adam, and Old Adam, it is ſaid, that the Angels did neither miniſter unto, nor keep the firſt Adam, before the Fall, becauſe he was in no danger, only they loved him: The Angels indeed miniſtred to Chriſt, the Second Adam, and loved him, but did not keep him, for he was Comprehenſor as well as Viator: Chriſt is the Head of Angels, and therefore he is not kept by them: The Angels now miniſter to the renewed Adam, yea, they love him, and keep him, and yet this argues not any Prerogative that the Saints have above Chriſt, but rather their weakneſs and wants, that they have need of the Angels to preſerve them, as young Children ſtand in need of Nurſes to wait upon them: But as for Old Adam or wicked Reprobates, the Angels neither miniſter to them, nor love them, nor keep them, in reſpect of any ſpecial and particular keeping: It may be the Angels are ſometimes Miniſters of outward things even to the wicked, as the Angels brought down Manna in the Wilderneſs to the bad Iſraelites, as well as good; but they have not that particular care of the wicked, as they have of the elect of God; they come not up and down upon the Ladder, Chriſt, to miniſter to them, as they do to the Elect. Now this keeping of the Elect, is not only in this life, but all the while that they are in the Mothers Womb.

Therefore is Manna called Angels food; Quia Angelorum miniſterio fuerit productum. Voſſius.

Sect. 3. Experiences of this Truth.

OF this, as of all the reſt, I would give in ſome Experiences for further clearing.

1. An ancient Matron having many Children, and having left bearing for the ſpace of twelve years, the Lord then unexpectedly gave her to conceive; ſhe wondred, and apprehending nothing but ill health, purpoſed on ſuch a day to take Phyſick; but the night before (if I miſtake not) ſhe felt the Child ſtir in her Womb, and then ſhe brake out, as Sarah did; What! After I am waxed old, ſhall I bear a Child, my Lord being old alſo? Hereupon the Phyſick was removed, the Child preſerved, and rightly called Iſaac, in imitation of old Abraham and Sarah, who laughed at the News of the Angel, that they ſhould have a Son in their old age, Gen. 17. 17.—18. 12.

Gen. 18. 12.

2. Three Godly Women in the Iſle of Gernſey, were condemned to be burnt for their Religion, and though one of them was great with Child, yet found ſhe no favour: As they were all three in the fire, the Belly of the Woman breaking with the vehemency of the flame, the Infant (being a fair Man-child) fell into the fire; which being caught, and carried to the Bailiff, he commanded it to be had back, and thrown into the fire; whereby after it was born, and preſerved by the Angels, it died a Martyr. Clarke.

Sect. 4. Of the Duties that concern us in this reſpect.

2. THE Duties that concern us in this reſpect, are either Parents Duties, or Childrens——

1. For the Parents.

1. Parents may rejoice at this, that the Holy Angels attend them, and thoſe little Pieces and Pictures of themſelves. You that are Mothers great with Child, are you not ſometimes in trouble, fear, and peril? Be not diſcouraged, for the Angels attend your motions, and all occurrences for the ſafety and preſervation both of you and yours. It is obſerved, that when Mary ſaluted Elizabeth, the Babe ſprang in her Womb for joy, and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghoſt. Some think that this ſpringing of the Babe was by the preſence of an Angel with John, otherwiſe that little Embryo had been uncapable of ſuch effections and motions, according to the courſe of nature; and immediately it follows, Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Ghoſt. A ſerious conſideration of the Angels miniſtring to ſuch Embryo's, may be a bleſſed means to fill you with the comforts of God's Spirit. O rejoice in this! Nor is that all: For——

Luk. 1.41.

2. Parents ought to pray, not to the Angels, but to the God of Angels, for the favour, aſſiſtance, and protection of the Angels, to their Infants. I know ſuch Prayers are not uſual, but is not that a neglect of duty to our Babes? When David prayed againſt his Enemies, he could ſay, Let the Angel of the Lord chaſe them, and let the Angel of the Lord perſecute them: How much more may we ſay for our tender Infants in the Womb, Let the Angel of the Lord guard them, and let the Angel of the Lord keep them. Manoah and his Wife were very careful what to do for the Babe which muſt be born to deliver Iſrael out of the Philiſtines hands; and therefore after the Angel had appeared to the woman, and told her, Then Manoah entreated the Lord, and ſaid, O my Lord, let the man of God (or the Angel of God) which thou didſt ſend, come again unto us, and teach us what we ſhall do unto the Child that ſhall be born: and God hearkned to the voice of Manoah, and the Angel of God came again: Indeed when he came, he would have no burnt Offering offered unto him, but gave direction, If thou wilt offer a burnt offering, thou muſt offer it unto the Lord. Angels would not be prayed unto, nor worſhipped, Rev. 19. 10. —— 22. 9. But yet in reverence to the Angels, we find here Manoah praying and offering unto the Lord, and if he prayed for Angel-direction, how much more may we turn the Promiſes into Prayers for Angel-protection, and miniſtration to theſe poor Infants yet unborn!

Ver. 16.

2. For the Children or Parties themſelves, when grown.——

1. Let them know and be acquainted with their Angel-keepers. When David conſidered how he was made in ſecret, and curiouſly wrought in the loweſt parts of the earth, and covered in his mothers womb, he cryed out, Marvellous are thy works, and that my ſoul knows right well. It is not enough to have Angel-keepers, before we are born, but in time we ſhould endeavour to know them: It is ſad to be ignorant ſtill of ſuch a glorious truth; Surely God would have us acquainted with his works, and to bear witneſs of what we know for his Glory.

Pſal. 139. 14.

2. Let them praiſe God for the Angels miniſtring to them in the Womb. Thou art he (ſaid David) that took me out of the Womb; and thou art he that preſerves me in the Womb. The Lord doth many things for us, which at that time when he doth them, we cannot obſerve; it is our duty therefore to look upon them afterwards, that they may furniſh us with matter of Praiſe to God? But why is not Praiſe rendred to the Angels, as well as to God? Becauſe God will not give his Glory to another: Angels muſt have their due, but they muſt not rob God of his Praiſe; whatſoever inſtruments and means the Lord makes uſe of, the ſpiritual eye pierceth through them, and looks on God, and gives him all the Glory. You that hear of this Angel-miniſtration in the Womb, O praiſe the Lord! It is (if you rightly apprehend it) a ſmothered wonder, and ſo glorious a work of God, that he deſerves perpetual praiſe from you for that one work. Pſal. 71.6. Thou art he that preſerved me in, and took me out of my Mothers Bowels; my praiſe ſhall be continually of thee.

3. Let them act their Faith, and truſt in God, even becauſe of this: to this end are all the experiences of God's love to his Saints, that they might ſtore up their Faith, and truſt God more. O then among other experiences of God's dealings, make uſe of this, for ſtrengthning of your Faith! Pſal. 71.5, 6. Thou art my hope O Lord God; thou art my truſt from my youth; by thee have I been holden up from the womb. As Satan makes aſſault after aſſault againſt Faith, ſo ſhould we raiſe Bulwark after Bulwark, for defence thereof: after we have looked upon other mens Experiences, we ſhould recount our own Experiences of God's care towards us, and make uſe of all God's dealings for our ſtrengthning. Pſal. 22.9, 10. Thus, Lord, thou didſt for me in my youth, and Childhood and Infancy. Thou diſt make me hope when I was upon my Mothers Breaſt, I was caſt upon thee from the womb, thou art my God from my Mothers Belly; yea in the womb, before I was born, thou didſt cover me, and guard me by the Angels, and therefore how ſhould I but believe? How am I forced to acknowledge that the Lord never leaves me, even when I leaſt perceive his preſence? Here's mighty encouragement for Faith.

4. Let them love God and his Angels, for this early miniſtration of the Angels. Ancient Love is a Load-ſtone of Love; were it but a little Love, yet long Love might beget Love again. Why, God hath loved us from everlaſting, and the Angels have loved us from our firſt beginning, and therefore how ſhould we but love them again? David's conſideration of God's mercy towards us in the Womb, took up his heart and raviſhed his ſpirit; yea, he was ſo exceedingly taken with it, that he could not off it. Pſal. 139. 16,17,18. Thine eye did ſee my ſubſtance, yet being unperfect, and in thy Book all my members were written, which in continuance were faſhioned, when as yet there was none of them; how precious are thy thoughts unto me, O God, How great is the ſum of them? If I ſhould count them, they are more in number than ſand: when I awake I am ſtill with thee. Oh that our ſouls were awaked, and oh that our ſpiritual ſenſes were renewed, that upon a ſerious conſideration of God's love, and of the Angels love to us in the Womb, we might love again and in a holy pang cry out, How precious are thy thoughts unto me, O God? and how precious are your thoughts unto me, O ye Angels of God?

CHAP. II. SECT. I.

Of the Miniſtration of Angels in our Infancy and Childhood.

THE Second Period, wherein the Angels miniſter to Heavens Heirs, it is from their birth to their youth, or riper years; this takes up the time of Infancy and Child-hood. And in proſecution of this, Firſt, ſet we the object before us at this time, and Secondly, learn and practiſe we thoſe ſeveral Duties that will naturally flow from ſuch an object.

1. For the Object, viz. The Miniſtration of Angels in our Infancy and Childhood. The Scriptures are expreſs: Mat. 18. 10. Take heed that ye deſpiſe not one of theſe little ones, for I ſay unto you, that in Heaven their Angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in Heaven. By little ones, I do not exclude the Adult, who reſemble little Children in ſome imitable qualities; nor would I exclude little Children, whom our Saviour propounds as a pattern for the imitations of the Adult, v. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. But I would rather take all in, and ſay, that by little ones is meant either thoſe who are little in ſtature, as the Child ſet in the midſt of them: or, little in Grace, Parts, Eſteem, as ſome of the Diſciples were; or little in their own eyes, as all the Elect are or muſt be: All theſe have their Angels, and therefore none of theſe muſt be deſpiſed. Mat. 2.13. When Chriſt was but a Babe, The Angel of the Lord appeared to Joſeph in a dream, ſaying, ariſe, and take the young Child and his Mother, and flee into Egypt, and be there, until I bring thee word. And when Herod was dead, V. 19, 20. the Angel appeared again unto Joſeph, in Egypt, ſaying, ariſe, and take the young Child with his Mother and go into the Land of Iſrael. Thus was Chriſt provided for in his Cradle by an Angel. When Hagar had not wherewithal to feed her Child, Gen. 21. 16, 17, 18, 19. ſhe caſt the Child under a ſhrub, and ſhe went and ſat her down over againſt him a good way off, ſaying, let me not ſee the death of the Child; and ſhe ſat over againſt him, and lift up her voice and wept, and God heard the voice of the Lad, and when the Angel of the Lord called to Hagar out of Heaven and ſaid unto her, What aileth thee Hagar? fear not, for God hath heard the voice of the Lad where he is, ariſe, lift up the Lad, and hold him in thine hand, for I will make him a great Nation; and God opened her eyes, ſhe ſaw a Well of water, and ſhe went and filled her bottle with water, and gave the Lad drink. Here was an Angel calling, comforting, and directing Hagar in her Child's behalf: or if Hagar and Iſhmael were not Elect: when Jacob bleſſed the two Sons of Joſeph, Gen. 48. 16. he ſaid, The Angel which redeemed me from all evil, bleſs (or keep) the Lads. Many think this was the great Angel of the Covenant to whom Jacob prayed for a bleſſing on Joſeph's Sons, and the rather becauſe he is ſaid to redeem him from all evil, which is properly peculiar to Jeſus Chriſt; but others ſay, that this form of prayer was only an interpretative kind of imploration, that God would bleſs, or keep Joſeph's Sons by his Angels: And for that of Redeeming] if this was ſpoken of Eternal Redemption, it were indeed peculiar to Chriſt, but Jacob (ſaith a late Writer) Dingly of Angels. ſpeaks here of redemption, and deliverances from temporal evils, which is confeſſed to be a main office of Angels. And Chryſoſtom, Baſil, Rivius, Mercerius (as he cites them) quote this very place for the deputation of Angels.

Sect.

Sect. 2. Of the manner of Angel-miniſtration at that time.

BUT how do the Angels miniſter to us in our Childhood? I anſwer.——

1. They keep us from evil: were it not ſo, into how many dangers ſhould we fall? Indeed, a wonder it is, that moſt Children are not disfigured, and lamed with bruiſes and fearful miſcarriages, with cutting and burning themſelves, as hundreds and thouſands of opportunities are offered, but that Angels are very diligent to keep them out of harms way: When Father and Mother forſake me (ſaith David) then will the Lord take me up: When Parents are without natural affection, when Nurſes are careleſs, and Children of reſtleſs, ſtirring, and climbing diſpoſitions, then doth the Guardianſhip of Angels eſpecially appear. To this purpoſe is Chemnitius cited by the aforeſaid Author, ſaying, That Infants are obnoxious to ſuch and ſo many dangers, that no anxiety of Parents, or diligence of Servants can ſecure them without the tuition of Angels. And Gerſon obſerves the like, whence is it (ſaith he) that little Children are conſerved from ſo many perils of their infancy, as fire, water, falls, ſuffocation, but by the agency of Angels?

Pſal. 7.10.

2. They keep us in health: Some ſay, that much Phyſick ſhould not be adminiſtred to infants, it is not ſafe to be too much tampering with ſuch tender things, and I ſuppoſe there is leſs need, in that Angels themſelves are inſtead of Phyſicians to ſuch weak Patients. It is Mr. Dike's ſaying, Angels help to remove diſeaſes and evils, as the Devil helps to bring them on us: And to that purpoſe they may have an hand in the uſe of ſuch means as are for our bodily health. Angels are the Rockers (ſaith the ſame Author) of Babes and Sucklings, their inviſible hands are doing for them, when we little think of any ſuch matter. It may be ſome are ſick, and yet recover, and we attribute it to this or that means, when indeed the inſtrument was an heavenly Angel. 'Certainly '(ſaid our divine Seneca) there are many thouſand 'events wherein common eyes ſee nothing but na'ture, which yet are effected by the miniſtration 'of Angels: As when ſudden cures were wrought 'at the Pool of Betheſda, it might perhaps be at'tributed by many to ſome beneficial conſtellation, 'but we know out of the Evangeliſt, that an An'gel deſcended and moved the water, and made it 'ſanſative: Where we find a probability of ſecond 'cauſes in nature, we are apt to confine our thoughts 'from looking higher, yet even then there are 'many times unſeen hands: How much more when the work is above the power of any ſecondary cauſe? this carries its own evidence without diſpute, that if it be not of nature, it muſt needs be of a higher efficiency, Ex. g. Have we ſeen a poor weak Child raiſed up from deadly ſickneſs, when all natural helps have given him up, then have the Angels of God been his ſecret Phyſicians.

2. They teach and tutor us: Some think, that Angels do help little Infants to ſpeak and go, but howſoever they are as Tutors and Schoolmaſters to them. Zanchy compares them firſt to Nurſes, and then to Schoolmaſters, that they may inſtruct them, admoniſh them, correct them, comfort them, defend them from all evil, and provoke them to all good. Amidſt all their offices (which are almoſt infinite) this I believe is the Angels care of little Children, that they be brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Heaven is the place, whence many good Angels are fallen, and the good Angels would would have theſe places filled up again with Saints. Hence they take care eſpecially of their ſouls, tacitely revealing to them the myſteries of Grace, not ſo as if the Angels office were to preach the word; that miniſtry is not committed to them, but to the Apoſtles, and others called to it; but 'tis at leaſt the Angels care, that both Children and Adult ſhould be taught in the Church by men appointed and prepared by the Angels: Thus the Angel ſpake to Philip, when he was to preach the Goſpel to the Eunuch, ſaying, Ariſe, and go towards the South: And another Angel ſpake to Cornelius, ſaying, ſend to Joppa, and call for one Simon Peter, who ſhall tell thee what thou oughteſt to do. If the Angels are not our ordinary Preachers, leſt they dazle us (their brightneſs being unſuitable to our weak conditions) yet are they God's Inſtruments, to provide Preachers for us, that by them we may be inſtructed in the Law of God, and Myſteries of the Goſpel. And ſomething more the Angels do, in that they ſuggeſt to Infants Pious Thoughts, and tacitely provoke them to a Pious Life, and draw out of them ſuch gracious holy Words, that the Pſalmiſt ſaying is verified, Out of the mouth of Babes and Sucklings haſt thou ordained ſtrength. Thus when the Children cryed in the Temple, Hoſanna to the Son of David, and therefore the Prieſts and Scribes were ſore diſpleaſed, Jeſus made their Apology, ſaying, have ye never read, out of the mouth of Babes and Sucklings haſt thou perfected praiſe? Certainly thoſe Hoſanna's of the Children were above nature, or acquired parts, or Parents Education, and therefore they were taught them by the Angels.

Sect. 3. Experiences of this Truth.

EXperiences——

1. For keeping us from evil.

An infant being laid in his Bed with ſome Servants, he was near morning found out of the Bed among Wooden and Iron Tools, enough to have killed him, he was taken up cold, yet without any harm, and being laid in the warm bed he revived, and ſo was graciouſly preſerved.

A Child fell into a River of Water, and being carried down the Stream, was at laſt taken up for dead, but after ſome time he revived, and the next day I ſaw him, and telling him that God had given him a new life, the Child wept, I deſired him to remember it, improve it, and to thank God for that mercy all his days.

A Child playing by the ſide of a Pond, fell into it, where it was like to periſh: Near the Pond was an Houſe, where only was one man reading in a Book, but it pleaſed God that he was ſuddenly ſo troubled, though he knew not for what, he could read no longer; whereupon he walked up and down the room, but could not be quiet; then he walked forth, and eſpyed a Straw Hat ſwimming upon the Water, and looking earneſtly, he ſaw the Child riſe to the top of the Water, and ſo catching hold of it, drew it out, and ſaved its life. White.

There was a Maid, who lived with her Mother in Bargamus, and was in one and the ſame Night by a ſtrange wonder brought into the City of Venice; they in the Family where ſhe arrived, were near allied to her, and coming in the Morning into the Chamber where ſhe was, and finding her unexpectedly ſtark naked, without any Linnen, not ſo much as a rag to cover her, gently demanded of her, how ſhe came thither? Where her cloaths were? And what was the cauſe of her coming? The poor Girl being much aſhamed, and mixing her Bluſhes with many Tears, made anſwer to this purpoſe: “This very night (ſaid ſhe) when I “lay betwixt ſleep and awake in bed, I perceived “my Mother, ſteal ſoftly from my ſide, thinking “I had not ſeen her, and ſtripping her ſelf from all “her Linnen, ſhe took from her Cloſet a Box of “Oyntment, which opening, ſhe anointed her ſelf “therewith under the Arm-pits, and ſome other “parts of the Body, which done, ſhe took a Staff, “which ſtood ready in a Corner, which ſhe had no “ſooner beſtrid, but in the inſtant ſhe rid (or rather flew) out of the Window, and I ſaw her “no more; at which being much amazed, and “the Candle ſtill burning by me, I thought in “my ſelf to try a Childiſh Concluſion, and riſing “from my Bed, took down the ſame Box, and anointing my ſelf, as I had before obſerved her, “and making uſe of a Bed-ſtaff in the like manner, “I was ſuddenly brought hither in a moment, “where I was no ſooner entered, but I eſpied my “Mother in the Chamber with a Knife in her hand, “with purpoſe (as I thought) to kill this my young “Nephew (pointing to a Child in the Cradle) but “ſhe was hindred by finding me here, who no “ſooner ſaw me, but ſhe began grievouſly to “threat me, and came near to ſtrike me, in which “fear I began to call upon God to help me, whoſe “name I had no ſooner uttered, but ſhe inſtantly vaniſhed, and I am left here, even as you “found me. Whereupon her Kinſman, the Maſter of the Houſe, writ down, and keeping the Maid ſtill with him, ſent to the Inquiſitor of the place, where the Mother of the Girl, his Kinſwoman, lived in good Reputation, and no way ſuſpected: Before whom ſhe was called and queſtioned, and (as the manner of that Countrey is, upon the like probability and ſuſpicion) put to the mercy of the Tormentor, and at length ſhe confeſſed every particular before mentioned; to which ſhe added, that ſhe had no leſs than fifty ſundry times been tranſported by the Devil, only with a malicious intent to kill that young Child; but ſhe found him always at her arrival ſo guarded (by Angels, and) by the Bleſſings and Prayers of his Devout and Religious Parents, that ſhe had no power over him. Barthol. Spinæus.

2. For preſerving of Health and Life.

A Child being begotten and born of Ancient, Sickly and Diſeaſed Parents, was hereditarily infirm, and ſo oppreſſed with Childrens Maladies, that the Phyſician concluded he could not be long-liv'd; whence the Father drawing nigh to his Death, and making his Will, gave him ſuch a Portion, in caſe he ſhould live to the Age of fourteen years: weak he was, and many Sickneſſes he had, and yet ſtill the Lord raiſed him up: and unexpectedly reſtored him to health and ſtrength, that he paſſed over thoſe fourteen years, and yet lives, Oh that it may be to God's Glory, and the Churches Edifying.

At the taking of Bolton by Prince Rupert, amongſt others then ſlain, there was one William Iſherwood, and his Wife, and Felice their Daughter, being then but eleven weeks old, lay pitifully crying at the Breaſt of her dead Mother, but it ſo pleaſed God, that an old Woman, the Wife of one Ralph Helne, of the ſame Town, aged above ſeventy years, who had not given ſuck above twenty Years before, ſeeing and hearing the Child, compaſſioned, and took it up, and having neither Food for her ſelf, nor for the infant in that common Calamity, to ſtill the Child, ſhe laid it to her Breaſt; and behold the goodneſs of God, who provides for the young Ravens that cry! the Child ſucking, Milk came into her Breaſt, wherewith ſhe nouriſhed it, to the admiration and aſtoniſhment of all Beholders.

Iſenbard an Earl in Swevia, had to Wife one Jermentrudis, who grievouſly accuſed one of her Neighbours for Adultery, becauſe ſhe had been delivered of ſix Children at a Birth; but it ſo fell out afterward, that her ſelf, (her Husband being abroad in the Fields) was delivered of twelve Children, all Males: She fearing the like infamous puniſhment, that by her inſtigation had been inflicted on the former Woman, commanded the Nurſe to kill eleven of them: The Nurſe going to execute the will of her Lady, was met by her Lord, then returning homewards; he demanded what ſhe carried in her Lap? ſhe anſwered Puppies: He would needs ſee them, and opening her Apron, found the Infants: Whereupon he examined the matter, found out the truth, enjoined the Nurſe to be ſecret, and to put the Children to ſome Nurſe abroad; and when they were ſix years old, he made a Feaſt, apparrelled the young Boys alike, and preſented them to their Mother, ſhe miſdoubting the truth, confeſſed her fault, obtained Pardon, and own'd her Children. Heylin.

A Miniſter in the late Rebellion of Ireland, flying for his Life to Dublin, his Wife and Children followed after him; in their Journey, being very weary, they all agreed when night came, to ſit down together under the Lee of an Iriſh Mountain, for it was Froſt and Snow: The Miniſters Wife had a young Child called John Teate, hanging upon her Breaſts, which were become dry through her manifold Griefs, and want of ſleep three nights together; the Child cryed and groaned, and for want of nouriſhment, was ready to die: in ſuch ſort, that the ſad Mother, not being able any longer to endure the Groans and Cries of her Babe, aroſe up from the Company (who ſate all together as cloſe as they could, with Children in their Laps, to keep one another warm) purpoſing to leave the Child by himſelf, that ſhe might be freed from thoſe Heart-piercing Sobs and Wailings. And here behold the Lord who hath promiſed to be ſeen of his Servants in time of need, appeared even literally in this Mount; for as ſhe ſtooped down with a bleeding Heart, and Eyes full of Tears, there to leave her little one upon the ground, ſhe ſpied, or rather felt upon the Rock (it being then ſomething dark, only the Snow caſt ſome little light) a Sucking bottle, which ſhe opening, taſted of what was within it, and found it to be full of good Milk, which the Iriſh call Bonny Clabbo; ſhe put it to her Child's Mouth, with fear leſt he, never having ſucked before out of any Bottle beſides the Breaſt, would not draw it; but he readily ſucked his Belly full, and fell aſleep: The Mother hereat aſtoniſhed, returned unto the Company and ſhewed them what ſhe had found; who much admired at it, how or whence that Bottle could come thither, conſidering that the place was far remote from any Habitation at all, and the Veſſel lay upon the top of the Snow lately fallen; but ſome of them called to mind Hagar's Story, and related it to the reſt, how that when Gen. 21. 15,16,17. ſhe was wandring in the Wilderneſs of Beerſheba, the water was ſpent in the Bottle, and ſhe caſt her Child under one of the ſhrubs, and went, and ſat her down a good way off, for ſhe ſaid, let me not ſee the death of the Child, and ſhe lift up her voice and wept; and then God heard the voice of the Lad, and the Angel of God called to Hagar out of Heaven, and God opened her eyes, and ſhe ſaw a Well of Water whereat ſhe filled the Bottle, and gave the Lad drink. Theſe things compared and laid together, afforded them matter of thankfulneſs to God, for his Providence, and of more comfort than any Feaſt could have done: From thence they concluded, (as if the Angel had ſpoke to them as well as Hagar) that they ſhould not fear, and that God who had ſo wonderfully preſerved the Infant, would in like manner preſerve them all: which accordingly came to paſs; for the next day they came to Virginia, where they all found free, unexpected and plentiful refreſhing, even a Table in the Wilderneſs; and within two or three days after, they came ſafe to Dubling, their deſired Harbour. Dr. Teate.

3. For teaching or tutoring of Infants.

A Child being very young, much affected his Ancient and Reverend Father with his reading of the Bible, and with his Queſtions and Anſwers; which drew from the Father theſe very words, that if the Child but lived, he verily believed he would ſuck in Learning, as a Child doth Milk. This minds me of what was ſaid of Origen (in whom was certainly much of the Angels tutoring) that his Father brought him up from his Childhood moſt ſtudiouſly, in all good literature, but eſpecially in the reading and exerciſe of Holy Scripture, wherein he had ſuch inward and myſtical ſpeculation, that many times he would move queſtions to his Father of the meaning of this place or that place in Scripture; in ſo much, that his Father divers times would uncover his Breaſt, being aſleep, and kiſs it, giving thanks to God, who had made him ſo happy a Father of ſuch an happy Child. This Origen being but yet a Child, would needs have ſuffered Martyrdom with his Father Leonides, had not his Mother privily in the night ſeaſon conveyed away his Cloaths and his Shirt; whereupon, more for ſhame to be ſeen, than for fear to die, he was conſtrained to remain at home; yet then he wrote a Letter to his Father with theſe very words; Cave tibi, ne quid propter nos aliud quam Martyrii conſtanter faciendi propoſitum cogites, Euſebius, L. 6. c. 3.

In the primitive Perſecutions, we read of one Romanus, who firſt being ſcourged with Whips, with knaps of Lead at the end, inſtead of Tears, Sighs, and Groans, he ſung Pſalms all the time of his whipping, and after, his face being buffeted, his Eye-lids torn with Nails, his Cheeks cut with Knives, and his Teeth ſtruck out, that his Pronunciation, at leaſt, might be impaired, whilſt he preached Chriſt, he only ſaid, I thank thee O Perſecutor, that thou haſt opened to me many mouths, whereby I may preach my Lord and Saviour: Look how many wounds I have, ſo many mouths I have to praiſe my God. But being reviled, that Chriſt his God was but of yeſterday, and that the Gods of the Gentiles were of great Antiquity; he made a long Oration of the Eternity of Chriſt; which done, he ſaid, Give me a Child but of ſeven years old, which age is free from Malice and other Vices, wherewith riper age is commonly infected, and you ſhall hear what he will ſay: His Requeſt was granted, a pretty Boy was called out of the Multitude, and ſet before him: Tell me, my Babe (quoth the Martyr) whether thou thinkeſt it reaſon that we worſhip one Chriſt, and in Chriſt one Father, or elſe that we worſhip infinite Gods? unto whom the Babe anſwered, That certainly whatſoever it be that men affirm to be God, he muſt needs be one, which with one is one and the ſame; and in as much as this one is Chriſt, of neceſſity Chriſt muſt be the true God; for that there be many Gods, we Children cannot believe: And after this, was the Babe Martyred. Fox Martyrolog.

2. FOR the ſeveral Duties that concern us in this reſpect, they are ſuch as theſe.——

1. Let us know our Priviledges which God in Chriſt gives us from our Birth: The Angels were appointed our Guardians in the Womb, and they have guarded, preſerved and tutored us in our infancy and Childhood: Many a time were we in great danger of Fire and Water, and Falls, and Suffocations: Many a time have we been in the extremity of ſickneſs, and very near to death: Many a Leſſon have we had taught us, and many a motion and holy thought hath been ſuggeſted to us, and is not all this worthy our notice, knowledge and underſtanding? Did we but ſee little Children of poor men waited on by a Guard of rich, noble, ſtrong and valiant men, would not all admire? But if we knew this to be our own condition, that when we were Babes and Sucklings, and could not diſcern between our right hand and left, that we had then a guard full of ſtate and ſtrength, even of Angels themſelves, would not this fill us with the ſenſe of the goodneſs of God? Certainly it concerns us to know thus much, that we may better know the goodneſs of our God in thus providing for us: The Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, ſaith David; and then, O come, and taſte, and ſee that the Lord is good. God would not have his Favours unregarded; for if we know them not, never ſhall we attain to conceive of God himſelf, eſpecially in his goodneſs, love and mercy towards us. But of theſe more particularly in another Section. Pſal. 34. 7, 8.

2. Pauſe a while, and to every particular Miniſtration in our Infancy, ſet we a Selah: This was the manner of David in his Pſalms; when ſome eſpecial thing worthy attention or obſervation was delivered, he added Selah; that by a little ſtop or pauſe of the breath, the matter, worth, or excellency of the thing might be conſidered. Methinks it is ſad, that the Angels ſhould do ſuch excellent Offices for us, as Mothers, Nurſes, Phyſicians, Tutors, and that either we ſhould forget them, or not ſeriouſly conſider and pauſe upon them; in other things of leſſer conſequence, we can ſpeak with delight olim meminiſſe juvabit; but are not theſe Paſſages of God's Providence, whereof the Angels are eſpecial Inſtruments (as to keep us from evil, to preſerve us in health, to teach us Gods will in our Infancy or Childhood) of far more excellency, profit, and delight? O then let us ſet a Star at the Margin of ſuch Notes, and whilſt we either read or ſing them, let us ſtop a while, that we may dwell upon them, and ſee the want of them on all ſides; Let us ſay with Jacob, when he ſaw the Ladder on which Angels aſcended and deſcended, Surely the Lord (or the Angel of the Lord) was in this place, (or in this paſſage) and I knew it not. Gen. 28. 16.

3. Bleſs we God for this free Love to us in our firſt and ignorant times: Whilſt we were Infants we could neither deſerve nor deſire ſuch a Glorious Guard, and yet even then had the Angels a charge to keep us from evil, to keep us in health, and to be our Tutors: O adore we this free Grace! Say we as the ſweet Singer of Iſrael, O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is thy Name in all the Earth! who haſt ſet thy Glory above the Heavens: Out of the Mouths of Babes and Sucklings haſt thou founded Praiſe. Very Children themſelves could ſing Hoſanna to Chriſt, by the help of Angels, which occaſioned him to cite Pſal. 8. 1, 2.

this Text, Out of the Mouths of Babes and Sucklings haſt thou perfected Praiſe: Matth. 12. 16. Moſt rightly is it ſaid, Out of the Mouths, becauſe they ſpeak not from their underſtanding; but by the vertue, and miniſtration of the Angels, their tender Tongues were led to ſpeak thoſe words: How much more ſhould we, that are adult, and of capacity to underſtand our duty; I ſay, how much more ſhould we praiſe him by the help of Angels for the help and miniſtration of his Angels? Come, and ſing we an Hoſanna to him, ſet we the Crown upon the head of free Love, free Grace: Let us join with Angels to bleſs God for his Angels, and for their Miniſtration in our Infancy and tender years. Is there not cauſe in regard of the freeneſs of his Love? It was beſtowed on man unmerited, undeſired, and placed on him in the Infancy, yea, even in the dark Womb.

4. Live we up to the Mercies we received when we diſcerned little or nothing of them. If any Friend do me a kindneſs unknown to me, I ſhall take it kindly and exceeding kindly, when I know it; and if before, I was unable to requite, yet when I am able, I ſhould think my ſelf ſtrongly ingaged to retaliate: Surely thus it is with the People of God; our Friends, the heavenly Angels waited on us, in our Infancy and Childhood, but we neither ſaw them, nor had them in our thoughts; notwithſtanding they went on in the diſcharge of their Office, and ſometimes they were as Nurſes; otherwhiles as Phyſicians, and otherwhiles as Tutors and Schoolmaſters to us: And now that we know this, now that the light of the knowledge of the Glory of God, and of his Angels ſhines in our hearts, oh how ſhould we live up to theſe mercies? how ſhould we gratifie the Angels, who have been thus to us, and have done all this for us? The Angel that appeared to Gideon under an Oak, was for the preſent unknown, but when he had cauſed fire to riſe up out of the Rock, and to conſume the fleſh, and the unclean Cakes, then Gideon perceived that he was an Angel, and ſaid, Alas, O Lord God, for becauſe I have ſeen an Angel of the Lord face to face: Upon this, God was pleaſed to encourage him, ſaying peace be unto thee, fear not, thou ſhalt not die; And then Gideon built an Altar there unto the Lord, and threw down the Altar of Baal, and cut down the Grove by it; and afterwards became a Judge of Iſrael till he died. Judg. 6. 21, 22, 23, 24. Angels Preſence and Encouragements once diſcovered and made known, are enough through the Bleſſing of God, to work in us a fear of God, and obedience to his Laws.

CHAP. III. SECT. I.

Of the Miniſtration of Angels in our Riper years.

THe next Period wherein the Angels miniſter to Heavens Heirs, it is from their riper years unto their death. And in order to this, we ſhall firſt obſerve their Miniſtration, and ſecondly, our Duties.

1. For their Miniſtration, I ſhall follow the ſame Method as before.

1. That it is ſo, the Scriptures abundantly prove, Pſal. 34. 8. Pſal. 91 11, 12. Gen. 19. 15, 16. 2 Kings 6. 16, 17. If I may give inſtances, Lot was led out of Sodom by an Angel; Daniel was taught by an Angel; Cornelius was anſwered by an Angel; an Angel appeared to Joſeph, Mary, Zachary, Peter, Paul, on ſeveral Errands. Scarce any remarkable thing befel the people of God, but it was accompliſhed by the Miniſtry of Angels. But what needs more? Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them who ſhall be heirs of Salvation?

Sect. 2. Of the kinds of Angel-Miniſtration at that time, as to our Bodies.

2. FOr the kinds of their Miniſtration, it runs in ſeveral ſtreams; as firſt, to our Bodies: Secondly, to our Souls.

1. For our Bodies.

1. They keep us from evil: So they did in our Infancy, but now they do it with this limitation, they keep us in all our ways; (i. e.) in all thoſe courſes appointed us by God. The Devil left out that Clauſe in the Pſal. when he ſet Jeſus Chriſt on a Pinnacle of the Temple, and tempted him to caſt himſelf down; Pſal. 91. 11. he told him the Promiſe, that the Angels ſhould keep him, but he omitted the main point, in all his ways. Certainly there is ſome ſpecial Treaſure incloſed in this, or the Devil would never have concealed it from our Saviour; then we may expect Angel-protection, when we are in the ways God hath appointed us: It was no way for Chriſt to caſt himſelf down headlong from the Pinacle, for the way lay down the ſtairs: If we keep not in our ways, neither will the Angels keep us from external evils: The Prophet that went out of his way, and beyond his bounds appointed him by God, a Lyon met him by the way, and ſlew him. 1 King. 13. 14.

Queſt. But do not many external evils befal God's People, even walking in their ways and Courſes appointed them by God? I anſwer,——

Anſw. It cannot be denied, but that ſometimes ſuch things do befal the godly: Mephiboſheth, a child of five years old, ſon to a good father, and afterwards a good man himſelf, was lamed by a fall from his flying Nurſe. Satan was permitted by God, to deſtroy the goods, children, and health of Job, though by the Spirit of God he was ſtyled a perfect and an upright man, and one that feared God, and eſchewed evil, and that there was none like him in the earth. Job 1. 8. & 2. 3. 'The Lord (ſay ſome) can countermand Angelical protection, and give inſtruction to thoſe powers (in ſome caſes) to ſuſpend their attendance and care of us, yet the promiſe is not null, and of none effect: For—— Mr Dingley of Angels, and Mr. Fuller on Chriſts temptations.

'1. Angelical attendance doth mitigate the evil, ſo that God's people do not utterly miſcarry; they may be troubled on every ſide, yet not diſtreſſed; perplexed, but not in deſpair; perſecuted, but not forſaken; caſt down, but not deſtroyed. 2 Cor. 4. 8, 9. Angels are not always to keep us from, but ſometimes in troubles; Chriſt could have prayed that many Legions of Angels ſhould have kept him from ſuffering, this he did not, yet the Angels miniſtred unto him in the wilderneſs, and in the garden, where he ſweat drops of blood.

2. 'The promiſe of Angel-protection (as all temporal promiſes) runs with this tacite reſervation and condition, always provided, that God in his infinite wiſdom, for reaſons beſt known to himſelf, do not judge the contrary more conducing to his glory, and our inward good: we know Job was afflicted, that he might be tryed; and the Lord doth ſometimes ſuſpend the protection of his Angels, that we may the more depend upon himſelf: As the Nurſe gets behind the Skreen, that the Infant may go into the Mothers arms without crying; if the Angels do not help us, it is that we may call upon God for aid.

2. They keep us in health; ſo they did in our infancy, but the promiſe runs without limitation to every age in our life. Surely he ſhall deliver thee from the ſnare of the Fowler, and from the noiſom peſtilence; —— A thouſand ſhall fall at Pſal. 91. 3, 7, 11, 16.

thy ſide, and ten thouſand at thy right hand, but it ſhall not come nigh thee: And the reaſon follows, For he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee: And the Concluſion is this, With long life will I ſatisfie him, and ſhew him my Salvation. It is the opinion of good Divines, that good Angels help to remove diſeaſes, and to conſerve bodily health: and on the contrary, evil Angels are God's inſtruments of inflicting ſore and grievous maladies. As in the midſt of his agonies the Lord Jeſus (ſaith * one) was comforted and refreſhed by an Angel, Luke 22. 43. So are the Angels with the faithful, helping and eaſing them in their ſickneſs.—— For my own part (ſaith † another) I believe that God's works on the world are uſually by Inſtruments, and not immediate, and that good Angels are his inſtruments in conveying his mercies both to ſoul and body, and that evil Angels are inſtruments of inflicting his judgments both corporal and ſpiritual. Hence God is ſaid to ſend his evil Angels among the Iſraelites, Pſal. 78. 49. Hence Satan did execution on the Children, cattel, and body of Job: So then I judge that Satan is the inſtrument in our ordinary diſeaſes, &c. And I may add on the ſame grounds, that the Angels are inſtruments in continuing or reſtoring our bodily health. The Miniſtry of Angels (ſaith * a third) is for the promoting of our health, I mean not only of the health of our Soul, but of our bodily health: No queſtion but the devils, who are our Enemies, and continually ſtand about us, would quickly ruſh upon our bodies, and either tear them, or affect them with divers maladies, but that the good Angels do defend us by divine command. I cannot deny, but that ſometimes God afflicts men by the Miniſtry of his holy and bleſſed Angels, for Sodom was deſtroyed by the Angels, and Senacharib's Hoſt was ſlain by the Angels; and David ſaw the Angel of the Lord, having a drawn Sword in his hand, and ſtretched out over Jeruſalem; and an Angel of the Lord ſmote Herod, and he was eaten of worms; but this is not God's ordinary diſpenſation towards his Saints. Surely their ordinary imployments, and wherein they delight, is according to the promiſe, He ſhall give his Angels charge over thee.

3. They carefully furniſh us with all other neceſſaries for this life. Thus when the Iſraelites were in the Wilderneſs, they were provided for by the Angels: Man did eat of Angels food, he ſent them meat to the full: or as others tranſlate, Man did eat the bread of the Mighties, he ſent them meat to ſatiety: It is all one, for what is the bread of the Mighties; but the bread of the Angels which are mighty ſtrength? And Manna is called their bread, either becauſe it came from Heaven, the habitations of the Angels, or becauſe it was excellent, ſo as the Angels (if they needed any food) might eat it, or eſpecially (as I think) becauſe God ſent it by the Miniſtry of Angels, they were the purveyors of it for the Iſraelites. Thus when Elijah went into the Wilderneſs, and lay and ſlept under a Juniper tree, Behold an Angel touched him, and ſaid unto him, Ariſe and eat; and he looked and behold there was a cake baken on the coals, and a cruſe of water at his head, and he did eat, and drink, and laid him down again. And the Angel of the Lord came again the ſecond time, and touched him, and ſaid, Ariſe, and eat. The ſame God that provided for him in the time of drought by the Miniſtry of Ravens, now again fed him by the Miniſtry of Angels. I know theſe proviſions were miraculous, but where no miracles are, the Angels have an hand even in ordinary proviſions: The Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him: And what then? O fear the Lord ye his Saints, for there is no want to them that fear him; the young Lyons do lack and ſuffer hunger, but they that ſeek the Lord ſhall not want any good thing. I know we ſee not the Angels providing for us, but what then? Abraham's ſervant ſaw no Angel going along with him, and yet Abraham could ſay, The Lord God of Heaven, which took me from my Fathers houſe, and from the Land of my kindred, he ſhall ſend his Angel before thee: The Iſraelites ſaw no Angel going along with them, and yet the Lord could ſay, I will ſend an Angel before thee, and I will drive out the Canaanite, &c. For my part I ſee no Angel removing me from place to place, yet I am fully perſwaded, that no Miniſter of Chriſt removes his ſtation, or goes to a People as their Paſtor, but an Angel of God, or the God of Angels doth ſo order it: This is the office of Angels (ſaith * Zanch.) by a command of God to ſend the Doctors of the Church to ſuch or ſuch a people: Accordingly it was an Angel that appeared to Paul in a Viſion by night, ſaying, Come over to Macedonia and help us †. Euſebius tells a like ſtory of Alexander Biſhop of Jeruſalem, that after his agonies, and conſtancy of confeſſion ſhewed in the perſecution of Severus, he was admoniſhed by a Viſion in the night ſeaſon to make his Journey up to Jeruſalem, and drawing near to the City, * A Viſion, with plain words was given to certain chief heads of Jeruſalem to go out of the gates of the City, and there to receive the Biſhop appointed them by God: And though Viſion or Revelation, I have none, yet (as the * moſt Reverend Doctor ſaid) Since I am convinced that the unfelt hands of the Angels are in many occurrences of my life, I have learned ſo much wit and grace as rather to yield them too much, than too little ſtroak in ordering all my concernments for this life. It is true, their appearings are ceaſed, but not their workings; their converſe is not ſo ſenſible, yet it is as real as ever it was before.

Sect. 3. Of the kinds of Angels-Miniſtration at that time, as to our Souls.

2. For our Souls.——

1. THe Angels declare to us what is the will and mind of God. Thus Daniel being troubled with the Viſions of his head, he went near unto one of the Angels which ſtood by, and asked him the truth and meaning of them, So he told me (ſaith Daniel) and made me know the interpretation of the things. And in another Viſion, when Daniel ſought the meaning: Behold there ſtood before me (ſaid he) as the appearance of a man, and I heard a man's voice between the banks of Ulai, which called and ſaid, Gabriel, Make this man to underſtand the Viſion.——And he ſaid unto me, underſtand O Son of Man. And at another time, the man Gabriel, whom he had ſeen in the Viſion at the beginning, being cauſed to fly ſwiftly, touched him about the time of the evening Oblation, and informed him, and talked with him, and ſaid, O Daniel, I am now come forth to give thee skill and underſtanding: Nothing is more uſual in God's Word, than for Angels to inform the Saints what is the will and mind of God; the Conception of Chriſt, and the Birth of Chriſt, and the Death of Chriſt, and the Reſurrection of Chriſt, and the Aſcenſion of Chriſt, and his return to Judgment, were all told by the Angels, only you may look upon theſe as extraordinaries, and apparitions of Angels, and ſuch teachings, or enlightnings of our underſtanding in theſe days you cannot expect. All this I grant, and yet withal I add, that if viſibly they do not teach us, they may do it inviſibly; yea, and I verily believe they do in ordinary, though inviſibly, teach and inſtruct all the people of God.

Dan. 7. 16.

Dan. 8. 15, 16, 17.

Queſt. But how can that be, when they do neither ſpeak to us, nor reaſon with us after the manner of men?

Anſw. I anſwer; They have other ways of ſpeaking, or of reaſoning with us. As——

1. They underſtand us, though we neither ſpeak to them, nor reaſon with them: One of our light in his child of light walking in darkneſs, tells us, that evil Angels know much within us, and to that purpoſe they have more advantages than we men have to know one another by. For—— Dr. Good-win ibid. Chap. 8.

1. Thoſe ſpirits can diſcern all corporeal actions, and though the ſpecies, in them, and their manner of knowing corporeal things differs from ours, yet they are Analogical with ours.

2. They make it their buſineſs to ſtudy men, it is their trade to go up and down, and conſider men; Haſt thou not conſidered (ſays God to Satan) my ſervant Job? Job 1. 8.

3. They are, and can be preſent at all our more retired actions; they are with us at bed and board, in all companies, and in all ſolitary places.

4. By what they ſee outwardly of our actions, they may gueſs at our inwards, which are as the principles of them.

5. They have an inſight into the fancy, and the images therein, which follow and imitate the inward thoughts of the mind, as the ſhadow doth the body: In this reſpect they go into a room further than we can go, yea, into a room next to the Privy Chamber, which yet remains faſt lockt up unto them. This laſt goes beyond all the former; and yet (ſaith my Author) all Divines grant, that the Devils may know and diſcern our phantaſms intuitive, as we do things which are preſent before us.

6. As they may ſee into the fancy, ſo if God permit, evil Angels may go into the head, and ſee thoſe very images and ſpecies in the fancy, that are for preſent in direct conjunction with the underſtanding, and which is then thinking and muſing of. Indeed, the immediate knowledge of our thoughts, and hearts and underſtandings, is proper only to God; I the Lord ſearch the heart, I try the reins; Jer. 17.10. yet arguitive, and as they do tranſire, and appear in the images of the fancy, and ſo quaſi in aliis, and mediately, they may be very far diſcerned, and lookt into by evil Angels, and ſo by diſcerning thoſe very phantaſms, which the underſtanding actually at preſent vieweth, and maketh uſe of, they may then judge what it is, that the mind for the preſent is muſing on, All this is diſcuſs'd at large concerning the evil Angels. Idem Ibidem.

And if the evil Angels may know thus much of what is within us, do not the good Angels know thus much? The evil Angels have by their ſin loſt much of their knowledge, and therefore are called darkneſs, and the power of darkneſs, becauſe they are exceeding dark in themſelves, and in compariſon of the holy Angels, but the good Angels never ſinned, and therefore never were deprived of the leaſt meaſure of knowledge conferred on them. I muſt therefore conclude, that without ſpeaking to them, or reaſoning with them after the manner of men, they underſtand as well, or wherein they do not, God is pleaſed often to diſcover it to them by an eſpecial diſpenſation, of favour and grace: As to the Angel in Daniel, was revealed the myſtery of the ſeventy weeks.

2. We may underſtand them, though they never ſpeak to us, or reaſon with us, and ſo we are capable of their teaching: You will ſay, how may we do that? I anſwer——

1. Obſerve we their work upon our fancies, there they are buſie day and Night, to ſet together the images for our underſtanding of them: Look, as a Compoſitor in Printing, takes his letters that lie confuſed afore him, and orders, and ſets them in words and ſentences, to repreſent to the Readers eye what he would have read by him: ſo do the Angels ſet and compoſe the images in our fancies to repreſent to our underſtanding ſuch things as they would have us know; it is good therefore to obſerve their work day and night, for they may work on our fancies in our dreams.

2. Set we our ſelves to think or muſe upon thoſe images ſet together by them. Thus when the Angel Gabriel ſaluted Mary, it is ſaid, that ſhe caſt in her mind what manner of ſalutation this ſhould be. Luk. 1.29. And after the Angels had appeared to the Shepherds, and that all wonder'd at thoſe things which the Shepherds told them, it is ſaid, that Mary kept all thoſe things, and pondered them in her heart. Luk. 1.19. Certainly it is our duty, when Angels have been communicating their minds to us, to ponder, and muſe, and meditate, and to caſt in our mind, wh atmanner of communication this ſhould be.

3. Try we their work upon our fancies, whether it be agreeable to the Word of God: It were ſad, if we ſhould take that for the ſpeaking of Angels, which is the very voice of Devils: Now though evil ſpirits can transform themſelves into Angels of Light, yet they may be diſcerned, if we'll try their work by the word. The good Angels are diſtinguiſhed from the bad, either by their apparitions, or by their actions; the former I omit, for the latter Poet gives them in thus. Tho. Heywood of Angels.

Who ſo will ſift their actions, he ſhall find,
By their ſucceſs, if well or ill inclin'd,
The one from other; for the bleſſed ſtill Square all their actions to th' Almighty's will,
And to man's profit: ——
The Cacodæmons labour all they can
Againſt God's honour, and the good of man.

Indeed this is the ſure and indubitable character; the good Angels never ſpeak any thing contrary to the Word, or which is all one, the good Angels are Imployed in nothing ſave the Honour of God, and the profit and preſervation of good men; but evil Spirits aim all their enterprizes and endeavours to derogate from God's Worſhip, and to aſſume it to themſelves, and by their flattering deceptions, and oily inſinuations with man, to work the utter ſubverſion both of body and ſoul: It is good therefore to try their works upon our fancies, and if we find it agreeable to God's Word, or if it aim at God's honour and man's profit, we may conclude, This was the ſpeaking of an Angel of God.

But methinks I hear ſome object, You tell us of a work of Angels upon our fancies day and night; and indeed in the night we can more eaſily obſerve ſome ſuch like impreſſions, or work upon us in our dreams: But are not theſe things ſpoken againſt? Was not this the way of falſe Prophets, to obſerve their dreams, and by them to delude the People; ſaying, I have dreamed, I have dreamed, Jer. 23.25. Jer. 23.25.

I anſwer, ſuch dreams as tend to the leading of men from the holy word of God, to wicked Doctrines or Opinions, which are painted over with the pretence or colour of Revelations and Divine Viſions, when they are indeed the meer deluſions of Satan, transforming himſelf into an Angel of Light, are not to be heeded, but rejected; and ſuch were the dreams of the falſe Prophets tending to Idolatry, againſt whom God ſpake; If there ariſe among you a Prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a ſign or a wonder, and the ſign or Deut. 13. 1, 2, 3.

wonder come to paſs, whereof he ſpake unto thee ſaying, Let us go after other Gods (which thou haſt not known) and let us ſerve them; thou ſhalt not hearken to the words of that Prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, for the Lord your God proveth you, to know whether you love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your ſoul.

Yet this hinders not, but ſuch dreams as come into us by God's ſpecial, and ſometimes extraordinary work of providence, which muſt needs be directed unto ſome weighty and good end: As we muſt conclude, if we either conſider the firſt mover, which is God, or the inſtruments, which are his holy Angels, ſuch dreams will challenge our very ſerious conſideration, and diligent care to take notice of what they offer unto us, and the neglect or contempt thereof cannot be committed without great impiety; and therefore we have not only a warrant, but an unavoidable and inviolable obligation in point of duty, to take notice of ſuch dreams, and to make uſe of them, according to their importance and purpoſe. In a dream, in a Viſion of the night, when deep ſleep falleth upon men, in ſlumbrings upon the bed, then he openeth the ears of men, and ſealeth their inſtructions.

Job 33. 15, 16.

But becauſe dreams are of ſeveral ſorts, ſome proceeding only from the conſtitution of the Heavens, or from the diſpoſition of the air, or from precious cogitations, or from the temper of the Body, or from the affection of the mind, or from the procuration of the Devil, and only ſome few the operation of good Angels; it is therefore worthy our pains to know ſome ſuch marks or characters, whereby we may diſtinguiſh theſe laſt, from all others of the former dreams.

Dr. Warmſtrey.

A learned Writer, in his Book of the Baptized Turk, hath laid down theſe marks of thoſe Dreams procured by Angels.

1. When they move unto that which is truly and eminently good, or from the contrary evil, and have nothing in them that ſtands oppoſite to the truth or holineſs of the Word of God, or ſound reaſon, nor that addeth any thing to God's Word, as a new way of Righteouſneſs or Salvation.

2. When they are of a wiſe, ſober, juſt, and orderly frame and compoſure, without any tincture of lightneſs, gingling, or vanity in them.

3. When they come unto us, being in an holy temper and diſpoſition of ſpirit.

4. When they leave both an holy, and humble, and alſo a ſtrong and certain impreſſion upon the mind, moving it not upon carnal, but ſpiritual principles and motives; to which we may add, an holy clearneſs and conſolation in the ſpirit, an encreaſe of vigor and readineſs to godly obedience and holineſs.

5. When they agree with ſome work that God hath in hand, and have ſomething in them that ſeems to be above humane inventions, and have an excellent agreement in the ſeveral parts thereof, preſenting the ſame or ſeveral things.

6. When they come unſought and unexpected; for if any man doth purpoſely ſeek divination by dreams, compoſing himſelf thereunto by ſuperſtitious rites or ceremonies, this were expreſly againſt the Word: For thus ſaith the Lord of Hoſts, the God of Iſrael, let not your Prophets and your Diviners that be in the midſt of you, deceive you, neither hearken to your dreams which ye cauſe to be dreamed —— But enough of this matter.

2. The Angels perſwade us to that which is good, they do not only declare to us what is God's will, but they adviſe us to it. This is the ordinary office of bleſſed Angels, to inſtil good motions, to ſuggeſt good thoughts, to admoniſh and perſwade us on all occaſions to that which is good. As Satan is ever compaſſing the earth, ſeeking whom he may devour, here and there laying his ſnares to catch poor ſouls in, tempting and inciting them to all ſorts of ſin, as he eſpies occaſion and opportunity for it; ſo are the good Angels ever and anon ſuggeſting good and pious thoughts; they tacitely admoniſh our minds, and provoke us to good duties of holineſs and obedience: This makes ſome affirm, that whatſoever the evil Angels can do in evil, the Elect Angels can do in good: If the Devils can ſuggeſt ſin, ſurely the Angels of God are ſtronger and wiſer than Devils.

But how do the good Angels ſuggeſt good? Queſt.

I anſwer: 1. They inſpire, inject, or caſt into our minds ſome holy motions: ſeldom paſſes the day over our heads, but we may feel theſe injections: Come, this is the way, walk in it, ſtrive to enter in at the ſtrait gate, &c. Anſw.

2. They provoke and ſtir us up with much importunity to this or that duty; Ho every one that thirſteth, come ye to the waters, &c. They know well enough our ſluggiſh, dull, and heavy diſpoſitions, our ſpiritual lazineſs, and therefore they add ſtirring, quickning, Soul enlivening expreſſions, or exclamations, Ho, come ye to the waters; yea, they double it, or treble it, come ye to the waters; and come ye, buy and eat; and come ye, buy wine and milk without money, and without price: They are not willing to give over, till they have made us willing to yield to their motions for our own Salvation.

You may object, Surely this is the genuine work of the Holy Ghoſt, thus to inſpire and provoke us to good: Very true, and yet that hinders not but that the good Angels may be inſtruments, or agents: We ſay, the Holy Ghoſt is the prime Spirit, and yet the Angels are as miniſtring Spirits; the Holy Ghoſt is the Fountain, or head of Water, but the Angels are as Ciſterns and Channels of Water; it is the will of the Holy Ghoſt to imploy the Angels, and to communicate himſelf to us by the Miniſtry of Angels, and therefore the Holy Ghoſt and Angels need not claſh. Indeed motions, inſpirations, and holy ſuggeſtions are ever originally and primarily from the Spirit of Chriſt; and hence it is, that commonly we put them all on that ſcore, we give them all to Chriſt's Spirit; yet I cannot forget the Authors Opinion I cited before, That Gods Works in the World are uſually by inſtruments, and not immediate; and that good Angels are his inſtruments, in conveying his merits both to ſoul and body. Another ſpeaks as confidently every whit; For my part (with the good leave of my Learned and Religious Brethren, be it ſpoken) I doubt not but good Angels ſuggeſt good Counſels, tender holy motions, offer pious thoughts, yea, refreſh the often parched ſpirits of gracious men with inward joy. —— Shall the Devil work in the Children of diſobedience? Epheſ. 2. 2. Enormouſly diſquiet the affections, 1 Sam. 16. 15. Yea, inject wicked thoughts into godly men with ſucceſs, 1 Chro. 21. 1. And ſhall the good Angels be excluded from all actings and operations upon the inward ſenſes of man —— I can never believe it.

Eſa. 55. 1, 2, 3.

Baxter's reſt.

Dr. J. Rutherford's Sermon upon joy of Angels p. 14.

3. The Angels repel temptations, or prevent occaſions of ſin. This was the meaning of Michael's contending with the Devil about the body of Moſes: It was the Devil's deſign to diſcover Moſes his grave, and the Arch-angel was ready to reſiſt him: But why would the Angel reſiſt him? Jude 5.9. To what end was the diſpute about the body of Moſes? Why might not the body and burial-place of Moſes have been diſcovered to all? Surely the Angel would not have it known, leſt the people ſhould have idolized and worſhiped it in after-times. The Devil loves Idolatry, and of all kinds of Idolatry, the Devil abuſeth the World moſt with Idolatrous reſpects to the Bodies and Relicks of dead Saints. Now the Archangel knew his deſign, and therefore he would by no means have thoſe burial places known. Thus Aynſworth Deut.34.6. paraphraſeth on that Text of Deuteronomy, He was buried in a valley of Moab over againſt Beth Peor, but no man knoweth of his Sepulchre unto this day. The Angel would have no occaſion of Superſtition or Idolatry thereby: Oh what bleſſed helps have we for preventing of ſin? How buſie are the Angels in our behalf (when we little think of it) to repel temptations, and to prevent occaſions of evil? As our good endeavours 1 Theſ. 2. 18. are often hindred by Satan, I would have come to you, even I Paul, once and again, but Satan hindred us: So are our evil Actions hindred by the heavenly Angels, elſe were not our protection equal to our danger: A good Angel oppoſed Balaam in an evil way; and if an heavenly ſpirit obſtruct the courſe of the evil, and ſtand in the way of a Sorcerer's ſin, how much more ready are thoſe ſpiritual powers to ſtop the ſpiritual miſcarriages of God's deareſt Children?

4. The Angels quicken our dulneſs, encourage our Weakneſs, and comfort us in our ſorrows: All theſe we may read together in one Chapter, Dan.10.10 11, 12. I was in a dead ſleep (ſaith Daniel) on my face, and my face toward the ground, and behold an hand touched me, which ſet me upon my knees, and upon the palms of my hands; and he ſaid unto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloved, underſtand the words that I ſpeak unto thee, and ſtand upright, for unto thee am I now ſent; and when he had ſpoken this word unto me, I ſtood trembling, then ſaid he V. 41. unto me, fear not Daniel. ——— And there came V. 19. again and touched me, one like the appearance of a man, and he ſtrengthned me, and ſaid, O man greatly beloved, fear not, peace be unto thee, be ſtrong, yea be ſtrong; and when he had ſpoken unto me I was ſtrengthned, and ſaid, Let my Lord ſpeak, for thou haſt ſtrengthned me. In like manner we find an Angel quickning, encouraging and ſtrengthning Elijah to his work, 2 Kings 1. 3, 15. and Iſaiah to his work, Iſa. 6. 6, 7. and Paul to his work, Acts 27. 23, 24. But eſpecially in the Sufferings of his Saints, how uſual was it with God to ſend down his Angels for their Comforters? When Chriſt was in his agony, Luk. 22. 43. there appeared an Angel to him from Heaven, ſtrengthning him: When Peter was in Priſon, Behold the Angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light ſhined in the Priſon: When Paul was in his dangerous Act.12.7. Voyage, There ſtood by him that night the Angel of God, whoſe he was, and whom he ſerved, ſaying, Fear not Paul, Acts 27. 23. In the ſucceeding times of the Church, how frequently did the Angels appear to bleſſed Martyrs for their comfort and encouragement? Thus Theodorus ſaw and felt the refreſhing hand of an Angel: Thus Theophilah, Agnes, Lucia, Cecilia, and others, ſaw the good Angels as their Comforters, and Protectors of their Chaſtity. And although they do not appear to us now in bodily ſhapes, as in thoſe times, yet the ſame Offices are performed by them in their ſpiritual and myſterious ways; now they quicken our dulneſs, encourage our weakneſs, and comfort us in heavineſs.

Sect. 4. Whether the Angels contribute any thing to our Converſion.

BEfore I paſs this, I would propound a Queſtion or two: As ———

1. Whether the Angels contribute any thing to our Converſion? We have heard at large, that Devils do what they can to hinder our Converſion: and are the Angels leſs active to good than they are to evil, I cannot think it? We may be ſure, that as the bad Angels do bad offices, ſo the good Angels are in their way prompt and ready to do all the good offices they can, as to our good; and my reaſon is, their will is conformed to the Will of God, They do his Commandments, they hearken Pſal. 103 20. to the voice of his Words: Whatſoever God wills they will: Now God wills the Converſion of Sinners; As I live, I deſire not the death of a ſinner, Ezek. 33. 11. but rather that he ſhould repent and live; and therefore they will it, and as they will it, ſo they reduce that will into ſeveral acts, or elſe it were in vain. But what thoſe acts are, may be another queſtion.

Sect. 5. Wherein do the Angels contribute, as to our Converſion?

THE ſeveral acts of Angels as to our Converſion, are ſuch as theſe. ———

1. They inform our Judgments: we have heard before, how they inviſibly teach us, inſtruct us, enlighten us, and herein do they contribute to our Converſion: For what is the firſt work of Converſion, but illumination? As in the firſt Creation, the Firſt-born of God's Works was light, Gen.1.3. God ſaid, let there be light, and there was light; ſo in new Creation, the firſt work is light; 2 Cor.4.6. God who commanded the light to ſhine out of darkneſs, hath ſhined into our Hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the Glory of God in the face of Jeſus Chriſt. Hence the ſtate of Nature is called darkneſs, and the ſtate of Grace is called light; Eph. 5. 8. Ye were ſometimes darkneſs, but now are ye light in the Lord: And 1 Pet.2.9. he hath called you out of darkneſs into his marvellous light. Now if in this work the Angels are aſſiſtant, they muſt needs contribute to our Converſion in the firſt work of it, which is illumination.

2. They move our will: This is that we ſaid before, that the good Angels perſwade us to that which is good, they inſtill good motions, they ſuggeſt good thoughts, they provoke us to duties of holineſs and obedience, and eſpecially to this main work of Converſion and Regeneration, well they know, that without this, all is nothing; Joh. 3. 3. Except a man be born again, he cannot ſee the Kingdom of God; and their deſires are ſtrong, that the places made void in heaven by the fallen Angels, ſhould be ſupplyed by men and women, and therefore they do what they can to move and perſwade us to a change: I know they cannot efficiently move, or turn the will; we leave to Chriſt and his Spirit the efficacy and bleſſing of all, they only move, and perſwade, and make uſe of arguments to do this or that, but the Holy Spirit makes effectual, and gives the iſſue to what they move. If you ſay, what needs this miniſtration, for Chriſt can move or perſwade without them? I may as well ask what need Miniſters, Preaching, Sacraments? It is enough to ſilence and ſtop our mouths, when we hear theſe are God's ways of Adminiſtration, theſe are God's Ordinances, of which the Angels are a great part, and according to the good pleaſure of God, they act, and ſtir, and move, and perſwade us to Converſion.

3. They work on our affections, endeavouring to ſettle them, and keep them on right objects: It is true, they cannot turn the ſtream and current of our affections back (God only can turn this Jordan back) but they can drive them faſter, and cauſe them to ſwell above their natural Channels; it is the ſpirit of bondage which worketh fear, but when fear is wrought, they can blow it up, and intend it more, as the Spirits inſtruments: Sometimes you have heard how evil Angels could work further and deeper fears than the Holy Ghoſt by himſelf intended, and cannot the good Angels do regularly, what the evil Angels can do irregularly? If the evil Angels cannot only propound ſuch objects as ſhall move us to fear, but alſo can ſtir up ſuch humours in the body, which ſuch a paſſion doth act and ſtir in, Ex. gr. If they can electively work upon Melancholly, ſo as to put a man into a timorous and trembling diſpoſition; how much more can the good Angels propound objects, and ſtir up humours, and ſo work on the affections, whether of fear or hope, or ſorrow, or joy, or love, or hatred?

4. They repel temptations: You have heard abundantly how the Soul is haunted with ſeveral temptations; when the work of Converſion is paſſing upon it, then is Satan buſie, by way of revenge, for the Soul's revolt from him: But are not the good Angels as buſie as Satan? and if they reſiſt him, what can all the troops of Hell hurt us? We know the good Angels have as much advantage of their ſtrength over Satan, as they have of their ſtation; how then ſhould that evil one ſtand in the encounter? Or what need we fear in ſo mighty and ſure hands? He that paſſeth with a ſtrong Convoy through a wild and perillous Deſert, ſcorns the danger of wild Beaſts, or Robbers, no leſs than if he were in a ſtrong Tower at home; ſo may we the onſets of the Powers of darkneſs, whilſt we are guarded by the Angels who both defend us, and reſiſt Satan alſo in all his fiery Darts.

5. They joy in the Converſion of ſinners, ſo that Heaven rings with the joy: Likewiſe I ſay Luk.15.10 unto you (ſaith Chriſt) there is joy in the preſence of the Angels of God over one ſinner that repenteth: What manner of joy this is, is unknown to us, and ſo ſhall be untill that time, that Time ſhall be no more; only this we believe for the preſent, that the Converſion of ſinners, is the Jubilation of Angels, and this, I take it, is the plain ſenſe or meaning of Chriſt's words, that when they ſee the ranks and files of lapſed Angels filled up with new recruits, men and women, penitent for ther ſins, this is matter of joy, of extatical joy to the Holy Angels of God.

Sect. 6. Experiences of this Truth, as to our outward man.

FOR ſome experiences of this bleſſed truth, in reſpect of our bodies. ——

1. They keep us from evil.

One going ſeaſonably to bed, about midnight he awoke, and could not ſleep; thereupon he awaked his Wife, and talking with her, ſuddenly he eſpied a light in his Chamber, which came through a Box hole; he demanding of her what that light was, ſhe opened her eyes, but could not tell: Anon ſhe aroſe out of Bed, and looking through the Box hole (which by a gracious Providence was that night open, though uſually ſhut) ſhe eſpied a fire kindled on ſome Wood in the Houſe, which quickly would have ſet all on a flame, that no way they could have eſcaped with Life, but they both haſtned out of their Chamber, and coming into the Houſe, they timouſly quenched the fire, and admiring at God's Providence, in each circumſtance, they returned in ſafety to bed, and found that reſt and ſleep after, which before they could not obtain.

The ſame Perſon riding over a deep Water, his Horſe in the midſt of the Stream laid him down under him: Thus Man and Horſe both plunged in; the man with much ado having recovered himſelf and getting through, he rode home wet and cold, which caſt him into a Feaver, yet in time he recovered, and bleſſed that God, who by the Miniſtry of his Angels, delivered him from the danger both of Fire and Water.

The ſame Perſon being at home, a Daughter came to viſit him, who one Evening was very importunate to go more early than ordinarily they uſed to Bed; her importunity ſo far prevailed, that preſently they went to Prayers, and commending themſelves to God for his cuſtody, all in the Family made up the Stairs to ſeveral Lodgings; no ſooner were they dropped aſleep, but preſently a noiſe, like Thunder, awaked them all, he wondred, and asked his Wife if ſhe heard the Thunder; who anſwered, that ſhe being laſt in bed, was ſcarcely aſleep, but could not tell whether it was a clap of Thunder, or a fall of ſome part of the Houſe; and riſing out of bed to go to the Chamber where their Daughter and a Servant Maid lay in two Beds; at the entrance into the Chamber, the Daughter cryed, Stay Mother, or you endanger your Life, for I believe the Chamber floor, and Chamber adjoyning is fallen down. By that caution ſhe trembling ſtayed her foot, and drew back to tell her Husband the news; he deſired her to go down ſtairs into the Houſe, light a Candle, and to ſee the matter; but endeavouring to open the door below into the Houſe, the paſſage was ſtopped, with the Floor of the Chambers fallen down, their Daughter, that lay in one of the two Chambers, ſeated over the houſe, cryed, that her Bed crackt, and ſhe was afraid to lye in it; thereupon they adviſed her to haſten out of it, and with the Maid to creep into a corner of the Chamber, which was moſt ſecure. In the mean time, a Cry or Call was made through a Caſement for ſome Neighbours help; by this means a Candle was brought, but no paſſage being poſſible through the doors, the Stanction of a Caſement was cut, and one came in at the Window with his light, then it was ſeen how two Chambers over the houſe were ſuddenly fallen, with all the weight of Wood, and Clay, and furniture above, and that nothing remained unfallen, but a little Room of one Chamber, where the two Beds ſtood, wherein the two Women lay. At firſt view they all ſtood amazed, but recollecting themſelves, the two Women were by a Ladder ſafely brought down from the corner of the fallen Chamber, and being brought into another Chamber, they took their reſt till the Morning. At day light they ſaw their wonderful Preſervations, and viewing the Circumſtances, it appeared: 1. If that Night all had not gone to Bed before their ordinary time, they had been all ſitting in the houſe, which then would have fallen upon them, and have ſlain them all. 2. If his Wife had not then ſtay'd her ſtep, when the Daughter cryed, Stay Mother, ſhe had fallen down into the nether room amongſt rubbiſh, and probably had loſt her life. 3. If thoſe two Beds had not ſtood wherein the two Women lay, when all beſides fell with one craſh, they had both periſhed, eſpecially the Daughter with a Child in her Belly, being yet but an Embrio. In every Circumſtance appeared the Finger of God, and the Promiſe was minded, He ſhall give his Angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways, they ſhall bear thee up in their hands, leſt thou daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone.

Simon Grinæus, a learned and holy man, coming from Heidelburgh to Spire, was deſirous to hear a certaine Preacher in that City, who in his Sermon did then let fall ſome erroneous Propoſitions of Popiſh Doctrine, wherewith Grinæus, not being a little offended, craved ſpeedy Conference with the Preacher, and laying before him the falſhood and danger of his Doctrines, exhorted him to an abandoning and retractation of thoſe miſopinions; the Preacher gave good words and fair ſemblances to Grinæus, deſiring farther and more particular conference with him, each imparted to other their Names and Lodgings, yet inwardly, as being ſtung with that juſt reproof, he reſolved a revenge, by procuring the impriſonment, and (if he might) the Death of ſo ſharp a Cenſurer. Grinæus miſdoubting nothing, upon his return to his Lodging, reports the Paſſages of the late Conference to thoſe wh oſate at the Table with him, amongſt whom Melancthon being one, he was called out of the room to ſpeak with a ſtranger, newly come into the houſe; going forth accordingly, he finds a grave old man, of a goodly countenance, ſeemly, and richly attired, who in a friendly and grave manner tells him that within one hour there would come to their Inn certain Officers, as from the King of the Romans to attach Grinæus, and to carry him to Priſon; willing him to charge Grinæus, with all poſſible ſpeed, to flee out of Spires, and requiring Melancthon to ſee that this advantage were not neglected; which ſaid, the old man vaniſhed out of his ſight: Inſtantly Malancthon returning to his Companions, recounted unto them the words of this ſtrange Monitor, and haſtened the departure of Grinæus accordingly, who had no ſooner boated himſelf on the Rhine, than he was eagerly ſought for at his ſaid Lodging. Of this Melancthon, in his Commentary on Daniel writes, and acknowledges God's fatherly providence in ſending this Angel of his for the reſcue of his Faithful ſervant.

John Spangenberge, Paſtor of Northenſe, was no ſooner ſtept out of his houſe, with his Family to go to the Bains, but the houſe fell right down in the place. —— Our own experience at home is able to furniſh us with divers ſuch Inſtances, If a man by ſome ſtrong inſtinct be warned to change that lodging, which he conſtantly held for ſome years, and finds his wonted ſleeping place that night cruſhed with the unexpected fall of an unſuſpected contiguation, to what cauſe can we attribute this, but to our attending Angels? —— Or have we been preſerved from mortal dangers which we could not tell how by our providence to have evaded? Our inviſible Guardians have done it.

Biſhop Hall of Angels.

In the true pourtraicture of his Sacred Majeſty Charles the Second, it appears, that by God this King Reigns, in that he hath exerciſed thoſe providences over him that are hardly exerciſed over ten thouſands of us: That Star in the Eaſt, at his Highneſs Birth, ſpeaks much this way; the Powers in heaven, that ſo watchfully guarded him through thoſe ſad days, wherein thouſands fell at his right hand, and ten thouſands at his left, aimed at ſome great prize; his Royal life (the care of Angels) muſt not go out privately, and be loſt unprofitably in a corner. —— Oh how the Angels forbad thoſe millions of prophane hands, that would rudely have touched the Lord's Anointed! His eſcape at Worceſter was almoſt miraculous: He ſought his way all along five miles from Worceſter, then he turned to the leſs frequented ways that could be, until he came to the Borders of Staffordſhire, then he removed to an adjoyning Wood, where he, and one only with him, walked ſecurely a while, until they found an Oak for Majeſty, in the hollow of which he lodged himſelf for three days and nights, until my Lord Wilmot providing for his Majeſty a ſafe Lodging, and then ſeeking him in the Wood, with much ado found his Sacred Perſon guarded, and (as I may ſay) fed by Angels.

A new Star was diſcovered over St. James's at mid-day, ſeeming from heaven to gratulate the Royal Birth, diſplaying its modeſt Beams in ſpight of Sunſhine in the middle of the Air.

Let this Story never be forgotten ΕΙΚΟΝ ΒΑΣΙΛΙΚΗ. By R. F.

2. They keep us in, or reſtore us to health.

One going to London, inned and lodged all night at the Maiden-head in Cat-Eaten ſtreet; where the ſame night died a young Wife of the Peſtilence; as another had died before, the ſickneſs and death of the Parties being concealed, he aroſe in the Morning, took ſome repaſt, and went about his occaſions; but at his return in the Afternoon, as he was going into the Inn, a friend called him back and told him the truth; in the midſt of the diſcourſe, he ſaw the Gates ſhut before his eyes, and preſently was written upon them, Lord have mercy upon us. This hath minded him of God's Providence and Promiſe, Surely he ſhall deliver thee from the noyſom Peſtilence, for he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee.

John Trelille, a poor Cripple in Cornwal, that for ſixteen years together was fain to walk upon his hands, by reaſon of the cloſe contraction of the ſinnews of his legs (upon three monitions in his Dream to waſh in a Well, called Madernes) was ſuddenly ſo reſtored to his Limbs, that I ſaw him (ſaith my Author) able both to walk, and to get his own maintenance. —— Marcus Aurelius Antonius, in his Dream, received the preſcript of a Remedy of his Diſeaſe, which the Phyſicians could not cure; whence came this, but by the ſuggeſtion of Angels? Have we been raiſed up from deadly ſickneſſes when all natural helps have given us up? God's Angels have been our ſecret Phyſicians. Biſhop Hall.

3. They furniſh us with all neceſſaries for this life.

Mr. Samuel, a godly Miniſter in Queen Maries days, was convented before Biſhop Bonner, who committed him to Priſon, and there chained him up to a Poſt, in ſuch ſort, that ſtanding on tip-toes he was fain to bear up all the weight of his body in that manner, to his intolerable pain; beſides he allowed him but three morſels of bread, and three ſpoonfuls of water a day, ſo that he was extreamly tormented with hunger and thirſt, and had his Body ſo miſerably dried up, that he would fain have drunk his own water, but could not make one drop: But after he had continued in this miſerable caſe three days, he fell aſleep, and one clad all in white ſeemed to ſtand before him, telling him, that from henceforth he ſhould neither hunger nor thirſt any more; which alſo came to paſs, though he was not burnt till many days after, White's Power of Godlineſs.

A Doctor of Divinity, of ſingular learning and piety, ſent his Maid to the Market, to get Proviſion for the following week: But all the money he and his Wife could make, was but five ſhillings; his Wife fell a weeping, and told her Husband, that there was little likelyhood they could live together, and that therefore ſhe would take one or two of her Children with her, and live among her friends, if he could provide for himſelf and the reſt of his Children? Nay dear Wife, ſaid he, we have lived thus long together, let us not now part, let us rely on God's Providence: She in her grief and haſte anſwered, Well, ſend Providence to Market, and ſee what it will bring home. It was ſo that day, a Noble-man, who knew this Doctor very well, dining with divers Gentlemen at an Inn, looking out of the Window, ſaw the Doctor's Maid, whom being an ancient ſervant, he knew, and ſent for her up, asking her how her Maſter did; ſhe anſwered, very well, and fell a weeping; he inquiring the cauſe, ſhe told him what ſtraights they were brought to; he wondring, and being troubled at it, called the Inn-keeper, and wiſhed him to give that Maid ten pound, and every one of the Gentlemen gave twenty ſhillings a piece: So the Doctor ſending Providence (of which the Angels are Servants and Inſtruments) to Market, it brought him home fifteen pounds: Doubtleſs it is becauſe we do not truſt, not becauſe God either cannot, or will not give, that makes us ſo often want Mercies; and ſuch Providences would be uſual, if our confidence in God were but ſo. Idem ibidem.

There was a certain poor Family, who being in great want, and having little or nothing for the Children in it; when Dinner came, they put them off with play-things, and told them they would ſee if they could get them ſomething for Supper; and when Supper came, they would give them ſome ſmall piece of bread, and ſo get them to bed; and thus they uſed them ſo long, while at laſt the Children would not go to bed, but cryed for Bread: That night it was ſo, the Lord Faulkland waking before midnight, could not ſleep, and then it came into his mind that this Family was in great want, inſomuch that he called up ſome of his Servants, and ſent them with a great Loaf and a Cheeſe to the houſe; when they came, they found the Children crying for bread, and the Parents weeping by them, who with a great deal of joy and eagerneſs receiv'd that unexpected Proviſion. Thus the Lord order'd it by his Providence, that they were not only then relieved, but their neceſſities being related to the Lord Faulkland, he took care of them for the future. Idem ibidem.

Luther hath this Story: A certain Woman, in the time of Famine, having nothing at all for her Children, and her ſelf to eat, being brought to very great extremity, ſhe reſolved upon this courſe; ſhe made her ſelf and all her Children ready, and with a great deal of comfort and confidence ſhe walked to a Spring, not far from her houſe, as ſhe was going, one met her, who asked her whither ſhe was going with her Children: ſhe told him, that all her Proviſion was quite ſpent, and ſhe was going with her Children to ſuch a Fountain cloſe by, being confident, that God that had provided drink for her and her Children, would there provide food for them alſo; and he that heard the young Ravens, and provided for them, would much more take care of her, and her little ones: He that met her wiſhed her to return home, for ſhe ſhould meet with Proviſion that was ready for her there; ſhe returned, and found a conſiderable quantity of meal, which was food for her, and her Children; but whence this Proviſion came ſhe knew not, nor knew the man who told her of it.

Sect. 7. Experiences of this truth, as to our inward man

3. FOR ſome Experiences of this bleſſed truth, in reſpect of our Souls.

1. They declare to us God's will; of old they did ſo to Abraham, Lot, Moſes, Jacob, Manoah, Gideon, David, Elijah, Eliſha, Iſaiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, Zachary: And in the New Teſtament they did ſo to Joſeph, Mary, Zachariah, the Shepherds, Mary Magdalen, Peter, Philip, Cornelius, Paul, John the Evangeliſt, and to all the Apoſtles. At this time they do not inviſibly declare God's will, nor muſt we truſt to Viſions, or Revelations; yet many times they teach us by Dreams, and many times they coyn Impreſſions on our fancy and imagination whiles we are waking: They can make rare and wonderful compoſitions of what they find in us; ſo that to me, here is the difference between the Converſe of Men and Angels; Men can ſpeak to the underſtanding by the mediation of our external ſenſes, but the Angels go a nearer way to work, and ſpeak firſt of all to the internal ſenſes, making ſuch compoſitions there as the underſtanding preſently takes off, and reads what is written! Do we not, waking and ſleeping, ſee impreſſions in our fancy, of things that we thought we had forgotten? This is done by the Angels.

Dingly of Angels.

One being a long while trained up in Ceremonies, Notionals, Fables, unprofitable matter rather than ſound and ſaving knowledge, which is in Faith; at laſt converſing with ſome godly men, and with practical books, he found ſome impreſſions in his fancy of another kind of Divinity, and ſo inclined, that Divinity was rather practical, than ſpeculative; and that ſuch kind of Preaching as was uſually delivered in an affected ſpruceneſs of language, and vain glorious trimneſs of the windy and dead Letter, would never ſave Souls. Theſe impreſſions were more and more fixed in him, and at laſt he was ſatisfied, that many poor illiterate Souls that felt the power of Godlineſs on their own hearts, had more true knowledge of Divinity, than many learned Doctors and Rabbies, that had nothing but Orthodoxy, or a ſwimming knowledge of truth; and that many unlearned ſnatched Heaven, and took it by violence, whiles many learned with their learning periſhed, and went down to Hell; The efficacy of this light he gives to the ſpirit, but the inſtrumentality of it as working upon the fancy or imagination, he aſcribes to the Angels.

A godly Woman, falling into great diſſertions, at laſt the Lord in ſecret Prayer came in with abundance of light and comfort; but within a month after, ſhe being to receive the Lord's Supper, all her former fears and troubles returned upon her, inſomuch, as a little before the bread was adminiſtred to her, though ſhe could not ſay that the Devil appeared to her in a bodily ſhape, yet he ſeemed to her as if he did, and told her, that ſhe ſhould not eat; but when the Lord was pleaſed to bring into her mind that paſſage in the Canticles, Eat O my friends: Notwithſtanding, Satan ſtill continued terrifying of her, and when ſhe had eaten, told her, ſhe ſhould not drink; but the Lord brought that ſecond clauſe of the verſe into her mind, Drink, yea drink abundantly my beloved; and ſo ſhe drank alſo, and preſently was filled with ſuch unſpeakable Joys, that ſhe knew not how ſhe got home; which Soul-raviſhing Joys continued for a Fortnight after, and filled her mouth with Songs of praiſe, ſo that ſhe could neither ſleep, nor eat, more than ſhe forced her ſelf to do out of conſcience of duty. White.

2. They advice us to that which is good.

The light preſented to one as before, many bleſſed motions came in to begin with the beginning of ſaving practical truths; and this he underſtood was the Doctrine of Regeneration; and therefore if ever he would be happy, he muſt have ſome feeling of that: Many Objections were raiſed, That the wind bloweth where it liſteth; and we are not ſufficient of our ſelves to think; and it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, &c. The Objections are not formally now remembred: But notwithſtanding them, the motions to fall on the work continued afreſh, and finding them daily upon his ſpirit, at laſt he ſubmitted willingly to thoſe inſpirations, and every day ſet ſome time apart to be in the duty; it proved tedious and difficult at firſt, but afterwards ſin appeared very ſinful, and the ſpirit ſet it home on his Soul, and by degrees ſucceſſively, he was led from a ſenſe of miſery, to ſome hope of mercy in Chriſt: and before he had done (though many a day it continued) the holy Spirit infuſed Faith, whereby he cloſed with Jeſus Chriſt, as Saviour, and as Lord, and King, and Husband. This work begun by the Angels, by inſtilling good motions, was the joy Luke 15. 10. of Angels, when it was perfected: There is joy in the preſence of the Angels of God over one ſinner that repenteth.

One, about the time of Reformation of Religion, deſired much of God the guidance and aſſiſtance of an Angel; and from the thirty ſeventh year of his age he had ſenſible manifeſtations of a ſpirit that aſſiſted him, and followed him till his Death. In his Dreams or Viſions, he was ſometimes admoniſhed of this or that Vice, and ſometimes advertiſed of this or that Danger, and ſometimes reſolved of this or that Doubt, or ſometimes perſwaded to this or that duty: Once I heard a Voice from Heaven, ſaying, I will ſave thy Sovl. Uſually in the Morning, about the fourth hour, the Angel would have beat at his door to have awaked him, and if he had done any good or evil, he would have manifeſted the approval, or diſapproval of it by ſome ſign: If in company he had ſpoke any unwary words, he was ſure to be advertiſed and reproved for it by a dream in the night following! if he had read any Book that was not good, the Angel would have ſtruck upon the Book, to have cauſed him to have left it, and laid it aſide: Often would the Angel have provoked him to prayer, and almſ-deeds, and other duties. Bodinus asking him, whether ever he had ſeen the form of his Angel? He anſwered, that he never ſaw any thing, but only a bright and ſhining light in a round Orb; and once after prayer upon his Bed, that he ſaw a ſweet Boy, in white apparel, of admirable Beauty. Bodinus de Magorum demonomania.

3. They repel temptations, or prevent occaſions of ſin.

One having many temptations offered him, eſpecially in his dreams in the night, he obſerved, that at the ſame times ſuch thoughts have come in, that in thoſe very dreams he confidently cryed, Avoid Satan, and again, Avoid Satan, for it is written, Thou ſhalt worſhip the Lord thy God, and him only ſhalt thou ſerve; which he believes were put in by the Angels.

One Natalius, that had formerly ſuffered great perſecution for the Cauſe of Chriſt, was ſeduced by Aſclepiodotus, and Theodorus, two Sectaries, to be the Biſhop of their Sect, promiſing to pay him an hundred and fifty Crowns of ſilver every month, and ſo he joyned himſelf to them; but the Lord in mercy not intending to loſe him that had ſuffered ſo much for his ſake, admoniſhed him by a Viſion to adjoyn himſelf to the true Church again, which the good man for the preſent, blinded with lucre and honour, did not regard as he ought to have done. The night after he was ſcourged by Angels, whereupon, in the morning, putting on Sackcloth, with much weeping and lamentation, he went to the Chriſtian Congregation, praying them, for the tender mercies of Chriſt, that he might be received into their Communion again; which requeſt was accordingly granted unto him. Clarks general Martyrology.

Cyprian relates a ſtory of one of his Fellow Miniſters, who in the midſt of his torments began to faint, being greatly afraid of death, and deſired to be releaſed; at which time there appeared to him a young man of admirable beauty, and ſo bright, that man's mortal eye could ſcarce endure to behold him; who angerly ſaid to him, Pati timetis, exire non vultis, quid faciam vobis? To ſuffer you dare not, to go out you will not, what ſhall I do with you? Idem. ibid.

4. They quicken, encourage, and comfort us.

A certain Godly Woman riding behind her Husband, who was a Perſecutor of Mr. Bolton, as they were riding, it thundred and lightned extraordinarily, ſo that he trembled exceedingly; his Wife with a chearful voice ſaid, Husband, what ails you? why do you tremble thus? He anſwered, Do you not hear how terribly it thunders? She anſwered, Yes, I hear it: And ſaid he, Do you not tremble alſo? She anſwered, No, ſhe was not at all afraid, for ſhe knew it was but the voice of her Father. He was amazed at her chearſulneſs and anſwer, and began to think with himſelf, Surely theſe Puritans have ſomething within them, that they are able to bear up in ſuch ſtorms, and that they have peace, and are chearful, while I tremble. And being not far off, immediately he did ride to Maſter Bolton, beſeeching pardon that he had perſecuted him, and deſired that he would tell him what he ſhould do to be ſaved.

Thomas Ward of Tiſo in Warwickſhire, was all his younger days very looſe and diſſolute, an Enemy to goodneſs, and an hater of good men; but it pleaſed God at laſt to convert him, after a ſtrange and wonderful manner, which was thus: In the morning, as he lay in his Bed, plotting and contriving how to moleſt and perſecute ſome of his godly Neighbours, there appeared a Viſion to him of a City, wherein there were many poor ragged Lambs in the Streets, and a man driving of them, and he heard a voice ſaying to him, What are theſe? To which he anſwered, Sheep: Then ſaid the Voice again, Theſe are my Sheep whom thou perſecuteſt. Preſently after he ſaw another Viſion of a pile of Faggots, and heard a Voice ſaying, What are theſe? He anſwered, Faggots: Then ſaid the Voice, As theſe are bound up for the fire, ſo thou deſerveſt to be bound hand and foot, and caſt into everlaſting fire. He anſwered, Truth Lord; yet withal he cryed earneſtly to the Lord for mercy: and preſently after he ſaw another Viſion a Pillar of Braſs, but ſo bright and glorious, that he was not able to look upon it; then ſaid the Voice, Be of good comfort, for thou art a choſen Veſſel, which ſhall ſuffer many things for my names ſake. To which he ſaid, Lord if it be thy will, let it be now: And preſently he had a blow given him on his ſide, as with a Dagger, the mark whereof he carried with him to his grave. After this, it pleaſed God to raiſe him up with comfort, and he became an eminent Profeſſor, and was very zealous for the truth. White.

A little before the eighth Perſecution began, God by a Viſion revealed it to Cyprian, ſaying to him, Be quiet, and of good comfort, for peace will come, albeit a little ſtay there is for a while, for that ſome remain yet to be proved, and tryed. Clark.

Theodorus, for ſinging a Pſalm at the removing of the body of Babilas, being apprehended, was examined with exquiſite torments, and ſo cruelly excruciated from morning till almoſt noon, that hardly he eſcaped with life, and being afterwards asked by his friends, how he could endure ſuch extream torments, ſaid, That at firſt he felt ſome pain, but afterwards there ſtood by him a young man, who as he was ſweating with the pain, wiped away his ſweat, and oft-times ſo refreſhed him with cold water, wherewith he was ſo delighted, that when he was let down from the Engine, it grieved him more than before. Clark.

Whilſt Auguſtine was yet a Manichee, his Mother Monica had a dream, that ſhe was ſtanding upon a woodden rule, and being very ſad, ſaw a glorious young man very joyful, and of a cheerful countenance coming unto her, and that he asked her the cauſe of her ſadneſs, and when ſhe had declared that it was by reaſon of ſorrow that ſhe had for her Son, who was then in the way of deſtruction, he bid her be of good cheer, and wiſhed her to mark and obſerve, and that ſhe ſhould ſee her Son to be with her where ſhe was, and ſo ſhe ſaw her Son ſtanding with her upon the ſame rule. Auguſt. Confeſſ. l. 3.

Sect. 8. Experiences of this Truth, as to Converſion.

FOR ſome experiences of the Angels contributing to our Converſion. On a time, Auguſtine being in great heavineſs, and deep contrition of heart, cryed out, Oh! what is this? what ſuffer I under the tyranny of ſin? unlearned men take Heaven by violence, and we, with all our Learning, lye groveling in fleſh and blood: After this he had a great conflict, for all his paſt pleaſures repreſented themſelves before his eyes, ſaying, What wilt thou depart from us? and ſhall we be no more with thee for ever? And then a marvelous tempeſt of weeping came upon him, ſo that he caſt himſelf on the ground under a fig-tree, and gave full ſcope to his eyes, which brought forth preſently whole floods of tears; and then, behold he heard a voice, as if it had been of a Boy or Maid ſinging, and ſaying, tolle & lege, tolle & lege; Take up and read, Take up and read: Wherefore repreſſing the force of his tears, interpreting, that this Voice came fom Heaven, and was ſpoken by Angels, he took up the Book of Paul's Epiſtles which he had with him, with a purpoſe to read the firſt Chapter that he ſhould find, and opening it, his eyes fixed on theſe words,
Rom. 13. 12,13,14. The night is ſpent, the day is at hand, let us therefore caſt off the works of darkneſs, and let us put on the Armour of light; let us walk honeſtly, as in the day, not in rioting and drunkenneſs, not in chambering and wantonneſs, not in ſtrife and envy, but put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, &c. And by this means he was converted. Aug. l. 8. Confeſſ. c. 12.

A woman telling me of her great trouble and grief, and of her long continuance in the pangs of the New Birth, ſhe ſaid, that ſhe heard at laſt a voice: plainly and diſtinctly ſaying to her, as ſhe was bewailing her ſins, If thou'l forget, I'le forget; If thou'l forget, I'le forget.

A Man labouring in the pangs of his New Birth, began to deſpair of Salvation, and laſt concluded he ſhould be damned; whereupon, plotting and contriving what was beſt to do, he reſolved to make away himſelf, and not to live any longer: For theſe reaſons; 1. Becauſe he conceived, the longer he lived, the more and great would be his ſin. And, 2. The more would God by his ſin be diſhonoured. And, 3. The more and greater would his torment proportionably to his ſin be in the fire of hell: And even now going to the place where he had appointed the execution and ſelf-murder, there ſuddenly came into his mind (as if a dart of light had been injected) this very word, Who knows? on which, pondering and ruminating, he asked himſelf, Who knows what? and preſently was thrown in (as he conceived) the end of the Sentence, Who knows what is God's Decree, or mind concerning me, neither Angels, Devils, nor Men. On which words pauſing and conſidering a while, he reaſoned thus with himſelf, If I know not God's mind, it may be I ſhall be ſaved. Upon this he ſtaid his purpoſe, put on by Satan, and probably prevented by an Angel, and ſo went to prayer, and within three days after he received comfort.

Sect. 9. Of the Duties that concern us in this reſpect.

1. IN all dangers let us ſtir up Faith, and exerciſe it on the promiſes of Angel-protection: Art thou a Souldier? do violence to no man, neither accuſe any falſly, and be content with thy Wages, march, charge, retreat, do duty according to command, God ſhall cover thy head in the day of battel, for thou art in thy ways; but if thou invadeſt the Miniſterial Office, preſuming to preach, who never was ſent, look to thy ſelf, thou canſt not without uſurpation pretend to God's keeping, for thou art out of all thy ways; Nor do I fear the frowns of any if offended hereat, and reproving me for giving this juſt reproof: I am ſure I am in my calling, in my ways; and therefore with comfort and confidence may rely on God, and his Angels protection, only that we abuſe not the promiſe as the Devil did; let us keep in our ways, that we may be kept ſafe by the Angels, then only is Angel-protection to be expected, when we are in the ways God hath appointed; that is to ſay, within the compaſs of our general and particular Callings; they ſhall keep thee in all thy ways, or in all thy bounds, or in all thy courſes appointed thee by God. Surely we have need to look to our ſelves in all our actions, as in eating, drinking, rideing, ſporting, for even in theſe God hath ſet us our ways: We hear of many ſad diſaſters of God's deareſt ſervants, and we need not wonder, if we but conſider their wandrings: Alas! they keep not within compaſs, they are out of their ways, or otherwiſe they might walk ſafely without any danger. If Jacob keep but in his ways, he may ſafely meet with his Brother Eſau coming againſt him with four hundred men. Mr. Dod would ſay, he cared not where he was, if he could but anſwer theſe two queſtions well: Wo am I? and what do I here? am I a Child of God? and am I in my way? If we were careful of theſe things, we might free our ſelves from all other cares: Oh let us look to our ways!

2. In our ſickneſſes, ſores, dangers of Plague or Peſtilence, let us eye the promiſe of Angel-

Pſal. 91.3, 5,6,7,10.

miniſtration; Surely he ſhall deliver thee, from the noyſom Peſtilence; ——— Thou ſhalt not be afraid for the Terrour by night, nor for the Arrow that flieth by day, nor for the Peſtilence that walketh in darkneſs, nor for the Deſtruction that waſteth at noon-day; a thouſand ſhall fall at thy ſide, and ten thouſand at thy right hand, but it ſhall not come nigh thee: ——— There ſhall no evil befal thee, neither ſhall any Plague come nigh thy dwelling, for he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee. Many other Promiſes we have, both to prevent and qualifie, and to remove ſickneſſes, as Exod. 15. 26. Deut. 7. 15. Pſal. 41. 3. Heb. 12. 6, 7, 8. Iſa. 40. 31. And well may we live by Faith on ſuch promiſes as theſe: But why ſhould the Promiſes of Angel-miniſtration be out of uſe? To what end are theſe Promiſes, if we may not reſt or roll our ſelves upon them as well as others? Should God ſay in our ſickneſſes, Send to ſuch a Phyſician, and make uſe of him, and you ſhall be cured, we ſhould ſubmit: And are not theſe Heavenly Phyſicians of more value? And have we not an expreſs Promiſe, that in their Miniſtration we ſhall have health? Oh let us eye theſe Promiſes?

1 Cor. 3. 21.

3. In our outward wants let us have ſome thoughts of Angel-miniſtration, as to ſupplies. It is a wonder how all the Creation is ſerviceable to man, the very Plants and Herbs adminiſter to his Food, the Beaſts of the Field, and Fowls of the Air, are for his ſuſtenance; the Sun and Stars contribute to his being and preſervation; if any piece of the Creation ſhould eſcape his Miniſtry, one would think it ſhould be the mighty and bleſſed Angels; and yet behold an Angel provides Bread for Elijah, and water for Iſhmael, and all other neceſſaries for God's Children: The world is yours, ſaith the Apoſtle; God would never have made this Field (the world) were it not for the Corn (the Godly) growing in it; and as of this Corn the Angels are the Reapers, ſo they have care of it for its nouriſhment and preſervation: Art thou a Saint, and in want? Surely it concerns thee to ſhake off idleneſs, to take the opportunity, and to obſerve Gods Providence in all affairs, and amidſt thoſe ſeveral providences of his ordering, forget not the Miniſtration of the Angels: For my part, if together with the Word, my own experiences may be any incouragement: I do verily think, that rather than thou ſhouldſt die for thirſt, an Angel will open thy eyes to ſee a fountain, out of which thou may'ſt fill thy Bottle with Water, and take and drink.

4. In learning the whole Counſel, Will, and Mind of God, let us turn over thoſe leaves which ſpeak of Angels; theſe are the inviſible attenders of the bleſſed Deity, and without ſome knowledge and apprehenſion of them, we ſhall never attain to conceive of their God and ours, as we ought to do: but in this knowledge let us mind eſpecially their miniſtration to our inward man; herein are many depths, yet are they ſweet, delightful, and moſt profitable truths: They come to our Phantaſms (the ſpecies of ſounds, of ſhapes, or whatſoever elſe, as they are kept and preſerved by the inward ſenſes) and they move them at pleaſure, and put together ſuch conceptions or apprehenſions as are moſt accomodate and fitted for the knowledge of that truth, which they would ſuggeſt to our minds: Is not this worthy our knowledge? Shall the Angels take pains to ſpeak to us, and to acquaint us with the knowledge of ſaving truths, and ſhall not we willingly kearken to them? O let us liſten to what they ſay; and that they may have matter to work upon, and to ſpeak to us about, let us be ever ready and prompt to receive good Images and impreſſions of things into our fancy: It is ſaid, that the Angels cannot put into our fancies what never was there before, as they cannot make a man born blind to dream of colours, and their differences; but they can make many compoſitions and deductions of the Images they find there, to the ſaying of what they will; and therefore let us hear all the good we can, and take heed of receiving ill impreſſions by our ears, or eyes, or any other way: If any one tell us an ill ſtory once, the Devil will tell it us a thouſand times; it is a great happineſs to this purpoſe not to know ill: And on the other ſide, if we ſee or hear good objects, and that our memories (which are as treaſures of all we ſee or hear) be ſtuffed and filled with many ſuch good things, then may we comfortably hope, that the Angels will make uſe of all thoſe Images to converſe with us, and tell us over and over what is the will and mind of God.

5. In the many motions, inſpirations, and holy ſuggeſtions to this or that good, let us ſtop a while, and ſeriouſly conſider whence theſe come, certainly if they are of good, and tend to good, they come either from the Spirit of God, or from his holy and bleſſed Angels. I confeſs the efficacious power on the heart, belongs only to the Spirit of God; It is the Holy Ghoſt that over-rules, and melts, and new-moulds us, that ſo perſwades us to charm, and turn, and captivate our Souls; yet the Angels are Ordinances, means and helps of God's own appointment; they are miniſtring Spirits ſent from God to counſel and perſwade us to this and that duty: And whether the good motions inſtilled proceed from the holy Spirit, or from theſe miniſtring Spirits, it is good for us to liſten, and hearken to theſe movings, workings, hints, intimations. Methinks we ſhould hearken to the advice of a friend, how much more to God and his Angels? Oh how ſad is it for any Soul by ſin to counterwork the actings of Angels, and breathings of the Spirit! that the Angels ſhould knock at our hearts, and that the Spirit ſhould put in the hand by the hole of the Door, and yet that neither ſhould be yielded unto, but both reſiſted; this muſt needs grieve the Holy Ghoſt, and grieve the Holy Angels that would perſwade us, and ſeal us up unto the day of Redemption.

6. In the occaſions of evil, or temptations to this or that ſin, obſerve we the ſtops and lets which often are made by the holy and bleſſed Angels: we little think how buſie the Angels are for our good; the Devil, we know, is like a roaring Lyon, and the day paſſeth not over our Heads, wherein he offers not this or that temptation to inſnare our Souls: And are not the good Angels at counter-work? Do not they as often pull us back? Or do not they at leaſt very often hedge and block up our ways, by withſtanding the occaſions of many a ſin? O then ſay as Jacob did, Surely the Angels of the Lord were in the preventing of this temptation, and I knew it not. It were enough to ſtrike us into a dread, and to break forth into praiſes of God, if in the overcoming of any temptation, we had ſome thoughts of the protection and miniſtration of Angels: Surely, ſhould we ſay, the Lord and his Angels have helped and relieved us, or Satan had prevailed, and we had been quite foiled.

7. In our deadneſs, fears, ſorrows, afflictions, let us remember the words of Eliſha to his Servant, Fear not, for they that be with us, are more than they that are againſt us. Seldom did the Angels appear to any, but this was their language, 2 King. 6. 16. Fear not; As Fear not, Daniel; and, Fear not, Zacharias; and, Fear not, Mary; and, Fear not, Shepherds; and, Fear not Paul; Dan.10.12 Luk. 1.13. Luk. 1. 30. Luk. 2.10. Act.27.24 it is one of their prime offices, to ſtrengthen the weak hands, to confirm the feeble knees, and to ſay to them that are of a fearful heart, be ſtrong, fear not: Behold your God will come with vengeance, even God with a recompence, he will come and ſave you. Iſa. 35.34. 1 Sam.22. 23. When David ſaid to Abiathar, that may we imagine the Angels ſay to us, Fear not ye Sons and Daughters of the Almighty, we are your Protectors, Strengthners, Comforters; and with us, and by us, you ſhall be in ſafeguard. O the many quicknings, encouragings, comfortings, that the Saints have by the miniſtration of Angels! Biſhop Hall ibid. ut ſupra. Next to my God, and my Saviour (ſaith one) I ſhall ever place my greateſt comfort and confidence in the Angels of God, neither hath earth nor heaven any creature-comforters like unto theſe; there is none like them, or to be compared with them.

8. At all times and ſeaſons, let us think and carry our ſelves, as in the preſence of God, and ſight of his Angels. If I may inſtance in ſome times: As, 1. In time of temptation, let us think of it then. Seneca gave Lucilius this counſel, Whatever he was doing, that he ſhould imagine ſome of the Roman Worthies did behold him, and then he would do nothing diſhonourable. Surely, if the eye of God, and of his Angels were ever in our eye, this would be a Superſedeas, and counter-poyſon againſt all ſin: Tell me, how dare you ſin in their preſence, or do that in their view, which you would not dare to do in the ſight and preſence of ſome earthly man? 1 Tim. 5. 21. I charge you before God, and our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and the Elect Angels, ſaith Paul, q. d. Conſider God's Preſence, and Chriſt's Preſence; or if they work but little with you, Conſider the Preſence of the Elect Angels: Surely, the nearer things come to the manner of our preſence, the more they will affect us; and therefore conſider, that the Angels are preſent with us, in the very room where we are acting our very wickedneſs, I bluſh to think (ſaid the Author above cited) how often I have done that whereof the Angels were aſhamed for me; I abhor my ſelf to recount their juſt diſlikes, and do willingly profeſs how unworthy I am of ſuch friends, if I be not hereafter jealous of their juſt offence.

2. In time of publick ſervice, and publick duty, think on it then: For this cauſe (ſaith the Apoſtle) 1 Cor. 11. 10. ought the woman to have power over her head (that is to ſay, to be modeſtly veiled) becauſe of the Angels. Exod. 31. Elect Angels are exact and careful obſervers, and eye-witneſſes of our behaviour and deportment in the publick Ordinances. To this end were the Curtains of the Tabernacle pictured full of Cherubims, to ſignifie, that about our ſolemn meetings, whole Troops of Angels take notice of our carriage: Surely, if this were conſidered, we ſhould be very ſerious in God's Worſhip; yea, how ſpiritual and heavenly ſhould we be, if our hearts were but fixed on theſe glorious Angels? Biſhop Hall. Ibid. O ye bleſſed Spirits (ſaid a Saint) ye are ever by me, ever with me, ever about me, but eſpecially in God's houſe I do as good as ſee you, for I know you to be there, I reverence your glorious perſons, I bleſs God for you, I walk awfully, becauſe I am ever in your eyes; I walk confidently, becauſe I am ever in your hands. My brethren, we are even now at this time of publick meeting, amidſt watchful and waking Overſeers; we are lookt and lookt through in all our ways, as if Heaven were all eyes round about us: Oh then with what fear and trembling, with what Reverence and Devotion ſhould we ſtand, or wait here before God, and his holy Angels?

9. In reference both to others and our ſelves, let us learn to imitate Angels. ———

1. For others, let us imitate thus; they are as our Guardians, Phyſicians, Purveyors, Tutors, Inſtructors, Souldiers, Quickners, Incouragers, Comforters; ſo let us in our ſeveral ſtations and places aſpire to Angelical work; if the Angels guard us, let us be as Guardians of one another; if they ſtudy our health, let us wiſh health, and endeavour it as we may one for another; if they purvey for us, let us relieve the neceſſity of the Saints; if they tutor us, let us acquaint one another with the myſteries of Grace; if they inſtruct us, and perſwade us to our duties, let us conſider one another, to provoke unto love, and to good works: Exhort one another daily, while it is called to day: If they fight for us, and take part with us againſt the evil Angels, let us take part with the Saints againſt the oppreſſions and violence of all wicked men; if they quicken, incourage and comfort us, let us quicken the ſlothful, confirm the weak, and comfort the feeble minded. Surely the way to have Angels reward, or to ſee the face of God, is to do the work of Angels. Oh let us improve this piece of the Creation to our uſe, as well as all the reſt!

2. For our ſelves, let us imitate thus: 1. Reverence the Majeſty of God as they do, Iſa. 6. 2. 2. Stand ready preſt to execute the will of God, as they do, Pſal. 103. 20. 3. Let us ſtudy holineſs, as they do; they are of a moſt holy nature, and therefore are they called holy Angels. Mat. 15. 31 Luk. 20. 36 So be we holy, even as they are holy. It is but equal, that we who expect to be like the Angels in glory ἰσάγγελοι, ſhould be like them in grace: Many would ſtrive to be like them for gifts and parts, but not for holineſs, which yet is the ſpecial thing propounded to our imitation: When we ſay, Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven; no queſtion, this principally is intended, that we ſhould lead here Angelical lives; that is, in Heaven they are ever doing God's will, there is no ſin there, ſo we ſhould keep harmony with the Angels of Heaven, and do his will here.

10. To conclude, in all our duties, as in reference to the Angels, Heb. 12. 2. let us look unto Jeſus, the Author and Finiſher of our Faith: They are as the means and inſtruments of our good, but he is the Author and Finiſher, and all the efficacy flows from him. Hence it is that we muſt chiefly apply Pſa. 146. 3. our ſelves to him, Truſt not in Man, no, nor in Princes, ſaith the Pſalmiſt: So may I go on, truſt not in Princes, no, nor in Angels, nor Archangels abſolutely, but ſtill in ſubordination unto Jeſus Chriſt. This uſe the Pſalmiſt teacheth us of Angel-protection; Pſa. 34. 7, 8. the Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him: And what then? O taſte, and ſee that the Lord is good; bleſſed is the man that truſteth in him; not in them, but in him: our chief confidence muſt be in none that is on this ſide God. When God promiſed Moſes that an Angel ſhould go before Iſrael, and yet withal threatned the ſubduction of his own preſence (I will ſend an Angel before thee, but I will not go up in the midſt of thee.) Exod. 33. 2, 3. No marvel if Moſes were no leſs troubled, than if they had been left deſtitute and without a guard; and that he ceaſed not his importunity, till he had won the gracious ingagement of the Almighty for his preſence in that whole expedition: V. 15. If thy preſence go not with us, carry us not up hence: For what is the greateſt Angel in Heaven without his maker? O then let us eye God, and eye Jeſus Chriſt in all, above all, and beyond all Angel-miniſtration. It was a ſweet ſaying of one we mentioned before, Bleſſed be God for the Angels, as the Author of them and their protection; and bleſſed be the Angels under God, as the means uſed by him, for our protection, and other bleſſings: Let the Angels have their due, but let God in Chriſt, be our All in All; for as by him the Angels were created, Coloſ. 1. 16, 17. ſo were they created for him; and he is before all things, and by him all things conſiſt.

CHAP. IV. SECT. I.

Of the Miniſtration of Angels at our Death.

THUS far have we obſerved the Angels Miniſtration, even until death; And yet they have not done, for no ſooner Death ſeizeth on the Elect, but they miniſter to them, and in ſome reſpects continue their Miniſtration till the Reſurrection-day. In order to this, we ſhall firſt obſerve their Miniſtration, and ſecondly, our Duties.

1. For their Miniſtration, that known place is Luk. 16.22 moſt obvious: *And it came to paſs, that the Beggar died, and was carried by the Angels into A-*Jude 9. Dr. Manton on Jude. braham's boſom. And we read of Michael the Archangel, contending with the Devil about the body of Moſes. Whence ſome obſerve, that Angels have a care not only of the Souls, but of the Bodies; yea, even of the dead bodies of the Saints.

Sect. 2. Of the manner of Angel-Miniſtration at that time.

FOR the manner of their Miniſtration, it relates both to bodies and ſouls.

1. For the bodies of the Faithful.——

1. In the very Agony of Death they help and eaſe them: Thus was Chriſt refreſhed in the midſt of his Agony by an Angel. In like manner are they ſerviceable to the Saints; for if ordinary Phyſicians have their Electuaries, how much more can the Angels miniſter Cordials in their way?

2. After Death they guard the bodies of the Saints: The Devil would have abuſed the dead body of Moſes, but Michael the Archangel contended with him, and reſcued the body out of his hands: Satan's malice is without end, and therefore hath he ſtirred his inſtruments to abuſe the dead bodies of many Martyrs; he loves not that duſt wherein the Holy Spirit dwelleth, but the Angels take care of every duſt, ſo that not one ſhall be loſt at the general day: Suppoſe them ſcattered up and down the world, yet are they but thrown and ſown in the earth, that they may ſpring out again to a glorious incorruption; and in the mean time the Angels are a Guard, and have a regard to them in their ſleep, till the morning of their Reſurrection day.

2. For the Souls of the Faithful.————

1. The Angels, in the very Article and point of death, are vigilant over them, and oft-times inſpire the parting Souls with a ſpirit of Divination, or Conſolation, ſurpaſſing all humane knowledge. Thus Gregory could ſay, that ſometimes Greg. Dia. l. 4. c. 20. Souls before their departure, came to the knowledge of things by Revelation, and ſometimes by heavenly inſpiration they penetrate with their ſpiritual eyes the very ſecrets of Heaven it ſelf. Do we not ſee by experience, that when the Soul is drawing into a ſeparate condition, it is in a great part delivered from bodily operations, and from the buſineſs of the outward ſenſes, and from the commerce with external and worldly matters, which puts it as it were into a kind of Sabbath, or ſtate of reſt? Now the more quiet the Soul is, and the more ſequeſted from earthly and outward things, the more apt it is to enjoy the benefit of internal light, and the better fitted for Spiritual Commerce with God himſelf, or with his Angels, which (ſaith one) Dr. Warmſtry in bap. Turk. may alſo lead us to underſtand ſomething towards a reaſon, why men drawing near their departure, are obſerved to be diſpoſed to Preſage and Propheſie, to be full of comfort, as if heaven entred into them, before they could enter into Heaven.

2. The Angels ſtand ready to receive Souls ſeparate from their bodies, into their imbraces. Macarius, a Learned Monk, could ſay, that immediately after death, the Quires of Angels received the Souls of Saints into their own ſide, into the pure world, and ſo brought them unto the Lord: Wicked men, when they die, ſhall have a black guard of Angels to receive them, and to hale them down to hell; but the Godly ſhall have a white guard, the ſame Angels that were ſaid before to bear them up in their hands, will then receive them into their Arms, and fall upon them with hugs, and kiſſes and imbraces.

3. Angels convey Souls in their hands, or on their wings, through the Air and middle Region, up into Heaven: We cannot go from earth to heaven, but we muſt needs paſs through the Devil's Territories, or through the air (for ſo is Satan cal- Epheſ. 2.2. led, The Prince of the power of the Air; that is to ſay, of the Airy Dominion, or Princedom) thither were Devils, with Satan their Prince, exil'd from heaven: whence the Jews have a Tradition, That all the ſpace betwixt the Earth and the Firmament, is full of Troops of evil ſpirits: And it is the opinion of all Doctors (ſaith Hierome) that De- Hierom. in Epheſ. 6. vils have their manſions and reſidence in that ſpace between the heaven and earth. And although ſome againſt this alledge thoſe Texts, For if God ſpa- 2 Pet. 2. 4. red not the Angels which ſinned, but caſt them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkneſs, to be reſerved unto Judgment.—— And the Angels which kept not their firſt eſtate, Jude 6. but left their own habitation, he hath reſerved in everlaſting chains under darkneſs, unto the Judgment of the great day: Yet Learned Mede hath expounded the firſt Text thus, That he caſt them down to hellward, or to this lower Orb, there to be reſerved for chains of darkneſs at the day of Judgment: And the latter Text thus, That the evil Spirits which fell into this lower Region, were there to be reſerved, as in a Priſon, for everlaſting chains of darkneſs at the judgment day. This is the Valley of the ſhadow of death, through which the Souls of Saints are to go to heaven; and becauſe of the dangerous voyage, the Angels ſcour and clear the paſſage for them; they go with them, and fight for them, and with ſpeed and triumph at laſt convey them to their Father's houſe. Oh in what pomp and triumph did Lazarus's Soul ride on the wings of Angels! Never was Dives ſo honour'd in his life, as was Lazarus at his death; he might ride in ſome Chariot drawn with Horſes, but Lazarus was, and the Souls of all believers ſhall be drawn at their deaths in Fiery Chariots; they ſhall be carried and conveyed to heaven by the Angels of God.

4. The Angels welcom the Souls of Saints, in this Heavenly Progreſs, to their Heavenly Canaan:

They are not only Porters to carry Souls, but they are Porters alſo to receive Souls, they ſtand ready at Heavens Gates, to ſet open the doors, and to bid them enter into their Maſter's Joy. In that Viſion which John had of the great City, the holy Jeruſalem, he ſaw twelve Gates, and at the Gates twelve Angels: Our Engliſh Annotations ſay, that theſe Angels are as Porters to receive men into Heaven: Howſoever Adam was kept out of Paradiſe by the Cherubims, yet Cherubims, and Seraphims, and all the Hoſt of Heaven, are ready to receive the Saints into this glorious City: Oh what a joy will be in Heaven at the firſt admiſſion of theſe Souls! what claſping, cloſing, kiſſing, imbracing, will be at this entrance betwixt Saints and Angels? Welcome, ſay the Angels; and welcome ſay Arch-Angels; yea, the Principalities triumph, and Powers rejoyce, and Virtues ſhine, and Thrones glitter, and Cherubims give light, and Seraphims burn in love at the Soul's arrival; what Congratulations are thoſe amongſt the Angels, that now the worſt of their ſervice is paſt, that now the poor Souls they had in charge, are by their good help eſcaped, and freed from all the miſeries of the World, and ſnares of the Devil, and pains of Hell, and are now entred through the Gates into the City, where they and their charge ſhall live together, and love together, and ſing together Jehovah's praiſe? Never had the Saints ſuch welcome in this world, as at this day they have, or ſhall have by the Angels of God into the Kingdom of God.

Revel. 21. 12.

Revel. 22. 14.

5. The Angels preſent the Souls of Saints before Chriſt in his Throne, and there immediately they receive their ſentence. This muſt needs follow, the Angels cannot leave their charge, till they bring them to him, who gave them the charge of them; away therefore they fly to the Lamb in his Throne, and covering their faces with their wings, there they preſent with chearfulneſs of ſpirit his redeemed ones, q. d. 'Glorious King of Saints, hither we bring theſe Souls, which thou gaveſt us in charge to keep, their duſts are indeed returned to earth as they were, but their Spirits muſt needs return to God who gave them; come, take them into thy boſom, and glory, they are ſpirits, yea ſpirits ſublimated (as being born again of water, and of the ſpirit) and therefore aſſimilated to thy ſelf; they are pure ſparks, now freed and ſevered from their duſt and aſhes, and therefore they fly up, or they come up hither on our wings, unto thee the great Spirit, that element of Spirits; Oh that they may find union and coalition with thee! Oh that they may be with thee where thou art, and that they may for ever behold the glory which thou haſt given them! To whom anſwer is given, as from the Throne, welcome, dear Souls, into this glorious Kingdom of mine, this is that inheritance I prepared for you before the foundation of the World: Why, you are they whom I created in my own Image, after my own Likeneſs; you are my Off-ſpring, created immediately by my hand, and in my Image, as to your very ſubſtance. It is true, I made all the World, and ſomething I made out of nothing, as the Chaos was made, but my Image other Creatures did not bear; you only are ſpiritual ſubſtances; and vital-lights; you only have thoſe luminous ſubſtances, or ſubſtantial lights, from the gift of your Creation, which is a degree above the Angels, for they have not any light genial and inherent to their Eſſence, but are only Mirrours of the increated light: And though a taint came upon you by reaſon of ſin, ſo that this Image wherein you were created, was exceedingly marred, yet by a work of Grace I renewed this Image; and thereupon, that original affinity to me, the God of Spirits, is not only reſtored, but endeared. And now this is my ſentence, Well done good and faithful ſervants, you have been faithful over a few things, I will make you Ruler over many things, enter you into the joy of your Lord.

Eccleſ. 12. 7.

6. The Angels now begin to joyn in Conſort with the Souls of Saints, and to ſing thoſe Hallelujahs that never ſhall have end. And round about the Throne were four Beaſts, full of eyes before and behind —— and they reſt not day and night, ſaying, Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come: And when theſe Beaſts give glory and honour, and thanks to him that ſits on the Throne, who liveth for ever and ever, the four and twenty Elders fall down before him that ſits on the Throne, and worſhip him that liveth for ever and ever, and caſt their Crowns before the Throne, ſaying, Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive Glory, and Honour, and Power, for thou haſt created all things, and for thy ſake they are, and were created. —— And I heard the voice of many Angels round about the Throne; and the Beaſts, and the Elders, and the number of the Angels was ten thouſand times ten thouſand, and thouſands of thouſands, ſaying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was ſlain to receive Power, and Riches, and Wiſdom, and Strength, and Honour, and Glory, and Bleſſing. —— After this I beheld, and lo a great multitude, which no man could number, of all Nations, and Kindreds, and People, and Tongues, ſtood before the Throne, and before the Lamb cloathed with white Robes, and Palms in their hands, and cryed with a loud voice, ſaying, ſalvation to our God which ſitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb; and all the Angels ſtood round about the Throne, and about the Elders, and the four Beaſts, and fell before the Throne on their faces, and worſhipped God, ſaying, Amen; Bleſſing, and Glory, and Wiſdom, and Thankſgiving, and Honour, and Power, and Might be unto our God, for ever and ever, Amen. Lo here, all God's Saints of the Old and New Teſtament, called twenty four Elders, comprehended under the twelve Patriarchs, and twelve Apoſtles, and all the Miniſters of Chriſt called four Beaſts, or living weights, comprehended under the four Evangeliſts; and all the Angels of heaven, an innumerable company of Angels, all joyning in one conſort; Oh what joys are here? what harmonies are theſe? what warbling of Saints and Angels; If Francis (as Bonaventure ſtories it) hearing but one Angel play upon an Harp, was ſo tranſported with the melody that he thought himſelf in another world; how are the Souls of Saints tranſported, who no ſooner arrive into glory, but they hear more than twelve Legions of Angels, accompanied with a numberleſs number of glorious Saints, all ſinging at once, Hallelujah; Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, praiſe, and honour, and glory, and power be unto God, and Chriſt, and the Spirit of Chriſt, for ever and ever?

Sect. 3. Of the Experiences of this truth.

I ſhall add ſome experiences of this bleſſed truth.

1. THEY help us and eaſe us in the pangs of death.

Mr. Hawks being intreated of his friends, that in the midſt of the flame, wherein he muſt die, he would ſhew them ſome token, if he could, that the fire was not ſo intolerable, but a man might therein keep his mind quiet and patient; this he aſſented to and promiſed, that if the rage of the pain were tolerable, he would lift up his hands above his head, before he gave up the Ghoſt; At the ſtake, he mildly and patiently addreſſed himſelf to the fire, and after his fervent prayers made to God, fire was put to him; in it he continued long, and when his ſpeech was taken away by the flame, his skin drawn altogether, and his fingers conſumed with the fire, ſo that all men thought he had been dead; he being mindful of his promiſe, ſuddenly lift up his hands burning of a light fire, and with great joy clapped them three times together, whereupon there was ſuch ſhouting amongſt the people, eſpecially by thoſe that knew the meaning of it, as the like had ſcarce been heard; and ſo the bleſſed Martyr, preſently ſinking down into the fire, gave up his ſpirit unto God. Fox Martyr.

Mr. James Bainham, being at ſtake to be burnt, in the midſt of the flames which had half conſumed his arms and his legs, he ſpake theſe words: O ye Papiſts, behold ye look for miracles, and here now you may ſee a miracle, for in this fire I feel no more pain, than if I were in a bed of Down; yea, it is to me as a bed of Roſes. Idem ibid.

There was in Mechlin one Andrew Thiſſen, who had three ſons, whom he carefully brought up in the knowledge of the truth, two of them were condemned to the fire, and one of them feeling the violence of the flame, ſaid, O what a ſmall pain is this, compared with the glory to come! and ſo committing their ſpirits into the hands of God, they finiſhed their Race.

Henry Voes and John Eſch, being brought to the ſtake, for their teſtimony to the Proteſtant Religion, when the fire was kindled at their feet, one one of them ſaid, Methinks you do ſtrow Roſes under my feet; and preſently after they quietly ſlept in the Lord.

William Cowper, being ready to die, ſaid; Now my Soul be glad, for at all parts of this Priſon the Lord hath ſet to his Pioneers to looſe thee; head, feet, milt, and liver, are faſt, failing, yea, the middle ſtrength of the whole body, the ſtomach is weakned long ago, ariſe, make ready, ſhake off thy fetters, mount up from the body, and go thy way.

2. They inſpire our ſouls with divination, or comfort.

A Child of a Chriſtian Gentlewoman was ſo given to prayer from its infancy, that before it could well ſpeak, it would uſe to get alone, and go to prayer; and as it grew, it was more frequent in prayer; at laſt, when the child was but five years old, and whipping of his top, on a ſudden he flung away his ſcourge, ſtick, and top, and ran to his Mother, and with great joy ſaid unto her: Mother, I go to God, will you go with me? ſhe anſwered, My dear Child, how doſt thou know thou ſhalt go to God? He anſwered, God hath told me ſo, for I love God, and God loves me: Mother will you go with me? She anſwered, Dear Child, I muſt go when God pleaſeth; but why wilt thou not ſtay with me? The Child anſwered, I will not ſtay, I muſt go to God: And the Child did live about a month after, but never cared for play more, and then fell ſick, always ſpeaking, that he muſt go to God, and died in that ſickneſs. White.

Charles Bridgeman propheſied his departure, and how ſtrange a propheſie! not only that he muſt die, but fore-telling the very day: On the Lord's day (ſaid he) look to me; neither was that a word of courſe, which appeared by his often repetion, every day asking, till the day came indeed, What is Sunday come? At laſt the lookt-for day came on, and no ſooner had the ſun beautifi'd that morning, but he fell into a trance: What (think you) meant his bleſſed ſoul, whilſt the body it ſelf uſed ſuch an action? his eyes were fixed, his face chearful, his lips ſmiling, his hands and arms claſping in a bow, as if he would have received ſome bleſſed Angel, that there was at hand to receive his ſoul; but he comes to himſelf, and tells them about him; how he ſaw the ſweeteſt boy that ever eyes beheld, and bids them be of good chear, for he muſt preſently go with him: One ſtanding near, as now ſuſpecting the time of his diſſolution, bids him ſay, Lord into thy hands I commend my ſpirit: Yes, ſaid he, Lord into thy hands I commend my ſpirit, which is thy due, for why thou haſt redeemed it, O Lord my God moſt true. And preſently after he died.

Biſhop Hall of God and his Angels.

If a man, without all obſervation of phyſical Criticiſmes ſhall receive and give intelligence, many days before, what day or hour ſhall be his laſt, to what cauſe can we attribute theſe but to our attending Angels?

A gentlewoman, lying on her death-bed, Mr. Dod was ſent for to her, who ſpake of heaven, and to fit her for that glory, ſhe told him, that ſhe felt the comforts of God, and that ſhe could as hardly at that time forbear ſinging, as formerly in child-bearing ſhe could forbear crying, and ſhortly after ſhe died. Clark Mart.

Mr. Holland, the day before his death, calling for a Bible, continued his meditations and expoſitions on the eighth to the Romans, for the ſpace of two hours, but on the ſudden he ſaid; O ſtay your reading, what brightneſs is this I ſee? and they ſaid, it is the Sunſhine: Nay, (ſaith he) it is my Saviours ſhine, now farewel world, welcome heaven, the day-ſtar from on high hath viſited my heart; I doubt not but you all ſee that light, but I feel a light within me, that none of you all can know: And then turning himſelf to the Miniſter who preached his Funeral Sermon, he ſaid; Sir, I deſire you would preach my Funeral Sermon, for this night I die, and ſpeak this from me, that God deals familiarly with man; I feel his mercy, I ſee his Majeſty, whether in the body or out of the body, I cannot tell, God he knoweth, but I ſee things that are unutterable. And being thus raviſhed in his ſpirit, he roamed towards heaven with a chearful look, and ſoft ſweet voice, but what he ſaid was not underſtood; at laſt raiſing himſelf on his Bed, as Jacob did upon his ſtaff, he ended his bleſſed life with theſe bleſſed words: O thou fiery Chariot, that cameſt down to fetch up Elijah, carry me to my happy hold; and all you bleſſed Angels that attend the ſoul of Lazarus, to bring it to heaven, bear me, O bear me into the boſom of my beſt beloved, Amen. Amen. Come Lord Jeſus, come quickly; and ſo he fell aſleep. Leigh.

Miſtreſs Drake, a woman of great temptations, and deſertions, at laſt growing ſickly, and free from her deſertions, ſhe became inceſſant in her diſcourſes of heaven and of the things of God. The Lords day before her death, ſhe called all her children together, and with many admonitions and zealous inſtructions, and heavenly diſcourſes, ſhe ſpent much time that day with them; the Tueſday following Mr. Dod came, and ſpent ſome time in heavenly diſcourſes, and then went to prayer; and ſuddenly as prayer was done, ſhe brake forth in a wonderful manner in theſe expreſſions: Oh, ho, ho, what's this? what's this? what's this? I am undone, undone, undone, I cannot endure it: O, O, O, let me be gone, let me be gone, I muſt be gone, I cannot tarry; Oh what ſhall I do? Loe, loe, the Angels are come, they wait, and ſtay for me: O dear Mother, why hold you me? I muſt be gone; O he is come, he is come, he is come; now you have it, you have it, you have it, (meaning that now they had the iſſue and fruits of all their prayers) why hold you me? let me be gone, my work is done: O call, call, call! where is my Crown, fetch me my Crown, bring me my white Robes, quickly, quickly, quickly; why run ye not? the Angels ſtay: O it overcomes, overcomes, overcomes me: what ſhall I do? what ſhall I do? what ſhall I do? with innumerable ſuch ſwift expreſſions as could not be remembred; and withal ſhe heaved up ſtill all the time with fixed eyes towards the houſe-top, as though ſhe had ſeen ſome Viſion, and would have flown away from them all. Idem.

Robert Milner, on his deaths-bed, was ſo filled with joy for many days together, that he could not hold, but proclaimed the ſweetneſs and goodneſs of God from day to day, he profeſt his joys were unutterable; he carried, as if he had been in Heaven afore-hand, only once talking with ſome Chriſtians about him, he cryed out, Oh I have loſt it! But preſently he added, Oh I have it again, it is come; it is come! At laſt, drawing near his end, he ſent for the Relator as formerly, and deſired his prayers; and whilſt he was in duty, commending his Soul unto God, he ſuddenly rouzed and ſtirred up his body, crying and ſaying aloud with much vehemency, The Lord, the Lord, merciful and gracious, abundant in goodneſs and truth, forgiving iniquity, tranſgreſſions and ſins: And in the very act and heat of his proclaiming the Name and Goodneſs, and Sweetneſs, and Mercy of God, he bowed the head, and gave up the Ghoſt.

Lord Henry Otto, being ſentenced to death for Religion, he told the Miniſter waiting on him, I was troubled, but now I feel a wonderful refreſhing in my heart; adding, with his hands lift up to Heaven, I give thee thanks, O merciful Father, who haſt been pleaſed to fill me with ſo much comfort; O now I fear death no longer, I will die with joy. As he was going to the Scaffold, he ſaid to the Miniſter, I am ſure that Chriſt Jeſus will meet my Soul with his Angels, that he may bring it to an Everlaſting Marriage, where I ſhall drink of a new Cup, a Cup of Joy for ever. Upon the Scaffold, lifting up his eyes to Heaven, he ſaid: Behold I ſee the heavens open, pointing with his hand to the place, where others alſo obſerved a certain brightneſs which dazled their eyes. —— And ſo he received the ſtroak of the Sword. Clark's Mart. in Bohemia. —— In like manner, Bandicon being on the Scaffold with his Father, fixing his eyes upon Heaven, ſaid to his Father: Behold I ſee the heavens open and millions of Angels ready to receive us: Father let us rejoyce and be glad, for the joys of heaven are opened to us. Idem, in his perſecution of the Church in the Low-Countries.

3. They ſtand ready to receive us into their imbraces, and convey us through the Air into Heaven.

Romula being trained up by Redempta, fell into a Palſie, that ſhe was fain to keep her bed; but the ſickneſs of her body being ſanctified, and tending to her Souls health, on a certain night ſhe haſtily called for Redempta, ſaying, Come Mother, Come Mother, who ſtraitways, with her other Diſciple, roſe up; and as they were about midnight by her Beds-ſide, ſuddenly there came a light from Heaven which filled all the Room, and then they heard a noiſe, as it were, of many that came in; the door being ſhaken, and thruſt open, as though there had been a great preſs of People: ſtraight after that light followed a wonderful pleaſant ſmell, which did greatly comfort their trembling hearts. Romula perceiving that they could not endure that abundance of Light, with ſweet words comforted Redempta, that ſtood trembling by her Beds-ſide, ſaying, Be not afraid Mother, for I ſhall not die at this time. And when ſhe had often repeated thoſe words, by little and little the light vaniſhed away, but yet the ſweet ſmell remained ſtill: Upon the fourth night after ſhe called again for Redempta, who coming in with her other Diſciple, as formerly, ſuddenly they heard two Quires ſinging before the Door without, the one as the voices of men, that began the Pſalms, and the other of women that anſwered; and whiles thoſe heavenly Funerals were in celebrating before the Door, the holy Soul departed this life, and was carried in that manner up into Heaven; and the higher theſe two Quires did aſcend, the leſs did they hear that Celeſtial Muſick, until at length they heard no more: And then alſo that ſweet and odoriferous ſmell vaniſhed away. Greg. Dialog. l. 4.

Fructuoſus, Biſhop of Tarracona in Spain, with his two Deacons, Augurius and Eulogius, ſuffered Martyrdom; the cauſe of their puniſhment, was for profeſſing of Chriſt's Name; their Judge and Condemner was Emilianus, their Death was by Fire, into which they were all caſt, with their Arms bound behind them; but their Bands and Manacles being looſed by the Fire, they lifted up their hands to Heaven, praiſing the Living God, to the great admiration of them that ſtood by; praying alſo, that the Element which ſeemed to fly from them, might work his full force upon them, and ſpeedily diſpatch them, which was after their requeſt obtained. In the mean ſpace, as they were in the fire, there was a certain Soldier in the houſe of Emilianus, who did ſee the Heavens above to open, and theſe foreſaid Martyrs to enter into the ſame; which Soldier likewiſe ſhewed the ſight the ſame time unto the Daughter of Emilianus the Preſident, who beholding the ſame ſight with the Soldier, was a preſent witneſs of the bleſſedneſs of them whom her cruel Father had condemned. Fox Acts and Monuments. 1. Vol.

Philip de Mornay, L. of Pleſſis Marly, lying on his Deaths bed, in the midſt of his prayers was heard to ſay, I fly, I fly to Heaven; the Angels of Heaven are carrying me into the boſom of my Saviour. Clark's life of Philip de Mornay.

Mrs. Stubs on her Deaths bed, ſpeaking to them that were by, ſhe ſaid; ‘Oh would God you ſaw but what I ſee; for behold I ſee infinite millions of moſt glorious Angels ſtand about me with fiery Chariots ready to defend me: Theſe holy Angels, theſe miniſtring Spirits, are appointed of God to carry my Soul into the Kingdom of Heaven, where I ſhall behold the Lord face to face, and ſhall ſee him, not with other, but with theſe ſame eyes. Life and Death of Mrs. Kath. Stubs.

4. They welcome us into Heaven, and preſent us before Chriſt in his Throne.

Helmont in his Viſion of the Soul, tells, that in the year 1610. after a long wearineſs of Contemplation, that he might acquire ſome gradual knowledge of his own mind, fallen by chance into a calm ſleep, and rapt beyond the limits of reaſon, he ſeemed to be in an Hall ſufficiently obſcure; on his left hand was a Table, and on it a fair large Viol, wherein was a ſmall quantity of Liquor, and a Voice from that Liquor ſpake unto him, Wilt thou have honour and riches? At this unwonted Voice he became ſurprized with extreme amazement; and by and by, on his right hand, appeared a chink in the Wall, through which a light invaded his eyes with unwonted ſplendor, which made him wholly forgetful of the Liquor, Voice, and former Counſel. Preſently he awakened, but his ancient intenſe deſire of knowing the nature of his Soul, in which he had panted unceſſantly for thirteen years together, conſtantly remained with him. At length, amidſt the anxious afflictions of various fortunes, when yet he hoped a Sabbath of tranquility, he had in a Viſion the ſight of his Soul: it was a tranſcendent light, in the figure of a man, whoſe whole was homogeneous, actively diſcerning a ſubſtance Spiritual, Chriſtalline, and lucent by its own native ſplendor. And then it was revealed to him, that this light was the ſame which he had a glimpſe of before: If the demand be, what becomes of this Light after its ſeparation from the body? Dr. Charleton, who tranſlated that Book of Helmont, gave it in this Poſie; Lumen de Lumine; Light of Light, and Light to Light. The Angels of light take theſe luminous ſubſtances, or ſubſtantial lights, and preſent them before that uncreated Light, the Lord of Glory; What the eſtate of this life is, and what it will be, is ſung by Mr. Moor, in his præ-exiſtency of the Soul.

Like to a light, faſt lockt in Lanthorn dark,
Whereby by night our weary ſteps we guide
In ſlabby ſtreets, and dirty channels mark,
Some weaker Rays through the black top do glide,
And fluſher ſtreams perhaps from horny ſide:
But when we've paſt the peril of the way,
Arriv'd at home, and laid that caſe aſide,
The naked light how clearly doth it ray,
And ſpread its joyful beams as bright as Summers day?
Even ſo the Soul in this contracted ſtate,
Confin'd to theſe ſtrait inſtruments of ſenſe,
More dull and narrowly doth operate;
At this hole heats, the ſight may ray from thence,
Here taſts, there ſmells; but when ſhe's gone from thence,
Like naked Lamp ſhe is one ſhining ſphere,
And round about has perfect cognizance:
What e're in her Horizon doth appear,
She is one Orb of Senſe, all eye, all airy ear.
So nothing now in death is to be dread
Of him that wakes to truth and righteouſneſs,
The Corps lye here, the Soul aloft is fled,
Unto the fount of perfect happineſs;
As earth returns to earth, this light no leſs Returns to him that gave it, where it is Preſented by the Angels with exceſs
Of ſtrange melodious muſick, joy, and bliſs, Oh then how doth that Great Light this Light greet and kiſs!

5. They joy in ſweet harmony of praiſes that never ſhall have end.

A certain man, call Servulus, drawing near his end, called for all ſuch ſtrangers as lodged in his houſe, deſiring them to ſing Hymns with him; and as he was ſinging, all on a ſudden he cryed out aloud, ſaying, Do you not hear the great and wonderful Muſick which is in Heaven? and even in that inſtant his Soul departed this mortal life. All that were preſent felt a moſt pleaſant and fragrant ſmall, whereby they argued the verity of his ſaying; and that he and Angels were then in conſort ſinging Hallelujahs together in Heaven. Gregor. Dialog. l. 4.

Another called Guthlake, drawing near his end, told Berteline his Scholar, the time is come, my dear Son, wherein I muſt paſs to Chriſt: and lifting up his hands and eyes to Heaven, he yielded up his Soul; when at the very inſtant Berteline ſaw, as it were a Fiery Tower reaching from Heaven down to the Earth, the brightneſs whereof was ſo wonderful, that the pale Sun might envy ſo great a luſtre, whilſt the Angels themſelves were heard to ſing melodious Tunes of Joy. Felix.

Sect. 4. Of the Duties that concern us in this reſpect.

2. FOR the ſeveral Duties that concern us in this reſpect. ——

1. Weigh not the pains, or pangs of Death, as if they were intollerable; but tather pitch we the Anchor of our hope on the firm ground of the Word of God, who hath promiſed in our weakneſs to perfect his ſtrength —— and not to ſuffer us to be tempted above that we are able to bear, —— and to give his Angels a charge to bear us up in their hands. If the Lord lay one hand upon us, he puts another hand under us; yea, he chargeth his Angels to bear us up in their hands, and to allay our pains; it proves ſo to many, that the very thoughts of death more pains than the pangs of death; howſoever it may comfort us that the Angels ſtand by us, who either will help us in, or help us through thoſe pangs of Death, that we be not ſwallowed up by them.

2. Take we no care of our bodies after death, ſave only to commit them to the Earth. Methinks the Angels might take off that carking care which many have: what if thy body be uſed as the Iriſh Papiſts uſed the bodies of dead Proteſtants, who caſt ſome into ditches, and left others to be devoured of ravenous Beaſts; yea, and digged up others that had been formerly buried, and then left them as dung on the face of the Earth; yet the Angels ſee and take care that every part, and piece, and member of thy body ſhall be preſerved and kept ſafe unto that day of our Lord; the Earth in her Womb, or the Sea in her Gulphs, or Beaſts in their Bellies, or whatever is the Grave of the Bodies of Saints, they are but as Gods cloſe Cheſts, to keep in them a part of the Lord's own Treaſure; and when theſe Cheſts ſhall be opened (as they ſhall be in that great day of the Reſurrection of Saints) then ſhall thoſe bodies be brought out again by the holy Angels; and then ſhall they be as good, nay, better than ever they were before; for our vile body ſhall be made like the glorious body of our Lord and Saviour, according to the working whereby he is able even to ſubdue all things unto himſelf.

Phi

3. The nearer we draw to our end, let us draw nearer to God and his holy Angels. This is done by having a ſpecial care of our Souls, and by doing thoſe duties that we owe both to God and his Angels. I liſt not to enter into Controverſies; I deny that any Worſhip is to

Biſhop Hall of God and his Angels.

to be given them, or that we ought to pray to them; yet (as the Contemplative Biſhop ſaid) this devotion we do gladly profeſs to owe to good Angels, that though we do not pray unto them, yet we do pray to God for the favour of their aſſiſtance and protection, and we do praiſe God for the protection and miniſtration that we have from them. And yet further, we come ſhort of our duties to theſe bleſſed ſpirits, if we entertain not in our hearts an high and venerable conceit of their wonderful Majeſty, Glory, and Greatneſs, and an awful acknowledgment, and reverential awe of their glorious preſence; an holy joy, and confident aſſurance of their vigilant care; and laſtly, a fear to do ought that might cauſe them to turn away their faces in diſlike from us. All theſe diſpoſitions are copulative; for certainly, if we have conceived ſo high an Opinion of their Excellency as we ought, we cannot but be bold upon their mutual intereſt, and be afraid to diſpleaſe them by our heinous and abominable ſins. The man that is going out of the World, and within a ſtep or two of death, ſhould methinks be very fearful of neglecting the Angels, or of grieving the Angels: Why alas, if they watch not over him now, if now they inſpire not the Soul with bleſſed motions, and pious thoughts; if now they fail of their office, when there is more need of it then ever was, or ever will be; oh what will a poor ſoul do? Come, think me of this e're it be too late; yea, the nearer we draw to our end, the more tender let us be of our care and to reſpect theſe bleſſed Spirits; and who can tell, but as in the very Agony Chriſt was comforted by an Angel, ſo theſe miniſtring Spirits may at ſuch a time miniſter comfort and conſolation to our Souls? We have ſeen an Heaven of Joy entring into ſome, before they entred into the Joy of Heaven.

4. Make to our ſelves friends of the Angels, that when we die, they may receive us into everlaſting habitations. Thus Chriſt adviſed us in reſpect of riches, make uſe of them by your beneficence to the poor, that they may pray for you, and make your advantage of being rewarded by God: this is the meaning of, make to your ſelves friends of the Mammon of unrighteouſneſs. Luk. 16. 9. And if worldly Riches, that either in getting, uſing, or keeping, do adminiſter matter of ſin, (and therefore are called unrighteous Mammon) may be ſo improved, how much more may we improve the Angels, and gain by the Angels, if we make them our friends? But how ſhould we make them our friends? I anſwer: 1. Let us reſemble them in their purity, piety, innocency. Suitableneſs of ſpirit and life, will breed friendſhip: if we are but pure in our meaſure as they are pure, they will delight to befriend us here, and to lay a foundation for a far more familiar acquaintance in Heaven hereafter. 2. Let us apply our ſelves to them, as deſirous and willing of their friendſhip: let us converſe with them as friends, aſſenting to what they ſay, and making up holy concluſions with them, and replies, which they will find ways to underſtand. O the bleſſed motions that they make continually to our Souls! Is it not their joy to gain us, and to win upon us? and to that purpoſe are they not ſuggeſting this and that good thought to ſave our Souls? O then let us anſwer them in their motions, and receive whatever they adminiſter!

5. Though we go through the Valley of the ſhadow of death, let us fear no evil, for the Angels will be with us. It is natural for us to fear death; and indeed, as it is the deſtruction of the creature, and parts Body and Soul; as it leads the Body through a dark, dirty way, the Grave; and as it leads the Soul through the Devil's Territories, the Air, it is no wonder if Nature ſtartle, and be afraid of it. But the Chriſtian hath many conſiderations to allay his fear, and to chear up his ſpirit: As, 1. Death is but the ſeparation of Soul and Body; it is not the annihilation of Soul and Body, but a fair ſhaking hands between two parting friends: it is as if the Wife ſhould take leave of her Husband to go ſee her Father; to whom the Husband ſays, that he will follow after her, and be with her in the morning: Farewel my dear, ſays the Soul, I muſt go to my Father; and farewel my dear, ſays the Body, I will come after thee, and be with thee in the Morning of the Reſurrection. It is true, they cannot part without many a tear, and kiſs; but what needs fear? the morning comes as well as the night. 2. The Bodies paſſage through the Grave, though dark and diſmal, yet it is ſafe and ſecure, and fit for reſt and ſleep: He ſhall enter into peace, they ſhall reſt in their Beds: Iſa. 57. 2. When a righteous man dies, or his body is buried, he is but gone to bed; and therefore we call thoſe places where the dead are laid up and buried, Dormitories, or ſleeping places; they ſleep for a time; but they ſhall awake, and riſe up again at the laſt day. 3. The Souls paſſage through the Air, though full of Devils, yet it is accompanied with a ſafe Convoy: there is a white Regiment of glorious Angels that will bring the Souls of Saints through all perils to Mount Sion, to the City of the Living God, to the Heavenly Jeruſalem, and to an innumerable company of Angels, to the General Aſſembly and Church of the firſt-born which are written in Heaven, and to God the Judge of all, and to the ſpirits of juſt men made perfect, and to Jeſus the Mediator of the New Covenant. Heb. 12. 22, 23, 24. Now can the Wife fear an Enemy, when the Husband hath ſent a puiſſant Army to convey her ſafely to himſelf? How then ſhould we fear the way, or fear Death, or Devils, when the Angels (who are ſtronger than all Enemies) have a charge to conduct us to the Bridegroom of our Souls? and they will not, cannot fail of what they have in charge: they are the Army of Heaven, the Saints own Guard, the Officers and Souldiers of the Lord of Hoſts; and therefore they will be ſure to perform their truſt, we need not fear it.

6. Let us prepare and make ready for that glorious welcome which the Angels will give us into Glory: would you know how to prepare? 1. Procure their joy by your Converſion: There is joy in the preſence of the Angels of God, over one ſinner that repenteth. Luk. 15. 10. The Converſion of a ſinner is the Gratulation of Angels; and if they joy at your Repentance, how much more will they joy to ſee you in Heaven with them? 2. Procure their love by the ſtrictneſs and holineſs of your lives; live like Angels; bring Soul and Body as near as may be, into a ſpiritual frame; this is the way of Friends to procure welcomes here on earth, if they will but maintain a familiarity, and ſympathy, and nearneſs, and likeneſs to one another in mind and manners: O thus do you, and then you may expect Angels welcome into that City of Glory.

7. Wait upon God with incouragement, that one day the Angels will preſent us to Chriſt in his Throne without ſpot and blameleſs. It is now our complaints, Oh the ſin whereof we are guilty! and oh wretched men that we are, who ſhall deliver us from this body of death! but the day is coming when we ſhall be freed from theſe complaints. As Chriſt's Miniſters have a charge, and when they have done their work they will preſent us to Jeſus Chriſt, 2 Cor. 11. 2. and as Chriſt himſelf hath a charge, and when he hath done his work, he will preſent us to himſelf, Judg. 24. and to his Father, Coloſ. 1. 22. ſo the holy Angels have a charge alſo, and when they have done their work, they will preſent us to Jeſus Chriſt; 2Cor.11.2 how? even as Miniſters do, That I may preſent Eph.5.27. you as a chaſte Virgin to Chriſt; or as Chriſt himſelf doth, that he might preſent to himſelf a glorious Church, not having ſpot or wrinkle, or any ſuch thing, but that it ſhould be holy, and without blemiſh: So will the Angels do, Even preſent us faultleſs before the preſence of his Glory with exceeding joy. Let us preſs on to Perfection even upon theſe hopes, that howſoever it is with us now, Luk.20.36 ſurely we ſhall be faultleſs, we ſhall be equal unto the Angels, equal in grace, and equal in glory; for to that end will they preſent us to Chriſt in his Throne, and accordingly will Chriſt pronounce his ſentence, Enter you into the joy of your Lord.

8. Praiſe we God for his Mercy of Angel-miniſtration from firſt to laſt. This we muſt do in Heaven, only begin we this Tune and Ditty while we are on earth; and if we cannot do it as we would, let us call in Angels to join with us in bleſſing, praiſing and admiring God: This was Pſal. 148. 1, 2. David's wont, Praiſe ye the Lord, praiſe ye the Lord from the Heavens, praiſe ye him in the heights; praiſe ye him all his Angels; praiſe ye him all his Hoſts. The Angels deſire no better imployment than ſuch as this; they love to ſing the Tune of the Goſpel moſt; and therefore ſtir we up them, and ſtir we up our ſelves with them to be much in praiſes of our God. Surely he deſerves a thouſand thouſand Hallelujahs, and that we ſhould bleſs him upon a thouſand ſtringed Inſtruments: Here is fewel enough, the Lord kindle a great fire in every one of our hearts, to inflame them with the love of ſuch a God as this is. It was the laſt ſpeech of dying Chryſoſtom, Glory be to God from all creatures: And if I ſhould die this hour, I could wiſh my Soul in no better temper: Bleſs the Lord O my Soul, and all that is Pſal.103.1 20,21,22. within me bleſs his holy Name. ——— Bleſs the Lord, ye his Angels that excel in ſtrength, that do his Commandments, hearkning unto the voice of his Word. Bleſs the Lord, all ye his Hoſts, ye Miniſters of his that do his pleaſure. Bleſs the Lord all his works, in all places of his dominion. Bleſs the Lord O my Soul.

CHAP. V. SECT. I.

Of the Miniſtration of Angels at our Reſurrection.

THE laſt period wherein the Angels miniſter to Saints, it is from the Reſurrection to the glorification of their Souls and Bodies in Heaven. In this laſt, as in all the former, I ſhall obſerve, 1. Their Miniſtration. 2. Our Duties.

1. For their Miniſtration, we may conſult theſe Texts. ——

Mat.24.31 And he ſhall ſend his Angels with the great ſound of a Trumpet, and they ſhall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other.

1 Theſ. 4. 16. The Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from Heaven with a ſhout, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trump of God.

Matth.13. 41, 49. The ſon of man ſhall ſend forth his Angels, and they ſhall gather out of the Kingdoms all things that offend, and them which do iniquity ——— So ſhall it be at the end of the World, the Angels ſhall come forth, and ſever the wicked from among the juſt.

Alſo I ſay unto you, whoſoever ſhall confeſs me Lul before men, him ſhall the Son of man alſo confeſs be- Re fore the Angels of God. —— And I will not blot his name out of the book of life, but I will confeſs his name before my Father and before his Angels.

Sect. 2. Of the kind of Angel-miniſtration at that time.

FOR the kinds of their miniſtration at this time. ————

1. The Angels will ſummon all the Saints to appear before Jeſus Chriſt, in his Judgment Seat. This is done by the ſound of a trumpet, And he In ſhall ſend his Angels with the great ſound of a Loc trumpet, —— The Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from unt. heaven with a ſhout, with the voice of the Arch- l. 5 angel, and with the trump of God. Sec What this trumpet is, I have diſcuſt elſewhere; and I take it to be metaphorical, viz. a ſound formed in the air like the ſound of a trumpet; and for the Archangel, it is not ſo limited to one, but that all the Archangels, and all the Angels of God are thereby underſtood. O the day, when all the Angels ſhall be ſent of Chriſt to bid all the world to appear before him! This is that voice on which Jerome ſo often meditated, whether I eat, or drink, or whatſoever I do, methinks I always hear that voice of the trumpet ſounding in mine ears, Ariſe ye dead, and come to judgment. This is that voice of which Chryſoſtom ſaid, O the terrible trumpet, that all Elements ſhall obey! it ſhall ſhake the world, rend the rocks, break the mountains, diſſolve the bonds of death, burſt down the gates of hell, and unite all ſpirits to their own bodies. This voice ſhall take from death all her ſpoils, and cauſe her to reſtore again all that ſhe hath taken away from the World. In this miniſtration the Saints may rejoice; be it never ſo terrible to the wicked, it is nothing to them but an awaking out of ſleep; as if the Angels ſhould ſhout and ſay, awake and ſing ye that dwell in the duſt; for lo, the winter is paſt, the rain is over and gone, the time of the ſinging of birds is come; ariſe, ariſe ye Saints, and come away.

2. The Angels will gather all the Saints together to the Judgment ſeat of Chriſt. In this are involved theſe particulars.

1. That the Angels will collect the duſt of all the bodies of the Saints. This all the Schoolmen hold, * the collection of the duſts of the bleſſed * Aq. is by the miniſtry of the bleſſed Angels. ſup. q They can move, and remove bodies as they pleaſe. art. As craſs rand. and inferiour bodies are in order govern'd by thoſe d. 43. that are ſuperiour, and more ſubtil; Kelli ſo are all bodies ruled and diſpoſed of by Spirits indowed with 3.p. life. q. 6. † Auguſtine goeth further, and ſays, dub. that irrational ſpirits are governed by rational, and rati- † Au onal creatures that tranſgreſs, are governed by rati- Trin. onal creatures that are juſt. *Gregory joins with * Gr him ſaying, inviſible creatures do give motion and dial. ſenſe to carnal bodies which are viſible: and ſo no- c. 5. thing is diſpoſed of in this viſible world, but by another creature which is inviſible. Hence Aquinas † concludes, that in all things which corporal- † Aq ly are done of God, he is pleaſed to uſe the miniſtry ſup. of Angels, and that therefore the gathering of the a. 3. duſt, and the reparation of the bodies of all the Saints, is only by the miniſtry of the Angels at the Reſurrection day. Come Chriſtians! keep faith and a good Conſcience; though men prevail over your bodies to kill them, and ſo ſcatter the aſhes of them all the world over, let never any uncomfortable damp of ſlaviſh fear vex your bleſſed hearts, be not you afraid of evil tidings or of deſtruction when it cometh; for the Angels have a care of every piece and part, and particularly of your bodies; not one hair of your heads, not one atome of the ſubſtance of thoſe bodies you bear about you ſhall be left in the grave, or in any part of the world, but it ſhall be gathered by Angels and brought together into one heap or lump.

2. That the Angels will form and faſhion, and organize thoſe duſts ſo brought together, into perfect, compleat and ſolid bodies; this alſo is affirmed by Schoolmen: whatſoever appertains to the tranſmutation of bodies as to the condenſation of ſome parts, God is pleaſed therein to uſe the miniſtry of Angels. Indeed the animation or enlivening of the Body by the infuſion of the Soul, is (as they ſay) immediately of God, without any operation of Angels; for as the Soul was immediately created of God, ſo muſt the Soul be again united to the body by the immediate hand of God himſelf, yet the collection, preparation, and reparation of our bodies are done by Angels. O the power of Angels! This eye ſhall be put to this head, and this hand to this arm, and this arm to this body, and ſo every part to part, and member to member by the miniſtration of Angels: What need we care if all theſe be eaten of Worms, of Serpents, or other Creatures, yea of Canibals, or Savage men? Certainly they muſt all be reſtored again; I ſhall not want this eye, this hand, this finger, this joint, this nail on my fingers end at the Reſurrection
ek. 37. 2, 3, 7, 9. day. The hand of the Lord was upon me (ſaid Ezekiel) and carried me out in the ſpirit of the Lord, and ſet me down in the midſt of the Valley, which was full of bones, and he cauſed me to paſs by them round about, and behold there were very many in the open Valley, and lo they were very dry. And he ſaid unto me, ſon of man, can theſe bones live? And I anſwered, O Lord God thou knoweſt.—— Then the Lord bad him Propheſie, and as he propheſied there was a noiſe, and behold a ſhaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone; and then the ſinnews of the fleſh came upon them, and the skin covered them above, but there was no breath in them, and then the Lord bad him Propheſie unto the Wind, Come from the four Winds, O breath, and breath upon theſe ſlain that they may live. Why thus will it be at the Reſurrection-day; the Angels Miniſtry will be like the Prophets Prophecy; they will give a ſhout, and collect the Bones, and then put them together, bone to his bone, and then cover them with ſinnews, and fleſh, and skin; only the breath or Soul muſt be infuſed immediately by God himſelf, and then ſhall the Saints live, and ſtand upon their feet, as an exceeding great Army.

3. That the Angels will bring the Saints thus raiſed, organized, and quickned to Chriſt's Judgment Seat. The Apoſtle ſpeaks home to this,
Theſſ. 4. , 17. The dead in Chriſt ſhall riſe firſt, and then we which are alive, and remain, ſhall be caught up together with them in the Clouds, to meet the Lord in the Air. A willing welcome force is here upon the Saints to transfer them, or carry them into the Air, where Chriſt is in his Throne: Now how ſhall this be done? Why they ſhall be caught up, ſaith the Apoſtle: By whom? Some think by the Clouds, as if the Clouds ſhould firſt deſcend, and then enwrap the Saints, and ſo ſerve as Chariots to carry them up to Chriſt in the air; but I would rather think by Angels; as if the Apoſtle ſhould ſay, all the Saints at the laſt day, both thoſe raiſed, and thoſe changed, ſhall be caught up by the holy Angels into the Clouds to meet the Lord in the Air: And is not this agreeable to the words of Chriſt, that Angels ſhall gather together his Elect? Whither together? But to the Clouds, or to that place in the Air where they ſhall meet the Lord. Matth. 24. 31. O the bleſſed miniſtry of indeared Angels! They that before carried up Lazarus's Soul into Abraham's boſom, muſt now carry up Lazarus's Soul and Body, yea all the Souls and Bodies of all the Saints into the Air, where ſhall be the bleſſedeſt meeting that ever was; there ſhall Chriſt meet with his Saints, and never part again; indeed here ſometimes we meet, and anon we part; now he comes, and gives us the kiſſes of his mouth, but ere while he is gone, and we cry after him, O where is he whom my Soul loveth, I charge you O Daughters of Jeruſalem, if you find my beloved, that you tell him that I am ſick of love; but when the Angels ſhall bring us together at this day, we ſhall never part more; for we ſhall meet the Lord in the Air, and ſo ſhall we be for ever with the Lord. 1 Theſſ. 4. 17.

4. The Angels will ſeparate the good and bad, the Sheep and Goats. They ſhall gather out of the Kingdom all things that offend, and them which do Iniquity —— They ſhall ſever the wicked from amongſt the juſt. Matth. 13. 41, 49. This ſeparation is ſometimes given to Chriſt, he ſhall ſeparate them one from another, as a Shepherd divideth his Sheep from the Goats, and he ſhall ſet his Sheep on the right hand, but the Goats on the left. Matth. 25. 32, 33. Chriſt ſhall do it originally, but the Angels miniſterially, derivatively, and by way of execution; Chriſt commands it, and the Angels accompliſh it. O the joy, and O the horrour of this particular; I, horrour to the wicked, but O what joy will it be to the Saints to meet together, and to ſee all the wicked in the World thruſt out of their Society; they were before Thorns in their ſides, and pricks in their eyes; many a tear did they coſt the Saints to ſee their wickedneſs, Rivers of tears run down mine eyes, becauſe they keep not thy Laws; Pſal. 119. 136. many a heart-grieving, heart-vexing thought hath pierc'd the Saints to know their ſinfulneſs; juſt Lot was vexed with the filthy Converſation of the wicked. 2 Pet. 2. 7, 8. Ah poor man, it was an Hell to him to dwell with Sodomites, for that righteous man dwelling among them, in ſeeing and hearing, vexed his righteous Soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds. Well, but now they ſhall never grieve them, trouble them, vex them any more; the Angels will not only deliver juſt Lot out of his ill neighbourhood for a time, but they will free all the righteous from all the unrighteous in the World for ever and ever: Not one Sodomite, nor one impenitent ſinner ſhall ſtand with Chriſt's Sheep on his bleſſed right-hand; never more ſhall the Saints cry out, and ſay, woe is us, that we are conſtrained to dwell with Meſech, and to have our Habitations amongſt the Tents of Kedar; Pſal. 120. 5, 6. but rather ſhall they go on with the Pſalmiſt, and ſay as in the next verſe, our Souls have long dwelt with them that hate peace, and holineſs, but now we ſhall never dwell with them any more. This will be the Angels work at the laſt day, they will gather out of the Kingdoms all things that offend, all ſcandalous wretches, and vile perſons, all froward hearts, and privy ſlanderers; all that have high looks, and proud hearts, all that David ſaid he would throw out of his houſe, and from the City of the Lord, will they alſo throw out of the Kingdom of God, and of Jeſus Chriſt, that they moleſt not Chriſt's Sheep any longer.

4. The Angels will be ſpectators, admirers, witneſſes, approvers of the myſtery of godlineſs in the ſentence of Chriſt on his Saints. This piece or part of Chriſt's Mediation in abſolving Saints, is amongſt the reſt of thoſe great Myſteries of 1 Tim. 3. 16. godlineſs ſeen of Angels. Seen? How ſeen? it is not a bare light, but ſuch a ſight as aſtoniſheth the underſtanding, and takes up the heart of bleſ- 1 Pet. 1. 12. ſed Angels, which things the Angels deſire to look into; their whole ſpirits are taken up with it, they cannot look off it, but ſtand, and view, and admire, and leap for joy to ſee the paſſages; they are rapt up above themſelves, to hear the bleſſed ſentence coming out of Chriſt his Mouth, Come ye bleſſed of my Father; nor is that all, but as they ſee, ſo they witneſs, and approve the acts Luk. 12.8. and paſſages of Chriſt in rewarding Saints, I will John 15. 14. confeſs them (ſaith Chriſt) before the Angels of God; that is, at the laſt day I will take them for Mal. 3.17. mine, I will confeſs them to belong to me, I will Pſal.135.4. pronounce on them the ſentence of Abſolution, I Levit. 26. 1, 12. will do to them as if a King ſhould come in com- em. 1. pany, and chuſe out one, and ſalute him familiarly, and call him by his name, and take him by Matth. 8. 12. the hand, and confeſs him before all to be his Matth. 13. 47. friend; ſo will I confeſs the Saints to be my Friends, my Jewels, my peculiar Treaſure, my Temple, and Can. 8.13. Tabernacle, where I place my name, the dearly be- Iſai. 5. 1. loved of my ſoul, children of the Kingdom, yea the Can.4.11. Kingdom of Heaven it ſelf; or if more honour can John 17. 21. be given them, I will confeſs them to be my Garden, my Vineyard, my Spouſe, my ſecond ſelf, one with me, as I and my Father are one: And be ye witneſſes of this my Sentence, O ye Angels! I would have you to take notice of it, to ſee it, behold it, hear it, admire at it, and to witneſs with what equity and proportion I deal with Saints, they confeſſed me before men, I confeſs them before Angels; they are not aſhamed of me, nor of my name before Kings and Princes, and therefore now I am not aſhamed of them, nor of their name; ſo far am I from blotting their name out of the Revel.3.5. Book of Life, that now I confeſs their name before my Father, and before his Angels! Witneſs it O ye Angels, yea and approve of it, conſent to my ſentence, acknowledge my goodneſs, juſtice, mercy in ſaving theſe Souls, by ſaying Amen, and bidding them welcome into Heaven, and then you have done with your Miniſtration.

At this laſt paſſage the Angels receive that augmentation of joy, of which ſome Divines have written. Hall and Andrews, Stars of great magnitude in this Orb of the Engliſh Church, have both ſuppoſed, that Angels themſelves ſhall receive an augmentation of happineſs at the day of the laſt Judgment, when they ſhall be freed from all their charge, and imployments. As reſt is they end of all motion, ſo the perfection of bleſſedneſs conſiſts in reſt, and therefore the Angels being now diſcharged of that charge which they took at the beginning, they have no more to do, but in one Quire to join with the Saints, and everlaſtingly to ſing Hallelujah, and again Hallelujah, and Amen Hallelujah.

1. FOR the Duties that concern us in this reſpect.

1. Meditate as if you heard the Angels ſounding their Trumpets, and ſaying, Come out of your Graves, and appear before Jeſus Chriſt your Judge. Surely theſe miniſtring Spirits, theſe eſpecial Meſſengers, theſe New-Covenant-officers that now wait on us, and as tender Nurſes will ere long lay us aſleep in the bed of the grave, will in the morning of the Reſurrection awake us out of ſleep, and ſay to us as the Angels to John, Come up hither. Rev. 4. 1. And is not this worthy our Morning thoughts, or Evening thoughts, or Mid-night thoughts? When we are awake in the night, and compaſs'd with darkneſs, and all is quiet, and ſtill, ſuppoſe then we heard the ſound of Angels, ſhouting in the Air; Now Souls come to your Sentence, either of eternal weal, or eternal woe: Methinks this meditation ſhould work, and make every one of us ſay, Lord if it were thus, what would become of my Soul? in what caſe were I? in what condition were I, if the Angel now ſounded? was my repentance ſuch when I went to bed, as that now I dare look the Judge in the face? was my faith ſo active, or is it now ſo ſtrong, that I can with confidence go to Chriſt, and ſay, ſpeak Lord, ſpeak out the doom, that thou intendeſt to paſs upon my Soul, for I truſt in thee; if ſo, it is well; the Lord keeps us continually in ſuch a prepared frame; but if it be otherwiſe, O let us think of it, and prepare for it; let us not put off repentance from day to day, but, let the inſtant or preſent moment be the time of turning from all ſin to God, and let us become now, even now, as we would wiſh to be then, when the Lord himſelf ſhall deſcend from 1 The 16. Heaven, with a ſhout, with the voice of the Archangel, and with the trump of God. It were a bleſſed meditation that would work us into ſuch a frame; now the Lord came in, and both ſet us at it, and appear to us in it.

2. Chear up ye Saints, ariſe, ſhine, for your Iſai.60.1, 8. light is coming and the glory of the Lord will riſe upon you; who are theſe that fly as a cloud, and as the doves of their windows? No ſooner are the ſummons given, but all the Saints ſhall be gathered Matth.24. 31. together from the four winds, from the one end of Heaven to another. Oh what a ſight will it be to ſee the Eaſtern Saints, and Weſtern Saints, and Northern Saints, and Southern Saints, flying on the wings of Angels, to Chriſt on his Throne! Why here is matter of joy: If our evidences are but clear, if we are but aſſured that he that is our Judge, hath ſhed his blood for us, and given himſelf for us, I wonder that we are not more ſpiritually chearful. Come, though the World ſcatter us, perſecute us, drives us to holes and hills, yet we ſhall meet together at the great Marriage-ſupper of the Lamb, and there will be joy indeed; the very fore-thoughts of this ſhould methinks fill our hearts with joys unſpeakable, and full of glory; let us be glad, and rejoice, for the marriage Revel. 19. 7, 9. of the Lamb is come, and his Wife hath made her ſelf ready. ——— Write, bleſſed are they which are called unto the Marriage-Supper of the Lamb, theſe are the true ſayings of God. Bleſſed ſayings! in which, if we open the eye of Faith, we may ſee matter of trueſt joy, and ſpiritual raviſhment: we are all invited if we are but Saints, to the Marriage-Supper of the Lamb, Come and gather your Verſe 17. ſelves together unto the Supper of the great God: if you ſay, how ſhould we come, that muſt die, and lie buried in Graves, till we rot, and return to our firſt Principles? I anſwer, theſe Remora's will not, cannot hinder; for our very duſts ſhall be carefully gathered by the hands of Angels; and when they are gathered and brought together, they ſhall be put into form and faſhion, far better, and perfecter than now they are, by the miniſtration of Angels; and when they are formed, and faſhioned, and revived, and ſpiritualized, we ſhall be caught up by the Angels into the Cloud to meet the Lord in the Air, thus far will the Angels miniſter to us, and therefore, what ſhould hinder but that we muſt all meet him, and feaſt with him? And if ſo, how merry ſhould we be in the mean time, who are admitted, and invited to this gracious and glorious Feaſt? Away, away, all horrours of guiltineſs, falſe fears, ſlaviſh terrours, damps, and droopings! Chriſtians! we muſt part, and for a time lie and ſleep in ſolitude and rottenneſs, but we ſhall meet again; there will be ſuch a Congregation of Saints at the laſt day, as never was ſince the Worlds Creation, and as we hope to be a part of that general Aſſembly, and Church of the firſt-born which are written in Heaven, let us now rejoice in the Lord, and again rejoice.

3. Comply with the Angels in ſeparating your ſelves from the Society of the wicked. I know the atth. 13. command, let both grow together until the harveſt; the Angels do not, nor muſt they ſeparate the Wheat and Tares before the laſt day, but then will God ſay to his Reapers, gather ye together firſt the Tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them, but gather the Wheat into my Barn. Come then, and do you now on your part that which the Angels will do on their part at the laſt day. You will ſay, What would I have you Separatiſts? I anſwer, not in Opinions, or Heterodox Doctrines, but in Converſation; my meaning is, I would not have you to run with the World into the ſame exceſs of Pet.4.4. Riot; If any man that is called a brother be a Fornicator, Cor. 5. or Covetous, or an Idolater, or Railer, or , 11. a Drunkard, or Extortioner, I would have you with ſuch an one not to keep company, no, not to eat. And yet that I be not miſtaken, ſome kind of Society, or Familiarity, I allow with all; there is a ſociety, more common and cold, and general, as in trading, bargaining, buying, ſelling &c. And this Chriſtians muſt needs exerciſe with the men of this World, except they will go out of the World: But there is a Society more ſpecial, dear, and intimate, and in this reſpect I have written to you Cor.5.9. (ſaith the Apoſtle) not to keep company with Fornicators; (i. e.) not to have any ordinary, voluntarily, friendly, dear, and intimate ſociety with them. Alas! who in his right wits would run upon a man, whom he ſees hath the Plague-ſore running upon him? And what Chriſtian in his right mind ſpiritually, having any fear of God in his heart, life in his Soul, or tenderneſs in his Conſcience, would delightfully thruſt himſelf into the company of wicked men? It was writ of Jeſus b. 7.26. Chriſt, that he was holy, harmleſs, undefiled, and ſeparate from ſinners. And ſuch a ſeparatiſt was l. 26. 5. David, I have not ſat with vain perſons, neither will I go in with diſſemblers; I have hated the Congregation of evil doers, and will not ſit with the wicked. And indeed to think of the Angels work at the laſt day, it were enough to make us comply, and to prepare for ſuch a work all the days of our life. Oh what ſhould we do with them in our hearts, and deareſt thoughts, who ſhall have no better Companions hereafter than Devils and the damned!

4. Confeſs Chriſt before men, that he may confeſs you the laſt day before the Angels of God; you may think you are in proſperity, and flouriſh, you fear not Martyrdom, there is not the leaſt occaſion of the Confeſſion of Chriſt, his Truth, and Goſpel unto death, or danger, as the word imports: And therefore this laſt advice is not ſeaſonable. But I anſwer. 1. We ſee the boldneſs of our common Adverſaries, Errour on all hands grows inſolent, and proud, and daring; ſo that now God calls to us from Heaven. 'Who is on 'my ſide? who? 2. We know not how ſoon oc'caſion may be both for Confeſſion and Martyr'dom; *One obſerves, that uſually before any 'great Perſecution befel the Church, the holy men 'of thoſe times obſerved, that there was ſome great 'decay of Zeal, and of the power of godlineſs, or 'ſome mutual Contentions and Quarrels amongſt 'People of God: Or ſome ſuch ſin or other that 'provoked God againſt them; and then as the 'Shepherd ſets his Dog upon the Sheep, when 'they go aſtray, to bring them in; ſo God lets 'looſe wicked Perſecutors upon his own Children, 'to bring them in unto himſelf. And he applies 'this to our ſelves. † It's true (ſaith he) through 'Gods mercy, we yet enjoy the Goſpel of Peace, and 'the Peace of the Goſpel, but how ſhort a time it may 'continue no man knows. —— This we know, that 'Schiſms, Hereſies, and Blaſphemies never abound'ed more in the Church of England than at this day, 'that the ſpirit of diviſion never raged more, that 'prophaneneſs never more outfaced the glorious Sun'ſhine of the Goſpel, than at this day, and ſurely 'theſe are the Forerunners of Judgment. O then let us learn this Leſſon, as we would have comfort at the laſt day! Come what will come, let us confeſs him before men; let no Creature make us to deny the Lord Jeſus Chriſt; if his truth call for it, let us ſtand it out againſt all his Enemies, yea even againſt the Gates of Hell, and Devil and all. And then we may comfortably hope, that when Chriſt ſhall come in the Clouds with his mighty Angels, he will confeſs us, and pronounce a bleſſed Sentence upon us before God, Angels and Men, Amen, even ſo be it. Amen, and Amen.

O Sacred Tutors of the Saints! You guard
Of God's Elect, you Purſuivants prepar'd
To execute the Counſels of the Higheſt,
You Heavenly Courtiers, to your King the nigheſt,
God's glorious Heralds, Heavens ſwift Harbingers
'Twixt Heaven and Earth, you true Interpreters;
I could be well content, and take delight
To follow further your Celeſtial flight,
But that I fear to faint. —— Here then
An end.

AN APPENDIX,

Containing ſome Objections, and Anſwers.

anch.de atione c. 14.

IT is Zanchius's ſaying, * Doctrina de officiis agnelorum, deque illorum miniſterio ultiſſima eſt: Pity it is then that ſuch a point of Religion ſhould be buried in Oblivion, and be made no uſe of. I cannot ſay that in this whole Treatiſe there is not the leaſt errour, for we know but in part, and we propheſie but in part, yet this I can ſay, that I have not purpoſely, wilfully, or heartily erred, Errare poſſum, hæreticus non ero. It may be, though I deliver nothing but truth, I cannot not ſatisfie all, and therefore I have deſired ſome of my Godly and learned Brethren to object what they can; and wherein they are not ſatisfied, to put in their exceptions againſt any part or piece in this Treatiſe. And one hath done me that honour to ſend me his Objections: It may pleaſe God [illegible] that by this means truth may ſhine clearer, and therefore I ſhall here by way of Appendix lay down his Objections, and my Anſwers, and ſo refer both to the Reader, deſiring God's Bleſſing may be on all.

The Objections of a dear Friend anſwered.

Object. IN Chap. 6. Sect. 3. 2d Reaſon in reſpect of Angels, you cite 1 Tim. 3. 16. Seen of Angels (i. e.) in my eye Jeſus Chriſt was ſeen of Angels, teſtified unto by their viſible appearances, and ſervices to him at his Nativity, in his Paſſion, at his Reſurrection, and his Aſcenſion; and not the myſtery of Chriſt and Godlineſs ſo properly referred to in this place.

Anſw. Aretius tells us on that Text (give me leave to bring in all the Authors in their own Language) * Id quidem verum eſt ſecundum hiſtoriam, nam in nativitate, jejunio, paſſione, reſurrectione, aſcenſione ſemper adſunt angeli ſpectatores; ſed mihi videtur de majori quadam viſione loqui, qua ſc. contra angelorum opinionem, Chriſtus mirabili ratione duas naturas univit in una perſona, quod nec homines, nec angeli ſatis explicare poſſunt, & ob id ſummo ſtupore viderunt, & viderunt id in nativitate, totaque Chriſti hiſtoria, plenius tamen in aſcenſione ſtupendium myſterium Chriſtum hominem ad dextram Dei Patris, aſcendere, —— hæc myſteria ſunt, —— And is not this the Scope of the Text? Is not this a main part of the great myſtery of Godlineſs, that he who is the true Cod, manifeſted in the fleſh, was ſeen of Angels?

* Aret. in 1 Tim. 3. 16.

Object. In the ſecond Reaſon in reſpect of the Saints, upon Joh. 12. 31. you ſay, Chriſt hath bound the Devil by his Angels: Bound the Devils are, but by what Chains we know not, it may be by the good Angels miniſtry, but can we ſay peremptorily it is ſo?

Learned Zanchius ſaith thus, * Per angelos bonos nunc detinentur dæmones, ne mala hominibus inferant, ut vere dixerit Chriſtus, nunc princeps mundi ejicietur foras. —— Et ubique in ſcripturis legimus cacodæmones ſemper fuiſſe vinctos ab Angelis bonis, ſi quando narratur inter ipſos pugnatum fuiſſe; ut in Daniel, & in Apocalyp. legitur, & Thobi. 8. 3. dicitur Angelus Thobiæ demonem vinculis conſtrinxiſſe.

* Zanch. de Creatione, l. 3. c. 14. & c. 18.

Object. In Sect. 4. you ſay, the good Angels by their general charge ſave wicked men alive; it may ſeem ſtrange, unleſs it were any where ſaid, that God uſed them to this purpoſe; who do they ſave them from? Not from God's ſtroke; and is it from the Devils? They do him ſervice; and however God's reſtraint on the Devils from any ſuch Cruelty may be ſufficient.

Anſw. How? Angels ſave the wicked from God's ſtroke; No, but from the Devils; nor croſſeth this God's reſtraint, but rather ſubſerves it; that Devils would kill, ſee 1 Pet. 5. 8. obambulat ut leo, quærens quem devoraret. Leo ſanguine delectatur, ita diabolus non contentus eſt fortunis & honoribus hominem exuiſſe, ſanguinem ipſum appetit: And thus God permitting it, he dealt with Job's Servants and Children. Hence Zanchy tells us * cum diaboli hoſtes noſtri ſint capitales, & nos circumſtent, niſi Angeli boni ex mandato Dei, & pro ſuo erga nos amore, nos adverſus illos tuerentur, diaboli irruerent in nos.

Job 1. 17, 19.

* Zanch. ibid. l. 3. c. 14.

Object. In Sect. 5. Nothing is ſaid by you, but what you quote Biſhop Hall to have ſaid the ſame; yet all thoſe inſtances are of what God did extraordinarily by his Angels: They were all Miracles, or next door to them. And though we may thus far take comfort from what God did by Angels to them of old, that he will do for his Servants what is good for them in the like caſes; yet whether he will do it this way, viz. by an Angel, we cannot ſay, unleſs the Angel appear as ſenſibly for us, as he did for them; whether had the Saints of God failed or no, if they had looked at their deliverances, to be wrought by the miniſtry of Angels, unleſs by ſpecial ſenſible manifeſtations it had been made known unto them.

Anſw. This Objection hath in it the ſubſtance of moſt that follows, and therefore give me leave to inlarge. 1. In that you grant I ſay nothing, but what Biſhop Hall hath ſaid before me, this clears me of the imputation of Novelty; all that knew him could not but know that he was free from curioſity, or inordinate deſires of novelty in matters of Religion. 2. But all his inſtances (you ſay) are of what God did extraordinarily by his Angels; they were all Miracles or next door to them: And another joins with you, ſaying That ſeveral of the Texts brought for the proofs of particulars, are from the Apparition of Angels to particular perſons, which was extraordinary, and cannot prove that ſuch a miniſtration of them is now ordinary. That the Angels can work Miracles, unleſs as God's inſtruments, I deny, nor are any of the inſtances of that nature, as if any miracle were done by them of their own natural power; indeed they do miranda, but not miracula: They do ſuch things as you call next door to Miracles, or wonderful things. * Poſſunt naturali virtute in res corporeas quicquid corporibus à natura contingere poteſt, non tamen miracula efficere, niſi quatenus Deus illorum miniſterio in edendis miraculis uti ſolet. But (ſay you) if they were not miracles, yet were they extraordinary. It is true, in reſpect of us we judge them ſo, becauſe they are above our ordinary actings; but not in reſpect of them; Nam quicquid Angelus ſua propria facit virtute, illud fit ex ordine, & non ſupra ordinem totius naturæ creatæ; it is ordinary with them to work above our power, or the power of any other Creature; and hereby we may know, when ſuch or ſuch events run in our wonted natural courſe, and when the Angels, or Spirits are actors in them. The manner of their operations (ſaith a judicious one) and the occaſions and effects of them ſhall ſoon deſcry them to a judicious eye. But thoſe Scriptures ſpeak (as it is objected) of the Apparition of Angels, which was extraordinary, and prove not that ſuch a miniſtration of them is now ordinary. You may call (if you pleaſe) the Apparitions of Angels extraordinary, but not their workings; or if extraordinary in reſpect of us, and our power, yet not in reſpect of them and their power. I perceive throughout your Objections, you are much on their extraordinaries; and that ſuch things as we affirm now they do, are not to be aſcribed (as you ſay) ordinarily to their miniſtry; I ſhall therefore in a few words inſiſt on their ordinary power.

B. Hall on Angels.

In Scripture they are called mighty, 2 Theſſ. 1. 7. ſtrong, Rev. 5. 2. and to excel in ſtrength, Pſal. 103. 20. and this their power they exercite and put forth, either immediately by themſelves, or mediately by natural agents, as they are moved by them; firſt for their immediate workings, they can ordinarily interficere, & loco movere; unus Angelus totum fere Sennacharibi exercitum interfecerit, & reliquos in fugam verterit; & Petrum & reliquos Apoſtolos è carcere eduxerit ; & Philippum è loco in locum tranſtulerit. Immediate hæc, & alia ſimilia ab Angelis facta ſunt, & fieri poſſunt. Secondly, for their mediate power, they can ordinarily generare hominem, aut aliud animal; non per ſe generatio enim fit à ſimili ſpecie; at vero poſſunt in animali uno vim gignendi excitare, & in altero vim concipiendi, & ea ſimul ut coëant, efficere; atque ita per hæc animalia à ſe mota; & ad generationem præparata, animal aliud generare. But that which is more to our purpoſe; their ordinary power towards men, either refers to their bodies or to their ſenſes external and internal :Or to their ſoul. Firſt their bodies, they have the ſame power on them, as on other Animals. Secondly, for their external ſenſes they can eaſily affect them, Ut cum oculos Sodomitarum perſtrinxerant, ut non potuerint oſtium domus Lothi cernere; ita oculos Syrorum; & excitarunt ſtrepitum in eorum aſtris; & hujuſmodi alia permulta extant exempla; and for the internal ſenſes they can eaſily move them; Conſtat è ſcripturis, Angelos ſæpe apparuiſſe patribus in ſomnis, & multa illis oſtendiſſe & reveliſſe ; ſic Matth. 2. Apparuit Angelus in ſomnis ipſi Joſepho, &c. Thirdly, for their Souls; ſuo modo in noſtras tum mentes, tum voluntates agere dicantur; dicitur ſuo modo, quia non poſſunt angeli mentem ipſam illuſtrare, aut voluntatem efficaciter flectere, quod eſt Spiritus Sancti proprium, ſed tanquam Spiritus Sancti inſtrumenta, excitare verbi auditi phantaſmata, veritatem menti proponere, & eam commonefacere, ut ei aſſentiatur, & ad bonum aliquod voluntatem noſtram, inſtar conſiliariorum, ſuadendo, & interne quaſi loquendo & agendo, modo ſpirituali inſtigare. Sic Heb. 1. 14. dicit eos eſſe adminiſtratorios Spiritus in miniſterium miſſos, &c. Quibus obſecro actionibus ſalutem nobis adminiſtrant? Num tantum externis, quæ corpora duntaxat concernant? Annon potius actionibus, quæ in ipſas quoque mentes noſtras penetrent. Et David ait, Qui facit Angelos ſuos ſpiritus, & miniſtros ſuos flammam ignis: ſi ſicut flamma ignis; flammæ duplex eſt actio, una illuminare, altera calefacere, & accendere; annon igitur Propheta indicat Angelorum ergo nos actiones, & intellectu illuminando, & in voluntate ad amorem Dei accendenda verſari? Neque enim ratione corporum noſtrorum, ſed animorum potius iſtis nominibus appellantur. Here is a Scheam of their ordinary power, given in by the Learned. And when we read of theſe, or of any ſuch things in the Scripture, ſurely thoſe Scriptures prove that ſuch things were done then by Angels, ordinarily, as on their part: And that now they may be done in ordinary as well as then. Will you ſay, they were done then, but not now; Or what was done then, is not now to our purpoſe, or for our preſent learning? The Apoſtle ſaith otherwiſe, Now all theſe things happened unto them for Enſamples; and they are written for our Admonition, upon whom the ends of the World are come; —— for whatſoever things are written afore time, were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope. On this Text, ſaith * Zanchius, hæc etiam omnia quæ de officiis Angelorum in ſcripturis traduntur, ad noſtram maxime pertineant conſolationem. It is worthily queſtioned by * Mr. Mede, Are his inſignia in the Goſpel leſs worthy of Angels attendance than thoſe of the Law? Or have the Angels, ſince the nature of man, Jeſus Chriſt our Lord, became their head and King gotten an exemption from this ſervice? Surely not; to the ſame purpoſe ſaith the Author above cited, were the Rudiments of the Law worthy of an attendance of Angels, and are the Churches of the Goſpel deſtitute of ſo glorious a retinue? Is the nature of man made worſe, ſince the Incarnation of the Son of God, or have Angels purchaſed an exemption from their miniſtry, ſince Chriſt became our Brother in the fleſh? We have little reaſon to think ſo; my Text ſaith, are they not all miniſtring Spirits? Truly they are, as well as were; and ſo they will be to the end of the World. Indeed now are not ſuch Apparitions, as formerly were. * In V. T. pueri erant, ideo externis apparitionibus Angelorum egebant ad ſui conſolationem. Beſides a greater meaſure of the Spirits being now given, God would have us now converſe with the Spirit, and theſe Spirits in a more viſible way; and beſides we have Faith now inabling us to converſe with the Angels in a way more ſpiritual: Which made Mr. Byfield ſay, * It is ſure that the Angels are always in Garriſon for the Elect, pitching their Tents round about them that fear God; that which Eliſha and his man ſaw with bodily eyes, every believer may be aſſured of by Faith. Their appearings are ceaſed? ſaith † Mr. Lawrence? but not their workings, though their Converſe be not ſo ſenſible, yet it is as real. —— This remains a ſure truth that they are of mighty uſe to us, and the things communicated to our inward man, is ordinarily the Adminiſtration of Angels.

3. You grant, that we may thus far take comfort what God did by Angels to them of old, that he will do for his Servants what is good for them in the like caſes, yet whether he will do it in this way, viz. by an Angel, we cannot ſay, unleſs the Angel appears as ſenſibly for us as he did for them.] And are you not in this too much led by ſenſe? Faith is the evidence of things not ſeen, and not of things viſible. If God do ſuch, or the like things for his Servants good, either he doth it immediately or mediately; for my part (ſaith Mr Baxter) I believe, that Gods works on the World, are uſually by inſtruments, and not immediate; and that good Angels are his inſtruments in conveying his mercies, both to Soul and Body; but will you not believe, except you ſee the print of the Nails? Nimium profecto ſumus Thomiſtæ. Joh. 20. niſi videro, niſi digitum immiſero, niſi obverſetur ſenſibus, ut palpem, & amplexibus teneam; at quia non vides animam tuam, aut alterius, dubitabis te eſſe animatum? Aut quia turbantem non conſpexerunt Angelum aquam Betheſdæ, negarent Judæi piſcinam motam fuiſſe vel turbatum? Suppoſe a good work done (though no miracle neither) above the power of a man, or any viſible ſecondary cauſe, there is * one can tell you, that this carries its own evidence without diſpute, that if it be not (as we ſay) of nature, it muſt needs be of an higher efficiency, of Angels. * And another ſaith as much, that thoſe inſtances uſually alledged in the old and new Teſtament, are patterns and preſidents, by which we may know what to expect; their tutelage then was more viſible, and ſenſible, becauſe the Church newly planted, needed to be confirmed, but God would have us live by Faith, and expect all our ſupports in a more ſpiritual way; though we have not viſible Apparitions, yet we have real experiments of this ſuccour: The evil Angels appear not, yet we doubt not of the hurt done by them. Oh how ſad is it that we ſhould believe the evil Angels hurt us, though they appear not ſenſibly againſt us; and yet we will not believe the goood Angels help us, without ſenſible, or viſible Apparitions thereof.

4. You ask, whether had the Saints of God failed or no; if they had looked at their Deliverances to be wrought by the miniſtry of Angels, unleſs by ſome ſenſible manifeſtation it had been made known unto them? I anſwer no, they had not failed; but rather if they had been ſo ſpiritual, and had believed as we do, they would have had more in them of the Goſpel ſpirit, Bleſſed are they that Joh. 20.29 have not ſeen, and yet have believed.

Object. In Sect 8. 2d Motive. The Angels are an Ordinance ever preſent; the proofs make out this, that no place can ſhut us ſo in, but God can ſend his Angels in unto us; but that they are with us unleſs ſpecially ſent, thoſe places in the Acts ſeem not to prove; they came in extraordinarily, and were owned to do it, becauſe ſeen to do it.

Anſw. You ſay, the Proofs make out, that no place can ſhut us ſo in, but God can ſend his Angels in unto us, which is enough to prove, that men may take from us our Bibles, Teachers, Paſtors, or they may impriſon us where we cannot enjoy them, but they cannot take from us the Holy Angels. But you ſay, they are not with us, unleſs eſpecially ſent, and we ſuppoſe them ſent: But (ſay you) when ſent to the Apoſtles, they came in extraordinarily, and were owned to do it, becauſe ſeen to do it; that they came in extarordinarily, was not from their preſence, or miſſion, but (if any thing was extraordinary) it was from the Apparition, Fulgor, and Light that ſhined in the Priſon, and from their opening the Priſon doors, and bringing them forth, and ſpeaking audibly, Go, &c. Ariſe up quickly, &c. And from theſe manifeſtations the Angels are owned; but if there had been none of theſe Apparitions, would you have denied Angel-preſence? Cannot the Angels be with us, but they muſt ſenſibly appear to us? Such an opinion is a ſtep to Sadduciſm. And there-(† Zanch. ut ſupra l. 3. c. 17. * B. Hall. ib.)fore our worthies ſay otherwiſe; † Angeli quorum curam ex Dei mandato gerunt, eos nunquam penitus omnive officii genere deſerunt. And O ye bleſſed Spirits (ſaith * another) ye are ever by me, ever with me, ever about me; I do as good as ſee you, for I know you to be here, I reverence your glorious perſons, I bleſs God for you, I walk awfully, becauſe I am ever in your eyes, I walk confidently becauſe I am ever in your hands. If you alledge that of Acts 12. 10. That when the Iron gate was opened, and one ſtreet paſſed, the Angel forthwith departed from Peter; ano-(Dingley of Angels.)ther anſwers, 'That the departing of the Angel, 'was only his diſappearing, or laying down that 'bodily ſhape that was aſſumed; ſo Chriſt is ſaid to 'leave, and not to leave the World; we affirm 'therefore that good Angels are our conſtant Aſſo'ciates till Death; though their influence may (Pſal. 91. 11) 'be ſuſpended, yet their preſence is continued, and 'they never throughout our life do utterly and to'tally forſake us; they are charged to be with us, and 'to keep us in all our ways. As a ſhadow follow'eth the body without leaving it, or lagging be'hind, ſo do the Angels accompany Believers in all 'their walks and ways.

Object. In Motive 3. That they improve other Ordinances. 1. In Religious Services. [The inſtances ſtill are extraordinary: Acts 10. Luke 1. they came on peculiar meſſages, and ſuch as ſeldom any now receive; to ſay that ſuch a ſeaſonable, ſuitable thought in Prayer was put in by an Angel, becauſe God viſibly ſent an Angel upon ſuch extraordinary occaſions to Peter and Zachary when they were at Prayer, is not ſo eaſie to me.

Anſw. Here you ſtrain my words; I do not deliver it as my own opinion, but as the opinion of others, ſaying, it is ſaid, that they ſuggeſt ſuitable, ſeaſonable, and pious thoughts at ſuch a time. So Mendoza in Reg. 1. vol. 1. c. 2. §. 244. p. And for thoſe Texts in Acts 10. Luke 1. they were not urged to prove the extraordinary part (as you call it) of their Apparitions, Occaſions, &c. but to prove their ordinary Miniſtrations in quicking, cheering, ſuggeſting pious thoughts at ſuch a time; if you would but remember that one paſſage cited before, That all thoſe inſtances of the Old and new Teſtament are patterns and preſidents by which we may know what to expect, you would no more oppoſe extraordinaries to ordinaries; I hope theſe are comparable; although we have not the like viſible Apparitions, yet we may have the like real experiments of Angel-miniſtration; although now they do not appear in bodily ſhapes, yet the ſame offices are by them ſpiritually and myſteriouſly performed to us. And on this ſcore are thoſe Texts cited by me, and (as my guides) by thoſe eminently learned and godly Divines, Uſher, Clark, Manton, Hall, Bucanus, Polanus, Dieſt, and others; as you may ſee in the Prolegomena.

Object. In Motive 4. We fight againſt Principalities and Powers; that is ſaid, but not ſaid by the help of Principalities and Powers of another kind; that of Revel. 12. 7. refers no doubt to ſome remarkable diſpenſation in the Church; and for Revel. 20. 1, 2. is not that Angel that ſeals up the Devil in the bottomleſs pit, Jeſus Chriſt?

We fight againſt Principalities and Powers by the help of God, and yet the Angels may inſtrumentally help us. Surely good Angels contend with the evil Angels, and ſtand moſt valiantly on our ſide; the Combat is not only between men and Devils, but between Angels and Angels, Dan. 10. 13. Jude 9. Michael oppoſed Satan about the body of Moſes, ſo do the Angels ſtill oppoſe the Kingdom of darkneſs about the bodies and ſouls of the Saints, whilſt they live, and after death, ſaith * Trap. That (* Trap in his Decad. of Angels. † Zanch. lib. 3.) of Revel. 12. 7, 8. you ſay, refers to ſome remarkable diſpenſation in the Church, which is enough for me: but † Zanch. adds, in Apoc. 12. Legimus Michaelem pugnaſſe cum dracone, tempe pro defenſione Eccleſiæ, & ſingulorum piorum, adverſus omnes diaboli inſidias atque injurias. ——— And for Revel. 20. 1, 2. ſome underſtand it of Jeſus Chriſt; others of Conſtantine, but others according to the letter, of an Angel. I avoid Controverſies; (* Rivius de præſidio Angel. p. 723. † Dyke. Michael and the Dragon.) and to our purpoſe the other Texts are ſufficient; when Satan beſiegeth us, vim habet oppugnantis Angelus, ſaith * Rivius. The Angels ward off his blows, and help us againſt him both in ſoul and body, ſaith † Dyke.

Object. In lib. 2. c. 1. §. 3. The inſtance about the woman that was prevented taking Phyſick, what was there of an Angel in that? ſhe by the good Providence of God quickned that night. —— Can we ſay the Angels kept the Child in the ſecond inſtance? natural cauſes wrought, the fire burned the mothers belly, the child came out in the fire, was ſoon catcht out by the ſtanders by: God did thus far preſerve it, but whether mediante Angelo, or no, who can ſay? And beſides the Doctrine is touching the Angels ordinary miniſtration about birth and infancy; theſe experiences are of what was done extraordinarily.

Anſw. Your Objection is both againſt ordinary and extraordinary Providences, as done by Angels; if ordinary, then nature, if extraordinary, then God (ſay you) preſerves immediately. You object in another place, as if I ſhould admit of no Providence but Angels; but here it ſeems you admit of no providence by Angels. I deſire we may both underſtand aright. The Learned informs us, that the keeping of Angels is nothing elſe but a certain execution of Divine Providence concerning ing us; † Notandum eſt angelorum cuſtodiam nihil aliud eſſe quam certam quandam divinæ Providentiæ executionem; hence are the Angels called * ſervants of Providence, and inſtruments of Providence: † Mr. Pemble tells us, 'That Providence is divided into mediate and immediate; immediate is when God by himſelf, without the miniſtry of the creatures, doth preſerve and govern things: ſo he governs immediately, and preſerves the firſt and univerſal cauſes of things. Mediate Providence is when God governeth creatures by creatures, as by means and inſtruments; for God uſeth the miniſtry of ſecond cauſes, both natural and voluntary, either men or Angels, which are the moſt excellent inſtruments of Providence in governing the World, as appeareth by places of Scripture, in which their miniſtry is ſet forth, both generally and eſpecially. 1. Generally, Heb. 1. 4. Being made ſo much better than the Angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they. verſ. 14. Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, &c. Pſal. 103. 20. Bleſs the Lord, ye his Angels that excel in ſtrength, ye that do his Commandments, &c. verſ. 21. Bleſs the Lord all ye his hoſts, ye Miniſters of his, &c. Specially about the good and elect, Pſal. 91. 11. For he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee, &c. and about the wicked, Pſal. 35. 5. Let them be as chaff before the wind, and let the Angels of the Lord chaſe them. 2 Kings 19. 35. And it came to paſs that night that the Angel of the Lord, &c. Iſa. 37. 36. Then the Angel of the Lord went forth, &c. of this mediate Providence two things eſpecially are to be noted. Firſt, God uſeth means not neceſſarily for want of power in himſelf, but of his own free will, in the abundance of his goodneſs. Secondly, Providence excludes not, but includes means, which if we neglect (unleſs God hath revealed that he will not uſe them) unconſcionably, we tempt him. Thus far Mr. Pemble. To apply it; you grant a ſpecial and more than ordinary Providence in the preſervation of thoſe children mentioned in the Objection; and if God's works of particular Providence in this World are mediate, as Pemble, and uſually mediate as Baxter, whether, or to whom can we refer their preſervations, but to the miniſtration of Angels? The Doctrine (you ſay) is touching the Angels ordinary miniſtration, and ſuch was this, in reſpect of the Angels, the miniſtry was ordinary: it is ordinary with them, though it may ſeem extraordinary to us.

Object. In Sect. 4. Pſal. 139. 14, 16. Pſal. 71. 6. Pſal. 22. 9. Pſal. 139. 16, 17, 18. The Texts ſeem to refer the whole Work to God's immediate hand. If theſe Scriptures gave any hint of Angels in the Work of Infants preſervations, I could better ſobjoyn, And how precious are your thoughts unto me, O ye Angels of God!

Matth. 18. 10.

Anſw. It is true, the Scriptures alledged, refer the whole work of Preſervation in the Womb, and in our Infancy to God, but not to God's immediate hand. If God's immediate hand did all to Infants, why are the Angels called their Angels? what need of Angel-miniſtration as to them? If you ſay there is no need, ſith God if he pleaſe can eaſily guard them without Angels; I anſwer, the need is not (as Mr. Pemble tells you) by reaſon of any defect in God to ſupply his want of power, but further to inlarge and demonſtrate his goodneſs. God could do it of himſelf, but having ordained ſuch ranks of creatures, he makes all to ſerve for his own bleſſed and glorious ends. 'Tis all one to me whether in his acts of Providence of this nature, he expreſs the Angels, yea or no; for if uſually he works by them, it is as much as if he had named them.

Object. In Chap. 2: Sect. 1. Matth. 18. 10. that the Angels refer to the children in ſtature, I queſtion. 1. Becauſe theſe are not apt to be deſpiſed, moſt pity and love little ones. 2. It is not certain the child was an elect child that ſtood there in the midſt, and then good Angels have not a charge. 3. Chriſt ſpeaks indefinitely of theſe little ones there meant their Angels, that is, the Angels of all theſe there ſpoken of; now do the Angels look to every child that is born in its infancy and childhood? The inſtances of Chriſt's Angel, Hagars, &c. all extraordinary, and the Angels were ſeen and heard in this miniſtration, and therefore herein juſtly acknowledged, but it is not ſo with us.

Anſw. By little ones, you ſee I do not excuſe the adult, nor would I exclude little children, whom our Saviour propounds as a pattern for the imitation of the adult, v. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. but I would rather take all in. Thus Dr. Prideaux, and Perkins, and Zanchy, Cum enim Matth. 18. Chriſtus dicit de infantibus, angeli eorum ſemper vident faciem patris, quid aliud inuere voluit quam ſingulis pueris, ac proinde etiam adultis, certos angelos, tanquam pædagogos & rectores traditos, & conſtitutos eſſe. Alſo Muſculus on the place ſaith thus. † Qui ſunt iſti puſilli? quidem exponunt de puſillis non ætate; ſed æſtimatione; quidam vero de puſillis ætate; nihil prohibet de utriſque intelligere; licet ex eo, quod non ſimplicitur dicit, unum ex puſillis, ſed addit, iſtis, Poſſit videri dictum de ætate puſillis, qualis erat puellus, quem advocatum ſtatuerat in medium diſcipulorum. But you reaſon it thus; it cannot be underſtood of ſuch. 1. Becauſe ſuch are not apt to be deſpiſed, moſt pity, and love little ones. On the contrary, in Mark 10. 13. you may find the Diſciples rebuking thoſe that brought Children to Chriſt. Whence ſome obſerve, that Satan bears a peculiar ill will to children, he hath an evil eye upon them, indeavouring by all means to keep them from Chriſt, and to hinder their Salvation; and this Satan doth many ways. 1. Through the indulgence of Parents, ſuffering them to have their own wills. 2. Through evil education, poyſoning their tender years. 3. Sometimes under a pretext of Religion, thus of old he inſtigated not only the Heathen, but even God's own People to offer up their children to ſacrifice to Moloch, unto Devils. 4. By keeping them from Ordinances, thus he inſtigated the Diſciples here to repel theſe infants from coming near to Chriſt, and of late times he hath inſtigated the Anabaptiſts to take up this quarrel, to prohibit the baptiſm of Infants: And is not this to deſpiſe little ones? moſt pity and love them, but you ſee all do not ſo. 2. You reaſon again, it is not certain that the child was an elect child that ſtood here in the midſt, and then the good Angels have not a charge. Muſculus on the place, argues that Child to be a Believer, and therefore Elect; his words are thus, Talem fuiſſe, qui in fide Chriſti aliquid potuerit inſtituti, argumento eſſe poterit, quod Evangelica commemorat advocatum eſſe, & conſtitutum a Chriſto in medium Apoſtolorum. —— & quia res geſta eſt in ædibus Petri Capernaum, in quibus Chriſtus aliquoties imo ſæpenumero comparuit & miraculoſe etiam ſocrum Petri excitavit, credibile eſt hunc puerum in fide Chriſti, inſtitutum fuiſſe nonnihil, quantum per ætatem licuerit. But, Thirdly, you reaſon again, Chriſt ſpeaks indefinitely of theſe little ones, Their Angels (i. e.) the Angels of all theſe there ſpoken of; now do the Angels look to every child that is born in its infancy and childhood? No; if they are not Elect, the good Angels have no charge of them. Chriſt ſpeaks not of all children elect and reprobate, but of theſe little ones, addit iſtis, pointing to ſuch like as this little one was, whom he ſet in the midſt of them. Ita & hic puellus, & omnes Chriſtianorum Infantes ad Chriſtum pertinentes, deque numero fidelium exiſtentes, &c. The inſtances of Chriſt and Hagar, which you call extraordinary, is anſwered before.

Object. In Sect. 2. God keeps children wonderfully, but whether by Angels, or by his own hand, I cannot ſay, for Scripture doth not ſay it: it is as eaſie for God to do it without them, as by them; —— for health a poor child may recover: but as God doth not bleſs the Phyſick man gives, ſo he may not uſe other Phyſicians, but do it himſelf. That inſtance of the Angel at the Pool, Dr. Hammond makes an Angel there a meſſenger, and the remedy natural, &c. but if done by an Angel, this was extraordinary, and in a viſible way, and known to be done by an Angel.

Anſw. I hope you will ſay, God hath the ſame care to keep children, as the adult; and the Scripture ſaith, he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways, if yet you will ſay, it is as eaſie for God to do it without them, as by them; is not this to be wiſe above meaſure? by the ſame reaſon you may ſay, what need of Magiſtrares or Miniſters in State, or Church? what need of any ſecondary means for our Temporal, or Spiritual good? it is no contradiction that God will watch over us by his own Providence, and that he will have his Angels to attend us; this takes not away from his care, but hereby he declares, and conveys his care and love unto us. Quanquam per ſeipſum omnia poteſt Deus, nec propter præſtantiſſimam virtutem, atque infinitam potentiam ulla prorſus ad agendum inſtrumento indiget, tamen ita ſanctiſſime ejus voluntati viſum eſt (cujus ſunt rationes, conſiliaque occulta nobis) ut ad miniſterium ſuum atque ad officienda ea quæ ipſe vult, rebus à ſeconditis uteretur. —— For health, you ſay a poor child may recover, though God may not uſe other Phyſicians, whether Men or Angels, but do it himſelf. I queſtion not what God may do, for he may do what he will; but whether he uſually works immediately, or by inſtruments, you have heard before. That inſtance of the Angels at the Pool, you ſay Dr. Hammond interprets was done by a meſſenger, and by natural means, but all the Expoſitors that ever I read before him, ſay it was done by an Angel, and I believe you are of the ſame mind. As for your Objection of extraordinary, it is now become ſo ordinary, that I need ſay no more to it.

Pſal. 91. 11.

Rivius de præſid. Angel. p. 709.

Object. In Sect. 2. The inſtances in Acts 8. 20. and 10. 16. are particular ſtill, and extraordinary, in Matth. 21. 16. Thoſe Hoſanna's becauſe above nature, or acquired parts, or Parents Education, doth it therefore follow, that certainly they were taught them by the Angels? is this ſufficiens enumeratio partium? was the Spirit that ſeized upon Saul in Naioth an Angel, or done by the inſtrumentality of an Angel?

Anſw. The inſtances which you put off upon the account of particular and extraordinary, I ſhall henceforth put off with ſilence, for I would not too much tautologize, Crambe recocta mors eſt. Thoſe Hoſanna's of the children, becauſe above nature or acquired parts, or Parents Education, muſt needs be extraordinary as to us; and if ſo, either they muſt be done by God, or his Spirit immediately, and that you have heard is not God's uſual way; or immediately by ſome inſtrument or other; and what good inſtruments can you think of to coyn good impreſſions on our fancy and imagination but the Angels of God? As for the Spirit that ſeized upon Saul in Naioth, either it was the evil ſpirit, the evil ſpirit from God came upon Saul and he propheſied in the midſt of the houſe; or it was the good Spirit, by which he was rapt, as one bereft of his ſenſes for that time; and if ſo, I know not but an Angel might be inſtrumental in it, yet all is put upon the ſcore of the Spirit, becauſe the inſpiration was from him. Oh why ſhould we make theſe claſh? though the Angels miniſter in theſe particulars, yet we leave unto God the all in all; as 1. The Commiſſion. 2. The Inſpiration. 3. The Benediction; the Angels are Ciſterns, but not Fountains; we aſcribe nothing to them to derogate from God, or Chriſt, or from the Spirit of Chriſt.

1 Sa 10.

In Sect. 3. The children preſerved, ſtill the ſame doubt recurrs, whether mediately, or immediately. —— The inſtance of the weakly child, and the child nurſed at Bolton, is aſcribed in the very relation to God and his goodneſs; no mention of Angels in them. ——— The ſame may be ſaid of the other inſtances for teaching children. —— And indeed the ſame may be ſaid (to ſave a labour) of moſt of thoſe Inſtances in the following Chapter, Sect. 6, 7, 8.

For Gods work of this nature, whether mediate or immediate, I have anſwered before, and ſhall ſpeak to it more fully anon. But from the Inſtances, wherein the relation aſcribes all to God, and no mention of Angels, I perceive no experience is pertinent with you, unleſs an Angel be expreſly and particularly mentioned. Our Worthies are of another Judgment. Zanchius ſpeaking of the Churches deliverance, and of their enemies ruine by Angels, brings in 1 Kin. 19. 2 Kin. 1. Gen. 19. 2 Kin. 19. and concludes, Innumera hujus exempla non ſolum in Scripturis leguntur, verum etiam hac etate quotidie inveniuntur. —— Sunt enim Angeli miniſti Dei in omnibus ipſius judiciis patefaciendis, & executioni mandandis, quanquam à nobis illi non videantur, ſed tantummodo homines quorum opera illi utuntur. And our * Divine Seneca tells us no leſs; The trade we have with good Spirits is not now driven by the eye, but is like to themſelves ſpiritual; yet not ſo, but that even in bodily occaſions we have many times inſenſible helps from them in ſuch manner, as that by the effects we can boldly ſay, here hath been an Angel, though we ſaw him not: and he gives Inſtance in one John Trelille, a poor Cripple, who upon three monitions in his dream, to waſh in the Well of Maderne in Cornwal, was ſuddenly reſtored to his limbs. The like inſtance he gives of John Spangenberge, Paſtor of Northenſe, who no ſooner was ſtept out of his houſe with his Family to go to the Bains, than the houſe fell right down in the place; and he concludes, our own experience at home is able to furniſh us with divers ſuch Inſtances; how many have we known that have fallen from very high Towers, and into deep pits, paſt the natural poſſibility of hope, who yet have been preſerved not from death only, but from hurt! whence could theſe things be, but by the ſecret aid of thoſe inviſible helpers? It were eaſie to fill volumes with particulars of theſe kinds. What needs more? you ſee his inſtances have in them no mention of Angels, and though you may object with him, as you do againſt me, yet in every ſuch Inſtance, enough to fill Volumes, he can boldly ſay, here hath been an Angel, though we ſaw him not.

But ſuppoſe in ſome of my Inſtances I may miſs it, and that no Angel either appears in them or was in them, yet that ſaying of his exceedingly ſticks with me, and may in good meaſure excuſe me. Since I am convinc'd that their unfelt hands are in many occurrences of my life, I have learnt ſo much wit and grace, as rather to yield them too much, than too little ſtroke in ordering all my concernments. You may ſuppoſe I yield them too much, and I may ſuppoſe others yield them too little; but if the Queſtion be whether is more faulty? let this moderate man (as he is called) be our Moderator, and you ſee he will eaſily and quickly determine the Queſtion betwixt us.

Object. In Chap. 3. Sect. 2. and 3. That good Angels are God's inſtruments, in conveying his mercies both to Soul and Body: and that the Holy Ghoſt, uſeth the Angels in the work of moving and quickning the heart; Mr. Baxter and Dr. Rutherford may believe it, and another not believe it, but that he doth all immediately; and how can he be diſproved?

Anſw. On this hinge hangs the weight of the whole controverſie; for if God or the Spirit do all immediately, then away with Angel-miniſtration, no need of them in any ſuch reſpect. It ſeems Baxter's or Rutherford's authority, (and I may add the Authority of [all the afore-cited) are of no ſtreſs without further proof, and therefore I ſhall lay down a few arguments.———

For their miniſtration in general to the Elect.—

1. If God hath his Angels, Meſſengers, Miniſtring Spirits, then doth not God all immediately to his Saints: But God hath his Angels, Meſſenger, Miniſtring Spirits. Ergo.

The ſequel of the Major is proved, becauſe therefore they are called Angels, Meſſengers, Miniſtring Spirits, from their very Office of being ſent from God to his Elect: * Quæris nomen hujus naturæ? Spiritus eſt; quæris Officium? Angelus eſt. What are Angels but good Spirits ſent forth by God to miniſter † for the good of the Elect? Heb. 1. 14. Pſal. 104. 4 The Minor is granted by all but Sadduces, or Hereticks, whom the Scriptures condemn.

2. If God uſually ſends forth his Angels to miniſter to his Saints, then doth not God all immediately, and make no ſuch uſe of them; but God uſualy ſends forth his Angels to miniſter to his Saints. Ergo.

The Sequel of the Major is clear; and the Minor is proved by all thoſe Texts, Pſal. 91. 11, 12. Pſal. 34. 7. Heb. 1. 14. with the reſt cited throughout the Treatiſe.

3. If the Angels actually have miniſtred, and do miniſter to the Saints at God's own appointment, then doth not God all immediately without his Angels as inſtruments: but the Angels actually have miniſtred, and do miniſter to the Saints at God's own appointment. Ergo.

The Major is clear. The Minor, for what hath been, is confirmed by all the Scripture Texts already alledged; and for what is, you grant the ſtory of Grinæus (and ſuch like) comes home, and is appoſite, and you think none will deny, but that an Angel may appear now as heretofore, and when he doth ſo appear, it is to be acknowledged to miniſter.

For their miniſtration in ſpecial to our Souls.

1. What the Angels can do to our Souls for our ſpiritual good, they do, and they will do; but they can communicate themſelves to our ſpirits, and our inward man for our good. Ergo.

The Propoſition is clear, for elſe they ſhould not obey God, or love us with all their might; which is contrary to the Word; for their obedience to God, they do his Commandments, hearkning to the voice of his Word, Pſal. 103. 20. And for their love unto us, they rejoyced when the World was creating as a dwelling place for us, Job 38 7. And when Chriſt came to reſtore us, Luke 2. 13. And at the converſion of us, Luke 15. 7. And hence we may argue, what they can do for us, certainly they will do. The Minor is cleared above, that they can know our minds, and neceſſities in a great meaſure: they can by the mediation of our fancies and inward ſenſes ſpeak to us; they can propound truth to our minds, and perſwade us to aſſent; and as counſellors they can perſwade our wills to this and that good; and all this in ordinary.

2. If the Angels are Co-workers with God in inlightning the mind, then doth not God all immediately without them as inſtruments for our Souls health: but the Angels are co-workers with God in inlightning the mind. Ergo.

The Major is evident. The aſſumption cleared thus by Zanchy, Ad intellectum quod attinet, duo in ejus illuminatione, qua veritatem rerum preſertim divinarum percipiat, ſpectanda ſunt; unum eſt mentis ipſius illuſtratio ad veritatem percipiendam; alterum veritatis ipſius oblatio ac patefactio, utrumque fit per lumen non Angelicum, ſed divinum, ac Spiritus Sancti, ut paſſim Scripturæ docent: Ab Angelis vero tanquam ab inſtrumentis & cooperatoribus Spiritus Sancti internis eſſe haud impie dici poteſt; qui exitatis verbi auditi phantaſmatibus in hominibus, tum veritatem mente proponant, tum mentum ut in veritatem propoſitam intueatur, eique aſſentiatur, commonefaciant, illuſtrent, atque confortent. Simili explico, ut oculus coloratum quiddam videat, duo ad hoc requiruntur; unum, ut res colorata oculo proponatur videnda; alterum ut oculos ad videndum illuſtretur; utrumque fit per lumen ſolis; lumine enim & oculos ſimul illuminatur, ad videndum diſponitur, atque afficitur; & res colorata oculo objicitur, videndaque proponitur; quod itaque oculus videat, totum hoc, quod externas attinet cauſas, debetur proprie actioni ſolis, qui ſuo lamine utrumque præſtitit, cæterum, fac ut cujus oculus lumine ſolis illuſtrandus eſt, is dormiat & occluſos habet oculos; aliquis vero accedat, & eum à ſomno ad lucem percipiendam, coloreſque viſendos excitet; is certe dicetur cooperator ſolis ad illius viri oculum illuſtrandum, coloreſque patefaciendos, fuiſſe; nam is etiam ad oculi illuſtrationem, eoque ad rei coloratæ manifeſtationem nonnihil egit, non diſſimili modo ſe habere Deum & Angelum in actione, qua mens noſtra ad veritatem percipiendam illuminatur, probabiliter dici poteſt. Propria, & vere efficiens cauſa Deus ipſe eſt, ſuo Spiritu, ſuoque divino lumini Cooperator fuerit Angelus: hujus enim opera, uti dignatur Deus, certe potens ad veritatem menti intus proponendam; & ad mentem ut ſuos oculos oblatæ veritati, & propoſito lumini aperiat, excitandam.—— Ut Deus externo utitur miniſterio hominum ad mentes electorum illuminandas, & ad veritatem illis patefaciendam, ac perſuadendam; ſic etiam interne & inviſibiliter utitur eandem ad rem miniſterio Angelorum, ita ut ipſi ſuam habeant actionem in mentes electorum, cum a Deo illuminatur.

Zanch. de Creatione, l. 3. c. 14.

3. If the Angels are in their way co-workers with God in moving the will, then doth not God all immediately. But they are in their way co-workers with God in moving the will. Ergo.

The Major, or Sequel is clear, The Minor is proved ſuo modo, for God and the Angels move the will diverſly: Solus Deus proprie agit in voluntates noſtras, eaſque movet & flectit quo vult; Angeli vero ut cooperatores, & qui hortentur po- tius externis rationibus, quam qui flectent internis actionibus; now that thus they move the will, is proved from the evil Angels, who are inſtigating us to evil; and by their inſtigations ſometimes prevailing with our wills to imbrace evil; therefore the good Angels do the like to provoke us to good, for their power is greater and their Love is higher than the others malice.] And was not this mentioned by Dr. Rutherford? Shall the Devil work in the Children of diſobedience? Epheſ. 2. 2. Enormouſly diſquiet the affections, 1 Sam. 16. 15. Yea, inject wicked thoughts into godly men with ſucceſs, 1 Chron. 21. 1. And ſhall the good Angels be excluded from all actings, and operations upon the inward ſenſes of man? Tell me, if any man can tell me, with what ſhadow of truth can the Angels of God be thus excluded? You ſee his Poſitions were not without reaſon.] And in your Friends Paper is given this for granted, That the Angels may be imployed by God in ſome ſtrange deliverances, in recovering of health, in ſuggeſting good motions, &c. It is high time therefore to theſe diſputes to put an end.

Only one thing more, which may ſtop the mouths of all gainſayers. I cited Mr. Baxter, ſaying, God's Works on the World are uſually by inſtruments, and not immediate; and good Angels are his inſtruments in conveying his mercies both to Soul and Body. Now if this be a truth, viz. If it be God's ordinary way of Providence to give us our mercies by the Miniſtry of Angels, then I hope every inſtance in my Treatiſe may paſs for truth, and every Objection made by you againſt the ſame will eaſily vaniſh, and at once. And that this Poſition might be clearly held out, I thought it a point of Prudenee to write in a few lines to Mr. Baxter for his Proofs. His Anſwer to my Letter I ſhall here annex as the cloſe of all, and then I have done.

Reverend Brother,

I Received yours, and with it your Appendix, and ſome ſheets of your Book; and am glad you have illuſtrated, and taught men to improve the Doctrine of The Miniſtration of Angels. Aud I am ſorry that neceſſity forceth me to fail your expectation, and tell you that unavoidable avocations prohibit me to give you thoſe proofs of my aſſertion which you deſire. In this haſte I may only take notice of the ſtate of the controverſie, and give you but a touch upon thoſe Reaſons that occur at preſent for my opinion, and a word of the conſequence and uſe.

1. I ſuppoſe I may ſay that our Brethren are agreed with us in all theſe following Propoſitions. 1. The objective extent of miniſtry of Angels is to the benefit of Souls and Bodies; this you have proved, and they deny not. 2. The Scripture more frequently mentioneth their Miniſtrations for the bodies, than immediately for, or on the Souls of men. 3. How they have acceſs unto the Soul, or nobler faculties; whether Spirits intuitively behold Spirits, and immediately operate on them, and converſe with them, as animated Bodies behold and operate on each other; and what meaſure of power Angels have on Souls, are queſtions that we are all unwilling to determine, and take it to be our duty in modeſty to profeſs our ignorance of, as of things unrevealed; however in ſome things we may humbly venture upon ſome conjectures. And we all diſclaim and nauſeate the preſumption of the School-men, that fill their Writings with ſo many confident aſſertions and copious Diſputations, about uncertain, or unprofitable points, concerning the nature and miniſtry of Angels. Much more do we all deteſt the preſumption, pride, and vanity of the ancient Hereticks, and the Enthuſiaſts, and Phanaticks of latter times, that pretend to a ſpecial acquaintance with the orders, and operations of Angels, beyond what is revealed, and glory in this as the excelleny of their Religion, or ſeveral Sects. 4. The miniſtry of Angels is eminently and chiefly for the Elect and Church, for all things are theirs. 5. Yet doth their miniſtry extend to others; when mercies are to be conveyed to them, or God to have ſpecial Honour by them: God hath not limited this miniſtration to the Elect, as he hath not limited mercy in the general to them: ſuch common mercy as he vouchſafeth others, he may ſometime give them by the Miniſtry of Angels, eſpecially when it tendeth to the benefit of the Church. 6. There is an extraordiary Minſtration of Angels in caſes of extraordinary Revelations, Viſions, Dreams, Deliverances, Preſervations, and of other wonders, which all Chiſtians do acknowledge. 7. As to his proximity to the objects and effects, God doth all his works immediately, immediatione & virtutis & ſuppoſiti, he is intimior intimo noſtro, nearer us than we are to our ſelves: no creature interpoſeth between his eſſence and us, ſo as to cauſe or prove a diſtance; and if God make uſe of millions of inſtruments and means; he is yet nevertheleſs the only prime cauſe; and doth as much to it himſelf, as if he had uſed no inſtrument at all; there is no more of God in an effect produced without means, than in an effect produced by means; nor is there leſs of God becauſe he maketh uſe of inſtruments; but it is certain that (though God in the ſenſe aforeſaid doth all immediately) yet as immediate ſignifieth without any ſecond cauſe, ſo he doth not all immediately. 8. It is therefore no diminution to the honour of God, that he uſeth the Miniſtry of Angels in the collation of any of his favours to mankind: had it been a diſhonour to God to produce any thing out of himſelf, or to act by any thing, or to reveal himſelf in any thing, he had never made the World, which he made to his glory, and not to his diſhonour; he hath never the leſs, becauſe he giveth; nor doth ever the leſs himſelf, becauſe he uſeth his creatures in the work: it is his glory to be a communicative good. 9. We muſt be careful that we give not to Angels or any creature any part of the ſervice or honour proper to the Creator, though we acknowledge all that to be in them, and by them which is ſo indeed. 10. We muſt not direct our Prayers unto Angels, as being uncertain when and how far they are preſent, and having no order for it from our common Lord; and it being a thing that might eaſily draw us to Idolatry, which Angels are greater enemies to than we, abhorring more to rob their Maker. 11. It is a dangerous arrogancy to effect a viſible Communion with Angels here on earth; or to deſire it as the higheſt attainment of Religion, to have extraordinary converſe with them; ſeeing our Communion with God himſelf that is our happineſs; and that converſe with Angels is beſt for us, which moſt promoteth our fruition of God, and God knoweth better than we what that is; and therefore as he hath appointed his Angels an ordinary miniſtration for us, in order to our ſalvation and preſervation thereunto; ſo it is a dangerous tempting of God for us to ſeek to put them out of their way, or to pray, or to look for ſuch unuſual appearances or works, as we have no promiſe for, nor full acquaintance with, nor skill to underſtand or uſe aright. We know not eaſily good ſpirits from bad, and we might ſo eaſily be ſeduced by creatures ſo terrible and ſo ſtrange to us, that it is a very great mercy, that God hath committed us rather to the teaching of man, and guideth us to our end by means more ſuitable to our natures, and uſeth the appearances of Angels but rarely on ſome extraordinary occaſion; ſo that what Chriſt ſaid of riſing from the dead, we may ſay of Angels, he would not be perſwaded by them, that will not hear Moſes and the Prophets. 12. As it is a very hard thing to receive mercy by the hand of any creature, and not to adhere too much to that crearure, and ſuffer our hearts to be ſtopt, or diverted, or alienated from God, and the more uſeful and excellent the inſtrument is, the ſtronger is our temptation, and the greater is our danger; ſo the more we are convinced of the Miniſtry and uſefulneſs of the Angels to our welfare, the more are we in danger of too much aſcribing to them, or adhering to them, and minding of them more than God: And therefore we muſt carefully watch againſt this temptation, and take heed leſt our hearts take up in theſe our fellow-ſervants, by whom they ſhould be raiſed and drawn to God. And yet as we muſt not caſt away our mercies for fear of over-valuing them, nor reject Magiſtrates or Miniſters, or Parents, for fear of Idolizing them; ſo neither muſt we by ſuch fears be drawn from our acknowledgment of the ſervice of Angels, nor deny the mercy of their Miniſtration, to avoid the abuſe of it. In all this I ſuppoſe, we are all agreed, and the point that remaineth unreſolved, is but this, Whether it be Gods ordinary way to give us our mercies by the Miniſtry of Angels? not whether rarely ly he do ſo, nor whether rarely he do otherwiſe; but what is the way of his ordinary Providence. And here ſtill profeſs my Judgment to be for the affirmative: and that among others, for theſe reaſons following.

1. If Sciptures make known to us, that it is the very ſtated office of the Angels, to be miniſtring Spirits for the heirs of Salvation, and that about their daily ordinary concernments; then it is Gods ordinary way of Providence, to give us even our ordinary mercies by their means. But the Antecedent is true, Ergo ſo is the Conſequent. Were it but ſome unuſual thing with the Angels to be ſent out of their way upon ſuch terreſtrial errands: or were it uſual with them to do only things unuſual or wonderful for us, then I confeſs we could not infer our concluſion from their ſervice; but when it is their very ſtated Offices not only to do wonders for us, but to ſerve us in our ordinary concernments, the Conſequence is plain. And therefore I find nothing incumbent on me now, but to prove the Antecedent, which is done by theſe plain expreſſions of the Scriptures. 1. Such as declare Mat.28.22 Joh.12,3. Eph.1.20, 21, 22. them to be the ſtated Servants of Chriſt, as Mediator and head of the Church, for the promoting of his work of Salvation for his body; as theſe ſet together, Matth. 28. 18. All power is given to me in Heaven and Earth, John 13. 3. Epheſ. 1. 20, 21, 22. And ſet him at his right hand in the Celeſtials, far above all Principality, and Power, and Might, and Dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this World, but alſo in that which is to come, and hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the Church. 2. Such as particularly deſcribe Heb. 1. 14. their office and work, as Heb. 1. 14. Are they not all miniſtring Spirits, ſent forth to miniſter for them who ſhall be heirs of Salvation? Conſider here, 1. That this is the very Office. 2. It is about our ordinary concernments. 3. It is expreſſed generally, without limiting to any one thing or way; and 4. It is all the Pſal. 13. 20 Angels, that are put into this office: that theſe Angels are great in ſtrength, Pſal. 103. 20. one of them able to do more than a thouſand men, and that they are Heb. 12. 22 innumerable, Pſal. 68. 17. Heb. 12. 22. incomparably more than all men in the World; and then I think it will paſs doubt that it is their ordinary work to miniſter to us in our ordinary concernments. So Matth. Mat. 18. 10 18. 10. I ſay unto you, that in Heaven their Angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in Heaven. This can ſignifie no leſs, than that every Chriſtian, even the weakeſt, hath one or more Angels deputed by God to take a ſpecial care of him (though the ſame Angels may alſo take care of others) and the appropriation can never properly be meant of ſome rare unuſual act performed for them, yea, for ſome very few of them, but muſt needs mean a ſtated ſervice. Pſal. 34. 6, 7. So Pſal. 34. 6, 7. This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and ſaved him out of all his troubles: the Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him, and delivereth him. Here is deſcribed a ſtated Charge or Office about all them that fear the Lord, for deliverance out of all their troubles, which amounts to the adminiſtration of their ordinary ſuccours. So Pſal. 91. 11 12. Pſal. 91. 11, 12. For he ſhall give his Angels charge over thee to keep thee in all thy ways: They ſhall bear thee up in their hand, leſt thou daſh thy foot againſt a ſtone. What can be ſpoken plainer to ſignifie a ſtated office for conſtant miniſtration, even to our ordinary preſervation in every ſtep we tread! and therefore they are called his Angels and his Miniſters, Pſal. Pſal. 104. 4 Pſal. 103. 20, 21. 104. 4. So Pſal. 103. 20, 21. Ye his Angels, which excel in ſtrength, that do his Commandments, hearkning to the voice of his Word. —— And ye his Hoſts, Rev. 12. 7. ye Miniſters of his that do his pleaſure. So Revel. 12. 7. Michael and his Angels are made the Army that fight againſt the Devil and his Angels. And if they were not attendant and imployed ordinarily in the buſineſs of our Salvation, how could the Converſion of every ſinner be the matter of their joy in Heaven? Luke Luk. 15. 10 1 Cor. 11. 10 15. 10. This is inſerted by their conſtant preſence in the Church Aſſemblies, obliging us to reverend decency. 1 Cor. 11. 10. And therefore they are deſcri- 1 Pet. 1. 12 Eph. 3. 10. 1 Tim. 5. 21 bed as imployed with us, as looking into the ſame myſtery, 1 Pet. 1. 12. and as knowing God's manifold Wiſdom by the Church. Epheſ. 3. 10. And therefore Paul's dreadful charge (Oh that all Biſhops and Miniſters of the Goſpel would read it waking!) in 1 Tim. 5. 21. to Timothy, not to prejudge, or prefer one before another, nor do any thing by partiality, or according to his own inclination, is laid upon him, as before God, and the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and the Elect Angels; intimating their preſence, and intereſt in our Church-affairs. The Angel of the Lord that defendeth the Church, doth perſecute and chaſe the wicked enemies, Pſal. 35. 5, 6. they convey departed Pſal. 35. 5. 6. ſouls to bleſſedneſs, which is an ordinary work, Luke Luk. 16. 22 16. 22. they are the Reapers that at the laſt ſhall bundle up the Tares for burning, and ſhall ſever the wick- Mat. 13. 39 40. ed from among the juſt, Matth. 13. 39, 40. and ſhall Mat. 24. 31 gather the Elect from the four winds, from one end of Heb. 12. 22 Heaven to the other, Matth. 24. 31. And they are Luk. 10. 40. part of the Society, to which we are brought by Chriſt, Heb. 12. 22. and to whom we ſhall be made equal, Luke 20. 30. I ſhall not mention the extraordinary miniſtrations, as their promulgating of the Law, Acts 7. 53. Heb. 22. Their ſhewing John his Revelations, Rev. 1. 2. And teaching Daniel underſtanding, Dan. 8. 16, 17. and 9. 21, 22, 23. Their miniſtring to Chriſt, Mat. 4. 11. And ſtrengthning him, Luke 22. 43. with abundance more ſuch inſtances; it being my buſineſs only to prove their Miniſtration in our ordinary concernments, which the fore-cited Texts do evidently prove. And how many points are currently received among us, that have not a quarte ſo much Scripture evidence as this hath? Did not greater buſineſs call me off, ——I ſhould ſtay to improve ſome other Argument. As ——

2. From the contrary imployment of the malignant ſpirits.

3. From the ſuitableneſs of our ſuppoſition to all Gods workings, who hath choſen to glorifie his Wiſdom by doing things by ſuitable inſtruments, and concatenated means; and to glorifie his goodneſs by taking his Creatures into the work and honour of doing good, in ſubordination to him; he could have enlightened and enlivened us without the Sun, but he would not. He calleth his Miniſters co-workers with Chriſt, no marvel then if his Angels have ſuch honour.

Theſe, and other Arguments I muſt pretermit, and in the concluſion firſt lay down ſome excellent Conſequents of this Doctrine; and ſecondly defend it againſt the accuſations of the contrary.

1. The Doctrine of Angels Miniſtration acquainteth us with much of the frame of thoſe admirable means by which the providence of God doth work in the governing of the world, and to the glorifying of his name. If this be unknown, we ſhall be ſtrange to the wonderful appearances of God's wiſdom, and goodneſs, and power, which will be much obſcured by hiding ſo excellent a part of the effects. As in a Watch, or any excellent Engine, to know the parts in themſelves is nothing, unleſs we know them in their reſpects to other parts, and their place, and uſe, and Office in the frame; So is it in this glorious part of the frame of Creation and Providence; to ſay the Angels are excellent Creatures, and made to glorifie their Creator, is but to expreſs their nature and their common end, and not their ſpecial office and work, as they reſpect the whole Society; and the ſingle ſtrings will make no melody, but as they are tuned and touch'd in harmony.

2. This Doctrine of Angels Miniſtration acquainteth us with much of the unity of the whole Family in Heaven and Earth: when all the parts are ſo harmoniouſly connexed in their reſpects and uſe. And it declareth the excellency of holy love, and humility, and obedience, which theſe noble Spirits exerciſe in their condeſcenſion to the meaneſt Chriſtian at the command of God; and reproveth us that are ſo ſcant in love, humility, and obedience, as to be backward to the ſervice and benefit of each other.

3. It ſerves to take off the inordinate deſires of viſible and extraordinary converſe with Angels; when it is underſtood that they are appointed to be ordinarily, and inviſibly ſerviceable to us, in a more ſafe and ſuitable way.

4. It very much helps our faith in the point of the immortality of the Soul, and the life to come; when we underſtand, that there is a World of ſuch nobler ſpirits imployed about us, and therefore that we are not Creatures ſo contemptible, as to be uncapable of another ther life: And that we ſhall be made like Angels, and have their Communion in Glory, when we have ſuch Communion with them in the ſtate of grace.

5. It ſhews the glory of our Redeemer, who as head of the Church doth uſe the ordinary ſervice of ſuch noble Spirits for the welfare of his body.

6. It is ſome relief to our weak and diſtant lapſed natures, that as we have a Mediator between us and the Father, ſo there are (though not Mediators, yet) a glorified World of bleſſed Spirits, poſſeſſors already of the happineſs we ſeek, and helpers to our Salvation; ſo that in our Meditations of the World to come, we may have ſome more low familiar thoughts that are neceſſary to our weakneſs, and are not amazed and deterred by looking only at the infinitely diſtant Majeſty of God; and who knoweth not how great an encouragement familiarity is? And how much familiarity is aſſiſted by proximity.

Objection 1. But it will draw down the mind from God.

Anſwer. Chriſts humane nature alſo, and Miniſters, and all Creatures may be ſo abuſed; but of themſelves they are helps to lead us to God.

Object. 2. This Doctrine will introduce the worſhipping of Angels, and praying to them.

Anſw. We muſt not forbear declaring the excellency of Angels, nor their confeſſed extraordinary Miniſtry for fear of ſuch abuſe; therefore neither their ordinary Miniſtration: nor muſt we deny the ordinary uſe of the Sun, leſt men Idolize it, nor of Miniſters of the Goſpel that further our Salvation, leſt men ſhould worſhip them with that which is not their due. The Holy Ghoſt hath expreſly warned us, that no man beguile us of our reward in a voluntary humility, and worſhipping of Angels, intruding into thoſe things which he hath not ſeen, vainly puft up by his fleſhly mind, and not holding the head, &c. Coloſſ. 2. 18, 19. and ſo hath cautioned us againſt this abuſe: And we muſt not deny a great truth in Chriſtianity, for fear of giving occaſion to Popiſh Conſequents and miſuſe of it.

Coloſſ. 2. 18. 19.

Object. 3. It will fill the World again with a multitude of curious, vain enquiries about Angels, which the Schools abound in.

Anſw. We muſt not ſhut our eyes againſt plain truths, leſt wanton wits ſhould trouble the World with ſtarting other Queſtions about unrevealed things: Vain Queſtions are no where ſo perillous, as concerning God himſelf: And yet no knowledge is ſo neceſſary, as the knowledge of him.

Pardon, Dear Brother, that in haſte I can give you but this ſhort undigeſted Script, inſtead of what you deſire of me, I reſt,

Your unworthy
London Novemb. 29. Fellow Servant,

Reverend Sir,

I Have peruſed your conſiderations of the Miniſtry of Angels, thoſe πνεύματα λειτουργικά as the Apoſtle calls them. I remember Theophilact ſpeaking of this point calls it, πολλὴ περὶ ἡμᾶς τοῦ Θεοῦ κηδεμονία the exceeding goodneſs, and care of God; and chargeth us, μὴ ἀμελεῖν τῆς τοιαύτης διακονίας, not to be forgetful of ſuch a glorious ſervice, which we have for our good from theſe bleſſed Angels. In the acknowledgment of this truth (their bleſſed miniſtration for the good of Gods elect) I find the concurrence of all; in the exemplification of it fully and particularly few or none; in the depravation and proſtituting of it to Idolatrous purpoſes more than many. Bleſſed be God, who hath given you, as to this point, his Spirit; and that light, and underſtanding, and an excellent wiſdom is found in you, as was ſaid of Daniel; in as much that in this Tract we find theſe bleſſed Spirits, their ſervice, without diminution of their glory; their rule and power, with ſubordination to the Father of Spirits; their Miniſtry to man, without reluntancy and diſdain; their reſpect and uſe from Saints without ſuperſtitious adoration, and indeed the whole conſideration of them, ſo far as falls within the knowledge of men, pithily, plainly, powerfully, pathetically, practically, ſet before us. When the Apoſtle Paul was wrapp'd up into the third heaven, he heard and ſaw glorious things, but they were ἄῤῥητα ῥήματα ἃ οὐκ ἐξὸν ἀνθρώπῳ λαλῆσαι, they were unſpeakable; but he that giveth wiſdom to the wiſe, and knowledge to them that know underſtanding, hath not only revealed theſe deep and ſecret things, but given you utterance and power to expreſs them. Sir, it was ever eſteemed a ſacred thing amongſt the Jews, as is noted by Paulus Fagius, to preſerve the memory of any of their Rabbies, who had done ſome remarkable ſervice for their Law, with this reſolution, Let their name be bleſſed; if the Church in which we live, do not the like for this, and the reſt of your Divine Diſcourſes, yet you have a God in whom you truſt, that will one day acknowledge it, and theſe very Angels themſelves ſhall teſtifie your ample ſervice done to them as inſtruments under the great Jehovah, and Lord of Hoſts. Let me only wiſh you, that you ſmoother not this light, nor vail ſuch an advantage in confining it to the darkneſs of private uſe; if any Perſon do diſguſt, yet underſtanding Perſons will ſay of this, and your other labours, as Alphonſus King of Arragon ſaid of ſome learned Perſons, he mihi dapes, hi convivæ. The Lord ſanctifie this, and all other helps to our edification and building up in Chriſt, till we come to the heavenly Jeruſalem, and the innumerable company of Angels, to the general Aſſembly, and the Church of the firſt-born.
